People, Places & Things

Our young friend Phil Spain, high school senior and apprentice printer and stereotypist in the Free Press mechanical department, nodded in agreement the other day when someone told him about pioneers who thought nothing of getting up at 4 and 5 a. m. to start their day's work.

Phil is in complete agreement. He thinks very little, in fact nothing, of such an idea himself.

Shady Lane says there's no questioning the fact that America has the highest standard of living in the world. Hardly any of us can afford it.

An early day graduate of Haskell High School who had planned to attend the 1961 Homecoming but was detained, the Farmer now of Munday, Texas, was a pupil. A clipping from The Haskell Free Press relates that Leila Nisbett taught two winter terms, 1902 and 1903, at the Westphalia School in the Iby and Lee Smith communities. Hugh Smith, now of Throckmorton, was a pupil. Later, I taught a summer school at the Coleman School four miles southwest of Haskell, and a winter session at the Jim Miller School, 15 miles southwest of Haskell.

"I still have an unpaid teacher's voucher which I do not desire to collect. It is Voucher No. 9, dated May 13, 1904, issued by R. D. C. Stephens, County Treasurer of Haskell County."

We are amazed at times at the productiveness of Haskell during periods of normal rainfall and weather conditions. We don't believe there's a place on earth that will out-produce this area in garden stuff or farm crops under conditions comparable to this year's growing season.

A trip through the farming areas in any direction from town will bear out this statement, with farmers now busy gathering one of the best cotton crops in history.

into some rough going, or at least their applications didn't slide through as expected.

The slow-down was occasioned by protests from Abilene officials, church groups and private individuals.

The protesting groups could have recruited additional support in the territory to the north, but they probably would not have welcomed the assist.

We feel sure that many of the dealers and others interested in establishments in Haskell County's wet Prec. 4 would like to see Impact eliminated entirely. For purely business reasons they'd stand shoulder to shoulder in opposing competition from Taylor County since most of the Prec. 4 business comes from Abilene and vicinity.

Conceivably, loss of all the beer and liquor patronage from Abilene and surrounding territory now being channeled into Prec. 4 would be a paralyzing loss to The Strip and Bourbon Drive.

However, if the worst comes, Prec. 4 might be classified as a depressed area and become eligible for Government aid in some form.

The wet precinct brings tax revenue to Haskell County, while Stamford gains the principal business benefits because the precinct takes in the outlying north edge of Stamford.

This situation drew the following comment by George Dolan of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in his column, "This Is West Texas" several weeks ago:

"The north end of Stamford borders on Haskell County's new wet precinct and the stretch of liquor stores along the highway - known as The Strip, Bourbon Boulevard - had a great run of business during the recent Texas Cowboy Reunion."

"A Haskell citizen, after thinking things over the week after the reunion, decided that Stamford just couldn't get along without Haskell County."

"Stamford has its junk yards in Haskell County, he explained wryly, buries its dead in Haskell County, draws its water from a lake in Haskell County, and now buys its liquor and parks its drunks in Haskell County."

Although he doubts that banner rainfall this section has received during the past year has had anything to do with it, City Nightwatchman Joe Larned says there has been a noticeable increase of polecats, possums and other varmints.

Joe says he sees a lot of the nocturnal animals foraging for food in the alleys around town, particularly in the areas behind food stores late at night.

He first notices them on the rounds starting about 11 o'clock and from then until around four a. m., the night-prowling varmints are thick, he says.

He believes there must be several dens under some of the older business houses where the animals "hole up" during the daytime. There are too many of them, both skunks and possums, to be coming in from outlying rural areas, in his opinion.

Joe also says that stray cats which frequent the alleys at night pay no attention to their "wild" brethren—the possums and polecats. In fact, Joe claims one night recently he saw alley cats and skunks playing together under a street light. "That is the truth," he declares.

Everyone who has had any experience with a polecat knows that the stinkers have a pretty "chesty" attitude around humans, evidently aware of the fact they have the upper hand in warding off molesters.

For that reason you seldom see a polecat run away from threatened danger. He may saunter in the general direction of a hiding place, but he seldom runs.

That trait almost cost a full grown polecat his life one night

How About Patriotism?

