Cuba Reverses Policy... Plane Sent To Get Hijackers

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS
VOL. 32 NO. 119 SNYDER, TEXAS (79549) THU., SEPT. 18, 1980 2 SECTIONS 18 PAGES 20c

MIAMI (AP) The Castro government said today that two hijackers would be returned to the United States for prosecution, and the U.S. government promptly dispatched a plane to Havana to bring them back.

It is the first time in the 20-year history of United States-to-Cuba hijackings that the Cuban government has returned hijackers to face immediate prosecution in this country.

Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Dennis Feldman said a Lockheed Jetstar carrying two pilots, a flight technician and an FAA sky marshal left Washington this morning. It was scheduled to arrive in Havana this afternoon after a stop in Atlanta to pick up two more sky marshals and a U.S. marshal.

The hijackers would then be flown to Columbia, S.C., to be arrested in the hijacking early Wednesday of a Delta Air Lines flight carrying 111 people from Atlanta to Columbia.

The hijackers, who said they had been living in New York for four months, "wanted to go back home to their families," said Air Force Staff Sgt. Frank Edwards, who acted as an interpreter for the Cubans.

The hijackers said they "were tired of New York," Edwards said.

"They also said they didn't care about the consequences."

The Delta flight was commandeered by two men who spilled a liquid on a flight attendant and the floor and threatened to ignite what they said was gasoline. The jet refueled in Columbia and flew to Havana, where Cuban authorities handcuffed the hijackers and sent the Boeing 727 back to the United States.

Thursday update

Abortion Money Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) Women on welfare now face the reality of a Supreme Court ruling that blocks Medicaid money for most abortions as the federal funds begin to disappear - perhaps today.

Soviets To Launch Cuban

MOSCOW (AP) The Soviet Union is expected to send a Cuban cosmonaut, possibly a black, into space at "any moment" to visit two Soviets orbiting the earth in a space laboratory, Cuban sources said today.

Somoza's Death Celebrated

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) "Like a sudden holiday," thousands of Nicaraguans jammed the streets of Managua, dancing, singing and celebrating the bold and bloody assassination of Anastasio Somoza, the ousted ruler who dreamed of restoring his grip on this Central American nation.

Ten planes have been hijacked to Cuba since Aug. 10. Most have been blamed on disenfranchised refugees.

Quoting the newspaper Granma, the official organ of the Cuban Communist Party, Havana radio said today the return would be a "drastic measure" needed to show that "no one can play with the word and the honor of the Cuban revolution."

Granma announced a get-tough policy with hijackers two days ago. Following 87 aircraft diversions between 1961 and 1973, the U.S. and Cuba signed an anti-hijacking agreement. But neither nation ever forced the return of anyone involved in the few hijackings that occurred during the 50 months the accord was in effect.

Havana radio said in a broadcast on Monday that the 120,000 Cubans who took boats to the United States in the "Freedom Flotilla" made "one-way trips" and "could not return. It said any who resorted to hijackings to return would be severely punished in Cuba or even sent back to the United States.

The Delta Air Lines plane was en route from Atlanta to Columbia, S.C., with 111 people aboard on Wednesday when it was commandeered.

The two Cubans told a passenger that they hijacked the plane because their new life in New York was wearing them down and they wanted to return home no matter what the consequences.

Ask Us

Q-How can principals of elementary schools enroll their own children in the school where they are the administrator and they do not live in the same district, but we are checked to see that we are in the right district?
A-There is one situation this fall in which an elementary principal has a child enrolled in his school but does not live in that attendance zone, says Supt. Bill J. Hood. It happened when a kindergarten class in their zone of residence was over-loaded and several parents were asked to transfer pupils so that it would not be necessary to hire an additional teacher. The principal was one of several who agreed to transfer his child.

Agencies Moving To Set Tax Rates

Taxing entities in Scurry County are now in the process of fulfilling requirements for setting tax rates for 1980. Scurry County Commissioners and Snyder City Councilmen have held their initial sessions and voted on proposed rates. Public hearings are required in cases where the total levy will exceed that of last year by more than three percent, regardless of whether rates are lowered and regardless of whether individual tax bills are changed.

Scurry County has announced intentions to set a rate of 14.7 cents per $100 valuation, compared to a rate of 69 cents last year. Despite the sharp decrease in rates, however, the county will be required to go through the entire process of hearings and additional meetings because the total levy this year will exceed that of last year by more than three percent.

The City of Snyder's proposed rate is 38 cents, compared to $1.85, yet it also must go through the full process because its total levy will be some 5 1/2 percent more than last year. Most of the increase in total levy this year, especially for the county, stems from the increased value of oil.

However, the overall situation is somewhat clouded by the fact that all entities this year will levy taxes on the basis of 100 percent of assessed valuation. Moreover, values have been increased in many cases to comply with new state requirements that they approximate current market values.

Still to announce proposed tax rates are school districts in the county and the Scurry County Junior College District.

Exposition Opens Today... Fluvanna Has Winning Booth At Scurry Fair

First judging results were announced and the 1980 Scurry County Fair opened its doors to the public at noon today at the Scurry County Coliseum.

In the first division for which judging was completed, Fluvanna's community booth took the grand champion's prize in competition among community and educational booths.

Placing second in the community booth class was Hermleigh, and third place went to Dunn.

In the senior agriculture booth judging, the Hermleigh Future Farmers of America placed first, Ira FFA was second and Snyder FFA was third.

Nugent Predicting Coal For Texans

AUSTIN (AP) Railroad Commissioner James Nugent offered the hazy prediction today that Texas - the nation's leading oil and gas producing state - may rely more on lignite than oil and gas in the year 2000 to produce electricity.

The SDN Column

Rhetoric of the 1980 presidential campaign is moving steadily toward a crest, which means that serious voters are taking it with more and more salt. To the uninitiated, we caution that it is mere rhetoric, and that they must search deeper to determine who really is the best man for the job. There are those, of course, who doubt that the best man is in the race, but we're stuck with the tickets.

Pep Rally Set Friday At SHS

A pep rally has been scheduled at 2:10 p.m. Friday, at Snyder High School as the Tigers prepare to open district football play Friday night at Sweetwater.

On the same subject, Reagan a few hours later said he had the solution to the problem. Just issue cards to all of the illegal aliens and make them legal. That would clear everything up.

This brought Texas Gov. Bill Clements to the forefront quickly to explain what Reagan "really meant."

What the Republican candidate meant to say, what they had agreed on when he was preparing his speech for Texas, said Clements, was that Mexican citizens in this country illegally be issued three-month work cards. This would permit them to come across the border and seek jobs without being classified as illegal aliens. Reagan apparently had missed the point in his briefing.

Does all of this sound childish and confusing? Just wait. You haven't seen and heard the best shots. There are more than six weeks of the campaign remaining before the general election.

Atheneum Club Studies Jewelry

Atheneum Study Club learned about jewelry during their meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Clinton Tuesday.

Mrs. Clinton served as guest speaker, showing and discussing various methods of jewelry making. She has been involved in jewelry making for approximately five years. Displaying several pins she designed and made herself, Mrs. Clinton told the club that there were three basic methods of making jewelry.

Casting is the process by which the piece is made out of wax, then burned out in a kiln with molten metal, including copper, brass, gold or silver, poured over the mold. There are no seams in cast jewelry.

The second method involves constructing the jewelry with various wires or sheet stocks of metals, then heat welding them together at the seams.

The third method is electroforming in which electrical currents are used with chemicals to form the metal onto an object such as a stone.

A short business meeting followed the meeting. Mrs. Dan Dillard served with Mrs. Clinton as hostess, while 13 members were present. Jerry Parker, Helen Mocks and Vera Baize were guests.

ACBL Games

Set For Friday

The Duplicate Bridge Club will host American Contract Bridge League (ACBL) charity games Friday at the Snyder Country Club. Proceeds from the games will go to the American Diabetes Association.

Mrs. Douglas Hill and Mrs. B.L. McKinnley were top winners in Friday's games of five tables of Howell movement. Mrs. A.L. Bethel was director.

Mrs. Roger Mize and Mrs. Ross Carroll were second, while Ann Davis and Mrs. Prentiss Bass were third. Mrs. Leland Harod and Mrs. Billy Nuff came in fourth.

Only three tables were played Sunday, with Mrs. Scott Casey director. Mrs. Mize and Mrs. Null took top honors, while Mrs. Merle Newton and Mrs. J.R. McCrary were second.

DAR Discusses National Theme

The Martin Preuitt Jr. Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met at the Martha Ann Woman's Club for a luncheon Tuesday. Mrs. J. Scott Casey, chapter regent, presided.

