64FTW command due for change

Gen. Andrew P. Iosue, commander of the Air Training Command, announced Wednesday morning that Col. John R. Hullender will replace Col. Richard E. Hearne the commander of the 64th Flying Training Wing.

Colonel Hearne has been selected to begin new duties as the chief of the Air Training Command's Inspector General Team based at ATC headquarters at Randolph AFB, San Antonio, Texas.

Colonel Hullender has been assigned to Reese as the 64th Air Base Group commander since August 20, 1982, when he arrived from duties at the Pentagon. Since then, he has worked closely with Colonel Hearne, the man he will succeed, as one of his principal deputies.

When he assumes command, Colonel Hullender will become the twentieth man to command Reese since the base was activated as an Air Force base in 1949. Like his predecessor, Colonel Hullender will move to the commander's slot at Reese through the Air Base Group commanders position.

Colonel Hearne arrived at Reese to take over command of the 64th Air Base Group on February 28, 1980. On August 9, 1982, he replaced Monte D. Montgomery at Reese's 64th Flying Training Wing commander.

During the time of Colonel Hearne's leadership, Reese has become recognized as the Air Training Command's top pilot training wing by achieving successively better ratings on flying training, maintenance and administrative inspections and by winning Air Force and ATC recognition for individuals and units on 25 occasions.

The highest of all awards, the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award, was presented to Reese's personnel by General Iosue on Oct. 7, 1983. That award recognized Reese's "sustained superior accomplishment of the wing's flying training mission from April 30, 1981, through April 29, 1983." The award itself was unique in that all of Reese's subordinate units were recognized in the award as contributing to the accomplishment of the wing mission.

Colonel Hullender will be replaced as the 64th Air Base Group commander by Col.

Ellwood Parke Hinman, who will move to Reese from the position of commander of the 3504th Air Force Recruiting Group headquarters at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Colonel Hullender is a native of Ringgold, Georgia. He entered the Air Force in August 1959 and has served in a wide variety of assignments with the Strategic and Tactical Air Commands, and more recently with the ATC, where he has served as a T-37 squadron operations officer and T-38 squadron commander before arriving at Reese. Colonel Hullender is triple rated as a command pilot, navigator, and electronic warfare officer with a total of more than 6,000 hours of flying time.

Colonel Hullender is married to the former Sandra Thuston of Davenport, Iowa. They have two sons, Michael Robert, 20, a South Plains College student, and Gregory Lee, 19, a student at Texas Tech University. The family resides in Reese Village.

The change of command ceremony will take place before the end of November, but a definite date has not been set.

Students finish training, graduate

Forty-nine Air Force officers will become fullfledged Air Force pilots in an undergraduate pilot training graduation ceremony here today.

The graduates of Class 84-01 will receive their wings and awards from Maj. Gen. James P. Smothermon, vice commander of Air Training Command, at Randolph AFB, Texas, and Col. Richard E. Hearne, wing commander.

With the award of their silver wings, the graduates receive their "aeronautical pilot" rating.

The ceremony marks the end of nearly a year of intense classroom and hands-on training for the students, who were selected for pilot training by a board of senior Air Force officers. Following graduation, the new pilots will report to their individual bases around the world, the sites depending on the kinds of aircraft they'll be flying:

fighter, bomber, cargo plane, refueler or trainer. Eight of the students will, in fact, remain at Reese as instructor pilots for future classes.

Class 84-01 began its training here in early November 1982 after learning basic flying skills in small, propeller-driven airplanes at Hondo Airfield, near San Antonio; the Air Force Academy, at Colorado Springs, Colo.; or through the Reserve Officers' Corps program at their universities.

Beginning with parachute training and, after becoming familiar with the physiological effects of high-powered jet flight through the use of the physiological training unit here, the students begin their actual flight training in the subsonic T-37 jet trainer. Seventy-five hours later, the class moved on to the final phase of training: 100 flying hours in the supersonic T-38 Talon, capable of Mach 1.2

speeds (more than 800 mph) and altitudes in excess of 50,000 feet.

Besides the 175 hours of flying time, the students also study such academic subjects as flight planning, weather, aerospace physiology, aircraft systems operation, accident prevention and instrument procedures.

Instructor pilots were assigned to the class at a ratio of about one instructor for every three students.

After graduation ceremonies, the 64th Student Squadron — administrative "home" for the students for the past year — will treat parents of the graduates to a tour of the educational facilities and other areas of the base, followed later in the evening by a dinner dance at the officers' club. (Graduates named on page 5).

