In Brief

Kerr on trial

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Prosecution witness Mitchell Rider told a federal jury Wednesday that 42-year-old television actor Jay Kerr was his California cocaine connection during 1987 and 1988.

Kerr, a native of Del Rio, Texas, is on trial before U.S. District Judge Jack Shanstrom on nine federal drug counts.

Kerr starred as the quarterback last season in HBO's "1st and 10" series.

The charges against him include one of conspiracy and eight of possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

Felons paroled

DALLAS (AP) — More than 600 felons have been paroled in special hearings in the past month as the Texas prison population edges toward a court-imposed limit, according to a published report today.

The Dallas Times Herald reported in a copyright story that special hearings were conducted twice in the past month for hundreds of inmates, resulting in parole approval for more than two-thirds of those considered.

"This is not really designed to just open the floodgates and let out people who don't deserve to be out," said James Granberry, parole board chairman, noting most of the inmates would have been considered in two to six months.

Program puts inmates to work

Orange-clad inmates can be seen working at public facilities as part of a Scurry County sheriff's office alternative sentencing program.

The program is supervised by sheriff's deputy Joe Cheyne, whose salary is funded through a state grant, and offers an alternative to sending inmates to the already over-crowded Texas prison system.

Through the program, inmates are allowed to work on any public property. Among the facilities receiving attention are Noah Project, county community centers and Towle Park Pool.

Currently, four people are in the program — designed for non-violent offenders — but Cheyne notes they have room for 10-15 inmates.

Inmates are transported to work sites in the county's old bookmobile and are constantly supervised by Cheyne. The bookmobile was refurbished by the inmates.

The project was approved in October with its first inmate introduced into the program in November. The sheriff's office has already applied for a grant to continue the program next year.

As overcrowded prisons plague the state, alternative sentencing programs are becoming more important, officials have said.

The county can house prisoners cheaper than the state, noted Cheyne, who also said the county is benefited through the program, believed to be one of the first of its kind in the state.

Because of the decline in oil revenues and a lack of private contribution, public facilities impacted by budget crunches couldn't otherwise get the attention they need.

"I think it is a good program," said Cheyne.

Those involved in the program are required to spend four hours a week in GED preparatory classes and weekly drug and alcohol abuse counseling.

Gen. Powell reappointed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush said today he was reappointing Gen. Colin Powell to a second term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. "He's been at the forefront of planning for this critical restructuring" of the military, Bush said.

Bush praised Powell for his advice and leadership during the invasion of Panama, the restructuring of the U.S. military and the war against Iraq.

"He has done a fantastic job," Bush told reporters in the Rose Garden, with Powell and Defense Secretary Dick Cheney at his side. "The military advice he provided to me under pressure ... was absolutely remarkable."

"I of course accept it gladly," Powell told Bush at a Rose Garden ceremony. He brushed aside suggestions he opposed committing American armed forces to combat in the Persian Gulf.

The reappointment was not a surprise, but came several weeks after a book was published which said that Powell had opposed the move toward war in the Gulf and preferred a policy that emphasized a non-military approach toward ousting Iraq from Kuwait. Bush praised Powell's role and his advice, saying of Powell, "He spoke his mind. He did it openly."

"He gave me sound advice, straightforward advice," Bush said. "... I just want to be on the record — he speaks his mind, he did it openly."

"He told me the risks, he told me what was at stake in terms of human lives," Bush said he was angered with "revisionist" accounts that suggested he and Powell disagreed on the administration's Gulf policy.

"He did what any general officer should do," Bush said. Powell is 54.

Abortion counseling ban upheld At federally subsidized clinics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld a government ban on abortion counseling at some 4,000 federally subsidized family planning clinics nationwide.

The 5-4 decision said the ban, contained in regulations issued by the Reagan administration in 1988, does not violate free-speech rights or women's right to end their pregnancies.

The family planning program, enacted in 1970 by Congress as Title X of the Public Health Service Act, funds clinics serving over 4 million low-income women each year.

The clinics always have been banned from using federal money to perform abortions, but until 1988 regulations let clinic staffs tell women about their abortion option and make referrals.

After those regulations drew criticism from anti-abortion groups, the Reagan administration said the clinics may not "encourage, promote or advocate abortion" or distribute written materials on abortion.

