Christmas Comes To Us

Do we come again to the season of Christmas... or does the Christmas come to us?

Christmas comes to us, as always. All we need do is wait. Pretty strings of lights appear along Main Street. Store windows seem to come alive with thousands of toys and gifts and most desirable things. Up and down most any street in town, merry, many-colored windows reflect the spirit of warmth that is so much a part of the season.

Soon we begin to receive cards in the mail, from folks around town, from relatives, and a few once-dear friends we lost somewhere in the past.

Begrudgingly at first, then with mounting enthusiasm, we undertake the obligations of meeting our own gift and Christmas card list. We begin to feel an inner glow, a sense of fellowship with the world—and by the time the holiday arrives, we are really glad it's Christmas!

Yes, Christmas comes to us, whether we like it or not. We cannot escape it.

But, do we really come to the spirit of Christmas when Christmas comes to us? Not if our celebration of Christmas begins and ends with the program outlined above.

Pretty lights that twinkle and glow; pretty cards from friends new and old; is this the purpose of Christmas?

Christmas brings to each of us the opportunity to share in the most magnificent moment of all time—the birth of Jesus Christ, the Redeemer, the Savior of all mankind.

Yes, Christmas comes once a year, with all the outward trappings we have come to know so well. Yet it is for nothing—unless each individual heart comes again to be filled with the true spirit of Christmas; the realization and appreciation of the fact that on this day God sent His only Son to save the world.

Capitol Value

For years, the huge red granite State Capitol, which was paid for with 3,000,000 acres of West Texas land, has been carried on the state's books at a value of $131.50.

Board of Control has appraised the Capitol at $9,948,391. They valued the land on which it is located at $5,143,623. It's not for sale for the total of $15,092,014. But at least it's on the books right, now.

Incidentally, the old Capitol is getting a refurbishing. Workmen are replacing cracked and splintered panels in the hallways, and removing the old varnish. It will come out lighter and brighter.

New Laws

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson quickly plugged one possible loophole in the "Blue Law."

He advised Dist. Atty. Henry Wade of Dallas that a corporation owning two or more stores must close them the same day. One can't open Saturday and the other Sunday. Nor can a store accept orders by phone in advance to be delivered on Sunday.

Wilson also is busy interpreting other new laws, among them the one requiring holders of property for others, except banks, to report it to the state when the owner hasn't been around for seven years.

He advised Treasurer Jesse James that an oil company which holds royalties outside Texas on oil produced in Texas does not have to report it to the State of Texas except that amount held for persons whose last known address was in Texas.

The attorney general expects so much work out of this new law that he set up a special division to handle it.

In another opinion Wilson held that wiretapping to record phone conversations is not illegal in Texas.

Five-year-old Sam Garner of Houston, grandson of Mrs. Margaret Hunter, was in Oates Drug recently with his grandmother. The youngster noted persons coming into the store were greeted by genial owner Hill Oates with "Come in, Joe" or "Hi, Jim, etc. Invariably the answer would be "Hi, Hill," from the customer.

Next day, little Sam was downtown at Hunter's men's store, and Margaret and Gene Hunter asked Sam if he'd like a Coke or cream cone. "Yes," the lad answered readily. "Let's go to Mr. High Hill's store and get something to drink."

Those big catfish are still being caught at Lake Stamford and it seems the more that are caught, the bigger they get. Until a few weeks ago, a 54-pound yellow cat caught by Lloyd Conner of this city was the record.

Now, Mrs. Beatrice Watson comes up with a whopping 55-pound yellow cat, caught on a trotline near Watson's Camp operated by Mr. and Mrs. Watson.

Seems to us that should be an all-time record catch. However, someone will probably

The Presbyterian ladies had very good success with their oyster supper Wednesday evening, taking in about $30.

Misses Georgia Ritter and Stella Couch came up from Stamford Saturday and spent several days with their Haskell friends.

R. L. Leonard and family late of Cleburne, arrived in Haskell this week with the intention of locating here.

Among the visiting attorneys this week we noticed J. F. Cunningham of Abilene, at one time district attorney for this district, and E. B. Greenwood of Stamford, who combines editing a newspaper, The Courier and practicing law. He is pretty good at both.

