

Manpower chief: "Our pay system works"

(AFNS)—Speaking before the Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Manpower and Personnel, Lt. Gen. Kenneth L. Peek Jr., deputy chief of staff, Manpower and Personnel, U.S. Air Force, characterized military compensation and its importance for Air Force families and connection with the success of the Air Force mission. General Peek was director of personnel plans, U.S. Air Force, when he recently appeared before the committee and stated:

"Military service places unique demands on its people and their families and, as a result, differs significantly from civilian employment. Extended tours abroad, 24-hour availability, frequent moves, family separation, and subjection to military standards, discipline and law are institutional demands not shared by the private sector.

"The military compensation system is made up of three components: pay and allowances; institutional supports, such as retirement, commissaries and medical care; and special incentive pays such as Selective Reenlistment Bonuses and Aviation Career Incentive Pay. Together, they form a total and comprehensive 'compensation package.' The security and stability afforded by this system over the year have given our people confidence that they and their families will be adequately cared for. Our people, in turn, dedicate their full attention to the mission.

"Our compensation system is complex, but it has served the unique requirements of the military well in the past. It will continue to do so as long as it provides our people and their families the security they expect and deserve and fulfills the commitment made to them in return for the many sacrifices they are called upon to make for their country."

Service in the armed forces is not predicated on a formal, written contract nor on rules of negotiation as in private industry. Rather, the military member accepts on faith that the institution will provide for his or her job and financial security and that reasonable living conditions will be provided for both the individual and his or her family. These characteristics have long differentiated the military profession from civilian occupations, whose legitimacy has been based upon exchange of labor for wages.

Lt. Goldin takes top UPT class honors

Forty U.S. and three Italian officers accepted their Air Force pilot wings Friday in Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 83-07's graduation ceremony before a capacity filled audience of friends and family.

Col. Richard E. Hearne, wing commander, got things going with his personal congratulations to Class 83-07 and a welcome to the newest freshman class. He also added the congratulations of Gen. Andrew P. Iosue, commander, Air Training Command, for their accomplishments. He then introduced the ceremony guest speaker Lt. Gen. George M. Browning Jr., comptroller of the Air Force.

General Browning offered the new class a brief seven-point oration of ways to be successful, and the time was as hand for the presentation of special class honors and the wings.

Col. James P. Ulm, deputy commander for Operations, presented Distinguished Graduate letters to 2nd Lts. Darcy B. Floreani, Robert W. Goldin, Robert J. Mask Jr. and Dan J. Sandkamp, as Master of Ceremonies Maj. Richard Thomas called each to the front of the theater auditorium.

The class Leadership Awards were presented to Capt. Theodore B. Purvis III and Jon M. Stolicny.

Major Thomas called 1st Lt. Michael O. Rafferty to center stage to receive the Academic Training Award from Colonel Ulm.

Distinguished Graduate Lieutenant Floreani was again called to center stage this time to accept the Flying Training Award.

As the excitement built in the theater front rows, Major Thomas announced that Lieutenant Goldin was the top class ace and recipient of the ATC Commander's Trophy.

Now it was time to end almost a year's intense training with one final walk across the theater stage — this time to accept their pilots' wings.

Lieutenant Goldin, a Sunnyside, Calif., native, will be remaining at Reese as a T-38 instructor pilot. Joining him as instructor pilots will be 2nd Lt. Lloyd W. East, 2nd Lt. Michael K. Hepler, 2nd Lt. James D. Napoleon, 2nd Lt. Dean Walton, 1st Lt. Michael O. Rafferty, 2nd Lt. Gregory A. McKinney, 2nd Lt. Ronald B. Panting, 2nd Lt. Daryl R. Randall and 2nd Lt. Michael T. Schardt.

Are you controlling your energy use?

by Sam Lanham

Energy Conservation Manager

Energy conservation! It's something we all need to be aware of, but how energy conscious are we as we go about our daily tasks?