"What's Happened to Patriotism?" That striking—and chilling—question forms the title of an article in the current Reader's Digest. The article is condensed from a speech made by Dr. Max Rafferty, Superintendent of Schools at La Canada, California. And his opinion is that we have, in effect, been making patriotism obsolete.

He says: "We have been so busy educating for 'life adjustment' that we have forgotten to educate for survival. Words that America once treasured as a rich legacy, that once sounded like trumpet calls, we have allowed to fade from the classrooms and the consciousness of the pupils: 'Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable.' 'We have met the enemy and they are ours.' 'Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute.' 'In too many of our schools you can search for these towering phrases in vain.'"

He adds—and this is certainly a matter of the utmost significance: "Patriotism feeds on hero worship, but education during the past three decades has deliberately debunked the hero. The quest of the Golden Fleece has been crowded out of our textbooks by the visit of Tom and Susan to the zoo."

In sum, in too many cases our schools emphasize the trivial, and minimize the vital. Unless that trend is reversed, the nation will face the darkest of futures, in which standards will wither swiftly away, cheap material considerations will outweigh all others, and we will have neither the will nor the ability to survive the attacks of a determined and dedicated enemy.

Bureaucratic Blight

The proposed bill to provide medical benefits to everyone drawing social security checks would lead to federal control of medicine "since it would be imprudent and impossible for the government to pay medical care without developing controls on hospitals, nursing homes, and ultimately the practice of medicine."

That statement was recently made by Dr. Edward E. Rosenbaum, chairman of the Oregon State Medical Society, to the House Ways and Means Committee. Then, during the course of his testimony, he strongly refuted the more or less commonly held notion that many people, and most particularly elderly people, must go without adequate medical care because of lack of funds.

In his words, "To the best of our knowledge there is no case in Oregon where an individual has been denied medical service because of inability to pay."

"At the moment it is brought to our attention that such cases exist within the state, the Oregon State Medical Society is equipped and ready to provide such individuals with immediate medical care of the highest quality."

There's nothing unique about the Oregon situation—what is true there is true throughout the country. Existing mechanisms for providing care can be and will be improved. And that can best be done by keeping medicine free of bureaucratic blight.

Haskell County History

October 16, 1942
 Mrs. Mary E. Oates, who during the last World War was one of the leading workers in the Red Cross work room is again filling that role. Although handicapped by the fact that she cannot go to the Red Cross work room in the courthouse, she has already knitted 22 garments that have been shipped to our service men.

The Draft Board has announced the following classifications in 1-A, subject to call for military service: Melvin Franklin Burleson, Raleigh Raddell Brock, Frank Will Moore, Warren Edwin Larned, Nollon Melvin Green, Poney Shelby Thompson Jr., Ernest Floyd Patton, George Wesley Cook. The following men have been changed from 11-A to 1-A: Paul Allen, Robert Jefferson Lackey, Raymond Melton, Giles Gholson Fourqurean, James Clyde Farrar, L. Roy Simpkins, Herbert Lee Scarbrough, William Thomas Cooper, Norman Edwin Howell, Joel Columbus Miles, Ocie Cleburn Allen, William Richard Marr, William Virgil Cothron, James Denver Guffey, Lee Roy Comer, Leslie Waldo Robinson, Pleman Clyde Mansker.

50 Years Ago—Oct. 21, 1901
 Morris Gilbert visited in Stamford Sunday evening.

C. H. Russell has announced that he intends to put in platform scales near the square. This will be a great convenience to farmers.

J. S. Stone left Wednesday morning for his ranch in the northeast part of the county.

Chas. Parsons of Fort Worth visited his father, W. H. Parsons here this week. He is in the employ of the Santa Fe Railroad and is on the fast train from Galveston to Fort Worth. We are informed that Stelen Hammer is the engineer on this train. These two Haskell boys were raised 6 miles from a railroad, but they made good all the same.

C. J. Stein, plate east of town had his 19th bale of Mexican cotton ginned Thursday. It weighed 510 pounds. He hauled it home and piled it with 18 other bales. He says he is out of debt and doesn't have to sell his cotton until he is ready to do so.

Earl Cogdell has put in a mixer for cotton seed meal and hulls at the oil mill, and is now equipped to sack the feed or load it in bulk into wagons.

