O'Brien School District To Set Up Tax Rolls Separate From County

The O'Brien (Carney) School district will set up tax rolls and assess school taxes separately and apart from the county beginning this year, trustees of the district decided at a meeting Tuesday night. Previously, the county tax assessor-collector's office had handled assessing and collecting of school district taxes.

Change voted by O'Brien trustees came about after oil interests had protested county tax valuations, creating a situation that might result in school tax payments being held up. Although the O'Brien school district will now do its own assessing for tax purposes, collections will be handled by the county tax collector as heretofore, trustees stated.

Faith To Attempt the Impossible

Were it not for the faith which our forefathers brought to the task of winning independence for this nation, there would never have been an Independence Day.

In this year of the 100th anniversary of the birth of William Jennings Bryan, who was Secretary of State during the first administration of President Woodrow Wilson, the famed Bryan essay on "Faith" bears repetition, for it strikingly sums up the feeling of all true patriots in thinking about the future of our country.

"Faith is the spiritual extension of the vision; it is the moral sense which reaches out toward the throne of God and takes hold upon those verities which the mind cannot grasp.

"The great things of the world have been accomplished by men and women who had faith enough to attempt the seemingly impossible and to trust God to open the way.

"Faith is a heart virtue; doubts of the mind will not disturb it if there is faith in the heart.

"Faith is the triumph of truth, because it is truth, has ever been an unfailing source of courage and power. Faith leads us to trust the omnipotence of the Ruler of the Universe, and to put God's promises to the test.

"Faith is as necessary to the heart of the individual as it is necessary to world-wide peace. What can equal the consolation that comes from reliance upon the care of Him who gives beauty to the lily, food to the fowls of the air, and direction to all?"

There is no better place to find this faith which strengthens all our days than in the House of God. As the Religion in American Life Program urges, let us "Worship together this week" as we remember the sacrifices of those who envisioned "one nation under God, indivisible with liberty and justice for all."

Death of a Free Press

One thing dictators can't stand is a free press. Cuba has provided the world with another tragic example of that truism.

One by one the newspapers which were in any way critical of the Castro government have been silenced. The latest to suffer this fate was the distinguished Prensa Libre. Because of an effort to publish an editorial in which it said that the Castro revolution was employing "the strategy of Goebbels and dialectic tactics of communism," it was taken over by its workers, who are members of a government-controlled union. Its directors took refuge in a foreign embassy.

William H. Cowles, president of the Inter-American Press Association, states: "The confiscation of Prensa Libre by the workers of that newspaper means that Fidel Castro has crushed or seized all Cuban newspapers opposed to his policies or critical of the increasing communist influence in his regime."

The last effective voice of protest has been stifled in Cuba.

The desertion of any of our soldiers to the Filipinos is a phase of the situation there that we have not noticed reported in the general news nor official dispatches from the

People, Places & Things

By A. PATE

Haskell will probably take on the appearance of a deserted city Monday when most of the business houses and offices close in observing an Independence Day holiday.

Much of the town's population will probably head for the lake or some other favorite spot for the traditional July Fourth outing.

Others will join the traffic to the Cowboy Reunion at Stamford, to swelter through a two-hour rodeo program while vowing—as they did last year and the year before—that this is their LAST time to attend a rodeo.

Then there are others who take a different approach to the holiday, one which may be lacking in thrills but which at most requires only a minimum of physical exertion.

In this group are the late sleepers, lawn loungers, and TV addicts. For them very little advance planning is necessary to insure 100 per cent success for any given holiday.

All that is required is a workable picture tube in the TV, properly functioning air conditioner, plenty of ice cubes and cold cuts in the ice box, telephone off the hook—and remainder of the household off on a visit to Aunt Minnie.

On the tail-end of the depression back in the 30's, when a nationwide breakdown in the prohibition law occurred, annual events like the Cowboy Reunion at Stamford and the Central West Texas Fair here in Haskell brought booming business to the bootlegging gentry.