- Do you have sufficient weather stripping or insulation in your home or office?
- Are leaky faucets immediately repaired?
- Are home and office temperature settings appropriate for the season?
- Is excess lighting turned off when no one is using the lighted area?
- Are doors and windows kept closed when the heating or air conditioning is on?
- Are unoccupied rooms closed off and their heating or air conditioning vents closed to direct the air to occupied rooms?
- Are heater and air conditioner filters replaced monthly or cleaned to get peak performance from the climate controlling equipment?
- Is the furnace or heater pilot light turned off during the summer?
- Is the water heater temperature set too high? Normally 120 degrees Fahrenheit is adequate. 140 F is sufficient for home dishwashers.
- Are clothes washed in hot water when warm would suffice?

- Is the lint removed from the dryer's lint screen after each drying or left to make the dryer work harder?
- Are TVs, stereos, typewriters, electric fans, or other small electric appliances left on when no one is using them?
- Are posted speed limits obeyed when driving?
- Do you take a walk, bus or bike on a short trip or use the car?
- Do you report burned out fluorescent fixtures immediately? Ballasts keep running even when bulbs are burned out.
- Do you use electric space heaters? They are extremely inefficient.
- As an employee do you limit the amount of energy you run at work like you do at home or is excess energy used because someone else pays the bills?

These simple, everyday questions are things we all need to ask ourselves continually. Little energy oversights add up to big wastes when multiplied by many thousands each day.

We can't control the weather. However, we can control our energy consumption by observing sound energy conservation practices as we go about our daily tasks at the office as well as at our homes.

Remember, no one else can do your part in the energy conservation effort. Be smart, apply your answers to these questions daily for a brighter, more energy efficient tomorrow.

Your mistakes could be a personal education

by Maj. Ronald A. Roye
Goodfellow AFB, Texas

I read an interesting editorial recently on the subject of making mistakes. It was written by Ted W. Engstrom, president of World Vision International.

What he said went something like this:

One obstacle we all face in attempting to reach our potential is the fear of making a mistake. Yet achievement is based upon failure, usually one failure after another.

After 700 unsuccessful experiments to develop the incandescent light, Thomas Edison encouraged his dejected assistants,

"Don't call it a mistake, call it an education. Now we know 700 things not to do."

Mistakes. No one is immune. Yet when we look at ourselves, we tend to be mercilessly critical. We speak of ourselves as failures.

American inventor Charles Kettering once said: "You will never stub your toe standing still. The faster you go, the more chance there is of stubbing your toe, but the more chance you have of getting somewhere." Which translates: When you don't know what to do, do something.

Psychologists say that action—any kind of action—is a tremendous cure for depression, even if it's no more than a walk around the block.

Today is a good day to start believing you don't need to live a life of "quiet desperation," fearful of any new challenge. You can begin to enjoy using and developing your gifts.

Fear of failure is no excuse for doing nothing. Remember, to do nothing for fear of making a mistake could be the greatest mistake of all.

Make today the day you begin to chip at that mountain of self-doubt. You can read books about how to do it. You can attend seminars. You can think about it until the cows come home. But only you can put mallet to chisel.

Remember, it's OK to stub your toe!

Be a credit to yourself

by Col. Milton A. Melville
U.S. Air Force Academy

U.S. AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AFNS)—You are responsible. You're responsible for being aware of proper standards and for meeting those standards. All Air Force members, particularly supervisors, are responsible for correct dress and appearance, yours and others. Just how you inform others, of course, will depend on your relationship with them.

Air Force Regulation 35-10, provides the guidelines, and you as an Air Force member should exemplify the guidelines. How well you illustrate these standards is actually a statement of yourself. Do you simply try to get by or do you try to excel?

The person who knows the requirements of 35-10 and maintains them is saying, "I am responsible. I am a worthwhile person. My duties and the Air Force are important to me." The person who doesn't comply or just barely gets by, gives the impression of not being responsible, of not taking duties or the Air Force seriously.

Not only are you responsible, you are also influential. You can be sure that when you are in uniform someone is always observing you as you go about your base or civilian community.

You can be a positive influence in both areas by properly wearing your uniform. You will be noticed. Why not be a credit to yourself and the Air Force?

Wearing the military uniform is an honor. Be proud; wear it well.

Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line Ext. 3273.