L. W. Kitchen of Rochester was in town Wednesday. He says farmers in that sector have made a good cotton crop and are in need of pickers.

Ed Weaver has purchased the livery business heretofore owned by J. L. Baldwin. Mr. Weaver has been a resident of the county for some time. Mr. Baldwin moved here in 1884 and went into the livery business in 1885, in connection with farming.

J. N. McFatter left for Gree Monday morning, to begin work on a new $10,000 school building for which he has the contract.

Judge Gordon B. McGuire came in on Wednesday night's train from Sweetwater, where he had attended District Court.

Ed Keister, who has been in the Pacific Coast states working for the Harriman System, is here visiting his mother. He says there are 35,000 employees of the railroad system on strike, and he was involved with all the others.

60 Years Ago—Oct. 19, 1901
 The Free Press received yesterday a letter from a gentleman in Springfield, Mo., making inquiries about this county. He indicated that he was interested in moving here if what he had heard about this county was correct.

The singing convention for Haskell County will meet Saturday night before the third Sunday in November. There will be an elaborate program, and everybody is invited to attend. The meeting will be held at one of the churches in Haskell and a big crowd is anticipated.

Rev. V. G. Cunningham and Rev. Sam Bristow have been elected by the mission board of the Stonewall Baptist Association to fill the position of missionaries in the territory covered by the association. They take the place of Rev. D. J. James, who resigned.

A. C. Foster returned Tuesday night from an extensive northern trip on which he visited Chicago, the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo and Niagara Falls and other cities.

On his return he stopped off at Dallas for a look at the State Fair.

J. L. Jones and his two sons, Lennis and Chester, and Miss Una Foster went to Dallas yesterday to attend the big fair.

Many of the people who have come here during the past year think that Haskell County lands are as well or better worth $16 to $20 per acre as the lands in the old farming portions of the state are worth $40 to $60 per acre. Yet they can get the best Haskell lands for $5 to $7 per acre. Without exception, our farmers can make a good living and get ahead a little each year.

We have to chronicle a sad accident and bereavement that occurred in a family living about 12 miles northwest of town on Tuesday evening. A little boy in the family, about eight years old, climbed to the top of the house and losing his hold, fell. He struck the ground on the side of his head and was injured to the extent that he died a few hours later. He was buried last evening at the graveyard at Mesquite schoolhouse.

30 Years Ago—Oct. 22, 1911
 Heavy rains which have fallen since Wednesday have thoroughly soaked this section, providing an abundant season for fall and winter grain. A total of 2.82 inches of moisture had been recorded here to 5:00 p. m. Thursday.

The celebration planned for Wednesday marking completion of paved highways across Haskell County, had to be postponed because of the rains. New date for the event has not been set.

Miss Dessie Kennedy returned home from the Stamford Sanitarium last Friday. She is improving nicely from surgery, but will be confined to her bed for at least two weeks longer.

Henry Atkinson accompanied Ed LeSage to Dallas last Friday in LeSage's plane.

Miss Eunice Huckabee and Mrs. Clyde Grissom and daughter, Emily Jean, are in Dallas this week visiting relatives.

Mrs. J. U. Fields of this city was guest speaker at a dinner meeting of the Missionary Society of the Cisco Presbyterian Church in that city last Thursday night. During her stay in Cisco, Mrs. Fields was entertained in the home of Mrs. C. H. Fee. She was accompanied from Haskell by Mrs. C. M. Conner who was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Williams, former residents of Haskell.

The 1931-32 term of Howard School will begin Monday, Oct. 26.

Forty-eight per cent of the persons who die from burns," Mr. Hipp said, "are either under five years of age or over 64.

Almost 100 per cent of the common fire hazards responsible for this terrible toll can be eliminated if the homeowner will allot a mere 10 minutes a day of the family's time to the problem.

A quiz prepared by the National Board of Fire Underwriters offers a room by room, attic to basement checklist by which the safety of the home can be measured. By using this quiz as a safety blueprint and as a training guide, the homeowner will go a long way toward the elimination of home fire hazards. The quiz:

Kitchen and Dining Room

1. Is the gas or electric range clean — the broiler, oven and burners free of grease?
2. Have you hung curtains and towels so they won't blow over burners?
3. Are members of the family forbidden to start fires with kerosene and other flammable liquids?