The 1980-81 national theme places emphasis on DAR's historical objective: "to perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved Independence." The administration theme is taken from I Corinthians 13:13: "So faith, hope, love abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love."

Ophelia Blackard, national defense chairman, reported that the national society has obtained the services of Major General Willis Crittenger Jr., who will serve on the staff as advisor and consultant on matters relating to national defense. The groups was reminded that national defense must come in the military, political and economic areas if the nation is to be preserved.

Hostesses were Mrs. W.B. Dennis, Mrs. H.F. Clark and Louise B. Thompson.

Members present included Mrs. Bernhard Bartels, Dorothy Brown of Gail; Mrs. John Boren; Mrs. Harry Ward; Mrs. David Strelecki; Mrs. Fred Davis and Mrs. Gene Dulaney.

Others were Mrs. Ivan Gartin; Mrs. Clyde Hall Jr.; Mrs. Leland Herod; Mrs. Douglas Hill; Mrs. Bernard Longbotham; Mrs. Frank Miller; Mrs. Joe T. Alexander and Mrs. Jervis H. Bullard; Mrs. Marshall Wilson was a guest.

BRIDGE

Pure Brobdingnagian play

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Seymour Deutch of Laredo, Tex., played a lot of bridge some 25 years ago. He started again recently. Here he is in action in the open pairs at the recent Texas Regionals in Austin.

At every table East opened with some sort of diamond preempt. South was not going to be shut out and bid his clubs, whereupon the bidding continued with East and West eventually playing six or seven diamonds doubled. They were down three if pushed to seven, only down two if allowed to play at six.

The bidding when Seymour sat South and World Champion Bobby Goldman North is shown in the box.

It wasn't any strain for Seymour to bid four clubs at his first turn. West raised to five diamonds and Bobby bid five diamonds as one of those general cue bids.

At this stage of the proceedings East made one of those silly doubles. It gave Seymour a chance to bid a five-heart bid Bobby was going to do.

Bobby passed the buck back to his partner by redoubling.

This gave Seymour a chance to use some real imagination. He knew that a five-heart bid could do no harm. Bobby would know that his partner would have bid it one round earlier with a decent heart suit. Bobby raised five hearts to six. East bid seven diamonds and Seymour made his second brilliant bid. He passed to tell Bobby that he could take the first diamond trick.

Bobby went on to the cinch seven for a real top score since no one else had found that heart fit.

Dear Abby

Only Little Boys Kiss and Tell

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old, fairly popular male who dates a variety of girlfriends.

Abby, how come every time I date a new girl, the guys ask me if the girl fools around and did I score with her? They don't even ask me if I like her, or how nice she is, etc.

What is a good comeback line to use when I'm asked these questions?

B.K. IN MINN.

DEAR B.K.: Don't dignify juvenile questions with any kind of "comeback." Little boys kiss and tell. Grown men do not report scoring or striking out.

DEAR ABBY: I was dating a guy I really liked for about six months. (I'll call him Marty.) He proposed a couple of times, but I'm 23 and not ready for marriage yet. We had some really good times together.

The problem started when Marty lost his temper and gave me a hard shove. For a minute I was afraid he was going to hit me, but he didn't. (Not then.) When it happened a second time, I decided to stay away from him, but he called and apologized, saying he'd been drinking and was upset about something else, so I saw him again.

One night while Marty and I were out, I ran into an old friend (male) so I stopped to talk to him for a few minutes. Later that evening Marty accused me of coming on to the old boyfriend, and he really lost his temper and started hitting me.

Abby, he beat me so badly I ended up in a hospital! After I was discharged Marty said he didn't mean it, he loved me and swore it would never happen again.

I should have learned my lesson months ago when he first started shoving me around, but no, I had to learn the hard way.

I hope this letter will be a warning to other women not to wait as long as I did to tell these macho jerks to hit the road.

J.N.D., PITTSBURGH

DEAR J.N.D.: If only a few women learn that the most violent beatings always begin with a shove, a punch or a twisted arm, it will be well worth a shot in this column.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law is about 50 and is very obese. He doesn't seem at all self-conscious about it and continues to eat and drink all the wrong things. He has no interest in diets or weight-loss programs, and he avoids doctors because he knows they will put him on a diet.

So far Pops has broken the springs in our family room sofa and the chairs to match. Nearly every kitchen chair is broken, too. I recently bought some cushions for our kitchen chairs, and two days after we had them, Pops came over, sat on one of the new cushions and tore the ties off!

Abby, I've worked for nearly five years to help buy really nice furniture, and we can't afford to keep replacing it.

My husband doesn't have the nerve to say anything to his father, but do you think it would be so terrible if I asked him to buy himself a chair to use while he's at our house?

HEAVY PROBLEM

DEAR HEAVY: No. Ask him. And if he's unwilling, you should spring for one sturdy chair to be used by Pops for his visits.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-ager Ought To Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Chevron energy report:

$1 billion Chevron refinery improvement

Allows greater use of "heavy" crudes.

Chevron's profits help finance this massive project to maintain the flow of fuels for homes, cars, and planes.

It's easier to get gasoline out of "light" crude than "heavy" crude. But, in the years ahead light crude will be less plentiful — so America must have refineries which can process heavy crude efficiently.

To meet this challenge, Chevron will spend more than $1 billion over the next three years — the largest single-project investment in our history — to modify our Pascagoula refinery in Mississippi.

Chevron's profits, along with other cash from operations, are the primary source of capital for this refinery improvement project.

Worldwide, our total capital and exploratory investments during 1980 will be $3.4 billion, an amount 50% greater than 1979, and almost twice last year's earnings.

Limited Cotton Supply Pushes Prices Skyward

By KRISTIN GAZLAY
Associated Press Writer
A blistering hot and bone dry Texas summer coupled with the laws of supply and demand have pushed the price of cotton skyward.

Cotton futures almost hit the dollar-per-pound mark last week and economists and merchants credit the dramatic price increase to the weather.

Tuesday's average price of 92.29 cents for the nine major Texas markets is "the highest price anyone can remember," said Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown.

Brown said economists have predicted the futures market will soon reach $1 per pound with even further increases ahead.

A ceiling is placed on cotton prices because of the relative cheapness of synthetic fibers, said Carl Anderson, an agricultural expert at Texas A&M.

"Texas mills are looking at using more polyester," he said, "so the cotton merchants have to watch their competitors. The price of cotton is almost 20 cents more than polyester. That takes the edge off the price, going extremely high, like about $1.25 per pound."

Texas weather has contributed to both the shortage of cotton, and the spiraling price of the fiber.

The dry Texas summer with its record-breaking heat killed many of the cotton plants before they could grow, and Hurricane Allen destroyed about 50,000 to 100,000 bales, a Dallas merchant said.

Because Texas owns almost a third of the nation's marketplace.

"The basis of the increase is the short supply of American cotton," said Anderson. "We had tremendous exports in 1979 and pulled our carry-over stock down to 2.8 million bales, the lowest level in several years. Then we had a disastrous year of cotton production. "Last year, we had an ideal crop-growing season and produced 5.5 million bales," he said, "but now we're looking at 3.6 million bales on essentially the same acreage."

Anderson said the demand for cotton is relatively weak this year but is underscored by the crop shortage.

In May, most members of the cotton industry expected a trade of 14.5 million bales, said Walter Locher of the Dallas-based Vokart, Taylor and Cooper cotton merchant company.

"The government estimates of last week predict that the product will be reduced further because since Sept. 1 the crop has not progressed well."

The government expects a demand of 12 million bales, he said.

"Consumers shouldn't expect to see sharp price increases for jeans and other cotton garments just because the market has improved," said Brown. "Only about 5 percent of the total price of a garment comes from the fiber and processing. It takes about a pound of cotton for a pair of adult jeans."

Museum Sets Preview Of Konis Exhibit

Members of the Scurry County Museum Association will have a preview of the Ben Konis art exhibit in the museum at a buffet dinner Saturday, Sept. 27.

The Museum Association will close its current membership drive with the get-together, and persons who would like to become members of the Association are invited to mail checks to the museum at Post Office Box 696, Snyder, or to call the museum office at 573-6107.

The Konis exhibit will open to the public on Sept. 28, and is to remain in the museum through Oct. 25. Konis will be conducting a workshop in the museum from Sept. 29-Oct. 1 and persons wishing to reserve space in the workshop are to call the museum office.

Aquifer Feared Near Depleted

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) - State Engineer Steve Reynolds says initial research indicates that within the next 30 to 60 years, New Mexico will see serious adverse effects of depletion of the Ogallala Aquifer.

