

Marijuana smoke may be really harmful

(ATCNS)—Marijuana smoke may be even more harmful to the lungs than tobacco smoke, says the American Lung Association.

Compared to tobacco, marijuana produces a smoke that contains 50 percent more of the cancer-causing agents benzpyrene and benzanthracene, according to the association. Marijuana smoke also contains 50 substances called cannabinoids, not found in tobacco smoke, which are respiratory irritants.

In one study involving college students who smoked five marijuana joints a day for two or three months, highly significant effects on lung function were found. The researcher, Donald P. Tashkin, M.D., professor of medicine at Los Angeles School of Medicine, stressed the surprising degree of damage that developed after such a short period of marijuana smoking.

"If lung function continued to deteriorate at the same rate that was observed during the course study," Tashkin said, "individuals who continued to smoke an average of five joints a day would become disabled by respiratory insufficiency in a few years."

Among the damaging effects he listed were impaired short-term memory and slowed learning, impaired lung function and interference with ovulation and prenatal development. In males, there can be interference in sperm production and levels of testosterone.

Although there are few studies on long-term effects, researchers suspect that marijuana smokers—sixteen million adults, four million teens—like cigarette smokers, may increase their chances of developing such long-term lung diseases as chronic bronchitis and emphysema. ### Smith wins Rightwrench award

Otha Z. Smith, a member of the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, recently earned $50 for developing a tool to simplify the adjustment and preloading of the T-38 rudder servocylinder valve. The innovative tool also earned him the Project Rightwrench suggestor of the month award for April.

The servocylinder acts as a power steering type mechanism for the aircraft.

Mr. Smith's Project Rightwrench idea is being evaluated through normal Air Force Suggestion Program channels and, if approved, could be eligible for an even more substantial cash award.