4. Have you made sure that several electrical appliances such as the toaster, waffle iron and coffee percolator, are not connected to one outlet?

Living Room, Bedroom and Bath

1. Is there enough space around your television set for proper ventilation?
2. Has a lightning arrester—preferably one listed by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.—been installed on the antenna lead-in?
3. Is your television set UL-labeled?
4. Are worn lamp and extension cords immediately replaced with new ones?
5. Have you removed extension cords strung around the room—under rugs, over nails?
6. If there is a wood-burning fireplace, is it protected by a metal screen?
7. Is the fireplace chimney cleaned and inspected periodically?
8. If a portable heater is in use, is it turned off before you go to bed?
9. Is the portable heater placed where it cannot be tripped on or overturned?
10. If you use portable gas heaters or appliances, are shut off valves installed in the metal gas pipeline?
11. Do you make it a rule never to smoke in bed?
12. Have you put the radio or any other electrical appliance out of reach of anyone bathing or clutching a water faucet?

Storage Space

1. Have you cleaned out accumulated rubbish?
2. Have you thrown out those old clothes, toys and magazines you "hate to part with?"

Quail Seasons Early In Many Texas Counties

Quail hunters in Texas will get a break, with an early season in a number of additional counties this year for a Nov. 1st opening, according to Al Springs, wildlife coordinator of the Game and Fish Commission.

The Commission has approved Nov. 1 to Dec. 31 season in all of the counties of the trans-Pecos area, except Culberson, El Paso, and Hudspeth counties. The season on those counties will be Nov. 1 to Dec. 15 inclusive. The bag limit will be 12 per day or 24 in possession. Crockett County, which is in the Edwards Plateau regulatory area, is included in the trans-Pecos area for quail, with the Nov. 1 opening date. The possession limit in Crockett, however, is 36.

In South-Central Texas, Dimmitt, Zavala, Frio, and Webb counties have been added to the Nov. 1 opening date. The season will close there on Jan. 16, 1962. McMullen and LaSalle counties are open Nov. 1 to Dec. 15, under a special law. The bag limit in that area will be 12 per day and 36 in possession.

In the Possum Kingdom area which also will include Brown, Nolan and Taylor counties, the season will be Nov. 24 to Jan. 20 inclusive, with a 15 per cent possession limit. In the counties in the Southeast Texas regulatory area, the open season will be Nov. 15 to Jan. 16 inclusive, with the exception of Orange and Jefferson counties where the season will be Dec. 1 to Jan. 16 inclusive. In Bur- eson and Colorado counties, the season will be Dec. 1 to Jan. 16 inclusive. Both these areas have a 12 daily, 36 pos- sesson limit. All of Northeast Texas regulatory counties will have an open season Dec. 1 to Jan. 16.

According to reports from wardens and biologists, the quail crop is in excellent condition in most of the Texas counties. The quail season is set by general law, except in which are under regulatory authority. In these counties, the season and bag limits are set on the basis of the crop of birds and the potential food supply.

Pvt. Trois Cotton Takes Part In Army Games

BAUMHOLDER, GERMANY (AHTWC) — Army Pvt. Trois Cotton, son of Mrs. Eva G. Vincent, Cheyenne, Okla., and other personnel from the 8th Division's 16th Infantry recently participated in Exercise Pedestrian, a training maneuver in Germany.

Exercise Pedestrian was conducted in three parts, a map exercise, a two-day command post exercise and a 40-mile road march. At the conclusion of the road march members of the 16th engaged in a simulated anti-guerrilla map-up operation which was designed to determine the 16th's ability to engage with and defeat an enemy force after traveling long distances by foot.

The 8th is one of five U. S. divisions in NATO's "Pyramid of Power" in Europe.

Cotton, assigned to Combat Support Company of the 16th Infantry in Baumholder, entered the Army in March 1961, completed basic training at Fort Hood, Texas, and arrived overseas last August.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1960 graduate of Edmond (Okla.) High School.

His father, Byron I. Cotton, lives in the Fielding Apartments, Haskell, Texas.

