Into Persian Gulf...

Strategy apparently stops oil flow

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — The U.S. military said today an attack by American warplanes apparently has halted Iraq's dumping of oil into the Persian Gulf. Iraq maintained an allied attack created a separate spill.

Army Brig. Gen. Pat Stevens IV told reporters the extent of the giant oil spill — estimated at some 300 million gallons — remains unclear. But, he said, "It appears we have stopped the flow of oil."

Stevens also said 69 Iraqi aircraft have flown to Iran, including 39 fighter planes.

Iraq has an estimated 700 combat aircraft, and Saddam Hussein has largely kept them out of the air since the allied assault began.

Although Iran has said it would confiscate the planes for the duration of the war, U.S. officials have said they have to consider the possibility the planes were going to Iran to shield them from attack.

"We would be absolutely not worth our salt as military people if we ignored the fact that those planes could fly back out of Iran after us," Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf said on Sunday.

The Baghdad government claimed today a U.S.-led attack on Kuwait on Sunday started a fire and spilled oil into the gulf. The United States said its warplanes attacked a Kuwait oil facility Saturday in an attempt to halt the flow of crude that was creating the world's worst oil slick.

Stevens said nothing about a second U.S. attack on the oil facilities.

The Baghdad radio broadcast did not mention the giant oil slick, which U.S. officials maintain was begun by Iraqi forces in Kuwait.

Schwarzkopf told reporters in Riyadh on Sunday that there was "no indication" allied bombing raids caused the giant oil spill. He said U.S. F-111 fighter-bombers used "smart bombs" to attack a coastal oil facility in Kuwait on Saturday to try to prevent more oil from entering the gulf.

International experts arrived in the region today to work on cleaning up the huge slick, which U.S. officials said was begun by Iraqi forces in Kuwait.

A Norwegian ship equipped with cleanup equipment was off the coast of Bahrain, and a British consortium was flying in more than 70 tons of equipment including booms and suction skimmers. Coast Guard and Environmental Protection Agency experts met with Saudi officials to put together a cleanup plan.

U.S. officials expressed confidence the attack significantly reduced the flow of crude to the 35-by-10-mile slick, which could threaten desalination plants supplying water to Saudis and allied forces.

Schwarzkopf said the U.S. warplanes targeted a complex of pipes linking oil fields with an offshore loading buoy for tankers.

MID-MORNING WRECK — Snyder EMS transported local resident Dora White to the hospital following a 10:30 a.m. accident at the intersection of 27th St. and College Ave. Hospital of-

Bill Moss to resign as C of C manager

Bill Moss, executive director of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce the past three years, is expected to resign today to accept a position with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice school system.

Eddie Williams, chamber president, confirmed this morning that Moss had accepted a position as Project RIO counselor with the TDCJ's Windham school.

Moss was reportedly in Amarillo this morning, and was due back in Snyder in the afternoon. Williams said the job opportunity developed over the weekend and that Moss had hoped to tell the board prior to making a public announcement.

Williams said a meeting of the chamber's executive committee would be held, perhaps as soon as this evening to receive his resignation and put together a search committee for Moss' replacement.

As a Project RIO assessment counselor, Moss will work with inmates in helping them find employment following their release from prison.

Bob Martin, Windham principal at the Price Daniel Unit in Snyder, said Moss would begin his duties at the unit Tuesday morning.

Moss became manager of the Snyder chamber in May of 1987. Coming to Snyder from Monahans, Moss was chosen from a list of some 30 candidates.

He had been manager of the Monahans chamber and was also a bank officer in Monahans. He had been a public school administrator in both Monahans and Pecos.

In 1985, he was named citizen of the year in Monahans. His wife, Judy, is a teacher at North Elementary.

A native of Seymour, Moss has a bachelor's degree from North Texas State University and a master's degree from Sul Ross State University.

Court okays phone system, amends budget, accepts bid

Scurry County commissioners approved the replacement of a telephone system and a modification to a ballpark concession stand, amended the sheriff office's budget, heard a quarterly financial report and accepted a bid for the mowing of Winston Airfield today as they met at the county courthouse.

Kathy Roberts, county home economics extension agent, presented the court with a sales agreement with ATS Telecom for a new phone system for the extension office.

Roberts explained the office — which houses the county home economics extension agent, agricultural agent and entomologist — is currently renting a phone system. She noted the office was over budget in phone system costs last year.

Commissioners approved the purchase of a new system for $1,329.

Also approved was a $10,000 amendment to the sheriff office's budget for modification of Scurry County Jail facilities. Sheriff Keith Collier asked for the budget amendment in order to expand recreational facilities and to do some small scale remodeling for better supervision of the visitors room by jail personnel.

County Treasurer Rita Staton presented the court with the county's quarterly financial report in which she reported $67,968.18 had been earned in interest on investments. For the year, $285,392.40 in interest was accumulated.

A $75,800 bill from Western Texas College was approved for community participation. The bill, already included in the county budget, included county financial support of the veterans program, county museum and the senior center.

Also accepted was a bid from Neil Lloyd to mow the county-owned Winton Airfield for $1,260.

The court approved the addition of a doorway to a concession stand at the girls' softball fields but tabled a request to name the fields in honor of Dale Cates.

The court called a recess until 1:30 p.m. when it was expected to approve bids for fuel and oil.

Commissioner C.D. Gray presided at the meeting in the absence of County Judge Bob Doolittle. Also present were commissioners Jerry Ganaway, Duaine Davis and Roy Idom.

EDC subcommittee set to meet 2 p.m. Tuesday

Subcommittee chairman appointments are among three agenda items for the Scurry County economic development planning committee, which meets 2 p.m. Tuesday in the TU Electric Reddy Room.

In a meeting last Tuesday, economic development committee (EDC) members voted to begin a development plan after it was stressed that such a plan was needed for the county to receive state grants. It was noted that some $1.2 million has been awarded to Scurry County but has not been received because of the lack of an economic development plan. The plan would include a comprehensive study of the economic and social needs of the area.

In an effort to institute a plan, the EDC last Tuesday named a planning committee of approximately 40-50 people. The planning committee will meet this Tuesday to appoint chairpersons for the following subcommittees: agribusiness, industrial development, commercial development, community services, education, energy and natural resource, finance, promotion/public relations and research.

Each of these subcommittees will identify problems and potential solutions to these problems.

Another agenda item will be to review a phase completion time table. The time table will include dates for subcommittee reports. Committee members are hoping to complete the development plan in 10 months.

The final item will be a report on activities already completed.

Jack Smartt is the EDC chairman.

Bogus bills

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Officials are urging merchants to watch for hundreds of counterfeit $20 bills believed circulated in the Brownsville area by drug dealers.

Nearly 400 bogus bills have changed hands in the border city within the past three months, authorities said.

"The twenties that are circulating are from a drug deal that went down in Southern California and Florida," said Robert Zepeda, a spokesman for the Brownsville Police Department. "It appears that the twenties had been stashed and are now circulating in the Brownsville area only."

City, county and federal agents are investigating the counterfeit cash's source.

Nelson auction

DENVER (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service will attempt to auction country singer Willie Nelson's 44.23-acre spread near Evergreen on Wednesday, officials said.

The ranch, at the foot of Mount Evans west of Denver, has a 4,700-square-foot rock and frame house that was Nelson's primary residence during the 1980s. It also has a caretaker's cottage, two guest cottages and other facilities.

The property was seized in November because of a $16.7 million judgment against the singer.

The auction starts at 10 a.m. at the Denver Marriott West, officials said.

"We don't expect a huge crowd," said Bill Roller & Associates auctioneers. "We expect eight to 10 bidders."

Choosing commissioner...

Board won't meet Jan. 31 deadline

AUSTIN (AP) — A temporary education commissioner could be named since the State Board of Education will not meet Thursday's deadline for nominating someone to the post, officials said.

U.S. human rights aide makes first visit to Mexico

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department's top human rights official is making a ground-breaking visit to Mexico this week for consultations that U.S. officials say further demonstrate the steady improvement in cross-border ties.

