

Top enlisted slot gets new face

Chief Max and Natalie Lantz

CMSgt. Max E. Lantz will succeed CMSgt. Jerry Price as the 64th Flying Training Wing senior enlisted advisor next week.

Chief Price has been selected for an assignment with the Air Training Command Inspector General team at Randolph AFB, Texas.

Prior to his selection as the new senior enlisted advisor, Chief Lantz worked in the 1958th Communications Squadron as the chief of maintenance.

Chief Lantz arrived at Reese in September from an assignment with Air Force Communication Command's Strategic Communications Division at Offutt AFB, Neb. At Offutt, Chief Lantz served as the superintendent for the Maintenance Management Division.

Chief Lantz began his military service career almost 30 years ago when he enlisted in the Army Reserve. In 1960 the chief qualified as an aviation cadet, but pilot training slots at that time were unavailable.

Eager to get his Air Force career going, Chief

Lantz went into electronics working with radar systems. But, one third of his technical training complete, he entered navigator training class 61-11N at Harlingen AFB, Texas.

Four months later, however, the chief opted to return to the electronics field. He then completed his Aircraft Control and Warning course at Keesler AFB, Miss.

His assignments since his training days have taken him to remote areas like Greenland, to the combat zones of the Republic of Vietnam, and to assignments all over the United States.

The chief, father of four boys, has been decorated with the Air Force Meritorious Service Medal, the Commendation Medal, Good Conduct Medals from both the Air Force and the Army, and his ribbon decorations go even farther.

The chief is married to Gulfport, Miss., native Natalie Roush. Together they have raised their sons James, 20, Kenneth, 17, Max II, 15, and Stephen, 11.

Surgical tech vies for Wells award

TSgt. Frederick C. Pepper will represent Air Training Command in the Air Force's Brig. Gen. Sarah P. Wells Award competition this July.

Sergeant Pepper was nominated for the ATC competition by the Reese hospital commander and chief nurse. Both Lt. Col. Arline Casterline, the chief nurse, and Dr. (Col.) Thomas F. Sheffer, hospital commander, agreed in their nomination letter that Sergeant Pepper was an outstanding manager with top leadership qualities.

The NCOIC for the surgery department, Sergeant Pepper's duty performance was also examined. He was heralded for the prudent and efficient manner in which he maintains four equipment accounts worth $151,811.

Sergeant Pepper also manages six other accounts totaling another $95,000. One of his most noted accomplishments during fiscal 1983 was the higher than expected patient productivity rate.

The surgical technician staff dropped from a five person staff to two, but through Sergeant Pepper's perseverance, initiative and multi-skills, the surgical unit achieved a superior rating during the Health Service

Management Inspection team's visit earlier this year.