WE GOT A CALL SOME TIME ago from a family in Reese Village whose dog was injured in a broken window caused by the heavy storms in June. The caller asked when the storm damage would finally be fixed, because it had been nearly a month since the window was broken when his dog was hurt. Damage from the June storm was more extensive than the housing maintenance people were able to handle under the existing contract. Therefore, we agreed that All-Pro would make emergency repairs and leave all other work to be done under a special request to Air Training Command headquarters. We turned over a list of damaged facilities that needed repair and have received the go-ahead from ATC to negotiate the repair contract. We plan for the actual work to begin in about two weeks.

A QUESTION ABOUT EXCHANGE PRICING POLICY also came up recently. It seems that an item marked with an incorrect price was about to be purchased when one of the sales personnel informed the purchaser of the mistake and that the item be re-marked with the correct price. What, exactly, is the policy? she asked.

We'd like to apologize for this inconvenience. The pricing error was a mistake by the employee doing the pricing and she had been correcting the prices at the time this item was selected. Still, it is neither unethical nor unusual for businesses to correct pricing errors in situations like this one. Until a customer buys an item, it belongs to the store and management has the right and obligation to correct pricing errors anywhere along the way, up to and including the point of sale. Had the sale already been rung up, the original price would have been honored, though.

A SECURITY POLICE AUGMENTEE has been on the job for a few months and still hasn't received the required training. This didn't sound right to him so he called to find out why.

When this caller was assigned to augmentee duty, the small arms range had been closed for repairs and the SP training section was going through a personnel turnover—thus, some required training didn't get done. The police are ready to start a new training program for the augmentees, consisting of both short and long-term training. We need the full cooperation of all units tasked for SP augmentation to make sure our augmentees get their full training.

"I'M JUST CURIOUS ABOUT what can be done about children playing in the carpports" in base housing, said a recent caller. She explained that she's had problems with things being left on her car and in her carpport, and with children darting around her car when she's pulling in our out of her carpport. I agree that children shouldn't use the carpports as play areas, especially since we recently put in $38,000 worth of new playground equipment in the eight playgrounds in Reese Village. There seems to be a safety hazard involved as well as possible breaches of good behavior by the children involved. Parents, I need our help in this to ensure the safety and well-being of our children.

A CALLER WHO WORKS on Hangar Line Road complained about the lack of parking space at the intersection of Hangar Line and L Street. This problem had already been identified by the Base Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee, which has requested that markings be painted. However, this may take time because of the number of higher priority jobs ahead of this one.

I'VE RECEIVED SEVERAL CALLS concerning the new policy on open mess usage, and I'll try to answer all of them, realizing that our people are due an explanation for this action. First, the clubs are, by directive, membership organizations. As such, dues are required and any profit goes back into the club. A number of niceties are offered free, such as coffee, tea, hors d'oeuvres and bar snacks. Also, the clubs offer entertainment and special dinners at bargain prices for promotional purposes, thereby returning to the membership a portion of their dues. Since these are benefits returned to the membership, many of the dues-paying members felt that they were subsidizing individuals who were otherwise eligible to join but who participated and paid no dues. Some calls were also received from civilians who wanted only to eat lunch at the clubs without becoming members. If civilians who are eligible for membership eat lunch as non-members, shouldn't we then grant military personnel the same privilege? We get back to the same point mentioned above about unfairness to dues-paying members. Everyone is eligible to join either the enlisted or officers club. Participation, like membership, is voluntary but the degree of participation is not important. Some have shown concern about the civilian eligibility for membership in the officers club. GS-7 and corresponding Federal Wage System grades were selected based on equivalency to warrant officer grades. Along with grade, the pay structure was considered. Requiring club membership of those eligible for it before they can use the clubs isn't "forcing people to join" as some have suggested. It's simply getting us to the position we should have been in for a long time, i.e., if you want to use the club, support it by becoming a member. Eligible personnel are welcome to join and participate in all activities including the lunch hour.

THE EMERGENCY ROOM AMBULANCE team was the subject of another call, this from someone who thought they took an unreasonably long time to respond to an emergency at the motor pool recently. She said that the emergency room was called three times for this problem and took 20 minutes to get an ambulance on the scene, where a victim of heat exhaustion had collapsed. I understand this person's concern, but, according to hospital records, what actually happened was that the ambulance was dispatched immediately when the call was received at the Emergency Room at 11:15 a.m. The patient arrived at the hospital at 11:30 and was seen by a medical provider. This allows about five minutes each way between the hospital and the motor pool, and six to seven minutes to examine the patient at the scene and place him in the ambulance. The other calls the caller mentioned were made to the emergency room while the ambulance was enroute to the scene.