Stock of illicit liquor and "home brew" would be built up in advance, and small amounts would be stashed at points just outside of town. When a "dealer" ran into a prospective customer, he'd make a quick run to his stache and make a delivery in short order.

During one Cowboy Reunion in the early 30's, one of the town's big-time operators, known as "B. C. Baker" set up on an enterprising scale to serve the needs of thirsty rodeo-goers.

B. C. rented a vacant farmhouse just off the highway and about midway between Haskell and Stamford. A discriminating character, B. C. catered to all classes of customers.

For the average Joe, he offered cheap grade of Glenrose out of a charred keg. For the more elite customer, B. C. would dig out bottled-in-bond in blended or 100 proof. Word of B. C.'s joint quickly spread, and during the 3-day Stamford rodeo that summer the roadside oasis had a veritable stream of customers from around 10 a. m. until after midnight.

There were many who figured it would be a toss-up as to which place took in the most money—B. C. or the rodeo!

Shortly afterwards, B. C. and his attractive wife moved on to greener pastures, after the Law started making frequent visits to the vicinity of the rumored roadside bar.

Why is it, a friend of ours asks, that hard luck always doubles up on a man? Everything goes wrong at the same time, in other words.

The friend, we'll call him Andy, was enjoying Gunsmoke the other night when all at once the TV fades out. No manner of coaxing could get a picture.

Next morning on the way to town, Andy's car goes dead. Absolutely. Check by a mechanic showed the battery had given up the ghost. Andy had to buy a new battery.

In the meantime TV-Fixer Bob Hurst had post-mortemed Andy's television set. A picture tube had played out, had to be replaced with a new one. As you know, they don't give those tubes away, either.

Now our friend Andy is Philippines. C. D. Grissom and R. D. Bagley two leading merchants of Alvord, were here this week and bought from T. G. Carney the 616 acre tract of land four and one-half miles southeast of town known as the Long pasture land and will move some horses out to it at once, and some cattle when the quarantine is lifted.

Watt Fitzgerald is making some substantial improvements on his residence. G. W. Haze wood and Spence Beavers with their families went down on the Clear Fork Tuesday to spend a few days in camp and live on fish.

S. W. Scott has sold to R. W. Herren for $11,000 cash the P. H. Anderson 3,129 acre survey belonging to A. H. Tandy, situated about five miles northwest of Haskell.

Miss Alice Street, who has been visiting with the family of F. G. Alexander, left Thursday for her home at Graham, being accompanied by Henry Alexander.

Miss Bertie Berry who has been teaching a class in oil painting, pastel and crayon work here, will return to her home at Benjamin this week. Mrs. C. D. Long and Mrs. V. W. Meadors returned this week from a visit in Austin.

vaulted the orchard fence and took off like a U2 over what they thought was open prairie heading toward the East Ward schoolhouse. Smallest of the raiders, "Shorty" was in the center, and he was doing all right in keeping abreast of the two longer-legged sprinters. All at once "Shorty" disappeared, and about a hundred yards further the two remaining raiders stopped.

Skylighting back toward the orchard, no pursuit could be seen. A few cautious, low whistles were soon answered and in a few minutes "Shorty" came limping up.

Later, "Shorty's" disappearance was figured out. He had ran into an old abandoned, partially caved-in storm cellar, while two other lucky youngsters had fortunately raced to either side of the dug-out.

If the J. G. Vaughters were asked to nominate Tennessee's "Most Accommodating Person" they could easily make their selection.

And, we're proud to report, they'd give the title to a newspaperman!

Recently, returning from Boston, Washington, D. C. and other points, they came through Tennessee and stopped at Lebanon, near the birthplace of Mrs. Vaughter's grandfather.

While eating lunch at a Lebanon restaurant, the Haskell people inquired about the little community where Mrs. Vaughter's forebears had lived.

"I'm not too familiar with the history of the country around here," the restaurant proprietor told them. "However, there's a man over there who can tell you everything you want to know," he added.