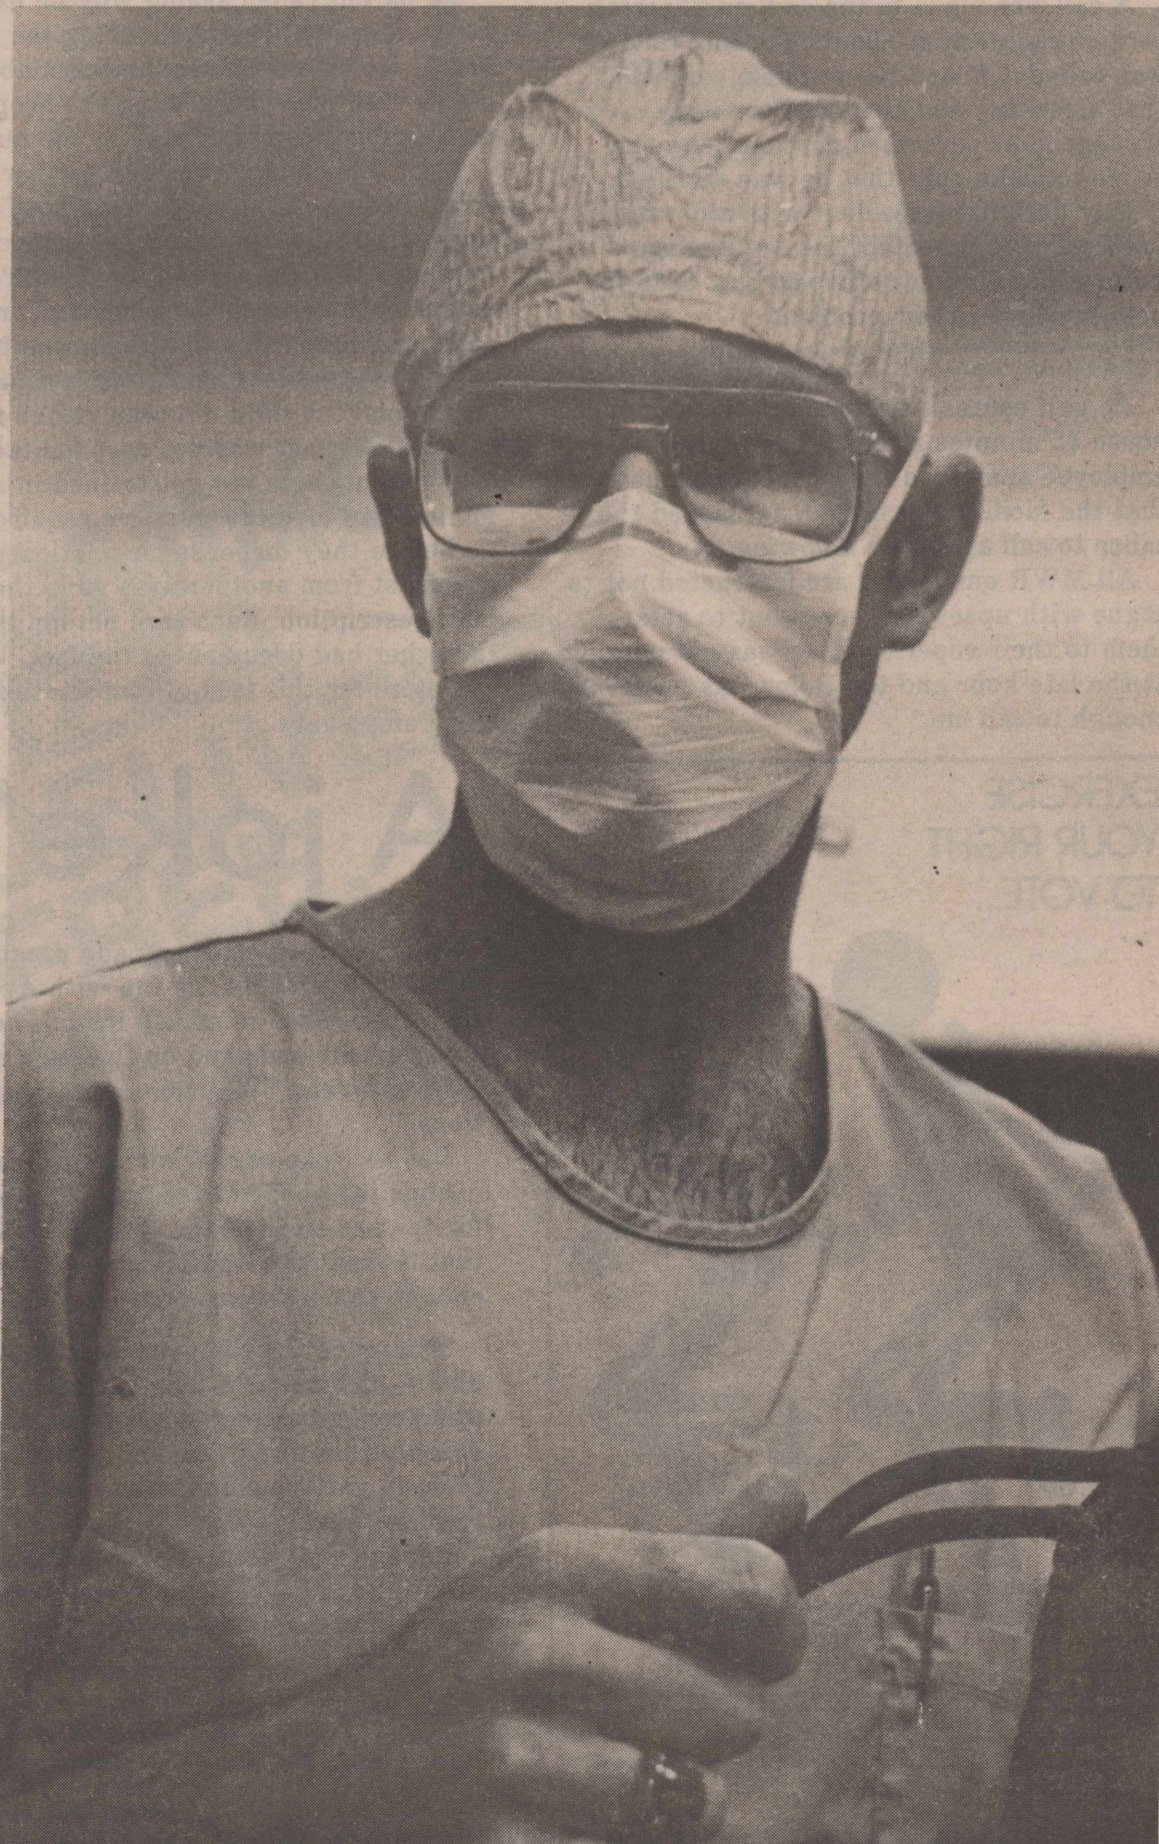

Off the job, Sergeant Pepper still thinks medical. He is a CPR instructor and an affiliate faculty member in the Lubbock American Heart Association.

The Reese surgical technician has completed the first four stages of Professional Military Education and is currently enrolled with the Community College of the Air Force. His ultimate goal is to become an Air Force officer in the medical service corps — he's only nine semester hours shy of his bachelor's degree with Wayland Baptist University.

The award is based on the 'whole-man' concept explained MSgt. Dan Heckler of the Reese hospital.

This is only the second year the Sarah P. Wells award has been awarded. It is for nursing service personnel, sergeants through technical sergeants, that demonstrate sustained high performance rates and get involved with their communities.

As ATC's nominee, Sergeant Pepper's records will be reviewed by a panel of medical field E-9s in Washington D.C., before the Air Force winner is announced in July.

CARE Line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. John R. Hullender, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, on a weekly basis. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty telephone number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers should use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air their views or complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line number is 885 (Ext.) 3273.

A resident of Dorm 1140 called recently to say we need more pay phones for use by barracks personnel. There is only one phone in Dorm 1140, and a total of 27 pay phones on base.

All these telephones are owned by GTE. Like most businesses, GTE operates for a profit. When the phones are not profitable, GTE will not install more. Experience has shown that most malfunctioning telephone equipment, in most cases, is caused by people placing everything from slugs to bottlecaps in the pay phones' coin slots. That is why only one telephone is placed in each dorm.

GTE repairmen check the pay phones twice a week. If you find a pay phone that is inoperative, speed up the repair process by calling the Reese telephone operator and reporting the malfunction.