Under the 1988 regulations, a woman who visited a federally funded clinic and asked about abortion would have to be told that the clinic staff "does not consider abortion an appropriate method of family planning."

Court challenges had kept the regulations and the abortion-counseling ban from being enforced virtually everywhere. Now, the regulations can be enforced.

Writing for the court, Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist said, "In these circumstances, the general rule that the government may choose not to subsidize speech applies with full force."

He was joined by Justices Byron R. White, Anthony M. Kennedy, Antonin Scalia and David H. Souter.

Souter, who joined the court in October, had been considered a key vote.

Justices Sandra Day O'Connor, Thurgood Marshall, Harry A. Blackmun and John Paul Stevens dissented.

Today's decision in no way altered the court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision, which legalized abortion.

In more recent decisions, four justices have criticized that ruling and the court in 1989 gave

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "For peace and tranquility, invest in a phone-less cord."

Both state and local officials have been wrestling with the problems of maintaining "necessary services" in the face of declining tax revenues.

The problem, although it provides little consolation, is not confined to the once oil-rich Lone Star State. Available public dollars are drying up across the nation.

Just 40 miles out of Washington, D.C., Loudoun County, Va., became a boom town in the 1980s.

Prior to the boom, the county was primarily known for its historic Civil War battlegrounds and home of the little-used Dulles International Airport.

On the fringe of the nation's capital, Leesburg boomed with sky-rocketing real estate values fueled by speculation and development. Tax values jumped from $1.6 billion to $12.6 billion.

Even with a 25 percent drop in tax rates, the community found itself trying to figure out ways to spend its windfall. It established day care centers for two-career couples, built its first public swimming pool, offered counseling for crime victims and started a roommate matching service.

County supervisors went to mountain resorts for planning retreats and bought the biggest and best computers. It also started and funded group homes for the mentally retarded.

It was all fine and good... until the bubble burst. Real estate values have started to drop, and community leaders are trying to figure out how to maintain "necessary services," in the face of sharply declining available public funds.

The scenario sounds familiar. The problems are easy to identify, but solutions are much more difficult.

'Puff' plans nixed at local boy's club

The on-again, off-again, Powder Puff activities annually conducted by Snyder High School seniors are off again.

In a written news release, Scurry County Boy's Club board members reversed an earlier decision to allow the events to be held at the club, citing insurance as the reason.

Powder Puff events — a pep rally, volleyball game and flag football game — were originally scheduled for Friday at the high school gym and Tiger Stadium. However, school administrators announced Tuesday they were canceling the events in response to a student-designated "senior skip day" Monday in which 106 of 165 seniors enrolled were absent from school.

Tuesday, students gained permission from Jack McGlaun, club executive director, to use the Boy's Club, and renamed the event the "Snyder Senior Freedom Bowl."

The news release, formulated by board members Wednesday evening, states that the original decision to allow Powder Puff events at the club was because it was to be a fundraising event for the club.

The release, "to citizens of Snyder and Scurry County," states, "We, the board of directors of the Scurry County Boy's states greater leeway to make abortions more difficult to obtain.

In a series of decisions, the court had made it clear that federal, state and local governments are under no legal obligation to help pay for abortions sought by women receiving public assistance or other poor women.

But Blackmun, writing a dissent for himself, Marshall and Stevens, said, "Until today, the court never has upheld viewpoint-based suppression of speech simply because that suppression was a condition upon the acceptance of public funds."

Club, wish to clarify our position on the recent decision of our executive director to allow the seniors of Snyder High School to have their "Powder Puff" football and volleyball games at the Boy's Club.

"This decision was made solely on the grounds that it was to be a fund raising event, by the senior class, to benefit the Boy's Club, and in no way was it meant to be in defiance of the decision made by the school administration concerning the recent action of members of the senior class.

"The Boy's Club, board and employees have always cooperated with the Snyder school system in all programs and athletic events offered by the club.

"Our reason for changing the decision to allow these events to take place at the club is based primarily on the fact that our insurance does not cover activities by any group that uses our facilities without a sponsoring organization behind them.

"We again wish to state that the original decision was made strictly on the fact that it was to be a fund raising event for the Boy's Club."

The news release bears the names of McGlaun, board president James Vincent and vice president Mike Trull.

