In Brief

Delayed again

AUSTIN (AP) — A state district judge today again postponed a pre-trial hearing in House Speaker Gib Lewis' criminal ethics case, rescheduling it for Sept. 24.

Judge Bob Perkins delayed legal proceedings involving Lewis, D-Fort Worth, because the Legislature is scheduled to meet in special session beginning July 15 to write a state budget.

Postal rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service took a step toward another price increase today, concluding that the rates adopted in February are too low and asking the independent rate commission to reconsider those charges.

The Board of Governors of the postal service voted unanimously to reject the new rates, including a 29-cent first class stamp, though those prices will remain in effect.

The step is a formality in returning the case to the independent Postal Rate Commission, which surprised the agency earlier this year by adopting the 29-cent rate rather than the 30-cent price the post office had sought.

Council endorses enterprize zone; passes resolutions

Following weeks of special meetings and the formation of an advisory committee, Snyder City Council gave its endorsement of an enterprize zone and voted unanimously to designate the zone within the city.

The vote came during the council's July meeting Monday night at City Hall in which two resolutions were passed, bids were accepted, a delegate to a committee was chosen and tax exemption was given to a local charity.

Council member and chairman of the city's enterprize zone committee, Jackie Greene, and other committee members recommended the city designate an enterprize zone. In a statement prepared by the committee, members explained that a zone was not a "quick fix" for the community's economic problems and that local retail and "mom and pop" businesses would not directly benefit from the zone. It was stressed that the zone would be geared toward encouraging high tech and manufacturing business.

The committee is not recommending local incentives, such as tax abatement, at this time. City Manager John Gayle said the application for a zone designation would take approximately 80 hours and part-time help could be hired to complete the application.

Also approved by the council were two resolutions, one that will eventually raise local water rates. The resolution was in support of constructing a 155-mile long water line from O.H. Ivie Reservoir by the Colorado River Municipal Water District, of which Snyder is a member.

An increase of 4.25 cents per 1,000 gallons in 1993 and an 8.75-cent increase in 1994 has been proposed to help finance the $113 million the water pipeline is expected to cost. According to CRMWD officials, the project is expected to be completed by January of 1995.

Mayor Troy Williamson noted that other CRMWD member cities have endorsed the financing of the pipeline.

The other resolution concerned the closing of the 1700 block of 3rd St. in the J.B. Chambers addition.

Other business by the council included forgiving 1988 taxes of Snyder Neighbors Sharing, choosing Ted Crenwelge to serve on the county Resource Conservation and Development com-

County hears audit in afternoon session

Scurry County commissioners set an insurance deductible, approved an accompanying plan, cancelled a closed session to discuss personnel and heard the county's outside audit during an afternoon continuation of their Monday morning meeting.

Because of an error in the official budget filed in the county clerk's office, the audit showed that the county was almost $2 million dollars short in collecting the projected $4.2 million in taxes. However county officials explained the projected tax revenue should have read just over $2 million, the figure collected.

County officials said the mistake was made when the budget was being prepared for filing in the clerk's office and the smaller figure was the one used when making budget preparation. The mistake did not affect the budget except to give a distorted view of a revenue shortfall in the general fund, according to officials.

Decision to buy computer system reversed by board

Scurry County Appraisal District board of directors voted this morning to reverse its earlier decision to purchase a new computer system with the city.

Chief Appraiser L.R. Peveler told board members during the 8 a.m. meeting that because of the addition of more computer capacity, a new system to accommodate the district and the county educational district was not needed.

The additional computer space has come as a result of County Tax Assessor/Collector Rona Sikes pulling off the system used by the city and appraisal district. According to Peveler, Sikes has said she will now be leasing equipment from a company.

Sikes' decision to leave the system came after she protested Peveler's request for the AS/400 system and urged the appraisal board not to approve the purchase. Sikes cited bad timing and Peveler's neglect in telling her of his intentions as reasons for not approving of the purchase.

In a special meeting last month, the board did approve the $63,000 purchase with stipulations that the city also approve the purchase and fund one-half of the system's cost and that the CED be declared constitutional by a Travis County district judge.

It is now unclear what the city will do since its approval of the system — also last month — hinged on the appraisal's district decision to go ahead with the purchase. The city could act on the developments during its July 15 meeting.

Two indicted for attempted murder here

Two men arrested last month on attempted murder charges were among six indicted Monday by a Scurry County grand jury.

Thirty-six-year-old Richard Rios of Route 3 and 28-year-old Ulisello Usevio Delao of 1010 North College were both indicted on attempted murder charges for the June 2 beating of Joe Martinez. Both remain in Scurry County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond each.

Rios was arrested at 3:40 p.m. June 21 and Delao was arrested just after midnight on June 22. The altercation between the three men was reported about 9 p.m. Sunday, June 2, in the 2000 block of Ave. L. When officers arrived, Martinez was beaten with a baseball bat — refused medical treatment but was later taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital and transferred to University Medical Center in Lubbock at 1 a.m. June 3.

Also indicted was Ignacio Chava in, 18, of 1001 28th St. for the June 12 burglary of a vehicle belonging to Florence Adams. Bond was set at $5,000.

Other indictments were for driving while intoxicated. Indicted were Rudolph Velasquez, 32, of Rt. 1 Natalia, Texas, for a June 22 offense; Eddie Gutierrez, 23, of Post Rd. Box 30 for a June 16 offense; and Andres Hermosillo, 29, of 2201 Ave. M for a June 21 offense. Bond was set at $2,000 each.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Most people take vacations to forget things, and often it's a toothbrush."