R. L. Bowman sold his farm of 100 acres on Wild Horse Prairie this week at $14 per acre to J. W. Griffith of Hum County. In turn, Mr. Bowman and his brother bought Mr. Avary's farm of 160 acres at $11 per acre. We understand that Mr. Griffith will move with his family about the middle of December.

A. Z. Sewell, who has been putting up the telephone line to Marcy, says that in traveling across Wild Horse Prairie and the sand hills, one is hardly ever out of sound of hammers, so rapidly are the new settlers putting up new houses, barns, etc.

Robert Hollis, who was here a few weeks ago and bought a block of land north of town, arrived Monday with his family from Wise County. He is renting a house temporarily but will build a residence as soon as he can get material of the ground. Mr. Hollis lived in Throckmorton County in the early 80's and was the county's second sheriff after it was organized.

Miss Desa Phillips of the Temple neighborhood spent several days in town this week in the home of Mrs. Georgia Fields.

For the first time in two decades, the streamers of colored lights will be missing from the business section during the Christmas season this year.

In their stead will be installations of flashy, distinctive new holiday lighting arrangements designed especially for placing around the courthouse square on the poles carrying street lights.

The new lights will be turned on for the first time this weekend, and will burn each night until after Christmas.

Still undecided at the beginning of the week was whether the traditional lighted stars would again be placed on top of the courthouse on each of the four sides of the building.

Installation of the new holiday lights involved considerable work on the part of eight or ten volunteers, another illustration of cooperation on the part of persons interested in serving their community.

Those giving their time and services represented both the senior and junior chambers of commerce, Lions and Rotary clubs and the fire department, while ladder and lift trucks were provided by West Texas Utilities Company and General Telephone Company of the Southwest.

Fate, misfortune, or just plain bad luck had "thumbs down" against the O'Brien Bulldogs, district Six-Man football champions, winning the regional title, as indicated by the 46-28 score in their game with Moxelle Mustangs here Thursday night.

But it could have been different, if hard luck had not intervened.

On Wednesday evening before the following day's game, Jerry Force, one of O'Brien's mainstays, was shook up and bruised in a car accident. Then, next day, Jerry was practicing "fast draw" and pulled the trigger on his .22 pistol too soon, the bullet striking him in the fleshy part of his right leg. That definitely nixed him from playing in the Thanksgiving game.

Finally, early in the final quarter of the game, when O'Brien still had ample time to overcome the Mustangs, the Bulldog quarterback, Jimmy Johnston, was hurt in a freak accident. The spike of the iron standard on one end of the down-marker chain was driven through the calf of his leg when he was tackled and thrown out of bounds. He was out of the game, a crippling loss to the Bulldogs.

None of this is meant to dis-parage the Mustang's win. They would not have wanted victory at the price of injury for their opponents. But it shows how Fate takes a hand sometimes.

Many people consider themselves pretty smart cookies in the role of amateur detectives, and PPT is no exception. However, we flopped so miserably on our last self-appointed "case" that we've decided to leave the field to those who know something about detective work.

We learned one thing as a result of our effort in apprehending a criminal. Sheriff Garth Garrett will check out thoroughly any lead which appears to have merit, and he genuinely appreciates all honest tips given him.

Our "flop" came about as the result of an item we read in the Wellington Leader recently. It told of the arrest of a man in McCook, Nebr., who was wanted in Collingsworth County (at Wellington) on a charge of forgery. He had forged the name of P. J. White to a check passed in Wellington.

The forgery suspect had told officers that he had worked during the grain harvest in West Texas, then returned to his home in Kansas. Coming back to Texas in late summer, he had forged the check given at Wellington.

Since the initials and name were identical to a Haskell man who was murdered last Aug. 3, we immediately linked the forgery suspect with the murder.

Shown the newspaper article, Sheriff Garrett immediately contacted the sheriff at Wellington. The suspect had worked in Collingsworth County during the grain harvest, the officer said. The P. J. White whose name was forged to the check is a prominent farmer of Wellington, the sheriff added.

Putting everything together, all circumstances indicated the forgery suspect had never been in Haskell County, thereby spoiling a nice piece of detective work.

Mention of Haskell's early-day "opera house" in this column resulted in several readers recalling incidents in connection with the show house.

In 1918 and 1919 the place was used as a community recreation center, mainly for young people. The swimming pool was converted into a volleyball court, and practically all the young people in town were active participants in a supervised program.

The fact that boys and girls played on mixed volleyball teams was criticized by some adults, and this finally resulted in the recreation center being abandoned.