Richard Schifter, assistant secretary of state for human rights and humanitarian affairs, will spend two days in Mexico focusing on the country's judicial system, court reform and opportunities for cooperation on human rights issues.

Schifter isn't taking a list of cases involving alleged rights abuses in Mexico. That is part of what appears to be a studied effort to avoid stirring up controversy.

In contrast, Schifter visited China last month and raised with Chinese authorities the status of 150 citizens who are thought to be political prisoners.

As an example, the Mexican government has rejected proposals for international monitoring of elections set for later this year.

U.S. officials, asking not to be identified, said that by inviting African elephants seem to have a strangely humanlike awareness of death, sometimes burying their dead under branches and making nighttime visits to sites where herds have been killed.

replacement is appointed, said Lozano and board Vice Chairman Bob Aikin of Commerce. "As a practical matter, nobody was ever going to be on board before the first of June or the first of July anyway," Aikin said, because the appointee likely would have a current contract elsewhere.

The board will nominate a candidate for the $116,590-a-year job to Gov. Ann Richards, who will make the appointment under the education law passed last summer. Senate confirmation is required.

Under the law, which took the power to appoint the commissioner from the education board, the nomination deadline is Thursday. But board Chairwoman Carolyn Crawford of Beaumont said there are no sanctions for missing it.

After a closed-door board meeting Sunday, Aikin blamed the delay in choosing Kirby's successor partly on "turmoil" resulting from the Texas Supreme Court's recent ruling that the school finance system is unconstitutional.

State leaders back a plan to replace local school property taxes with a statewide property levy, to meet the court's order that property-poor school districts must have access to equitable funding.

"You cannot expect the very best candidate... to say, 'I'm willing to walk right into that shooting gallery right now, without knowing exactly what's going to happen with school finance," Aikin said. Ms. Crawford said it could have been expected that the search for a new commissioner would take some time.

Eight final candidates initially were announced, culled from a list of 147. But Aikin said a second candidate has withdrawn: David Hornbeck, former Maryland education commissioner.

The remaining finalists are: — Thomas Anderson Jr., deputy commissioner for operations and services at the Texas Education Agency in Austin.

— Lionel Meno, deputy commissioner for elementary and secondary education in the New York Department of Education, of Albany, N.Y.

— Blandina Ramirez, director of the Office of Minorities in Higher Education at the American Council of Education in Washington.

— Victor Rodriguez, superintendent of the San Antonio Independent School District.

— J. Theodore Sanders, deputy secretary of the U.S. Department of Education in Washington.

— Michael Say, Humble school district superintendent. Aikin said it is possible but unlikely that the board's nominee would be someone who has not yet been named a finalist.

Companies hiring lobbyists would profit from lottery

AUSTIN (AP) — Companies that help run lotteries have hired lobbyists, including a former lieutenant governor and a former House speaker, to improve the game's chances of winning Texas approval, a newspaper reported.

If a lottery is approved by Texas lawmakers and voters, the state would choose a company to provide computers, tickets and other services. The contract would be worth millions.

One company, Scientific Games, has pushed creation of a lottery in various states, the Austin American-Statesman reported Sunday. The company is an Atlanta-based subsidiary of Bally Inc.

"Scientific Games contributed heavily to a successful Arizona initiative in 1990, an investment which paid off when the company won a bid to manufacture Arizona's tickets," said a report by the California Senate's Office of Research.

"Scientific Games also lent financial support to ballot campaigns in Colorado and Washington, D.C.," it said. In Texas, Scientific Games has turned to former House Speaker Billy Clayton, a lobbyist with a number of clients.

Rhode Island-based GTECH has hired former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes. Assisting him are Glenn Smith and Monte Williams, who worked in Gov. Ann Richards' election campaign and then as publicists for House Speaker Gib Lewis.

Race is on for $4.3 million in donations for convention

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston companies and Republican heavy-hitters: check your wallets. Those who expect to reap some of the expected $60 million to $100 million that will accompany the GOP to Houston for its 1992 national convention may be asked to contribute a little up front.

The city has already promised $5.7 million in donated services and raised its hotel tax by 1 cent. Host Committee Chairman Ben Love says he plans on tapping previously untapped resources to reach the $4.3 million mark.

The former Texas Commerce Bank chairman said he will look beyond the traditional corporate fund-raising war horses for big dollars.

"Our plan is to touch every sector of the community, down to the Craig's Cleaners, the Hertz car rentals and Kwik Kopsys," Love said. "I don't think it would be right on my part to exclude Hertz, or any other company, when the people coming in will be renting cars, giving the car rental companies part of the economic benefit of the convention."

That economic benefit is no small matter. Houston officials estimate that 40,000 delegates and visitors to the Bayou City for the Aug. 17-20, 1992, convention will generate $60 million to $100 million.

Love said Republican officials asked if he could raise the money by the end of the year and "they wanted to know if I wanted them to call Washington back and tell them we couldn't get it done."

"I want to reach out across the state, and reach out to individuals like some heavy-hitting Republicans, to help us out on this," Love said. "This could take awhile, but I expect it will be in high gear within the next three months."

Restaurant's security system is defended

Three employees, two of whom were cousins, and a fourth victim were shot "execution style" in a walk-in freezer during a robbery at the Irving restaurant.

The victims were identified as restaurant manager Michael J. Phelan, 28, of Fort Worth; Theresa Fraga, 16, of Irving; her cousin, Frank Fraga, 23, of Dallas; and Son Trong Nguyen, 35, of Irving.
On Jan. 7, Jennifer Soto, 19, night manager of a Taco Bell in suburban DeSoto, was shot and stabbed to death. A former employee of the restaurant is one of two men charged with capital murder in connection with Ms. Soto's killing.

Leno says mean-spirited comedy losing its appeal
RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Comedian Jay Leno is convinced the public doesn't like mean humor. "More and more people are telling me how much they dislike the mean-spirited material — the ethnic bashing, women bashing, gay bashing — that was big for a while," Leno said in the Feb. 2 issue of TV Guide.

"There will always be a place for dirty in comedy. When it's done right, funny is funny," Leno said. "No one is ever bothered by George Carlin's material. He's never mean-spirited."

"Have you seen Andrew Dice Clay anywhere lately? That concert film of his that Twentieth Century Fox has decided not to release ... it probably wasn't because of its dirt, but because it had no real jokes in it. As I say, funny's funny."

Leno often sits in as host on NBC's "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson."

Urban superintendent course slated

BOSTON (AP) — The job presents challenges that would tax the most experienced Fortune 500 CEO, and it pays in six figures.

But with classrooms besieged by everything from gang warfare to demands for higher standards, big-city school systems are begging for qualified superintendents.

To create a pool of candidates, the Harvard University Graduate School of Education has started the nation's first doctoral program for training urban superintendents.

"Ten years ago when we did searches, we'd get 80 applicants per job. Now we get 25 to 30," said Sam Husk, executive director of the Council of Great City Schools, a consortium of 47 districts.

Officials hope the program will help school boards increasingly looking for highly qualified minority candidates, said education headhunter Ira Krinsky.

Ten students at Harvard — the majority female and ethnic minorities — are getting an intensive program of educational theory and hands-on crisis management.

"We believe for them to be really good superintendents, they need the research and theory, mixed with hard-nosed practical components," said Dudley Blodgett, a spokesman for the education school.

After 13 months at Harvard, students will complete a six- to nine-month internship in an urban school system and write a thesis before hitting the job market. Most of them already have education administrative experience, some as school principals. "What's unusual about the program is the residency is much shorter than any other doctoral program in the school of education, because we compressed their time here," said Blodgett.

"It is very important to get these people back out into the field."

Of the school districts in the Council of Great City Schools, 11 are seeking superintendents and 16 were hired only in the past 18 months, Husk said.

Of those 27 positions, about 14 became vacant when the superintendent was forced out by conflicts with the school board, Husk said.

He said political pressure has changed the superintendent from a post that capped an educator's career to a high-pressure stint with an average tenure of five years.

Said Husk: "You have to be an expert communicator. You have to be an experienced negotiator. You've got to be a person experienced in curriculum. You have to be an expert in multicultural education and you have to be an expert politician as well as one of the world's best wizards in the budget."

