Rotary Club to Install New Officers Today

New officers of the Rotary Club will be installed at the noon luncheon meeting today, to serve for the club year beginning July 1.

The new set of officers installed to head the local Lions Club for the coming year include: President, Dr. J. F. Cadenhead; First Vice-President, Al Hinds; Second Vice-President, Wallace Cox Jr.; Secretary-Treasurer, Bill Lawson; Tail Twister, Robert Lanford; Lion Tamer, Rogers Durham; and Directors, Bud Herren and Allen Reeves.

The City Council and General Telephone Company of the Southwest came to an agreement Tuesday night on an application for a rate increase which has been pending since last September.

Concluding a session which ran until almost midnight, the Council granted a compromise increase in rates amounting to $1.00 per month on business telephones on both 1 and 2-party lines, 75c per month on 1-party residence and 50c per month on 2-party residence phones. Extension telephone charges remain unchanged.

The new rates are effective on July 1. However, the Council has not reached a conclusion concerning a protest made by a citizen's committee relative to recent expenditures of approximately $1,640 in city funds for attorney's fee and expense of trips to Austin and other transactions involving spending of tax money for goods and services purchased from city council members, the committee was told.

All the items and transactions on which the protests were based had been specifically mentioned in an audit of recent

City transactions, made by an Abilene Certified Public Accountant for the citizen's committee.

Principal transactions of which the citizen's committee complained involved conflict of interest in expenditures of city funds.

A copy of the CPA's report had been left with the Council when the citizen's committee lodged their protests two weeks ago.

At Tuesday night's session, John Kimbrough, spokesman for the committee, explained that his group was present to ask if the Council had reached a decision on the protested matters.

Mayor J. E. Walling said the Council had reached no conclusion, and Alderman R. L. Stephenson stated: "The matters are being looked into, but I didn't know we were under an ultimatum to give an answer by a certain date."

When Kimbrough replied, "You are not, but it has been two weeks and we wondered if you folks had reached a decision." Alderman Stephenson continued: "Our City Attorney is checking into it for us, also other legal counsel, and if necessary we will get the Attorney General to look into it. If we are outside the law we will get inside it," he declared.

Other members of the citizen's committee accompanying Kimbrough included Dr. T. W. Williams, Stanley Furrh, E. J. Stewart, Jetty V. Clare, and Bob Herren.

Also attending the Council session and sitting in on the discussion was a group of 13 other citizens, including two women. Some in this group left after the citizen's committee had been heard. Others remained for much of the discussion between telephone company representatives and Council members.

Among business transacted by the Council, an equalization board for the current year was appointed, composed of Guy

Pony Leaguers Take Two Wins Over O'Brien

The Haskell Senior Pony Leaguers, managed by Robert Lansford, took their second win over O'Brien Friday night in a make-up game, defeating O'Brien 14-13 in a close nip-and-tuck contest played at O'Brien.

Batteries for Haskell were Herren and Peiser, with Robert Bartley taking over mound duty in the final inning and Johnny Breeden relieving Peiser who suffered a ankle injury. O'Brien batteries were McAnelly and Henry.

On Tuesday night of last week, Haskell shellacked O'Brien 16-7, behind the pitching of Bartley with Peiser receiving. Pacing the locals in the hitting department was Volley J. Ivy who rapped out three singles and a home run with one man on.

The locals lost to Knox City 4-0, in a game played there on June 10. Batteries for Haskell were Herren and Peiser, and for Knox City, Smith and Voss. O'Brien took revenge here Monday night when they managed to eke out three scores on four hits to blank the locals 3-0.

Bartley, on the mound for Haskell, held the visitors to four hits, but the boys from the south made them count by sending runners across the plate.

Casiano, doing his first pitching chore for O'Brien, gave up five hits, but Haskell was unable to score on any of a clouts. McAnelly worked behind the plate for O'Brien.

Johnny Breeden, relief catcher for Haskell, replaced Peiser who is out indefinitely with a cast on one ankle.

Friday night, the locals host the hot Knox City aggregation for a game here.

Watch That Dollar Bill

Inexperienced individuals go into business during boom times, and go broke in bad times.

This happens in all lines of activity including farming, and especially during wars.

We saw it in the first World War, and particularly in the second World War, after which, labor, industry and farming all wanted to continue on the war wage and profit basis, and states, cities and the people wanted federal hand-outs on a gigantic scale. No one likes to admit this, but the facts are escapable in spite of economic theories and political talk to the contrary.

We are now feeling the effects of a generation of waste and inflation. The causes of it are paying for work not done, paying for over-production of crops which could not be sold, higher and higher taxes and federal and state debt, and skyrocketing peacetime federal spending over and above defense needs.

It doesn't take a Sherlock Holmes to discover that our national policy of taxation, waste, extravagance and penalization of savings is causing inflation that is pricing our products out of world markets and constantly increasing the cost of living, as it drives down the purchasing power of the dollar.

To prove to yourself what is happening, paste a dollar bill on your kitchen wall. Mark a red line across half of it for purchasing power already lost. Then remember that you individually vote for the measures and the office holders who pass the laws and spend the money that is taken from you in taxes. Also, remember that you are the government and that the laws and men you vote for must reach into your pocket to get money to spend—in other words, you are spending your own money in the public waste you tolerate.