"Some irrigators in the Portales area, which is on the fringe of the aquifer, have already gone out of business," Reynolds said.

And, he said, the Ogallala Basin recharge "is very small in terms of the water presently in storage and the annual withdrawal."

New Mexico is one of six states involved in a $6 million long-range study of the Ogallala Basin Aquifer.

Each state is conducting its own research on the impact of the diminishing water supply from the basin. These studies will project the remaining life of the basin as a source of irrigation water and the probable consequences of its depletion, Reynolds said.

A status report on the long-range study was presented Wednesday in Santa Fe at a meeting of the High Plains Study Council.

The 24-member council, authorized by Congress in 1976, is composed of the governors of New Mexico, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas, and three representatives from each state appointed by the governors.

Congress appropriated $6 million for a study of the Ogallala Basin Aquifer, which underlies portions of all six states and is a major source of agricultural and domestic water.

A major purpose of the study is to determine the feasibility of importing water into the area as the basin is depleted. The study also will consider what conservation methods might be undertaken in the region to prolong the life of the aquifer. "The council heard a report Wednesday from Camp, Dresser and McKee of Austin, Texas, the consultant firm retained by the Economic Development Administration to conduct the major part of the study. And a representative from the Army Corps of Engineers gave a report on the possible courses of canals to import water in the area."

The cost of an import system has not yet been determined. And the volumes of water that might be available have not been established.

The Missouri River is the most likely source of import water, Reynolds said, "but there was no comment made on the likelihood of water being available from that source."

It will involve a complex and lengthy series of negotiations with other states on the diversion of water from the Missouri River, Reynolds said.

The council was informed Wednesday the state reports are arriving on schedule. Camp, Dresser and McKee is preparing to evaluate these reports to make necessary regional reports.

In Surprise Move...

Saudis Hike Oil Price

By Stephen H. Miller
Associated Press Writer
VIENNA, Austria (AP)

Taking what it said was a step toward OPEC pricing unity, Saudi Arabia - the oil cartel's largest producer and America's chief foreign oil supplier - raised its price from $28 to $30 a barrel. In return, OPEC militants agreed to freeze their prices to $37 a barrel until mid-December.

U.S. economists predicted the $2 a barrel Saudi increase would add less than one cent a gallon to the retail price of gasoline and heating oil in the United States.

The surprise Saudi price hike took effect immediately after it was announced Wednesday night, as the 23-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries concluded an often acrimonious three-day meeting in Vienna. The new Saudi price is 125 percent above the $13.34 it was charging on Jan. 1, 1979.

Rene Ortiz, the cartel's secretary general, said the OPEC oil ministers reviewed the world market and decided that excessive stockpiling by the industrialized nations justified the increase.

"There's no hole in the world that could absorb more oil," he told reporters early today, describing the world glut caused largely by high Saudi production.

Ortiz said, the oil ministers unanimously backed the plan which at Saudi Arabia's request cuts the official OPEC benchmark price from $32 to $30 for a 42-gallon barrel. However, since OPEC militants will not be rolling back their prices, the net result is an increase of $2 a barrel by Saudi Arabia, which produces one-third of OPEC's daily output of 27 million barrels.

"Our price will remain at $35," Iranian Oil Minister Ali Akbar Moinefar told reporters early today. "It's a great victory for OPEC. We've come to some compromise. We are happy."

Iran's allies, Libya and Algeria, charge $37 a barrel for their oil, as does Nigeria.

In return for the Saudi increase, the militants pledged to freeze their prices until at least Dec. 15, the date of the next OPEC pricing session to be held in Bali, Indonesia. That blocks the price "leapfrogging" in which other OPEC members have raised prices each time the Saudis boosted theirs.

To help assure that the militants don't break their pledge, the Saudis said they will continue to produce 9.5 million barrels of oil a day, a rate that virtually guarantees a continued world market glut and makes it hard for the militants to sell their high priced oil.

Saudi production is about 1.1 million barrels a day higher than they themselves prefer. They agreed to it in July, 1979 in response to a U.S. request to offset losses caused by production decreases stemming from the Islamic revolution in Iraq.

Saudi officials said their agreement to boost their price, the lowest charged by any cartel member, was intended to help unify the organization's prices and move toward another effort to adopt a long-term price and production strategy.

Saudi Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani had said early Wednesday that his country would not raise its price unless the militants in the cartel lowered theirs.

Islamics Plan For Holy War

By Michael Goldsmith
Associated Press Writer
FEZ, Morocco (AP)

Foreign ministers of the world's Islamic countries today begin mapping plans for a possible "jihad," or holy war, against Israel and its allies to restore East Jerusalem to Arab sovereignty. But they say they will resort to guns only if political, diplomatic and economic pressure fail.

Morocco's King Hassan II formally opens the three-day session of the World Islamic Conference to plan a long-term campaign against the Israeli annexation of the holy city.

Tunisia's Habib Chatti, secretary general of the Islamic conference, and several delegation chiefs began preliminary discussions Wednesday in Morocco's religious capital. Chatti also conferred with King Hassan, chairman of the 14-nation Islamic committee on the "liberation" of Jerusalem.

In an interview with The Associated Press, Chatti said the Islamic countries were determined to maintain permanent pressure on Israel to put an end to the present stalemate and achieve a "genuine solution" of the Middle East problem, and particularly the problem of Jerusalem. The launching of a "jihad" was first proposed by Saudi Arabia's Crown Prince Fahd following the formal annexation of Jerusalem by the Israeli Parliament at the end of July.

Jerusalem ranks third among the Islamic world's holy places, which are under the nominal guardianship of Saudi Arabia. Chatti said the Islamic countries are getting down to planning the proposed "jihad" in all seriousness but that this did not necessarily involve militant action.

"Jihad means total mobilization for a sacred cause," Chatti said. "In the West, the word has a medieval connotation of unlimited warfare. It may ultimately come to that, but only as a final resort." Chatti said the Islamic countries envisaged the jihad for the liberation of Jerusalem first of all as a worldwide political, diplomatic and economic "harassment" of Israel and its allies, culminating in military action only if all else fails.

"Economic pressure is an essential part of this action plan," he said. "The use of the 'oil weapon' is a possibility, but this, too, would be a last resort."

Kraft Sidelined From Effort He Organized

WASHINGTON (AP)—September, October and four days of November—the home stretch of the 1980 presidential campaign—were to be Tim Kraft's personal Olympics, the culmination of four years' relentless work.

All of a sudden, Kraft is off the team, a runner without a race, sidelined identifiably.

When Kraft announced this week that he is taking a leave of absence from his post as manager of President Carter's reelection campaign, his colleagues were stunned. For Kraft is a master political organizer, a man with an instinct for solving grassroots problems.

But because of allegations that Kraft used cocaine on a visit to New Orleans several years ago, an ethics-in-government law requires that a special Justice Department prosecutor investigate the charges.

Kraft flatly denies the allegations. But whether or not they prove true, one thing is certain: The 39-year-old Noblesville, Ind., native is now sitting out the campaign that he helped to organize.

Moreover, his departure may well affect the outcome of the election.

In the last lap of a close presidential race, Kraft was faced with a stark choice: stick with the campaign and risk that the controversy would hurt President Carter. Or step aside.

"The decision is difficult," said a lawyer not associated with the case but familiar with the law. "It's agonizing to think that by staying, you will hurt the person you're working for. But if you resign, you give incentive to other people to do the same kind of thing to drive people out of office."

The lawyer, who insisted he remain anonymous, said that in Kraft's case, the decision affects more than his life: "The president loses a key operative six or seven weeks before the election."

Efforts to reach Kraft, who shares a house in Washington with Carter pollster Patrick H. Caddell, were unsuccessful.

The story became further complicated Wednesday when the New York Times reported that the source of the allegation was Evan S. Dobelle, who was managing Carter's campaign when Kraft was sent in to replace him.

The Times quoted sources familiar with the case as saying that Dobelle agreed to testify only under pressure from a government prosecutor.

Conviction Here Upheld

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has upheld the conviction in a Scurry County case.

The case involved James Brewer of Midland, charged with theft of services. Brewer is alleged to have failed to pay a $250 bill incurred while staying at the local Travel Lodge during the summer of 1977.

Brewer had been assessed a two-year prison term in 132nd District Court.

The Blonde Blitz Is 59...

Betty Hutton 'Born Again' And Back In Show Business

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Betty Hutton, the one-time "Blonde Blitz" of Hollywood, is a born-again performer now, praising God for what she calls "a miracle"—a new life on Broadway and off.

