People, Places & Things

By A. PATE

As a lad, Brooks Middleton attended a small rural school, Rockdale, now non-existent. Whether true or not, we have heard repeatedly that no teacher ever taught the second year at the small school.

They just couldn't live with the pranks being continuously pulled by Brooks and his confederates.

It was nothing unusual for the teacher, naturally the first at the schoolhouse each morning, to have a thoroughly scared coyote dart out as soon as the door was opened.

Worst of all, as on at least one occasion, the overnight visitor was a polecat, with the striped little animal having made it plainly evident that it didn't appreciate the situation.

It is told of Brooks that once, when he was in the fourth grade, he told his teacher one morning, "I don't want to scare you."

In order to survive those small rural schools, a teacher had to be of rugged character and most of them were of that type.

In the preed immediately preceding World War I, John Lee Smith, a Throckmorton man who later became Lieutenant Governor of Texas, was teacher and principal at the Rose rural school about six miles east of Haskell.

It was one of the larger country schools, with a sizeable enrollment. Some of the students were youths almost grown, big husky fellows who sometimes created a deportment problem.

But John Lee proved equal to the task. He did not spare the rod when he thought punishment was in order.

However, there was one untoward incident a few weeks after John Lee started teaching at Rose, but its outcome only increased the young teacher's stature in the community.

Father of one of the stalwart boys John Lee had given a good "flogging" which the boy richly deserved.

chance he had. It was customary in those days for rural school teachers to secure room and board with some family near the schoolhouse.

John Lee was staying at a farm home about a mile from school, and most of the time he would walk to and from school across a pasture.

After learning of the young teacher's route through the pasture, the belligerent patron and his boy stationed themselves about midway of the pasture one afternoon and waited.

John Lee, although slightly built, was wiry and quick as a cat. Landing three or four blows to his opponent's one, the battle was soon over with John Lee the victor.

There was no more trouble after that. The school board offered a several year's contract to John Lee, but Germany had forced the United States into war and the young teacher preferred an Army uniform to teaching.

While he and several other boys were playing with bows and arrows during the Christmas season, Charles Chapman was struck on the left thumb with an arrow, inflicting a nasty injury.

The boy, the son of Judge and Mrs. B. C. Chapman, was taken to a doctor for treatment of the injury.

The wound quickly healed and was soon forgotten. Then, two weeks ago, Charles, 14, tackle on the Indians B football squad, hurt his thumb while practicing.

The thumb was badly swollen, and X-ray indicated some kind of bone infection so a specialist was suggested.

The parents headed for Wichita Falls with the boy, and a bone specialist there advised surgery and possible bone graft.

When the operation was started, the surgeon was amazed to discover a piece of wood imbedded in the bone of the lad's thumb!

completed the surgery and said within a week or ten days the lad's thumb would be perfectly normal.

Charles went through the entire ordeal of X-rays, probing, surgery and stitching of the wound like a veteran.

Take for instance, the young lady in white who came briskly into Charles' room at the Wichita Falls hospital and said pleasantly: "We must get you bathed now, Charles, and ready for the operating room."

It didn't work out the way they intended, but Sam and Von Cobb proved that they could drive and maneuver a motor boat with one of these new-fangled engines and gear-shifts.

The two men, along with Marvin Cobb, Ching Middleton and their families were at the Middleton cabin at Lake Stamford for an outing recently.

Ching's boat, one of those keen units with gear-shift and other new-fangled contraptions, was moored at the boat dock.

Von climbed into the boat, untied the moorings and cast off. Pushed a button and the motor started.

Then Sam entered the picture and boat. You get the idea, two heads are better than one.

Alternately racing the motor at almost top speed and then idling it, Von and Sam pushed this button and pulled that gadget, trying to get the boat underway.

All the time, vibration of the motor and a light wind had been moving the boat, and turning it around until it was slowly drifting sternward out into the lake.

Then all at once, they hit the jackpot. Sam must have yanked the right lever to put the propeller in mesh, just as Von gunned the motor and jammed the throttle down.