The earth's driest spot is Wadi, Haifa, where no rain has fallen in 19 years.

In the winter of 1955-56, Mt. Rainier, Wash., recorded just over a thousand inches of snowfall.

During the last 25 years, hurricanes have killed about 2,500 victims and caused three billion dollars worth of damage in the U. S.

Christy Ozuna Is Cheerleader at Wayland College

Plainview, Texas, Special—Christina "Christy" Ozuna, 1960 graduate of Haskell High School, was recently elected cheerleader at Wayland Baptist College by student and judges' vote.

Christy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silvestre Ramirez Ozuna, Star Route, is majoring in physical education and minor in Spanish. She has been elected publicity chairman of the Speech Club and is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club. Christy was also cheerleader leader last year.

Selection of the top five varsity cheerleaders was based on the votes of the student body and a committee of off-campus persons who rated the participants according to delivery and poise.

Duties of the cheerleaders include promoting spirit at basketball games, leading students in cheers at games, and representing Wayland at all times.

Hunters Warned On Trespassing Along Railroad

With the approach of the hunting season, a reminder that railroads must prohibit trespassing on their property in the interest of safety is issued by R. W. Brewer, Chief Special Agent for the Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company.

Pointing out that hunting and fishing licenses do not convey the privilege of trespassing, Mr. Brewer said the ban is strictly enforced by all railroads in order to protect sportsmen and the public generally, and to prevent damage to railroad facilities from careless use of firearms.

Firing at game near telegraph, telephone and signal installations frequently results in gun shot damage to these facilities and could precipitate a major disaster on a busy rail system, since interruptions of signals and communications jeopardize the safety of train crews and passengers, Mr. Brewer stated.

He also warned that trespassers run the risk of being trapped on trestles, or caught between rails and ties in the path of high-speed trains.

For these reasons, he noted, it is important that the growing number of hunters and fishermen be cautioned that they are expected to observe the "no trespassing" signs along the railroads' right-of-way.

4 Rural Traffic Mishaps Checked In September

The Highway Patrol investigated four accidents on rural highways in Haskell County during the month of September, according to Sgt. Frank Jirtek, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for two persons injured and a property damage of $1,870.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for Haskell County from January through September of 1961 shows a total of 34 crashes. As a result of these crashes one person was killed and 18 persons injured. The estimated property damage amounted to $15,260.00.

"Shorter days and longer nights spell disaster on the streets and highways," Sgt. Jirtek said. Next time you turn on your headlights, glance at your watch and see how much earlier you are using lights than you did only a week ago. And, as time moves on during the next three months, car lights will be needed earlier day by day.

No matter what anyone may tell you as to how good a driver he is after dark, you had better take it with a grain of salt, because no human sees as clearly or as well after dark as he does in the daylight. Some people may see better than others, and some may not be bothered too much by bright lights in traffic; but, if they will be honest with you, they will admit that they do not consistently employ the same driving tactics after dark as they do in the daylight. The veteran Highway Patrol Supervisor added that night driving is different; therefore, it calls for a driving technique very different from that used during the daytime.

WTU Employees Win National Safety Award

National honors for an outstanding safe driving performance have been won again by the employees of the West Texas Utilities Company in the Public Utilities Group 1 Division—the 30th National Fleet Safety Contest conducted by the National Safety Council.

Group 1, in which West Texas Utilities Company was the second place winner, was composed of the motor vehicle fleets of 40 major American utility companies. In this group which was the largest in the contest, the vehicles of each of the competing fleets operated 175,000 miles or more per month during the year ending June 30, 1961.

West Texas Utilities Company was the first place winner in the 1960 contest.

The WTU fleet averaged 323 vehicles and more than 330 drivers. They were awarded second place at ceremonies held June 19 in Chicago as part of the 49th National Safety Congress, annual convention of the Council.

The award is based on the employees' safe driving record for the period from July, 1960 through June, 1961. During that period, WTU employees operated 3,227,868 miles with a rate of 13 of an accident per 100,000 miles of operation.

"Credit for this national recognition in safe driving goes to our employees who operate the company vehicles," stated Col. Young, WTU President. "This is an honor of which we are very proud."