Two Haskell youths, now considered "old timers" and who still live here, were members of the recreation center's board of directors and recall a meeting which wrote "fines" to the project.

Two local preachers who were crosswise on the issue of mixed groups of boys and girls taking part in competitive games, had been feuding publicly and had a lively controversy going. They were also directors. At a meeting called to discuss the issue, the two preachers and two youths were the only ones present. Other directors, more level-headed perhaps, stayed away from the meeting.

With the two youths as interested onlookers, fearing to say anything, the preachers got into an argument. One word led to another and the accusation of "Lar" was passed. One of the men swung a hefty kick but missed, and his adversary connected with a left and a right which floored the unbalanced kicker. The youths, scared but not averse to watching a good fight were astounded when the floored preacher got to his feet and the two men shook hands. That ended both the fight and the meeting—and subsequently the recreation center.

In the 1920's as the popularity of opera houses began to decline, traveling tent shows came into the entertainment field in country towns. They would come into town, set up a tent theatre and show nightly for one or two weeks, depending on their repertoire of plays.

In addition to stage plays, many of the tent theatres would also feature two or three reels of moving pictures to supplement their program.

One showman who became widely known over West Texas, H. H. Franklin, made his winter headquarters in Haskell for several seasons. He stayed at what was known as the Fox Hotel, and spent the winter months repairing his tent and painting curtain scenery and stage wings.

Around the first of April each year, dozens of "cittified" characters would begin to show up in Haskell, as fledgling actors and actresses as part of their company getting his "Hose" King two county's location turned to spare time effect is in "The Story which follows "Well, folks, Here I am tangled—Even though feeds good, He never just chomping foam, That's what means Because I'm sure just a But folks day, And on the law "Cause I this talk Working Jailbird

ROLLY, OR IS IT?
 to William R. Hearst's
 at San Simeon, California

ished a desire to tour the fabulous ranch and he tells of some of the highlights seen on the tour.—Editor.)

By R. C. Couch, Sr.
 A number of years ago the writer and spouse were on the Pacific Coast traveling along on Highway One and since we had heard much of the William Randolph Hearst Castle we were anxious to look upon its works of man, its arts, antiques, and collections from all parts of the world.

We learned that this place
 was at or around a little "one-store town" called San Simeon.
 On arriving at this place, and before, you begin to see these magnificent buildings with all their glory peeping out at you from the hill-tops faraway and beneath the high and handsome trees which were not grown there. When we arrived at San Simeon, we soon noted the place of entry, which was just a cow-pasture gate, where all
 with any authority to do so,
 made their entry to the beginning of the vast Hearst ranch,
 which at one time reached about 300,000 acres, although at other places about the world his acres ran into the millions. At the gate or nearby we clearly noted the signs "Stay Out."

Since it was easier to stay out rather than be thrown out, we did. As we drove away we consoled ourselves with the thought that some day we might be back when these signs would be torn down.

Previous to this time, about 1951, Mr. Hearst had died. The rumor was rife then that the family was dickering with the State of California to take over the castle in payment of taxes past due. This may have been only rumor, but that was it.
 Mr. Hearst had had some financial difficulties along as he went and when a group of auditors found him in debt to the tune of several hundred million
 he began to slow down and pay off so that his feet could, at least, touch the ground. His holdings were so vast and so numerous that the average mind could not comprehend
 their vastness.

This past summer as we thought of making our last sweep around and over the West, we had this as well as other places, marked out as being in our line of travel. We followed the Feather River
 canyon north of Sacramento until the thing played out and then we rambled over those crooked and tortuous roads until we got back to Highway One on the coast. After spending a short visit with some of the kin below San Francisco
 our minds were again turned on San Simeon. We had known that the Hearst family had,
 some two years ago, completed the deal with the State of California, and now the place
 was opened to the tourist trade.
 Well, that at least, was partly
 US. As we traveled that scenic route and viewed the great Pacific from the high cliffs above
 it seems that with each increasing mile Hassie's (the wife) nerves would stick out in greater length, with increasing force, and in impressive sharpness. When we got to San Simeon, if you could have read her in mind and spirit, she would have looked worse than a porcupine.