And "then you've got the drug problem that is not only impacting students, but impacting our parents," said Floretta McKenzie, a former superintendent of Washington, D.C.

"Some people think it's impossible," said John Williams, interim director of the Harvard program.

Williams, however, is not one of them. His students study social welfare, health, legislative and legal issues as part of developing a public school policy.

Despite demands for school chiefs, Husk thinks the program graduates will not be immediately snapped up by school boards.

"They still have to earn their marks somewhere in an urban system," he said.

Lasorda's products aren't selling well

FOUNTAIN VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Baseball manager Tommy Lasorda's pitch for his namesake pasta sauce hasn't made it to the plate, some investors say.

While the Los Angeles Dodgers manager has been busy showing his new, sleek physique to promote a liquid diet, Paul Newman's and Frank Sinatra's pasta sauces are easily outpacing his in the marketplace, a new survey shows.

Lasorda's brand first hit market shelves in August 1989, and had 1.3 percent of the pasta sauce market during the four weeks ending Dec. 1, according to a survey by Neilson Marketing Research. Newman's Own had 4.4 percent and Sinatra had 3.7 percent.

Sinatra and Newman brands are sold nationally but Lasorda's sauce is found mostly in Southern California.

"I really went into this with a clear expectation that Mr. Lasorda would be committed to promoting a product that bore his name," said Bruce Rasner, who has invested several thousand dollars in Lasorda Foods Inc.

"I must say, I am very disappointed." Lasorda Foods spent less than $5,000 in advertising and lost more than $340,000 in the first nine months of 1990.

Jury in boy's alcohol death trial gave killer 2nd chance

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The foreman of the jury that sentenced a man to 10 years probation for giving a 5-year-old boy a fatal drink of straight bourbon says the panel knew the sentence would be criticized as lenient.

"But we decided that he deserved a second chance," Michael Workman told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in Sunday's editions.

Glancing alternately at pictures of Raymond Thomas "Tinky" Griffin when he was still alive and then at his stilled body after hours of seizures killed him convinced jurors that Tinky's death fit the definition of murder, Workman said.

But the panel was just as certain that no good purpose would be served by sentencing Anthony Darron Jimerson to prison, he said.

Jimerson, 22, of the Tarrant County community of Forest Hill, on Friday was given 10 years probation in Tinky's death and was released from Tarrant County Jail on Saturday.

Last week jurors considered five different charges and convicted Jimerson of the most serious, murder. The charge carried a maximum sentence of life in prison.

"It would have been very easy, very simple to sentence him to the penitentiary," Workman said.

"If we voted to send him to prison for 10 years, you know and I know he would not be in for 10 years. On probation, he has to keep his nose clean for 10 years."

Witnesses said Jimerson gave the boy the liquor and told him to "drink it like a man" so he would go to sleep, allowing the man to be alone with the child's mother, Patricia Griffin, 31.

She faces trial next month on a charge of causing injury to a child by gross negligence.

An ambulance wasn't called for the boy until 16 hours after he drank the alcohol. The boy had a blood alcohol level of .55 percent, or five times the legal limit for driving in Texas, doctors said.

Jimerson, who through his attorneys declined to be interviewed, didn't have any previous convictions.

Prosecutor Richard Alpert said the punishment was fair, considering Jimerson's age and that he probably didn't intend to kill the boy. Jimerson had been jailed since his arrest last February.

Handling a 4-3 fit

By James Jacoby

It's rare these days for a jump to three diamonds to be a game-forcing bid, but that was part of North-South's system. Most experts prefer to play three diamonds in this situation as a limit invitational bid or even a preemptive bid. Anyway West's raise to three hearts released North from the obligation of bidding. He passed it around to South, who bid three spades, more to give North one last chance to bid three no-trump than for anything else. But North raised to four spades, and South decided to sit it out.

West led the king of hearts and switched to the queen of clubs. If declarer won the club and immediately played K-A-Q of trumps, hoping for a 3-3 split, he would be set. West would trump in on the third diamond, and the defenders would cash two more quick heart tricks. Instead South protected against the more common 4-2 trump split. He played a low spade from both his hand and the dummy. The defenders were now helpless. As soon as declarer got back on lead he cashed king of spades and then the A-Q. The diamonds now ran to provide plenty of tricks.

What about East's one-heart overcall? That's not really the style of any sensible person, but sometimes players get carried away by favorable vulnerability.

Final score: 20-19...

Giants win Super Bowl XXV

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — While Otis Anderson ran and Jeff Hostetler threw, Jim Kelly and Thurman Thomas could only stand and watch. They stood and watched the Giants beat Buffalo 20-19 for New York's second Super Bowl victory in four years. The Giants set two Super Bowl records for controlling the clock. More important, their stingy style of offense kept the Bills' dangerous no-huddle attack on the sidelines for all but 19:27 of Sunday's game. "Very frustrating," said Buffalo quarterback Kelly. "We know we're going to put the ball in the end zone, but we didn't have that many opportunities." The Giants rallied twice in the second half with a pair of scoring drives that consumed a total of 17 minutes. Anderson pounded the middle, Dave Meggett provided a change of pace to the outside, and Hostetler completed four third-down passes for first downs. "Our whole plan was to try to shorten the game for Buffalo," coach Bill Parcells said. "We wanted the ball, and we didn't want them to have it." New York's time of possession totaled 40 minutes, 33 seconds — a Super Bowl record. The Bills, who scored 95 points in their two postseason wins, had the ball for less than eight minutes in the second half.

That's been our key all year — controlling the ball," Hostetler said. "Our defense likes it when we're out there a long time because it gives them a chance to rest, and the offense likes to see it because eventually we start overpowering people." New York finished with 73 plays to just 56 for the Bills. Kelly threw for 212 yards and Thomas ran for 135, but the NFL's highest-scoring offense spent most of the night in the shadows instead of the spotlight. "When you run the no-huddle, you don't have a lot of possession time," Bills coach Marv Levy said. "And when you don't score, you get rid of it fast." Including a clock-killing sequence at the end of the first half, four Buffalo possessions lasted four plays or less. Each took 91 seconds or less. The Giants, meanwhile, played keepaway. And they did it best after taking the kickoff to start the second half. "I told them (at halftime) that the first drive of the third quarter was the most important of the game," Parcells said. "We had to do something with it." Trailing 12-10, New York kept the ball for a Super Bowl-record 9:29 with a touchdown march that covered 75 yards in 14 plays. Possession passes kept the drive alive. Hostetler hit Meggett on third-and-8 for 11 yards. He hit Mark Ingram on third-and-13 for 14 yards. He hit Howard Cross on third-and-4 for 9 yards. "That's what Jeff's paid to do," tight end Mark Bavaro said. "And we're paid to catch them." Anderson broke away for 24 yards on a third-and-1 play. He also scored the touchdown from the 1. "It was very disheartening," Levy said. "That was the biggest drive of the season," New York receiver Stephen Baker added. Several Giants said the Buffalo defenders began to weary at that point. "Our offense tired them out with the constant pounding," linebacker Pepper Johnson said. "They were the ones sucking air."

