On Record Against Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate went on record against President Carter's grain embargo today despite a warning that it was answering one mistake with another.

The senators adopted by voice vote a move to place an anti-embargo rider on a bill that had already been amended to ban the Justice Department from spending money to require busing of students for integration.

Khomeini Death Denied

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq's official radio reported Friday that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Iranian revolutionary leader with whose regime Iraq is at war, has died, but Tehran Radio denied the report shortly after.

"It has been confirmed to us that the impostor Khomeini has met his death," said Baghdad Radio. It did not say how the claimed confirmation was obtained.

It was the second report this week by the Iraqi radio of a sensational development in its adversary's capital. On Tuesday it reported that the 52 American hostages held in Iran had been released unconditionally. Tehran Radio denied the report, and Baghdad Radio abandoned it.

Pope Opens First Synod

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John Paul II opened his first synod of Roman Catholic bishops today with expectations that it will break no new ground and will reaffirm the church's traditional opposition to birth control, abortion, divorce and extramarital sexual relations.

In a solemn Mass in the magnificent Sistine Chapel, the pontiff declared that it is "the duty of each Christian family to guard and preserve humanity itself. Families must preserve fundamental values of the church."

Questioning Hauser Declined By Defense

HOUSTON (AP)—Defense attorneys, in a stunning and surprising move, today declined any cross-examination of FBI informant Joseph Hauser.

Hauser, the key witness in the Texas Brilab case had been on the stand for more than a week as prosecutors played a score of tapes involving an alleged insurance kickback scheme.

When Hauser finished his testimony today, defense attorneys Roy Minton, Gerald Goldstein and Ed Mollett, one by one, said "No questions."

The three attorneys refused to give any reason for their action. One legal advisor to the defense said, however, "The tapes more or less spoke for themselves and didn't really prove anything. There was no need to go back over the conversations and Mr. Hauser (See Brilab, Page 9)

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP)—Iraq claimed today the fall of Iran's burning oil refinery city of Abadan was imminent while both countries appeared moving toward mediation of their border conflict. The two Persian Gulf oil giants duelled with heavy artillery across their border waterway on the fifth day of the war, setting off fires in oil installations on both sides. Both countries have indicated they will accept Islamic mediation, according to Pakistani Foreign Minister Aga Shahi, a key figure in the 40-member Islamic Conference of Nations. He spoke with reporters in New York in advance of a meeting of U.N. delegates who also are members of the Islamic conference. Baghdad radio broadcast a statement by Iraqi Foreign Minister Saadoon Hammadeh saying Iraq would "welcome any discussion" to end the fighting but warning that "any assistance offered to the Iranian regime, especially in the field of spare parts, will be considered an act of aggression against Iraq's security." There have been reports, denied by Washington, that Iran might seek spare parts for its American-made planes in exchange for release of the 52 Americans it has held hostage since Nov. 4. Iran reported "very heavy" civilian casualties in Abadan and Khorramshahr, two major ports on the Shatt al-Arab waterway. Tehran radio quoted Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr as denying Iraq's claim that it had captured Khorramshahr. It said he visited the front Thursday and went within four miles of Khorramshahr. "Tehran radio said 'the brave people' of Khorramshahr had set up defenses on all sides of the city and were fighting in the streets and on the rooftops. The Iraqi military said earlier Iraqi forces had captured Khorramshahr and were closing in on Ahwaz, the capital of Iran's oil-rich Khuzestan Province 70 miles to the north.

SIGNING UP—Winnebago travelers were pouring in with the rain this morning for the state rally being conducted here on the grounds of the Scurry County Coliseum. Winnebago Rally Moves Into Full Slate Today

Some 75 units were on hand today for a Texas Winnebago rally at the Scurry County Coliseum despite the rainy weather. Members of the organization are making use of the new utility hookups for recreational vehicles on the coliseum grounds. Winnebagoes had been arriving since late last week, with registration for the weekend rally beginning officially Thursday evening.

Registration was continuing this morning at the coliseum, and at 10 a.m., an arts and crafts show was scheduled, with the Snyder Palette Club participating. Industrial and shopping tours were on the schedule for this afternoon, and the Board of County Development and Chamber of Commerce were providing bus service for the visi-

On the tour schedule are the Diamond M Museum, Northern Electric Co. and Walls Industries.

A Saturday evening highlight will be a catered barbecue dinner and entertainment by Robert Allen and the Country Boys western band.

The rally will close Sunday morning with a devotional to be led by the Rev. Gary Dudder, minister of First Christian Church.

Hospital By-Laws Changes Approved

The board of managers of Cogdell Memorial Hospital met in regular session last night.

Approved was financial report of hospital administrator Cy Miller listing the hospital's total liabilities and net worth at $3,147,541 as of Aug. 31.

Also approved were changes in the medical staff by-laws. The changes consist of amendments and deletions in the wording for updating and clarification, Miller told board members. The changes received the unanimous approval by board members.

Miller also reported that the hospital was resuming its previous arrangement with out-of-town emergency room doctors. The doctors had last month been granted a pay hike from $25 per hour to $27.50 per hour for weekend work. However, said Miller, because of a misunderstanding between the doctors and their agent, the doctors were willing to resume the old arrangement. Although the doctors are now being paid $27.50 per hour, a 30-day cancellation of that contract has been signed. The doctors will resume their $25 per hour status next month.

The meeting concluded with a demonstration by Dr. Anil Goswami, head of the radiology department, of the hospital's new ultra-sound machine. The device was recently installed and is used in abdominal scans.

Lakes Add To Supplies As Area Rains Resume

Rains resumed over the Snyder area Thursday afternoon and continued throughout the night as a slow-moving cold front moved into the state.

While most of the rain fell slowly, some runoff developed as area streams began to flow, and continued forecasts for rain prompted flash flood watches in Scurry and all neighboring counties.

At the same time, area lakes were beginning to gain from the rains.

More Cubans On The Way

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Some 50 refugee vessels were en route to Key West today in the latest influx of Cubans to America, the U.S. Coast Guard said amid reports the Cuban port of Mariel had been closed.

Spokesman Bob Britt of the Miami station said authorities were not sure how many refugees were aboard the vessels.

He said recent refugee arrivals told the Coast Guard that the Cuban government had closed Mariel Harbor—the only government-sanctioned point of departure for Cuban nationals traveling to America in the "Freedom Flotilla" boatlift.

WQBA Radio in Miami, the largest Spanish-language station in South Florida, reported that Cuban authorities closed the harbor at midnight Thursday.

"We're trying to get in touch with someone to see. But I've heard that before—a couple of months ago," Britt said.