Small businesses are vital to the economic well-being of any community — regardless of size. Just to underscore the importance, revised figures from the Texas Department of Commerce are quite revealing.

A new factory employing just 100 workers will mean:
-202 more people in the community.
-102 more families.
-61 more school children.
-seven more retail establishments.
-$1.9 million more personal income per year.
-$1.7 million more in retail sales each year.
-64 more people employed in non-manufacturing fields.

In our economic climate, it's in every citizen's and taxpayer's best interest to help maintain viable business firms in Snyder.

It's a matter of both loyalty — and economics.

One thing we like about a small town is nobody has ever made fun of our favorite suit.

In fact, we've even had a few compliments on it. We like it so well that we often choose to wear it to the big city.

We were disappointed to learn that an informal poll says brown suits as business attire is considered tacky.

For those concerned about the proper executive wardrobe, brown is said to be unprofessional.

No matter what the business fashion experts say, we're gonna wear our brown suit until either the seat of the pants becomes shiny or the waist shrinks — whichever comes first.

TCA-MTV take war to judge

DALLAS (AP) — After pulling the plug on MTV, an East Texas-based cable service is trying to stop the owners of the music video network from yanking two other programs in retaliation by filing a restraining order.

TCA Cable Management Co. of Tyler has accused Viacom International Inc., which owns MTV, of overpricing its other channels to get back at TCA for striking the music video show from its standard basic package.

TCA, which includes among its subscribers Snyder and Hermleigh area residents, took MTV off the air June 30.

TCA had wanted to offer MTV to subscribers as an option instead of including it in the basic cable service package, however, Viacom refused.

The two companies have been at odds since TCA tried to renegotiate its MTV deal. State District Judge Bill Coats granted the restraining order Sunday.

According to TCA, Viacom has refused to remove MTV from the cable company's package. TCA is accusing Viacom of forcing the cable service to pay excessively high prices for Nickelodeon and VH-1, two other Viacom channels. The higher prices for the other two channels increased June 30, after TCA's contract with Viacom expired.

Nickelodeon features family-oriented programs while VH-1 is a music video channel that shows country, jazz and popular music videos.

"When we were unable to reach agreement on an MTV contract, Viacom raised its asking price for Nickelodeon and VH-1 out of sight," said Fred Nichols, president of TCA.

TCA charges that Viacom violated the Texas Free Enterprise and Antitrust Act by demanding that TCA sign a new contract with the higher prices. If TCA refused, it would be without the channels.

TCA and Viacom are trying to map out a contract before a July 8 hearing on a permanent injunction.

Hearing examiners' suggestions draw fire

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Utilities Electric Co., consumers, cities and the staff of the Public Utility Commission took aim at a $353.8 million recommended rate increase for the company.

Monday was the deadline for parties to file their objections to the 8.2 percent increase recommended by PUC administrative law judges. The three-member commission is to consider the case July 15.

Dallas-based TU Electric, which has requested a $442 million, 10.2 percent increase, said the recommendation is so low it would prevent the company from carrying on construction needs.

"Not only does the future of TU Electric hang in the balance, but so does the economic future of the 5 million people who rely upon TU Electric for their electric needs," the company said.

But 68 cities served by TU Electric, and the state advocate for utility ratepayers, said the proposal allows the company to recoup too much of the costs associated with the $11 billion Comanche Peak nuclear power plant near Glen Rose.

"There is a wide gulf between what the examiners have recommended and what we think is a fair level for the ratepayers to pay," said Carlos Higgins, deputy public counsel.

TU Electric filed the rate increase largely to recover costs related to operating Unit 1 of the two-unit nuclear plant.

Geoffrey Gay, lawyer for the cities, including Fort Worth and Arlington, and the Office of Public Utility Counsel proposed that about $5 billion be disallowed from rates.

They said that's how much was due to company imprudence, rather than the $1.49 billion recommended by the administrative law judges. They did not estimate what rates would be under their recommendation.

The public counsel and a church-based community action group in Fort Worth, Allied Communities of Tarrant, called the design of the rate proposal unfair to residential ratepayers.

ACT leader Rosa Miranda distributed a document at a news conference saying that although residential users consume 32 percent of Comanche Peak's electricity, TU Electric recommends they pay 42 percent of its cost. She said her group is willing to compromise at 37 percent.

TU Electric spokeswoman Kathi Miller said each customer class pays a fair share of their total cost of service. She did not give a figure just for Comanche Peak, saying rates are based on the overall cost of service.

Ms. Miller said residential customers account for nearly 42 percent of the peak demand, but pay just under 37 percent of the cost to produce that electricity.

PUC spokesman Guillermo Garcia said under the administrative law judges' recommendation, residential ratepayers would foot 39 percent of the total cost of producing electricity. He also did not have a specific figure for Comanche Peak.

Before even taking up the administrative law judges' recommendation on July 15, the PUC is to consider a petition by Public Counsel Luis Wilmot that the entire recommendation be thrown out. Wilmot charged that there was improper communication between PUC staff who testified in the case and the judges.

Hubble will cost much to repair

WASHINGTON (AP) — It will be four years late and cost an extra $20 million, but by early 1994 the Hubble Space Telescope should finally work the way it was supposed to.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is quietly moving to correct last year's great embarrassment: the discovery that a giant lens on the $1.5 billion telescope had been ground improperly, causing it to be nearsighted.