The practice of ginning cot- ton in order of arrival at the gin needs revision. The reason, says B. G. Reeves, extension cotton ginning and mechaniza- tion specialist, is the ever- increasing number of machines used to harvest the fleecy staple. Machine harvested cot- ton usually has a higher mois- ture and trash content than hand-picked cotton and dif- ferent settlins of gin machin- ery and drying equipment are required for each type. Group- ing of the bales on the gin yard according to the method of harvesting or moisture con- tent will enable the ginner to do a better ginning job.

Big Radio-TV Plans for Texas Football Fans

Texans, accustomed to good radio and TV coverage of college football, will get better coverage than ever this season, according to an announcement from the Humble Company, sponsor of broadcasts for the last 27 years.

In fact, the announcement said, most of Texas will be able to hear any Southwest Conference game or see any NCAA telecast being broadcast each Saturday.

More than 200 Texas radio and TV stations will be used to cover urban and rural areas in hundreds of cities and towns in the state.

During the season, coverage will include radio broadcasts of all Southwest Conference games, games played by Texas Western College, a weekly video-taped Conference Game of the Week on 30 television stations, and the 15 NCAA live telecasts. Humble will be a co-sponsor of the NCAA telecasts.

In addition, Humble will sponsor radio and video coverage of the 14 play-off AAA and AAAA high school football games in December.

New in the radio broadcasts this year will be a series of recorded interviews with people connected with the game. They will discuss interesting sidelights and behind-scenes activities.

The popular Game of the Week, featuring Kern Tip, will be shown each Sunday at 5:30 p. m. in most areas of Texas. Games will be selected by the Conference, video-taped, edited, and then shown on the big network the next day.

The NCAA games will start with a telecast of the Georgia-Alabama game on Sept. 17th. Southwest Conference teams appearing in these live telecasts include Texas, Texas A&M, and Arkansas.

Recently the oil company's 23-man announcing staff attended a football seminar held in Houston. Conducting were town whose name is Dan. He has three stores. Biggest is a general merchandise type of store, but it stresses things for the sportsman—everything from tennis to fishing.

He's a big buyer and sells at a small margin of profit. Every time he runs an ad his store warms with customers. Usually I'm one of them.

I keep our fishing and hunting gear, as well as our boat, in a small store-room in our fishing shack on the lake. I'll admit the room is pretty well packed.

My wife has complained justly and long about my buying too many outdoor items. My "excuse" has been that I have to keep up-to-date on the products if I'm going to write about them.

But, she found a way to put a stop to all this "foolishness" as she calls it.

She's a pretty clever gal, that woman. When I came in from a recent visit to Dan's—with two or three of about every type of lure that Dan had "specialized"—there was a big sign greeted me over the storeroom door. Embazoned in huge letters was "Dan No. 4."

That ended it. I took the hint. Now I tell Dan to come out to my place on the lake, anytime he runs out of anything—and replenish his stock.

Anyway, if you haven't been reading in this column lately, anything about the latest in everything outdoors, that's the reason. But chances are we'll be back as soon as the storm blows over—just like any avid angler.

Always Carry a Spare: Hokey season is with us again.

If you don't know what we mean, then you've never skipped school to go fishin'.

Maybe we shouldn't be giving the youngsters ideas. They get blamed for enough no-ways-days. But we'll lay you 2 to 1 they are 10 times better behaved than the kids 20, or even 40 years ago. And they're definitely smarter!

Anyway it's not their fault that, when school doors open, fishing gets better. But it sure does.

However, one doesn't have to cut school to get in some good fishing. There is plenty of time on weekends. And if there's fishing water close by, many an angler finds it possible, and profitable to get in a few hours of early morning casting before reporting for work.

Don't overlook the fact that fish bite late in the evening, too.

Anyway—fall fishing is wonderful!

Are you ready for it? Get the tackle box cleaned up, hooks sharpened, rod carefully checked, reel oiled and new line installed?