KUDOS TO ALL THE pilots and students this flightline worker called about: "It was very hot out today and at least seven pilots and students have stopped and given me a soda or something like that to help me keep cool." The pilots are people who know the conditions our maintenance people work under. I'm happy they have the courtesy to show their appreciation for those who make it possible for them to fly. As for myself, I have tremendous respect and admiration for those dedicated to our mission enough to do their jobs well under tough conditions.

It took 10 years' worth of typing to write this letter.

International Business Machines Corporation
400 Parson's Pond Drive
Franklin Lakes, N.J. 07417

Dear Federal Customer:

After simulating ten years' worth of typing, the General Services Administration has chosen IBM as the only authorized supplier of single element electric typewriters for the general typing needs of U.S. Government offices.

The IBM Correcting "SELECTRIC" III Typewriter was evaluated as the least costly for the government to own and operate over a ten-year period, based on our special purchase price and a fully competitive procurement.

That means you can order the IBM Correcting Selectric III Typewriter Model 6705-B01 when your department needs typewriters with these features:

- * Lift-off correction
- * Dual pitch
- * 15.5" paper capacity
- * Courier and Prestige Elite type styles
- * 92-character keyboard

Remember, our contract is in effect through September 30, 1983. For ordering or contract information, call IBM Direct toll free at 1 800 631-5582, Ext. 409, today.

Ten years from now, you'll still be happy you made that call.

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)—A Travis AFB, Calif., master sergeant has won $10,000 for a suggestion that could save more than $3.5 million for the Air Force.

MSgt. Roy L. Kappus' suggestion, made while assigned to the Kadena AB, Japan, 400th Munitions Maintenance Squadron, will prevent corrosion to fin and nozzle assemblies of 3.75-inch rockets.

He recommended that the metal used for the assemblies be the same type used to make the rocket's fin blades.

Sergeant Kappus' suggestion avoided the eventual replacement of more than 32,000 rocket motors at Kadena, in addition to motors with similar problems at Sembach AB, West Germany, and Lackland AFB, Texas.

Improving the fin and nozzle assemblies would cost $1.1 million, compared to $4.6 million for replacing the rocket motors—a tangible savings of more than $3.5 million.

The sergeant was selected for a major command cash award of $7,995 and another $2,005 by the Air Force incentive awards board. He may receive an additional $10,950 cash award from the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense, officials said.

520 ROTC cadets look at future

An estimated 520 Air Force ROTC cadets sponsored by Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, passed through Reese's gates and grounds this summer as they got a chance to meet the Air Force way of life face to face.