Highway One in California, in many places, is one of those high, sensational and thrilling spots, where if you go to sleep at the wheel for ten seconds, you can wake up wading about in the Pacific ocean
 some 2,000 feet below. This did not happen to us, but from the aches and complaints and the groans I heard at my side you would have thought it nearly did, many times.

We arrived at San Simeon
 with all parts intact.

When we approached this place we noted along the way that the coast line, trailer courts and other places, especially the Castle Gate parking lot, were all full of cars. And then it was that we realized that we were in the midst of a weekend holiday jam. While I was making search for tourist court information, Hassie was doing about with something else. When we came back together she told me that the lady she was talking to had told her that we had better get our tickets in the afternoon as a lot of folks would beat us to it the next morning. So in line with this, we at once took off to the ticket windows which had been erected at the gates where we had been a few years before, and was told to stay out. The ticket windows were closed, all four of them,

 because it was about 5:00 p. m.
 We looked about for someone who looked native as we wanted some information about the "going's on." So we noticed a man who acted that way as he was closing the entrance for the day, to all cars, and etc., that might lead into the Hearst property. A very pleasant gentleman he was, and he told us that they were closing for the day and that no tickets were sold for tomorrow until that day arrived. He told us that the windows would be open at 8:00 in the morning but that if we waited until then to get there we would find about 200 people ahead of us. Many improvements had been made at the gate since we were there, including the office, lunch room and so on. About the biggest thing was the parking lot. Well, that was about the end of the day except one thing, and that was where we were going to sleep. It looked like a good chance to sit up all night, as many did so.

Catholic Church Liturgical Year Begins Sunday

The Liturgical year of the Catholic Church will begin on Sunday, Dec. 3. On this date will be the First Sunday of Advent. The Liturgical year is the cycle of the Sacred Seasons and Feasts which the church, in close union with the faithful consecrates each year in a special manner to God's service.

Advent, the four weeks preceding Christmas, is a preparation for the annual celebration of the Birth of Christ. To express the spirit of Advent, the church uses the words of St. John: "Prepare the way of the Lord; make straight His paths." Though this is a season of repentance, the gloom is lightened by the joyful expectation of the rapidly approaching feast of Christmas.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

By Vern Sanford

Proper care of lures and tackle is a pretty important part of fishing. This is especially true if the fishing is done along the Gulf coast where rust and corrosion is as common as gulls and sand crabs.

Before heading to the salt-water's edge, make certain that your tackle has been properly oiled. A squirt of oil on the reel and then smoothed lightly over its surface often will eliminate a lot of scraping and cleaning later.

Drop some oil on exposed nuts and bolts. Wipe some over the guides, too. If you're headed for some Gulf fishing, don't be afraid of drowning your rig in oil. It may get a little messy but it's protect your equipment. You will be surprised how quick salt water and sun can remove the protective coating.

If you don't care to smear your equipment with oil, get out that old can of all-purpose wax and rub some of it on the moving parts. Stick to oil for this.

When you've finished with the heavy items, dig into your tackle box and drag out those plugs.

If you didn't clean them the last time you plunked them into the salt water, just throw them in the rust pot. If they are new and have yet to feel the effects of salt water, give them a break.

A little wax or oil won't do them a bit of harm. In fact, we suggest you polish up that tackle box itself. You'll not be sorry you did. As you probably know, water runs off a car when it's coated with wax. The same holds true for your favorite tackle container.

Now, when you get to the fishing grounds, whether it be in a boat or on a pier, be careful how you splash the water around. Keep your tackle box closed when not in use. A puddle of salt water in the tray of an open tackle box will change the color of what's in it.

If there's a place to hang up the plugs to dry, before placing them back in the proper compartment, string them up. Be extremely careful not to leave them where you, or your fishing partner, can sit or step on them. It's better to drop them in the box wet, if you don't have a safe place to hang them.

Check the points of used hooks. If they're rusty run them over a whetstone or file.

Some fishermen might laugh and say, "It would take all my time to follow these simple warnings." Sure it requires some time. But you'll be surprised to learn how much time—and money—it will save you in the long run.

When you have caught all the fish you can carry, and are heading for home, check the boat or pier to make sure you haven't left your favorite fishing knife lying around.

After a fishing trip is the most important time for preventive maintenance.

If you are staying in a cabin the first thing to do when you return to it is to clean your tackle. This can be done in a number of ways.

How well you clean it depends on when you plan to fish again, whether the following day or the next week. If another trip is in line tomorrow, a quick water bath will do the job now. This only takes a few minutes.