Up to noon today, all highways in the immediate Snyder area were open, reported the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Ed Vernon, resident engineer, said that some low water crossings on Farm Roads were under water, but traffic was able to move. Some Snyder streets had water curb deep as the rains continued.

The official gauge at the city water plant measured 1.95 inches during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today. Light to heavy drizzle continued during the morning.

Showers were reported Thursday in Borden County, resulting in some inflow for Lake J.B. Thomas. Colorado River Municipal Water District Officials said a vertical rise of two to three feet was expected, based on rain that had fallen on the watershed up to this morning. More rains today could increase that figure.

Lake Thomas' elevation was expected to reach 2222 as a result of water now headed for the lake, its highest point since June of 1977. This would make about 30,000 acre feet the lake has caught this summer, the best year since 1976, and second best to the 52,500 acre feet in 1972, the last "average" year.

Lake E.V. Spence at Robert Lee also expected a rise. The anticipated elevation there was 1864.50, which would make 83,600 acre feet caught there for the year, second only to the 109,500 acre feet in 1971.

The water caught at Lake Spence further enhanced the vastly-improved quality of water from that reservoir, since it was virtually chloride free.

Lake Thomas is now four feet above its elevation of a year ago, and Lake Spence is eight feet higher. Forecasts called for continued rain this afternoon and tonight over the Snyder area.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Thursday, 82 degrees; low, 62 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. today, 64 degrees; precipitation, 1.95; total precipitation for 1980 to date, 17.69.

Tax Rate Proposed...

Thrift Appointed To Post On City Council

The Snyder City Council last night appointed a new member to fill Place 2 on the council and approved a proposal to set the city tax rate at 40 cents per $100 valuation.

Ed Thrift, local businessman, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the council which was created by the recent resignation of Bryce Booker. Thrift is manager of Mens II men's wear store and Bea Owens women's wear store on the west side of the Snyder square.

He has been active in community affairs, especially in the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and its retail merchants activities. The appointment, which is effective immediately, fills the vacancy on the council until the next election, which will be held in April of 1981.

The tax rate proposed last night represents an increase of 11.2 percent, based on the state formula for comparison of the 1979 and 1980 rates. A hearing will be held on the tax rate at the council's regular meeting Oct. 6.

Like other taxing entities in the county, the city will base its tax levy this year on 100 percent of assessed valuations as compiled by the Scurry County Appraisal District.

In other business at the called session last night, the council approved a $1,075 appropriation from the motel-hotel tax fund to include Snyder in a new edition of the West Texas Fun and Adventure brochure, which promotes the 132-county area of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Art Feinsod, who requested the funds, said Snyder would have pictures and points of interest designated on the brochure's map. Several hundred thousand of the brochures are distributed each year at points of entry into the state and at chamber of commerce offices and tourism centers, Feinsod said.

Mayor Milton Ham presided at the council session, and council members attending were Dr. John Best, David Holt and Rod Waller.

pinochet rides high

It is nice to be wanted. Just ask Gen. Augusto Pinochet.

If anyone ought to know at the moment, it is the president-dictator of Chile, whose voters have overwhelmingly approved a new constitution that has written into it at least another eight years of his rule and possibly - if he decides he so desires - 16.

It was only the second nationwide balloting since 1973, when Pinochet and his fellow army officers, with considerable assistance from the CIA among other interested outside parties, overthrew Chile's last elected civilian government. Just on the chance that the public might have lost the hang of it in the interim, their military leaders made sure of a maximum turnout. Non-voters were fined.

Voting was a simple enough matter, no agonizing choices to make among contending candidates and on crucial points of public policy. Just a straight yes or no on the new national charter drafted by Pinochet and company.

As constitutions go, it is about as personalized as they come. It does not take effect until 1989 - and then only maybe. Pinochet is granted the power to amend it as he sees fit before that date.

No political activity will be permitted until 1989, at which date parliamentary elections are scheduled - but again maybe. If the generals decide the country isn't yet ready for such a heady experience in participatory government, forget it.

Pinochet's presidency is guaranteed from now until the constitution becomes effective, plus another eight years - through 1997 - should he feel that he is just settling into the job.

To grant Pinochet and company their due, they have presided over the recovery of a once-devastated economy and order prevails in the country with only occasional violent manifestations of dissent - i.e., assassinations of secondary government figures, despite the oppressive measures, including torture, with which that order is maintained, the majority of Chileans probably are in no rush to return to the chaotic freedom of the last democratic years. The favorable vote may well be a fair count, or nearly so.

But as has been observed by Eduardo Frei, former president and Christian Democratic leader of the opposition, it is not the way to resolve the deep social divisions between the comfortable and the very poor that are Chile's real problem.

"To impose a formula such as this insures that conflict will grow because of the inevitable dynamic caused by this tragic circle of repression and protest which only serves extremists who favor violence," Frei warned in the one major speech he was permitted before the vote.

Pinochet and his formula may have won for the moment by three to one, four to one or much more. But it is probably a 10 to one bet that repression will not be capable of keeping that conflict bottled up to permit him to serve out his anticipated 16 years - possibly not even the next eight.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

I saw an ad for a new diet the other day that will never get off the ground. It's called "STARVE."

The woman pictured with the article looked terrible. Her face was drawn, her eyes looked tortured, her bust sagged, and her neck looked like a candidate for chicken stock.

The diet promised you nothing but work, sacrifice, and a 15-pound weight reduction in a YEAR if you changed your eating habits. No pills. No hot-air jumpsuits. No staples in your ear. No hypnosis. Just sensible eating habits.

Who wants to hear that kind of talk?

I want to believe the ads that tell me I can lose 12 pounds as I sleep just by wearing a "strange suit" and awake to slimmer thighs, smooth hips and a caved-in waistline. I want to try the "magic formula" that up until now only famous Hollywood and TV stars could afford but is now available to me in a plain wrapper.

I want to believe that I can lose three pounds a week lounging in a chair eating french fries, thanks to a weight reduction light bulb that also makes me tan.

I am hypnotized by the words, "MELT AWAY INCHES," "THE MORE YOU EAT THE MORE YOU LOSE" and "LOSE UP TO SIX POUNDS BEFORE WE CASH YOUR CHECK."

Dieters are like that. They cannot handle the truth. They live on promises and fantasies and actually believe that in days they'll be walking around the house wearing five-inch heels with a bathing suit and have hair halfway down their backs just by putting a checkmark next to a little box that says, "Yes! I want to free myself from fat bondage forever!"

If you've ever wondered who reads those full-page testimonials with the before-and-after pictures and a headline that reads, "I WAS TOO FAT TO LOVE..." I do.