Salt-Damaged Cars Being Sold In West Texas

Purchasers of automobiles have been warned to be on the lookout for vehicles with salt-water damage from Hurricane Carla.

H. C. Pittman, executive vice president of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association, said, "According to reports received in our office, scores of persons throughout Texas are being victimized by unscrupulous bargain promoters who have purchased automobiles in the Gulf area, after they have been totaled by insurance companies, and are reselling them in other parts of the state to purchasers who are ignorant of the damage."

These promoters advise that they do not consistently employ the same driving tactics after dark as they do in the daylight. The veteran Highway Patrol Supervisor added that night driving is different; therefore, it calls for a driving technique very different from that used during the daytime.

of a gloomy box loosely referred to as the passenger cabin. But with the historic flight of Jack Knight on Feb. 22 of that year, things began looking up.

Knight flew an experimental air mail run from San Francisco to Hazelhurst Field, Long Island. He took off at dusk, followed a trail of bonfires across country. The relief pilot supposed to take over the controls of the DH-4 biplane at Omaha never showed up, so Knight continued through fog and snow to Chicago.

Here two other pilots joined the race—and in 33 hours and 20 minutes the San Francisco mail arrived at the airfield on Long Island—a fantastic feat!

Progress of Flying Has Come Since Days of 1921

at the sky, and the roar of engines, propellers and wind was enough to half-deafen the brave souls who dared to "go modern and fly."

There's someone who could set us straight—and that's a passenger aboard one of America's first commercial air transports.

Planes making the St. Petersburg - Tampa Bay in 1914 weren't much more than bone-rattling flying boats. There were just three transports on the line—and only the hardiest joyriders took a chance riding them.

When the tourist season ended, the airboat line folded, and the future of passenger flight just twiddled its thumbs until the early 20's, when Uncle Sam got the bright idea of rushing mail across country by air.

That meant money to the owners of existing rickety planes who won contracts from the government—and there was a wild scurry to improve planes for safe and sure transport of mail.

Up to 1921, pioneering passengers suffered terror as well as discomfort in open-cockpit planes or within the confines

The Post Office Department set off a chain reaction. Bigger and better equipped planes were installed on the ground along routes—safety communications equipment took a fast turn for the better. And passengers profited, as a side effect of the airmail boom, but not rapidly.

Pilots still judged flying weather by looking at the sky. Planes rattled and rolled—ditto to the passengers—and the roar of engines, propellers and wind was enough to half-deafen any traveling salesman who chose to "go modern and fly."

Hundreds of small, unreliable flying services sprang up overnight and disappeared as fast. They were in fierce competition with each other—battling for the customer's dollar and giving him the thrill of his life in exchange for it.

To keep their planes "on the job," repairs were often made with cheap, used parts—and no one cared much that lives were riding on the shaky deals they made.

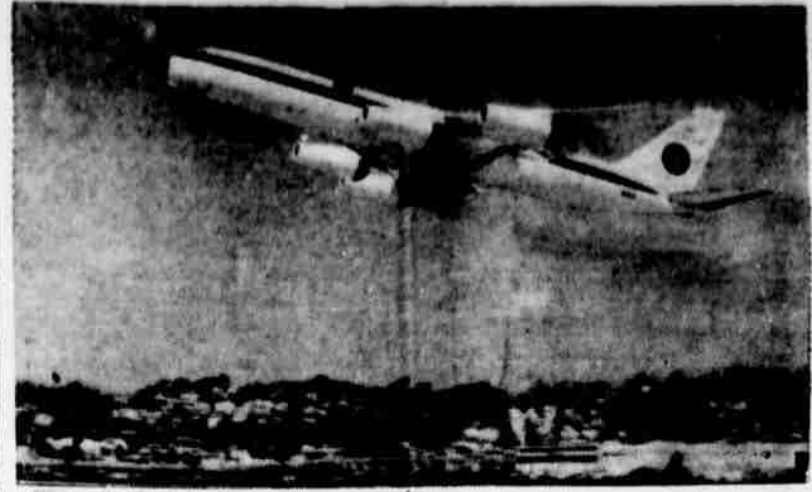

The first two government contracts for flying the mail were captured by two companies which later became part of American Airlines.