If there's a shower in the place, toss the whole mess into it and turn on the cold water for five or ten minutes.

If there's no shower available, use the bathtub, the wash basin or the kitchen sink. Run some water over the plugs you have used and any other item that came in contact with the salty water. Then splash some saltless water onto your rods and reels for good measure. This emergency quick bath may not take all the salt off—but it will dilute it.

When you get home for keeps, wash it off again. This time thoroughly, piece by piece, and throw in some vinegar or a small amount of detergent.

When you have washed everything off, including your tackle box and fishing knife, place everything where it can dry. Don't forget your fishing scales. They'll rust, too.

Be careful not to leave your plugs and hooks where Junior can get them.

Now that the tackle has had time to dry, get out that oil and wax again. Go over everything carefully. Otherwise every hook you miss may have to be replaced when you head for the coast again... or for an inland lake, for that matter. And remember, too, that rust spreads.

These are only a few of the many ways you can extend the life of your fishing tackle. If you have an unlimited tackle budget, forget about it. If you are like me, it'll pay you to take care of what you have.

HERE'S WHERE YOU GET THE GOOD WORD ABOUT THE '62 JET-SMOOTH CHEVROLET

Jet-smooth ride 542 slim-roof styling

Jet-smooth ride, n. 1. The cloud-9 feeling of comfort that people in Chevrolets enjoy wherever they go. 2. A supple Full Coil spring flexing at each wheel of a Chevrolet to absorb road shock. These are teamed with over 700 noise and vibration filters throughout the automobile so that the total effect is a ride of supreme quiet and smoothness. 3. The reason why so many Chevrolet-owning families leave home ever so happily. 4. A habit-forming pleasure for which no cure is known, wanted or sought.

new V8-skedaddle, n. 1. The result of touching an accelerator that's linked to one of Chevrolet's new V8 engines (also known as "six-skedaddle" when engine is Chevrolet's trusty 135-hp. Six). 2. The moving power of Chevrolet's 1962 V8 engines. There are five of them, ranging from a standard 170-hp. version up to an optional-at-extra-cost 409-hp. powerhouse.

Body by Fisher craftsmanship, n. 1. The closest that a body manufacturer has come to the infinite care and skill of the jewelry maker. 2. The art and science of designing and forming metal into the strong, solid body structure of the 1962 Chevrolet. Typical hallmarks are long, smooth sheet metal shapes without ripples or blemishes, neatly joined seams, and doors and trunk lids that are carefully shaped and fitted into place for easy opening and closing. 3. Something you won't find in any other car in Chevrolet's field.

deep-well trunk, n. 1. The giant warehouse built into the rear of a 1962 Chevrolet. 2. A trunk that loads at the bumper level and has a capacity of 29.7 cubic feet. It is built with an extra-deep recession in its floor so that it can easily accept odd-shaped outside objects.

comfort-high seats, n. 1. Thought by many to be the most comfortable things to happen to the bottom side of the human lap since dad's overstuffed armchair. 2. Seats that are high enough to support and relax the thighs and weight-bearing muscles of the body (better for sitting, better for seeing). By providing resilient, deep-padded support throughout the backrest and seat itself, they bring on a remarkable feeling of comfort and well-being.

front fender underskirts, n. 1. An advance that's causing people to say things like "What won't those Chevrolet engineers come up with next!" 2. Sturdy steel linings that are under the front fenders of 1962 Chevrolets to add extra protection against flying stones, mud, slush, road salt and that old bugaboo, corrosion. 3. One of many ways the 1962 Chevrolet is built to stay beautiful.

rich new interiors, n. 1. One of the principal reasons why people step into the 1962 Chevrolets and promptly feel luxurious all over. 2. An arresting combination of lovely, long-lived materials used in an elegant way to decorate the new Chevrolet's passenger compartment and tickle the fancy of its occupants. 3. A harmonizing blend of the functional—such as the clean-cut, neatly ordered instrument panel—with the tasteful and the fresh.

slim-roof styling, n. 1. The clean-etched lines that typify the 1962 Chevrolet and contribute so much to its look of elegance. 2. Sometimes followed by words such as "Wow!" and "Look at that, will you!" 3. The happy result of inspired designers who are steeped in the art of using imagination and restraint.