Another dorm resident complained because there was no hot water on the second and third floors of Dorm 320.

A call was made to the civil engineering service call desk at about the same time I was called. CE had the problem corrected that same day and Central Dormitory Management personnel checked with the caller to make sure that he was satisfied.

Any dormitory resident with a dormitory problem should contact the Central Dormitory Management office at Ext. 3236 for help in solving their problem.

A golf course patron called the golf club house 45 minutes after closing. A course employee answered the phone, explained that the facility was closed, and asked the caller to call again the following day.

All MWR employees are instructed not to argue with upset customers but to refer them to their superior. This was not possible at the late hour and the caller was upset enough to call me.

The course operates from 8 a.m. to sunset, seven days a week. Jack Hood, MWR chief, will be happy to discuss the golf course on any other MWR service's operating hours with interested callers. Hood may be reached at Ext. 3412.

A caller asked why everything on base has to be Reese brown except the patio fences behind the NCO and officers' clubs?

We are painting everything the Reese colors to give the base a clean, distinct, and uniform appearance. The brown colors are naturally practical for this area. The patio fences are not painted because their natural wood blends so well with the Reese colors.

I am proud of this base and the hard work Reese people have contributed to keep it the "Show Place" of ATC. The Reese colors program will help us enhance the base appearance and retain those honors.

A parent called asking why he had to pay at the nursery preschool during the spring break. He also expressed concern about problems with his child getting the proper medication during her stay at the nursery.

First, the child care program operates on a fixed income. All parents were notified during registration and at parent-teacher meetings that full tuition was required for each month regardless of holidays or child absences; except for the Christmas break.

