Leave Well Enough Alone

A proposed federal law to prohibit retailers from selling wares at a below-cost price may be inspired by good motivesbut, as a lengthy opposing statement submitted by the executive vice president of the National Association of Food Chains makes abundantly clear, it takes the wrong track entirely. The law is unnecessary, because the existing Robinson-Patterson Act adequately covers the ground. The language is vague. And, in many instances, compliance would be impossible.

Figuring cost (which includes invoice or replacement prices, plus overhead and other expenses borne by the vendor) is not nearly so simple a matter as one might think. The reason for that has been explained by a leading authority, Jules Backman, Research Professor of Economics at New York University "Usually the pricer doesn't know all his costs or what they will be . . . Until the accounting period is over, the volume of sales will not be known. And until volume is known he can't determine actual overhead costs per unit. Of course, one can make some assumptions concerning volume or can average volume over the years ... But this approach yields estimated costs which can be quite different from actual costs, particularly in periods of wide economic change.

On top of that, the proposed law would in all probability re duce competition and lead to higher consumer prices. The part of wisdom is to leave well enough alone.

Human Progress

Ninety-four years ago, on October 18, Alaska was bought from Russia by Secretary of State William H. Seward for $7.

Alaska is our largest state in area and the smallest in population-which gives her people an opportunity to reaffirm the pioneer spirit of their forefathers.

Mr. Seward once said, "The whole hope of human progress is suspended on the evergrowing influence of the Bible." The 21st annual National Bible Week will be observed October 16-22. National chairman of the Week is Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor. On accepting the chairmanship, Mr. Canham said, "Mankind has no nobler nor more useful guide-lines to thought and action than the Holy Scriptures.'

National Bible Week is sponsored by the Laymen's National Committee, Inc., an all-faiths organization. The theme for the Week is, "Read Your Bible-Your Finest Hours."

Someone got out the report that the bear had been killed on the Jess Collier farm seven or eight miles east of town and the rumor took hold and spread

Jess was busy answering phone calls for a couple of days, denying that his place is "bear country" despite some Johnson grass in spots. Now, he's working on the quet trying to determine who started the rumor.

State Representative Carl Wheatley, answering his office was told by the operator that e party in Stamford was calling. "All right, put them on," answered.

This is Pearcy, of the ABC procesy in Stamford and I want to talk to you about this lankety-blank sales tax. I flat on't like it." came the voice ver the telephone as Carl's ace slowly reddened. Well. Mister, I don't like it either and I didn't vote for it, Carl replied, as his caller cut in again with "Yes, but you were down there, you are a near ber of the Legislature, and want you to know that I don't ike that tax and a lot of other people feel just like I do and e want something done about

As Carl tried to get in a word explanation, the party on the ther end of the line started aughing and said "I'm on my way up there to see you, Carl, and wanted to be sure you were in town. The caller was Rep. C. W.

Pearcy of Temple, from the 63rd Legislative District and a man who gets a big bang out of a practical joke.

Rep. Pearcy is a candidate for speaker of the upcoming 58th Legislature, and is conacting members in connection th his candidacy. He spent Thursday afternoon here v's ting with Rep. Wheatley and Rep. Vernon J. Stewart of Vichita Falls who also was in Haskell for a talk at the Rotary Club.

The Indian Booster Club is more than the usual Monday morning quarterback club Those boys believe in action and they're not backward in providing manpower for any project they undertake.

Last week, for example, someone mentioned at a Booster Club meeting that the press box at Indian Stadium was in need of an interior wash and did not get to see the specimen While several were washing were full of questions as to the windows others were wielding and in almost paint brushes. nothing flat the press and radio booths took on a clean and

In order that the Boosters may know their work is noticed and appreciated, we quote Principal Johnson of Seagraves High School, a press box guest Friday night who said: "This is a nice place to work a football game; one of the nicest I've seen in towns the size of Haskell and Seagraves."

"It's still Haskell, although everything has changed from the way I remembered it," declared Fred (Froggie) Wankan, Athens, Tenn., businessman who was back in Haskell for the first time in 52 years to attend the fifth School Homecoming last week.