Calling the man over, he introduced him to the Haskell people. The man, editor of a Lebanon newspaper, invited the Vaughters and their two children to his car and took them on a tour of the area. Included was a visit to the little community where her grandfather had lived, Mrs. Vaughter said. It was raining, however, and the Haskell people did not get to do all the visiting they would have liked. Nevertheless, their visit was very pleasant, due in large measure to the courtesy and friendliness shown them by the Lebanon newspaperman. "He must be a transplanted Texan," The Vaughters commented.

A reader in Dairhart, Texas, would like to learn the present whereabouts of Dudley or George Chambers, who once lived in Haskell.

Desiring the information is Mrs. E. J. McElroy, 110 Norman Street, Daltart, Texas. She writes: "I have no idea how long they lived here or what year, but it would possibly have been 23 or 30 years ago. It will be appreciated if anyone knowing anything about either of these men will let me know."

Our chief advisor on Early-Day Haskell does not recall a George or Dudley Chambers. He goes back as far as 1913 to recall E. A. (Ed) Chan-

NEWS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Former Weinert Resident Celebrates 84th Birthday in Shamrock Recently

Mrs. M. J. Malcolm, who resides at 107 West Fifth St., celebrated her 84th birthday on Monday, June 20. She says she has learned to love and appreciate the friendly people of Texas, but when she first landed in the Lone Star State, she was ready in 24 hours to return to her beloved West Virginia.

Born in Phillipi, Barbour County, West Virginia, in June of 1876, Martha Jane Talbott's mother died at her birth, and she was taken into the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Talbott until her grandmother's health failed. When she was about 8 years of age, Mrs. Malcolm made her home with an uncle and

Mr. and Mrs. David Shaw of Phillipi, who reared her.

She attended public school in her childhood and Morse-Harvey School for Girls of which her uncle was president.

She recalls the terrible winters of West Virginia with deep snows during the long winter months. When the snow was too deep to walk to school, she rode horseback.

"Our homes were heated with fireplaces with large chimneys and one of my fondest memories is of roasting chestnuts over the open fire in the evenings.

"I had a time beating the squirrels to the chestnuts," she laughingly remarked, "but we gathered lots of hickory nuts and black walnuts in the autumn, then in the spring there were blackberries, dewberries and wild white and red strawberries in the woods to gather."

"My uncle had a large orchard of fine black cherries, and I enjoyed climbing the trees until I was grown. On one occasion, although I had been warned that the trees were getting old, I climbed high in the branches to gather some choice cherries when suddenly the limb broke and the next thing I knew I was sitting on the ground."

In 1908 she married Gordon Malcolm and moved to Texas and settled on a farm a few miles north of Weinert.

"It seemed the loneliest place in the world to me and so different from West Virginia, that I was ready to go back immediately, but stayed and learned a new way of life.

"We had to live in a two-room boxed and stripped house and when it rained the rain would blow in. We had no ice box and when company came

WCSA Meets for Luncheon and Program

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church met for a luncheon and program on Monday, June 27.

The program was presented by Mrs. Everett Medley and was entitled "From a Missionary's Diary." Those assisting on the program were Mesdames D. H. Persons, C. J. Robinson and Wallace Cox Sr.

Open House To Be Held Honoring Mrs. McNeely

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stone, 606 South Avenue E, Haskell, are inviting friends and neighbors to call at their home Monday, July 4 from 4 to 6 p. m. to greet Mrs. Stone's mother, Mrs. J. W. McNeely on her 90th birthday.

We would buy ice and keep it in a wash tub.

"To try to keep our rooms cool, we would hang a large wet ducking sack in the doorway and with the wind blowing against it, it would help a great deal. We kept our milk in pans wrapped with wet cloths and cedar water bucket hung with wet cloths around it.

"It was all new to me, but I had good health and worked hard and learned to love and enjoy my neighbors, especially after we moved to Weinert." When the couple moved to town Mr. Malcolm operated a grocery store and meat market and Mrs. Malcolm had a boarding house.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm lost a son in infancy. They reared one daughter, Mrs. Ruth Pennington of McLean.