Although no formal announcement has been made, a NASA contractor is building corrective lenses that will be installed by spacewalking astronauts late in 1993 or, more likely, early in 1994. A replacement for the Hubble's jitter-causing solar arrays also is in the works.

"The new Hubble will do everything the original could ever do," Charles Pellerin, director of NASA's astrophysics division, said in a recent interview. It will have, he said, "a couple of very tiny shortfalls, but it will be able to fulfill 97 percent of its complete scientific promise."

Dear Abby

Mom Struggles With Sentence Of Silence While Dad's in Jail

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Do you believe that a child who is 6 1/2 years old should be told the truth, regardless of what it is?

Here is the situation: Dad is in jail for one year. Please understand, my husband didn't steal anything, nor did he commit a violent crime. However, he was found guilty of driving drunk — it was his third offense. If you think our son should be told the truth, how do you feel about my taking him to visit his father in jail? Or do you think it would be better to tell him that Daddy is away "on business" and he may be gone for quite a long time?

I can't describe the humiliation our family has endured. It was reported in the newspaper, but this is a large city and not everyone is aware of it.

WITHHOLD MY NAME, PLEASE

DEAR WITHHOLD: I think you should tell your son the truth, and tell him now, before someone else does. I also believe that you should take the boy to visit his father — for his sake as well as for his father's.

These are troubled times for your family. But it is not the end of the world. And this too shall pass.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this letter without my wife's knowledge. She wears makeup all day, and she never takes it off before going to bed. Instead, she washes her face in the morning, then applies her makeup for that day.

She has a very nice complexion, but I wonder if she is doing damage to her skin by sleeping in her makeup every night.

HER HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: I consulted Dr. Arnold Klein, top-notch Beverly Hills dermatologist, who said (much to my surprise), "Sleeping in makeup does no more damage to the skin than wearing makeup all day. Many women feel that in the interest of cleanliness they need to scrub their faces daily with the same vigor they would use in scrubbing their kitchen floor. And please, tell your readers that exposure to the sun without a sunscreen, plus the ordinary pollutants in the air, do far more damage to a woman's skin than cosmetics."

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the director of the Elder Health Program at the University of Maryland. She advised people to take responsibility for their own health care.

I work in a doctor's office, and you would be amazed at the number of people who call in for refills on their medicines and don't even know the names of them. They ask for "blood pressure pills," or "the little yellow ones." Granted, we have their medications recorded on their charts, but that won't help them if they're in an accident and unable to speak.

Everyone who takes medication, elderly and young alike, should write down the names and dosages on a piece of paper and keep it in their wallets. And every time the doctor changes the dosage or adds a new medication, the patient should make note of it on the paper he or she carries. Also write down any allergies on the same paper.

Help us health givers keep you healthy.

Videotaped murder draws 2 convictions

TYLER, Texas (AP) — Two half-brothers whose attack of an East Texas constable was recorded by his patrol car's video camera were convicted in the state's first test of the federal death penalty law.

A jury deliberated about two hours Monday before returning the guilty verdicts against Baldemar S. Villareal, 29, and Reynaldo Villareal, 24, both of Edinburg.

The Villareals were accused of stabbing and fatally shooting Nacogdoches County constable Darrell Lunsford during a Jan. 23 traffic stop in his hometown of Garrison, population 1,040, about 20 miles northeast of Nacogdoches.

Reynaldo Villareal had indicated Friday that he would testify in his own defense, but neither took the stand during the trial.

U.S. District Judge Robert Parker delayed the sentencing phase of the trial for one week. After it returns on July 8, the jury could recommend execution or life imprisonment without parole.

The most popular congress is held in Juan-les-Pins, on the Cote d'Azur. Players flock from all over Europe, and occasionally you see some strange sights. Once a sunburned Englishman was asked why he was so red. Wishing to demonstrate his knowledge of the local lingo, he replied, "Je suis rouge parce que le soleil est ruddy hot."

Back in 1954, Philadelphians Charles and Peggy Solomon battled for five days in the main pairs event. Charles was Life Master 16 and was World Bridge Federation president in 1964-68. Peggy is a top player with many national titles to her credit. They defended today's hand perfectly en route to their most praiseworthy second place.

The bidding comes from the days of four-card majors. Now most experts sitting South would prefer a take-out double (or pass) over one heart.

Declarer seemed destined to lose only two heart and three diamond tricks, but Charles found the killing defense. He won Peggy's heart lead with the king, cashed the heart ace and led a third heart. Declarer ruffed, crossed to dummy with a spade and called for a trump. Charles put up the ace and led his last heart, generating a fourth trump trick for the defense.

Your Birthday

July 2, 1991

An area where you have taken pains to gain special expertise looks like it will be a profitable one for you in the year ahead. What you know could put you out in front of the pack.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is a good day to take on assignments that challenge your imagination and creativity. You should be more than equal to the task of tackling a variety of endeavors, no matter how difficult. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may be able to profit in some manner both today and tomorrow from an undertaking originated by another. However, this opportunity may not wait around too long for you to get involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Exciting new developments in your social involvements are possible at this time. A new acquaintance will be the catalyst who ushers in the changes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be extremely conscious of putting forth your best effort over the next few days; your talents and capabilities will be more readily recognized than rewarded.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're in a good learning cycle for activities that require both mental and muscular attributes. Now is the time to take lessons to upgrade your golfing or tennis skills.