With regard to administering medication, the dependent child did receive her medication but the fact was not documented. The lady on duty was not yet trained in administering medication as we require them to do before they dispense medication. A care specialist from another area gave the child her prescription. Each care person thought the other had documented the fact. We apologize for this lack of coordination between employees.

Two callers questioned the treatment they received from personnel in accounting and finance.

A military member called the Accounting and Finance Office and requested information about his pay. He was informed that because of the Privacy Act, he could not be furnished the data over the telephone. A caller then requested a hypothetical example. The pay clerk responding to this call over-reacted and presented an unprofessional attitude.

The pay clerk has been counseled on his responsibilities to assure that quality pay service is provided or that appropriate actions are taken when he cannot resolve a problem. All personnel should be aware that specific pay information cannot be discussed over the telephone and that arrangements may be made to obtain the information they need at a time convenient to them.

Another caller reported dissatisfaction with the service he received from the Military Pay Section of Accounting and Finance. He did not understand the breakdown of withholding from his pay and felt the NCO assisting him with discourteous.

Again, the individual has been counseled on the necessity of always displaying courtesy and consideration in this customer service type organization, even on busy paydays.

Many complimentary letters and comments are received about the high quality of service our people receive on a daily basis. It is unfortunate, but these occasional lapses in professionalism do occur. Every effort is being made to correct deficiencies and any person experiencing difficulty should contact the accounting and finance officer immediately.

Finally, I want to close on an upbeat note. We have just completed the most successful, by far, Air Force Assistance Fund drive in Reese's history; $34,217 has been raised for the charities supported by this fund. This figure exceeds our goal by over 183 percent. I want to express my personal appreciation to each of our people who contributed and worked toward helping those who need our assistance. The whole wing has truly exemplified the slogan of this year's campaign, "Sharing is what really counts." Thank you again.

A joke? It backfired in a most positive way

(ATCNS) — Some company president decided to have a little fun with April Fool's Day. As a joke, he mailed his business card to several friends and on the back of each card he wrote, "Well done . . . Congratulations!"

But the joke backfired because each of his friends telephoned to express appreciation for the pat on the back. Yes, each believed that he had done something important enough to deserve commendation.

That gave the company president another idea — but not as a joke. He wrote the very same congratulatory message on about a dozen pieces of personal stationery and sent them to various employees in separate interoffice envelopes.

Believe it or not, the very same thing happened! Each person who received the message thanked the president for his kind words and said something like this: "I didn't realize you knew I graduated from the advanced computer course" or ". . . won the baking contest" or ". . . topped the shop's highest production record last month" or ". . . finished second in the marathon" or ". . . was named best bowler on the company team" or ". . . sold more than any sales rep in the field."

All felt they had accomplished something of sufficient importance to be praised. All deserved recognition.

And that was the end of the story.

Well, that story made me think that we who are supervisors and directors and managers don't praise our people enough. Our employees are loyal, hardworking individuals. Certainly, like everyone else, they work for a salary, but they work and walk tall with dignity. They value their jobs and take pride in what they do.

Our fellow employees deserve more praise!

'Top stick' draws RF-4C duty

The "top stick" of Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 84-04 is 2nd Lt. Brian Hedges. Lieutenant Hedges, however, must share that title with 2nd Lt. Reid Murphy.

Lieutenant Hedges took top ceremony honors as the recipient of not only the Flying Training Award, but Distinguished Graduate honors and the Air Training Command Commander's trophy.