Mrs. Malcolm is a charter member of the Weinert Methodist Church and was devoted to her church work, having held a number of offices in the organization and taught in the Sunday School.

During World War I, she worked at Red Cross headquarters spending many hours each week folding bandages and helping in any way she could.

Mr. Malcolm died in 1930, but Mrs. Malcolm continued to live in Weinert until about five years ago when she moved to Shamrock.

She still lives alone and does most of her yard work and all of her housework. Filled with energy her eyes twinkle as she laughs and recalls incidents of other days.

Her hobby is raising all kinds of flowers and she has pieced many beautiful quilts. "I am so thankful for my health and many friends," she declares "I never have enough time to visit with all my friends."

Mrs. Malcolm has two granddaughters, Mrs. Laverne Pinkerton Edwards of Amarillo and Mrs. Priscilla Pinkerton Glover of Shamrock, and three great-grandchildren and looks forward to their coming for a visit with her.

She is a contented person and enjoys reading and listening to her radio.

Mrs. Malcolm was honored Sunday, June 19 with a birthday dinner in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Pennington in Shamrock. Those attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pennington and son, Dirk, of Amarillo, Aris and Randy Edwards of Amarillo, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Glover of Shamrock.

MUST 27 PERSONS DIE? Gov. Daniel Asks Motorists Help In Curbing July 4th Death Toll

Governor Price Daniel has asked thousands of Texas citizens and millions of motorists to join with law enforcement agencies all over the State "to hold the Fourth of July traffic death list below the official prediction of 27."

The Governor has notified citizens traffic organizations throughout Texas of plans for the first major holiday traffic safety campaign of the year. He also mailed special requests to every sheriff and chief of police in the State, requesting them to put all available men on duty over the 72-hour Fourth of July weekend. He also requested the local law enforcement agencies to cooperate fully with the Texas Department of Public Safety in controlling excessive speed and driving while drinking during the holiday.

Governor Daniel said the 1959 increase in traffic crashes involving excessive speed and driving while drinking "can no longer be tolerated if we are ever to make our streets and highways safe for most of our motorists. It is tragic but true, as reflected by the official records that excessive speed was involved in 35 per cent of our highway fatalities last year. That was a slight increase but it reflects a dangerous trend.

"Concerning driving while drinking," the Governor continued, "that violation was involved in 45 per cent of our highway fatalities, and it marked the second consecutive yearly increase. Because of the greater danger, I have asked Texas officers at all levels to bring these situations under better control by using every resource at their command. I appeal to all Texas motorists to take a little more time and drive more slowly during this Fourth of July celebration. It is far better to get there a little late than not at all."

The Governor noted official statistics of the Department of Public Safety which show that the Fourth of July death toll in Texas in six of the past eight years has exceeded the official predictions. "I can think of no good reason why this tragic result should be repeated this year," he said, "and that is the principal reason for our heavy emphasis on law enforcement against the violators and for urging obedience to the law, coupled with highway courtesy and cautious driving, on those who really desire to cooperate."

Sagerton News

BY MRS. DELBERT LEFEVRE

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Heldmann and family of Caldwell visited with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bredthauer, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bredthauer and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nierbeck and their families last week end.

Mrs. Ted Terrell and children, Don Clark and little Kay are here from San Antonio visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Reece Clark for two weeks.

Mrs. Pete Kitley and Mrs. Ewell Kitley entertained the members of the Siltco and Chatter Club in the home of Mrs. Ewell Kitley Wednesday of last week. A quilt was quilted for the hostess. Those present were Mmes. John Clary, M. Y. Benton, Cliff LeFevre, Will Stegemoeller, R. O. Gibson Sr., G. A. Leach, Ethel Laughlin, Ben Hess, Ione Sheid and the hostess.

A rattlesnake was an unwelcome guest in the Sagerton post office last week. It was found in the closet where supplies are kept by Miss Buehla Mae Summers and Charles Clark, rural mail carrier. Miss Summers did not see nor hear the snake when she went to the closet for supplies, but a few minutes later when Mr. Clark went to the closet, he accidentally kicked a broom behind which the snake was hiding, and it let its presence be known.