Easy money buys trouble

(AFOSINS) — Want to make a little extra money on your next TDY? Don't, that kind of cash is perfect for buying you a lot of trouble.

Air Force members have devised some pretty unique ways to make money while TDY. Since the Air Force Office of Special Investigations is always looking for ways to help the Air Force reduce travel expenses, it invited a number of these "financial wizards" to explain their methods. Admittedly, some were a little reluctant at first, but their stories came out in the end and their commanders insured that each received "good value" for the money they "earned."

A good example is a colonel who was sentenced to confinement at hard labor for one year, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and dismissal from the Air Force after pleading guilty to charges of fraud, larceny and improper behavior.

The colonel had earned more than $30,000 from false travel voucher claims. It is estimated that he will lose more than $590,000 in retirement pay. This does not include cost of living increases he would have received during the course of his retirement.

It affects you too because for every dollar someone steals from the Air Force it costs you too. Think about it. If the Air Force loses a dollar, taken from you in taxes, it must replace it by getting another dollar from you.

What can you do about it? We make it easy for you with three different ways to report your suspicions. They are:

- The Air Force Fraud, Waste and Abuse Hotline, Autovon 227-1061, which operates 24 hours a day. If you use the hotline you don't need to use your name if you don't want to.

- Contact AFOSI Det. 1117 at Reese, Ext. 3414. Any agent will be glad to take your information. If you wish, your name will not be revealed to anyone without your permission.

- Write to AF/IGO, Pentagon, Room 5D286, Washington, D.C. 20330. If you don't want your name to be revealed you can leave the letter unsigned or request that your name not be used and your wishes will be respected.

The Inspector General Lt. Gen. Robert W. Bazeley guarantees that your suspicions will be taken seriously and thoroughly investigated by specialists trained to investigate and uncover fraud in the Air Force.

Medical boss stresses clinic uses

by Col. Thomas F. Sheffer
hospital commander

I want to take this opportunity to thank each and every person who has been so helpful to

Colonel Sheffer

me while I was getting "settled in" at Reese AFB. Believe me, I have been impressed with what I have seen and with the fine people with whom I am working.

Some recent changes have occurred at the hospital, not because of my recent arrival, that should greatly enhance the availability of appointments in the outpatient clinics. Basically, it will be known as the Family Practice Clinic (a concept of teams whereby a physician and a physician assistant will be taking care of specified groups of patients). The team concept will provide a much better continuity of care. I would also like to stress that this new program was implemented Oct. 1 and we have been pleased with the results during the first three weeks. In order to ensure maximum care and utilization of the appointments available, it will require patient cooperation, especially in the area of calling to cancel and/or to reschedule appointments. Failing to show creates a wasted appointment. We are averaging about 20 wasted appointments per month, which would equate to about 40 lost mandays a year. Please be considerate enough to cancel your appointment.

Another area of concern is the improper use of the emergency room. We are anxious that all people receive timely and proper health care but beneficiaries should also realize that the emergency room is not a 24 hour walk-in clinic. Each case will be screened and if it is deemed as not an emergency and if open appointments are available in the clinic, one will be secured for you to be seen in the appropriate clinic - if none are available, you will be seen in the emergency room if no emergency cases are being handled at that moment.

The entire hospital staff is anxious to provide the very best medical care possible and in a timely fashion. In an effort to do this it is necessary to receive input from you, our patients. If you feel that you have a suggestion that will enable us to provide better and more timely health care, we would solicit your comments. If you think you have received good care, we are anxious to hear about that too.

With the holiday season fast approaching, I want to take this opportunity to urge you to be careful in all of your activities - safety first means no accidents! It is my desire that we all will have a safe and happy holiday season.

What's it take to be a warrior?

by Stephen H. Morochnik
Chief, Education and Services Division
Air University

MAXWELL AFB, Ala. (ATCNS) — Are warriors led or managed? Is the NCO sitting on front of a computer console or the one on the flightline a leader, technician, specialist or manager?

I submit that they are all of the above and more. Let me provide an example.

In the winter of 1961-1962, the Rhine River in West Germany had frozen over. The East Germans were busy building a wall around Berlin. And the thought of President Kennedy's "eyeball to eyeball" confrontation with Premier Krushchev over the Cuban missiles was an extremely frightening and recent memory.