Watch your dollar bill on the wall and see where the red line goes if waste and greed go unchecked.

Women—And the Gas Tax

The General Federation of Women's Clubs — along with an over-lengthening list of organizations of almost every nature—has taken up arms against excessively high gasoline taxes.

Specifically, the Federation calls for the roll-back of the fourth cent of the present federal gas tax. This cent, it should be remembered, was supposed to be a "temporary" levy. But in government tax matters, "temporary" is all too often a synonym for "permanent."

The Federation, which has a membership of 11 million women in 15,500 clubs, points out that the average combined state-federal tax on gasoline is higher than on any other everyday item in the entire economy, and runs to almost 50 per cent. In the words of the Federation's President, "This is more than the tax rate on diamonds and chinchilla coats. We do not believe that such an important item on the family budget as gasoline should bear so heavy a tax burden."

It's good to have the distaff side taking an active part in a campaign that directly affects practically every one in the country. And the campaign against excessive gas taxes can't be allowed to languish—for, if it does, more "temporary" taxes will be piled on top of "temporary" taxes and the price of gas will become prohibitive.

Advice from Bankers

A recent edition of the American Bankers Magazine, a publication which represents a traditionally hard-headed profession,
offered this advice:

"No business man or woman in any town should allow a newspaper to go to press without his or her name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns."

Haskell County History

June 26, 1942

Because the date falls on Saturday, it is unlikely that the 4th of July will be observed as a business holiday. The Chamber of Commerce announced this week. Most merchants feel that farmers and others would prefer
the stores remain open.
However, all offices in the courthouse and city hall will be closed for the day.

More than 35 tons of scrap rubber have been turned in during the current scrap drive.
The Haskell County Salvage Committee reported today. Exact total for the county to date
was listed at 70,073 pounds.

People, Places & Things

By A. PATE

Do you remember the first check you ever cashed?
John Decker, retired carpenter and cabinet-maker of this city, recalls that the first check
he ever received and cashed was a direct outgrowth of the War with Spain, in 1898.

He was only a strip of a boy
at the time, living on a farm near Bartlett.

His dad had given him a pony. Probably the equivalent in those days, of today's jalopy every youngster considers a necessity.

John's pony developed into a splendid horse about the time
war broke out with Spain.

Uncle Sam sent buyers
through the country purchasing horses for the Army, and at Bartlett, young Decker offered his horse to the buyer. The animal, well muscled and sound
as a dollar, was accepted and John was given a check for $50
for the horse.

John didn't exactly have any misgivings about the check,
but in the only business dealing he had had, such as chopping cotton, etc., he'd received either greenbacks or silver.

Naturally, he got to the bank
as soon as it opened the next morning and presented his check.

To his relief, the cashier accepted it without question,
handing John three gold pieces,
two twenties and a ten. These were the first gold coins he'd ever possessed, and as he recalls today, he kept them for
"quite a spell."

Friend of ours is considering trading for a late model car,
but he intends to do some checking first.

He doesn't believe the door
latches on these late model cars are as sturdy as they used to be, particularly those on the right front door.

An observant type of fellow,
he noticed a good many cars
lately occupied by young couples. In almost every case,
the young lady has "sneaked"
away from the right-hand door,
probably afraid it might fly open and she'd be spilled. As a rule, our friend says, the girl sits as close to the driver as possible, for safety's sake, of course.

It must be the season of the year when wildlife has an urge for exploring. Probably seeking that New Frontier.

Whatever the reason, or without reason, we've heard of at least two instances recently when creatures of the wild had departed from their usual customs and haunts and tried to become civilized.

Several days ago, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Davis of the Mattson section had a strange caller that evidently had taken a liking to the surroundings of their farm home.

They discovered a full grown armadillo, one of the largest they'd ever seen, in their garage apparently intending to establish a residence there.

After making a few inquiries to determine if any of their friends and neighbors wanted
an armadillo for a pet, the Davis' got rid of their unwelcome guest.

Last Friday morning, Mrs.
Hubert Bell was in her kitchen
when something attracted her eye to the window over a sink.

There, clinging to the outside screen, was a baby raccoon.

Going outside for a better look, she approached the little animal warily. When the baby
'coon showed no fright and appeared friendly, she picked the little creature up and from then on he was as tame as a kitten.

Her first thought was that it was some one's pet that had escaped. However, it had no collar, nor signs of having worn one that she could tell. Pet or not is beside the point, though,
because the frisky little creature couldn't be any tamer than he is, Mrs. Bell said.

Later, 10-year-old Jim Pace, whose pet 'coon had been missing a couple of days, heard about the stray pet at the Bells.
Checking, Jim was quickly reunited with his missing pet.

Something about given up on something that has had us puzzled for five years, after once thinking we had it almost worked out.

And we'll concede we might as well give up, because evidence of the incident has about disappeared.

The puzzle was, and is: What two members of the Class of
'57 painted the class year numerals on the water tower?