Dr. Gott By Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D. something in your column about bleeding hemorrhoids
DEAR DR. GOTT Please write DEAR READER The anus and lower rectum contain a network of veins that commonly become irritated and swollen, leading to what most people call hemorrhoids or "piles." These enlarged veins are usually present at the anus (external hemorrhoids) or inside the rectum (internal hemorrhoids). The cause of the swelling is not known, although certain factors, such as constipation, diarrhea and prolonged sitting on hard, cold surfaces, play an obvious role.

Early internal hemorrhoids produce no symptoms. By contrast, external hemorrhoids may be painful or itchy, a large blue lump (the enlarged vein) is visible or can be felt. Early hemorrhoids usually disappear without treatment.

If the temporary swelling does not resolve, the hemorrhoids often grow larger and become thrombosed, meaning that the blood in them clots. This usually leads to more severe pain. Thrombosed hemorrhoids are treated with rectal suppositories (to facilitate evacuation and aid healing) or Sitz baths (sitting in about six inches of hot water).

Eventually, the hemorrhoids disappear, leaving a small pink nubbin of skin, called a hemorrhoidal tag. On occasion, because of severe discomfort, patients with thrombosed hemorrhoids require surgery to remove the clot.

If the hemorrhoids grow large enough or become very inflamed, they may bleed. This bleeding is bright red, usually painless and is typically present on the toilet tissue after a bowel movement. Sometimes the bleeding can be quite brisk and may occur between bowel movements. Again, the treatment is usually suppositories and Sitz baths. Hemorrhoids that bleed profusely or persistently may require surgery.

Obviously, rectal bleeding is always cause for concern because it can occur from afflictions, such as tumors, other than hemorrhoids. Therefore, doctors usually must investigate the condition by examining the anus and rectum (anoscopy) for the cause. If the bleeding comes from a hemorrhoid, the physician may attempt to cauterize the vein to stop the bleeding.

Bleeding hemorrhoids do not, in most cases, present a health problem but they always deserve examination and appropriate treatment.

Because rectal bleeding can be caused by diverticulitis, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Diverticular Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Rebel flag no longer school symbol

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The removal of the Confederate flag as a high school symbol has unleashed angry protests by parents and students.

Robert E. Lee High School Principal Bill Fish told the 2,000 student body Tuesday that the flag would not be used next year. By Wednesday, about 150 parents and students opposed to the decision rallied outside the school in protest.

"Some minority students aren't comfortable with the Confederate flag on their uniform and opted out of sports and other activities because of it," Fish

Genealogy program

Joy Early presided over the Stargazers Extension Homemakers Club meeting held recently. Members answered roll call with "What I do for a memorial following the death of a loved one."

Early read the thought for the day, "Don't be one of the vanishing Americans--Drive Carefully," and the hint, "Warning Signal--Keep two-pound coffee cans filled with sand reflector tape around them for car trouble warning signals at night."

Early and Pauline Withers gave a report of their trip to Ben Richie Boys Ranch at Abilene.

Evelyn Shifflett and Ruby Gregory presented the program on genealogy. They advised members to "read before you leap." They suggested reading at least one book on basic genealogy, and learn about history, and geography of the area interested in, and to begin with oneself.

It is important, they said, to keep all old records concerning schools, churches, marriages, deaths, old letters, pictures and names. They named the WTC library, the county library, universities and special libraries to find help in researching.

Ruby Gregory received the hostess gift and Pauline Broyles served the meal.

possible contract, try to find a play that gives an opponent a guess — he may get it wrong. Remember, he presumably cannot see your cards.

Today's deal occurred during the Open Pairs in Atlantic City. The bidding is typical of a pairs event when both sides have a fit. Everyone continues bidding to at least the four-level.

In bidding three no-trump, South hoped that no-trump would produce the same number of tricks as hearts, in which case he would score more points. On a spade lead, he would have been right, but not if West found an inspired diamond start.

However, when East proceeded to bid out his two-suiter, South competed in hearts to the five-level. He won the spade lead with his ace and cashed the ace of hearts, West dropping the nine and East the jack.

Reading the position perfectly, declarer realized West had dropped the nine as the start of an echo to show three trumps. With no noticeable pause, South led the 10 of hearts to trick three. (Would you have even thought of that play?)

Time stood still. Eventually West decided his partner must have started with K-J doubleton in hearts, so he played his five. The 10 of hearts won. Declarer cashed the king of hearts, drove out the ace of clubs and won 12 tricks. Plus 480 was, of course, a top score.