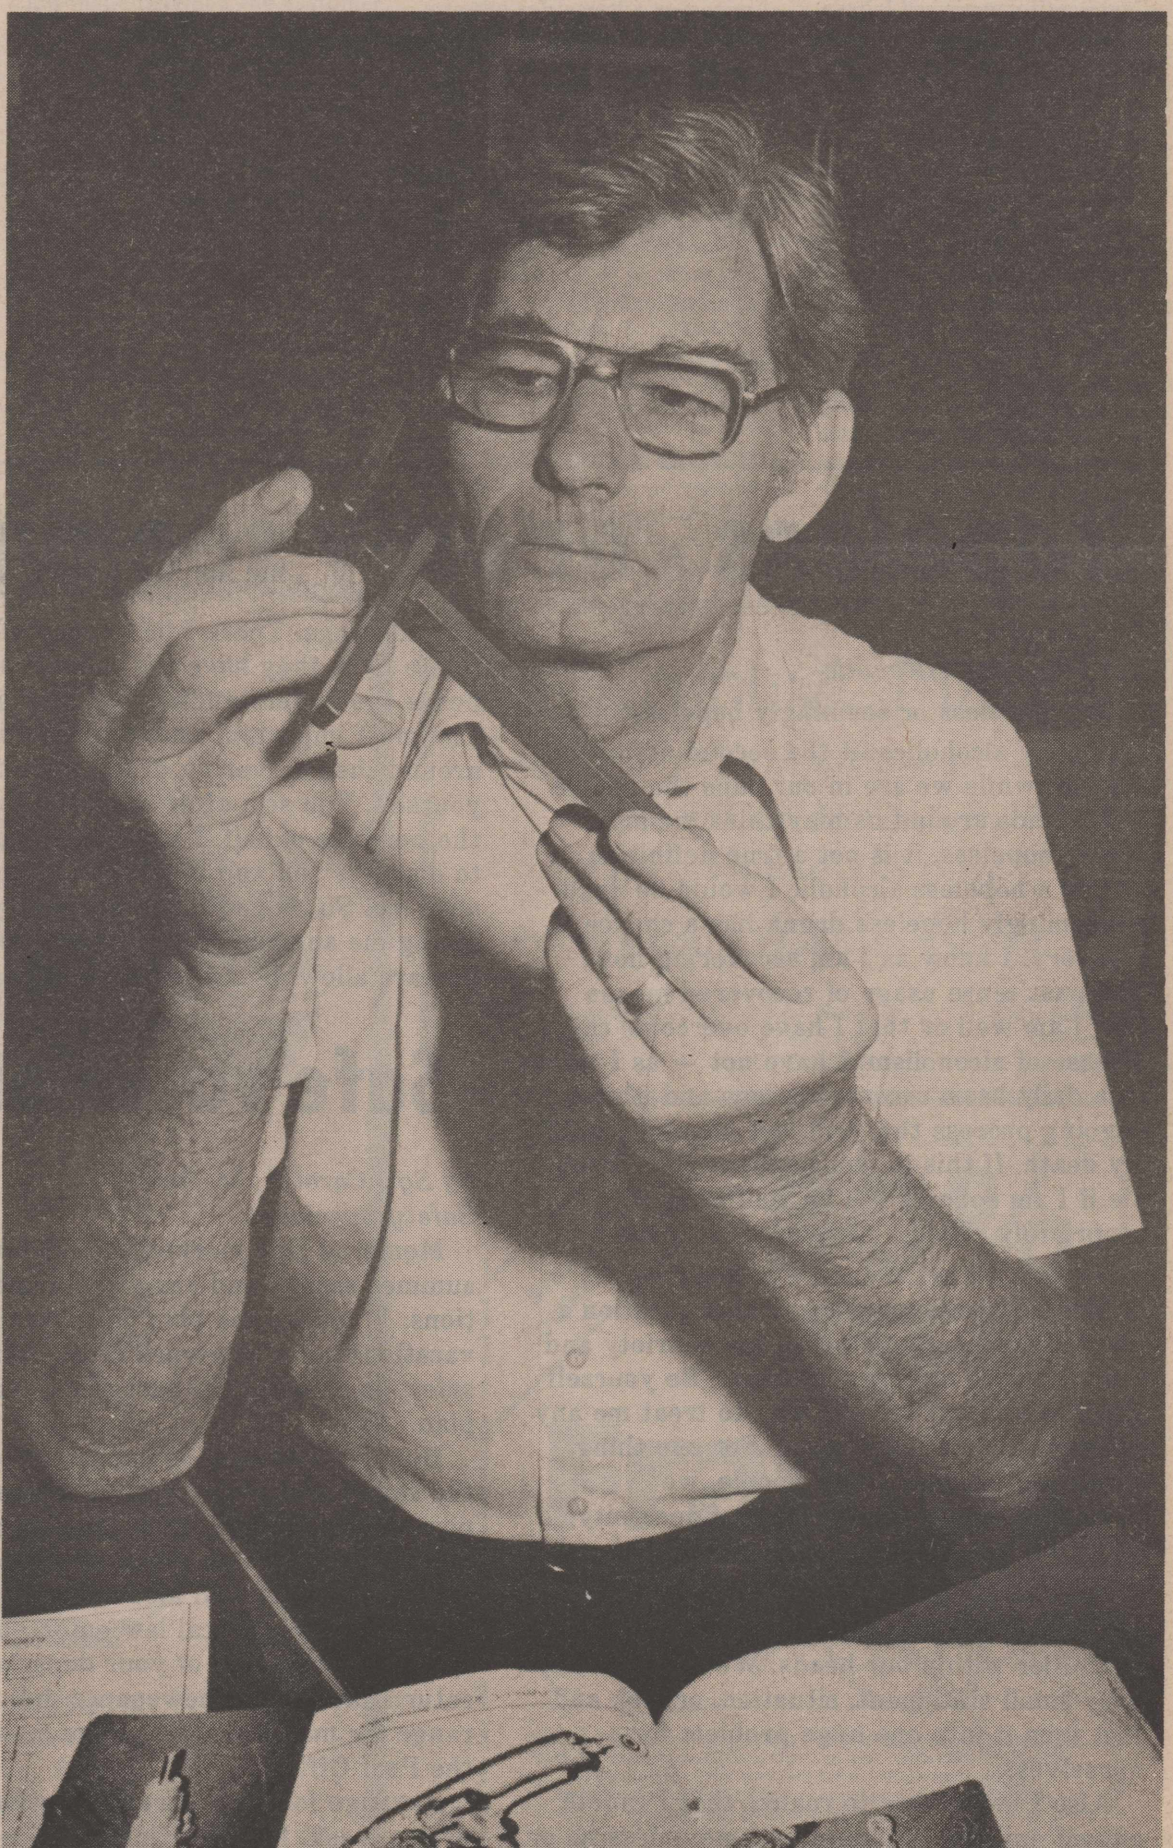

Project Rightwrench began as a test program in January scheduled to last six months, but because of what Air Training Command officials have called a

The 82nd Flying Training Wing, Williams AFB, Ariz., is the unit award winner for submitting 20 suggestions during the test period. Eight other ATC bases have also submitted suggestions.

The one major change in the program is the office responsible for managing it. The inspector general's flight safety division at ATC headquarters, Randolph AFB, Texas, designed and ran the program during the test period. But now that the program is permanent, the deputy chief of staff for logistics will be the manager.

"It was decided the program belonged under logistics because we're the experts in the field of maintenance and we're evaluating the suggestions anyway," Captain Perrone said.

The Air Force Suggestion Program will continue to be the vehicle for recommending new hand-tremendous success, the program became a permanent ATC maintenance safety program June 1.

During the five months it was a test program ATC maintenance technicians and supervisors submitted 47 suggestions for new or redesigned handtools to develop better, safer ways of doing their jobs. Twenty-three of those suggestions have been approved and are being applied command wide.

According to Capt. Keith Perrone, Rightwrench project officer, the objective of the program hasn't changed since its beginning in January. "We're trying to prevent mishaps caused by inadequate or insufficient specialized tools," he said. "Project Rightwrench is designed to encourage our maintenance people to correct these deficiencies before accidents occur."

tool designs according to Perrone.

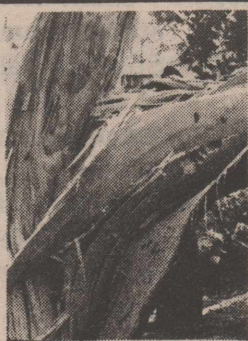

Each suggestion form submitted through the program is being flagged with a special "Project Rightwrench" annotation. Once reviewed by local maintenance quality assurance evaluators, these suggestions are forwarded directly to a special review committee at ATC headquarters.

Through bypassing the normal suggestion program channels, project officials have been able to streamline the review process for all Project Rightwrench suggestions.

Each command-approved suggestion will be returned to the individual's base suggestion program manager authorizing an appropriate cash award. Additional cash awards are possible if suggestions have Air Force-wide application.