With tears of joy streaming down her cheeks Wednesday, the 59-year-old actress took her first showbiz bows in eight years at the end of the hit musical, "Annie," in which she co-stars for a three-week stint as Miss Hannigan, the mean, whiskey-swilling, larcenous orphanage-keeper.

She got a long, noisy, standing ovation at the matinee that marked her return to performing after her recovery from a 20-year battle with drugs and despair so deep she wanted to kill herself.

For Miss Hutton, who's filling in for vacationing Alice Ghostley, the Wednesday night performance was particularly meaningful.

In the audience were two of her three grown daughters—Lindsay, 33, and Candice, 32—two grandchildren and the Catholic priest she credits with saving her life, the Rev. Peter Maguire. Her third daughter, Carrie, 18, is due in from California on Saturday.

The actress, married four times and survivor of a turbulent personal and professional life, says she first met the priest eight years ago when she had to leave a summer show and be hospitalized, a victim of drug abuse.

Miss Hutton, a Catholic convert, worked anonymously for a year as housekeeper at the priest's church in Portsmouth, R.I. She says he gave her the will to live that now has led her to Broadway.

"He didn't even know who I was, had never been to a movie. When he learned I'm Betty Hutton, he said, 'Who's that?'" she said recently.

Her Broadway debut was in 1940—in "Two for the Show," at the same 1,300-seat Alvin Theater where she's now playing in "Annie." Her return might have initially startled her older film fans.

She was anything but the glamor gal of "The Fleet's In," the 1942 movie musical that launched her as a star.

Search Launched For Mobile Home

The disappearance of a mobile home is under investigation by Snyder police.

The mobile home, a 14-by-70-foot model, disappeared from the 5100 block of College Ave., within the past month, said Kenneth Jewell, owner. The mobile home is valued at $7,000. The case was reported to Sgt. Jerry Parker.

Two Hurt In Road Mishap

Troopers of the Department of Public Safety worked a one vehicle turn-over early this morning.

In the mishap, Joseph Billey of Snyder, a passenger in the 1970 Ford, was thrown from the vehicle and sustained an arm and a leg injury. The driver of the vehicle, Scott Maynard, also of Snyder, suffered an arm injury, reported investigating officers.

Maynard was listed in good condition this morning at Cogdell Memorial Hospital and Billey was transferred to a Lubbock hospital.

The accident took place about 12:40 p.m., approximately 1.8 miles south of town on Highway 208.

The pickup Greg Crawford reported stolen earlier in the week was found yesterday afternoon at 29th and Ave. G. Missing from it, however, were a rifle, tools, hunting bow, and jumper cables. The missing items' value was estimated at $620. Investigating are Sgt. Clay Scogin and on Cheek.

Buddy Kinney took a complaint from Joel McCright in which McCright stated someone had stolen a .25-caliber pistol from his car. That theft is alleged to have occurred between Sept. 12 and Sept. 16.

Two minor traffic accidents were also investigated.

The first occurred about 1:10 p.m. in the 2000 block of 25th St. and involved a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Charles Kelley and a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Cynthia Koonsman. The accident was worked by Parker.

The second accident was at 9 p.m. at 26th St. and College Ave. In it, a 1971 Buick driven by Diana Ramirez and a 1978 Chevrolet driven by Othelda Clark collided. The accident was worked by Cheek.

City Firemen Called Twice

Two fires were doused Wednesday by city firefighters.

The first, reported at 12:30 p.m., occurred in the 213 23rd St. residence of Troy Botts. Firefighters reported the blaze, which started as a grease fire, spread to also damage a cabinet.

At 5:30 p.m. yesterday, firefighters were dispatched at the 3604 Kerrville home of Joe Lee. In that fire, a wall and cabinet were burned.

Windbreak Seedlings May Be Ordered

LUBBOCK—Applications are now being accepted for windbreak seedlings from the Texas Forest Service.

These seedlings, grown from seed collected in West Texas and eastern New Mexico, are produced in the State's greenhouse in Lubbock and in a field nursery near Halfway.

Conifer species available this season include Austrian pine, ponderosa pine, Arizona Cypress, and redcedar. These containerized seedlings cost $1 each and are sold in multiples of 30 seedlings only.

Hardwood species include honeylocust, mulberry, native plum, Russian olive, and sawtooth oak. These bare root seedlings are priced at $20 per hundred.

Seedlings ordered now will be ready for pickup and planting in March 1981. Trees sold by the Texas Forest Service may not be used for landscaping or ornamental purposes.

For applications and information on windbreaks, contact the Texas Forest Service, Route 3, Box 216, Lubbock 79401, (806) 746-5801. Applications also are available from county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service, and extension agents.

Open District Race Friday In Sweetwater...

Tigers Hope To Get Rolling

SWEETWATER - When you're 0-2 in a class of heavyweights, you tend to get written off early. Tiger Coach Mike Jenkins hopes to change some doubtful minds, though, this week. His Tigers, suffering defeats to both Big Spring and Midland Lee, take on the Mustangs of Sweetwater here Friday night in what could turn out to be a mini-battle of the airways. "We need a victory," said Jenkins this morning. "I think others have pretty well marked us off for this season, but we think if we can win Friday going into our open date, it will help us gain a little momentum. I think it would put us back in contention."

Friday's 8 p.m. game here marks the first District 2-4A game for both teams, which are known loop-wide for their passing. "We do expect them to throw the ball," noted the Coach. "They'll try to go against our young secondary, and they'll try to get the ball outside. They've got pretty good speed in the backfield; they'll have a step on us."

Jenkins plans to put the ball into the air, too, but he added, "We're still striving for a balanced attack. We want to throw the football, but we don't want to have to throw the football. There is a difference," he stated. "We plan to throw against everybody, and at the same time include the rushing game. We must be able to run the football at them in order to establish balance in our offense."

Leading the 'Stang is 150-pound freshman Scott Richardson, quarterback. Richardson leads the district in passing, having completed 10 of 21 tosses for 219 yards, four touchdowns and no interceptions. For a target, he frequently chooses the loop's leading receiver, 162-pound senior Rodney Griggs, who has cradled in nine passes for 142 yards and one touchdown. Teammate James Goodman, a 153-lb. senior, has two receptions for 69 yards and one TD. Snyder is capable of stacking the airways also, with senior quarterback Mike Roemisch. Roemisch is the conference's third leading passer, though his 12 of 39 completion rate (.307 percent) ranks ninth. He has tossed for 187 yards, two touchdowns and three interceptions, and has a good receiver in sophomore Glenn Parham, who has snagged seven catches for 137 yards and one touchdown. Parham is the district's second leading receiver. Ironically, both teams possess good pass defenses. Sweetwater also leads the district in this regard, having allowed only nine yards through the airways in two games. Snyder has given up 91 yards for a 45.5 per-game average. However, 49 of these yards were on one play, a screen executed by Big Spring, which was only a pass in technicality; about 47 of those yards were gained on the run after the completion. Check tomorrow's edition of The Snyder Daily News for team lineups.

Sideline Glances Pick...

Snyder, Pecos To Win

By BILL McCLELLAN

FOR A minute there, I was doin' pretty well. By Sunday morning I had missed three out of 18 with only the Cowboys and the Cougars to worry about. Shoot, two Texas teams ought to win; split at the very least. Well, as you know by now, Dallas and Houston (Cougars) both got upended last week. I dropped my prediction figures a bit, but last week's 15 right; 5 wrong for a .750 percent was a heck of a lot better than the week before. For the season, it's... sigh... .26 right, 14 wrong for a .650.

THERE ARE some toughies this week (aren't there always), but we'll give them a try. First of all...

SNYDER 21, SWEETWATER 6—It probably goes without saying, but for my bucks Snyder is a better team than it has indicated against either Big Spring or Midland Lee. Sweetwater will learn it, anyway, while the Tigers open the 2-AAAA season—the one that counts—with a win.

ANDREWS 18, LAKE VIEW 12—Pick this one close, 'cause Chief coach Jim Slaughter will have Lake View up and ready. Andrews, which downed a tough Midland High team and knows Stamford embarrassed the Chiefs last week, will be down. Nevertheless, Andrews has too much talent.

FORT STOCKTON 21, LAMESA 0—The Golden Tors won't find the goal line unless mistake-prone Fort Stockton gives it to 'em.

PECOS 14, MONAHANS 13—I suppose this is something of an upset since Monahans was preseason picked above Pecos by just about everybody. Member when I said two weeks ago that Monahans starts off slowly? They usually drop that first district game, too. Just a hunch.