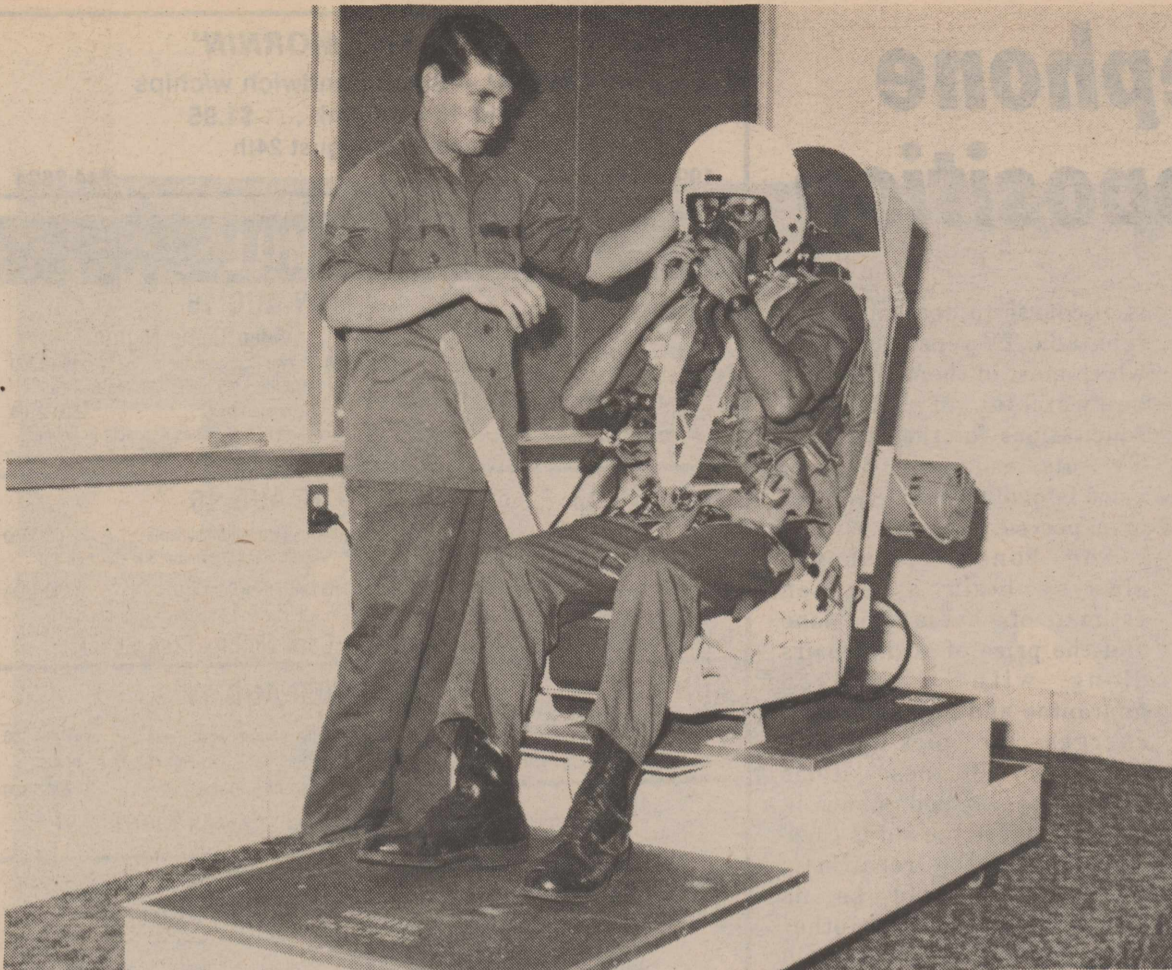

During the cadet's time at Reese, only a couple of days, they were given tours of Reese facilities, ejection seat training and flights in the T-37 jet trainers used here.

The purpose behind the summertime trips to active operational bases is to allow the cadets a chance to see how the Air Force operates.

And, at the same time, it is an incentive for cadets to continue their ROTC training and eventually accept commissions with the Air Force.

The cadets attend a six-week field training camp between their sophomore and juniors years of college. It is during that encampment that they spend time at operational bases observing them in action. While observing they are also participating and deciding if an Air Force officer commission and career is what they want.

The six-week camp is a lot like basic training, say ROTC officials.

OMS to host blood drive Tuesday

A blood drive, sponsored by the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron to benefit the Lubbock United Blood Services, is set for Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Building 70, Room 2 (the break room).

Lubbock area UBS officials have reported that blood supplies are running low this summer.

TV repair by telephone can be a risky proposition

by Maj. Edward Kingsford
Staff Judge Advocate

Telephone solicitation is rapidly becoming a cheap and fast method of advertising by certain repair services.

An example is the TV repair business. In certain parts of the state, these services are being advertised to unsuspecting consumers by sometimes unethical and unqualified repairmen.

The operation begins with a phone call to the consumer indicating that a TV repairman will be in the area to provide necessary repair services. And, for a low price, they will pick up, repair and deliver the merchandise fully repaired with an unconditional warranty. Most of the time these individuals will quote the consumer a price for the services without even inspecting the television set and promise to return it in a "few" days, and in some instances will require a cash deposit.

What happens next sometimes turns into a frustrating sequence of events for the consumer.

First, the consumer, after waiting a few days, will call the repair service and ask about his set. The usual reply is that the problem is more extensive than first realized and that it will cost more than agreed upon. If the consumer does not agree to pay the extra cost, the repair service will demand the payment agreed upon before delivery. If the consumer pays the agreed price, the repairman will promise to deliver the set immediately. Then, the repair service will not deliver the set to the consumer because they are not working that consumer's area at that time.