The sporty new which retains the rear-engine and nimble steering that it a rally star and adds more touches to please people with car fever and a budget to spend. And the Corvette, which of refinements, new V8 power. Where '62 values are way up but prices are the same—or less—on comparably equipped models. 4. O'Brien Bulldogs Lose Regional Six-Man Tilt to Mozelle, 46-28

The O'Brien Bulldogs, district and bi-district champions in Six-Man football, lost a hectic second-half battle to the Mozelle Mustangs here Thanksgiving Day, losing their bid for the regional title, 46-28.

Big Knox Pittard, 180-pound Mozelle back, was the difference between the Mustangs and the lighter Bulldogs. He accounted for 34 points and scored all of the 28 points in the second half. Pittard scored four TDs, while halfback Jerry Jones hit for two TDs, and end Ralph Taylor caught a TD pass from Jones to account for the Mustang tallies. Pittard kicked two successful point conversions.

O'Brien tallied in the first and second periods, and were held outside the pay zone by the heavier Mustangs all through the second half.

First center for O'Brien came when halfback Larry Gibson raced over from 10 yards out. Freshman James Duncan kicked the first of three successive conversions.

Early in the second period O'Brien's Jimmy Johnston passed 28 yards to halfback Jerry Wilcox for a Bulldog TD and Duncan's kick was good.

Then, only minutes apart, Pittard and Jones were each thrown for safeties by Duncan and center Bobby Cox to give O'Brien 4 points and send them ahead 20-18.

Gibson counted again for the Bulldogs, going over from the 8 with 20 seconds left in the half. Duncan's kick was good, with the half ending with the

Bulldog Injured
In the fourth period, the Bulldogs suffered a stunning loss when Jimmy Johnston, who had hit on seven of 15 passes for 123 yards for the Bulldogs, was injured in a freak accident which sent him to the hospital. Johnston was run out of bounds while carrying the ball, and the steel spike on the end of the down-chair was upended and driven through the calf of his right leg when he fell over the chain.

Johnston was treated at the Haskell Hospital, where doctors said the injury would not affect any permanent harm. The player was able to be removed to his home late Thursday night.

reason, as a member of the Texas Legislature, I have consistently supported improvements in our educational system, including adequate teachers' salaries.

"Electric Co.-ops should be fairly represented in Washington as well as in the State Legislature in order that they may continue to prosper. I have consistently supported their programs in Austin.

"I have also established an excellent farm voting record during my tenure in the House. Although coming from an urban area, I supported such programs as farm-to-market roads and opposed the present sales tax.

"You may be assured of my never ending opposition to foreign imports. As chairman of the Committee on Oil, Gas, and Mining, I am well aware of the many problems facing the oil and gas industry and pledge to do all that is possible to alleviate them.

"I am very definitely opposed to continued foreign aid to Communist countries.

"I do not know all the answers to the many problems which face our country today, but I feel that my background in the legislative field will better qualify me to represent the 13th Congressional District more quickly and effectively. If you feel that my record is good, I humbly request you to help me work for this promotion."

Stewart, a 32-year-old Democrat, was born and reared in Wichita Falls, where he graduated from High School and Hardin Junior College, now Midwestern University.

He worked his way through the University of Texas, where he received his B. A. Degree. At the University he was chairman of the Student Employment Committee which helped place students in jobs while they attend the University. He is a member of the Baptist Church.

He received his law training at Baylor Law School, and was elected to the Legislature in 1952.

In the Legislature he is presently serving as chairman of the important House Committee on Oil, Gas, and Mining. He is also a member of the powerful Revenue and Taxation Committee, Committee on Congressional and Legislative Districts, Committee on Municipal and Private Corporations.

Stewart is considered an authority by fellow House members on the problems of the independent oil producer. He has been instrumental in defeating legislation detrimental to the oil industry, such as the mandatory 14-day allowable bill and the small tract drilling bill.

Stewart sponsored and guided the bill through the House creating a state school at Midwestern University.

Active in YMCA work, Stewart is a member of the State Youth in Government Board. This board directs the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y program which culminates in a youth legislation session in Austin which teaches high school students in the Hi-Y's the basic fundamentals of the state government and how laws are made.

Stewart is a member of the Wichita Falls Jaycees and is presently serving as District Governor of Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity.

A native of Cushing, Okla., Horany went to Archer City in 1928 with his parents and their 10 children. His father founded the department store which bears his name and is one of the oldest firms in that city.