Some nifty members of the Senior Class climbed the 90-foot tower between 10 and 11 o'clock
one night in April, 1957, and painted the numerals '57 on the tower. The figures are still dis-cernible, but getting dim.

Several days later, after several discreet inquiries and a pledge of secrecy we learned (or were told) that four Seniors were in on the stunt—two couples who were going "steady."

While two Seniors went upstairs to do the paint job, their two girl friends served as lookouts. Once they had to signal the approach of the nightwatchman on his hourly rounds, causing the painters to "freeze" after they had started descending the ladder on one leg of the tower.

In trying to develop further information concerning the escapade, we ran into a brick wall. It seems some of the faculty had also been doing some investigating, and as a result the entire student body clammed up.

After more than a month of operation now, the beer and liquor stores on Bourbon Drive and The Strip appear to have settled down to something like normalcy.

Although the "new" hasn't entirely worn off in the transition of a part of Haskell County
from dry to wet status, law enforcement officers are not being given too much trouble, despite the fact there has been a noticeable increase in the number of "drunk" cases filed.

Officers think the big test will come this weekend and the first of next week, when the annual Cowboy Reunion is held in Stamford.

Most officers believe the overall situation will be orderly.
They realize that because of the inflow of thousands of visitors that possibly some will get out of line.

Naming of Haskell's famed early-day saloon, the "Road to Ruin," came about entirely by accident according to stories told by old-timers.

For several months after its opening a plainly lettered sign
"Saloon" marked the front of the establishment.

One day an itinerant peg-
legged painter came to town,
and the saloon was his first stop.

"You need a sign," he told the saloon owner. "I'll paint you a good one and take most of the price out in trade."

"All right, sketch me off
some samples of what you can do," he was told.

After donning a stiff Scotch and Soda, the sign-painter dashed off some fancy sketches of suggested signs, replete with curlycues and ornaments.

Then he laboriously outlined a plain door key in perfect detail and over it lettered "WHIS-KEY" in small letters, "The Road
to Ruin."

After seeing the design and reading it aloud, "Whiskey, the Road to Ruin," the saloon owner said: "That's the one, that suits me better than any of them. It's the most honest saloon sign I ever saw. Put 'er up."

It was done, and became a noted sign in all the western country, remembered and spoken of far and near. It stood out bold and clear in the face of every passerby, and told with unmistakable truthfulness where its patrons were going, riding furiously heading to destruction, daring death and the devil.

In truth its definition of a saloon was as apt as the following lines written by someone,
somewhere, defining a bar:
"A bar to joy which home imparts
A door to tears and aching hearts
A bar to heaven, a door to hell
Whoever named it, named it well."

J. C. Weaver of Dixie, N. M., was in the city last week checking the validity of some vendor lien notes purporting to be a lien on land in this county, along with an abstract of title.
He had been offered the notes
at a low price, and the abstract
looked in order, but Mr. Weaver took the precaution to investigate. He found both the vendor lien notes and abstract
to be bogus, and that the land
was a myth.

He had been offered the notes

looked in order, but Mr. Weav-

vendor lien notes and abstract
to be bogus, and that the land
was a myth.

Albany Gift Tea Honors Fiancee Of Haskell Man

More than 100 guests attended the gift tea Friday afternoon in the educational building of Matthews Memorial Presbyterian Church in Albany, when seven hostesses entertained honoring Doris Leech, bride-elect.

Miss Leech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Leech of Albany, will be married to Paul Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Cooper of Haskell.

The hostess group included Misses Sam Webb, John Bray, George Walker, Lloyd Rogers, Byron Maxwell, Jack Moberley and Morris Miller, all members of the Presbyterian Guild.

Palms, English Ivy and wedding bells decorated the hall. White wedding bell topiary trees stood at either end of the horizontal centerpiece of white stock, and white statice accented with wedding bells and English ivy was on the tea table laid with a skirted white net cloth.

Mrs. Clyde Gillean and Mrs. Dee Leech, grandmothers of the honoree, presided at the tea table.

Greeting guests at the door was Mrs. Morris Miller, president of the Guild. In the receiving line were Mrs. Leech, Miss Leech, Mrs. Cooper and Phyllis Cooper, sister of the prospective bridegroom. Hostesses alternated at the door.

COUNTY BACKGROUND

Haskell County Area Was Never Regular Home for Indian Tribes

Despite legends to the contrary, Haskell County was never a regular home for Indians, according to most historians.

It was principally the hunt-in-ground for Indians in their forays for buffaloes, which furnished their food, clothing, bedding and shelter material.

However, the redskins passed and repassed over Haskell County on marauding expeditions to the settlements to the east. Sometimes they would leave their horses in the valleys along Paint and California creeks while they went on foot among the settlements to steal horses which they prized above all other stock.

The temperate climate and physical features of this country, with broken timbered lands on one side and open grazing lands on the other, adapted it to the uses which they made of it.

When the Indians were pushed westward to their last favorite hunting ground, they resisted with desperate tenacity that meant extermination to whites by any methods known to the savage redskins, rendered more cunning by the desperate struggle of a dying race.