Screening tests slated in area

Early childhood screening tests for three, four and five-year-olds will be conducted in Ira, Hermleigh, Westbrook and Colorado City during the first week of June.

The screening will include developmental pre-school tests, vision, speech and hearing tests to be given by the supportive staff and speech pathologists of the West Central Texas Education Cooperative.

Anyone who has a child which may need this screening should call the appropriate school to schedule an appointment on the following days: Hermleigh, June 3 (863-2451); Ira, June 4 (573-2628); Westbrook, June 5, (644-2311); Colorado City, June 6-7 (728-3471).

Substitute Teachers Are Easy Targets for Abuse

DEAR ABBY: Now that you have come to the defense of school bus drivers who complained that, like Rodney Dangerfield, they get no respect, how about doing the same for substitute teachers, who also get no respect?
We are expected to maintain order and promote learning in a different classroom every day with different kids who are accustomed to different rules.
But the hardest part of our job is the abuse we have to take from some of the students.
Most kids figure that a substitute teacher is fair game, so they push us as far as they can to see how much they can get away with. If we get fed up with rotten behavior and send the troublemakers to the principal's office, we're considered incompetent because we can't control the kids.
When it comes to getting no respect, a substitute teacher takes first prize.

MOVING TARGET

DEAR TARGET: Obviously, times haven't changed much in the last half-century. When a substitute teacher shows up, there will always be kids who will try to see how much they can get away with.
However, the most competent teachers — and the ones we remember best — are those who demand the best from their students and put up with no nonsense.

DEAR ABBY: I go to a small restaurant and order dinner for two. No drinks or dessert. The check is around $20 and the tip, $3.

The next time I visited the same restaurant, the dinner check was $30 (they had raised their prices), so why should the tip be more, just because I spent more on food? There was no more work involved.

BRUCE IN TEWKSBURY, MASS.

DEAR BRUCE: Because the tip is usually figured as a percentage of the cost of the meal — and the bigger the bill, the larger the tip.

DEAR ABBY: I come from a family of seven children — three boys and four girls. Our parents value education highly and have encouraged all of us to go to college. Two are still in college, two have dropped out, and three have graduated.

Mom has one wall of our house for pictures of her "college graduates." She thinks it will encourage the other children to finish college and get "on the wall." Instead, it is causing division in the family, since the drop-outs are busy working and raising children, and they're not likely to get "on the wall." Also, the sister who graduated from a two-year college doesn't qualify for "wall status."

This leaves me and my sister who are against being "honored" this way. Mom has insisted that we have our pictures taken professionally for the wall. What should we tell Mom?

AGAINST THE WALL

DEAR AGAINST: Hand Mom this column, and you won't have to tell her anything.

By popular request, Abby shares more of her favorite prize-winning, easy-to-prepare recipes. To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: More Favorite Recipes by Dear Abby, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. SO files reports Reports of theft and criminal mischief were worked by Scurry County sheriff's office Wednesday.

At 8:42 a.m., Cindy Davis of Royal Trailer Park reported criminal mischief done to the office and laundry room at the park.

A Hermleigh resident advised of a theft from her home. Lorena Burleson reported at 2:30 p.m. that some lumber had been taken from her residence.

By the middle of the next century, it is estimated, a quarter of the world's 250,000 plant species may vanish, victims of a variety of human activities, says National Geographic.

Texas House...

King holiday tentatively ok'd

AUSTIN (AP) — Passage of a bill to honor slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. with a full state holiday can only boost Texas in the eyes of the country, the measure's sponsor said.
"It'll send a message throughout the nation that we in fact are a very compassionate people in Texas, that we are multicultural, and that we recognize that peaceful means of changing the system are in fact a valid way to do it," said Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston.

The Texas House on Wednesday tentatively approved the bill to designate Martin Luther King Jr. Day a full state holiday, to be celebrated the third Monday in January.
Wilson's bill also would delete Columbus Day, the second Monday in October, from the list of state holidays. Columbus Day has not been funded as an official holiday for several years by state budget writers, Wilson said.
An amendment to the bill provided that Columbus Day still would be observed with "appropriate ceremonies throughout the state" to honor Christopher Columbus. But state workers would not be paid to take the day off.