From the wing commander

14 June 1983

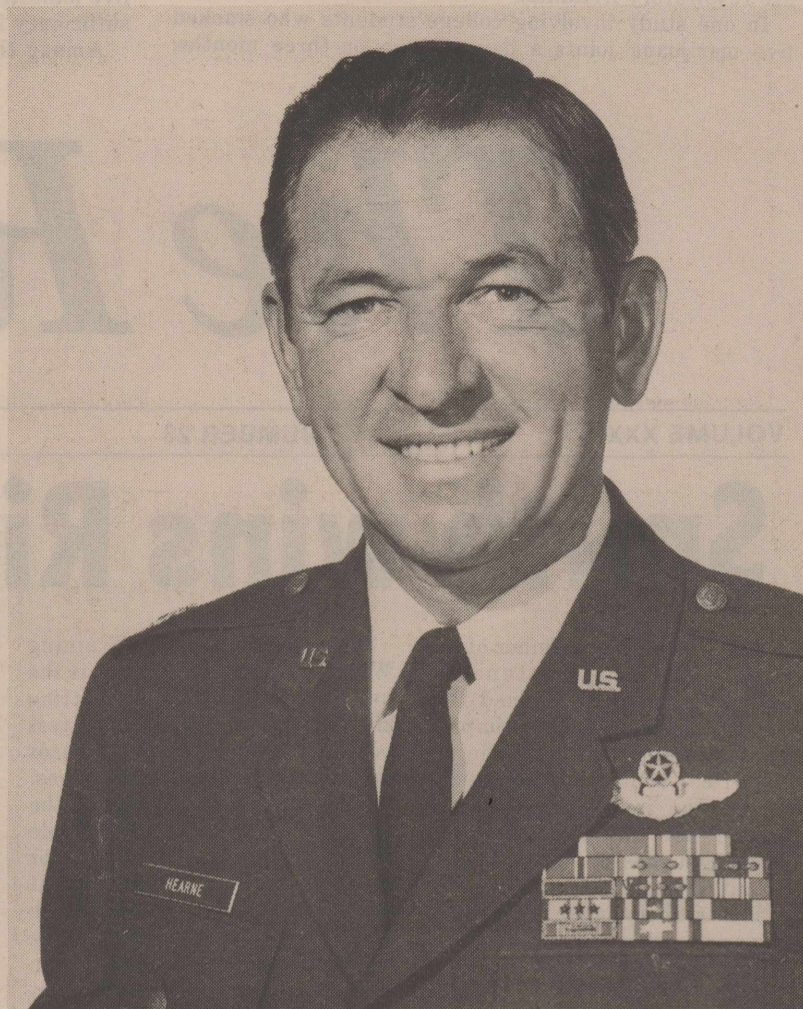

TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF REESE

As you all know, the damage to the base last Wednesday was extensive. The flooding and wind made a shambles of the base. However, I was very impressed with the willingness of the people to get out and clean up the base. Civilian workers, airmen and officers joined the effort.

I'd like to especially thank Civil Engineering people for their efforts on the cleanup and the good job they did Saturday.

All in all, everyone displayed that famous "can do" spirit that Reese people are noted for. As your Wing Commander, I thank all of you for your attitudes and spirit of cooperation.

Hopeless - or only seemingly hopeless

by Tom H.
A Recovering Alcoholic

Is it hopeless or seemingly hopeless?

Luckily alcoholics fit the second definition. Though while we are in our cups the people and friends around us may think we are surely hopeless, it is not a true definition. If I were a hopeless alcoholic I would be dead. A seemingly hopeless drunk has a chance at recovery. I know as I am recovering now. The past tense usage of recovered means that I am well or that I have overcome the disease of alcoholism. I have not — as I am on a daily basis recovering now and it's an ongoing process that will last hopefully until my death. If this in fact happens then when I die if I am sober I will be well or appropriately called a recovered alcoholic.

How do we act around a recovering alcoholic? I have been asked this question a few times since the start of my sobriety and the answer is always the same. "Be yourself and don't go out of your way to treat me any different than anyone else." For one thing, alkie's are very sensitive people, we developed this sensitivity out of necessity, while we were out there being active drunks.

So we can sense or feel any peculiar behavior around us. We also have a highly developed magnifier within our heads. We can take any very small statement, situation, or look and just turn it into one huge problem for ourselves.

Also I have come to realize that I cannot expect anyone to understand me unless he or she is an alcoholic. That's one reason I attend

AA meetings. There I have people I can relate to as they have the same problem hence the understanding and caring I need. The most important and kindest way to act around the recovering drunk is to be yourself. You see, after releasing me from the bondage of self, I must continually strive to discover self and be able to be comfortable with me. So by you being yourself you are giving me an example to observe and also you are allowing me to be me. This I consider to be the greatest gift that a person can give to me. It's what I call an unselfish gift of existence and it fulfills one of my greatest needs. Another benefit of this is that along with AA it helps me, once a seemingly hopeless alcoholic, stay on that path of recovery and to look into the tomorrows with hope instead of despair and fear.

(Open AA meetings are held in Bldg. 75 every Tuesday evening at 6:30. Contact Tom at Ext. 3713 for information.)

Safe vacationing begins at home

by Sgt. Carol A. McDaniel
Safety Specialist

Memorial Day marked the beginning of the summer season and ensuing summer vacations. Whether you plan on several "mini-vacations" or a two-week cross-country trek; safety is an essential part of any vacation plan.

Home preparation is important to insure the safety and security of your home and possessions. Joining or organizing a neighborhood watch group is a good security measure. You should also contact the security police or your local law enforcement agency and advise them of your departure and return dates. Stop newspaper deliveries. Arrange for mail pick-up or have mail held at the Post Office.

Arrange for lawn care if vacation extends over a week. Install a timer device on a lamp, porch light or clock-radio. A dark, quiet seemingly empty home is a prime invitation to would-be burglars and vandals. Put valuables in a safe deposit box for your vacation period.

The refrigerator should be cleared of all perishable items. Any opened containers should be either emptied or tightly sealed.

Insure bathroom and kitchen faucets are completely turned off and unplug all unnecessary electrical appliances (TV, stereo, toaster, microwave, etc.)

