

SSgt. Flynn takes two NCO L' ship awards

SSgt. Daniel G. Flynn, Reese Hospital, won two of five awards at the NCO Leadership School Class 83-G graduation banquet held at the Enlisted Open Mess Aug. 12.

Sergeant Flynn, NCOIC of the Stock Records Section at the hospital, captured the Outstanding Speaker award and the Academic award. The speaker's award is given to the best presentation in a graded speech competition. The Academic award goes to the student achieving the highest average on written exams and oral presentations.

SSgt. James E. Kemp, 2080th Communications Squadron at Los Angeles AFS, Calif., swept the other three awards: the NCO Academy Graduates Association Drill Award, given to the top student in a graded flight drill competition; the Air Force Sergeant's Association Commandant's Award, given to the class' outstanding leader; and the top award, the Honor Graduate Award, given to that student maintaining the highest standards of academics, customs and courtesies, personal appearance and conduct, the initiative.

Rounding out the class were SSgt. Clela S. Naylor, 64th Field Maintenance Squadron (class commander); SSgt. Thomas Gladden, 64th Civil Engineering Squadron (first sergeant); SSgt. Kim R. Engelkamp, 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron; SSgt. Karl D. Kurtz, 35th Flying Training Squadron; SSgt. Walter D. Anderson, 64th

FMS; SSgt. Joseph L. Stelpflug, Field Training Detachment 429; SSgt. Larry D. Akin Jr., 64th Air Base Group; Sgt. Holly R. Birdwell, 64th ABG; Sgt. Thomas L. Bauza Jr., 71st Air Base Group, Vance AFB, Okla. and Sgt. Roger L. Kincaid Jr., 64th Supply Squadron.

Col. Donald J. McCullough, deputy commander for Resources at Reese, was guest speaker at the banquet and presented the Speech Award. SSgt. Bonnie K. Betz PME instructor, presented the Drill Award; CMSgt. Jerry L. Price, Reese senior enlisted advisor, presented the Academic Award; newly arrived PME Center commandant MSgt. Loyd K. Sheppard presented the Commandant's Award; Base Commander Col. John R. Hullender presented the Honor Graduate Award.

Col. Richard E. Hearne, wing commander, presented the diplomas, assisted by MSgt. Sheppard and SrA. Brian L. Denny, chief of Administration at the PME Center.

Child Care Center sets daily preschool classes

The Reese Child Care Center will offer preschool classes to children 3 to 5. Registration for the preschool will be taken Tuesday through Thursday at the Child Care Annex, Building 16, from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Classes are held daily with the option of a two or three-day enrollment. Class sizes are limited to 20 children, one teacher and an aide. Classes for three and four-year-olds are limited.

Preschool registration fee is $10 and tuition for the children attending Monday, Wednesday and Friday is $40 per month. Children attending class only Tuesday and Thursday pay only $30 a month. Classes meet in the mornings from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from noon to 2:30 p.m. for the afternoons.

Any child attending preschool will automatically be enrolled for the succeeding month unless written notice of withdrawal is given two weeks prior to withdrawal. Being absent for two consecutive weeks will also constitute a withdrawal and your child will be dropped from the class roll.

Students who are dropped but wish to re-enter preschool will be placed on a waiting list and if allowed to return to class the parents will again have to pay the $10 registration fee.

In order to enroll your child, be sure to have a birth certificate and an updated shot record handy the day of enrollment. For more information contact 885-3541.

National Space Club sponsors Robert Goddard essay contest

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—If your interest lies in the historical development of rocketry and astronautics, the Robert H. Goddard Historical Essay Contest may be for you.

The contest, sponsored by the National Space Club in Washington, closes Nov. 4. The competition was named in honor of Dr. Robert H. Goddard, the world rocket pioneer whose scientific and technological contributions helped open the door to space.

Winner of the contest—announced in March 1984—will receive a Goddard Historical Essay trophy, a National Space Club certificate and $500.

Any U.S. citizen is eligible to enter, except for previous winners of the contest, of-officials said. Evidence of citizenship should be included with the entry. Other rules are:

Entries should not exceed 5,000 words written on any significant aspects of the historical development of rocketry and astronautics. Essays must be fully documented.

Essays must be typewritten, double-spaced on 8½-by-11 inch paper, and submitted in duplicate, printed essays are not eligible.

Essays and identifying envelopes must be mailed in a large sealed envelope to: Goddard Historical Essay Contest, National Space Club, 655 15th St., N.W. Third Floor, Washington, D.C. 20005. The envelope must be postmarked before Nov. 4, 1983.

Reese IP is command's nominee for General Lew Allen Trophy

Maj. Tice N. Leonard, Section I commander, 54th Flying Training Squadron, is one of two Air Training Command nominees for the Air Force's Gen. Lew Allen Jr. Trophy.

The trophy, established in June 1982, recognizes individuals for outstanding performance while involved in daily operations which support the flying mission.

Also nominated was MSgt. Leonard C. Dagg of Keesler AFB, Miss.

Major Leonard was recognized for instituting an "Age the Force" program designed to help his instructor pilots gain experience in T-38 flying and student training.

Sergeant Dagg is the superintendent of the Capsule Maintenance Section, 3380th Avionics Maintenance Squadron, at Keesler. He was praised for developing a number of procedures which saved thousands of dollars and helped improve the reliability of various pieces of equipment.