IRA 48, LOOP 22—Coach Tom Pierson's Bulldogs got a scare from Leuders-Avoca last week. They'll be better prepared this time out.

BORDEN COUNTY 40, WELMAN 19—The Coyotes could let up after last week's big win over Dawson, but don't bet on it.

HERMLEIGH 35, BLACKWELL 32—It's hard to keep the Cardinals down for long, and they need this win badly. Homecoming festivities are bright... for the Cardinals.

TEXAS 17, UTAH ST. 6—If the Longhorns are going for the nation's top spot this year, they'll have to keep up the spirit against everybody.

ARKANSAS 28, OKLAHOMA ST. 14—Oklahoma State got beat last week by this week's Baylor foe, West Texas State. Arkansas doesn't pity anyone though.

SMU 35, TCU 21—One of the toughies. SMU got so many gifts in beating NTSU last week that Ford and company must have thought it was Christmas. So, here's New Years.

HOUSTON 45, MIAMI FLA. 12—I started to pick an upset last week, Arizona State over Houston. I didn't and it's made me mad. I think the loss made Houston mad, too. They'll show it Saturday.

TULANE 21, RICE 20—Flip a coin. Mine came up heads.

BAYLOR 35, WTSU 13—The Bears don't want to be WTSU's second upset victim in a row.

PENN ST. 17, TEXAS A&M 14—Closer than most people will predict, I'll bet. A&M will upset a few, but not the Lions.

TEXAS TECH 27, NEW MEXICO 13—I've seen Tech play its last two games and the Raiders have yet to impress me. But New Mexico gives up points like the government hands out brochures. Pick it Tech.

NOTRE DAME 21, MICHIGAN 7—Michigan will play the Irish a good game, but there's really no competition here.

OILERS 35, COLTS 19—Houston gets better and better. The Colts are too inconsistent.

COWBOYS 17, BUCS 14—A tough one because Tampa Bay will want to win sooooo bad. Depends on how much Landry's troops want it, because they are undoubtedly the better team.

REDSKINS 21, RAIDERS 19—Washington will have to establish itself quicker than usual in the same league with the seemingly awesome Eagles. They'll ease past Oakland Sunday.

DOLPHINS 29, FALCONS 21—I picked the Dolphins because the Falcons never do what I tell 'em too. Probably won't this time either. Don't put the house up on this one.

Royals Clinch Theirs; Dodgers Are One Up

The Kansas City Royals are in again. Los Angeles has gained a one-game lead over Houston and Montreal is beginning to hear footsteps as the wild division races continue in professional baseball. Dennis Leonard pitched a three-hitter and Willie Wilson drove in two runs as Kansas City beat the California Angels 5-0 in the first game of a two-night double header to clinch their fourth American League West championship in five years.

The Angels went on to win the inconsequential second game, 7-4. "The Angels, last year's West champs, won the second game behind a five-RBI performance by Brian Downing. George Brett, the major league's leading hitter, returned to the KC lineup and collected two singles in five at-bats to keep his average at .396.

Meanwhile, in the National League West, Ray Knight hit his third grand slam homer of the season and singled in another run as Cincinnati stopped Houston 7-0 to remain 4 1/2 games behind Los Angeles. The loss by the Astros knocked Houston one game back of the Dodgers in the same division, who defeated the San Diego Padres, 2-1.

Mario Soto, 10-6, pitched a five-hit shutout, allowing only one runner to reach third base, and George Foster had two RBI with his 23rd homer and a single.

Elsewhere, the Philadelphia Phillies got late shut-out pitching from Tug McGraw and an 11th inning pinch single by Del Unser to overcome the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 and cut Montreal's lead in the National League East to 1 1/2 games. Montreal lost 5-2 to the New York Mets, while the Pirates stayed five games back.

In the American League East, Baltimore, 5 1/2 games behind the New York Yankees, stopped the Detroit Tigers, 9-3. New York trailed Toronto's Blue Jays 5-3 in the 10th inning when the game was suspended by rain.

Western Texas College Westerners head into Western Junior College Athletic Conference competition here this weekend, hosting the first conference golf tournament of the 1980-81 season.

The Westerners, under Coach Bob O'Day, will tee off against Midland College, Odessa College, New Mexico Junior College and New Mexico Military Institute at 9 a.m. Friday. All golfers will leave from the No. 1 tee, with times stretching through 10:07.

Under new conference rules, each school will field a team of six golfers, and reach its total score from the four low individual scores within its team. From all indications, it will take some low totals to win the tournament.

*From the indications of the scores in the New Mexico Junior College (Intercollegiate) tournament, I'd say that if the weather stays good, a team would have to shoot even par to win this tournament. All five teams will be stronger this year. Each one has a few good, experienced sophomores, and everyone had a great recruiting year," said O'Day. "It should be great competition."

WTC has won its home conference tournament four out of the last five years and opened the season with a victory in the NMJC Intercollegiate Tournament last weekend, but O'Day warns against overconfidence.

"Any one of the five schools is capable of winning a tournament. Even though we won the New Mexico tournament, some of these other teams had low-enough scores to have won, if they could have taken low (individual) scores from their second and third teams. We would have had a better score, too," he added.

Schools will tee off their number six players at 9, followed by Nos. 5-4-3-2-1 in order. For Western Texas, Phillip Jones, a freshman from Gatesville, will leave first, followed by Fort Worth Richland freshman Jeff Seger; Pecos sophomore Chris Johnson; Norman, Okla. sophomore Jeff Wagner; Pecos sophomore Richard White; and Clovis, N.M. sophomore Gary Hodge, who was medalist in the NMJC Intercollegiate.

WTC Golf Course will be closed to the playing public until 12:30 p.m. Friday. However, spectators are welcome.

Thinks He Found His Twin Brother

LOCH-SHELDRAKE, N.Y. (AP)-A coincidental meeting has led 19-year-old Robert Shafran to believe he has discovered a twin brother he never knew existed.

Shafran, a student, was puzzled a few weeks ago when he arrived at Sullivan County Community College and was greeted by men who patted him on the back and women who hugged and kissed him. "Hi, Eddy," they said. "I'm not Eddy," Shafran replied. He was startled when one woman did not believe him and told him the location of a birthmark on his body.

Shafran found Eddy with the help of Michael Domnitz, a sophomore who saw an uncanny resemblance between Shafran and Eddy Galland, a former student at the school. With Domnitz' encouragement, Shafran called Galland.

"Eddy," Shafran recalled saying. "My name is Bob Shafran. You won't believe this, but I think you're my twin brother."

The two traded vital statistics: They were born within 27 minutes of each other on July 12, 1961, at Long Island Jewish Hospital-Hillside Medical Center; both were adopted through the same agency within six months after birth; both were 5-foot-9; and both had brown eyes, dark complexions and curly brown hair.

Shafran and Domnitz went to Galland's home, where Shafran and Galland stared at each other, scratched their heads, and in unison exclaimed: "Oh, my God!" They spent the next three days recalling their lives.

Some of it was painful for Shafran, a resident of Scarsdale, who in January pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge for participating in a robbery in which an elderly New Rochelle woman was beaten to death.

A state Supreme Court judge, saying Shafran did not play a major role in the incident, put him on probation and ordered him to spend weekends for five years helping crippled children at an institution near his home.

In their conversations, the two also discovered some dissimilarities - Galland is right-handed; Shafran is left-handed; Shafran is allergic to dogs and cats, Galland is not; Shafran weighs 150 pounds, Galland once did but has recently gained 25 pounds.

Neither knows who his biological mother and father are. They have no proof they are twins.

The Louise Wise adoption agency in Manhattan, which handled their placements, would not comment.

On President's List At TSTI

SWEETWATER-Tim Dacus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dacus of Hermleigh, was placed on the president's list at Texas State Technical Institute by achieving a 4.0 grade point average for the spring quarter and was placed on the vice president's list in the summer quarter by achieving a 3.8 grade point average.

$500 discount on a new home

Colony Man

helps Snyder fight inflation!

For a year, Arnie has been helping the people of Snyder by building those attractive Answer homes. He knows these homes are a family's best hedge against inflation. The price and the interest rates will never be this good again!

Now it's time to do something more for the people of Snyder
Now it's time for ColonyMan!

Arnie's shed his carpenter clothes and put on his inflation-fighting uniform. He's offering a $500 discount on any Colony Home bought by October 20.

ColonyMan offers Snyder 2-, 3-, and 4-bedroom homes from 1003 to 1505 sq. ft. Prices start in the low $30's.

$500 off the price of any Colony Home. 10 1/2 percent FHA/VA financing. Now that's an inflation-fighting deal.