It has been said that the Indians' struggle in Northwest Texas was continued longer and with more ferocity than in any other part of the United States. The fight continued for about 50 years, growing more savage until death or conquest brought the unequal contest to an end.

The late Judge B. F. Reynolds, whose parents lived in the Fort Griffin country in the 1850's, said years ago while recalling Indian raids of pioneer days: "At the peak of these raids I would be safe in saying there was not a light moon passed that there was not a raid made somewhere through the country, and most always through Throckmorton and Shackelford Counties.

"The Indians worked their raids skillfully. They would ride in as far as Haskell County to some of the numerous streams, and there they would leave their horses, generally old sore-back horses not worth much.

"Then they would foot it from there east, sometimes as far as Parker County. They would not follow any road or trail, and they would leave no signs whatever until they got as far east as they wanted to go.

"Then they would begin to steal horses and occasionally kill a man who got in their way, all the time travelling west faster than the news could travel. First news the settlers would get, the marauders would be outside the settlement on their way west.

"Before a posse could be collected to follow them, the Indians would have such a start that they generally made a clean getaway. In fact, their strategem could not be improved on."

The early settlers tipped the scales against the stubborn savages when hunters began killing off the buffaloes, shutting off the Indians principal food supply while at the same time pioneer white settlers organized relentless fighting and pursuit of each marauding band.

Early Haskell County Once Part Of Four Different Land Districts

At one time or another, beginning after Texas won independence from Mexico, the area now known as Haskell County has been a part of at least four "land districts," according to information gleaned from writings of the late R. E. Sherrill in his History of Haskell County.

Some ten years after the Texas Revolution, on May 12, 1846, Fannin County was made a land district and its boundaries were defined so as to include the territory which is Haskell County. On the same day the Milam Land District was created, and its northwest boundary was defined in such a way as apparently to overlap a portion of the Fannin Land

District and include what later became Haskell County. Since the northwest boundary line was indefinite, it led to some confusion among early-day surveyors.

On Feb. 1, 1858, the Texas Legislature created Haskell County and at the suggestion of John Henry Brown, a member of the Legislature, gave it and its future county seat the name of Haskell after Charles Ready Haskell, a Texas revolutionary soldier who fell with Fannin at the massacre of Goliad March 27, 1836.

Though created in 1858, the county was only platted on the map with its boundary surveyed and without a single white man residing inside its boundaries.

However, shortly before the Civil War, considerable land had been surveyed in this area of the West and Haskell County was becoming somewhat known to surveying parties, buffalo hunters, and Indian scouts.

By VERN SANFORD

Very few outdoorsmen realize the really great importance of an anchor and anchor lines. Most boat owners regard an anchor solely as a necessary weight to keep the boat in place. They take anchors and anchor lines, that nautical term for rope, for granted.

But besides keeping your boat in place, an anchor can get you out of a peck of trouble.

Suppose you're fishing a wide expanse of open water. You see a squall building up and decide to run for shelter. But the squall hits before you reach the dock. Waves quickly build too high to run against, or away from, without swamping.

If you have plenty of line, you can ride out the blow with your anchor. The anchor, dropped from the bow, will keep the boat headed into the waves and wind. You'll take a lot of spray, but you'll ride out the blow.

Or suppose you launch your boat in the surf for an offshore run on mackerel or to fish around the oil rigs. By the time you begin your return, the wind has increased and you see a half dozen lines of big breakers. You can safely negotiate the breakers by heading the boat back out to sea, dropping the anchor, then playing out the line slowly as each succeeding breaker shoves your boat closer to shore. You can withstand some mighty big breakers by keeping the boat headed into them.

There are many types of anchors. You should buy the type best suited for the kind of bottom where you do most of your boating.

A mushroom type anchor will hold where you have a soft, muddy bottom.

If the bottom is rocky, then you'll need a many pronged anchor.

On a sandy bottom any of the broad fluke anchors will do the trick. These broad fluke anchors are "digging" types—the harder the pull on the line, the can run into money. Often you can get by with a homemade anchor that costs practically nothing. Fill old gallon paint cans with concrete. Usually you can get the concrete for nothing if you drop by some construction job near the day's end. The builders won't mind filling a can or two for you, as they have to discard the left-over mix anyway. But don't show up with a couple dozen cans. An eye bolt, sunk into the concrete, is ideal to tie on to. A short length of chain, or a big iron ring, or even a twisted coat hanger, will do. Once the concrete hardens you have an acceptable anchor. If you want to make a better one, insert a couple of short lengths of scrap steel crossways through the sides of the can before adding the concrete.

Tie these can anchors to your anchor line with heavy fishing cord. Then if the can wedges in the rocks and you can't free it, you can always jerk hard on the line, snap the fishing cord, and break loose.

Old window sash weights make good "throw-away" anchors—especially around rock jetties. Throw them right into or across the rocks. Again tie them to the anchor line with fishing cord that will break if necessary.

Anchor lines should be carefully stowed in the bow of the boat. Coil neatly so you don't have to fool with knots and snarls when you play out line.

Above all, keep your tackle box away from the line. Many an angler has accidentally dropped a plug or set of gang hooks into a pile of anchor line, only to suffer a nasty wound from the hooks when playing out the line.