The winner of the trophy will be announced later this year.

Fraud, waste, abuse hurt us all

by Maj. Gene Uptegraph
Wing Inspector

The reduction of fraud and waste has received increased attention from Headquarters Air Training Command and is a major commitment and concern of all commanders at Reese.

Fraud, waste and abuse have an impact on our ability to perform our mission and on the public image of the United States Air Force. Since President Reagan has supported an increased defense budget, it is our responsibility to do all we can to insure our resources are properly used. This is where the fraud, waste and abuse program can be instrumental.

The Department of Defense has established committees, hotlines and awareness programs to combat misuse of government funds, property, and resources. It is the duty of all government employees, military or civilian, to participate in the fight against fraud and waste. This can be done through the wing inspector, the wing Fraud, Waste and Abuse Hotline, Ext. 3273; the Fraud, Waste and Abuse Hotline Autovon, 487-4460; or the DOD Fraud, Waste and Abuse Hotline, Autovon 223-5080. As the wing inspector, I guarantee a thorough investigation for each reported instance. Confidentiality will be honored.

Major Uptegraph

The bottom line is that losses to fraud, waste and abuse are ultimately paid for by us. Consider that federal taxes must be higher to generate revenue to offset the loss. Cost of goods and services at commissaries, exchanges, and MWR facilities have to be raised to counter their losses due to theft, waste and diversion. Revenue lost could be used for quality-of-life improvements such as new air conditioners for dormitories and dining facilities or for potential pay increases.

The fraud, waste, and abuse program is real. Treat it seriously, as the savings can be beneficial for all.

Pres. Reagan: 'The paradox of deterrence'

In a radio address to the nation on Armed Forces Day, President Reagan paid tribute to the men and women in uniform and their families. Among his remarks:

Their job (the men and women in uniform) is unusually difficult because it involves hardship and danger, or because it requires long periods away from families and loved ones, or even because it may demand the giving of one's life in defense of our nation. The difficulty of the military profession grows out of all of these, plus the fact that our service men and women are always faced with several of the most fundamental questions we ask as individuals and as a nation—the questions of war and peace and the use of force in the world.

Americans have asked the questions again and again for more than 200 years. They're still debating them today. Perhaps the reason these questions persist is because there are no easy answers. The answers lie in seeming paradoxes, underlying truths that may appear contradictory on the surface.

The most fundamental paradox is that if we're never to use force, we must be prepared to use it and to use it successfully.

We Americans don't want war and we don't start fights. We don't maintain a strong military force to conquer or coerce others. The purpose of our military is simple and straightforward: We want to prevent war by deterring others from the aggression that causes war. If our efforts are successful we will have peace and never be forced into battle. There will never be a need to fire a single shot. That's the paradox of deterrence.

The men and women in our Armed Forces also live with a second paradox. They spend their entire time in service training to fight and preparing for a war which we and they pray will never come. As individuals, these men and women want peace as much as we do as a nation. In fact, they want it even more, because they understand that war is not the romantic heroism we read about in novels or see in the movies, but the stark truth of suffering and sacrifice and the slain promise of youth.

Our service men and women know firsthand the horrors of war and the blessings of peace, but they also know that just wanting peace is not enough to guarantee that peace will be sustained. As George Washington said, "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual ways of preserving peace."

Winners aren't born, says chief; they've usually helped themselves

by CMSgt. Bobbi Roland
Langley AFB, Va.

Have you ever wondered why only a few officers and enlisted members make it to the top? Luck? Knowing someone? Being in the right place at the right time?

Those things may not hurt, but I think those at the top of their profession are winners. They weren't born winners, either. They carefully cultivated the traits which distinguish them. They learned to be winners.

How can you learn to be one, too? What traits should you cultivate? Here are some suggestions:

- Have long-term goals. Decide on an ultimate goal, then identify short-term steps towards it. You may want to become an officer, for instance. To accomplish that goal, you must first finish college.

- Make sure your goals are ones you really want. If you aren't excited about your goals, you won't function at the peak of your ability. You may think you want to be an officer or a chief, for instance, but do you really?

You'll need to make some sacrifice to get there.

- Move beyond whatever you've already accomplished. You can always find ways to make your job more challenging.

- Maintain your self-confidence by learning from your mistakes. Successful people exhibit high degrees of self-confidence. Thomas Edison once said, "I failed my way to success. Every time I made a mistake, I learned something from it."

- Take responsibility. High performers are not afraid to take control of their section, their people problems and their careers. There are always opportunities for accepting increased responsibility, whatever your rank.

- Develop your communicative skills. Almost every successful person has learned to be a good communicator.

- Mentally rehearse how you will act in critical situations. Go over things that are likely to happen to you, and see yourself doing well. It will give you a sense of confidence.

"Wars may be fought with weapons, but they are won by men. It is the spirit of men who follow and of the man who leads that gains the victory."

—Maj. George S. Patton Jr.

CARE Line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. Richard E. Hearne, 64th Flying Training Wing commander. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line Ext. 3273.

WE HAD A LENGTHY call a while back from a man who had a few complaints about how rules are enforced over at the base swimming pool. He'd brought some friends out from downtown and felt he was treated rudely and unfairly by the lifeguards on duty.