WTC cage squads entertain Bulldogs

The Western Texas College Westerners and their women's counterparts at WTC, the Lady Dusters, will both try to rebound from Western Junior College Athletic Conference losses last Thursday when each team hosts Clarendon College at Scurry County Coliseum tonight. The Westerners were upset for the second straight time Thursday when Frank Phillips pulled off a 99-95 surprise behind Robert Torrence's 26 points. "We are disappointed without a doubt," said Western Texas head coach Tony Mauldin after the loss to FPC. "We felt like we were one of the top four teams in the conference to start the season, we just haven't played consistently as a team." "We've got to win against Clarendon and get on a hot streak. We're a better team than we've been showing the last two games." Dallas sophomore Dominick Byrd led WTC with 31 points against the Plainsmen. Clarendon's men are currently in the WJCAC cellar with a 1-6 conference record. The Bulldogs are 6-11 overall. Clarendon's offense, averaging a meager 72 points a game, is led by 3-point threat James Rike of Haskell. Rike is ranked in the Western Conference's top 10 in long-distance connections, hitting 13 of 31 attempts for a 41.9 percent success rate from outside. Freshman forward Steven Gay, 6-4, paces the defense for the Bulldogs with 14 blocks for the season. Tip-off time for the men is set for 8 p.m. The Lady Dusters and the Clarendon Lady Bulldogs are both searching for their first conference win of the season. Clarendon has a league record of 0-5, 2-10 overall, while the WTC women are 0-6 and 7-16. Freshman Monica Ramirez scored 24 points for Western Texas in last Thursday's 87-78 loss to Frank Phillips. Clarendon returns a pair of sophomores to lead coach Joel Zehr's club, 5-11 forward Amy Reynolds and 5-6 guard Katrina Overton. The Dusters' game begins at 6 p.m. In other WJCAC games tonight, Midland and Odessa tangle. Frank Phillips is at New Mexico Junior College and Howard entertains New Mexico Military Institute in men's action. Besides the WTC-Clarendon women's matchup tonight, Frank Phillips takes on NMJC.

Tex is named to NFL Hall

DALLAS (AP) — Tex Schramm knows how much he meant to the NFL, but he says he never thought he would receive its highest honor.

"I'm sure you know how much this means to me," he said after being elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame Saturday. "Down deep, I didn't think I was going to get in. I didn't think it would come true."

"I don't know if that was a defense mechanism or what. But when I heard it, it was probably one of the most emotional moments of my life."

Schramm was elected to the shrine along with former Texas Longhorns and Houston Oilers running back Earl Campbell. They were joined by John Hannah, Jan Stenerud and Stan Jones.

Schramm, who never played or coached in the National Football League, was elected as a contributor. He was general manager and president of the Dallas Cowboys from the team's inception in 1960 until 1988.

During that span, Dallas played in five Super Bowls, winning twice. The Cowboys made the playoffs 18 times in 20 seasons.

"For reporters, there is the Pulitzer. For other people, the Nobel. But if you have been in pro football for 40 years, this is the ultimate," Schramm said. "Particularly for someone such as myself — being the first in my category. I just never thought it would happen."

He becomes the first NFL general manager to be elected to the Hall of Fame.

Australian Open...

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Now that he has what he wanted most in tennis, Boris Becker is thinking about how long he will keep it and what life might hold after it loses its appeal. Finally No. 1 after more than five years within reach of the top, Becker says he's uncertain how long he will stay there but doesn't want it to be too long. He's a lot like Mats Wilander in that sense. Wilander reached the No. 1 spot in 1988 when he won three of the four Grand Slam tournaments. Then he decided there was more to life, and a Wilander advance to the semifinals of one of the big four tournaments now is considered a major feat. "I am a person like Mats, a person of extremes," Becker said after beating Ivan Lendl 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 for his first Australian Open title Sunday and the top spot in the men's rankings. "I have to be comfortable in it," he said. "I have a little fear, that it won't go on. I like to be No. 1, but I like then to go on to other

Becker beats Lendl for title

He went for a jog in the park. "Outside, there is a little park with a couple of trees, and I went there to run because it meant so much to me," the 23-year-old Becker said.

Monica Seles won the women's title on Saturday with a 5-7, 6-3, 6-1 victory over Jana Novotna, an upstart who had eliminated the No. 1 woman, Steffi Graf, in the quarterfinals.

Lendl reached the final when Stefan Edberg, who lost the men's No. 1 ranking to Becker, blew two match points in the semifinals. Becker almost didn't make it past the third round, surviving a tournament-record 5-hour, 11-minute five-setter against unheralded Italian Omar Camporese.

And then there was the McEnroe factor. John was absent with injuries and never got a chance to repeat his fourth-round dismissal for arguing line calls a year ago. But his youngest brother Patrick, ranked 114th, reached the semifinals before losing to Becker in a tough four-setter.

John was at a break point in the first game of the second set when he lost what he considered the

Tigers claim tourney title

SWEETWATER — Snyder claimed the championship of the Sweetwater Freshmen Basketball Tournament Saturday with a 67-50 win over host Sweetwater.

Jim Ferguson missed two free-throw goals and 10 of 16 free-throws for 30 points to lead Snyder.

John Patrick contributed 10 points and Jimmy Henry added eight for the Tigers. Terry Clemmer's 28 led the Mustangs on the night.

Snyder's win came in come-from-behind fashion after trailing, 42-36 going into the final period. Snyder muscled for 26 in the quarter behind Griffin's 13 clutch points and held the Ponies to just 14.

The SHS frosh will see their next action Saturday when the Tigers host Abilene Cooper at 10 a.m.

Somali rebels drive leader from mansion

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A rebel army that drove Somali President Mohamed Siad Barre from his palace said it is forming a new national leadership and appealed for foreign medical aid. But the whereabouts of Siad Barre were unknown.

A rebel statement received late Sunday in London said the insurgents were "calling on the dictator and his few remaining supporters to surrender immediately as they have no choice of continued resistance."

A rebel spokesman said Siad Barre, the ruler of Somalia since 1969, may have been captured. But earlier reports said he had fled from the capital, Mogadishu, to another part of the East African nation.

The rebels seized state-run Radio Mogadishu and broadcast the announcement they had taken control of the capital Saturday night after a month of civil war.

Thousands of people danced through Mogadishu's streets that night after the rebels drove Siad Barre from the presidential mansion, said Dr. Marc Gastello Etchejorry of the humanitarian agency Doctors Without Borders. Later rebels took the airport, he said. "The information from Mogadishu is that the fighting has finished. There is no more shooting," said Etchejorry, who left Mogadishu on Sunday for Kenya. Siad Barre and a small group of military men fled the mansion in a tank, according to another spokesman for Doctors Without Borders, Stevan Van Praet.

Van Praet said the president's flight followed more than 24 hours of heavy fighting between loyalist soldiers and rebels.

He said doctors there told him that after Siad Barre and his group fled, rebels and civilians poured in to loot the palace. "It was a popular uprising," he said. "Everybody was happy."

Rebel spokesman Mohamed Robleh said in London that his United Somali Congress would announce an acting committee within 48 hours to run Somalia. He said the interim government would remain until representatives from the main rebel groups could meet to form a democratic government representing the nation's various clans.

The rebels said more than 1,500 people had died in recent fighting.

New farm law, GATT may aid opportunities for state co-operatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmer-owned cooperatives may see larger opportunities as the new farm law unfolds and, hopefully, global trading rules are relaxed, an Agriculture Department official says.

Randall E. Torgerson, administrator of the department's Agricultural Cooperative Service, said the negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade are important to the outlook.

The GATT talks are at an impasse, although attempts continue to get them back on track. A major goal is to liberalize global trading rules, including cutbacks in trade-distorting subsidies.

A cornerstone of the new farm law is the so-called triple base plan that reduces the base acreage farmers have available for price supports, Torgerson said. But it also provides more flexibility in deciding what to grow.

Torgerson, writing in the current issue of Farmer Cooperatives magazine, noted that the 1990 farm law provides for $40.4 billion in income support payments to farmers over the next five years.

text of what to produce and when."

Torgerson listed several challenges for farm cooperatives as a result of the changes in public policies:

- Maintaining financial integrity of their own operations to withstand ups and downs in the market.
- Using more group action to assure fair returns from the marketplace and to control their own destinies.
- Coordinating production with market demand to assure a use and home for their products.
- Agricultural producers are well equipped with an arsenal of group action tools that have been tested and proven over many years of operation," Torgerson wrote. "They include a cooperatively owned credit and farm supply distribution system on a par with any in the world, both farmer-owned."
- Additionally, he said, the co-op structure includes agricultural bargaining associations that negotiate contracts with processors. Farm operators also have developed marketing cooperatives to provide better access to users.

capital-intensive business," Torgerson said. "Producers need to assure themselves returns commensurate with their investment and management. Cooperatively owned businesses will be more in vogue if producers seize the opportunity open to them."