Somehow, no matter how disgusted I am with myself, I am never as bad as Tanya who wore coveralls at her wedding and surprised her husband one weekend by losing 325 pounds.

Last week, I saw a provocative ad in which a man built like Arnold Schwarzenegger was crashing through the surf carrying a nymph in a bikini who weighed about 36 pounds. (I've roasted larger chickens than that.) The headline challenged, "When was the last time your husband carried you anywhere?"

As I wrote out a check my husband said, "Surely you're not going to fall for that picture of the girl in the surf?"

"I can't lose," I said. "If I'm not completely satisfied in 30 days, I can return an unused husband and get a new one."

NEW YORK (AP)—Would you consider it a good deal to invest $10,000 in a company that conceivably could double in price some day, and for doing so be reimbursed $1,000 by Uncle Sam?

That dream proposition might yet become reality. The instrument of the metamorphosis is already being considered in the House and Senate. And lest you think they've lost their financial anchor altogether, consider some of the background.

U.S. industrial society isn't what it used to be; it needs capital to modernize and become more efficient. Small businesses, which create jobs and promote competition, complain that they are unable to raise funds.

Meanwhile, there you sit squirming in your financial straitjacket, frantically looking for a way to get ahead. You watch inflation eat your assets like acid eats metal or termites eat the front porch.

Something has to be done, and that's where the Individual Investors Incentive Act would step into the picture.

The IIA would allow you to subtract from your income taxes 10 percent of whatever new money, up to $10,000 a year, you invest in corporate stocks. If you invested $1,000, for example, you would lower your income tax by $100. That $100 would come right off the bottom-line figure, a credit on the tax itself rather than a deduction from taxable income.

There is an important provision: The money would have to be new to the market. You wouldn't be able to sell stock in one company and, in the same year, use the proceeds to buy into another. The money would have to come from without the stock market, such as from savings.

Proponents of the idea, and there are 79 co-sponsors in the House and others in the Senate, think it would help feed money to industry, relieve individual financial pressures, and generate a robust economy.

Perhaps, you say, but how in the name of taxes can Uncle Sam afford to give up all that revenue? Well, some proponents say, he, too, might be better off for having returned some of his revenue to the investors.

George A. Nicholson, Jr. of the National Association of Investment Clubs, one of the majors forces behind the proposal, explains that the Treasury already is losing millions of bucks because of debt financing.

To explain: A company can finance itself by raising equity, as in the stock market, or by borrowing, as in the bond market. Interest is charged on borrowed money, and that interest is tax-deductible. IIA isn't in the clear yet, of course, because there are details to be worked out and disagreements to be resolved. And there is likely to be opposition, as from savings banks and savings and loan associations.

the assassination of Anastasio Somoza.

That's certainly one way of looking at the deposed Nicaraguan strongman's blood-drenched exit in distant Paraguay.

Somoza himself left no doubt that it was also his way, for he regarded himself as not only a friend but the staunchest of the staunch - the very best Washington had in his neighborhood. And he ascribed his downfall to an American betrayal of that friendship that opened the gates to communist advance throughout Central America.

His family had guarded those gates for almost half a century, ever since the Marines pulled out in 1933 and left his father, also Anastasio, in command of an American-trained National Guard commissioned to keep order in Nicaragua.

That it did, and it also enabled the senior Somoza to crush all political opposition and found a presidential dynasty. When the father fell to assassins in 1956, eldest son Luis took over. In 1967, it was the turn of second son Anastasio, who had earlier inherited the National Guard. He ran it and the country as personal possessions.

That became almost literally the case with the country. Starting with Anastasio Sr.'s modest coffee farm, the Somoza holdings multiplied again and again, eventually encompassing cotton plantations and cattle ranches, textile plants and ships, a cement business that held a monopoly on paving the capital's streets and a newspaper run by a cousin who was also president of the national senate.

There were few enterprises worth considering that Somoza did not come to own outright or acquire an interest in. But that was not enough for Anastasio Somoza. He moved in on the few exceptions, and that was the beginning of his end.

Following the earthquake that flattened Managua in 1972, Somoza pocketed most of the millions in foreign relief poured into the country. The center of the city remained in ruins while money intended to rehouse the people and rehabilitate the economy was diverted to Somoza enterprises, such as luxury apartment complexes to new suburbs created in squalid barrios - on land acquired at exorbitant prices from Somoza associates.

Resentment was no longer confined to the long-suffering poor. It spread to the business community which, with misgivings but seeing no alternative as a counter to Somoza's rapacity, made common cause with a guerrilla movement that had been sniping at Somoza and his guard since the early '70s.

As the opposition became more effective, Somoza responded with repression, stifling political activity and the press, slaughtering anyone suspected of aiding the guerrillas.

All this in the cause of combatting communism, of course, demonstrating what a great friend the United States had in Anastasio Somoza.

In the end neither friendship nor guard were enough. The Americans that counted - the human rights-minded Carter administration - no longer bought the former and the Marxist-oriented rebel coalition triumphed over the latter. Somoza fled in July 17, 1979, eventually to Paraguayan exile and an end that, while spectacular, was no more brutal than the deaths thousands of his countrymen had suffered at his hands.

Like so many of his kind, Somoza, not Marx, was the architect of his downfall. Discontent was permitted no outlet. Normal opposition was labeled subversive and surprised: An ever-larger part of the population was victimized and radicalized. The greater the effort at repression, the stronger and more determined the opposition grew and the more certain its eventual success in overthrowing the despotic regime.

To the end, Somoza retained some friends in Washington, one of whom, Democrat Charles Wilson of Texas, found in his story the lesson on the perils of friendship.

That is, to repeat, one way of looking at it.

But there is another: As long as the United States has "friends" such as Somoza anywhere, it can be certain it will never be short of enemies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Mishaps could occur today if you attempt to do too many things or try to do them hastily. Fortunately a member of your family will come to your rescue.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep a flexible attitude today regarding your social hopes. Initial plans may not turn out to be the fun you thought, but things that take their place will.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It may at first appear as if everything is working against you today, but this problem is short-lived. Conditions will suddenly shift in your favor.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Action without thinking could get you in a heap of trouble today, while taking the time to figure things out right will do just the opposite.

my turn

by john dunnam

Some people might have found the weather last night too nasty to their liking. I loved it. There is nothing cozier than a rainy night in late September.

It was only a couple of weeks ago that heat, lingering from one of the hottest and driest summers on record, was still punishing us. Fall and cooler weather seemed a hundred years away. Suddenly, fall has fell. Its getting dark much earlier and headlights are needed for the drive to work. The morning air is damp and brisk, almost cool enough for a sweater, and that sense of anticipation that seems to characterize this time of year, hangs heavy in the air.