Specifically, what happened was that his guests had to pay the admission fee for their infant child who obviously wasn't going to swim. Next, he was told that his guests who weren't going to do any swimming still couldn't enter the pool area in their street clothes, even though some people in the pool area—including lifeguards—had T-shirts on.

We're sorry for the embarrassment caused this person, and he should know that policies concerning his complaints have been changed. Babes-in-arms are no longer charged admission to the pool, and the lifeguards on duty can allow people who aren't swimming into the pool area in their clothing. Incidentally, the reason for the no-clothing rule in the first place was to protect the cleanliness of the pool. Some people had been coming to the pool from the gym or elsewhere wearing the same shirts they'd been exercising or playing basketball in and then wanting to wear the dirty shirt into the pool. This can't be done in the interest of sanitation.

Anyone having problems with this or any Morale, Welfare and Recreation facility should contact the MWR Chief, Mr. Hood at Ext. 3006 or SMSgt. Rueles, MWR operations officer, at Ext. 3421. These kinds of problems can often be easily worked out.

BICYCLE SAFETY IN REESE VILLAGE was the subject of another call. This caller is concerned about kids on bicycles cutting from one side of the street to the other, causing hazards for themselves and drivers.

The Security Police are doing all they can to help keep the Village streets safe for everyone, but it's everyone's business to insure that they and their children observe the common safety rules. Bike riders also should remember that they must follow the same rules as automobile drivers when riding in the street.

NEXT, WE HAD A LONG call from a woman with a number of complaints about several sections on base.

First, she had problem with the housing maintenance contractor, who broke an appointment with her, leaving her to wait in her home all day for him to arrive. Unfortunately, the maintenance man had been called away on an emergency and neglected to reschedule her appointment. Our apologies.

Next, she asked why the housing inspections aren't always done on Tuesdays, "because by Wednesday, some of the dandelions are already popping through" (the lawn).

The 64th Air Base Group Headquarters Squadron commander, conducts the weekly inspections, scheduled for Tuesdays. Sometimes he can't finish them until Wednesday morning however, because of weather or administrative problems. Incidentally, he doesn't write up dandelions because they do grow so quickly. He looks, instead, for edging and tall grass, which may include seed heads.

Problems also occur with respect to the boundaries of responsibility between quarters, carpools, and fences. People who are uncertain about what they may be responsible for should check the Reese Village map at the housing office.

We want our homes to be real showplaces. With our residents' help, we can do that and have a neighborhood to be proud of.

Third, the caller was distressed with treatment she received at the base hospital, where she had to go for treatment of complications following her pregnancy. She felt she'd gotten the run-around, being sent from the OB-GYN clinic to primary care, where she needed an appointment and where she couldn't take her young child; to the flight surgeon's office; to the emergency room and, finally, to Lubbock General where she was "treated just fine." She also felt that the system for getting appointments in pediatrics is inadequate, often taking longer than necessary to get through. Finally concerning the hospital, she thought she encountered no shortage of rude behavior there by persons she had to deal with.

The appointment system is the best method we've found for insuring the best possible care for patients under normal circumstances. In cases where a patient can't wait for an appointment, he or she should visit the emergency room for treatment. Nevertheless, clinic staffs will try to accommodate walk-ins when possible. Walk-in patients may have to see a doctor, nurse or other provider, or may be referred to another clinic, including the emergency room if treatment can't wait.

Children aren't allowed to accompany their parents into the primary care clinic because of the problems this can raise for the provider doing treatment. Providers are given about 15 minutes to initially examine, diagnose and treat their patients in this clinic. This becomes more difficult when parents have to manage children at the same time.

As far as the appointment system in pediatrics goes, we're sorry but we are presently authorized only one appointments clerk to handle appointments for all our clinics, including pediatrics. We've added another provider to help with the usually heavy patient load in the pediatrics clinic, which we think will decrease the time patients have to wait for their visits.

This caller's last complaint concerned the Reese Village "leash law." An acquaintance of hers was recently attacked by a doberman pincer while jogging in the village late one evening. The jogger escaped only by rolling under a parked car, but she still was bruised and bitten when it was all over.

Reese does indeed have a "leash law" that requires dogs to be leashed when outside their owners' homes or when not penned or chained. Dogs found running loose are picked up by Security Police and held for at least five days or until their owners pick them up. Dogs found biting are quarantined for at least 10 days. Then, if they aren't claimed, we put them up for adoption or release them to the Lubbock Animal Shelter.

ARE CIVILIAN CONTRACTORS allowed to use the recreation center? asked another caller.

Yes, they are since the work they're doing at Reese directly supports our mission. We extend contractors working on base permission to use our MWR eating facilities when it doesn't interfere with normal use by base personnel.

MINUTES OF A RECENT meeting of the Noncommissioned Officers Association chapter on base were recently circulated on 64th Flying Training Wing letterhead. This caught the attention of a caller who wondered if it was legal for a private organization such as this to use government letterhead for their correspondence.

Our legal people say that it isn't, so it won't happen again.

THE SURPRISE CLOSING of the gymnasium recently caused some irritation and a caller asked why the closing couldn't have been planned and publicized a little better.

In this case, we just didn't have time to publicize the closing more than we did. We hope that people who use the gym are pleased with the improvements we've been able to make over there. In fact, we recently had a call from someone asking if we couldn't install a drinking fountain near the racquetball courts. This is a good suggestion and the gym staff has submitted the paperwork to have a fountain installed.