Although many snakes were found in their dens and killed in the early spring this year as they were last year, it seems that they are still numerous, and several people who never saw a rattlesnake near their homes before, have killed them around their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lambert and daughter of Lubbock visited with Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Lambert Sunday.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Helm Sunday evening were Ed Helm of Hanah, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. George Mullins of Stamford, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lehmann, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Monse and Diane, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schaake.

CARD OF THANKS

We deeply appreciate every deed of kindness extended to us in the loss of our dear mother. The beautiful flowers, every kind word and even the presence of our friends and loved ones meant so much to us. May God bless each of you in our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Atchison. 26c

Conservation Service Working
26 Cooperators in Haskell Area

W. J. Work Unit, Haskell Conservation Service, reports that 26 cooperators have been selected in the Haskell Creek District portion of the area. During the past year, 26 Soil Conservation Service cooperators have been selected in applying or various conservation practices on their land. The program is dependent on a good plan of operation for the entire farm. The new cooperators are being assisted in developing conservation practices on their farms or ranches.

Other conservation practices applied included conservation cropping systems consisting of high residue and soil improving crops grown in rotation with soil depleting crops on 4,759 acres. Contour farming was established on an additional 2,377 acres. Cover crops were planted on 1,246 acres; 5,841 acres of crop residue such as sorghums were maintained on the land through April 1. 37 acres were planted to rotation hay and pasture crops. 2,362 acres of mesquite had brush control measures applied. 332 acres of small grain residue were stubble mulched. 913 acres of rangeland were deferred. 5,644 acres of native rangeland were properly used. 520 rods of cross fencing were constructed for better management of native rangeland. 344 acres of rangeland were seeded and 213 acres of pasture planting was carried out. Three farm ponds were stocked with fish. 288 acres of cropland had a good mulch of cotton burrs on the land.

During the next six months strong emphasis will be placed on such agronomic practices as cover crops, stubble mulching, conservation cropping systems, and crop residue use. Deferred grazing, proper range use, and proper water man-

The OLD RANCHER

MY LAND LIKES COVER TOO-- WE CALL THAT STUBBLE MULCHING

Great Plains Program Provides Soil, Water Conservation Plan

The Great Plains Conservation program, administered by the Soil Conservation Service, covers all the land in a single operating unit. Like The Old Rancher, a farmer or rancher that participates with the Great Plains Conservation program is completely covered.

According to J. C. Yeary Jr., Soil Conservationist of the Haskell Work Unit, a farmer or rancher that wants to establish a complete soil and water conservation program on his farm or ranch can do so and be assured of having funds available when needed to carry out his planned practices. Every acre of land is inventoried and planned for its proper use. Each acre is treated according to its needs, and Federal funds are made available for the planned treatments bearing cost-share rates in advance of the actual application of the practice.

Yearly reported that Haskell County had twenty-two contracts in operation with a total of $57,490 of obligated Federal funds. Farmers and ranchers of Haskell County have submitted claims for payment for practices applied since January in the amount of $6476.

BY VERN SANFORD

As an outdoorsman you should learn all you can regarding mother nature — especially how she provides for you, as well as for the game you love.

I enjoy our modern frozen foods and mechanical gadgets just as much as the next fellow. But I think it is good to know how the Indians and the early pioneers survived without these conveniences.

Having nothing but what mother nature provided, our predecessors survived because of their knowledge and ingenuity in using what they had.

Each animal, plant, shrub, tree, bird, grass or what-have-you, had its own place in nature. But most of them can be put to some extra use, to serve man—if he knows, or can discover how to use it.

Generally this discovery comes about as a matter of necessity. However, the factor of necessity seldom arises in our modern day world. Nevertheless, it's still good to retain part of this knowledge, even today.

Many camping families, boy scout groups, the Armed Forces, etc., attempt to learn what they can about survival, dependent upon mother nature. I have yet to hear anyone who studied it say that he had been wasting his time.

Let's just look at one, often abused and criticized product of mother nature, that abounds throughout Texas. Let's see what it has performed in the way of survival for man.