It sounds ridiculous to mention it, but be sure to tie the anchor to the line—and the line to the boat. It's most frustrating to toss over the anchor—then discover you forgot to make it fast to the line.

And this happens more often than you think!

Thorough Sees Vital Need for Water Resources

...Congressmen who represent Texas in Washington, and to appear before committees with them in support of many of these projects.

One of the most encouraging parts of this work is that the Kennedy Administration has fostered a new attitude toward such projects. In contrast to the "no new starts" operation of the past Administration, the Kennedy Administration has planned and recommended many new starts in Texas and across the nation.

Four of these "new starts" this year in Texas include: a new flood control survey of Buffalo Bayou near Houston; a new planning study of the Fort Worth Floodway Extension; a $50,000 new construction start on the Fort Aransas Corpus Christi navigation channel.

In addition to these "new starts" I have urged continued and speeded up work on more than 20 other Texas projects. For example, I joined this past week with a delegation of more than 70 Texans urging faster action on the Trinity Watershed survey. President Kennedy has budgeted $250,000 for this vital survey, but we have asked that that amount be raised to $360,000. This would let the Army engineers move ahead with the project at a maximum speed and finish this whole survey in one year.

Projects of considerable importance to East Texas are the Sabine and Neches River Surveys. I've urged an appropriation of over $200,000 next fiscal year to speed up this work, which I have long felt was too long delayed. Senator Morris Sheppard, as a Congressman, was working to have this survey finished in 1914, and now I'm proud to report that the Bureau of the Budget has approved at least $175,000 of this money to survey the whole watersheds of the Neches and Sabine Rivers. Having adequate supplies of water is a key factor to the municipal growth and development of this whole area of East Texas.

Two other projects which I am strongly supporting are studies of the Arkansas-Red River and the Little Brazos rivers. Both of these surveys are preliminary steps to proper water conservation and development programs.

Some of the other major projects and the funds to be used for their development are: San Antonio Channel, $2,400,000; Port Mansfield, $2,000,000; Gee Bend Dam, $9,600,000; Sabine-Neches Waterway, $2,250,000; Matagorda Ship Channel, $465,000; Waco Dam Project, $8,500,000; Stillhouse Hollow, $500,000; Proctor Dam, $4,500,000.

Economic benefits for these far outweigh their cost. Before any of them has been approved, there must be a feasibility survey and report of practical, feasible and profit making advantage to the area and nation before money can be spent for them.

They are, left to right in the picture: John Bigstaff, president, White-wright; Harold Spain, first vice president, Haskell; Ruby Neil Hart, second vice president, New Boston; L. J. City Dwellers See Farmer As Self-Sufficient

There is a persistent conviction among many city dwellers that no farmer or his wife ever should have any business in a grocery store except to buy coffee, salt, perhaps a little sugar and the like.

They still carry the vision of the farmer with his own vegetable garden, his own orchard, milking his own cows, gathering his own fresh eggs, and so forth and so on.

Bill Durham, the astute agricultural editor of the Houston Post, did something to dispel this concept not long ago with one of his columns elaborating on an article in Food Business, a publication for the food manufacturing, processing and marketing business.

"Apparently," Durham commented, "these people still thought that every farm had a garden and a milk cow and that all the purchases from the grocery store involved only coffee, flour and corn meal. Farm Journal magazine did a lot of work in getting information together on the importance of the farm market for food stores.

"Farmers and those who serve them have failed to get across the story that agriculture is big business and that today's farmer must be one of the most shrewd and astute business men in the economy.

"You just can't find a commercial farmer in the Houston area who doesn't have a capital investment of less than $50,000. In most cases it amounts to more than that. You can find a lot of people in business in Houston who don't have to stand that kind of financing."

It was pointed out that, as a matter of fact, farm women buy more when they go to the store than do women who live in town. The reason is that they serve more food—a farm woman fixes three big meals a day. Feeding a bunch of men who are doing hard work in the field just naturally takes more groceries.

In 1960, it was figured that people living on farms consumed $3.5 billion in food products, and these supplies were bought in retail stores. One of the points that may have been confusing to the food industry was the preference which farm women showed for convenience foods such as cake mixes, frozen foods and the other new items offered in the supermarkets.

One of the reasons for this, perhaps, is that today's farm housewife engages in almost the same activities as does her sister in the cities. She belongs to the P.T.A. has her church activities, and is often a leader in various women's clubs. Cultural activities also are a part of the rural scene these days.

Lt. Jack Larned, Crack Pistol Shot, 'Stuns' Marines at Recent Shoot

Lt. Jack Larned, San Antonio detective and native of Haskell, the son of Mrs. Mae Larned, recently returned home with a couple of fancy gold medals and an invitation to compete at Camp Lejeune, N. C., in the U. S. Marines' national championship pistol matches.

Lt. Larned, a corporal in the Marine Corps Reserve, fired a startling 287 out of a possible 300 with the .45 pistol the first day of shooting in the western division Marine competition at Camp Mathews, Calif., recently. He finished second in a field of 300 of the best shots in active service and in the reserves.