Limit storage of gasoline, kerosene and other flammable liquids to absolute minimum. Store in well ventilated areas. Store oily rags in separate, fireproof metal containers. Spontaneous combustion can reduce your home to ashes.

By following these pre-vacation safety tips, you can effectively reduce the chances of returning from your vacation to a disaster area.

CARE Line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. Richard E. Hearne, 64th Flying Training Wing commander. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line Ext. 3273.

THE CHILD CARE CENTER was the subject of a CARE Line question recently. A military member has his daughter use the center before and after school and wanted to know why the center charged the full second child rate for less than a full day's care instead of prorating the charge. He also wanted to know why contracts with the center are cancelled when the center is not used for a two week period.

Fees and charges at the Child Care Center are based on weekly and hourly rates. The weekly rate includes meals, transportation and a guaranteed slot for the child. Parents also have the option of using the hourly "drop in" program. In a case where the child is not going to be in the Center for a whole day, the hourly rate may be more advantageous.

Advanced weekly contracts are made between the customer and the center and can be cancelled only by request and signature of the customer and the center director. There are two "free" weeks allowed for in the contract. This way a family could go on vacation or not use the center for a two week period and the contract still remains in effect. If for some reason a family has already used their two "free" weeks and they need to keep the child out of the center for another period of time, they have the option of either paying 50 percent of the charges to keep the contract in effect or cancel the contract. By paying the 50 percent charge, the family would maintain a guaranteed slot for the child.

Although the Child Care Center Advisory Committee is not a public forum, individuals can still have items presented to the committee by making suggestions to the center director or the chief of the MWR Division. Suggestion forms are available at the center for this purpose.

ANOTHER CALLER FOUND a piece of foreign matter in a take-out meal he ordered from the base dining facility.

I apologize for this and remind everyone who uses the dining hall to contact the manager immediately to have problems corrected. And if you are not satisfied with the way the problem was handled, TSgt. Lorenzo Rendon, the Food Services quality assurance evaluator, Ext. 3495, will be glad to help you.

PROVIDING GOLF BALLS for the base intramural program was the subject of a recent call. The caller wanted to know why the MWR Division couldn't provide golf balls for squadron use in the intramural program.

From a funding standpoint, golf is classified as an individual sport as compared to team sports such as basketball, football and softball. Air Force policy in this area prohibits the purchase of individualized equipment such as golf balls and bowling balls at the intramural level. Our policy in this matter is to provide this service only at the varsity sports level.

I RECEIVED A CALL COMPLEMENTING the performance of SSgt. Jan Durfee at the Dental Clinic. I am well aware of the fine work she and everyone at the Dental Clinic does. Keep it up!

A CALLER WANTED TO KNOW why the Auto Hobby Shop has not been opening on weekday mornings as announced earlier this year.

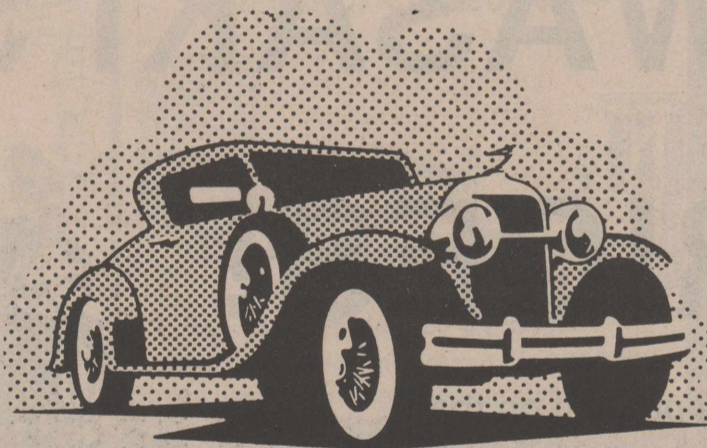

Due to hiring practices, we have been unable to find an attendant for the Auto Hobby Shop as announced earlier. As soon as an attendant is hired, the Auto Hobby Shop plans to open at 8 a.m. each weekday. Please understand, this is a trial program that will continue only as long as customer demand and interest warrant it.

ANOTHER CALLER wanted to know why he wasn't notified when the sexual harassment classes for May were changed.

The Social Actions Division recently had a personnel shortage and were forced to make schedule changes so as not to conflict with other scheduled classes. A revised schedule for sexual harassment training was sent to all squadron orderly rooms, however they probably failed to notify you of the change based upon your shift work. We all need to communicate better—check with your squadron orderly room to ensure you get the word.

FINALLY, I RECEIVED a note from the mother of one of our recent graduates expressing her thanks for the beautiful hospitality that was provided when she attended the last UPT graduation. I would like to pass along these thanks to everyone involved in the graduation day activities. Comments like these are just one way that we all realize that making that extra effort is worth it.

1980 X-Body cars being recalled

Officials of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and General Motors have completed preliminary discussions on a recall of 240,000 1980 X-Body cars because of possible brake defects.

The agency said the rear brakes in these cars has a tendency to lock up in moderate to hard braking, which could cause the cars to spin out of control without warning. Involved in the recall are all manual and some automatic transmission 1980 models of the Chevrolet Citation, Pontiac Phoenix, Oldsmobile Omega and Buick Skylark.

Specifically included in the agency's continuing investigation are an estimated 243,000 automatic transmission cars which are equipped with the brake system proportioning valves found in all X-Body cars built prior to August 29, 1979.

Owners of the vehicles involved in the recall will be notified by GM when to take their cars to dealerships for free corrective action.

- Staff sergeant, Fiscal 1983 selectee list: 5698-7643

The date of rank cutoff for fully qualified promotions to senior airman is April 30, 1981 or earlier.