And it's all thanks to ColonyMan!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be hesitant to tackle big ideas today, especially if they include dealing with older or vastly experienced persons. Things should work out great.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you will be compensated more handsomely than usual for well-directed efforts. Focus on projects that can mean the most to you financially or materially.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Mediocrity is something no one can accuse you of today. You're seething with ambition and big plans, and you're lucky with things large in scope.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're very adroit today at being able to pull rabbits out of the hat. Through resourcefulness you'll exorcise yourself from sticky situations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You function best today as a team player, rather than through individual effort. Pick the proper cohort to meet your particular needs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Advancement or special benefits are within your reach today, so direct your efforts accordingly. Work and career areas are especially favored.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The impression you make today is excellent, and will have a long-lasting effect. Get out and mingle in the right circles or places.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A shared interest you're involved in looks exceptionally promising today because of the basic sincerity and good will of the parties concerned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Any arrangements or agreements that you make today, either in verbal or written form, should stand the test of time. Lock things up now.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Work or service done well today will benefit you for a long time to come. Those who could do you good will be so pleased they won't easily forget.

4-H WINNER - Janna Tate had the reserve champion pig in the Duroc class at the West Texas Fair at Abilene. The animal was also judged second in the heavyweight division. Janna, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Tate, also had a pig that placed seventh in the lightweight cross class.

Pigs Place For Ennis Creek 4-H

The Ennis Creek 4-H Club took several pigs to the West Texas Fair and Rodeo in Abilene recently. Janna Tate had the reserve champion in the Duroc class. The same animal placed second in the heavy-weight class. She also placed seventh with an animal in the lightweight cross class. Her pigs were bred by Bill Early. Kevin Tate placed fourth in the heavyweight Duroc division. Both Tates are the children of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Tate.

Also showing pigs at the fair were: Jeffrey Gilbert, Jayna Gilbert, Jody Gilbert, Susan Hamlett, and John Hamlett.

Hermleigh Scouts To Collect For CF

The Breath of Life Campaign, an annual appeal for funds to help children with Cystic Fibrosis, begins in Hermleigh on Monday, according to the Lone Star Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Boy Scout Troop 311 of Hermleigh will be going door to door collecting contributions.

"The Campaign is called the Breath of Life because that phrase so graphically describes what this fundraising effort hopes to accomplish for children and young people with CF who struggle to breathe," says Jerry Clift, chairman of the campaign.

Cystic Fibrosis is inherited by one in every 1,600 American children. It is incurable and ultimately fatal.

"Progress has been made," says Clift. "When the CF Foundation was established in 1955, few children with CF survived to school age. Today, with early diagnosis and comprehensive treatment, a child with CF has a 50 percent chance of living past age 19."

"Improved techniques have increased both the quality and quantity of life," Clift continued, "but these children and young people still require specialized care and treatment throughout their short lives. Time is running out for these kids and we need a cure for CF."

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation supports vital research into the cause of CF and a cure or control for the disease. It also supports specialized clinical care for individuals with CF and other related respiratory and digestive diseases. There are 121 Cystic Fibrosis Centers in the U.S., specializing in the diagnosis and treatment of CF.

In Texas, CF clinics are located in San Antonio, Dallas, Houston, Austin and Lubbock. The Foundation also conducts nationwide professional and education programs designed to foster early diagnosis and treatment which extends and improves the lives of all lung-damaged children.

The Lone Star Chapter is one of over 100 CF chapters in the United States conducting fund appeals to support the CF Foundation's programs of research, care and education.

"We are asking local residents to give as generously as they can when a Breath of Life Campaign volunteer calls on them," says Clift.

Cholesterol accumulations

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm a 45-year-old female and I have trouble with recurring xanthoma in the eye area. What causes this? I take four grains of thyroid in addition to four Atromid-S tablets every day. I have a high cholesterol and triglyceride count. Do these high levels cause xanthomas? Will diet control this? Does smoking cause these? I am a half-a-pack a day smoker. I do need to lose 20 pounds and I'm on a diet prescribed by my physician. I'd appreciate any information you could give me about this problem.

DEAR READER - Yes, xanthomas are accumulations of cholesterol underneath the skin and commonly they occur in little plaques or patches under the surface of the skin of the eyelids or in that area. You can have larger amounts of cholesterol accumulations and nodules other places in the body.

Commonly, these are associated with a high cholesterol level and the tendency to form them is usually inherited. That's why it's frequently important to study the entire family group when such evidences of abnormal fat and cholesterol metabolism are observed.

I presume that you're taking thyroid because you have low thyroid function. Four grains of thyroid on a daily basis is a pretty good dose. Individuals who have low thyroid function are prone to have high cholesterol levels.

Yes, diet is one of the tools used to help control the level of cholesterol and does help in such cases. The type of diet used is discussed in The Health Letter number 15-4, Diet to Prevent Heart Attacks and Strokes which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Usually dietary measures alone are not adequate to lower the cholesterol sufficiently in individuals who have xanthoma. That's why you're also getting some medicine. Since you're overweight, I must stress the importance of getting rid of every excess pound of fat you can if you want to get your cholesterol and blood fat levels down to normal.

DEAR DR. LAMB - A friend of mine gave me a lot of vitamins but I would like your opinion before taking them.

DEAR READER - If you are eating a balanced diet and have no problems in digestion and have no diseases you really do not need additional vitamins. However, I don't object to people taking an all purpose daily vitamin pill without excessive amounts of vitamins in them. These are sometimes helpful to people who do not eat adequately for one reason or another.

The list you gave me looks like your vitamins will not be harmful. The water soluble

Irish Fisherman Hooked On Dallas

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
"I shot J.R." - Bumper sticker on a car parked on a Dublin, Ireland, street.
"I Shot The Guy Who Says He Shot J.R." - Bumper sticker on another car, parked on the same Dublin street.

CONG. Ireland (AP) - Michael Ryan is a big, gentle, faced man who has spent his 60-plus years endeavoring to tempt brown trout out of the big lakes in these parts. His technique is "dapping," not unlike fishing, except the fisherman doesn't have to cast. The omnipresent breeze sweeping across Lake Corrib does all the work, leaving the fisherman with time to talk. And Ryan does love to talk.

On this day, his subjects range from mayflies "They're a trout's favorite lunch, but they die fast" to technique "Wait 'til the water breaks then one-two three and set the hook".
And J.R. Ewing.

The terrible incongruence wasn't especially pleasant, but it was irresistible. Here was a fellow who in 60-some years of living had never seen reason to venture beyond Galway, 23 miles away. He had avoided the temptations of Dublin, only a three-hour train ride, and what others might consider real work.

But "Dallas" had hooked him. He knew all the dark machinations of the family Ewing, all about J.R., Bobby, Miss Ellie and the Sue Ellen (who is his candidate as the culprit in the infamous shooting). He claims that Mrs. Ryan likes to watch the show, an obvious pretense. That used to be my excuse.

All of Ireland, it turns out, is addicted to "Dallas".
The Texas soap opera comes to this beautiful green island from RTE, the Irish Television Network. Everyone, apparently, watches.

A nice young couple from Wexport, County Mayo, honeymooning here, couldn't believe that an American wouldn't yet know who shot J.R. I tried to explain about the actors' strike and told them I could tell them anything they'd want to know about the penant races.

They'd have none of it. They wanted "Dallas"

"Dallas" has at least two popular songs here. One, instantly my favorite, is called "My Bottler Shot J.R." Its chorus goes something like this:
"Goodbye Jock, goodbye

Sue Ellen, goodbye to Miss Ellie; if you escaped us 'ere today, we'll get you on the telly."

Another song, done in that calypso-like Irish folk manner, tells of the Ewing ranch:

"Southfork, you see, is not the kind of place for you and me... Now poor Cliff Barnes, he's not so slick, always getting the wrong end of the stick. He's had his problems, now here's another - he's not even Pam's brother."

Do-It-Yourself Inflation Fight Urged By Feds

The federal government's chief consumer agency is urging people to join their neighbors for a local-level, do-it-yourself fight against inflation.

To get things started, the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs is distributing a 411-page book detailing successful community efforts and providing a list of specific steps on the road to organization.

Copies of the book, "People Power: What Communities Are Doing to Fight Inflation," are available, at no charge, from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 682H, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

"The point of this book is to show that individuals working together can make a difference - a big difference - in the type, quality and price of the food, housing, health care and energy they receive," says Esther Peterson, director of the consumer affairs office.

"People Power" - designed to help promote Consumer Education Week Oct. 5 to 11 - includes advice on forming a neighborhood group, gives step-by-step directions for programs like community gardens and suggests ways to raise money. It lists hundreds of government and private organizations which can provide expert help and advice.