Out on the frozen Ramstein AB flightline, our mechanics were doing their best to keep the F-102s ready for instantaneous takeoff. Three aircraft were on alert, and the word was we would soon have six more in the same status — an horrendously difficult undertaking considering the size of our squadron and the relatively small number of pilots and mechanics assigned for duty.

I remember watching, with amazement and undisguised admiration, as young staff sergeants pulled off their gloves to work on the aircrafts' exterior. The metal was so cold the skin on their fingers stuck to the plane.

The air was so cold, their hands didn't bleed at first. They bled when the mechanics came inside to write their aircraft status reports.

Every plane was kept in readiness condition, while the number in alert status began to increase.

Were these young sergeants managers? Yes indeed. They managed the physical condition of their complex weapon system, the F-102.

Were they technicians? Their work was successful in keeping all our aircraft combat-ready.

Were they leaders? Lower grade airmen who might have been tempted to complain about the terrible line conditions grew silent with admiration and quietly joined their NCOs in working on the aircraft.

Were these sergeants warriors? Are they to be belittled, because no one actually shot at them?

Today's airmen are no less dedicated than their predecessors of twenty years ago. They are probably better trained and better educated. With this training and education now available and structured through the Community College of the Air Force, they are undoubtedly more knowledgeable than my enlisted friends and colleagues of the early 1960s.

Jet engines and rocket missiles did not subtract from the warrior qualities of the 1960s airman. "High tech" will not detract from the ability, dedication, and motivation of today's warrior airman.

CARE Line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. Richard E. Hearne, 64th Flying Training Wing commander. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers are urged to use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line Ext. 3273.

WE RECENTLY RECEIVED a phone call from an anonymous caller concerned about Operation Petticoat. He wanted to know why, with all the defense cuts and pay freezes we would "waste" gas and time "flying the pilots' wives around."

The Operation Petticoat program is important to the Air Force, Air Training Command, and all of our personnel. The program was first developed in 1980 with Headquarters ATC approval. It was initiated during an era of severe retention problems and was intended to favorably influence the spouses' attitudes toward their husbands' Air Force duties. It was, and still is, a program designed to give the wives an opportunity to observe a portion of the flying mission first-hand. The program also demonstrates the Air Force's concern toward the spouses' crucial influence on a service member's day-to-day life and career decisions.

I would especially like to emphasize here that it is only an orientation taxi ride and not a flight. Before the taxi ride, the wives attended briefings explaining the program, safety procedures, egress and cockpit warnings, and the wear of flight suits, ear protection, parachutes and helmets. Only after all this were they ready to taxi.

The cost involved in such a program is minimal when we consider the loss of even one trained pilot through a decision to separate from the Air Force. The Air Force spends $324,518 to train one rated pilot and its costs between $167,666 a $276,281 to train an instructor, depending on which aircraft he or she teaches in. It is our responsibility to promote awareness of Air Force members' daily duties to their spouses and, in effect, help improve morale of all Air Force personnel and their families. This is only one of several programs designed to familiarize families with what their sponsors do in the Air Force.

At this point I would also like to commend all individuals involved in Operation Petticoat. Without the support of maintenance, supply, the tower, and many other personnel, this important program could not be conducted.

AN ANONYMOUS CALLER said that air conditioners in the enlisted housing units had been cut off since October 7 while the officers' units were still running. The fact is that all air conditioners in the housing area were cut off remotely during the first week of October as a result of the cooler temperatures. If any individual unit has operated continuously since that time, it is apparently because the cut-off mechanism for that unit has malfunctioned. If a malfunction exists due to an equipment breakdown, the situation has been or will be remedied. Please be assured that we do not favor one area of the village over another.

A CALLER ASKED WHY there are no street lights in the carport areas of base housing. She was concerned about vandalism and her own personal safety during nighttime hours in the carport areas. As a result of her call, the electrical engineering section of civil engineering will study the feasibility of replacing the energy inefficient incandescent bulbs in the carports with energy efficient street lights that would light the entire area. Thank you for your call. We are always glad to look into any area that could be made safer while saving money and energy at the same time.

ANOTHER SAFETY CONSCIOUS CALLER asked about the possibility of lighting the playground area of the child care center.

Installation of lights is part of the complete renovation planned for the child care center. New playground equipment and material for a covered patio, as well as the lights, are on order. Work will be scheduled as soon as the material is received.