The small, misshapen, scrawny little mesquite tree has been scoffed at by tourists in Texas for many years. Yet Texas owes a great deal to this determined and useful projection of love from mother nature.

In the early days of Texas, when its population was composed of Indians, Mexicans and early white settlers, the mesquite tree was like the present suburban shopping center.

This little sprig of life provided so much for the existence of these people that I am surprised that Texas has not erected a mesquite tree statue in undying admiration for this so often abused creation of nature.

The mesquite tree was perhaps the prime fuel of our early day people, as it provided kindling for both heating and cooking.

The off-eaten barbecue of today started with meat prepared over the wood from mesquite trees. This wood imparts a flavor that is relished by many barbecue experts of today.

The delicate leaves of the mesquite were, and sometimes still are, placed in men's hats — to help keep the head cooler in hot weather.

Mesquite tree leaves often were used as poultices, as were the leaves of many other plants and trees.

Household bleaches of today may be better, but the earlier Texas inhabitants were quite pleased with the results of boiling mesquite tree leaves with their clothes, to make the apparel white.

The mesquite bean, that hangs in long slender pods from the tree, also found many uses. The beans were ground between stones. The result—Ole—was flour.

This was a potent and variously used flour. It made a tasty and energy-providing bread, even now enjoyed by some. The uncooked dough was the beginning of the now famous tortillas and tamales.

If you mixed this mesquite flour with water you could have a choice of two useful products—a stomach medicine or a potent liquor. Could be that old-timers needed both at the same time.

Lastly, we come down to the root of the tree itself. Roots were boiled into a stomach and bowel medicine (undoubtedly never patented) and an excellent dressing for wounds.

You could forecast your planting by this tree, too. It never freezes after the buds appear and I hear tell that a very cold winter is always forecast by an extra large crop of mesquite beans.

Now, don't you agree that we've abused this tree? That we've abused this tree? That True, it's not a thing of beauty. But after all—beauty is only skin deep.

County Has Three Rural Traffic Mishaps in May

Three rural traffic accidents were investigated by the Highway Patrol service of the Texas Department of Public Safety in Haskell County during the month of May, according to Sergeant F. P. Jirick. In making this announcement, the sergeant reported two property damage, one injury, and no fatal accidents. These wrecks caused a total property damage of $1,850.00 with one person injured and none killed. This brings the total for the year in this county to none killed, five injured, and property damage of $8,455.00. "During the first five months of this year, traffic deaths decreased 11 per cent over the same period of 1957; however, the most dangerous part of the year accident wise, is still ahead of us," the sergeant said. "In Texas, about 40 per cent of all traffic deaths are usually recorded during the first six months of the year; about 60 per cent in the latter half. With the Fourth of July holiday, we start the busiest season of the year traffic wise, and we continue through the summer and harvest season, the summer vacation season, the Labor Day holiday, school opening and school activity, the fall business season and the Thanksgiving and Christmas-New Year's holidays. "Some of the motorists have done a magnificent job thus far, but unless we pull out all stops and realize that obedience to the traffic laws is necessary to stay alive, then some new death records are in store for our State. "Holiday vacation traffic accidents take a costly toll throughout the State. The tragedy on top of tragedy is that these accidents could have been avoided. According to the veteran officer, if everyone will check their own driving, take time to be careful and be alert for the careless driver, vacations can be accident free.

Ballinger Asks Restriction on Use of Water

One of the first West Texas cities to ask restriction in municipal water use is Ballinger, where the City Commission last week asked residents' cooperation in a conservation program. They explained the municipal pumping system could not keep up with the demand. Ballinger commercial users will be asked to water lawns from 6 a. m. to noon daily. Included in this category are churches, schools, courthouse, cemetery and housing project. Odd-numbered residences are to water on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons only, and even-numbered residences Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons. No restrictions were placed on Sundays. The 44-story Humble Oil & Refining Company home office building which is scheduled to be finished in Houston in 1962, will have about a million square feet of usable space.