Below-the-zone eligible to senior airman to be effective June 1 is established as airman first class with a date of rank May 1, 1981-April 30, 1982.

What about jury duty

Occasionally an active-duty-service member is summoned to perform jury duty in the state in which he or she is assigned. In Texas, however, the Attorney General's office has stated that "an active member of the United States armed forces, acting under federal law and pursuant to the valid orders of a superior, may not be compelled by a state to engage in jury service." This statement of course is not an excuse to escape from jury service, but instead a means to provide an out when necessary. Active duty personnel on leave may collect compensation for participation on a jury. This is to include money for jury expenses, such as transportation costs but will not include other out-of-pocket expenses. Those personnel not on leave status, and acting as a jury member who collect compensation, must turn it over to the accounting and finance office. If you or your spouse are summoned to participate as a jury member and have any questions, please contact the legal office on base at Ext. 3505 between 8 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.

BX recalls unsafe MTD riding lawn mowers

Exchange customers who own a MTD riding lawn mower (model 133-504A) should be aware of potential fire hazard due to the improper battery installation by themselves or the dealer.

The manufacturer has advised that a short circuit may occur if the battery cable fittings at the positive post come in contact with the mower's metal battery hold-down bracket. The result can energize the throttle control cable and melt the fuel line.

The hazard can be corrected by installing a new insulated replacement bracket available free from MTD. Owners of the models affected should not use their mowers until they have obtained and replaced the brackets.

Mower owners may obtain a new bracket by calling MTD at (216) 225-2600, Ext. 548 or by writing to MTD Products Inc., P.O. Box 36900, Cleveland, Ohio 44136.

All MTD mowers manufactured after April 19, 1983 have the new bracket and do not need replacement.

Name tag and T-shirt shop opens

State law and base regulations require vehicles parked along streets to park with the flow of traffic. Vehicles parked against the flow of traffic will be cited by security police beginning this week.

Individual mobilization augmentees needed

Several IMA positions are vacant at Reese. The Air Reserve Forces are the first-line backup for mobilization of our nation's forces in the event of war, national emergency or disaster. IMAs provide the additional thrust by maintaining a state of readiness for action.

Reese needs the following AFSCs: 542X1, 542X2, 551X1, 24250, 27151, 27450 and 66150.

For more information, contact Capt. Gayle Brodale at Ext. 3714.

Library offers storybook hour

Beginning this week the base library opens the Reading Rodeo Summer Reading Club. Participants bringing back books they have read must be sure to have the number recorded at the circulation desk.

Each Wednesday the library offers special activities and crafts, relating to their western theme. On Wednesday children will make rubber "brand" stamps and on June 29 they will learn how to make butter.

The library now has a bibliography of award-winning children's books, and books for beginning readers.

Accounting and Finance to close early June 30

The Accounting and Finance office will close at 3:30 p.m., on June 30, for a retirement ceremony for Elizabeth Montgomery.

MOST II program a success

Air Training Command's Motorcycle Operators Skill Testing, MOST, program was initiated in June 1982. Since then, nearly 7,000 cyclists have been tested.

The Command has not had a MOST II tested motorcycle operator fatality since testing began. Command safety representatives estimate that approximately 200 riders throughout the Command have not been tested. During the first three months of this year, 11 of these individuals were involved in injury producing mishaps. During the same three months, 12 MOST riders were involved in injury related mishaps. Compare the odds. Eleven out of 200 non-tested personnel versus 12 out of 5,000 registered cyclists.

Those riders who comply with the current program are accepting the responsibility that goes with owning a motorcycle. Part of that acceptance is acknowledgement of the hazards a motorcyclist faces and subsequent training to deal with them.

Any personnel interested in the MOST II program should call Ext. 3457.

Lucky 13 4-H organization holds car wash

Enjoy the great outdoors

When preparing for a camping trip this summer there are a few precautions to consider to insure a safe and enjoyable trip:

Pack lightly, only necessary items, insure appropriate clothing and equipment are packed. Be prepared for weather changes.

Never allow your children to explore alone.

Bring a first aid kit for burns, cuts and bruises.

Always be sure your matches and cigarettes are out before discarding them; never leave a campfire burning unattended.

When parking an RV overnight, chock your wheels.

When hooking up RV connections. Use adapter plugs if receptacle does not match the unit's plug. Never by-pass a ground.

Dispose of garbage properly and keep garbage cans covered to discourage wild animals.

Volunteers needed to help Reese Elementary

Storm damages exceed $1 million

by Sgt. Rich Tillman
Public Affairs Specialist

A severe set of storms ravaged Reese and the surrounding area late June 8 leaving behind over $1 million in damages to several base facilities and near-by civilian housing areas.

As the night fell, the skies began to get cloudy—almost like a typical spring thunderstorm builds—then it happened. A tornado was sighted around Shallowater.

The heavy storm and twister moved from the small West Texas town to within four miles of Reese. At 10:20 p.m. the base sirens sounded and all were advised to seek shelter. As the storm neared Reese Village, the funnel lifted and moved over the village, 10:46 to 11 p.m. Trees were mangled and stripped and personal items left outside were tossed around, but because the storm had left the ground there were no serious injuries, said Reese safety officials.

After 14 minutes over the village, the twister and storm moved just west of Carlisle down Highway 179 just east of Wolf-forth twisting off the tops of three telephone poles in its path. At 11:30 p.m. the Reese area tornado warning was cancelled, but residents were urged to beware of the bad weather conditions, according to SMSgt. James Radtke, base weather detachment first sergeant.

