How To Help Our Town Grow

Summer means a lot of things to a lot of people. To the children it means school's over and summer vacation begins. To par ents it means trips to the mountains or beach and blooming flower gardens. But to some, unfortunately, it can mean blistered lawns and failing growth — blighted shade trees and withered hedges-the result of water shortages and water rationing because sources and facilities were not built years ago to take care

Why is this the case in a land where every modern conven-

For the most part, it is the fault of each one of us. We're interested in the latest washing machines, dishwashers, air con ditioners to make summer heat more tolerable, and a continuing flow of mechanical developments to make life more pleasant. But, we are paying the price. Our own indifference to the needs of community water supplies and utilities has, in many cases, made it impossible for our local facilities to supply water in sufficient quantities

This problem is not isolated. As population explodes it will become a reality in many more communities. In a recent year, 1,000 communities were forced to curtail the use of water. Fortyfive states felt shortages. According to the National Water Insti tute, we are using three times more water per person than was used in 1900. By 1975 this per capita consumption will be even greater. Added to this is the ever increasing rate of population. Now is the time to do something about expanding our water supplies and facilities to meet these increased demands. Every citizen should give a lot of thought as to how he stands with re gard to his community's water supply now and in the future. These water sources and facilities cannot be developed overnight. There is a fam.liar saying among water utility men that "Tomorrow is now," It takes many years to make the funds available, draw ade quate plans, approve bids for the construction of new facilities and complete the actual building. That means we should find out what the situation will be en, twenty, or thirty years from now and act accordingly-for our own sake as well as our children's sake.

Some Thoughts on Freedom

The combined observance this year of the Fourth of July and the centennial celebration of the Civil War will bring frequent thought to some of Abraham Lincoln's immortal words on free-

"As I would not be a slave, so I would not be a master," In either extreme, of domination or submission, Lincoln saw trouble: and the only way out that he could see was for all men to be free

In giving freedom to the slaves, we insure freedom to the the degree that all men participate in freedom, to that degree the individual is free. The ugly shadow of millions in slavery dims the individual's freedom,

"Conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." Equal to get all that life has to offer, but, more important, equal to give to life from the fullness of scout for talent for this year's

"This nation under God shall have a new birth of freedom."

This can happen only as each of us earnestly seeks to keep Religion in American Life through the worship of Almighty God.

"Worship together this week," and you need never walk alone.

A little four-year-old friend of Jim Pippin's went over to see him the other afternoon. Well acquainted with Jim's grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Williams, the little fellow had never seen her sister, Mrs. Tom Davis, who was visiting her. When he went home that eve ning, still puzzled, he asked his mother, "Mom, you know Jim has a grandmother?"

Told that she did, the urchin observed: 'Well, there are two of her and she looks just like both of them!"

The hard downpour last Thursday morning, when more than an inch of rain fell between 8 and 9 a. m., had City Fireman "Satch" Lusk slightly puzzled.

He has a rain gauge at the back of the City Hall. During slack in the hard rain, he dashed out and checked the gauge, which registered 1,35 inch of rain.

Some 30 or 40 minutes later, after a couple more cloudbursts which should have filled the gauge to two inches or better, "Satch" dons raincoat, goes out and checks again.

To his amazement, the gauge shows a total of 1.25 inch. Despite vigorous polishing of his pifocals, the figure remained unchanged.

After Chief of Police "Bull' Barnett showed up and heard about the contradictory rain gauge, he had a ready explan-

The glass tube in the gauge became cracked recently, and patched the break with a piece of Scotch tape. After catching almost an inch and a half of rain, the tape loosened and the tube started leaking.

Several Haskell residents who are past the social security retirement age (62 for women, 65 for men) are failing to claim their money because of a misunderstanding, according to R. R. Tuley Jr., Abilene district manager for the Social Security Administration.

Mrs. Norvell Lehrmann and bill is a far-reaching measure family were all guests in the designed to up date the carry-Leo Monse home on Father's ing out of national agricultural programs by snipping away red tape and making the operation of such programs more democratic in nature.