Charles A. Lindbergh, immortalized after his non-stop flight from Roosevelt Field to Paris in 1927, also made history the year before—by piloting a DH-4 biplane loaded with mail between St. Louis and Chicago—a plane which earned the nickname "flying coffin" during World War I.

Independent lines found they had to join forces—to persuade men of wealth to invest money in their progress in the air.

Airline routes were completely haphazard and disorganized until 1932, when the first centralized Operations Department was established. Two years later, financial disaster threatened when the government cancelled all air mail contracts to industry and flew its own Army planes on the mail routes instead.

But by this time, lines were carrying 500,000 passengers a year—and 27,000 miles of passenger routes were covered at speeds between 150 to 180 miles an hour.

The sleek jet airliner is typical of the planes flying schedules linking all major cities in the United States and the world. Passengers on modern jetliners travel in comfort and quiet at near the speed of sound.

Daredevil test pilots amazed the American public during this era—but it took a vast campaign of advertising to lure more passengers aloft. Flights were expensive too—most lines owned a motley collection of planes of different makes, usually couldn't repair any one of them in a hurry when necessary.

With World War II, the aviation industry sprang to new life and new progress—and safe, non-stop flights between continents were a common occurrence. Long-ranging planes replaced the rattletraps of old —and most lines invested in fleets from the same manufacturers. American Airlines, in 1945, ordered 75 Convairs that carried 40 passengers each, at an astounding 275 mph!

By 1954, non-stop cruising across the U. S. was at 365 mph, and the appeal of speed and safety was reaching not only businessmen but housewives, farmers and students.

Today, air travel for over 55 million Americans a year is by jet—cruising over 600 mph at heights around 35,000 feet. Flying near the speed of sound, the General Dynamics/Convair 990 is the newest commercial jet transport in the world! For intercontinental travel, it's the Convair 990 Coronado.

American Airlines was among the first customers, ordered 25 of the new jets, with an option on an additional 25. Several other lines got their bids in, too.

One of the greatest advances is that jet takeoff space has been shortened with the advent of the new Convair—a top-speed plane can take off and land in no more space than a propeller transport needs. This means jets can use exist-tent short fields all over America and the world—saving a fortune in field construction, saving passenger time in traveling to "big jet fields."

With all these advantages, it is also the quietest jet of all. The passenger is the boss, all the way.

The miracle of modern flying has become as easy, as pleasant, as relaxing—as putting a key in your own front door. Only this time, it's a key to the tame blue yonder.

Magazine Club Members Receive New Yearbooks

Beauty is the truest League of Nations, speaking a language and preaching a message understood by all people. The things of the spirit tend to bring people together.

Thus did Mrs. J. U. Fields address the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs when she was president of that organization in 1927. One paragraph of that speech is used as the introduction to the programs in the new Magazine Club yearbook, which was presented to its members at the re-assembly luncheon Saturday, Oct. 14.

"The Art Spirit" is the title of the study course prepared by Mrs. C. A. Smethe, chairman, Mrs. C. V. Payne and Mrs. Robert Wheatley.

Japan, because of its traditional and cultural link with art and love of beauty, furnished the theme for the luncheon food and decorations. The exotic beauty of the Orient was called to mind by the burnished brass bowls and character symbols, figurines, fans and flowers placed throughout the clubroom. Hostesses Mesdames Joe E. Thigpen, Jack Pippin, J. P. Payne, Dennis Ratliff and Miss Nettie McCollum were responsible for this beautiful beginning of the club year.

As members arrived for the luncheon, Mrs. O. E. Patterson provided music at the piano. The Magazine Club president, Mrs. C. J. Robinson, greeted the guests and presided at the brief program and business session.

Invocation was given by Mrs. C. L. Lewis. A report from Miss Mollie Terrell, Haskell senior who was sponsored by the club as a delegate to Bluebonnet Girls' State, was heard. She presented a certificate of appreciation to Mrs. Robinson, who received it in behalf of the club. Miss Terrell's mother, Mrs. V. P. Terrell, was a guest at the meeting.

Mrs. C. V. Payne was elected Treasurer to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. R. A. Middleton from that office.