You can have the blistering summer months of June and July and I'll even throw in all the windy spring days of April and May. In West Texas, I'll take the refreshing fall afternoons anytime. Sunny and warm with a hint of cold blowing in the breeze, they seem to suggest good things are on the way.

Its on the chilly, rainy nights that lovers and dreamers can really shine. Being both (I love to dream), September is, if you haven't figured it out, my favorite month.

The senses are more acute. Food tastes better, promises heard as if for the first time and girls are out in force showing off the new fall fashions.

I always seem to rediscover the pleasure of reading this time of year. Last night, while the rain dripped off the roof, I turned the radio from rock to the new FM station in town and curled up with the September edition of Texas Monthly magazine.

When one makes his living passing on information about the raucous events happening on our own explosive world, its helps to escape once in a while. Putting things in perspective was an article about an astronomer who described his own profession: "We are a people on a small planet in a not very exciting part of the galaxy trying to figure out the secrets of the universe."

And if the McDonald Observatory in Far West Texas where he works can raise a mere $25 million dollars to build a revolutionary new telescope, he should, at least get a fleeting glimpse of those secrets.

He explains that all the stars visible to the naked eye are members of our own Milky Way galaxy, but it is only one of hundreds of billions of star systems pinwheeling through the cosmos.

As vast as some of them are, other galaxies are so far from us that most appear as little more than faint smudges on the most powerful telescopes now available.

And beyond the galaxies are the yet more remote objects called quasars, bodies thought to be about the size of our solar system that somehow emit more energy than whole galaxies. These quasars are particularly baffling to astronomers because they don't seem to follow the laws of physics.

Some quasars are estimated to be as far as ten billion light years away. One light year is 5,878,000, 000,000 miles.

Thus astronomers believe, the few photos of light reaching us from these distances have been traveling since shortly after the beginning of the universe and will provide us with the initial clues to the secrets of the universe: its origin, its reason and its destiny.

With so many exciting things yet to be discovered it's a shame we spend most of our time, effort and money quelling mutinies on our own tiny spaceship earth.

'Ghost' Host Deserves A Quicker Exit

DEAR ABBY: Charles and I met on a blind date, and we hit it off beautifully. I'm 36, divorced and not hard up for dates. Charles is 40, a lawyer with a terrific personality. He claimed he was a great cook, and invited me to his apartment for a gourmet dinner.

When I arrived at his tastefully furnished bachelor high-rise, he greeted me warmly and handed me a cocktail. Then his phone rang. I'm sure it was a woman. He went into another room to talk privately and, Abby, he left me alone for 30 minutes! When he returned he didn't even apologize! I did my best to hide my anger.

We resumed our conversation — then his buzzer rang. (Someone was calling from the lobby.) He said, "No, don't come up. I'll be right down." Then he said to me, "Excuse me, I'll only be a minute." After sitting alone for another 30 minutes, I decided I had had enough, so I left. When I reached the lobby, I saw my "host" engrossed in a very animated conversation with a young woman. I simply said, "Goodbye, Charles. I am leaving." He grabbed my arm and held me while he told the other woman to "go home, and please don't do anything foolish."

Then he asked me to please come upstairs with him so he could explain everything. I told him there was nothing to explain, his rudeness was inexcusable, and I never wanted to see him again. (His response was unprintable.) Abby, was I justified for leaving as I did? And how would you have handled it?

MANHATTAN

DEAR MANHATTAN: You hung around longer than I would have. I'd have left when my host became a "ghost" for 30 minutes, and then offered no apology.

DEAR ABBY: How long should a woman stay with a man who says he is not ready for marriage?

I'm 34, single, successful and sophisticated. Dave (not his real name) is 32, sweet and shy. We've dated steadily for seven months, and I would like to get married.

Dave is looking for "fireworks" — which our relationship lacks, but they may come later. If they don't, it wouldn't bother me because I think what we have is better and more lasting than fireworks.

We really do care for each other, but I'm terrified of wasting time.

What do you think? Should I set a time limit?
BIOLOGY IS DESTINY

DEAR BIOLOGY: If it's fireworks he wants, give it until the 4th of July.

DEAR ABBY: Five months ago my wife began studying karate at a women's martial arts center, and shortly thereafter she bought some weights to lift at home.

At first I found it rather amusing, and when she would practice her karate on me, I could still easily pin her shoulders to the floor. Lately, however, her karate kicks and punches have begun to really hurt, and last week she finally was able to beat me up!

At first I thought it was just luck, but since then, she's succeeded in pinning me down five times in a row, each time with more ease and a lot more bruises for me.

Our sex life remains exciting, but do you think a marriage can last if the wife is physically stronger than her husband and can beat him up?

BRUISED HUSBAND

DEAR BRUISED: Why not? It would be a sad state of (marital) affairs if the durability of a marriage depended on the physical strength of either party. Make love, not war!

jumped to five clubs. This could only be set one trick, but it would have almost surely pushed South to the five level where he would be out of his depth.

South's four-heart bid was in the nature of a slam try. If North held a decent spade raise there might well be a slam.

North was delighted to pass. He knew that he did not have his previous bid.

West opened his singleton diamond. East took his ace and returned the suit even though South had false-carded with the jack. He also returned the deuce as a suit preference signal for clubs.

Now West underled his ace of clubs. East took his queen and led back a third diamond. West ruffed to force dummy to overruff. This left West with a spade trick and South with a minus score.

The best that can be said of West's weak jump overcall is that it was weak.

It did give North a problem. He finally found a raise to three spades. If East had not known that his partner was addicted to super-weak jump overcalls he might have

Obesity Causes Studied

By Gaynor Maddox

Overweight has become a major worry of many Americans.

They fear that an extra slice of steak or piece of pie will endanger their looks and their health.

But some common assumptions about the causes and risks of obesity are currently being challenged by such respected researchers as David A. Levitsky, a nutritional scientist at Cornell University.

Levitsky reports that overeating is not the major cause of obesity. In fact, there is no clear evidence that the obese in general eat more than those who remain slender.

Instead, he says, obesity is more the result of genetics, inactivity and poorly developed metabolism.

Many researchers are also concluding that being as much as 25 or 30 pounds overweight is not necessarily unhealthy.

"Contrary to popular belief," notes Levitsky, "the risk of being overweight is not severe for the great majority of the population."

Admittedly, weight reduction is imperative for those who are massively obese. Otherwise, they run a greater risk of developing a variety of diseases and of dying before their time.