Project delayed by skirmishes

POST, Texas (AP) — A legal tug-of-war between two state agencies is delaying the efforts of an entrepreneur who wants to expand the uses and profitability of West Texas cotton.

The legal tug-of-war has delayed the sale of $25 million in state agricultural bonds needs to finance a $2 million loan that Paul Muncrief needs to begin operations of Cotton Unlimited.

Muncrief said Monday that he and his staff of 10 have been promised the loans that will be used for the firm to manufacture cotton insulation and oil-absorbing cotton pads.

The former Las Cruces, N.M., resident also has tested his cotton products for automobile manufacturers.

Michael Landon loses cancer battle

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Michael Landon lost a battle with cancer three months after he was diagnosed with the disease, saddening millions who knew him as Little Joe on "Bonanza" and an angel on "Highway to Heaven." He was 54.

Landon succumbed to liver and

pancreatic cancer Monday at his ranch, his wife, Cindy, at his side, said publicist Harry Flynn.

"I think he fought the fight about as well and courageously as it could be fought," said Brandon Tartikoff, former NBC entertainment president.

The boyishly handsome actor with a luxuriant mane he regarded as a Samsonian source of strength called NBC home for 28 years — 14 with "Bonanza," nine with "Little House on the Prairie" and five with "Highway to Heaven."

Karen Grassle, who played Landon's wife on "Little House," said he was blessed with a sense of humor and an ability to defuse trouble. "He believed in miracles," she said. "And in some ways, that" was his message, his legacy."

His determination to fight the disease drew admiration. Landon received more than 50,000 pieces of mail after announcing April 8 that he had been diagnosed with inoperable cancer. Liver and pancreas cancer is almost always fatal.

In his last TV appearance, on "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" on May 9, he exuded optimism and joked about his cancer treatments, which included coffee enemas and injections of drug-dispensing fat bubbles.

He asked the studio audience if anyone had ever taken a coffee enema and someone said yes. Landon replied, "You must be fun to have breakfast with."

Landon, who also wrote, produced and directed TV shows, said he favored non-violent, humanistic dramas that looked at life, death, family and calamity because he had a miserable childhood.

"It was filled with religious prejudice, a judgmental upbringing and lots of silence," he said a few years ago. "My parents went for weeks without speaking. I created family relationships where people stay together because they communicate."

Born Eugene Maurice Orowitz to show-business parents Eli Orowitz and Peggy O'Neill in New York City, he selected his stage name from a phone book.

Landon was a national champion javelin thrower in high school and set a record with a toss of 211 feet, seven inches. He attended the University of Southern California on a scholarship.

After several fellow college athletes gave him an unsolicited haircut, he claimed his javelin tosses slipped 50 feet.

After college, Landon took a variety of odd jobs. His acting career began while he was unloading freight cars and a co-worker, an aspiring actor, asked him to help him prepare for an audition.

After the audition, Landon — not his co-worker — was asked to join the Warner Bros. acting school.

Landon made his movie debut in 1957 in "I Was a Teen-Age Werewolf." He became Little Joe Cartwright on "Bonanza" two years later.

The series — in which Lorne Greene played the widower patriarch of a frontier family — ran from 1959 to 1973. It was No. 1 from 1964 to 1967 and was seen weekly in 87 countries by an estimated 400 million viewers.

With Landon's death, the only original cast member still alive is Pernell Roberts. His manager, Brian Rix, said Roberts was "deeply grieved by Michael's death."

Landon began writing in 1963 with a "Bonanza" script. He later wrote most episodes of "Little House on the Prairie," which was based on children's books about a pioneer family by Laura Ingalls Wilder. It ran from 1974 to 1982.

In "Highway to Heaven," Landon played angel Jonathan Smith, who returns to Earth to help people in trouble. The series ran from 1984 to 1989.

His film credits include "God's Little Acre," "The Legend of Tom Dooley," "Maracaibo" and "The Errand."

In 1976, he wrote, directed and acted in "The Loneliest Runner," a TV movie about a teen-age athlete based on Landon's bed-wetting traumas. Landon made another autobiographical film, "Sam's Son," in 1984.

Landon is survived by his third wife and nine children.

Funeral services will be private. A public memorial service was being arranged.

Fort Worth faces future without base

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Carswell Air Force Base might have survived a federal base-closing commission's ax except for ambitious expansion plans at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, a suburban mayor said. Grapevine Mayor Bill Tate blamed the decision to close

Carswell on the DFW Airport Board, contending that DFW's plans for new runways and increased air capacity ultimately did in the facility. "We have been saying all along that there will be a downside to DFW expansion, and this is the first example," Tate said. "DFW's ambitious multibillion-dollar expansion plans may have cost us Carswell, one of our most vital economic assets." Tate said that DFW's expansion plans "closed in" Carswell's airspace, making it a likely target for closure. Carswell was one of three Texas installations that got unfavorable news from Sunday's deliberations of the commission in Washington. Among the 35 installations nationally that apparently will close are Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin and the Beeville naval station. Kingsville's naval station and Goodfellow Air Force at San Angelo were spared. Gov. Ann Richards said Monday she is disappointed in the loss of the three Texas bases and is asking a state task force on economic transition to coordinate local, state and federal assistance to those targeted communities. "This task force will ensure that there is a centralized approach to bringing the assistance they are entitled as a result of the base closures," Richards said. The head of the commission that made the decisions on which military bases should be shuttered or left open brushed aside suggestions that politics played a key role in the panel's recommendations. Beeville city officials say they have been in contact for more than a year with companies interested in locating an industrial complex on the land Naval Air Station Chase Field occupies. City councilman and former mayor John Ybanez said the proposed closure will have little immediate effect on the city. Mayor Carlos Salazar agreed. "It's been 18 months since this thing started," said Salazar, who is also a civil service worker at Chase Field. "I don't think the impact will be much different. We've already seen a big slowdown here in business."