Second storm hits

Ten minutes after the tornado warning ended, a second storm arrived delivering hail pellets ranging from a half to an inch in size. The heavy rains and hail persisted for 16 minutes laying a four inch blanket of hail all over the base. The blanket got messier as 3.7 inches of rain continued falling. The rain and hail combined left puddles up to 10 inches deep all along the Reese flightline parking ramp. The high winds of the second storm pushed ice drifts of four and five feet deep along the west sides of many buildings.

Reese weather officials reported that the main track of the storm hit the southern and central portions of the base before moving to the golf course and the intersection of 19th Street and War Highway.

Winds during the storm were monitored at 68 miles per hour, but downbursts of wind were estimated to be as high as 92 mph. For this reason Sergeant Radtke said, "it was not the tornadoes, but the downbursts of wind at high speeds and the hail that caused Reese the most damage."

Downbursts of wind are caused when storm winds begin blowing one direction, stop for a brief pause and begin blowing from a different direction.

Damage from the second storm was tremendous. The roof of an area apartment unit was completely torn off, two mobile homes were repositioned so that their roofs are now floors, trees were split—apparently like dried toothpicks. 30 telephone poles were downed and flood damage was high.

Heavy rains and hail collapsed some area roofs, broke several hundred windows and damaged most outdoor mounted air conditioning units here. Reese lost all electrical power at one point, but not telephone service.

Cost estimates for replacing and repairing materials and facilities damaged by the storm are still coming in, but a Tuesday estimate by the budget office quoted $1,226,700. Since there were no serious injuries, duty time was not affected by the late night thunderstorm. Damage to 64th Flying Training Wing jets is expected to cost only around $10,000.

immediately June 9. Reese pulled as a team to clean much of the obvious debris away Thursday and Friday. Even with the fallen trees, leaves, damaged signs and fences repaired or cleaned up, it will be several weeks before the results of June's icy grip are completely forgotten.

AF wants to eliminate housing need

(AFSINC)—It will take seven years to eliminate the Air Force's worldwide housing need for approximately 15,000 units, if programmed funding levels are approved by Congress. That's what Maj. Gen. Clifton D. Wright told a subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee.

General Wright, director of Air Force Engineering and Services, said that the family housing program request for fiscal 1984 is approximately $947 million. A partial breakout of this total shows $171 million for new construction, improvements, and planning and design. There also is $661 million for operations and maintenance.

The request proposes 1,075 new housing units at seven locations. These include two new strategic training range bases in Montana, 55 units; Lejes Field, Azores, 150; Camp New Amsterdam, the Netherlands, 50; RAF Upper Heyford, United Kingdom, 300; RAF Greenham Common, United Kingdom, 250; and F.E. Warren AFB, Wyo., 270.

General Wright told the subcommittee that the major portion of the 140,000 housing units in the Air Force is more than 25 years old. Most have insufficient space and poor functional layouts for modern lifestyles, he added.

"Kitchens and bathrooms are antiquated and lack features such as dishwashers and garbage disposals common to comparable civilian housing. Energy conservation was a limited concern when most of the units were constructed," he said.

The proposed program for fiscal 1984 has 45 improvement projects for 8,603 units and 12 energy conservation projects for 7,931 units.

"For the last three years, we have had to reprogram funds from maintenance to operations to cover 'must-pay' costs. This is self-defeating and undesirable," he said.

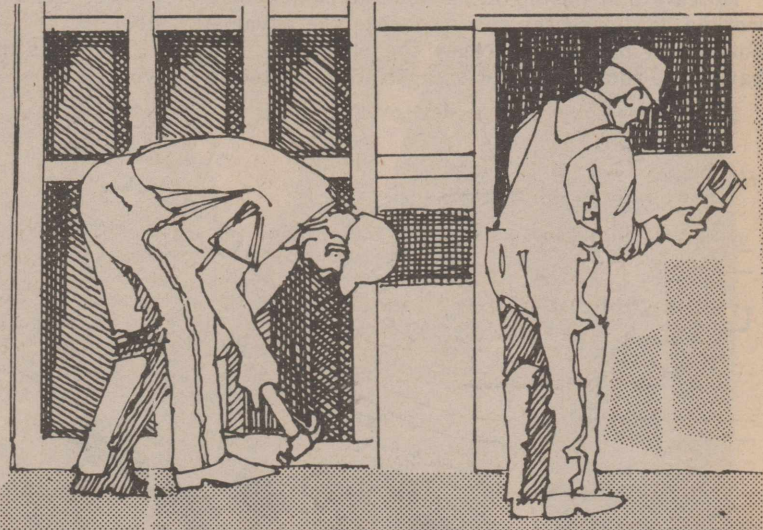

The housing operations and maintenance request includes "must-pay" costs to operate and maintain existing housing and increased costs for new units that will be constructed. Also included are the transfer of Air Force housing units to the Army for operation and maintenance under the Oahu, Hawaii, consolidation plan and a reduction in furniture and appliance backlogs.

He noted that the Air Force obtains housing through lease programs in overseas areas, when it is more economical than building. "We are requesting authorization for 8,772 units. This includes 500 new units in Okinawa, Japan, and 200 in Greece," he said.

General Wright said the domestic program for leasing is being phased out. It has gone from 1,000 units in fiscal 1980 to less than 100 units in fiscal 1984. Remaining leases will be dropped as tenants are reassigned, he said.

Contractors rewire housing

The National Electric Code requires a minimum of 10 feet of space where electric cables enter a residence. Because of this requirement, contractors will be working in the base housing area to bring the Reese units up to code.

Children and pets should be kept away from the work areas. In some instances, residents may need to find another place to keep their outside pets until the job is done in this area.