Levitsky blames the media and the manufacturers of diet products for much of our preoccupation with our weight.

"Millions of dollars are spent every year on diet foods, books and drugs, all of which promise rapid weight loss and instant happiness," he says. "Much of the diet information these products contain is fraudulent."

"In television and print advertising, you see images of super-thin individuals. Much of the unhappiness of the overweight comes from comparing the figures on the screen or in print with their own. So, they go on buying pills and drugs in the futile hope to succeed."

In this respect, he says, overweight becomes more a social or psychological problem than a physical one.

In treating the obese, Levitsky recommends that doctors and nutritionists first ask themselves: "Why did this patient get fat? And how does this condition affect his or her health?"

Only after health professionals have ascertained this information should they recommend diet, exercise or other treatment. This will take time, he warns, but it will help establish a more effective program of treating the obese.

Artist Likes To Share Experiences With All

Ben Konis, who will be visiting the Scurry County Museum this weekend for the opening of his one-man show there, has an affinity for people.

He wants his audience to enjoy each piece he shows, sharing in his experiences as much as he delighted in its execution. When one of his paintings is purchased, he enjoys meeting the buyer and telling him a little about the piece, imparting such things as emotions felt during its creation, the time of day and details about the model. Numerous good friends have been made by the Konises as a result of his art.

For Konis, it is truly rewarding when a buyer relates to a scene or a portrait which triggers fond memories. He believes it important for the collector to meet the artist and to know a little about him and his background.

Mr. and Mrs. Konis will be guests of the Scurry

County Museum Association at a buffet dinner and preview of the show at 7 o'clock Saturday night. Persons who would like to join the Association in time to attend the party are invited to call the museum office for details. On Sunday, the public is invited to attend a reception honoring Konis from 1-5 o'clock in the museum. The show is to remain in the museum through Oct. 25.

Konis has also scheduled a workshop in the museum from Monday through Wednesday. Persons interested in enrolling are to contact the museum office in advance. Fees are $60 per person and students will need to furnish their own supplies.

Konis has been described as "an exuberant colorist." Harmonious interplay of vibrant colors with bold composition creates the dominating force in his paintings. He communicates with vivid hues and complex elements, and in so doing records history for tomorrow. As one interviewer wrote, "Ben Konis journeyed far from the steadfast learned routes traversing the path of trial and error to emerge as a highly creative, uninhibited colorist no longer afraid to take a chance."

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dentures make a difference

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR LAMB - I am 38 years old and I have no teeth. Neither does my husband but he doesn't have the problems that I have. My stomach stays full of gas all the time. It is also bloated. I have never been able to eat spicy or citrus things or milk or eggs without my stomach getting upset. Now everything I eat upsets my stomach. Also my sides hurt. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER - There are many reasons why people have trouble with gas. The two biggest factors involved are swallowing air and fermentation of undigested foods. That happens, for example, in a person who is intolerant to milk and can't absorb it. The carbohydrate in milk sugar ferments and acts like a chemical laxative.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 6-8, Controlling Gaseousness. It will discuss this problem in detail for you and offer suggestions you can follow to help control your symptoms. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. I was struck by your comment that you don't have any teeth. It could be that your dentures don't fit properly. As one of our readers pointed out some time ago, having ill-fitting dentures can lead to gas problems.

Why? Because that stimulates a person to swallow air. So it might not be a bad idea, among other things, to check with your dentist to see if you have proper fitting dentures or not. One difference between you and your husband may be that his dentures fit and yours don't.

DEAR DR LAMB - It is generally stated that offspring of incestuous relationships, or for that matter close cousins, are deformed. Is this true? Have there been any scientific studies done on this where actual numbers were counted? There have been many famous people married to their cousins without producing any deformed children.

DEAR READER - It's strictly a matter of genes. All of us have two sets of genes to determine each one of our characteristics, such as blue eyes or brown eyes or blond hair. One of these genes is dominant and that's the characteristic we see.

You may have two healthy people because their dominant genes are good and control their health but if they mate and have an offspring and the two bad weaker genes are present in the offspring, the child may have an abnormal characteristic. This is more apt to occur in close relatives because they have similar genes.

If there are no abnormal genes to begin with, there will be no abnormalities in the offspring. In fact, if you want to look at what's been done in the genetics of animals, the development of purebred animals is really a form of inbreeding. You take the desired animals that have the same characteristics and mate them over and over until the breed characteristics are established.

Some royal families in history have had a prominent history of familial disorders. The intermarriage of individuals who had genes for these diseases increased the frequency of these diseases.

Today if cousins are going to marry or there's any question about the problem, genetic counseling can be done to assess the likelihood of abnormal births.

Sickness Being Blamed On Fog That Came After Silo Explosion

GUY, Ark. (AP)—A fog that looked like a "light snow" blew into this tiny community shortly after a Titan II missile silo exploded five miles away last week, and officials say about two dozen residents, including the mayor, have been sick ever since.

The residents are complaining of nausea, burning sensations in their noses, throats and lungs, and dry, salty lips, although none apparently has become ill enough to be hospitalized.

Benny Mercer, mayor of the community of 200, puts the blame squarely on the toxic fumes that seeped from the silo.

Lt. Gen Lloyd R. Leavitt, vice commander of the Strategic Air Command, said Wednesday that Air Force calculations indicated toxic fumes had not reached Guy and in fact had not gone more than one mile from the silo.

But Mercer said Thursday that the fog, which arrived about an hour after the explosion, melted within 15 minutes and the Air Force did not take measurements soon enough to detect it.

The silo blew up last Friday after a wrench socket dropped by a workman ruptured a missile fuel tank. One person was killed and 21 were injured. The warhead from the missile was ejected from the silo and was later taken to a weapons plant in Amarillo, Texas, to be analyzed or disassembled.

Mercer said he was awake early Friday because he had been alerted to the explosion by a firefighter and was conferring with other community leaders on whether to order an evacuation.

Before the town was evacuated, Mercer said, the fumes started to roll in.

"A little after 4 a.m., it started moving in here like fog," he recalled. "We could see ash falling, little particles. In the mercury lights, it really showed up, like a light snow. You could step out in it, breathe it, and it would just burn your nose plumb to your lungs."

Mercer said he and his wife, Daisy, 36, and two of his children stepped out into the fog and came down with symptoms that afternoon. Two other children did not get in the fog and aren't sick, he

Energy Assistance Formula Moderated

WASHINGTON (AP)—A move to give a bigger share of low income energy assistance to the Frost Belt at the expense of Texas and other Sun Belt states has been moderated, says Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

The Texas Democrat said Thursday that a compromise formula adopted by a Senate committee would direct $57.4 million in Energy Assistance Act funds to the state during the next fiscal year. A formula adopted by the House would distribute $38 million to Texas, he said.