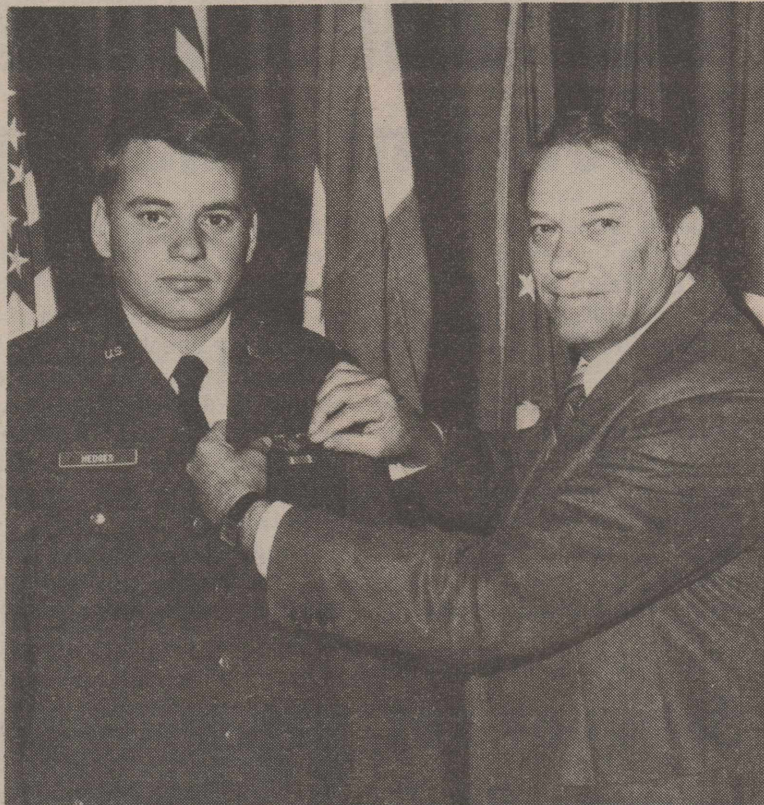

The lieutenant, a Boise, Idaho, native, will return to Idaho's Air National Guard to fly the RF-4C.

Lieutenant Murphy, the second to get a Flying Training Award in 84-04, also distinguished himself earning Distinguished Graduate status, too.

Other awards were given to Capt. Robert Pagoni, a Leadership Award, Capt. Michael Iacampo, a Leadership Award, 2nd Lt. Anthony Stavros, an Academic Training Award, 2nd Lt. William Morris, Distinguished Graduate, and 2nd Lt. Jay Denney, Distinguished.

Lieutenant Stavros, recipient of the class' only academic award, garnered his award through hours of study. There are 12 tests taken by all UPT students during their classes, but only Lieutenant Stavros passed every exam without missing a question.

The guest speaker at the ceremony was, Brig. Gen. Richard F. Gillis, deputy chief of staff for logistics at Air

Mission complete

Richard W. Hedges, Lieutenant Hedges father, pins the Air Force's pilot wings on his son's chest, following the graduation ceremony April 6.

Training Command Headquarters, Randolph AFB, Texas.

During the general's brief talk, he told the graduates that they were now going to be responsible for national assets worth millions of dollars per jet.

He then began discussing the U.S. and Soviet military powers, in particular the Air Force weapons of each. He said, "each of you will be a key player in deterring war."

For those remaining in ATC, he added, the first operational squadron of T-46 trainers will be on line in 1986; however, the T-46 aircraft will become available as early as April 1985.

The general directed one final remark to the students before closing — "Only the best in the world wear Air Force wings!"

Well done

Student demos top airmanship

Quick, level-headed thinking probably saved the T-38 2nd Lt. Brian Hedges, then a student pilot, was flying Nov. 7 when his aileron input was damaged.

Lieutenant Hedges had taken the jet up to fly a contact sortie, but during aerobatic maneuvering he noticed that his aileron input was jammed. The jammed aileron left the lieutenant with very limited directional control.

Once he had confirmed the binding and limited movement of the left aileron, Lieutenant Hedges declared an emergency and did a controllability check.

From there, the lieutenant simply made a straight-in approach and landed. The contact sortie Lieutenant Hedges was flying was only his 13th or 14th in the T-38.

Wing Safety officials point out there was the distinct possibility of losing that T-38 at the time, but the Reese student demonstrated superior airmanship and brought it in.

The Well Done Award is presented to Air Training Command instructor pilots and students that, like Lieutenant Hedges, demonstrate superior airmanship during an adverse flying situation.

Flying the Fighting Falcon

The Air Force Thunderbirds will appear at the Cannon AFB, N.M., April 22 in support of Cannon's Community Appreciation Day. The Thunderbirds will begin their show at 4 p.m. for spectators. The Cannon demonstration is the closest the team will appear to Reese this year. There is a Reese shuttle bus going to the Cannon event for those wanting to see the Thunderbirds fly in their F-16 Fighting Falcons. The bus leaves the recreation center at 8 a.m.

Reese pilots visit the academy

Reese T-37 and T-38 crews visited Cadet Squadron 13 at the Air Force Academy in Colorado during March bringing Reese to the cadets.