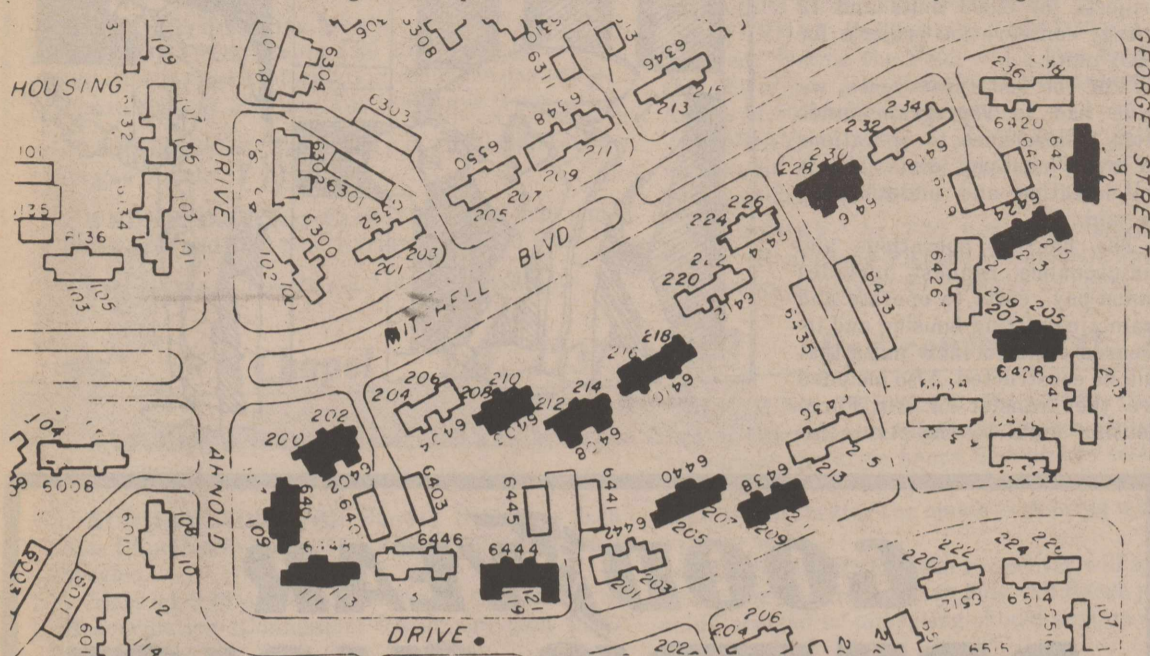

Notes will be posted on the doors of homes to be worked on during the coming week. The advance notice will be given because the electricity will have to be shut off. Power outages are expected to last less than six hours, but if the loss of electric power will be longer the contractor will provide the residence with a portable generator.

Generators will be provided only if the power in a residence is off for six hours or longer. Home electricity can be off several hours, brought back up and then shut off again by the contractor. In this case an electric generator would not be provided.

For more information about the civil engineering project call SSgt. Bill Mills at CE Exts. 3586 or 3171.

The units darkened on the map below will be worked on next week, Monday through June 24.

OWC donates games, grill, cash to MAST

OFFICERS' WIVES' CLUB representatives LeAnne Killian (L) and Mary Jayne Hearne pose with SSgt. Anne Mohrmann, representing the Married Airman Sharing Together organization, Mary Asselin and Belinda Hall (son Josh in front) after presenting the MAST with a check for $70, some games and a barbecue grill and utensil set June 7. Club past president Mrs. Killian explained that OWC support for MAST was aimed at helping the organization get going. The donations were paid for by 1982-83 charitable funds raised by the club during bazaars and other OWC functions.

Squadron News

64th Air Base Group

The squadron bids farewell to MSgt. Joe Trusan, former squadron first sergeant, as he makes final preparations for his move to Korea.

All Air Base Group sections are reminded that if there is something one is doing or wants to do, let their unit advisory council member know. The UAC member can bring it up at the monthly UAC meeting and the commander may even talk about it at the commander's call.

64th Organizational Maint. Squadron

Congratulations are in order to several OMS members, for instance A1C Keith Sainten is the OMS Airman of the Month; A1C Henry Bryson is the OMS T-37 Crew Chief of the Month; and A1C Dennis Moye is the OMS T-38 Crew Chief of the Month.

Five OMS technical sergeants will sew on master sergeant later this year, they include: TSgts. Wilfred Barton, Jeffry Boeck, Lawrence Ertner, Roy Prince and Paul Williams.

The entire squadron is invited to the annual OMS picnic August 13 at the base park. For more information or tickets contact any of the branch representatives.

1958th Communications Squadron

All 1958th E-4 sergeants and senior airman are reminded that the commander, Capt. Jon Gardner, will have a "how goes it" breakfast with them June 24 at the Wing Dining Hall at 7:15 a.m.

54th Flying Training Squadron

The annual squadron dining-in will be held June 25 at 6 p.m. at the officers' club. All Reese T-38 pilots are invited. For additional information call Capt. John Crawley at Ext. 3870.

35th Flying Training Squadron

SHELBY CHARGER MAKES NEWS

According to people who know!

The new Shelby Charger, conceived, engineered, and packaged in three mad-cap months, will pin any other car in its class directly to the mat. On four very energetic cylinders, the Shelby Charger will run a whopping 117 mph, burn off quartermiles in the sixteen-second bracket at over 80 mph, stop from 70 mph in under 200 feet, corner at a bloodcurdling 0.80 g, and return a most laudable 22 mph even under giddily throttle-minded feet.

CAR & DRIVER
April 1983

"The car has a basic honesty about it, like a Sixties sports car."