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 53-year-old married man who, for the past 2 1/2 years, has worn ladies' panties. I have an awful fear that some day I will be rushed to the hospital, and they will see the shame I have put on my body. Am I going through a midlife crisis or turning homosexual? I'm frightened, ashamed and disgusted with myself.

DEAR READER: To a large degree, clothing styles are a cultural phenomenon. For example, 18th-century men wore wigs, lace, silk, brocade breeches, and heaven knows what for undergarments; this style would be considered to be effeminate by 20th-century standards. Yet these men were far from womanly; they'd run you through with their rapiers at the slightest provocation. (If you don't believe me, remember the customs in the recent movie "Dangerous Liaisons.")

Also, many modern men prefer bikini briefs or silk underwear, both of which would have been viewed as "unmanly" 100 years ago. Therefore, the fact that you prefer ladies' panties does not, of and by itself, mean you are disgusting, homosexual or in crisis. You may simply be expressing a personal, anti-cultural bias. Go easy on yourself; your sartorial preferences harm no one.

Nonetheless, your wish to cross-dress, no matter how trivial, could represent an unresolved gender-identity conflict. You'll have to examine your attitudes, a far more potent predictor of pathology. For instance, a compulsion about women's underwear coupled with some active sexual fantasies and an inability to relate to women could indicate that your preference has a meaning over and above mere clothing styles. In other words, why you wear women's panties (and how you behave with them on) are more important considerations than the garments themselves.

Since you seem guilty and uncomfortable about the situation, I suggest you seek counseling. In this way, you'll be able to work through the ambiguity and bad feelings you have and, at the very least, learn to be more accepting of yourself.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am president of the United Ostomy Association and object to your advice to a reader about colostomy.

The manufacturers of ostomy products do not refer to "bags" to collect fecal matter; they are "appliance." Colostomies do not have to be irrigated. This is a personal decision, depending on how well a colostomy functions.

The UOA is not a "club"; it is a self-help organization.

The correct address is 36 Executive Park, Suite 120, Irvine, CA 92714

Phone: (714) 660-8624

DEAR READER: Thank you for updating the UOA address and telephone number.

Apparently some of your objections are semantic. I recognize that the old colostomy club of bygone years has undergone transformation into a support organization. However, I'm certain its goal — to help patients cope with an unpleasant situation — has not changed. Whether you refer to a colostomy device as a "bag" or as an "appliance" seems to me to be splitting hairs; changing the name to a nicer sounding word may be politically correct but hardly therapeutic.

To irrigate or not to irrigate is, in my opinion, a decision best left to the doctor and the patient; in any case, it is a nuisance, no matter how accustomed patients may become to it.

At the movies... 'Terminator 2: Judgment Day'

By The Associated Press

In 1984, "The Terminator" provided two milestones: the indication that beneath those bulbous muscles of Arnold Schwarzenegger was a film personality trying to emerge; and the introduction of a gifted filmmaker, James Cameron, late of the Roger Corman schlock emporium. Filmed on a $6.4 million budget, "The Terminator" combined bargain-basement effects and an original script (by Cameron and Gale Anne Hurd) for winning results, with moviegoers and critics alike.

The producers of "Terminator 2: Judgment Day" apparently set out to win the spending derby, and they did, reportedly at $88 million. But unlike "Hudson Hawk," "Predator 2" and other wastes of stockholders' money, "Terminator 2" delivers. Never has the screen been filled with so much mind-blowing action.

The plot revolves around some mumbo jumbo about a future war waged by an evil supercomputer against the human race, already ravaged by a nuclear holocaust. The human hopes rest on the leader, John Connor.

Flashback to the near present, and John Connor is a boy (Edward Furlong). A good Terminator (Schwarzenegger) is sent to guarantee his safety until the future war. A later model Terminator (Robert Patrick) has the mission to destroy the kid. John's mother (Linda Hamilton) is confined to an asylum because of her rantings about saving the world from destruction.

The far-out story is curiously involving, because of Cameron's firm direction, preserving the human (or humanoid) values while offering humongous stunts and seamless special effects. The viewer is grateful for humorous touches — such as the boy teaching Terminator to "high-5" — to relieve the headlong pace.

Schwarzenegger is at his best in the Terminator kind of role — granite-faced, resourceful, invincible. In a role that offers her as much fighting as Sigourney Weaver in "Aliens" (also by Cameron), Hamilton is powerful in body and spirit.

It's amazing that young Furlong has never acted before. He plays the future hero like a pro. Patrick's surfer looks make him terrifying as the deadly Terminator.

Cameron also produced "Terminator 2" and wrote the script with William Wisher. The executive producers are Hurd and Mario Kassar. The TriStar Pictures release of a Carolco film is rated R for massive violence and rough language (the use by the boy and his mother may be especially objectionable to some viewers). Running time: 135 minutes.