The 64th Flying Training Wing sponsors the academy squadron some of their activities, and supports the 13th as much as possible. A group of cadets from the academy will visit Reese later this month.

The Reese crews flew to Peterson Field, Colo., March 16 and were taxied to the academy the following morning.

At the academy, eight of the Reese crews performed a flyby that morning during the parade. Other Reese officers went to "SAMI" (cadet room inspections) and then a squadron meeting.

Following the inspections and flyby, each of the officers had lunch in the academy's Mitchell Hall dining facility. After lunch the pilots began their free time during which individual tours of the academy were given.

That night the officers from Reese attended a dining in at the Falcon Inn. The crews got to enjoy the Bob and Scott Show, too.

Then as the crews weathered in Sunday, Reese aviators attended church services at the academy before getting in some exercise at the school's gym.

All of the Reese crews made the return flight March 19.

NCOA meeting set

The Reese Chapter of the NCO Association will meet Tuesday at the enlisted club at noon. The theme of this month's meeting is Special Olympics. The NCOA chapter is seeking 250-300 Reese volunteers to help out at the Lubbock Special Olympics May 5.

Maintain good appearances

It's that time when the weekly grounds maintenance program must again be emphasized. Grass should be cut, raked and trimmed on Mondays and Tuesdays along with other outside maintenance standards.

If you are not sure of the base's standards or have other questions about the program contact MSgt. Robert E. Betz at the base commander's office, Ext. 3655.

The inspections, performed by the wing and base commanders, began again April 11.

Sealed bid sale set

Morale, Welfare and Recreation Nonappropriated Funds' excess property sale begins today in Building T-37, the former data automation building.

The sealed bid sale is open to the public. The items for sale can be seen from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily until Thursday afternoon at 4 p.m.

Want to work with the T-46A?

March 28, Headquarter Air Training Command announced that applicants are now being accepted for people wanting to work with the T-46A Initial Operation Test and Evaluation team at Edwards AFB, Calif.

The reporting date for those selected is January 1985 with subsequent assignments to Laughlin AFB, Texas, the site of the first T-46A delivery.

Individuals are needed in Air Force Speciality Codes 1355B, three captains; 4024 a major or captain; and two first lieutenants or captains.

Interested officers should apply at CBPO's Personnel Utilization Section as soon as possible. Applications are due to ATC headquarters by April 20. Call Ext. 3361 for more information.

JOC awards banquet set

The Reese Junior Officers' Council awards banquet is tonight at the officers' club at 7 p.m. Tickets are $11 each and are still available from: Capt. Susan Bellamy, Ext. 3407; Capt. Cordell Kylo, Ext. 3832; 1st Lt. Dianna Ackerley, Ext. 3300; 1st Lt. Roxann Ferguson, Ext. 3633; 1st Lt. Charlie Foster, Ext. 3851; 1st Lt. Julie Foster, Ext. 3744; 1st Lt. Drew Hudel, Ext. 3922; 2nd Lt. Dave Bellamy, Ext. 3208; 2nd Lt. Glen Lang, Ext. 3944; or 2nd Lt. Ellen Wells, Ext. 3515.

Asian-Pacific week planning meeting

There will be a planning meeting for Asian-Pacific American week Tuesday at Social Actions in Building 32 at 10 a.m. The meeting is open to all planning to participate in the week's activities.

EWC college funds available

The Reese enlisted wives' club will award one $500 and two $250 to three area high school seniors next month. To be eligible for the scholarship money, students must have maintained a 3.0 grade-point average.

Students can obtain applications for the money from Billye Swanson, 3203 67th Street, Lubbock, TX 79413 or at any of the area high school counselors' office.

Deadline for applying for the scholarships is May 12.

Monday midnight is the deadline

Taxpayers everywhere have only until midnight Monday to file their federal income tax returns.

Appreciation luncheon today

Tom Ireland's retirement and appreciation luncheon is today at the officers' club beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Honor Guard practice

The second of two mandatory Honor Guard practices is set for today at the guard facility at 3 p.m.

Recognition ceremony is today

Reese's education recognition ceremony is today at the chapel at 2:30 p.m. Family and friends of those to be recognized are invited to attend.

Child care is there

The Reese Child Care Center, in conjunction with the Department of Defense, has planned numerous activities for Reese military children this month.