Stars of the Marines' classy pistol team didn't believe their eyes and ears but there it was, and they accepted the big San Antonian with glad cries when he came up with 286 and 281 on the two national match courses fired on the second day.

These two rounds were what counted and his 567 gave him fourth place over all and a gold medal for top reserve shooter, plus qualification for the nationals at Lejeune. The western brought together the Marine Corps' best from west of the Mississippi. The .45 shooting is done with fixed sights and GI ammunition.

Lt. Larned, president of the Alamo Pistol Club and the star of the police department's exhibition team, has set some phenomenal records recently. He just picked up a gold medal of a pistol incorporated in a desk set by winning the gallery match championship of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas with the 22. His spectacular scores—289, 291 and 295 out of a possible 300—made him eligible for the U. S. gallery match title, which the 295 may well win.

Sunbeams Plan Three Sessions At Lueders

Baptist Sunbeams of District 17 will hold three one-day sessions July 5, 6 and 7, at Lueders Baptist Encampment grounds.

The Sunbeam camps will be sandwiched in between the two Junior G.A. camps of June 26-29 and July 10-13.

The Sunbeam camps are divided into three groups of one-day camps and the first day will be for the C. & S. and Sweetwater Associations; second day, Jones, Stonewall, and Haskell-Knox Associations; 3rd day, Abilene, Callahan and Fisher Associations.

Mrs. Richard Allen of Abilene will be the camp director. Mrs. Faye Thompson with the Home Mission Board will be the camp missionary. Camp fee is $1.00, which includes noon meal, insurance, and program.

A circus theme is planned with clowns, balloons, flying banners and other features. The children will sing songs and hear stories about Jesus' helpers in other lands. Mission conference leaders will be Mrs. V. W. Howard, Paint Creek; Mrs. D. M. Dobbs, Abilene; Mrs. Dennis Cheek, Abilene; and Mrs. Mack Funderburg of Breckenridge will direct the 75th Anniversary skit.

On opening day, Thursday, July 6, a barbecue supper will be served to the public by a catering firm at Olney's Tom Griffin Park, during the period between the parade and rodeo performance.

The accent will be on youth Friday. Activities will include a Kids' Day parade at 5 p. m., with prizes to be given for the best-decorated bicycle, best costume and best float, plus a kiddies' grand entry, an FFA calf scramble and junior barrel racing contest at the rodeo performance that night.

Babes of Wild Picked Up At Your Own Risk

Despite warnings to refrain from picking up young of the wild, the practice persists in many areas, according to J. B. Phillips, assistant director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission.

"Wardens all over the state have been notified to make arrests where violations are reported," he says. "Too many people are inclined to pick up birds, especially fawn deer. These animals have a much better chance of survival in their native woods than they do in the city, even when bottle fed."

He also pointed to the danger of having these animals for pets when they grow up. There are many instances where the animals will revert to the wild and seriously injure the person who raised them.

Phillips also warns against molesting nesting birds or tampering with other young wild game.

"Some heavy fines have been paid in recent weeks by persons who failed to heed this warning," he said. "We hope it stops."

This is the first time this award has been presented and was given to WTU for its assistance and outstanding service to 4-H clubs in the service area during the past few years.

July 4th Traffic Mishaps Due To Take 11 Lives

Previous holiday experience in Texas indicates that 25 persons will meet violent death on the Fourth of July, 1961, the Texas Department of Public Safety has announced.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr. said the release of this official prediction "is intended to serve as a challenge to all Texans to prove our estimate is too high."

In announcing the grim forecast, Garrison said the DPS will place in effect "Operation Deathwatch" effective from 12:01 a. m. to 11:59 p. m. on July 4, during which traffic deaths, homicides and suicides, and fatal accidents other than traffic will be tabulated against the prediction.

The department's Statistical Services Manager, N. K. Woerner, estimates that 11 persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the 24-hour period, that five will be victims of homicide or suicide, and that nine will die in drownings and other types of fatal accidents.

July Is Favorite Month of Those Seeking Freedom

Ever since John Hancock put his name to the Declaration of Independence in 1776, July has been a favorite time for freedom fighters.

At least six countries have chosen the month Julius Caesar named after himself in which to throw off tyranny of a foreign power, according to World Book Encyclopedia. And several nations have found the hottest month of the year a good time to relinquish control willingly of their possessions.

The Dutch may have started the trend. They declared themselves independent of Spain in July, 1581. A few centuries later, in 1830, the Belgians got the idea and broke away from the Netherlands.

July is cooler down in South America, but it never chilled the ardor of patriots, who gave Spain another beating in the early 1800's. Spurred by Simon Bolivar, who was born in July, Venezuela declared its independence in 1811. Argentina issued its declaration in 1816 and Peru made the move in 1821.

Great Britain saw the handwriting on the wall and in 1867 it gracefully pulled out of North America. Canada became a self-governing dominion.

In 1946 it was the turn of the United States, and the Philippines was officially declared independent years later came a self-wealth.

In 1960 Africa, which tries to resist included Congo, DRC, and West Africa.