Motion Picture Association of America rating definitions:

G — General audiences. All ages admitted.

PG — Parental guidance suggested. Some material may not be suitable for children.

PG-13 — Special parental guidance strongly suggested for children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children.

R — Restricted. Under 17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.

NC-17 — No one under 17 admitted.

Wimbledon...

Edberg eliminates McEnroe

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion and top seed Stefan Edberg used a couple of short streaks to bounce John McEnroe out of Wimbledon today.

Edberg beat McEnroe, a three-time champion, 7-6 (7-4), 6-1, 6-4, and moved into the quarterfinals. Edberg ran off 15 straight points midway through the second set and then won 16 of 20 points in a third-set spurt.

The Swede won the tie-breaker to end a first set that went entirely on serve. The 16th-seeded McEnroe seemed to sag after the tie-breaker.

Also advancing to the quarterfinals was French Open champion Jim Courier, who defeated 14th seed Karel Novacek 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

The fourth-seeded Courier, whose best previous Wimbledon performance was reaching the third round last year, now has lost only 13 games in his last two victories.

Three other Americans — Andre Agassi, David Wheaton and Tim Mayotte — won matches on Monday, joining Derrick Rostagno in the fourth round.

Agassi, Wheaton and Mayotte have taken Wimbledon by storm, rolling through the tournament with hardly a care in the world.

The three wild and crazy Yanks have been checking out tourist sites, blowing kisses to girlfriends and showing off their new threads — and playing some excellent tennis on the side.

They all won third-round matches Monday, joining three other Yanks — John McEnroe, Jim Courier and Derrick Rostagno — in the final 16.

And they're having a heck of a time.

"The excitement of Wimbledon speaks for itself. Just being here at Wimbledon and having such a warm response is something more than anyone really deserves," said Agassi, a crowd favorite who used a day off Sunday to tour the town.

"Yesterday I just went sightseeing all day and saw a bunch of things that I don't remember the names to. But I enjoyed them."

Agassi, who defeated Dutch teen-ager Richard Krajicek 7-6, 6-3, 7-6, stuck with his traditional all-white outfit but added designer sunglasses for a few games Monday.

Wheaton, showing off his stars and stripes bandana on Centre Court, wiped out third seed Ivan Lendl. The Minnesotan boomed 16 aces in a 6-3, 3-6, 7-6, 6-3 defeat of the two-time Wimbledon finalist.

The unseeded Mayotte, playing in his first tournament since April, defeated Patrik Kuhnen 3-6, 6-2, 7-6, 6-4.

Four Americans also reached the women's quarterfinals, led by defending champion Martina Navratilova.

Navratilova, playing in her record 112th Wimbledon singles match, won 6-1, 6-3 over Catarina Lindqvist to set up a clash with ninth-seeded Jennifer Capriati. The 15-year-old Floridian rallied to defeat Brenda Schultz of the Netherlands in three sets.

Mary Joe Fernandez and Zina Garrison also advanced to the quarterfinals. Garrison's victory set up a quarterfinal battle against top seed Steffi Graf.

Tyson-Foreman fight still being negotiated

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Tyson and George Foreman are closer to scheduling a fight, possibly in Houston this fall, boxing promoter Don King says.

King, Tyson's adviser, and Roy Foreman, brother-manager of George Foreman met in Las Vegas Monday to discuss such a fight, King told the Houston Chronicle.

"They've been some grueling negotiations. Roy and I have been at it tooth and nail," said King. "But I think we're in agreement now."

"It could happen in Houston," King added. "If Compaq Computers, Mitchell Southwest or someone else steps up to lend a hand, it could be right here in Houston."

King said tentative plans are for the fight to be staged in November. If an organization in Houston can't be found to help underwrite the bout, King said it would move to the Mirage Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas.

"What we've got to do now is find (George) so he can conclude the deal," King said. "The ultimate decision rests with George."

Foreman could not be reached for comment, the newspaper reported today.

"He (George) just got back in town," said Roy Foreman. "He's been running around town taking care of some family matters. He and the family are planning to go to the islands for vacation soon."

King arrived in Houston on Monday afternoon from Las Vegas, where Tyson last Friday pounded out a unanimous 12-round decision over Donovan "Razor" Ruddock.

Tyson is 41-1 with 36 knockouts. Foreman, following his loss to champion Evander Holyfield in April, is 69-3 with 65 KOs.

Clergy golf tournament planned

FRISCO — The 10th Annual Texas Clergy Invitational Golf Tournament will be held August 5-6 at Plantation Resort Country Club here.

Three trophies will be awarded per flight, prizes will be given in Closest to the Pin and Long Drive competition and a new car will be given for a hole-in-one at the event.

Cost to enter is $65. For more information contact Don Dendy at Park Cities Baptist Church in Dallas, (214) 369-8211 or (214) 8351. The tourney field is limited to 140 players.

Dykstra takes batting practice

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lenny Dykstra took part in batting practice with the Philadelphia Phillies, his first action with the team since breaking his collarbone in a car crash May 6.

Dykstra, who hit in the indoor batting facility beneath Veterans Stadium with hitting coach Denis Menke looking on, said he hopes to return to the lineup July 11 against San Francisco.

Lewis beats Johnson in 100-meters

VILLENEUVE D'ASCQ, France (AP) — Carl Lewis easily won the long-awaited duel with Ben Johnson, but he didn't win the race.