Since April has been set aside for the military children, child care officials here thought you should know the background of the Reese center.

The Reese facility can accommodate 114 children; there are already more than 65 children under their care daily.

Nearly 80 percent of the operation capital needed to continue Child Care Center business is generated through the fees that parents pay for their children. The remaining 20 percent is made up by the Air Force with appropriated and nonappropriated funds.

One highlight of the Reese program is its food service program. All children under their care receive meals and snacks as required by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

There are many reasons for using the Air Force child care centers like Reese's, but rather than read about them, Reese child care staffers urge you to stop by and see for yourself the benefits available to parents.

Walking the beam

Billy Will, son of TSgt. Stephen Will in Data Automation, walks the Child Care Center's new balance beam with the help NCO Association members MSgt. Raymond Poirier (L) and MSgt. James Montgomery as TSgt. Kevin Burns looks on. The Reese Chapter of the NCOA donated the balance beam to the Child Care Center last week.

Scout camporee begins tonight

The first of more than 1,000 scouts will begin arriving here tonight at 5 p.m. to participate in the Rendezvous '84: South Plains Council Camporee being held here this weekend. Their goal — being the best scouting unit in the Chaparral District.

Scouts from throughout the various troops and packs will compete in various skill events ranging from knot tying to a first aid rally and even testing their compass usage skills.

The purpose behind the camporee and its skill events is to promote teamwork.

This is not the first year Reese has hosted in the scouting event. In 1983, there were more than 900 scouts on hand, but because the camporee has been opened to Girl Scouts too, an even larger group is expected in 1984.

Saturday the competition gets going and it will be up to a panel of 12 Reese judges to determine the winners of each event. Then Saturday evening, the overall top competitors will be recognized as the best in the district.

Saturday afternoon the nationally known Kwahadi Indian dancers will perform, too. They will dance at 4:30 p.m. and then again at 8:30 that night.

No matter whether you are or are not a scouter, Capt. John Paterson, scouting liaison, encourages everyone that wants to, to stop by and watch the events and dancers.

Crime bite line

by Sgt. Rudy Hernandez crime prevention neco

Reese's most recent incidents have involved:

•A large sum of money was found and turned in to the 64th Security Police Division desk.

•On a more criminal note, a brown four-door station wagon ran over a traffic sign across from the base's main gate. Anyone with information regarding the hit and run incident should contact the security police investigations unit at Ext. 3999.

•A dependent son was bitten by a large dog recently. Parents are urged to supervise their children and if they start to pester a neighbors pet stop them before they are bitten or scratched.

•One final incident happened on base, an airman reported that a plastic faring was stolen from his motorcycle. The bolts attaching the faring were removed, too. Anyone with information about the faring theft should contact SP investigations at Ext. 3999 as soon as possible.

Reese is a business and residential community and only you can help cut the crime rate here. If you see a crime in progress or anything suspicious notify the Crime Line at Ext. 3400 immediately. Together, Reese can "take a bite out of crime."

(AFSINC) — If you want to contact someone you knew in the Air Force in the past but don't know the address, write a letter to the individual and seal it in a stamped envelope. On the envelope include your return address and the individual's name only. Place the letter in a second envelope along with information about yourself (name, grade and address) plus a separate sheet of paper providing any known information that may help to locate the individual. Mail the envelope to Headquarters AFM-PC/MPCD003, Randolph AFB, TX 78150. The address for the individual will be added to your letter and it will be mailed. If research fails to turn up any information or if the individual is deceased, you will be notified.

This service is free for active duty and retired members only.

On the job

Law Enforcement Specialist A1C Michael McDermott flags authorized persons on to Reese and helps base visitors get to their appointments. The sharp outward appearance of Reese's gate guards such as Airman McDermott helps form the visitor's opinion of the Air Force and in the same way it is serving to rekindle pride among Air Force members now at Reese.

Squadron news

MSgts. Roy Prince, first sergeant, and Loyd Sheppard, Professional Military Education Center commandant, have been credited for their efforts in making CMSgt. Jerry Price's farewell party a success.

The unit's NCO of the Quarter is SSgt. Deniece Herrington and the Airman of the Month for April is A1C Joseph Howard.

Welcome back Sgt. Dora Martinez. Sergeant Martinez has been on convalescent leave.