Mrs. Payne, who presented the yearbooks and an interesting resume of the coming programs, reminded members that the next meeting would be but one week away. On October 20, Mrs. W. A. Lyles and Mrs. E. M. Frierson will present the first program of the series on art in the home.

All club members are urged to be present.

MRS. JERRY L. JETTON Miss Nelda Rose and Jerry L. Jetton Exchange Vows In Sunday Ceremony

Wedding vows were exchanged by Nelda Rose and Jerry L. Jetton in a ceremony solemnized in the East Side Baptist Church Sunday, Oct. 15, at 3 p. m.

The Rev. L. D. Regeon, pastor, officiated for the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Opal Rose of Haskell and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Jetton Sr., also of this city.

She wore a dress of chintilly lace over slipper satin with brush train. The long sleeves came to a point over the hands, and her veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of bridescent pearls.

For "something old and borrowed" the bride wore a gold locket which had belonged to the grandmother of the bridegroom. She carried a white orchid surrounded with white feathered carnations on a white Bible.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Lowell Taggart of Dallas, sister of the bride. Mrs. Delbert Rose of Fort Worth, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Albert Hoppe of Abilene were bridesmaids.

Junior bridesmaids were Carolyn and Cynthia Cooper of Elfrida, Ariz., twin nieces of the bridegroom.

The matron of honor wore an orchid taffeta dress with full skirt. Her headdress of orchid net was attached to an orchid velvet bow. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with orchid poms.

The bridesmaids dresses were identical to that of the matron of honor. They wore matching headdresses and carried bouquets of white carnations.

Billy Joe Robertson of Weinert was best man, and Garry Hodgkin and Don Regeon of Haskell were ushers.

Groomsman were Wm. B. Guess Jr. of Weinert and Melvin L. Turnbow of Haskell.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

The action of the Justice Dept. in securing a Grand Jury indictment against three big U.S. combines on charges of monopolizing and price fixing practices on the three major "wonder drugs" could well become a milestone in anti-trust enforcement.

It is manifestly not proper, not fair, to attempt to predict what the verdict of a court will be in a case like this. Trial by newspaper is not in the American tradition.

But regardless of what verdict is finally given, it is quite an encouraging note that not only has the Justice Dept. taken this action of inquiry, but that Sen. Estes Kefauver has for some time been investigating the drug situation, as well as the Federal Trade Commission.

There can be no question but what America has the best medical care system in the world. In addition, people have free choice of doctors, free choice of pharmacists, with no bureaucratic control.

Yet periodically, there crops up in public life those who would change this system for some fuzzy plan in which the government would become heavily involved. The excuse always is that medical costs are too high.

There is perhaps some justification that at times medical costs are expensive. But the unanswered question is "what?"

Keith Wheatley Seeks Post On RR Commission

A political unknown from West Texas has challenged one of Texas' best known vote getters for a seat on the powerful Texas Railroad Commission which regulates the oil and gas industry.
 Keith Wheatley, independent oil operator from Stamford and a native of Haskell, opened his campaign against the veteran Ben Ramsey with a fighting, down-to-earth speech about how and why the present Railroad Commission is letting Texas down in the fight to stem the depression in the Texas oil industry.

Speaking at Austin Saturday night in opening his campaign Wheatley attacked "the almost complete control of Eastern major oil companies have over the present Texas Railroad Commission."
 He said Ramsey's actions as presiding officer of the Texas Senate was "instrumental" in passage of the general sales tax by the 57th Legislature and added, "the people of Texas have a right to know that they have been hung with this tax so that powerful eastern oil and gas interests could escape natural resource taxation."
 Wheatley, whose father, J. C. "Carl" Wheatley of Haskell is an anti-sales tax member of the Texas Legislature, said that "continued major company domination of Texas politics has hurt not only the Texan independent oil industry, but the rank and file consumer as well.

 "Major companies can exist a eight day allowances because they can make it up elsewhere, but meanwhile the Texas oil industry is dying a slow, strangling death. The only way this state of affairs can be changed is for the people of Texas to elect men to the Railroad Commission who will stand up for Texas instead of eastern oil and gas giants," Wheatley said.
 He said he planned to conduct his campaign "on a person-to-person basis and state wide television."