The consumer ends up having to go to the business himself, or perhaps has to hire someone else, to deliver the set to his home. If the set does not work properly, the repair service will usually tell the consumer to return it himself, or it will be picked up the next time they are in the area.

After several attempts to secure the warranty work and the free pick-up and delivery service, the frustrated consumer gives up his fight to either get his money back or obtain the warranty work.

The lesson to be learned from this sequence of events is of course to deal only with reputable TV repair services, which most of them are. Also, be watchful of telephone solicitations for the repair of TV sets, especially when a price is quoted before the set is inspected.

The consumer should always obtain a written estimate of what is to be done and the price of such repairs along with a written guarantee and any additional charges for pick-up and delivery. All these items should be agreed upon in writing before the set is turned over to the repairman; then there should be no disputes as to cost or other services, and everything will work smoothly. It is only when costs and services are left to chance that problems and disputes arise.

As was stated, most TV repair services are reputable and do good work, but if you have any complaints, contact the Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division of the Texas Attorney General's Office in Lubbock at 747-5238, or call the base legal office at Ext. 3505 for a legal assistance appointment.

GSA holds public auto auction

The General Services Administration will conduct two public auctions of 150 vehicles, ranging from 1973 to 1980, at Lubbock, Tuesday, and at San Marcos, Thursday.

The Lubbock sale includes 48 sedans, 4 pickups, 9 vans, 6 station wagons, 1 jeep and 1 Ramcharger. These vehicles are located at 1205 Texas Ave. and may be inspected from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., today and Monday, from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. The sale will take place Tuesday, at 10 a.m. in the Civic Center Auditorium, 1501 Sixth Street, Room 107, Lubbock.

GSA's Fort Worth Regional Office, which is handling these sales, sells personal property for federal civilian agencies in five states. They sold more than 5,600 vehicles during the past year. These sales brought over $8.5 million into the treasury.

For further information concerning the 69 surplus vehicle sale in Lubbock, call 743-7204.

Speaking group hones communicative skills

educational vice-president and A1C Ben Thompson, treasurer. The local Toastmasters chapter meets Thursdays at noon at the officers club and is open to all military and civilian personnel and their dependents.

What is Toastmasters and how can it help you?

Toastmasters is a worldwide organization of local chapters devoted to promoting public speaking. Chapter members attend meetings to develop new ideas and programs for their chapters and to present speeches to the rest of the group. Speeches are evaluated and speakers learn the skill in a formalized program of progression from novice to expert speaker.

What can Toastmasters do for you? You can learn to express your ideas and to develop your leadership potential through an enjoyable and thoroughly professional education program in public speaking.

The best way to learn is by doing, and that's exactly how Toastmasters works. You'll start speaking and get better the more you do it. You can advance through the speech manuals at your own speed.

You can use the skills in many ways. On the job, your communication with supervisors, associates, subordinates and customers can become more effective and your conversations at home more fun and productive. In your community activities, you can become more effective in getting things planned, said and done.

Toastmasters can meet your need for better communication in business meetings, job interviews, sales contacts, panel discussions and school courses.

Have you asked yourself, Do others find me worth listening to? Am I afraid to speak before a group? Can I always say what I really mean?

For help with these questions and many others, contact Lt. Col. Virgil Kennedy at Ext. 3007 or Sgt. George Spade at Ext. 3282. Visitors are welcome at Toastmasters meetings, Thursdays at noon in the Daedalian Room of the officers club.

OWC summer luncheon set for Thursday

The Reese Officers' Wives' Club will hold a summer luncheon at the officers' club Thursday. The mid-day social begins at 11 a.m. Lunch will be served at 11:45 a.m.

Following the luncheon and a short business meeting, Envoye Travel will present their "The Trip of Your Dreams" travel program.

Reservations are required and must be made before noon Saturday. To make reservations contact Jeanne Peterson at 794-5687, Martha Laurie at 799-7181, Katherine Jones at 794-5487 or Fran Baudhuin at 797-2642. The reservations committee urges members to have their club card numbers handy when calling in reservations. Permanent reservations for calendar 1983-84 will be honored.