Olin Culberson, Veteran State Official, Dies

Railroad Commissioner Olin Culberson, 74, died June 22 in a Dallas hospital.

The commissioner was serving his fourth six-year term on the powerful regulatory agency. Several years ago he got out of the governor's race because of illness.

Culberson long was known as a champion of independent oil operators and doggedly fought the growing trend of passenger service abandonment by the railroads.

The blunt and plain-spoken Culberson often was a one-man majority on the three-member board that regulates the oil and gas industry, railroads and motor transportation.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS" BY C. WILSON HARDER

By the time this appears, U. S. may, or may not, have a man orbiting in outer space. As scientists say that instruments put into orbit gather much more information than a man can, it probably does not make much difference if a man orbits or not, except for some propaganda value, which is dubious.

Russians have done very well beating the tub for their not inconsiderable scientific achievements, and in C. W. Harder doing so, have created in certain quarters of nation a dangerous trend of thought.

These apologists for America being second in some of these areas shout loud and clearly that "of course in a dictator system things can be accomplished more efficiently than in a free society."

The fallacy of this thinking rests on the fact that in many fields at present, there is not a free economic order. The indictment returned against General Motors by a federal grand jury charging the firm with violations of the antitrust laws to monopolize the diesel locomotive industry could well be used as a case in point.

The diesel principle of internal combustion engines is so far most efficient way yet devised to turn petroleum into motive power. In industrialized nations of Europe great strides have been made in this field.

But Department of Justice charges that General Motors has monopolized the electric

Do you really want to live in the good old days — or is it just a dream?

THIS IS A GOOD DREAM In homes served by WTU, the average cost of a KWH of service is 20% less than it was 10 years ago.

"What program did you watch when you were little, Mama?"

It's easy for us to forget the comforts we have today. If we don't watch ourselves, all we think of is the hurry and bustle of the day.

The "good old days" to the little girl pictured above are just a few years ago to some of us. We forget that TV's so new. Yet most of our wonderful electric servants have been developed in just a generation!

As still more new ones come along, it's good to know that there will be plenty of electricity—from companies like this one—to run them. And the more new appliances you use, the less your electricity will cost per average kilowatt-hour.

Now think about it for just a minute—do you really want to live in the "good old days" without your electric servants—or is it just a dream?

Here's a bargain for Mama!

For less than 3¢ the average family, served by WTU, can cook a complete meal the modern electric way... and enjoy the cleanliness and convenience of Flameless Electric Living.

Every Farm Pond Should Be Made Safe for Child

To youngsters, summertime is swimming time. This is especially true of rural children, many of whom have a convenient farm pond available. Unfortunately, many of these swimming excursions end in tragedy. All too often you read stories about children drowning while swimming in a farm or ranch pond.

W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer, says most of the drownings that occur in farm ponds could be prevented if a few simple safety precautions were taken. The first thing to remember is never let anyone, adult or child, swim alone. Children should never, under any circumstances, be allowed to play alone anywhere near the pond.

It is also a good idea to keep life preservers handy, and to insist that non-swimmers wear them when playing in the pond.

"Life preservers do not mean plastic bags," Ulich warns. Although a plastic bag will support a person when inflated, they puncture very easily.

Simple rescue equipment should also be kept at the pond. A long lightweight pole is very good reaching for swimmers in trouble. Another item that should be available is a length of light, strong rope. This rope should be at least as long as the pond is wide at its widest point. A lightweight float attached to the end of the rope will help if you want to throw it to a person in distress. Most ponds already have one good piece of rescue equipment—a small boat. If your pond does not, it would be a good idea to get one if at all possible.

July 23-29 is Farm Safety Week, and Ulich points out that making the farm pond a safe recreational area would be an excellent way to start preparing for it.

Council--

Sheriff Garth Garrett, who appeared before the Council several weeks ago to request the City look into the advisability of adopting a city ordinance covering drinking in public and throwing beer cans and bottles on the street, met with the city officials briefly Tuesday night.

City Secretary T. J. Arbuckle read a copy of a city ordinance covering these violations, which had been adopted by the City of Stamford. However, it was pointed out that City Attorney

Dennis Ratliff had advised that the infractions were prohibited by State law, and that passage of a city ordinance was not necessary unless a City Court was set up in Haskell.

Meeting with the Council to discuss the pending application for an increase in local telephone rates were District Manager F. A. Robinson and six representatives of the General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Advising the Council was R. Bryan Sloan of Abilene, who has had experience as a rate accountant representing other Texas cities in opposing increased telephone rates. Mr. Sloan was employed by the Council several months ago, on an hourly basis at the rate of $7.50 per hour, to advise and furnish detailed figures relative to costs, investment, depreciation, etc., on which telephone rates are based.

Rate Fight Reviewed

On September 13, 1960, the General Telephone Company of the Southwest presented the City Council, a request for an increase in telephone rates. The rates prevailing at that time were:

Business phones: 1 party line, 10.50; 2 party line service, 8.50; extensions 1.50.

Residence phones: 1 party line, 5.50; 2 party line 4.50; extensions 1.00.