Military Service
The candidate graduated from Archer City public schools and attended Texas Tech and the University of Texas. He enlisted as a private in the Army Air Force in December of 1941 and was discharged four years later with the rank of major. He was recalled during the Korean conflict.

He served two terms in the state legislature from 1947-51 but did not seek re-election following his father's death. He has served as Archer County campaign manager for Vice President Johnson since 1948.

Horany, a life-long member of the Methodist Church, is a member of the board of Stewarts at the First Methodist Church of Archer City. He was a charter member and one of the founders of the Archer City Chamber of Commerce and was that organization's president in 1959.

Legion Officer
Active in the American Legion, Horany is commander of Post 198 in Archer City and was district commander of the 13th congressional district in 1954 and 1956.

He is married to the former Virginia Kouri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Kouri, Wichita Falls. The couple has four children, Katrina, 15; Jim Jr., 13; Danny, 10; and Diane, 7.

Horany wishes to make the following statement to the people of Haskell County and area: "I have been a true and loyal Democrat for many years as well as having experience in Business, Law, Real Estate, and as former Legislator from Clay and Archer counties, as well as being active in Veterans, Civic, School and State affairs.

"I have traveled the 13th District many times and I know the resources, its farms, ranches, the cotton fields and the water wells of this area, as well as the oil leases and the economy derived from these different resources. I feel that a Congressman should be well acquainted with these matters and know the general livelihood of the people in order to represent this District.

"I believe in a reasonable amount of progress for our Nation in line with our resources, our tax income and national defense in order to maintain a free economy and the strongest nation on earth, and thus maintain the peace.

"I am running as a strictly independent Democrat from a small county. I am obligated to no person, group, or society, and will do my best to serve the people, as the people are the ones who I must answer to and render service for."

Run-Off Election May Require '62 Poll Tax
Voters planning to cast ballots in a possible run-off election of the special Congressional race may have to pay 1962 poll taxes before they will be eligible to vote.

The runoff election will be needed if none of the candidates in the Dec. 16 special election gain a majority vote. Texas laws require that a runoff then must be held 30 days after the special election.

With the holidays intervening in late December and early January some election officials think that the run-off election would likely be held in February. If so, 1962 poll tax receipts would be void. This year's poll tax is good for voting through Jan. 31, 1962, which is also the deadline for paying 1962 poll taxes now on sale.

The man elected to the Congressional post will serve in the 1962 session to finish out the term of Frank Ikard, who resigned effective Dec. 15, and then is required to run again in Democratic primaries May 5, if he seeks to remain in office.

serve our freedom, our economy and our form of government."

Purcell, a district judge for the past six years, paid tribute to outgoing Rep. Frank Ikard and said that he'd feel it a privilege to serve with the Democratic administration in Washington.

Purcell, whose first experience in community service was as a 4-H youngster in vocational ag work, now has a distinguished record of civic, religious and youth service in his community. Logically, he stressed moral values in his announcement.

"Integrity in public office and strengthening the moral fiber of our entire citizenship, in my opinion, is an important duty of national leaders. I will strive to carry out the duties of this office with this obligation in mind."

Purcell, a five-year combat and overseas veteran of World War II, has had education, training and experience which uniquely qualifies him for federal legislative office. He holds a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from Texas A&M College (1946) and a law degree from Baylor University (1949).

In addition to serving as a district judge he is also judge of the Juvenile Court of Wichita County, he's a deacon of the Fain Memorial Presbyterian Church and District Chairman of the Boy Scouts. He is married to the former Betty Smith of Tucson, Ariz., and has four children, three boys and a girl.

Purcell, born 42 years ago on a stock farm in Archer County, has been singled out for more honors than any other member of the legal profession in recent years in North Texas. An untiring civic worker, he has held memberships, chairmanships and top executive positions in dozens of the more important community activities of the area.

He has concentrated on youth work, such as Boy Scouts, YMCA, Boys Clubs, Child Welfare and health projects which principally benefit children.

In 1960 Judge Purcell was one of the recipients of the Altrusa Club Awards for Outstanding Citizenship and in 1958 received the Civitan Club's annual award for "Outstanding Citizenship."

Judge Purcell decided to run for Congress on the repeated insistence of North Texas Democrats that he is the only Democrat in the field big enough to win without a run-off.