In their first head-to-head competition since the 1988 Olympics, Lewis finished second and Johnson came in seventh in the 100 meters in the BNP Grand Prix meet.

On a cold, rainy evening before a capacity crowd of 30,000, Dennis Mitchell finished first in 10.09 seconds, followed by Lewis in 10.20. Johnson was nearly three meters behind Lewis in 10.46.

Race driver undergoes leg surgery

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Race car driver Tom Kendall, who broke his right thigh bone and both ankles when his car slammed into a tire wall during the Camel Continental VIII IMSA Camel GT sports car race Sunday, underwent nine hours of leg surgery and was listed in satisfactory condition.

Kendall, from LaCanada, Calif., was pried from the car by safety crews and airlifted from the Watkins Glenn International course in New York to a Pennsylvania hospital, then flown to Indianapolis Methodist for the surgery.

He's expected to remain at Methodist Hospital for about two weeks.

Stephenson might skip tournament

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Jan Stephenson said she will decide later this week whether to play in next week's U.S. Women's Open, to be played at the Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth.

She withdrew from last week's LPGA Championship because of exhaustion resulting from a June 18 miscarriage.

Angels' Langston halts Texas

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — After enduring a season of frustration and taunts of "Sixteen mil, what a thrill" from fans, Mark Langston has emerged as the California Angels' stopper.

He had halted losing streaks six times this season and did it again Monday night, beating the Texas Rangers 6-2 and snapping a two-game losing skid.

"This is a night when we needed to win," the left-hander said after the Angels moved two games out of first place behind Minnesota in the American League West.

Langston (12-2), who tied the Twins' Scott Erickson for the AL lead in victories, allowed two runs on six hits in seven-plus innings. He walked three and struck out two. Bryan Harvey earned his 21st save by retiring the last six batters, striking out four.

Last year, California manager Doug Rader watched Langston, who signed a $16 million, four-year contract before the 1990 season, suffer through a career-high 17 losses. Now, Rader couldn't be happier to be witnessing the turnaround.

"He withstood a lot of criticism last year and deserves the accolades he's getting this year," he said. "He's handled success with a great deal of grace."

Langston gracefully gave credit to his teammates for winning the game after he gave up a seventh-inning home run to Steve Buechele to tie the score at 2.

"The team tonight picked me up with some unbelievable hitting by Wally (Joyner) and some great defensive plays when we needed it," he said. "I felt pretty bad when I gave up that home run to tie it."

Joyner's two-out, two-run single off Kevin Brown (6-6) drove in the go-ahead runs in a seventh-inning play that ultimately resulted in Rader's ejection by umpire Don Deckinger.

Brown allowed four runs on eight hits in seven innings, walking three and striking out two.

He gave way to Terry Matthews, who gave up a two-run homer to Lance Parrish, his ninth, in the eighth to complete the scoring.

Sierra's hitting streak ended at 18 games, the longest in the AL this season. He lined out to right, struck out, grounded into a double play and flied to right.

UTEP cage coach fired following school probe

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — An angry Rus Bradburd said he was made a scapegoat in Texas-El Paso's problems with the NCAA because it would take too much money to correct deeper problems that exist at the university.

UTEP was accused by the National Collegiate Athletic Association in February of 13 rules violations, including lack of institutional control over the school's basketball program.

Bradburd and assistant coach Greg Lackey were fired after UTEP completed its internal investigation of its basketball program. They were both accused of giving rides to players. Bradburd also has been accused of lying to NCAA investigators.

"I think what they've done is a shabby attempt to try and cover up obvious problems institutionally by dismissing the lowest guys on the totem pole," Bradburd said Monday.

Had the school been serious about improving institutional control at the university "we would have hired an NCAA compliance guy two years ago when these problems came up," Bradburd said.

Bradburd said he and Lackey were singled out because "it was a convenient and inexpensive way to solve the problem."

Lackey has admitted giving a ride to UTEP player Ralph Davis because he was stranded without a ride.

County

The 1990 audit, as presented by Larry Anderson of the Lubbock office of Mason, Warner and Company, showed that the county had $3.8 million in expenditures, while budgeting only $3.7 million. General government expenses accounted for just over 25 percent of the category, followed by road maintenance at 14.20 percent and public safety — which includes county law enforcement and the jail — at 12.42 percent.

County Auditor Eddie McHaney worked with the firm on the audit and said the audit would also serve as the county's audit.

A bound copy of the audit is expected to be presented to the court, at which time commissioners will vote to accept or reject it.

After a lengthy discussion with Jeff Fowler and Jay Cumbie of Fowler and Associates Insurance concerning the county's medical stop/loss coverage, commissioners voted to set the county's deductible at $50,000 and implement a pre-certification plan for county employees.

County Judge Bob Doolittle cancelled the court's scheduled closed session concerning personnel. The session was to discuss the resignation of a county employee, however, Doolittle explained he has not yet received a formal resignation.

Nearly 80 percent of the U.S. population lives in cities and towns, says National Geographic.

I'm Clement Adams and I'm a lineman with TU Electric. I work with overhead power lines that bring electrical service to our homes. But unfortunately, every year some people come into contact with these high wires and are seriously injured or even killed. Often they may be simply trimming their own trees, installing a TV antenna or just cleaning a pool with a long-handled pole.

Electrical safety is a priority.

These types of accidents can be easily avoided. If people would just look up. Keep all objects away from overhead power lines. At TU Electric, we care about your safety. So give yourself a little distance.