ROAD & TRACK
April 1983

"Perhaps we are about to witness the birth of a brand new collector car. Maybe, just maybe, this is a car that will be bringing four and five times its original value a decade from now."

CAR EXCHANGE
MARCH 1983

Another thing the Shelby will do is go—just enough torque to break the front wheels loose and enough suspension control to keep axle tramp down. The Shelby will handle the Datsun 200-SX, Audi Coupe, BMW 320i, Toyota GT-S, Honda Prelude, and an RX-7 now and then.

SPORTS CAR GRAPHIC
June 1983

Shelby has recently joined forces with Chrysler to build such a car, one that Shelby says "will be a four-cylinder car that can blow the doors off a 5-liter Mustang, handle with the best European sedans and come in at a price you can afford."

CAR CRAFT
March 1983

The really good thing about the Dodge Shelby Charger is that it is. It signifies that people at Chrysler are interested in building this kind of car again, a car with the main attraction of blatant fun.

Learn to swim

The swimming pools on base are now open. For many who do not know how to swim, however, the refreshingly cool water may be one pleasure they want to enjoy, but cannot.

The Morale, Welfare and Recreation Division has got the answer for nonswimmers—swimming lessons. The first set of lessons begins Monday and concludes July 8. The swimming instruction will be given at the Enlisted Pool behind the base gym.

Novice swimmers, 6 and older, may choose one of two daily classes: 10 to 10:45 a.m. or 10:45 to 1:30 a.m. There is a $10 charge to be paid in cash at the time of registration. Children registering for the classes must be accompanied by their parents or guardian. The children will be tested in order to determine their level of natural swimming ability.

Registration is today from noon to 1 p.m. at the Enlisted Pool, but if parents cannot register their children then please call lifeguard Susan Hornung at 885-3667 to make other arrangements.

Pool hours

Enlisted and Officer Pool hours for Monday through Friday are: Adult lap swimming from noon to 1 p.m. and family swimming from 1 to 7 p.m. For Saturdays, Sundays and holidays the pools are open for family swimming from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

On Tuesday and Thursday evenings, from 7 to 9 p.m., the Enlisted Pool is open for adult swimming only. Pool patch holders from either pool can come and swim.

Fifteen minutes before the swimming pools close, swimmers must leave the water. If your unit or organization is interested in reserving the pool for a party or other social function contact Janet Anderson at 885-3412.

Special note

Don't forget, Easter Seals Day Camp participants will be using the Enlisted Pool from 2 to 3 p.m. Monday through June 24. The pool will be closed to the Reese public at that time.

Sports in brief

July 4th golf classic tees off July 2

The next major golfing event to hit the Reese course will be the July 4th weekend classic, July 2-4. Golfers from all over Reese will be swinging and competing for positions on the base team. Limited to Reese personnel only, interested golfers should sign up as soon as possible at the course club house. For more information call Dick Davis at Ext. 3819.

Hap ki-do self-defense classes taught free

Hap ki-do classes are taught free at the gym by Victor Magnon. The classes meet Mondays and Wednesdays at the gym from 4:15 to 5:30 p.m. For additional information about the classes call Mr. Magnon at Ext. 3122.

Jog-rama runs tomorrow to raise money

The Reese first sergeants will lead the way tomorrow at the track field as the first shirt sponsored jog-rama to benefit the special olympians of West Texas gets underway at 10 a.m.

To find out more about the jog-rama or the picnic for joggers immediately afterwards contact your unit first sergeant, but do it today.

This Bargain is a Bargain (Some Bargains are Cruel Hoaxes)

Our Bargain: Boston Acoustics, Sherwood, Signet, system: $449.95.

A Bargain: A bargain is something worth all the money you spent, and maybe a little more. When you get home you are more satisfied with your purchase than you thought you'd be. Syn: a good buy on a good value.

A Cruel Hoax: A cruel hoax is something worth less to you than the price you paid. You get less for your dollar than you were promised. Syn: being taken for a ride.

Confusion: Confusion is the kind of mental exasperation likely to occur when you are having a hard time distinguishing a cruel hoax from a bargain. If you are looking for a bargain in a music system you can easily become confused. Often enough, systems which are advertised at large savings are cruel hoaxes, rather than bargains.* You buy (and listen to) equipment, not savings.

The Answer: Our Boston Acoustics, Sherwood system is the answer. It is really a bargain, because at the list price of $515 the system represents a better value in performance and reliability than does any other system you could buy for the same money, or less. Because the value of the components at list price is real, the $65.00 savings we offer you are meaningful.

Specifics: The Boston Acoustics A-40 loudspeaker has greater frequency response and freedom from distortion than do many far more expensive speakers.

The Sherwood 9180 AM/FM stereo receiver delivers 25 watts RMS across the entire audio band at exceptionally low distortion. (RMS is the least flashy and most rigorous measurement of amplifier power.) The Sherwood 9180 has the clean power to fully realize capabilities of the A-40s.

Any rumble, wow, flutter or distortion contributed by a less than excellent turntable/cartridge combination would be cleanly reproduced by the 9180 through the A-40s. Therefore, we recommend the Sherwood ST880 semi-automatic turntable with a Signet TK1ea magnetic cartridge. The turntable has a heavy, well-balanced platter for good speed stability; there is a convenient cueing control. The Signet cartridge comes complete with a diamond stylus and tracks at a record-saving 1.5 grams.

Conclusion: The individual components would sell separately in our store for $515; we offer you the complete systems for $449.95. Which is, to our way of thinking, a bargain.

*You do not necessarily save $200 if you buy a $500 flash-in-the-pan system marked down this week only for $300 if you could have bought a more reliable, better-sounding system for $299, "list" and "discount" prices notwithstanding.