Good news for our members:

Your Family Is Eligible For Membership . . .

No matter where they live!

We have recently adopted the NCUA by-law amendment that allows us to include in our field of membership relatives of primary members regardless of where they reside. This new policy removes the old household requirement completely and provides for the acceptance of most relatives of both the member and spouse.

If you've got parents, grandparents, children, grandchildren, brothers, or sisters that are interested, let them know that they're eligible to join Reese Federal Credit Union and have access to all our great member services!

Bond sales increase with change to market-based interest rate

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — Savings Bond sales have increased steadily each month since the new market-based interest rate went into effect, announced Treasury Department officials. Sales rose nearly 30 percent since January, while redemptions dropped by one-third.

The rate for series EE bonds issued between May 1 and Oct. 31, 1983, is 8.64 percent for their first six-month interest period. Older series EE and E bonds and U.S. savings notes will also receive this market-based rate for six-month interest-earning periods starting between May 1 and Oct. 31.

The market-based system of fixing rates began Nov. 1, 1982. This makes savings bonds competitive with other savings programs and increases their appeal to both military members and civilians, officials said.

"With the increased payroll savings plan participation, we believe the market-based interest system is returning the bond program to a solid, competitive position among savings instruments," Treasury officials said.

The rate for the previous market-based period — Nov. 1, 1982 through April 30, 1983 — was 11.09 percent, an average yield for the two periods of 9.87 percent.

The market-based rate — calculated every six months — is based on the Treasury five-year rate on securities for the preceding six months. The savings bond rate is set at 85 percent of the market average. At the end of five years, the average of the 10 semi-annual rates — compounded semi-annually — determines a bond's five-year yield. If the bonds are held six years, the average of the 12 semi-annual rates — compounded semi-annually — determines the bond's six-year yield, and so on. Bonds held less than five years continue to earn interest on a predetermined, graduated scale, just as in the past.

Series EE bonds issued since Nov. 1, 1982, must be held at least five years to qualify for the rate.

The Treasury Department determines the redemption value of bonds held five years or longer by averaging the marketable five-year rates during each semi-annual period, multiplying by 85 percent, averaging the 10 semi-annual rates and compounding the result semi-annually from the first period.

New bonds are guaranteed to earn a minimum of 7.5 percent per year — compounded semi-annually — if held five years or longer. Older bonds in effect before Nov. 1, 1982, continue to have minimum guaranteed yields to the end of the original or extended maturity periods which began before that date.

Interim yields for new issues held less than five years range from 5.5 percent after one year to 7.25 percent after four and one-half years.

Savings bonds redeemed or reaching final maturity before being held at least five years after Nov. 1, 1982, are not eligible for market-based interest. These bonds earn interest on a fixed scale to redemption or final maturity date, depending on the original date of issue.

Series E bonds issued May, 1, 1941 through May 1, 1943, and Series H bonds issued June 1, 1952 through Sept. 1, 1953, have reached final maturity and no longer earn interest.

Bond holders can find the current redemption values of their bonds by using the tables of redemption values the Treasury Department provides to banks and other redemption agents.

Safety: Vehicle mishaps 'way up'

Private motor vehicle accidents are alarmingly on the rise, according to 64th Flying Training Wing safety officials.

On-base mishaps alone were up 47 percent over the January-through-June period a year ago. That's 16 more accidents than last year's total 34 for that period.

Off-base mishaps are worse than on-base for the period. From January to June 1982, Reese personnel experienced only 11 mishaps, but for that same period of driving in 1983 the total was up to 26.

Of those 1983 mishaps, half happened during the second calendar year quarter. What caused the accidents? According to ground safety statistics, eight of the mishaps were attributed to excessive speed, three occurred at intersections, and two were the result of DWIs.

On-base mishaps for the second quarter showed a 145 percent increase over 1982. In 1982 there were 11 mishaps reported, but for that same quarter the 1983 number had risen to 27. The on-base accident breakdown for 1983 shows six hit-and-run incidents; 11 parking-lot mishaps; five intersection mishaps and three roadway mishaps. Fortunately, according to safety records, only one individual involved in an on-base mishap was not wearing seatbelts.

Infant killed in car crash; no child restraint seat

(ATCNS)—The 8-week-old daughter of a Vance AFB, Okla., airman was killed in a traffic accident earlier this month after she was thrown from her father's car. Her parents escaped the incident with only minor injuries.

The vehicle was struck broadside by another vehicle on July 30 after the Vance airman failed to yield at an intersection. According to the police report, the girl was sitting in her mother's lap on the passenger's side just before the accident.

The girl was taken to a local hospital in critical condition and died from head injuries the next day. Her parents were treated and released.

(Reese's Family Services has eight child restraint seats which they will loan out to families who need them. For more information on borrowing the seats, call Ext. 3305.)

PME instructors: AF seeks top-notch NCOs

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas—Top-notch NCOs are needed for NCO Professional Military Education instructors to help mold tomorrow's Air Force enlisted leaders. Openings are available in all three phases of PME. Phase One and Two, NCO leadership schools, NCO academies, the Air Force Senior NCO Academy, and the Leadership and Management Development Center.

Most Phase One and Two positions are for staff and technical sergeants. Openings are at Castle and March AFBs, Calif.; Grand Forks and Minot AFBs, N.D.; K.I. Sawyer AFB, Mich.; Malmstrom AFB, Mont.;

McGuire AFB, N.J.; Offutt AFB, Neb.; Pope AFB, N.C.; Bitburg and Spangdahlem ABs, West Germany; and Kapaun AS, West Germany.