Willie Nelson Hero At White House

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - If there is one person who generates more hero worship among the White House staff than President Carter himself, it is undoubtedly country singer Willie Nelson. And when it comes to Nelson's White House fans, Carter is at the top of the list.

So it was not surprising that Carter rearranged his schedule Saturday night to attend Nelson's benefit concert for the campaign at the Merriweather Post Pavilion in nearby Columbia, Md. Nor that most members of his senior staff showed up.

What was a bit surprising was some of their attire. Carter didn't wear blue jeans - opting instead for dark pants and a sport shirt. The Maryland officials who accompanied him all wore dark business suits.

But the White House staff members were in country dress, blending perfectly into the young crowd. Jack Watson, White House chief of staff, added a big cowboy hat to his outfit of blue jeans and a blue denim vest. So did the president's physician, Rear Adm. William Lukash.

Jimmy Carter has lived in the nation's capital for 3 1/2 years, but he apparently has yet to learn his way around town. A White House visitor once asked the president how to get to Georgetown, a fashionable residential and shopping section of the city less than two miles down Pennsylvania Avenue from the executive mansion. Carter said he had jogged along the tow path that borders the C&O Canal in Georgetown, but had no idea how to get there, according to a new book about RbSalynn Carter.

The book's author concluded that Carter's lack of knowledge of his surroundings stemmed from the fact that he hasn't driven a car in years and frequently is reading or talking to staff members when he is chauffeured around.

It used to be standard practice, when a high-ranking officer visited a military base, for the resident commander to order the troops out ahead of time to "police" the area, picking up cigarette butts, waste paper and any debris that might catch the eye of the brass.

But when the commander-in-chief flew to Philadelphia recently and landed at the naval shipyard there, the all-volunteer force appeared to have had the day off. The propeller wash of Marine One, the presidential helicopter, sent cigarette butts and beer bottle caps flying across the Marine parade ground being used as a landing pad.

If he noticed, Carter, a former naval officer, didn't mention it as he strode from the field to his waiting limousine to drive into South Philadelphia to push his re-election campaign.

"We didn't think he'd use the shipyard," said one somewhat embarrassed Navy officer. "It's customary to leave the military out of campaign appearances."

Chris Van Dyke, 30, assumed the office from Gary Gortmaker, who resigned Monday after nearly 16 years in office. Gortmaker was convicted Aug. 5 on charges of theft and misconduct in office.

Heirlooms Valued At $100,000

NEW YORK (AP) - The elderly Russian emigre and his wife rode the bus to Sotheby Parke Bernet's new gallery for "Heirloom Discovery Day" carrying a tea service, a few bowls and other decorative items.

They went home, a gallery spokesman said, with the knowledge that the small objects from the old country were worth an estimated $100,000.

But the couple didn't immediately put the objects up for sale. They said they liked having their treasures around and would think about it a while.

The appraisal, which continues through today, is being held to celebrate the opening of the gallery at 72nd Street and York Avenue, an offshoot of Sotheby's Madison Avenue auction house.

When the gallery opened Tuesday with Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Edward Koch in attendance, there were 150 people waiting outside with possible treasures. During the day, some 1,200 had their antiques and art objects appraised by the gallery's experts.

First in line was a neighborhood woman with a Tiffany inkwell. She was told it was worth from $300 to $500. A Kirman rug pulled out of a closet brought an estimate of $7,000 to $9,000.

Another woman, told her 19th-century Oriental panel was worth $3,000 to $5,000, said she would stop using it as a tablecloth and bedspread.

The Russian, who wished to remain anonymous for fear of burglars, said he came to the United States in 1921 and got a job sweeping floors in a millinery factory.

Before long, he owned the factory and began to pick up things that reminded him of his native country - things a poor lad like himself could never have owned in the days of the Czar.

One was a vase made by Ovchinnikov of Moscow in the late 19th century. The old man recalled paying $150 for it. Sotheby's expert on Russian decorative art, Gerard Hill, told him it was worth $10,000 to $12,000.

But of the 14 pieces, half the $100,000 estimated total value was in just one piece - a kovsh, a type of bowl with a handle originally used as a dipper.

But this kovsh, said Hill, was never designed for dipping. Made of silver, gilded and richly enameled, it was designed as a "presentation piece," and it was made by Faberge.

The elderly Russian said he paid $45 for it.

John Bunyan, the English religious writer, was baptized in 1628. Bunyan was beset early in his life with religious visitations, one of which had him give up the pleasure of ringing the church bells, for fear the steeple would fall on him. At the age of 32, he was sentenced to 12 years in prison for heretical teaching, during which time he wrote "The Pilgrim's Progress."

our defense problem

Recently, a journalist telephoned the White House to inquire about President Carter's flip-flop on pay raises for the skilled enlisted personnel and young officers now leaving military service in droves. The public relations specialist who answered the phone began by assuring the caller that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were in full support of the administration's defense policies.

Nonsense. The list of Carter decisions opposed in whole or in part by the Joint Chiefs would easily fill the rest of his column. Yet, the general public knows little more about the opinions of the Joint Chiefs than President Carter chooses to announce. And, as one might guess, Carter and his key defense aides treat the private views of the Joint Chiefs as though they were state secrets.

By law, the Joint Chiefs of Staff serve as the principal military advisors to the president, the National Security Council and the Secretary of Defense. And by tradition, JCS members are almost always team players loathe to complain publicly when their considered judgments are overruled.

Thus, Jimmy Carter can, and frequently does, cite the chiefs' public and essentially pro forma expressions of confidence in the nation's military strength as "proof" that we are adequately defended. The tactic is persuasive enough to dilute the impact of knowledgeable critics, including legions of retired generals and flag officers, who insist that the United States faces the equivalent of a national defense emergency.

All of this poses a difficult, delicate dilemma for the service chiefs. Where, after all, is the dividing line between appropriate submission to civilian policy and authority, and their professional charge to warn Congress and the public when the policy endangers national security?

Reasonable men can, of course, differ. But it seems clear that any service chief who believes his forces inadequate to support national policy has an obligation to say so, and in public if necessary.

At least one member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has reached that point. Adm. Thomas B. Hayward, chief of naval operations, has begun to differ with President Carter with commendable candor and no small amount of courage.

Last spring, Hayward lobbied hard for increased pay and benefits for career Navy personnel as the only way to stem what he termed a "hemorrhage of talent." This summer, the admiral declared that a "one-and-a-half ocean fleet" cannot meet the nation's need for a three-ocean Navy.

It is safe to assume that the White House has resented these public statements, which so dramatically challenged the administration's soothing assurances that all is well. But all is not well, and members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff recognize as much. That being the case, Admiral Hayward shouldn't be the only service chief saying so in public.

Young Americans are assured by their political leaders that the draft registration is "not really a draft." All it is is a symbolic gesture intended to frighten the Soviets. Really, young Americans, there is no prospect you will be called for military duty - but you'd sure enough better register or Uncle Sam will have his bloodhounds after you! Not after illegal immigrants - but after YOU! The Selective Service System wants it known that it plans to track down and prosecute and imprison young men who do not register for the military draft.

Computers will be used for "tracking" and federal prosecutors for prosecuting and those who don't register and get caught can go to prison for five years and pay a $10,000 fine. But while all this federal effort and taxpayer money will be diverted to seeking and catching and punishing a fugitive from a non-draft...

of illegal immigrants who get counted but not prosecuted. Faced with an endless stream of refugees across our borders the United States has suspended immigration rules. The Navy and the Coast Guard have stopped fining smugglers. We are breaking rules and remaking rules to accommodate an influx which our government says it is helpless to prevent.

I was amazed to learn that Johnny Carson had gone to the trouble of suing the distributor of a portable toilet. It seems as though the toilet, a John, carried a "Here's Johnny" logo on it and Carson, also a John, felt it infringed on his own identity. Carson, I think, takes himself too seriously. Does he believe he is the only John or Johnny in this world. Well, he isn't. I was known as Johnny for the first half of my life, and I went by John after I left home.

Johns have had a distinguished history. It all started many years ago when John Marco Polo traveled around the world, begetting Johns wherever he went. The name continued spreading when John Balboa, John Ponce DeLeon, John LaSalle, and John Cortez carried their adventures to the new world. In America the name was spread even more by the exploits of John Thomas Jefferson, John B. Franklin, and John George Washington. Historians, however, have long had a terrible prejudice against Johns and the names of many famous men have been altered horribly in the textbook renditions of history.