Excess MWR equipment up for bid

Morale, Welfare and Recreation Supply's excess non-appropriated funds equipment will be auctioned off Thursday and Friday through sealed bids. Items will be available for inspection by bidders through Wednesday. Bidders will be notified Friday of their purchase, so be sure to include a phone number on any bid submitted.

For more about the sealed bid auction call Ext. 3815.

Professional women meet Thursday

The Reese Professional Women's organization will have a luncheon Thursday at the officers' club Daedalian Room from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Charles Wynn. Mr. Wynn will present some ideas on real estate.

The professional women's meeting is open to everyone. To find out more about the luncheon or the group contact Sherry Nance at Ext. 3561.

Air show slated just northwest of Lubbock

The 15th Annual Plainview Air Show will be held Sept. 11, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Hale County Airport in Plainview (45 minutes north on the Amarillo Highway).

Flea market shoppers, another sale nears

The 64th Field Maintenance Squadron will sponsor a flea market from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Aug. 20, in the Reese Federal Credit Union parking lot. Everyone is invited to shop the FMS-sponsored flea market.

For those with items to sell, spaces are still available at $3 each, but for more information contact Amn. Jose Lares at Ext. 3451 or Sgt. Jeanette Barnett at Ext. 3633.

Frenship schools to register Aug. 25

Registration for students attending school in the Frenship School District will be held Aug. 25, from 8:30 to 11 a.m. at the school the student will attend. Classes begin Aug. 30.

Some school re-alignments have also been announced. Students will ride Bus 21 if they attend school in Wolforth this fall. Students who ride Buses 8 and 21 will attend Reese Elementary this year.

UPT students compete in field day events

The first annual Reese Undergraduate Pilot Training Field Day will pit students from throughout UPT against each other during the day-long sporting events schedule Aug. 27. Field day events begin at the track field area near Building 955 at 9 a.m.

Individual efforts will be rewarded with prizes and the winning class will earn a trophy. Refreshments will be available all day and friends and family of the student pilot population are urged to come out and support their teams.

For more information about the field day events contact Capt. William Boyington at Ext. 3639 or 1st Lt. Michael Blemker at Ext. 3449.

Turkish Ambassador to the U.S. visits

Ambassador Sukru Elekdag (Shoo-kru E-lek-dah) will visit Lubbock Sept. 13 and 14.

A career diplomat since 1951, Ambassador Elekdag became his country's ambassador to the U.S. in July 1979. He will make a couple of speeches during his visit and if you want to attend one contact Maj. William Wrench at Ext. 3518 or Karen Wrench at 797-0720, for free tickets and detailed information on the ambassador's speaking engagements.

Foster parents being sought now

The Texas Department of Human Resources is looking for qualified foster parents for teenagers and children with medical problems. Military foster parents cannot use their military medical benefits for the foster children.

If you are interested in becoming a foster parent contact the Texas Department of Human Resources at 762-8922 and ask to speak to a foster home worker.

Cotton fatigues on the way out

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)—Cotton fatigues will be phased out July 1, 1985, and replaced with permanent press fatigues.

Air Force Uniform Board officials report that cotton fatigues, no longer available in clothing sales stores, are being issued to basic trainees at Lackland AFB, Texas, until stocks are depleted. The last of the cotton fatigues are expected to be issued in November.

The phase-out date was computed using a 14-month wear date for the fatigues and leaving an adequate amount of time for members to purchase permanent press fatigues, if necessary.

Alabama sets Sept. 28 special election

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Alabama will hold a special election Sept. 27 for all seats in the state house and senate won by the incumbents in the 1982 election. The election is the result of a re-appointment of voting districts in Alabama.

Winners will serve a three-year term for this election only, officials said.

Alabama citizens in the military service, the Merchant Marine, persons employed outside the U.S., and their spouses and dependents may vote absentee, officials added.

Alabama residents voting under the Overseas Citizens Voting Rights Act of 1975 also are eligible to vote in the election.

Unit voting officers and counselors can answer questions on absentee voting. Questions that cannot be answered locally may be directed to: Director, Federal Voting Assistance Program, Office of the Secretary of Defense, Room 1B457, Pentagon, Washington, D.C. 20301.

Headphones a no-no in uniform

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)—Popular small, portable stereo cassette players with lightweight headphones may not be worn while in military uniform.