Fired priest conducts final services at Holy Family

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Parishioners protesting the firing of a Roman Catholic priest say they hope the bishop who dismissed the minister will explain his decision to them.

An estimated 75 Holy Family Church members picketed in front of Bishop Rene H. Gracida's home Saturday and Sunday, protesting last week's firing of the Rev. Bill Elliott.

The protesters lined both sides of Gracida's street and chanted, "We want Father Bill." Some carried signs reading, "Bishop please don't hurt our community" and "Outspoken but honest."

Diocesan officials have declined to comment publicly on the dismissal. But, Elliott has said he was asked to leave because of insubordination, disagreements concerning fund-raising and teaching heresy.

In a tearful farewell Sunday, Elliott urged over 950 congregants to love and forgive.

"My prayer is that you will remember what I taught you. You are the leaders of the new way ... There's a challenge to accept what God is offering us," Elliott told the overflowing crowd during his final Mass celebration there.

"This is not a time of persecution, this is a time of great joy. We are being challenged to carry the cross in this community ... and to tell each other that we love each other," Elliott said.

Elliott, a popular Westside priest, moved to Holy Family Catholic Church in 1986. He is a member of the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate and has been a priest nearly 30 years.

Since the announcement of his dismissal, there have been nightly prayer services at Holy Family Church.

"The good deeds he has done far outnumber any bad things he may have done," said church member Andrea Casarez. "He is an inspiration."

Parishioner Arnold Gonzales said he hoped the bishop would talk to members of Holy Family Church. "Since he won't come to the Westside, we'll go to the Southside," said Gonzales.

"Somehow, Father Bill and the bishop need to confront each other face to face. We need to reach down and think about what each of them preaches every day — love and forgiveness," said parishioner Roland Quezada.

Tax forms are birds of many colors

By George W. Smith

Henry Ford once said you could have any color Model T Ford you wanted so long as it was black. The tax collector is a bit more flexible. Taxpayers have a choice of colors for filing their income tax returns. Besides the standard blue 1040 "long form" and the pink 1040A "short form," the IRS offers an even simpler one, the green 1040EZ. It is designed for single taxpayers who have taxable income of less than $50,000. "EZ," of course, stands for "EASY."

However, don't let the simplicity of Form 1040EZ and Form 1040A lure you into using either one unless you are certain that it is in your best interest to do so. Using the 1040EZ or 1040A might cost you tax dollars you don't need to pay.

Do a rough calculation to determine which form is best for you. Total your itemized deductions and compare them with your standard deduction. If your itemized deductions are greater than the standard deduction, you will pay less tax by itemizing. To itemize, you must file the long Form 1040.

FORM 1040EZ (Green)

To use Form 1040EZ, a taxpayer must:

- Be single.
- Not be 65 or older, or blind.
- Claim no exemptions for children or any other dependents.
- Have taxable income of less than $50,000.
- Have earned income from wages, salaries, and tips only.
- Have interest income of $400 or less.
- Have no dividend income.
- Not itemize.
- Claim no tax credits.

The 1040EZ has less than a dozen lines to complete. Most of the instructions needed to complete the 1040EZ are on the back of the form. You will need the tax table from the 1040A instructions to figure your tax. You cannot request an extension of time to file Form 1040EZ. After April 15, the Church of Christ.

Survivors include his wife, Jessie Robertson Glaze, four daughters, Georgia Welch and Nancy Yates, both of Tarzan, Linda Nichols of Seminole and Janice Penn of Lufkin; two other sisters, Sybil Randolph and Noble Stewart, both of Midland; 13 grandchildren; and 17 great-grandchildren.

Oilman defends anti-war speech

HOUSTON (AP) — Oilman Oscar Wyatt, who infuriated many Corpus Christi business leaders recently with an anti-war speech, says he supports the troops but questions the Bush administration's actions.

"I strongly stressed my support of the American men and woman who are in Operation Desert Storm. At the same time, I was expressing my right of freedom of speech in questioning administration policy," Wyatt said in a letter published today in the Houston Chronicle.

In the speech last Tuesday to the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce, Wyatt, chairman of Coastal Corp., predicted the region would become a "meat grinder" for American troops if the war with Iraq continues.

At least 100 of the 1,200 people at the dinner walked out in protest, including a contingent of military officers from the Navy Air Station and Army supply depot based in Corpus Christi. Chamber officials said they were flooded with angry telephone calls after the speech.

But Wyatt said those that left did so before they heard most of his comments.

"The major portion of my speech dealt with administration policy during the past 10 years and its negative economic impact on the United States," his letter said.

Wyatt and former Texas Gov. John Connally secured the release of a group of American hostages last month after flying to Iraq and meeting with Saddam Hussein. That expedition and his anti-war remarks last week have aroused attention to his company's business ties to Iraq.

Coastal for years has been one of Iraq's biggest trading partners. Wyatt also had discussed selling half of Coastal's refining and marketing business to Iraq before the Persian Gulf conflict erupted with Iraq's invasion of Kuwait Aug. 2.

Wyatt's trip to Iraq caught the attention of federal investigators, who are looking into whether he violated trade sanctions with Iraq.

1991, you must file either Form 1040 or 1040A.

FORM 1040A (Pink)

If you have determined that you will not lower the amount of tax you owe by itemizing deductions, Form 1040A allows you a little more flexibility than the 1040EZ. Unlike Form

Using the 1040EZ or 1040A might cost you tax dollars you don't need to pay.

1040EZ, 1040A can be used if:

- You are married or single.
- You have dependents.
- You are a qualifying widow or widower with a dependent child.
- You are claiming a credit for child and dependent care expenses, credit for the elderly or disabled or the earned income credit.
- You have dividend income.
- You have interest income of any amount.
- You have unemployment compensation.
- You make an IRA contribution.
- You receive an IRA distribution.
- You receive pension or annuity income.
- You receive Social Security benefits that are taxable.

FORM 1040 (Blue)

This is The Ultimate. You should file the 1040 long form if your itemized deductions total more than the standard deduction. Your tax bill will be lower if you do. However, the IRS requires some taxpayers to use Form 1040 even if they are not itemizing their deductions.

You will have to file Form 1040 if:

- Your taxable income is $50,000 or more.
- You have other income, such as alimony, self-employment income, cap-

Pre-summit groundwork continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet official acknowledged today that "things at times are getting out of hand" in the Baltic. President Bush was meeting the new Soviet foreign minister as U.S. officials hinted next month's arms summit in Moscow may be postponed.

Vitaly Churkin, Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman, said "it is the desire of the central government, the president, to work out the situation (in the Baltics) politically."

But he said on the ABC-TV program "Good Morning America," that "the problem there is that of ensuring the rights of national minorities, civil and human rights of people, and ensuring the observance of the Constitution."

He added that "at times it is very difficult to do that because the authorities in Lithuania seem to disregard the Constitution and keep saying, 'we are not part of the Soviet union'."

Churkin said "things at times are getting out of hand there."

Before seeing Bush today, Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander A. Bessmertnykh held a second round of talks with Secretary of State James A. Baker III on strategic arms issues.

As he entered the State Department building, surrounded by a dozen U.S. security agents, Bessmertnykh said in response to a reporter's question: "There will be a summit. As for the timing, we'll discuss it."

In one sign of improved U.S.-Soviet relations, a daily 15-minute vigil at the Soviet Embassy has been suspended after 20 years because the Soviets have relaxed emigration restrictions, organizers say. "We're here to acknowledge a new era...between Jews and the Soviet Union," Evan Krame, chairman of the Jewish Community Council's Soviet Jewry Task Force, said at the final vigil Sunday, attended by about 110 people.

The superpowers' delicate relationship has been complicated not only by the Kremlin's crackdown on the independence-minded Baltic republics, but also by differences over the strategy the United States is employing in the allied war to drive Iraq out of Kuwait.

A White House spokesman, Stephen T. Hart, said Sunday, "The summit is still up in the air." Bush, returning from Camp David, Md., refused to say whether he had decided to postpone the Feb. 11-13 Moscow meeting with Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Senior U.S. officials have hinted they favored a postponement, even before the Baltic crackdown brought pressure from Congress for the president not to conduct business as usual with the Soviets.