Still, even the history conspiracy was unable to wipe out the household use of the word John. Besides the John, a comrade, there is the prostitute's John or customer, and who has not at one time or other gotten a "Dear John" letter. I can honestly say that every letter I have received has been in the "Dear John" category. There is also the John Henry signature, made famous for its boldness and clarity.

Long Johns, an underwear, will keep you warm in the winter. That, however, strikes a sensitive chord with me and I don't like to talk about such things. Getting into the variations of John, you have your Johnny-come-lately and Johnny-on-the-spot expressions. Then, too, there was Johnny of when "Johnny Comes Marching Home" fame. He, though, is not to be confused with Johnny Appleseed. I'm proud to be a John and don't care a whit if my name is used in vain from time to time. It's the price one has to pay for fame.

Some people have faith in the healing power of certain ministers, but probably few have as strong faith as some people in Jerusalem had who believed Peter's shadow might heal the sick.

Uncle Sam professes helplessness to do anything about the millions of illegal immigrants in the United States and the hordes more still coming in. Labor Secretary Marshall says illegal aliens are taking jobs from millions of Americans; that without these our unemployment would be less than four percent. 700, demanding more welfare!

Young Americans have seen so much hypocrisy in one generation it's little wonder that the draft-registration in some areas is only 30 percent effective and that up to 50 percent of those who do register identify themselves as "conscientious objectors."

Hear this quote, please: "Why not postpone the next war until the cause is so popular that everybody would know what he is fighting for, then you'd not have to draft anybody?"

Will Rogers said that in November, 1926.

(C) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Two Justice Department investigators assert that Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, contrary to his Senate testimony, acted to delay the department's probe of Billy Carter's ties with Libya. The two, who have taken part in the investigations of the president's brother and of Civiletti's handling of it, agreed separately to be interviewed on the condition that their names not be revealed.

The investigators differ on why they think Civiletti attempted to roadblock the Billy Carter probe. One believes Civiletti was trying to protect the president for political reasons, while the other believes the attorney general was acting on White House orders to protect national security.

This is the background: By last February, Joel Lisker, head of the Justice Department's foreign-agent registration office, was sure but could not prove that the president's brother had received some compensation from the Libyans.

In April, U.S. intelligence agents obtained hard information that Billy had received $220,000 from the Libyans and had made a deal with Charter Oil that could make him rich if the Libyans sold additional crude oil to Charter. That information was apparently passed along to national-security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, and to Civiletti.

Brzezinski reportedly responded by warning Billy that the Libyans might use their relationship with him for international political gain. Civiletti merely locked the report in his office safe. Although Lisker could have used the information to threaten Billy with criminal prosecution if he did not register as a foreign agent, the attorney general failed to turn it over on the grounds that doing so might compromise its sensitive source.

Civiletti did not tell Lisker of the information until June 6 - after Lisker had learned of it from other sources and, perhaps not coincidentally, three days after the final presidential primaries.

On June 10, Billy's lawyer suddenly called Lisker to set up a meeting the next day for his client to discuss his relations with Libya. At that meeting, as in two earlier sessions with Lisker, Billy was less than cooperative. He abruptly broke off the interview to "go to the White House for an important meeting." Lisker told Civiletti about his meeting with Billy and about having ordered him tailed by the FBI. Civiletti reportedly was angered by the surveillance and told Lisker to wait 10 days before proceeding.

On June 17, Civiletti warned the president about the consequences to Billy if he did not register as a foreign agent.

"Of course Civiletti delayed the probe," says one investigator with a shake of his head. "He could have given the details of the financial information without detailing the source. Remember, many of the people involved in the investigation had security clearances almost as high as the attorney general's. If what the attorney general is saying is that the information had a 'super' classification, then it was over-classified and he should have fought to have the classification changed so he could pass it along."

This investigator is angry that presidential counsel Lloyd Cutler was apparently kept fully apprised of the Justice Department's probe of Billy. "Cutler's client is the president," he says, "and he (Cutler) would have been derelict if he did not pass along what he found out to the president. I can't believe that Billy and his counsel didn't know within hours what we knew and what we were going to do."

To this investigator, the reason for all this was simple: "to protect the president from the possible political fallout."

But to his colleague, the motive behind the attorney general's actions may be more complex.

"I think perhaps what Billy was engaged in, perhaps unwittingly, was a little backdoor diplomacy," suggests this investigator. "Remember, Libya is very important and influential with many Moslem and third-world governments. Our relations with them have been awful. But now through Billy we suddenly had a viable private link..."

"I think Brzezinski told Civiletti that Billy's relationship with the Libyans was valuable and had to be allowed to continue out of the public spotlight and that the whole matter should be allowed to rest until we could see where it (the relationship) was leading. There's no doubt Civiletti delayed the investigation, not to protect the president politically but to protect the new link to Libya."

From Vietnam To Iran To Manila...

Bad Luck Dogs Electrician In Choice Of Jobs

By RUBEN ALABASTRO MANILA, Philippines (AP) - The lure of the dollar has taken Agel Arbon Jr. to near-distasters at U.S. diplomatic missions in Vietnam, Cambodia and Iran. He's hoping the Americans in Manila will bring him better luck.

Arbon first left the Philippines to work in Vietnam, the world didn't seem so perilous to him. Or if it did, it wasn't anything to worry about.

"It's my job and that's where the dollar is," he said in an interview. "It's the hot places that need people, electricians, like me. You go to a quiet place, but the job won't pay much." In Vietnam, he worked for the U.S. Agency for International Development as a maintenance specialist in Can Tho City, troubleshooting generators hit by Viet Cong rockets.

He found the situation "worse" in Cambodia, where he worked with the embassy after quitting

AID in 1973. "The Khmer Rouge target was the embassy, and we would crawl on our bellies to the shelter or the nearest ditch when the rockets came," Arbon recalled.

In April 1975, Arbon joined the American evacuation as rebels tapped on the gates of Phnom Penh. A month later he was with the American embassy in Tehran.

"Iran was a lovely place then. Many people like me went there, hoping to stay perhaps for five years and put aside some savings," he said. He earned about $1,000 a month, sending half of it to his family back home.

Then trouble found his scent once more.

It was Valentine's Day last year when Iranian youths stormed the embassy compound and grabbed him, holding him captive for two hours. This was during the February revolution that overthrew the shah.

Given a choice by his American supervisor of staying in Iran or not, Arbon said he would remain, "whatever happens."

Nine months later he was no longer sure whether he would be able to leave the country alive. Militants seized the embassy and took him hostage again along with more than 50 Americans.

He was in captivity for 16 days, finally set free Nov. 22 after Philippine government intercession. Another Filipino, a Korean and a Bengali were released at the same time.

Arbon clings to some superstitions which make him wary about working overseas again, especially in countries where there are growing anti-U.S. sentiments.

"Perhaps I won't be so lucky next time," he said.

"I just realized that at my age I have to stay with my family for the rest of my life," he said. "If possible, I don't want to be separated from them again... I have a hunch something might happen next time."

Consumer Ruling Mixed Blessing

By LEE JONES Associated Press Writer AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court's latest consumer decision is a mixed blessing to the average Texan.

The court ruled Friday that the state's Deceptive Trade Practices Act requires honesty not only from merchants but also from individuals who sell their own property.

On the one hand, the decision offers protection when you buy something from an individual seller who misrepresents its quality.

But on the other, it leaves you open to an expensive lawsuit if you fail to disclose defects of a car or house or anything else you sell on your own.

"If you do not know something to be true, you should not represent it to be true to the consumer," said Debra Ravel, an attorney in Attorney General Mark White's consumer protection division.

Leaving out important facts that might affect a buyer's decision - such as the fact that a car was in a collision or a house had a cracked foundation - could leave you open to a lawsuit and triple damages, she said.

"Be sure to disclose the information you believe would be material to the buyer," Ms. Ravel said.

A seller has a defense if what he or she says is based on a written statement from a third party, such as a mechanic's bill that shows a car's brakes were repaired.

The court upheld the constitutionality of awarding consumers three times their actual economic loss as punishment for sellers who deceive them.

It said there were valid purposes for triple damages. One is to deter misrepresentation, it said, while the other is to make it economically feasible for lawyers to take consumer cases.

State law allows actual damages of up to $1,000 to be tripled automatically even where intentional deception cannot be proved. Even larger amounts can be tripled if deliberate misrepresentation can be proved.

Ms. Ravel said Friday's decision "lays to rest any question about the constitutionality of our Deceptive Trade Practices Act."

Auto dealers and real estate salesmen won some changes in the act favorable to sellers in 1979 but failed to eliminate triple damages for unintentional misrepresentation.