Increase asked by the Telephone Company was:

Business phones: 1 party line, 13.50; 2 party line, 11.50; extensions, 1.50.

Residence phones: 1 party line, 7.00; 2 party line 5.50; extensions 1.00.

A number of conferences between the Telephone people and the Council failed to arrive at a settlement of the matter of the request for increase in rates and on February 6, 1961, R. Bryan Sloan, a certified public accountant of Abilene, Texas, was employed by the Council to check the various schedules offered by the Telephone Company to support their request for the increased rates. After four months work, Mr. Sloan reported to the Council that his report was complete and in the regular meeting of the Council held June 27th the report was given the Council.

There was a considerable difference in the Telephone Company figures and percentages shown by Mr. Sloan's report. The Council after discussion decided that a compromise settlement would be better for all concerned than that the matter be taken to the Courts, and Don Mortimer of the Telephone Company was called in and asked if he would offer a compromise. He said the Company would offer this rate:

Business phones: 1 party line, 12.00; 2 party line, 10.00; extensions, 1.50.

Residence phones: 1 party line, 6.25; 2 party line, 5.00; extensions, 1.00.

The Council considered this offer and then made a counter proposal, as follows:

Business phones: 1 party line, 11.50; 2 party line, 9.50; extensions, 1.50.

Residence phones: 1 party line, 6.25; 2 party line, 5.00; extensions, 1.00.

Mr. Mortimer said the Telephone Company would accept the offer and made the changes in the Ordinance and signatures were attached.

Concerning the increase granted, Mayor J. E. Walling said that with the help of Mr. Sloan, he felt that the negotiations had resulted in a substantial saving to telephone subscribers.

"The Council has spent many hours time with the telephone people," Mayor Walling said, "and without outside aid would have been forced to either grant a raise or let the matter go to Court. They consider the money paid Mr. Sloan, $562.50, as a consultant, very well spent. The increase which will go into effect with the July billing, has at least been delayed four or five months which is in itself a saving to the subscribers of four or five thousand dollars."

"The increase asked for by the Telephone Company on a one-party line service was approximately 28 1/2 per cent. The increase granted by the Council was approximately 9 1/2 per cent. The increase asked for on a one party line residential service was approximately 27 1/2 per cent. The increase granted was approximately 13 1/2 per cent."

Senator David Ratliff to Become 'Governor' of Texas Friday

A former Haskell man and graduate of Haskell High School will be governor of Texas for a day this week.

State Senator David Ratliff of Stamford, now serving as president pro tempore of the State Senate, will take over the duties of governor Friday morning in a ceremony that has become traditional in Texas history.

Actually, he is third in line should Gov. Price Daniel and Lieut. Governor Ben Ramsey both become incapacitated. At this time, however, neither is incapacitated although the governor is attending a conference in Hawaii. Likely, the lieutenant governor will find it convenient to be out of the state on this particular day. At least that has happened on previous occasions.

There will be a luncheon at noon Friday for "Governor" Ratliff at the governor's mansion and, by tradition, that event is for the family and immediate relatives.

However, the reception at the mansion from 9 a. m. until noon and from 2 p. m. until 4 p. m. is open to the public. All members of the family will take part in the reception, which is expected to attract many persons from the Haskell and Stamford area.

Friends and acquaintances of Sen. Ratliff will host a dinner party honoring him and Mrs. Ratliff at the Driskill Hotel in Austin at 8 p. m. Friday.

Members of the Ratliff family who expect to be in Austin Friday for the special occasion are:

Senator and Mrs. Ratliff and children, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Ratliff of Lubbock, Lynnora, daughter who attends Baylor University, and Janie and John, both of Stamford.

Mrs. L. D. Ratliff Sr., of Haskell, mother of Sen. Ratliff, will be unable to make the trip to Austin because of ill health. Brothers and sisters of the Sen-

'Ma' Ferguson, Twice Governor of Texas, Dies

Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson, the only woman ever elected twice as governor of any state, died Sunday at 86 after a heart attack at her home in Austin.

During her terms that started in 1924 and 1932, she was one of the most controversial figures in Texas politics.

Her husband, James E. (Farmer Jim) Ferguson served two terms as governor before her and was impeached in 1917 for fiscal irregularities. Mrs. Ferguson ran on a platform of vindicating the Ferguson name and won handsily. Both were Democrats.

Mrs. Ferguson was first elected governor in November, 1924 and the second time in November, 1932.

Political antagonisms were forgotten in 1935, when more than 300 state officials and leaders honored Mrs. Ferguson on her 80th birthday.

Funeral for Mrs. Ferguson was held in Austin at 5 p. m. Monday. She was buried in the state cemetery beside her husband.

Haskell Soldier Given Promotion In Missile Unit

Freddie C. Middleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Middleton, Haskell, Texas, was promoted June 6 to specialist four in Abilene, Texas, where he is a member of the 517th Artillery, a Nike-Hercules missile unit.

Specialist Middleton, assigned to the artillery's Battery B, entered the Army in February, 1960, and was last stationed at Fort Carson, Colo.

The 19-year-old soldier is a 1959 graduate of Haskell High School and attended North Texas State College, Denton.