The bill goes next from the Senate Appropriations Committee to the Senate floor, probably before the congressional recess begins next week.

The House and Senate bills then would have to be reconciled.

Bentsen said if the formula in existing law were not changed Texas would receive about $60 million next year.

He said the formula has a clear bias to send more money to the North for help with heating bills, despite last summer's fatal evidence that heat can be a health hazard as well.

"I am continuing to fight in the Senate to eliminate all traces of regional bias in the Energy Assistance Act, but I am pleased that we were able to persuade the Senate Appropriations Committee to beat back efforts to worsen an already bad regional bias in this program," Bentsen said in a statement.

The senator said removing the bias altogether would direct about $100 million in the energy assistance funds to Texas.

Panel Recommends Solar Energy, Gasohol

AUSTIN (AP)—An energy advisory council has recommended proposals to develop solar energy - at a cost of billions a year - and to stimulate production of gasohol.

"Whether we like it or not, the petroleum age is coming to an end in Texas," said Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, a member of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council.

The council Thursday also recommended setting up a low-level nuclear waste dump on state-owned land.

A subcommittee report adopted by the council recommended that only nuclear waste generated within Texas be stored at the site. No specific site was mentioned.

Attorney General Mark White, a council member, warned that restricting waste disposal might not work.

"I don't think you can rely, going into this venture, on not getting other states' waste," said White. "Sometimes if you flaunt it - saying you won't accept another state's waste, they will try you, and you often come out second in those fights."

The report left the option of accepting nuclear waste from other states if a multi-state disposal agreement is negotiated and approved by the Legislature.

"Since it will require three to four years to get a site operational, it is necessary to have legislation on this issue during the 1981 Legislature," according to a staff summary. "The high-level waste issue is a much longer range proposition, and we have time to act later if needed. Another subcommittee is now working on high-level waste."

The advisory council, which also includes Gov. Bill Hobby, adopted a recommendation by Brown's subcommittee to exempt gasohol from the five cent per gallon motor fuel tax until 1987. At that time, one cent per gallon would be added to the price of gasohol each year until the tax on gasoline and gasohol - which is 90 percent gasoline and 10 percent alcohol - was the same.

Brown's subcommittee recommended state loans to build fuel alcohol plants and a requirement that state agencies spend at least 10 percent of their fuel budgets on gasohol and/or alcohol fuels "as they become available at competitive prices."

Dr. Jack Howell of the University of Texas at Austin said solar resources could provide up to 15 percent of Texas' energy needs in the year 2000.

"I'm not saying it will but it could...with the proper incentives," said Howell. This would be the equivalent of 400 million barrels of oil or two trillion cubic feet of natural gas a year.

To develop solar energy to this extent, however, would cost billions of dollars per year toward the late 1990s," the report said.

The Solar Advisory Committee recommended the recognition of "solar easements" - rights to access to sunlight, a requirement that all new state structures built after Aug. 31, 1981, use solar energy except where it would not be in the public interest and creation of the Texas Wind Center.

Major Crime Rises 7.1%

AUSTIN (AP) - Major crime in Texas rose by 7.1 percent during the first half of 1980, and three law officers were killed by criminals in that same period, the Department of Public Safety said Tuesday.

The departments said 1,549 officers were assaulted in the line of duty during the first six months of the year.

Col. Jim Adams, DPS director, said 417,774 major crimes were committed from January through June, including 1,162 murders. He said 75 percent of the murders were cleared by arrest.

Only 21 percent of the total number of major crimes were cleared, he said.

Other crime categories include rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burg-

Democrats Preparing For 2nd Convention

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP)—Texas Democrats gathering for their second state convention found themselves in the midst of a hot controversy over the party's next state chairman.

And there was still discontent among some Mexican-Americans because a black has been vice-chairman for the past eight years, although the browns have the party's largest minority.

"I think I'm going to win but it's going to be in a runoff," Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, said Thursday about the chairman's race.

"It's not going to be a runaway but I think I will win with about 2,000 votes," said Sherman attorney Bob Slagle, the other top candidate to succeed current chairman Billy Goldberg of Houston.

The third contender, who may spoil a first ballot victory for either Jones or Slagle, is Travis County Commissioner David Samuelson, who says he represents the Mod-Con Caucus of moderate-conservative and the American Agriculture Movement.

"I'm hoping that Samuelson's people will vote for me on a second ballot," said Jones.

Jones has the backing of former Attorney General John Hill, a probable candidate for governor in 1982. He also is supported by Comptroller Bob Bullock and some Latin-American groups.

Slagle, who reportedly has the backing of National Democratic Chairman John White, also a probable gubernatorial candidate in 1982, has been endorsed by the board of the Texas ALF-CIO, plus some black organizations.

Slagle and Jones each had hospitality rooms at the convention, making last minute efforts to win support from the 3,900 delegates before the Saturday morning vote.

The convention rules committee, which meets early Saturday, before the last session of the convention begins, will consider a proposal to create two vice chairman posts in order to satisfy both the blacks and browns.

Two Thefts, Vandalism Cases Probed

Two thefts, a criminal mischief complaint, and several minor traffic accidents were investigated Thursday by city police officers.

Reporting one theft was Zanell Franklin at the Western Texas College dormitory. She told Sgt. Jerry Parker a $200 woman's diamond ring was missing.

Another theft was reported by Petra Delao. She said her purse had been stolen from the Speed Queen Laundry. The loss was estimated at $30. Working that case was Don Whittenburg.

Mrs. W.B. Ellis reported a tire had been slashed on a car parked at the coliseum. Damage was estimated at $50. Working that case was Kerry Fritz.

The first traffic accident was reported at 2 p.m. in the 1700 block of 25th St. In it, a 1973 Ford driven by Ernest Ferguson of Hermleigh and a 1980 Chevrolet driven by Martha Baker of Odessa collided. That accident was worked by Fritz.

Sgt. Dale Burns worked a hit and run at Snyder High School. Reports show a parked car owned by Mary C. Williams had been struck by a vehicle which left the scene. The accident was reported at 3:50 p.m.

The final mishap of the day was at 8:30 p.m. at the parking lot of Snyder Shopping Center. There, a parked 1976 Ford owned by Juanita Farquhar was struck by a vehicle which left the scene.

Almost Everybody who is Somebody in Texas reads the Daily Newspaper

You are somebody — a newspaper reader! You and six and one-half million other Texas adults are reading a newspaper today!