(House) members voted for it because they thought it was the right thing to do, regardless of the Super Bowl."

Participant in prison seige executed today

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Convicted killer Ignacio Cuevas was executed early today in the same Texas prison where he and two other inmates held hostages for 11 days in 1974 in the nation's longest prison siege.

Cuevas was the lone prisoner to survive a shootout that left two hostages dead, including a prison librarian and a teacher.

Cuevas, 59, had only a few final words before lethal drugs began flowing through needles inserted in his arms.

"Beautiful faces," he said in English, then switched to Spanish, adding, "I'm going to a beautiful place."

Then he turned his head toward Jack Pursley, the prison warden, and said: "OK, warden, roll 'em."

He was pronounced dead at 12:18 a.m., about 5 minutes after the lethal drugs began.

His execution came after three capital murder trials that cost the state more than $500,000 and last-day appeals that were rejected Wednesday by state and federal courts. His first two convictions were overturned on appeal.

The U.S. Supreme Court, by an 8-1 vote, rejected a final appeal about an hour before Cuevas was put to death.

"I think everybody who has any sense of justice at all is discouraged at how long it takes to execute a man who had been convicted twice," said W.J. Estelle, who was director of the Texas prison system at the time of the siege at the Walls Unit in downtown Huntsville.

Judge: gay man can't become scoutmaster

IRVING, Texas (AP) — A spokesman for the Boy Scouts of America cheered the ruling of a California judge who refused to force the organization to accept a homosexual as a scoutmaster.

The ruling is a victory for the organization's efforts to promote "traditional family values," BSA spokesman Blake Lewis of Dallas said.

Lewis said homosexuality "does not provide an appropriate role model" for Scouts.

"The values of scouting are really what the program is all about, and it's really important in our way of thinking that the traditional values that over 4.3 million young people and 1.1 million adults have signed on for be protected."

Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Sally G. Disco ruled Tuesday that the U.S. Constitution protects the Boy Scouts' right, as a private organization, to tell members that homosexuality is wrong, regardless of whether the view is correct.

A San Francisco Bay area Boy Scouts group rejected Timothy Curran's application to be a Scoutmaster in 1981 because he is gay.

Curran, a Los Angeles TV videotape editor and former Eagle Scout, and Jon Davidson, a lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union in Los Angeles, said they would appeal the ruling.

"The judge is incorrect in saying that a significant part of the mission of the Boy Scouts of America is to be anti-gay," Davidson said.

"There is no support in any of the literature of the Boy Scouts that they (organization leaders) try to convince boys that homosexuality is immoral. In fact, their literature says the issue of sexuality is to be decided within the family."

Warning label is sought for anti-depressant

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer group asked the government today to require a warning on labels for the drug Prozac stating that the nation's most popular antidepressant may cause intense and violent suicidal impulses in some patients.

Public Citizen, in a petition to the Food and Drug Administration, said there is growing evidence that Prozac "may induce suicidal preoccupation, agitation and impulsivity in a minority of patients."

It said that while the link between Prozac and suicidal impulses has not been proven, several studies suggesting a possible connection have been reported in respected medical journals.

Some doctors already warn their patients of the risk and instruct them to call in if they have a problem, the petition said.

"It is important that physicians and patients know that impulsive, obsessive, self-injurious thoughts and behavior have been reported in some patients after starting treatment with Prozac," said Dr. Sidney Wolfe, director of Public Citizen's Health Research Group.

Prozac, the trade name for the drug fluoxetine, is manufactured by Eli Lilly and Co. of Indianapolis. It was approved for the treatment of depression by the FDA in December 1987 and has been prescribed for more than 3.5 million patients, making it the most widely used antidepressant.

Although not officially approved by FDA for other purposes, Prozac also has been widely prescribed for conditions including obesity and obsessive-compulsive disorder.

Lilly spokesman Edward West said the consumer group's petition was "utterly without merit."

"The approved labeling for Prozac is consistent with current medical and scientific information," West said. "No additional warnings are needed. There just is simply no credible evidence in the medical literature that Prozac causes increased suicidal thinking or suicidal actions."

FDA spokeswoman Eva Kemper said the agency could not comment on the petition until it had been reviewed.

The agency has stated in the past that "there appears to be no basis to conclude that the use of Prozac is associated with any unreasonable or unexpected risk."