A DORMITORY RESIDENT ASKED about the possibility of having cable television access available in the dorms. Civil engineering personnel are studying the possibility of installing cable television in all the dorms, so residents will have the option of purchasing the service. We hope for positive results.

A YOUNG MEMBER OF OUR REESE FAMILY called to remind all of us that a little planning could curtail disaster when we are faced with an emergency. She advised that a list of emergency numbers should be placed near the telephone for quick reference. While we all have emergency numbers at hand in our offices and work centers, some people may not have those numbers listed at home. On-base residents may call the following numbers to report emergencies: fire, 885-3458; ambulance, 885-3294; and security police, 885-3400. Our young caller also complimented the base telephone operator on her courtesy in relaying the correct information for her emergency telephone list.

I would like to add my thanks to that unnamed telephone operator and also pass on compliments to other Reese personnel for their efficiency and helpful attitudes. A1C John Renninger of the separations section at the consolidated base personnel office, and Earl Bush and Donna Mitchell of the base exchange garage were complimented by customers for their professional and courteous service. Reese people are known for going the extra mile and it is always a pleasure to hear about people who care enough to do their best.

ANOTHER CALLER ASKED WHY the 54th Flying Training Squadron appears to have a number of reserved parking spaces in the parking lot serving the unit. Traffic safety and the tower. Parking spaces in this area were, for years, improperly marked and not in accordance with governing directives. Spaces in that area are now marked in accordance with Air Force Regulation 18-3, which has resulted in the 54th, a much larger organization than the tower or traffic safety, getting more reserved parking spaces.

IT IS ALWAYS A PLEASURE to replay a compliment to people who work on Reese. A caller praised the efficiency and courtesy displayed by Dan Doggett, a base housing quality assurance evaluator, and Jim Gilbert, housing maintenance employee. Our quality assurance evaluators and contractor employees often exert extra effort to satisfy Reese Village occupants and seldom receive recognition or words of appreciation. Thank you for your call giving these employees some well-deserved praise.

The Gold Quill Award is presented to those individuals who give outstanding support to the public affairs program of the Air Force Communications Command.

Sergeant Pike has won the annual award once before in 1981. The award, however, is the first for Sergeant Hall.

With their combined efforts Sergeants Pike and Hall earned the award for the second and third quarter of this year.

Chainsaws

DALLAS—Army and Air Force Exchange Service (AAFES) officials here have announced their cooperation in a voluntary recall of Homelite Chainsaw Model 330, lot numbers 4E283 through 4E289. According to the manufacturer, a possibly defective flywheel rotor may disintegrate due to a casting problem. The chainsaw, which sold in AAFES exchanges worldwide for $249.95, was placed on sale in late October and only 41 potentially defective units have been sold. Any customer who purchased a Model 330 Homelite Chainsaw after October 20 should check the lot number located on the end of the shipping box or on a tag at the rear of the saw under the pistol-grip handle. Any saw with a lot code 4E283 through 4E289 should be returned to the nearest exchange for replacement or refund.

Food basket program starts

The chapel will sponsor a holiday pantry food roundup to provide food baskets to less fortunate Air Force families during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Those wishing to give food or money to the roundup can do so through their respective units, or come directly to the chapel. Those giving food for the Thanksgiving Day food baskets should have the food to the chapel by Nov. 21. Food for the Christmas Day baskets should be at the chapel by Dec. 19.

What kind of food to give: canned fruit, vegetables, baby food, juices, soup, peanut butter, jellies, powdered milk, sugar, flour, cereal, dried beans, tuna, and any other food that will remain fresh and good until it is ready to be eaten.

Collection drive underway

The Community Services Council will sponsor a benefit collection drive for Women's Protective Services for the next few weeks. The services need baby clothing, disposable diapers and personal hygiene items. There are donations boxes located at Social Actions (Building 33), the hospital (Bldg. 1300), at base supply (Bldg. 250), the security police station (Bldg. 500), the simulator building (Bldg. 930), wing headquarters (Bldg. 800), and at the CBPO (Bldg. T-1).

For more information on the protective services or the drive contact Capt. Gayle I. Brodale at Ext. 3930.

AAFES announces holiday hours

In observance of Veterans Day Reese Exchange shops will be open for the following hours: main store, Talon Inn and Shoppette, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.; service station and Military Clothing, closed.

Library offers cookbooks

Tired of the whole turkey subject? Try something different.