All income levels of Texas adults are good newspaper readers. However, a recent statewide study by Belden Associates of Dallas suggests that newspaper readership increases directly as income levels increase.

Mr. Advertiser, if you want to reach the higher income market — 80% of all adults with annual incomes of $20,000 or more are regular weekday newspaper readers — that market with more spendable income. The daily newspaper is your effective medium.

Astros Regain West Lead; Phillies Take Over In East

ATLANTA (AP) - The Houston Astros accomplished their nine-day mission - returning from a road trip in first place in the National League West race. But their work is not over.

Manager Bill Virdon said of the race following Houston's 4-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves Thursday night, a triumph that gave the Astros a one-game edge over second place Los Angeles and a 2½ game lead over Cincinnati.

The Astros return home for a three-game series with Cincinnati, follow that with three more against the Braves and then close the season in a three-game set at Los Angeles.

Joe Morgan supplied all the offense Houston needed Thursday night when he drilled a two-run homer off Phil Niekro, 15-16, in the third inning and delivered a tie-breaking check-swing single in the fifth.

The Astros added another run in the seventh when Enos Cabell singled home Jeff Leonard following his pinch-hit single.

Nolan Ryan went five innings to pick up the victory before leaving with a muscle spasm in his back. Meanwhile, Montreal fell out of first place in the National League East last night, slipping one-half game behind Philadelphia after the Phillies edged the New York Mets 2-1 and the Expos lost to the Chicago Cubs, 5-4.

Defending world champion Pittsburgh tumbled to 4½ games back after losing 10-2 to St. Louis.

In the American League East, Cleveland blanked New York 5-0 on Rick Waits' seven hitter.

Upsets Plentiful...

2-4A Shows Surprises

Lamesa and Sweetwater, two clubs thought to be struggling under the weight of a history of losses, surprised District 2-AAAA forecasters last week by upsetting favorites Fort Stockton and Snyder.

Whether the upsets prove the district's strengths or weaknesses remains to be seen, but it definitely would indicate at this time that pre-season prognosticators were wrong.

Only Andrews, still undefeated and ranked No. 8 in most 4A polls, has filled the picker's expectations. Snyder, 0-3, and 1-2 Fort Stockton and Monahans were figured as the Mustangs' main contenders this year, while Lamesa and Sweetwater were supposed to fight it out with Odessa Ector, 0-1-1, for the cellar position.

Pecos, pre-season ranked fifth, is also undefeated and would appear going into this week's games as having the best chance at knocking off the 'Stangs.

Whether the trend will continue may be revealed to some extent this week as Andrews buses to 2-1 Lamesa, Fort Stockton travels to Pecos, Monahans is at Odessa Ector and 1-2 Lake View hosts Sweetwater in San Angelo. Snyder is idle.

Last week's scores saw Andrews drop Lake View 28-14, Sweetwater shock Snyder, 18-7, Lamesa undermine Fort Stockton, 14-2, and Pecos edge Monahans, 7-6.

Lions Opening Well; Try Viks This Time

By The Associated Press In 1956, Billy Sims was learning how to walk. Now, as we know so well, he can run, too - and if he runs the way he's been running so far this year, he'll be a part of something the Detroit Lions haven't achieved since 1956.

That's the last time they managed to win their first four games in a season. In fact, they won their first six, en route to a 9-3 record which left them one-half game behind the Western Conference champion Chicago Bears. They won the National Football League championship the next year - and haven't won a title since.

The Lions already have won more games this year than they did in all of 1979, when they were 2-14. The 3-0 mark matches their 1970 start, the last time they made the playoffs (as the National Conference's wild-card team in the Central Division).

Minnesota, which narrowly beat Detroit in the teams' two meetings last year, is 2-1 and tied with defending division champion Tampa Bay.

Sunday's other games are: Philadelphia at St. Louis, Chicago at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at Tampa Bay, Dallas vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Houston at Cincinnati, Los Angeles at the New York Giants, New Orleans at Miami, Oakland at Buffalo, Atlanta at San Francisco, the New York Jets at Baltimore, San Diego at Kansas City and Seattle at Washington. Monday night's game is Denver at New England.

The Vikings will be trying to do to Sims what they did to Walter Payton last Sunday. They slammed the door on the defending National Conference rushing champion, limiting him to just 39 yards (his fewest since the 1978 season) and holding the entire Chicago ground game to 93 yards in a 34-14 runaway over the Bears.

Frosh Romp Visiting Steers

Snyder freshmen volleyball team whipped Big Spring here last night, 15-4 and 15-6. The girls will not play Fort Stockton Saturday as was previously reported, but will host Andrews Tuesday at 5 p.m. "The girls are playing really well together right now," said Coach Paity Grimmitt. "We're still looking for improvement, but we are doing well." The freshman team is 4-2 on the season.

Felines Trek To Eagle Nest

FORT STOCKTON - Snyder varsity volleyball team takes on Fort Stockton's Eagles in a twin-bill here Saturday, playing at 2 and 5:30.

The first match of the afternoon will serve as each team's first-round district meeting. The second match will count in second-round standings. Officials scheduled the double-header to help trim expenses for the schools and to enable the squads to have another open date for tournaments.

Snyder, 16-0 on the season, is 3-0 in District 2-AAAA play, having beaten Pecos, Monahans and Sweetwater.

Also playing here Saturday will be the respective junior varsity teams from each school. They will tip-off at 1 and 4:30 p.m.

Snyder returns home Tuesday evening to play Andrews at 7:30 in the SHS Gym.

Jones Stadium Haunts Teaff's Baylor Bears

By The Associated Press Jones Stadium is a haunted house to the Baylor Bears.

And the Bears get to visit it again Saturday night, a month before Halloween.

Baylor hasn't won at the home of the Texas Tech Red Raiders in Lubbock since 1966.

Baylor Coach Grant Teaff has made this fact required historical reading of his squad preparing for Saturday night's Southwest Conference football game before an expected 44,000 fans. Baylor was a two-point pick over the Red Raiders, who have lost only to North Carolina.

In other games this weekend, Arkansas was a 21 point nod over Tulsa, Texas was a 30-point choice over Oregon State in Austin, Houston was a 20-point selection over North Texas State in the AstroDome, Georgia was a 14-point pick over Texas Christian in Athens, Southern Methodist was a four-touchdown pick over Texas-Arlington in Texas Stadium, and Rice was an 11-point underdog to Louisiana State at Rice Stadium.

Steers Stop Frosh

Snyder freshman fell to Big Spring here last night, 7-6. The Cats, 2-1 on the season, will travel to Lamesa on Oct. 9.