Administration officials have cited the war in the Persian Gulf and lingering difficulties in completing the arms control pact as reasons pointing toward a delay.

Bessmertnykh, until two weeks ago the Soviet ambassador to Washington, on Saturday bluntly criticized the U.S.-led aerial bombardment of Iraq.

"There may be a danger of the conflict going more in the direction of the destruction of Iraq and ... more casualties on both sides," he said after his first meeting with Baker.

But Bessmertnykh added, "We are all in the same alliance and there is no difference in the basic approach between the United States and the Soviet Union."

Bush relied on Gorbachev for crucial support in the United Nations behind a dozen resolutions condemning Iraq, including the pivotal one that authorized force to drive Saddam Hussein's army from Kuwait.

But the Soviets have never committed any of their military forces to the anti-Iraq coalition. And some critics have suggested Bush was reluctant to react too strongly to the Baltic crackdown for fear of losing Soviet support against Iraq.

Bush is still weighing whether to impose economic sanctions against the Soviets over strong-arm tactics against the breakaway republics. In recent violence, 21 people have died in clashes with Red Army troops in the Lithuanian and Latvian capitals.

The president said Friday that despite "some difficulties" on arms control and the Baltics, "we have a lot of common ground still with the Soviet Union."

The proposed centerpiece of the Moscow summit would be a Strategic Arms Reduction treaty to cut each superpower's long-range nuclear arsenal by roughly 30 percent.

Bessmertnykh was thrust into the foreign minister's post by the sudden resignation last month of Eduard A. Shevardnadze, who warned that the Soviet Union was veering toward a dictatorship.

Soviet soldiers shut down Lithuanian customs posts

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Soviet troops firing shots seized two Lithuanian customs posts, roughed up several workers, and ordered the checkpoints shut permanently, a Lithuanian government spokesman said today.

In another incident early Sunday, a Soviet army captain wounded a Lithuanian worker at a military checkpoint, the spokesman said. Officials of the breakaway republic said they have begun keeping a record of brutality inflicted on their citizens.

The developments were the latest in a Soviet crackdown on the independence-seeking Baltic republics. At least 19 people have been killed in clashes involving Soviet forces since Jan. 13.

The Baltic republics of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia were forcibly incorporated into the Soviet Union in 1940. Each was independent between the two world wars.

Lithuania created about 30 customs checkpoints after declaring independence in March. They are intended to prevent non-Lithuanians from taking scarce goods to other Soviet republics.

In the Sunday night assault on the customs posts, the troops entered checkpoints near the Byelorussian border in the villages of Medininkai and Lavariskes, about 30 miles south of Vilnius, Azubalis said. He said there were about a dozen troops who were wearing the distinctive black berets of the Soviet Interior Ministry police force.

After warning the customs officers not to reopen, the Soviets withdrew, he said. Several workers were roughed up but did not require hospitalization, the spokesman said.

The troops also confiscated documents and broke windows, Azubalis said.

The assault was a "provocation" designed to push the customs workers, who are unarmed, into obtaining weapons. "It would provide a very good pretense to attack," he suggested.

Only three people were staffing the Medininkai post, and four were manning the customs shed at Lavariskes, Azubalis said.

Reporting on the earlier attack, Azubalis said a Soviet patrol had stopped the Lithuanian worker, who was driving a car with two young hitchhikers shortly after midnight. The worker was asked to leave the car and put his hands on the windshield.

A shot fired by the army captain at the ground, apparently as a warning, ricocheted and struck the worker's leg. The Lithuanian, identified as A. Shalings, was treated at a Vilnius hospital.

Survey says most black Americans prefer term 'black'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite increasing use of the term African-American, most black Americans still prefer to be called black, according to a newly released survey.

The Joint Center for Political and Economic Studies, a black-oriented study group, said it conducted the survey among a sample of 759 black people.

It found 72 percent said they preferred black, 15 percent African-American, 3 percent Afro-American and 2 percent Negro, with the rest giving no opinion or other responses.

The change from black to African-American was first proposed in December, 1988, at a meeting in Chicago to lay the groundwork for the African American Summit that was held in New Orleans in April 1989. Ramona H. Edelin, president of the National Urban Coalition, suggested it would give black people more of a sense of their history.

Civil rights leader Jesse Jackson endorsed the idea at the summit, and it has since been adopted by such other prominent blacks as New York Mayor David Dinkins, Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson, Rep. William Gray, D-Pa., and by some black organizations.

The joint center has not embraced the change.

"Individuals here use the term, but as an institution we have not adopted it," said Milton Morris, vice president for research. "Frankly, we think that among other practical considerations it is a bit more cumbersome than is convenient for much of our communication."

Morris said Jackson's endorsement appeared to have been the chief impetus for the movement to change to African-American.

"There is a strong inclination among what you might call the elite in the black community to fall in line with such pronouncements, so they have, and the white community has been

Flower's defense system becomes good fire ant killer

ATLANTA (AP) — A Texas scientist has taken the waxed chrysanthemum's secret defense against bees and turned it into a fog deadly to fire ants.

The defense is a natural chemical that knocks out the nervous system in social insects, bees, wasps, ants and their cousins.

The chrysanthemum evolved with this chemical, pyrethrum, in its flower because the flower contains both the male and female organs. Bees, which pollinate so many other types of flowers, only interfere with the process, said Charles Wayne Evans II, who developed the fire ant technology.

Evans, a Beaumont biologist, applies resmethrin, a man-made copy of the chrysanthemum's pyrethrum, to fire-ant mounds, leaving the ants immobilized until they suffocate.

Evans' system is called Earth Fire because a fog or smoke sometimes billows out of mounds when they are treated.

It's for use by professionals, not the average homeowner, who wear equipment similar to a flame thrower — a back pack with hose and metal wand that the operator jams into the fire ant mound.

"It is 100 percent effective in killing the imported fire ant," Evans said.

Evans treated a large ant colony — eight feet in diameter — undermining the rear of the giraffe house at the Audubon zoo in New Orleans last fall, and retreated it a week later.

"Since then we've had no problem" with ants, Stephen T. Asproditis, director of horticulture at the zoo, said in a recent telephone interview.

Asproditis said the system appears to be one of the most cost-effective and safest ways to destroy fire ants. If his budget allows, he will purchase the system for operation by a zoo employee.

The fire ant slipped into the United States through Mobile, Ala., about 1918. It has spread from Central Texas to North Carolina and could eventually spread to the entire Pacific Coast and as far north as Virginia in the East.

The ant cannot survive prolonged temperatures of 10 degrees or less, so unless it adapts, its spread will be stopped there by northern winters, according to biologists in Texas, one of the most heavily infested states.

Each worker ant is equipped with a stinger, used for paralyzing prey, small insects, worms, etc., and in defending the colony. Hundreds of ants charge up onto the body of a larger animal almost unnoticed, and then begin stinging almost simultaneously.

Farmers claim the ants, which grab hold with their jaws and sting repeatedly, can kill newborn animals up to the size of calves.

The ants build mounds up to 2½ feet high, filled with tunnels and chambers. They are built with material hauled up from several feet down where workers excavate a conical colony which is almost the mirror image of the mound.

In addition, there are foraging tunnels, which radiate many yards out from the mound, 1 inch to 4 inches deep, so ants can go out after food while still underground.

NASA backs space station concept

HOUSTON (AP) — Space policy experts say they're worried that NASA design changes to the controversial space station concept may be too timid.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is standing behind its space station plans, despite congressional directives and suggestions by a White House panel that the agency should pursue a simpler, cheaper design.

The station, called Freedom, is intended to serve as a steppingstone for human exploration of the moon and Mars.

The facility would provide a crucial laboratory for testing human adaptation to long stays in space that will be necessary for two-year Mars missions and potentially lucrative new manufacturing processes in the weightlessness of space.

At stake in the review process are the size, capability and cost of the station as well as its launch schedule. The review is expected to be completed in late February, 120 days after the congressional mandate.

In October, Congress instructed NASA to spend 90 days scaling back a design that concerned advocates and critics alike.