The library is featuring cookbooks during November. Cooks who plan ahead can avoid the holiday blahs with our diversity of cookbooks. There are books on chocolate, Texas cooking, microwave cooking, blender cooking and ethnic cooking. Books by the great chefs like Irma Rombauer, Julia Child and Craig Claiborne are featured. Those more conservative cooks can check out nutrition books, including one for the new mother and low calorie desserts.

Can't find the Library? It's in Building 15, across from the theater parking lot, on the way from the flight line to the dining hall or the exchange.

The library will close for Veteran's Day, Nov. 11, and Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24.

Protect yourself

In order to provide security protection at the recreational vehicle parking lot, all slots must be registered with the MWR Supply, Ext. 3815. Personnel that have items in lot one, slot numbers three, 10, 20, 27, 34, 38, and two, slot numbers 17 and 21 must register by Nov. 15 or the items there will be reported to the security police as abandoned vehicles.

WAPS; a military formation

Individuals periodically report for WAPS testing in civilian clothing or without their identification cards. WAPS testing is a military formation and individuals not in uniform or without an identification card will not be allowed to test. The result, that individual becomes ineligible for promotion for that cycle. All WAPS testing is conducted in the testing room in CBPO.

Reese residents and employees are being asked to help the Windmill Chapter of the Non-commissioned Officers Association raise funds for the Lubbock Special Olympic Program.

NCOA is the official sponsor for the program and now needs to raise $1,200 before Dec. 20. The donations will send eight special olympians to the Special Olympics Winter Games in New Mexico this January.

NCOA members will kickoff the fund raiser Saturday at noon in the pagotta between the main exchange and commissary. Refreshments will be available. NCOA members will be on hand to receive donations and talk about this special local project.

Those unable to make it to Reese Saturday can leave a donation at any of the locally participating merchant stores or during the week at the Mathis Recreation Center and both the Officers' and Enlisted Open Mess.

Special Olympics is a non-profit charitable organization which depends on contributions for their year round programs for handicapped and retarded individuals. The Lubbock chapter provides programs, activities and medical equipment, counseling and assistance to the individuals and their families.

ATC amends AFR 35-10

The covers do not fit the small on-base directory, but they do fit on the Lubbock directories. To get one stop by Building 80, Room 307.

Preschool hearing test

The Lubbock Speech, Language and Hearing Center will conduct hearing tests for all preschoolers at the Child Care Center Annex Preschool Tuesday and Wednesday. Cost is $4 per test and children must be three and older. Children to be tested will need their parental permission slips signed before the test. For details on the permission slips and the testing contact the child care center at Ext. 3541.

Hair make-up topic for OWC

The officers' wives' club will have a "Holiday Make Over" Thursday during the brunch sponsored by the 35th wives.

The make over will include hairstyle ideas from Mr. Toms and holiday fashions by Diana's Doll House.

The brunch begins at 10:30 a.m. The cost is $4.50 per person and reservations are required. Permanent reservations will be honored. To make reservations call any of the following telephone numbers: 794-5687, 794-5487, 799-7181, or 797-2642.

CHAMPUS claims office moves

A new CHAMPUS claims processor for dental claims related to medical conditions covered by CHAMPUS took over Oct. 1.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield of South Carolina took over the processing of claims for medically related dental work from Blue Shield of California. The California firm will process claims it has already received through the end of October. Any claims received after Sept. 30, 1983, are being forwarded to Blue Cross-Blue Shield of South Carolina for processing.

It's important to remember that CHAMPUS does not share the cost of dental care that's routine, preventive, restorative or prosthodontic (replacement of missing teeth, the making of "bridges", etc.). The only time dental work is covered by CHAMPUS is when it's medically necessary in the treatment or control of a medical condition that is cost-shared by CHAMPUS.

In order to be cost-shared by CHAMPUS, medically related dental claims require

Last week's Project Warrior fighter was the Dutch TF 104G correctly identified by Sgt. Steve Hisel, 2nd Lt. Glenn Lang, SSgt. Joel Dickinson, Amn. Mike Neff, Capt. Bob Faber, 1st Lt. # ATC employee ideas save on tax spending (ATCNS) — Good ideas have meant big bucks for a number of employees at ATC bases. In fact, three of them took home more than $4,000 each for ideas they submitted through the Air Force Suggestion Program during fiscal year 1983.

All totaled, ATC suggesters were awarded $235,931 for ideas the Air Force adopted last year.

The biggest money winner was MSgt. William A. Shaver, a quality control inspector with 2052nd Communications Squadron, Keesler AFB, Miss.