Snyder scored in the first quarter on a 9-yard run by Norman Malone. A conversion run was called back due to penalty, and the Cats were unable to cross the line again, leaving the score at 6-0.

That held up until the fourth quarter, when, with eight minutes left, Big Spring scored and kicked the go-ahead conversion.

Coyotes, 'Dogs Plan To Play In Weather

Swamping thundershowers threatened to postpone or cancel two area District 2-A six-man ballgames tonight, but the latest reports at presstime indicated the contests would be held if possible.

Ira, boasting a 3-0 record for the new season, is slated to entertain 2-1 Christoval at 8 p.m., while impressive Borden County, also 2-1, was to take on 2-1 Blackwell at Blackwell.

No word was available on the other 2-A games, which have Trent at Paint Rock and Benjamin at McCaulley. Hermleigh, Highland and Grady were apparently to have the weekend off anyway.

Borden County hoped to make Blackwell its third straight victim since switching from 11-man ball to six-man this season. Borden started off by losing to 1979 state runner-up Cotton Center, then topped its next two opponents, including Wellman, 34-6 last week. Borden County looks to have it all this year, lacking only six-man playing experience, and the Coyotes are gaining that knowledge rapidly. They'll take a rest next week, while the remainder of the district begins conference competition.

Ira, one of three favorites in the loop this year - the others are undefeated Highland and Borden County - was looking to correct last year's 49-34 Christoval victory tonight with an improved bunch of Bulldogs. Ira began this year with an impressive win over Divide, then struggled to get past Lueders-Avoca 60-56 in a game played under a sea of yellow flags (over 300 yards in penalties).

The Bulldogs bounced back to destroy Loop last week, 52-7.

Next week's 2-A matchups call for Grady, 2-1, to host 3-0 Highland; 2-0 Trent to try 0-3 Hermleigh; and 0-2 McCaulley to travel to Ira.

Penn State Wants Revenge Saturday

By The Associated Press A Madison Avenue type attempting to market Saturday's college football offerings would have little trouble selling the element of surprise to Arizona State, less trouble with revenge for Penn State and no problem peddling survival to Vanderbilt.

"I think about it every day," said Penn State running back Curt Warner, who played a minor role in the 42-17 shelling, his team took last season at the hands of Nebraska. "But it's a different ballgame this year. We'll find out if we're a big league team."

Indeed they will, along with a national television audience and a crowd of 85,000 expected to pack the Nittany Lions' Beaver Stadium to watch 11th-ranked Penn State seek revenge against the third-ranked Cornhuskers. Both teams are unbeaten at 2-0.

"We've got a big score to settle, and that's at the top of the list," center Bob Jagers said of the charge that Joe Paterno's Lions are nothing more than a big fish in a little pond - Eastern football.

In other games involving Top Ten teams, top-ranked Alabama hosts Vanderbilt, No. 2 Ohio State entertains 20th-ranked Arizona State, No. 4 Oklahoma is at home against Stanford, 5th-ranked Southern California visits Minnesota, No. 6 Pitt hosts Temple, 7th-ranked Texas entertains Oregon State at night, No. 9 Florida State travels to Miami, (Fla.), and 10th-ranked Georgia is at home against Texas Christian. No. 8 Notre Dame is idle.

Weems Named TIAA Performer Of Week

ALPINE - Bernie Weems, senior from Snyder, was named Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association Player of the Week on defense after his performance in the Sul Ross Lobos 52-0 win over Lubbock Christian College.

Weems, an All-American at strong safety last year, moved to outside linebacker last week, and in his first game at that position came up with eight solo tackles, one assisted tackle, two tackles for a loss, three quarterback sacks, one fumble recovery and one pass deflection.

Austin College quarterback Larry Shillings was named offensive Player of the Week after he hit 18 of 33 passes for 290 yards, a new TIAA passing record. The old record for single-game passing was 272.

Dunaway Sees Team Improve

Western Texas College men's basketball coach, Larry Dunaway, was pleased with his team's third scrimmage of the season, held yesterday afternoon in the WTC Gym.

The Westerners, which split into two "teams" and battled to a 160-146 score, scrimmage their first outsider Oct. 4 in Lubbock. "Basically all the kids played well for the first time," said Dunaway, who took over the coaching reins this year. "Three players had excellent games according to the evaluation charts we keep. They were Chuck North, who led the charts, and Keith Denis and Ceasar Scott. These are the same three who have been leading our charts all along."

The coach also lauded the efforts of Troy Stevenson, Darren Lee and Brett Smith. North came up with 12 assists and hit 15 of 17 shots from the field. He also had 10 rebounds. Stevenson was 10 of 11 from the field and also turned in 12 assists.

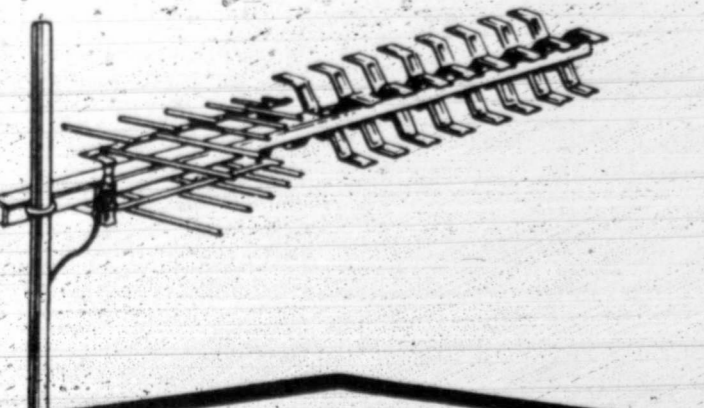

Other leading statistics showed Denis as hitting 19 of 23 from the field and having 11 assists and four blocked shots. Smith was 14 of 16 from the floor and had nine rebounds, while

Lee came up ripping the cords on 18 of 27 attempts. "As a team, both squads combined to hit 71.6 percent from the field, so we were pleased offensively at the way we moved the ball. The guys had 76 assists together, which means they were doing a good job of playing team basketball and learning to pass to the open man."

The scrimmage was the first time the team used its press, which was installed in workouts earlier this week.

"Well, we haven't spent enough time on the press for it to really look too good, but we wanted to see how much it would open up the game, and it did that very well," said Dunaway. "As small as we are (no player over 6-6) our game will have to be from baseline to baseline, so the more we get it opened up, the better off we are. Our execution was not too good on it, but we're going to concentrate on our press a lot."

WTC will scrimmage at least two air force bases next Saturday in Lubbock, and possibly Lubbock Christian College. The team also has a scrimmage scheduled in Odessa for Oct. 10.