Secretary of Agriculture Orvle Freeman's bill is predicated on the principle of opportunity for the farmer equal to that of any other basic producer in the American economy, and he seeks to give the farmer himself a voice in insuring that op-

The bill deals with all major program areas of American agriculture, but its major section relates to supply adjust-ment and price stabilization. This section provides the ma chinery whereby farmers can work together with the govern ment to adjust production to modern needs and conditions. Commodity advisory commit tees made up of farmers would work with the Secretary of Agriculture to set up referendum elections for the individual farmers themselves to decide on price supports and/or production controls, subject to approval by the President and the Congress.

Criticism of the bill has been most severe in publications where basic prejudice against any type of government assistance to farmers (the only producers in our economy who have no way to influence financial rewards of their enter prise) has overshadowed re sponsibility for reporting the

They charge that the Secretary of Agriculture seeks "dictatorial powers" and "stiff controls" on farmers when, in fact, no powers or controls could be effected unless the farmers or individual commodities themselves asked for and overwhelmingly approved them. In addition, Congress would be required to approve such programs by would be ing them-having left that task to the Secretary and the farmers themselves. An even bigger fact which critics have overlooked is that the Secretary of Agric

And he can do these things without consulting with any farmer and without referring such proposed orders to Cong-

The Secretary of Agriculture. however, has no desire to set effective programs for American farmers into effect by such arbitrary action-unless he is hamstrung on this current farm legislation, in which case he would have little or no al-

Of course, as Texas Congress man Bob Poage of Waco-a veteran in the field of farm legislation—has said, this farm bill, like all long and comprehen sive measures, needs amendment to insure its fully democratic character. The Secretary has agreed to such changes, and argument on these points for the sake of controversy is nothing more than beating a dead horse. The basic reasoning behind a change in the formulation of agricultural policy is obvious but not realized by most people: Agriculture directly influences but a small minority of American citizens-though a lot of Texans-today, and that influence is going to get smaller rather than larger. It becomes more and more difficult each year for Congressmen from big cities to vote for farm programs in which their constituents are not interested and which they may just flat resent without educated reason.

Many big city Congressmen have frankly served notice that INCREASED OPTO they are not going to continue to vote year after year for pro grams for one crop after another. The most logical way to overcome this harsh reluctance is to present the programs with the added mpetus of producer committee approval, approval by the Secretary of Agriculture and approval by the President. The Administration's proposed farm legislation is the most workable and sound initial solution to the grave problems of nequitable farm income today. It is urgent that action be taken to correct these problems, and, in the total absence of any proposal more practical and more fair, it should be supported.

"Enter the Lord's House at the beginning of each week and see how much easier the path is made . . . "

The sponsors of this church page urge church support and attendance, thereby bringing about a better understanding of the extraordinary part our religious ideals have contributed toward making our American way of life the greatest in the world.

We realize the laudable part our Churches play in community life . . . their contribution in both a spirtual and material sense toward community welfare and common good. These Churches, their teachings and their membership exert a tremendous influence that touches every home and every business. This function they have in common with our schools, civic bodies and other organizations. All of whom through various methods perform services for the good and benefit of all ... In recognition of the splendid ideals and achievements of the Haskell churches, we urge everyone to attend Church services.

PETER F. CHANDOR Haskell, Texas

Editor, The Free Press:

The Governor of the State of Texas has called a Special Ses sion of the Legislature for July 10, 1961. He has claimed that it is costing the taxpayers of the state over $6,000 per day until the tax problem is solved If this is correct, why has he waited until July 10, 1961, to call a Special Session? It would seem that he would try to save the people this $6,000 per day and called the Legislature back the next day.

Anyone has to figure the loss in revenue also to arrive at the cost of any delay. $350,000,000 tax bill which would have gone into effect on Sept. 1, 1961, cannot now go into effect until 90 days after the special session. This will be at least Nov. loss of 70 tax paying days. The tax bill is almost a million dollars a day in loss of taxes. One can see the cost to the taxpayers by the delay.

The Governor wanted to take a trip to the 50th state in June. He will be able to take the trip at the cost of the taxpayers to the tune of about $70 million

A cast is fished out much faster with a sinking lure fished at a constant depth.

There are times when a sink ing lure can be worked dead slow and it will catch fish, It's called bottom-bumping.

The lure is tossed out and allowed to sink to the bottom. Then the angler twitches the rod tip and takes a few turns on the reel handle. This makes the lure hop off the bottom and swim a few feet before it sinks back to the bottom. Fish Plastic Worms Slowly