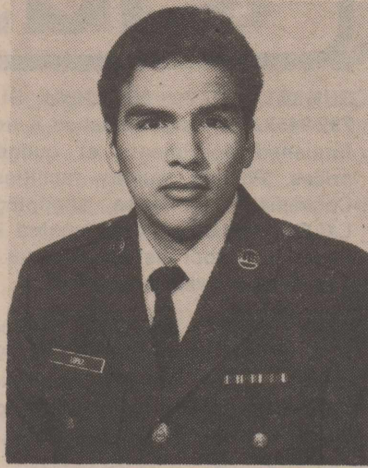

A1C Michael McDermott and A1C Anthony Perry, both of the security police division, will be promoted to senior airman May 1.

Newly arrived squadron members include SSgt. Kenneth Large from field maintenance, A1C Melton Brewer and Amn. James Pressley.

Comptroller Div

SSgt. Thomas Albert is the division's NCO of the Quarter, A1C Marc Lopez is the comptroller's Airman of the Quarter, and Lucille Hogan is the Civilian Employee of the Quarter for the division.

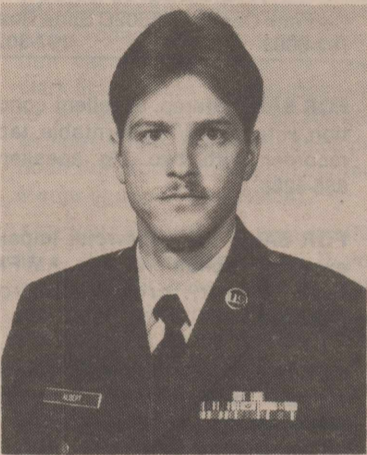

Each section's nominee is presented to the comptroller before the final selection is made. The nominees' duty performance and knowledge are key factors in the selection process.

Aerobic dance class begins

There will be a new aerobic dance class at the gym beginning Tuesday. For more information contact the gym at Ext. 3207.

Softball officials sought

There is a shortage of softball officials at Reese. Volunteers are needed to fill softball official positions before the season starts. To sign up or get more information contact Gary Grant at Ext. 3207.

Softball meeting set

There will be an intramural softball meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday. For details contact the gym, Ext. 3207.

Racquetball results

David Bernacki and Thomas Hearn will represent Reese in the men's open division; Dan Gomez and Phil Lozano in the men's 35 and older division; and Laura Howard and Roxann Ferguson in the women's open division, at the Air Force Region III racquetball competition at Lackland AFB, Texas, April 22-27.

Each pair of players won first and second place respectively in their divisions during the Reese racquetball tournament held last weekend.

Runners compete at Williams

David Hammer placed sixth in the Air Training Command 10K run at Williams AFB, Ariz., April 4. His running peers Henry Ruthe, Ronald Nugent, Jim Clark, Larry Byrd, Paul Moody and Roxann Ferguson also participated in the race's men's and women's open divisions.

Easter Seals run tomorrow

The Reese-hosted run to benefit the Easter Seals Society is tomorrow and it begins at the perimeter road. Running gets started at 9 and 9:15 a.m. depending on which run you enter, the 5K or 10K.

For details contact 1st Lt. Denny Grunstad in the 54th Flying Training Squadron or 1st Lt. Bea Gregg in Social Actions.

Golfers play it out

The Reese Ecology golfing tournament is tomorrow beginning at 9 a.m. Bring a rake, hoe or other gardening tool, or just your golf clubs, but try to be there.

Golfers will be assigned areas to clean and rake, and after an hour or two of cleaning — it's tee off time.

Following the tourney, there will be hamburgers and drinks served to the participants. So call Dick Davis at Ext. 3819 to sign up or contact a member of the golf advisory council Jean Vincent, Ext. 3976; Dan Gomez, Ext. 3444; John Wolfe, Ext. 3484; or Tom Bower, Ext. 3691.

Sports car club seeks members

The Sports Car Club of America, West Texas region, is seeking new members. In the club, drivers can test the skills and the handling of their vehicles in a safe controlled atmosphere. For more on the club contact Jay Messenger, (806) 385-5134 or 885-6836.

Tennis anyone? Sign up now

Monday is the deadline for registering for the April 27-29 Reese Men's and Women's Open tennis tournament.