Sergeant Shaver earned $5,981 for suggesting that two existing types of communicators equipment be modified and sent to Strategic Air Command missile sites. The suggestion eliminated the need to buy new equipment.

Another big money winner was Otha Z. Smith, an aircraft pneudraulics systems foreman assigned to the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, Reese. He received a cash award of $5,413.

Smith suggested that the trunnion assembly in the nose landing gear of the T-37 aircraft be repaired rather than condemned when it becomes worn. First year savings alone were estimated at nearly $450,000.

Shirley Butler, an accounting technician assigned to the 3380th ABG's food services division, suggested that operating hours at two base dining facilities be reduced due to low usage.

Her suggestion resulted in contract savings of nearly $250,000 and earned her $4,449.

IPs represent Reese, AF

David Bernacki and Robert O'Brian, both 54th Flying Training Squadron instructor pilots, represented Reese and the Air Force at the 1983 Interservice Racquetball Championships at Little Creek Naval Air Station, Va., Oct. 17-21.

Bernacki and O'Brian walked away with first place in the men's open doubles competition. "The efforts of six other team members helped Air Force capture the 1983 title. It's the third consecutive year," according to Air Force officials.

Bernacki and O'Brian's road to victory began at the Reese tournament. Bernacki took first place and O'Brian second.

Both went to the Region III Tournament at Lackland AFB, Texas. O'Brian earned second place.

'... very tough competition ...'

During the All Air Force tournament Bernacki placed second in the All Air Force men's open singles. He and teammate O'Brian played their way into first in the men's open doubles.

"I felt good about winning; knowing that those I had played against were considered very tough competition," Bernacki said.

While at the All Air Force competition at Langley AFB, Va., Bernacki and O'Brian were chosen, with six others, to represent the Air Force in the interservice competition.

In the interservice tournament the Air Force prevailed and swept the competition. Bernacki took second place in the men's open singles. He and O'Brian walked away with first in the men's open doubles.

NOW IN OUR SHOWROOM: THE VOLVO THAT TOOK TEN YEARS TO DELIVER.

When Volvo set out to build a car for the '80s, it was 1972. Now, ten years later, the '760 GLE is here... right on schedule.

And one glance will confirm that it's not the Volvo whose looks you've grown accustomed to. The lines are rakish, less Volvo-ish. The aerodynamic design reduces drag to a point that's lower than the Porsche 928's. While the lower belt-line increases window area by 25%.

This all-new Volvo is more comfortable than our previous sedans. There's more room inside for legs, hips and heads. And almost 10% more room in back for luggage. An automatic climate control completely changes the air five times a minute when the car's standing still. A new air-conditioning system has kept the interior temperature at 63°F after an hour's drive through a 104°F oven.

Handling is even more precise with a unique new rear suspension system invented and patent pending by Volvo. It's called Constant Track and it keeps the rear drive wheels in constant alignment for more predictable handling, especially on curves and slippery surfaces. Constant Track also reduces road shock and vibration transmitted to the body, smoothing the road for passengers up front.

The Volvo '760 GLE is available with your choice of engines: gas or the turbo-diesel. And we invite you to test one soon. It's only after you examine it and drive it that you can appreciate why Volvo took so long to produce the '760 GLE. They weren't out to build a car-of-the-year. Their goal was a Volvo-of-the-decade.

Eleven agencies issue 'no-fee' passports

(AFSINC) — Hardships experienced by Air Force members and their families due to the lengthy processing time needed for dependent "no-fee" passports ended this summer.

Eleven regional passport agencies, located in major cities nationwide, now share processing of Air Force family "no-fee" passports; a job earlier held by a single office in Washington, D.C.

The additional agencies are expected to cut processing time from 60-90 days to 14-28 days. Approximately 35,000 passports are needed each year for accompanied PCS moves overseas.

Faster processing will prevent family hardships caused by missed port calls and other inconveniences due to lengthy processing for passports. In some instances, members have had to leave for an overseas assignment without their families and send for them after passports arrived.

Regional offices will process family "no-fee" passports not requiring visas. Passports needing visas will continue to be processed solely by the Washington office. However, only about 5 percent of all family "no-fee" passports require visas.

Although they will still be handled by a single agency, processing time is expected to be reduced for passports needing visas because of the reduced workload. In addition, processing time for mobility passports, also processed solely in Washington, is expected to be reduced.