The directive accompanied a $500 million funding cut for the massive project this year and a warning from lawmakers that NASA should cut nearly $6 billion in proposed station spending through 1997.

In December, a White House panel of experts formed to reappraise the nation's space program amplified that recommendation, stressing that NASA should allocate the redesign in "whatever time may be required to do this thoroughly and innovatively."

"In the recommendation that we made, we said that 90 days might not be enough so we encouraged them to take more time ... whatever time it takes," said Laurel Wilkening, one of 12 space policy experts who served on the White House-appointed Advisory Committee on the Future of the U.S. Space Program.

Within recent days, the space agency has obtained a 30-day extension from Congress to continue revamping the $35-billion plan beyond a Jan. 22 deadline imposed on NASA by lawmakers last fall.

NASA's chief spokesman for the project said top station officials may seek additional extensions and that the agency has not ruled out more sweeping changes.

The Johnson Space Center in Houston is one of four major NASA facilities involved in the Freedom's development and would control the activities of the astronauts assigned to assemble it as well as live aboard.

The space station concept is seven years old.

DEAR READERS: Did you know there is an International Forgiveness Week? Well, neither did I until three years ago when Alice Parenti of Fresno, Calif., wrote to tell me about it. And this is the week.

If you are a card-carrying member of the human race, there is at least one person in your life who needs your forgiveness. Or perhaps it's you who needs to be forgiven, so hop aboard the mea culpa bandwagon, let go of those grudges and give your ulcer a chance to heal.

Robert Muller, former assistant secretary general of the United Nations, wrote this lovely piece especially for International Forgiveness Week:

DECIDE TO FORGIVE
Decide to forgive

For resentment is negative
Resentment is poisonous Resentment diminishes and devours the self.

Be the first to forgive,
To smile and to take the first step.

And you will see happiness
bloom

On the face of your human brother or sister.

Be always the first
Do not wait for others to forgive

For by forgiving
You become the master of fate
The fashioner of life
The doer of miracles.
To forgive is the highest,
Most beautiful form of love.
In return you will receive
Untold peace and happiness.

Here is the program for achieving a truly forgiving heart:
Sunday: Forgive yourself.

Monday: Forgive your family.
Tuesday: Forgive your friends and associates.

Wednesday: Forgive across economic lines within your own nation.

Thursday: Forgive across cultural lines within your own nation.

Friday: Forgive across political lines within your own nation.

Saturday: Forgive other nations.

Only the brave know how to forgive. A coward never forgives.
It is not in his nature.

Now, Dear Readers, if you will forgive me for repeating a portion of the lovely poem titled "Forgiveness," by George Roem-isch, here it is:

"Forgiveness is the fragrance of the violet that clings fast to the heel that crushed it"

So, if perchance you are the "heel" that crushed a violet, this is the week to seek forgiveness.

Bryant's Carpet Cleaning has served Snyder over 12 years and they have used or seen every type of carpet cleaning in that time.

Even though they could use a cheaper method, they prefer steam extraction. This method extracts the dirt and stains, whereas other methods leave the dirt in the carpet. For a clean and safe carpet, steam extraction is by far the best method.

Some methods leave the carpet wet, but they leave it only damp so it will dry in only a few hours. This is because they have the latest truck mount unit with more power than smaller units.

The unit stays in the van and only the cleaning head goes into the house, eliminating spills in the home.

Most carpets need to be cleaned within a year, depending on the traffic. Not only can they be dirty, but after walking on the carpet the carpet protector is worn off. They can clean the carpet and replace the carpet protector, which is similar to Scotch Gard.

In some cases they can clean the carpet as inexpensively as you can rent a machine. Many times when people try to do it themselves and the carpet won't come clean, they keep adding detergents to the machine. This results in the carpet becoming too wet.

Also, the detergents leave a residue in the carpet and the carpet seems to get dirty quicker. Bryant's doesn't leave a residue in the carpet because they pre-spray with cleaners and when they go over the carpet with the cleaning head, they use only soft, hot water.

Carpet should be cleaned regularly if anyone in your home has allergies and also if you are moving into a different home.

For those, who want to save money and not go to the trouble of moving furniture, Bryant's can go around the furniture for as little as $10 to $20 a room.

Desert Storm Update

Around the Gulf

by The Associated Press

Here's a look at the war:

At least 69 Iraqi aircraft have flown to sanctuary in Iran, the U.S. reported Monday at a military briefing in Saudi Arabia. Earlier, U.S. officials said they had to consider the possibility that landing of Iraqi aircraft into officially neutral Iran was a move to shield Iraq's air force, still largely unscathed by allied bombing.

U.S. Central Command reported the allies carried out more than 2,000 sorties Monday, and a U.S. Marine Harrier jet was lost in combat — the first allied loss in more than two days.

Bombing by allied forces appears to have stopped the flow of oil from a supertanker terminal in Kuwait, the U.S. Central Command said Monday. But officials conceded that they couldn't be sure. The huge oil slick in the northern Persian Gulf continues toward Saudi Arabian desalination plants.

President Bush told religious broadcasters Monday that the United States does not seek to destroy Iraq nor win the conflict in a way that "Iraq itself could be the target of aggression."

In its latest radio broadcasts, Iraq said President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt should expect to be assassinated by a countryman soon.

The Washington Post on Monday quoted unidentified government sources as saying that U.S. bomb damage assessments can confirm hits on only eight of Iraq's 30 fixed Scud missile launchers, while there is no photographic evidence of the destruction of any mobile launchers.

The stock market headed higher Monday, extending its rally of late last week. Stocks were slightly higher in London and lower in Tokyo. The dollar moved slightly higher against the yen and fell slightly against most other major currencies in Europe Monday. Gold was mixed.

The British said Sunday the Royal Air Force apparently knocked out a Silkorm missile site in Iraq. At a briefing in Riyadh, the Saudi capital, Group Capt. Niall Irving said one RAF plane "scored a direct hit on a Silkorm missile site" in Iraq.

Two F-15s shot down four Iraqi MiG-23s Sunday southeast of Baghdad, the top U.S. field commander said. Earlier, the total number of Iraqi planes confirmed destroyed in the air and on the ground stood at 45.

The White House ruled out financing the war with a new tax. "No tax," budget director Richard Darman said Sunday. "We expect this to be manageable because we expect to have very substantial foreign contributions," said Darman.

Soviet Union concerned for Iraq...

Bush: Allies don't want to destroy Iraq

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush sought today to assure the Iraqi people that the United States is not seeking to destroy or destabilize their country. A Soviet official expressed concern about any U.S. war effort that might go beyond liberating Kuwait.

The Persian Gulf war was the topic of a presidential address to religious broadcasters. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Bush would make the case that this is "a just war."

Fitzwater said Bush would use the speech to assure the Iraqi people that "we do not want to destabilize Iraq and we don't want to win this conflict in a way that some other country might ... intervene or take it over."

But he said that after 10 days of bombing, "it's clear there is a lot of destruction taking place."

The Washington Post reported today that significant portions of Iraq's war machine have survived the 10-day air assault. The newspaper quoted unidentified government sources as saying that U.S. bomb damage assessments can confirm hits on only eight of Iraq's 30 fixed Scud missile launchers, while there is no photographic evidence of the destruction of any mobile launchers.

The newspaper also said that nearly all of Iraq's air defense radar was destroyed the first week of the war but that about 20 percent was now back in operation.

A Pentagon source, who declined to be identified, refused to comment on the specifics of the Post story, but said the military would be "astounded" if Iraq had not put efforts into rebuilding facilities. He said these efforts are an "enormous drain" on Iraqi war energies.

Also on Bush's agenda today was a meeting with the new Soviet foreign minister, Alexander A. Bessmertnykh to discuss whether next month's superpower summit in Moscow will be delayed.

Bessmertnykh, who met for two hours Saturday with Secretary of State James A. Baker III, had voiced reservations over the extent of U.S. bombing of Iraq.

Vitaly Churkin, the Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman, in an interview on ABC's "Good Morning America," said any goal beyond liberating Kuwait "will entail much more destruction and many more victims among civilians and among the soldiers. So, what we are saying is let us stick to the original goal of the United Nations."