NCO leadership school vacancies are primarily for staff through master sergeants, with some requirements for senior master sergeants. Openings include: Cannon and Holloman AFBs, N.M.; Dover AFB, Del.; Homestead and MacDill AFBs, Fla.; Keesler AFB, Miss.; Lackland and Sheppard AFBs, Texas; Langley AFB, Va.; Lowry AFB, Colo.; Luke AFB, Ariz.; March and Norton AFBs, Calif.; Mountain Home AFB, Idaho; Nellis AFB, Nev.; Seymour-Johnson

AFB, N.C. and Shaw AFB, S.C.

Overseas leadership school vacancies include: Clark AB, the Philippines; Kadena AB, Japan; Lindsey AS, West Germany; and RAF Upwood, England.

NCO Academy openings are at: Barksdale AFB, La.; Keesler McGuire, Norton, Kadena, Kapaun and RAF Upwood.

The Leadership and Management Center, Maxwell AFB, Ala., needs one master sergeant and one senior master sergeant. In addition the Senior NCO Academy has continuing requirements for highly qualified master and senior master sergeant instructors.

Volunteers must have completed a level of PME equivalent to, or higher than, the level they wish to instruct. Selectees will serve four-year controlled tours in the United States, or the length of their tour at overseas locations.

Members from all career fields are eligible to apply. However, applications from members serving in chronic shortage skills and those who have received a selective reenlistment bonus for their current enlistment are rarely approved.

Applicants must serve normal time-on-station requirements before being accepted as instructors. Check with CBPO customer service at Ext. 3276 for details and application procedures.

Library shelves new books; story hour is alive and well

The base library has a number of new books on the shelves: "The Aircraft Treasures of Silver Hill"; "Now That the Buffalo's Gone"; "With Enough Shovels"; "The First Ladies"; "Fundamentals of COBOL"; "Sun, Earth and Man"; "Pilot's Handbook of Aeronautical Knowledge"; "A Handbook for the Disabled"; "How to Influence Children"; "Addictive Drinking"; "Capturing Energy from the Wind"; "The Sacred Warriors"; "Why we Were in Vitenam"; "The Ominous Parallels"; "A Field Guide to the Grand Canyon"; "The Kingdom"; "The Wine Book"; "Debrett's Handbook, 1982"; "Fiscal and Life Cycles of Defense Systems"; "Modern Observational Techniques for Comets"; "The Complete Encyclopedia of Arms and Weapons"; "Secrets of the SS" and "The Encyclopedia of North American Railroadng."

Story hour continues to be held Wednesdays from 10 to 11 a.m. and 12:30 to 1:30 p.m., which includes a craft activity.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and 12 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

And, the paperback exchange remains popular. It works like this: Leave your paperbacks at the counter when you come in the library; select an equal number from the swap shelves and show them to the clerk at the counter for statistical purposes.

450 AECP slots open in fiscal 84 for computer, engineering students

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)—About 450 Air Force enlisted members will get their chance in fiscal 1984 to earn college degrees and commissions. They will go to college to earn computer science and engineering degrees under the Airmen Education and Commissioning Program.

Applications for the board to meet at the Air Force Institute of Technology, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, Sept. 19, are due at AFIT by Aug. 22.

Another board is scheduled Feb. 13, 1984.

The exact number of openings for fiscal 1984 will depend on congressional authorization and funding for the program.

Those selected will attend up to 36 months of school to complete a bachelor's degree. They'll then enter Officer Training School. When they complete OTS, they will receive commissions and assignments in computer science or engineering career fields.

Personnel officials forecast 325 openings in electrical engineering, 25 in computer science, 20 in mechanical engineering, 20 in aeronautical engineering, 20 in astronautical engineering, 10 in industrial engineering, 20 in civil engineering and 10 in nuclear engineering.

Requirements for applying include at least three semester hours of analytic geometry and differential calculus designed for engineering, science or mathematics majors.

Engineering applicants must have completed a course in college physics or college chemistry that applies to an engineering or science curriculum.

Contact the Education Office at Ext. 3634 for applications and more information.

Button batteries a possible hazard say gov't poison control authorities

Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio (AFNS)—Severe internal trauma or even death can result if button batteries are swallowed, warn officials of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and the National Capital Poison Center, Georgetown University, Washington, D.C. Consumer safety officials estimate 500 to 800 of the miniature disc batteries are swallowed annually. Some adults have even mistakenly taken them for tablets, officials said.

Normally, accidentally swallowed batteries will pass through a person without any problem. On occasion, however, the batteries become lodged in the esophagus or intestine to slowly leak alkaline electrolytes and cause internal chemical burns, said officials.

Advances in electronic miniaturization have made the button batteries available in many items found around the home. The batteries can be found in cameras, hearing aids, games, calculators, watches, and numerous other electronic devices.

Of button batteries swallowed in the past nine months, most were left loose rather than being properly disposed of or stored, officials said. They said a study showed that of those who reported swallowing the batteries, 66 percent were patients age 5 or less, 24 percent were in the 5- to 12-year age group, and ten percent were 18 years or older.