What the fall months mean to you in the way of a successful season depends a great deal on your preparedness. Nothing is more disgusting than to arrive at a choice fishing spot only to discover that you failed to bring along your favorite lures, or your best rod and reel.

Some anglers keep a check-off sheet handy—just to be sure nothing is overlooked.

We keep our rod and reel in a Boyt case. It looks just like a gun case, but instead of a gun it holds a two-piece spinning or casting rod, a fishing reel, and a dozen or so lures of top-water and underwater variety. It's a mighty handy case.

Take along a couple of them,

Bobbie Lou Sneed and Mabry Brock Repeat Vows in Lubbock Ceremony

MRS. MABRY J. BROCK

The Second Baptist Church in Lubbock was the setting for the wedding of Bobbie Lou Sneed and Mabry Joe Brock, Thursday evening, August 25 at 7 o'clock, with the Rev. Robert J. Hearn, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sneed of Winters, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. R. L. Brock of Haskell.

Organist for traditional wedding music was Miss Martha McGlothing of Sweetwater and soloist was Mrs. Ben Brock of Sweetwater.

Maid of honor was Miss Charlotte Sneed of Lubbock. Mrs. Larry Moses of Ralls and Miss Juaneane Calloway of Coleman were bridesmaids.

Don Judd of Lubbock served the bridegroom as best man, and groomsmen were Jim Shearer of Lubbock and Jerry Whitten of Dallas.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of chantilly lace and tulle designed with a scalloped Sabrina neck line, highlighted by iridescent sequins and seed pearls. From a fitted bodice flowed a voluminous skirt featuring vertical panels of lace at the sides, with appliques of lace on tulle giving pliques effect in front and forming a chapel train. A pearl crown held the veil of silk illusion, and her bouquet was of white roses and stephanotis.

The bridal attendants' gowns were of blue lace and taffeta fully rigged, and you can forget your tackle box and still not kill a day of good fishing.

But, even then it's wise to open the cases before you leave home and give 'em the ole double-check. We know, because we just flat failed to do it only a few days ago.

So, there we were right on top of the ole fishin' hole... with everything and everybody ready to fish—except yours truly. We had everything with us including a brand new four star Garcia fishing rod which we had won in a fishing tourney at the Outdoors Writers meeting at Lake Texoma—everything that is except one important item. We failed to outfit the case with any kind of reel.

Thank goodness however, for one good habit. We always take along a spare outfit. Luckily Boyt case No. 2 was fully equipped.

We had to forego the pleasure of trying out that beautiful new Garcia rod. But thanks to our habit of carrying a spare—we did get to do a bit of fishing with the boys.

Moral of this story is—take along an extra rod and reel, just in case. Reels do burn out, you know. Lines do rot, eventually. And rods have been known to break.

So, play it safe. Take along a spare R&R whenever and wherever you go fishing.

CARD OF THANKS

At a time like this, words cannot express our appreciation for all that has been done for us here during our bereavement. The loss of our loved one, and for the wonderful way you took care of our every need; to each church and its membership, and each minister for the comforting messages which inspired and brought stronger faith and renewed hope into our lives at a time of loneliness and sorrow; to friends and neighbors for their many deeds of kindness, their prayers and expressions of sympathy; for the food brought to our home and the church; and for the beautiful floral offerings in the memory of our loved one. May God bless and keep each of you in our prayer. The family of Jess Glover.