The Pentagon official said the allies are now able to "inflict damage with relative impunity" and that the Iraqis now lack centralized control.

He said the Iraqis on the ground are using ammunition "at a delightfully rapid rate" and time is on the coalition's side. "Over time we are going to wear them to their knees," he said.

Backlog keeps U.S. military supplied with a job boom

By The Associated Press

Some military supply plants are keeping workers overtime turning out spare parts and stepping up production of hot items like the Patriot missile. But for most defense companies, the Persian Gulf war has not produced booming business or jobs.

Generally, planes, tanks and even guns take so long to order and build that the United States is fighting with its inventory of weapons designed during the Cold War. But some contractors say they have seen a big increase in workers' productivity.

"I think our employees know these weapons are going to the allied forces and we're proud of what they're doing," said Greg Black, director of human resources at Saco Defense Inc., in Saco, Maine, a manufacturer of guns and grenade launchers.

The 38 employees of Greene Metal Products Inc. near Mount Clemens, Mich., are averaging 70 hours a week making seats and other spare parts for military vehicles such as tanks, spokesman Bruce Wilden said. The company was busy before the war, and the overtime reflects a new deadline for existing orders.

Raytheon, in Andover, Mass.,

added about 200 people, and a Martin Marietta division in Orlando, Fla., has been working double shifts to produce the war's first star weapon, the Patriot missiles that have shot down Iraqi Scuds. The United States has supplied Patriots to Israel, and approved sales to Saudi Arabia since war began.

Troops watch Super Bowl

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf got a brief break from war today, huddling in ship galleys and base game rooms to watch the Super Bowl — pretzels in one hand and non-alcoholic beer in the other.

There wasn't even the almost nightly Iraqi Scud attack to disturb the championship football between the New York Giants and Buffalo Bills.

At an airbase in eastern Saudi Arabia, 60 soldiers stood in near-freezing cold watching the game; others gathered by TVs in a munitions depot and a field hospital.

Around the gulf region, many of the half-million American troops watched and listened to the game that some back home wanted to cancel because of the 11-day-old air war with Iraq. But most were grateful for the distraction.

"It feels weird to be watching this here," said Sgt. Kevin Duclos, 26, a Bills fan from Rochester, N.Y. "I thought I'd be home having chicken wings and real beer."

Demonstrations continue for the troops, against the war

By The Associated Press

Voices rang out in support of warriors — and peace — from bleachers at the Super Bowl, outside the White House and on a Nevada highway, where students tied a yellow ribbon 23 miles long.

War-related fears took no holiday during Sunday's football championship, watched by an estimated 118 million people. Fans endured tight anti-terrorism security as they made their way into the Tampa, Fla., stadium where New York Giants wound up beating the Buffalo Bills 20-19.

"All right! Go America! Go Giants!" shouted Debbie Allen, a 24-year-old New Yorker with ticket in one hand and American flag in the other, as a security guard ran a metal detector over her.

In Lafayette Park across from the White House, a few dozen anti-war demonstrators kept vigil Sunday, banging drums and cans. A few backers of President Bush also were there, including a teen-age girl with a "Storm On" poster.

On Saturday, a crowd that police estimated at 75,000 and organizers at 200,000 marched around the White House. San Francisco police estimated 30,000 people poured into the city's Civic Center plaza Saturday; organizers estimated the crowd at 225,000.

Eight thousand people came out for a demonstration in Jacksonville, Fla., supporting the troops. An estimated 3,500 people attended a similar rally in St. Paul, Minn.

Son killed in military accident

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The mother of a Marine killed in a weekend collision of two armored vehicles in Saudi Arabia said she had just mailed her son homemade Valentine's Day cards and goodies.

Marine Lance Cpl. Arthur O. Garza, 20, of Kingsville, who had been deployed in the Persian Gulf area since August, was killed Saturday. Two other Marines were killed and seven others injured in the collision.

Military officials said the accident was related to an operation in northeastern Saudi Arabia, where Marines were firing an artillery barrage at Iraqi positions six miles inside occupied Kuwait.

Garza's mother, Mary Helen Garza, said she knew the worst news possible was coming late Saturday afternoon when a Marine drove up to her home in Kingsville.

"It's hit us pretty hard," she said. "We were always praying for everybody over there to come home."

Pilot says he was fired for refusing to fly near Kuwait

HOUSTON (AP) — A U.S. pilot who flew helicopters for Saudi Arabian Oil Co. says he was fired after he refused to fly to a coastal Kuwaiti city near the Iraqi border.

"The employees still, as always, are expected to be at their jobs unless they have vacation time or have made other arrangements," said Rob Arndt, spokesman for Houston-based Aramco Services Co., the U.S. subsidiary of Saudi Aramco.

But Jerry Sunley, 46, of Houston, said the company is exploiting the work force.

Sunley said he was dismissed Saturday by Saudi Aramco.

"My supervisor told me I was being fired for failure to obey a legitimate order," he told the Houston Chronicle from Ras Tanura, Saudi Arabia. "At the least, I am very upset. I think they're exploiting the work force right now to continue getting oil."

Last week, Aramco employees employed by Aramco in Saudi Arabia complained the company had not provided any airlifts since a flight in August of 1,500 dependents.

As an Aramco pilot, Sunley said he flew people and equipment to oil rig platforms near several cities, including Tanaqib, which he described as 35 miles south of the Kuwait border.

Last Monday, he said, he was ordered to fly to the coastal city to stand by, ostensibly in case of a medical emergency on a platform. Sunley refused.

He said military authorities had grounded civilian flights.

Arndt said he was not aware of the firing. He said Sunley could apply for another job with Aramco, but that most of the company's pilots work in Saudi Arabia.

Sunley, who lived in Houston for 10 years, recently sent his wife and two sons out of Saudi Arabia to Missouri.

He said he was told Aramco would pay for his ticket out of Saudi Arabia.

Combat med training stepped up

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Army has increased its combat medic training from five to seven days a week at Fort Sam Houston as ground troops in Saudi Arabia prepare for a land battle with Iraqi troops.

Col. John Mullins, who runs the Joint Readiness Training Command at Fort Sam Houston, said medics are being trained to treat every type of wound and injury, including chemical burns. Troops wounded in Operation Desert Storm would be treated first by a medic or combat lifesaver, Mullins said.

If the wound is serious, the victim is moved by hand-carried litter or by truck to the next echelon, which the Army calls the battalion aid station. Or, the soldier is moved to a beachhead evacuation station in the case of the Marines.

These aid centers are highly mobile and usually are established a mile or so from combat, Mullins said.

At this level, there will be a doctor or a physician's assistant. The goal is to keep the patient alive for transport to a higher level of care, first to a division aid station and then to a hospital, where critical lifesaving surgery could be performed.

Modern war is so lethal that advances in medical care during the past 25 years will have little effect on the odds of survival for U.S. troops who may be wounded in ground combat, experts say.

Studies of 8,000 casualties in the Vietnam War show death in ground combat generally was so quick that even if there were a hospital next to every foxhole, there was little that medical science could have done to save lives, said Col. Ron Bellamy, of the Joint Readiness Command at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, D.C.

Gulf War Roundup

OIL SABOTAGE: Iraq turns on the pumps at a Kuwaiti oil terminal and unleashes crude into the Persian Gulf at a rate of millions of gallons a day. The spill threatens to cause more damage to the environment than that caused by the 1999 Exxon Valdez disaster off Alaska's shores.

Source of spill: A map shows the spill's location near Kuwait City, with a scale of 25 miles and 25 km.

SCUD ATTACKS: In Israel, several Scuds evade Patriot defense screen and hit Tel Aviv and Haifa. Casualties are reported in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, there are Scud attacks and Patriots are fired in defense. A government source says:

WEATHER CONDITIONS: Under clear skies, the allies persist in relentless bombing of targets in Iraq and Kuwait.

POWs: Allies say condition of Iraqis held captive, many lice-ridden and hungry, indicate bombing raids are succeeding in cutting off supplies to Iraqi bases.