Some suggestions to help prevent button battery ingestion are:

- Keep button batteries out of your child's reach.
- Don't let children play with the batteries.
- Never put button batteries in your mouth for any reason.
- Always check medications before taking them, as adults have mistaken batteries for tablets.
- Warn hearing aid users to keep hearing aids and batteries out of reach of children.
- Discard batteries carefully.

If a button battery is swallowed, contact the local poison control center, your doctor, or the National Button Battery Ingestion Hot Line at (202) 625-3333.

Drowning claims ATC member

(ATCNS)—An aircraft maintenance instructor from Moody AFB, Ga., became Air Training Command's second drowning victim of the year.

The 34-year-old master sergeant drowned while trying to swim across a river near Williams AFB, Ariz. Some of his friends had tried to talk him out of making the crossing, according to the safety report.

The victim had admitted to being an inexperienced swimmer. He had never swam in that river before and had been drinking alcohol just before getting into the water.

A 19-year-old airman from Lackland AFB, Texas, drowned under similar circumstances earlier this year. ATC safety officials said he too had been drinking and had tried to swim farther than he could.

Officials termed both deaths "senseless." They pass on the following water safety tips:

- Don't overexert yourself. Your're asking for trouble if you swim when you're tired. It's also unwise to stay in the water too long. Cooler water temperatures can drop your body temperature below normal.

- Don't swim alone. Even the best swimmers occasionally need help.

- Don't mix swimming and alcohol. Alcohol can impair your judgement and make you think you're super-human.

- Don't overestimate your swimming ability. Keep in mind distances on water are deceiving.

- Don't dive into unknown waters. This careless act claims victims each year. They dive into water that is too shallow or hit underwater objects which either break their necks or knock them unconscious.

Family Outreach Center seeks volunteers

by Linda Pettit

Child abuse and child neglect are on the rise.

Established in 1981, Family Outreach Center of Lubbock is dedicated to the prevention of child abuse and neglect by helping families before a situation becomes severe enough to warrant intervention by Lubbock County Child Welfare. Statistics have indicated that families are more willing to refer themselves for volunteer services than to an agency with the legal authority to take custody of the children. FOCL depends entirely on volunteer services.

Volunteers receive 24 hours of training before being assigned to a family. The Department of Human Resources provides FOCL with a caseworker as a supervisor. All services of the center are free. The volunteers become friends to families in need, helping them work through their problems and locate needed support services.

Child neglect is not usually the result of a willful desire to harm the child. Many times neglectful parents lack an appropriate role model, are unable to cope with stress or have unrealistic expectations of children. Many times they were rejected during their own childhoods. Poverty is often associated with child neglect. When a family lacks the money, knowledge or initiative to care for its children, Family Outreach can help.

In 1982, Family Outreach of Lubbock met 253 families and aided 665 children. Presently there are 63 volunteers, 37 of whom are caseworkers. There are 65 open cases.

Personal satisfaction in helping individuals, families and their communities is a lasting reward for Family Outreach volunteers. FOCL has many families who are waiting for a special person like you. Would you be willing to volunteer as a caseworker or office help?

The next training session for caseworkers begins Sept. 6 and meets Tuesdays and Thursdays until Sept. 29 from 9 a.m. to noon or 7 to 10 p.m. For more information about Family Outreach activities and volunteer opportunities, contact Karen Tipton, casework manager, at 792-9908.

Columbia U. researchers study social effects of working moms

(AFNS)—More than half of the children growing up in the United States today have mothers who work outside the home. Many people firmly believe that maternal employment is likely to cause serious problems in children's social and cognitive development.

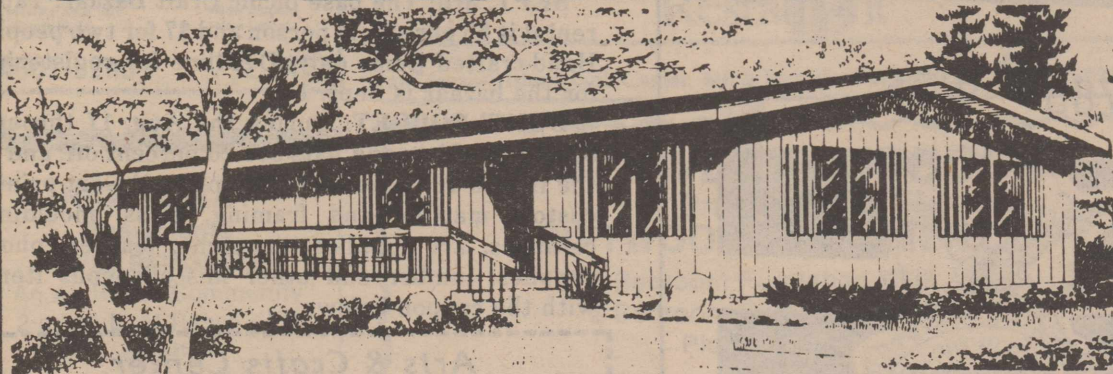

A National Research Council panel, chaired by Sheila B. Kamerman of the School of Social Work, Columbia University, has investigated the effects of parental employment. Its first report, Families that Work: Children in a Changing World, highlighted the manner in which families, employers and community institutions are adapting to the needs of working parents.

In the just-published second report, Children of Working Parents: Experiences and Outcomes, the panel focuses on the influence of mothers' work outside the home on the nature of children's daily experiences and their social, emotional and cognitive development.