Missionary Family Arrives Post in Buenos Aires

They left Miami about 10 p. m. the same day and flew to Lima, Peru, arriving there around 9 a. m. Aug. 17, where they had a 24-hour layover. They wrote, "We had quite a thrill when we boarded the plane to leave Lima, for about 100 soldiers paraded around the plane, and the military band struck up a special salute just as we were going up the steps. Of course it was all for the dignitary from Lima who was directly behind us (we never learned his name) who flew with us to Santiago, Chile. "We had hoped to do some sightseeing in Santiago but we had no delay in flight. We reached Buenos Aires about 10 o'clock Thursday night. It is winter here now, but not so unpleasant as we feared, although it was a quick change in temperature for us. "We have been seeing the town and you can't imagine how big the place is. It compares with New York in size, and they like to think with Fifth Avenue in smartness. They have a Florida Street that the Argentine people like to see, but we were the main attraction that day. It seems they had never seen children on leashes! "The people here are as white in complexion as we are, although they are a mixture of Germans, Spanish, Jews and Italians. They speak Spanish, but it is a different accent than the Mexicans use. We have received red carpet treatment everywhere. "The houses are white stucco and adobe with red tile roofs and the one we will live in looks like all the rest. We have outside shutters that really close, the doors are very thick and heavy, and every house seems well protected from the weather. "The Tiptons are graduates of Abilene Christian College and have three children, Rosalinda, 4; Robert, 3; and Jennifer Sue, 2. Mrs. Tipton is the former Lola Sue Plemister of Weinert, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Plemister. She is a sister of Wayne Plemister of Haskell and David of Weinert. Mr. Tipton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tipton of Mesquite, Texas, and formerly of California. He has taught in Hardin College, Searcy of Corpus Christi, Texas. While there he preached to the Mexican migrant workers, or "Nationals" who came from Mexico to work in that area.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Wilkinson were in Greenville Sunday to attend the funeral of E. L. Creech.

Thousands Watch Lake Sweetwater Rough Fish Kill

West Texas fishermen saw 47,000 pounds of fish taken from Lake Sweetwater over last weekend, but only about one per cent by weight represented edible fish.

Through cooperative arrangements between the City of Sweetwater and the Game and Fish Commission, a complete kill was undertaken on the lake. It was treated with more than eight tons of chemicals.

Some 200,000 persons witnessed the treatment, and more than 1,000 boats belonging to fishermen of the area were on the lake Saturday and Sunday. Most of the kill was shad and carp, with quite a few bullheads, according to Marion Toole, director of inland fisheries. The program was developed and handled by biologists Larry Campbell of San Angelo and Leo Lewis of Wichita Falls and their staffs.

The workers said they saw two fairly large catfish, one weighing about 17 pounds, and another 12 pounds taken from the lake. Practically every bass taken out weighed more than 2 pounds, indicating that there were no yearling bass stock in the lake. Only two crappie weighing more than one pound were observed.

The treatment was applied by a barge, which spread the dry chemicals on the water surface. Work boats with spray tanks got into the coves where the barge could not work. Previously, some 18 miles of the watershed had been treated in hopes of stopping rough fish infiltration with the next flood waters.

The lake now is to be restocked with game fish produced from Game and Fish Commission hatcheries.

VISIT ON PLAINS

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Holland, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Don Nanny and two children recently visited Mr. Holland's brother, F. M. Holland and family near Olton, Texas. The Haskell man described this year's maize crop on the South Plains as one of the best he had ever seen. Yields of 6,000 to 7,000 pounds per acre were commonplace he said.

RETURN FROM VACATION IN COLORADO

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Cadenhead and children have returned home after spending a vacation in Estes Park, Colo. Dr. Cadenhead also attended a medical convention while there. The Haskell family spent part of their time "camping out" and enjoying the mountains and colorful scenery.

Brochure Aid to Parents of New School Children

Thousands of Texas school children are starting to school for the first time this year with some timely assistance from the Texas State Teachers Association.

More than 115,000 copies of a new brochure designed to help parents of new school children have been ordered from TSTA by local school systems. An estimated 262,000 new students will be enrolled in the state's public schools this year.

The publication, "To Help the Child—and Parents Too," advises parents about legal requirements concerning the school enrollment and attendance, the type of information the school needs, tips for preparing the child for school and helping him to make the most out of it.

Parents are advised, also about such things as: how teachers can assist the child and parent, giving the school a change of address, sending written excuses for absence or inability to take physical exercise, and many other items. The brochure was made available to all schools this year for the first time.