Air Force personnel officials say that, although Air Force Regulation 35-10, Dress and Personal Appearance of Air Force Personnel, does not cover the wearing of the headphones specifically, it does cover head and neck ornamentation.

Supply downs comm. for intramural title

by Paul Bunting
Supply Coach

The defending champion Supply team pulled out a 9-8 win over the Comm. Squadron last week to beat out FMS for the intramural slowpitch softball championship.

It was a close game, with Comm. coming out in the first inning to take a 5-2 lead.

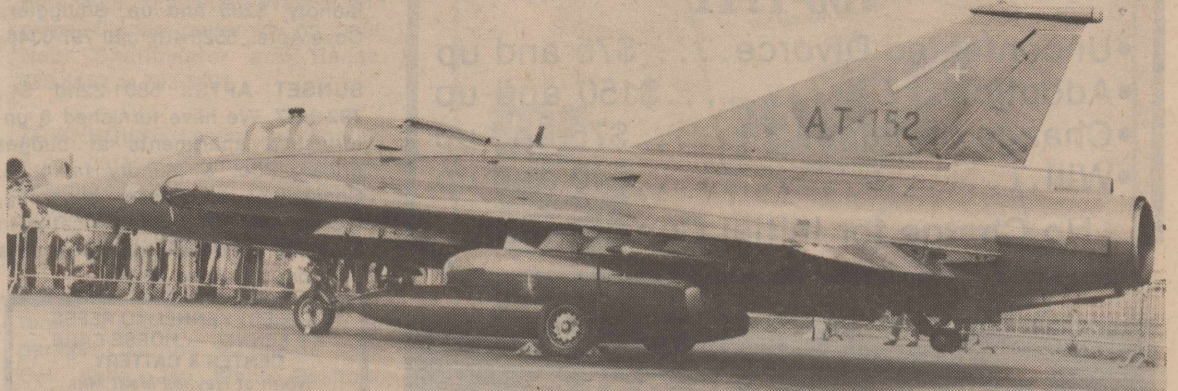

Supply came back in the second and scored six runs to go ahead 8-5.

The third inning was scoreless, then Comm. came up with a solo home run in the fourth and added two more runs in the fifth to tie up the game.

Hollin Neal, the Supply second baseman, tagged a homer in the bottom of the fifth, which turned out to be the winning run of the ball game.

Members of the championship team are Mark Feinstein, Mike Stevens, Tom Sternberg, Bob Thornton, Wes Mills, Denny Weston, Marqus Myles, Fred Cowan, Ron Wright, Fred Sills, Dwayne Saunders, Hollin Neal, Victor Vanarsdall, David Hall and Paul Bunting.

Final standings were: Supply, 18-3; FMS, 17-4; ABG #2, 15-8; OMS #1, 13-9; Comm., 13-9; OMS #2, 12-10; Hospital, 6-15; Supply #2, 6-17.

LAST WEEK'S PROJECT WARRIOR jet was the Dassault-Dreguet Mirage III spotted by SrA. Steve Hisel, 2nd Lt. Glenn Lang, A1C Philip Henderson, A1C Michael Crates, A1C Kenneth Heflin, A1C Curt Haack, A1C David Pittman, Nathan Gutsehke, Sgt. Michael Keel and 2nd Lt. Don McCrary. If you think you can identify this week's Danish Air Force jet call Ext. 3843.

Base sets post-season tourney

With the end of the intramural softball season, the base will hold a post-season tournament next week featuring the top six finishers from the intramural league: Supply, FMS, ABG No. 2, OMS No. 1, Comm, and OMS No. 2.

The tournament will run Monday through Thursday. The schedule calls for three games a night, at 5, 6, and 7 p.m., with the tournament championship game slated for Thursday at 5 p.m. All games will be played on Field No. 2.

The opening night schedule looks like this:

ABG 2 vs. OMS 2, 5 p.m.

Comm. vs. OMS 1, 6 p.m.

Supply vs. winner of ABG 2 and OMS 2, 7 p.m.

FMS will meet the winner of the Comm.-OMS 1 game Tuesday at 5 p.m.

Supply won the intramural slowpitch season with an 18-3 record.