According to the National Academy of Sciences, both reports conclude that maternal employment, by itself, is neither good nor bad for all children in all circumstances. Other factors, such as income, family structure, individual characteristics of the child (age, sex, handicaps), mother's education and attitude toward employment and housework, and the availability of supportive services outside the family appear to be far more important in shaping children's growth and development.

Tuition bill recipients should notify commanders

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Air Force members receiving tuition bills from their children's public school district should immediately notify their base commander, announced Air Force officials here.

In response to proposed reductions in federally funded impact aid, some public school districts have levied tuition bills on service members and their commanders.

Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger stated in a memorandum to the military departments and the chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff that any action to charge military dependents is completely unwarranted and that the Department of Defense will take every possible measure to prevent it.

"While some school districts may attempt to charge a tuition or exclude military dependents from schools, the Department of Defense is ready to take all necessary legal steps to prevent any disruption of military education," he said.

Reese ASMC plans Tuesday meeting

The Reese Windmill Chapter of the American Society of Military Comptrollers will meet Tuesday at the officers' club at 11:30 a.m. in the reception room. During the meeting, general chapter business will be discussed and activities for the coming year set.

All Windmill Chapter ASMC members are invited to attend and participate in the planning meeting. For more information about the chapter call Ext. 3405.

School physicals available

The Reese Hospital will provide school physicals for base children Aug. 26 beginning at 1 p.m. This afternoon dedicated to sports and school physicals will be the last opportunity for children to get their physicals before school begins. Parents should call 885-3285 for an appointment. Parents should be sure to bring the child's shot record so that it may be reviewed and updates made as necessary.

Children who miss this opportunity for immunizations can make up the appointment by going to the Army Reserve Center on 4th Street Sept. 10 and Nov. 5 at 8:30 a.m. No appointment is necessary.

Houston Baptist counselor to visit

Dr. Roger Brooks, from Houston Baptist University, will be at Reese's Education Center, Building 91, today, Aug. 26 and Sept. 2 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. During his brief stay at Reese, Dr. Brooks will counsel students enrolled in HBU and explain the programs offered to those interested in attending HBU. He will also aid students with registration.

Essay contest theme announced

What price freedom is the theme for the 1983 Freedom's Foundation Essay contest. Contest criteria: 100 to 500 words, name, rank, social security number, branch, complete unit address, complete permanent address and zip code. First place wins a George Washington Honor Medal and a $100 U.S. Savings Bond. Other winners will receive $50 savings bond and honor medals and certificates. Deadline for entry is Oct., 1983, and entries should be sent to Freedom's Foundation, Valley Forge, PA 19481.

Canned salmon being recalled

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—All 7.75 and 15.5 ounce cans of salmon from the Chignik Canning Company of Alaska are being recalled.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration alerted the military services to the recall when an investigation revealed underprocessing in some lots.

The recall includes all species of salmon under all brand labels. Recalled salmon can be identified by the two-line code located on the can end. Recalled cans have digits 082 as the first digits of the top line of the code. The remaining digits in the top code are product and specie identifiers.

Recalled salmon should be returned to the grocer for replacement. Reese commissary Grogro Manager Diana Barnard indicated that the base commissary does not carry that brand.

Air Base Group cookout set

The 64th Air Base Group will sponsor a hamburger and hot dog cookout Wednesday at Founders Park from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Plates will include one hamburger or two hot dogs with beans, chips and cole slaw. Tickets are $1.50 in advance and $1.75 on the day of the cookout. For tickets contact any group unit advisory council member or the ABG orderly room.

Air show comes to Plainview

The 15th Annual Plainview Air Show will be held Sept. 11 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Hale County Airport in Plainview, Texas. Admission is $3 for adults, $1 for children.

NCOA meeting scheduled for Tuesday

The Lubbock area members of the NCO Association will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the NCOA Service Center, 2006 4th Street, downtown Lubbock. The meeting is being called to seek volunteers for NCOA committees, but for more information contact SSgt. Rick Rook or Jim Johnson at 747-5585. Spouses and children are welcome to attend the meeting too.

Volunteers for ASTRA should hurry

Fiscal 1985 Air Staff Training Program applicants have until Nov. 1 to enter their names for consideration by the Central Selection Board which meets in December.

Eligible officers volunteering for an ASTRA assignment should submit a completed Air Force Form 90 to CBPO indicating ASTRA volunteer status in block 38. To be eligible, officers must have TAFCS in 1978 or 1979; have one year time on station as of Dec. 31, 1983; have completed Squadron Officers School as basic preparation for air staff training; if rated, be able to complete at least three years rated experience since completion of navigator or pilot training by Oct. 1, 1984; if previously in AFIT, be able to complete the required three-year directed duty assignment before Oct. 1, 1984; and, have an outstanding performance record in both current and past job positions.

Officers who think they may want to apply can call Ext. 3361 at the Reese CBPO for specific details.

Fall semester registration begins

South Plains College, Wayland Baptist University and Houston Baptist University will begin their fall registrations later this month. Odessa College will offer two EMT courses beginning in mid-September, but for Odessa College information contact MSgt. Dan Heckler at Ext. 3235. For all other institution registrations contact the Reese Education Office at ext. 3634.

PTO says "Thanks"

The Reese Elementary School Parent-Teacher Organization expressed their thanks recently to all who participated in the fix-up, clean-up day at the school Aug. 6.