WATER FOR CHILDREN MUST BE 'BETTER' THAN AVERAGE

Children have special needs for safe drinking water.

Because of their young age and the fast pace that their bodies develop, the water children drink must be 'better' than water adults drink.

Too many substances in drinking water can be detrimental to a child's health. This can be especially true in private wells that aren't monitored regularly. A good way to monitor is to have well water tested to ensure its quality.

Nitrates, for example, are a concern for infants up to 6 months of age.

When an infant drinks water with high levels of nitrate, the baby's blood becomes unable to carry oxygen, thus leading to possible suffocation. A sign of nitrate poisoning is a bluish skin color.

Rural water wells can be subjected to nitrate contamination, either through natural causes or from such sources of ground water pollution as agricultural chemicals.

Exposure to relatively low levels of lead over time can cause serious damage to young children.

Nationally, the Environmental Protection Agency estimated last year that more than 2.4 million children are at risk from potentially high lead levels and about 250,000 of these youngsters are exposed to lead levels high enough to impair their intellectual development. As many as 70,000 children below age 5 have high lead levels in their blood, according to the EPA.

Children can ingest lead in many ways — from polluted air, lead-based paint chips, or drinking water.

Generally, lead found in tap water is from lead pipes or the solder used in some household plumbing, rather than in the water supply itself.

Because of the increasing health concerns of lead in drinking water, a 1986 federal law made sweeping amendments to the 1974 Safe Drinking Water Act.

The amendments made it unlawful for builders or contractors to use lead pipes and solder in public water systems or homes.

In practice, within the past five years most builders have quit using lead pipes and solder.

Many good private water testing labs are located around the state, and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has operated such labs since 1959.

Dr. Dale Pennington, Extension Service soil chemist at Texas A&M, said Extension's water testing labs at A&M and Lubbock conduct comprehensive water quality tests from private wells, using a computer software program known as WATERS, or Water Analysis Technical Evaluations and Retrieval System.

The labs can test for 23 chemicals and compounds, including nitrates, lead and fluoride, another substance in water that can affect a child's health — but in a beneficial way.

High fluoride levels in water can stain a child's teeth. Levels high enough to be of concern are found in water supplies in the Panhandle and High Plains.

Many cities add fluoride to their water systems, however, because fluoride prevents cavities in teeth of people of all ages, but especially those under age 8.

85 Africanized bee swarms are captured

COLLEGE STATION — Trappers in pursuit of Africanized honey bees (AHB) have captured 85 swarms in the United States as the bee migrates up the Gulf Coast and the Rio Grande.

Thirteen of the identifications have been hybrid bees, a mix of African and European (domestic) bees. About 20 additional swarm samples deemed "suspicious" are at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's research service lab in Weslaco pending confirmation.

"We are noticing that the bees are moving faster along the coast than inland, said Elba Quintero, AHB program coordinator for the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Quintero said that a lot of swarms have been collected in Starr County from Rio Grande City to the Falcon Reservoir, "but they all have been in the same place.

"They are moving farther north along the coast," she said.

"It probably has to do with food availability."

The northernmost coastal AHB collection thus far was in Port Mansfield, some 40 miles north of Mexico.

The spring 1991 swarming season may have peaked in May. Forty-percent of the swarms were collected in May. April's collections accounted for 31 percent, and reported swarms through the third week of June totaled 26 percent of the year's finds. The June total could be much larger, however, if all 20 of the suspicious samples are confirmed as AHB.

The first time an AHB swarm migrating into the United States from Mexico was detected and destroyed occurred near Hidalgo on Oct. 15. No additional swarms were found until April 15.

SCS Notes

By Terry Hefner,
District Conservationist

Agricultural producers, beware of "wet areas" in your fields and pastures. Changes in the wetland conservation, or Swampbuster, provision of the 1990 Farm Bill could cause you to lose eligibility for USDA farm program benefits.

The 1985 Farm Bill started making wet areas "sticky" for agricultural producers. If a wet area was determined a wetland by USDA's Soil Conservation Service, and a farmer "converted" the wetland and produced an agricultural commodity, the producer lost eligibility for USDA farm program benefits.

The 1990 Farm Bill makes wet areas even "stickier." Converting a wetland will result in loss of benefits regardless of whether an agricultural commodity is produced on the conversion. Benefits will be lost until the wetland is restored.

USDA has recently published rules to implement the 1990 Farm Bill. If agricultural producers certify an intent to use converted wetlands for non-agricultural uses, an exemption can be granted.

"Agricultural producers, who have wet areas suspected of being wetlands, should go to their Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office and ask for a wetland determination," says Pat Henson, assistant state conservationist, USDA-Soil Conservation Service, at state headquarters in Temple.

The request will be referred to Soil Conservation Service, which will make the wetland determination. In many instances, wet areas will not be sufficiently wet to be called wetlands.

Where wetlands are found, the producer will be advised if the intended activity can be exempted. If the conversion cannot be exempted, the wetland will be outlined on a map, and the producer advised not to make the conversion.

To avoid unnecessary expense and headaches, agricultural producers should request wetland determinations on "wet areas" before making any "conversions." USDA personnel will make determinations of wetlands, conversions and exemptions. Foremost, they will work with agricultural producers to maintain their eligibility for farm program benefits.

For more information, call the local office of the SCS. All programs of the SCS are offered on a nondiscriminatory basis, without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, marital status or handicap.