FMS sets flea market

The 64th Field Maintenance Squadron will sponsor a flea market from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday in the Reese Federal Credit Union parking lot. Spaces are available at $3 each. For more information contact Amn. Jose Lares at Ext. 3451 or Sgt. Jeanette Barnett at Ext. 3633.

UPT sets field day

The first annual Reese Undergraduate Pilot Training Field Day will pit students from throughout UPT against each other during the day-long sporting events scheduled Aug. 27. Field day events will begin at 9 a.m. at the track near Building 955.

Individual efforts will be rewarded with prizes and the winning class will earn a trophy. Refreshments will be available all day; and family and friends of the competing students are urged to come out and support their team.

For more information about the field day contact Capt. William Boyington at Ext. 3639 or 1st Lt. Michael Blemker at Ext. 3449.

Turkish Ambassador visits

Ambassador Sukru Elekdag (Shoo-kru E-lek-dah) from Turkey will visit Lubbock Sept. 13 and 14.

A career diplomat since 1951, Ambassador Elekdag became his nation's ambassador to the U.S. in July 1979. During his visit he will make some speeches, if you would like to attend one of the speeches contact Maj. William Wrench at Ext. 3518 or Karen Wrench at 797-0720, for free tickets and details on the ambassador's speaking engagements.

Frenship registration Aug. 26, not Aug. 25

Registration for students in the Frenship School District (all schools) will take place Aug. 26, not Aug. 25 (next Thursday) as reported in last week's Roundup. Registration times are the same: from 8:30 to 11 a.m. at the school the student will attend.

Class will begin Aug. 30.

Child care convenient to you

The Reese Child Care Center is working hard to make quality child care available to all of its patrons. They provide a weekly service, drop in and reservation services too.

The weekly service provides care to your children from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday; drop in and reservation services from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, 6 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday nights, and 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Lowry nips Randolph ATC fast-pitch tourney

(ATCNS)—Host Lowry AFB, Colo., took it to the wire with Randolph AFB, Texas, at the 1983 Air Training Command fast-pitch softball tournament held Aug. 2-4.

Lowry defeated Randolph, 11-10, in the seventh and deciding game to take their second consecutive fast-pitch crown. Lowry scored six runs in the first inning, three in the second and two more in the fifth for the win.

Western District representative Lowry finished on top with a 4-1 record, with Central District representative Randolph taking second at 3-2 and winless Eastern District representative Columbus winding up 0-4.

In the opening game, Lowry bombed Columbus, 15-2, behind Jake Sanders' three-hit pitching. Randolph handed Lowry their only loss, 8-7, in game three by jumping off to a quick 6-0 lead in the first inning.

Lowry avenged that loss in game five with an 11-4 win over Randolph to pave the way for the championship game.

In other games, Randolph beat Columbus, 6-4 and 11-6, and Lowry shut out Columbus, 10-0.

Sports in brief

Football officials needed for 1983 season

The Lubbock Football Officials Association is looking for experienced and semi-experienced football officials to referee local high school, junior high school and Youth Football League games this fall. If you are interested contact Bill Ledbetter, 3509 35th Street, Lubbock, Texas 79413, or (806) 799-1725, before Tuesday.

Gym staff seeks men and women b-ball coaches

Today is the deadline for getting your data together and submitting a resume to the gym for one of the men's or women's basketball coaching positions. Those applying for the positions should contact SSgts. Robert Allen or Gary Grant at the gym office or call Ext. 3207.

Racquetball qualifying tourney set

Reese racquetball players have until Aug. 31 to sign up for the Reese racquetball qualifying tournament and a chance at Air Training Command racquetball honors. Sign up sheets are available at the gym.

The ATC tournament will be played in early October at Lackland AFB, Texas. Reese will be represented by the top two players in the Men's Open Division, the Junior Vets Division (35-44), the Seniors Division (45 and over), and the Women's Division.

Re-up evaluations tightened to include whole enlisted force

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)—A re-enlistment quality check now used by commanders for only certain enlisted members will be expanded this fall to include all the enlisted force.

The selective re-enlistment program is being changed to bring all enlisted members under close evaluation at re-enlistment time. Only first-term enlisted members and careerists with 19 or more years service are evaluated under the program now. The change will go into effect when the revised Volume One of Air Force Regulation 35-16 is published later this year. Air Force personnel officials expect the revised volume to be in the field the first quarter of fiscal 1984.

Under the program change, commanders will evaluate re-enlistment-eligible members 13 months before their re-enlistment date. Commanders will then decide to permit or deny re-enlistment based on the person's demonstrated career potential, and other factors.

The program is another quality force measure for the commander, but is not intended as a replacement for disciplinary action or administrative discharge.

Evaluating members 13 months before the end of their enlistment will give them the opportunity to improve their performance or make other plans for the future. Enlisted members could be advised of their re-enlistment opportunities up to a full year before the end of their enlistment.

An added feature of the program is the expanded appeals process. Appeal procedures will remain unchanged for first-termers and careerists with 19 or more years of service. If denied re-enlistment, they can appeal to the base commander.

New channels of appeal have been established for the "middle group"—second term to 19 years service.

Second term and career members with less than 16 years service can appeal to the major command director of personnel if denied re-enlistment.

Career enlisted members with 16 to 19 years' service can appeal to the Secretary of the Air Force Personnel Council.