"I'd know I was in Haskell from the friendly way people speak to strangers and the courtesy with which you are greeted when you go into a the earlyday resident said.

Remembered by several former schoolmates as "Froggie" Wankan, he remembers his first trip to Haskell was in a covered wagon, coming with h's parents from Cooke County to look over Haskell as a prospective new location. The trip took two weeks he recalls.

The family lived here for several years before moving back to Cooke County in 1909. "Froggie" later became county attorney of Cooke County, next spent several years on e lecture platform, and was newspaper publisher before entering the photo-finishing business. He now owns one of the largest concerns of this kind in the South, located at Athens, Tenn, which does an annual business running into the millions of dollars.

"Froggie" recalls an incident that might have started him in the photo industry at an early age, if his father had consented.

He was in the 6th grade in Haskell schools when he and his teacher had a "falling out" and he decided to quit school, He had been offered a job in the local photograph studio and was all set to go to work. Telling his father of his plans, he was given strict orders to return to school - and he did, 'Froggie' recalls.

Survival, National Defense, Topics Of Speakers on Study Club Program

The Progressive Study Club and nuclear firepower is a met Thursday, Oct. 5, in the community room of the Haskell gression anywhere in the world National Bank, Mrs. Virgil Cobb called the meeting to order and welcomed guests from the Magazine Club, Harmony Club, Business and Professional Women's Club and the Garden Club. The resignation of Mrs. Charles Yost was accepted with regret, Mrs. Buck Everett led the group in the pledge of

Mrs. Viars Felker introduced J. C. Yeary, chairman of the Haskell County Emergency Planning Committee, and who is Work Unit Conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service. Mr. Yeary told the group how they must face the facts on how to survive a nuclear attack. First was to know the three main destructive effects -heat, blast, and fallout. Then he told how severe effects could be avoided by having a fall-out shelter. He went into detail in telling what to have on hand and to take into a fallout shelter, told how long it is safe to stay in one and how to prepare to live in a shelter. He emphasized the fact that knowledge is the survival power and the time to act is now.

Next, Mrs. Felker introduced Major Charles W. Nolen from the Dyess Nike Missile

"Some people have come to think of the Army as old-fashioned, obsolete and not having a real place in modern nuclear warfare," Major Nolen said.

'Nothing could be further from the truth." he continued. pointing out that the modern Army, with its latest missiles,

In dicussing the Dyess unit, he said "Our organization is the 5th Missile Battalion, U. S. Army. Our mission is to defend Dyess AFB and other military and industrial installations of this area against air attack. I assure you we are fully capable of doing this. We have two Nike-Hercules missile sites in this area. One on the west side of Fort Phantom Lake, and the other on the San Angelo Highway 16 miles southwest of Abilene

More than 200 Nike sites similar to ours comprise America's primary weapon against air attack.

'Our mission here is defensive - we are here to defend you," he concluded.

Then, Major Nolen showed a film about Nike-Hercules missiles. He concluded his interesting program with these words, "I have not come here tonight to tell you that war is sitting on our doorstep, but my purpose here has been only to tell you why we are here and what we are capable of doing night and day."

After an open discussion the meeting was adjourned. A period of fellowship followed with Mrs. Roy Everett, Mrs. Ed Hester, Miss Barbara Mc-Anelly and Mrs. Glen Sammons hostesses for the evening.

Back Jerry Crump raced to pay dirt, and Back Johnny Waller ran over two extra points to set the halftime score 8-8. Early in the third frame, Quarterback Hadaway connected with End Volley Ivy with a 23-yard aerial on the Eagle 20, and the fleet Indian End stepped off the distance to pay dirt. Try for extra point failed. Early in the fourth period, Bartley, Stone and Hadaway moved from the Eagles 33 in five carries to the five. From end for the final TD A pass. Hadaway to Ivy, was good for two extra points. The Eagles, battling stubbornly, were unable to move into scoring territory. As the game ended, Indian End Lonnie Sturdy intercepted an Eagle pass on the visitor's 43, but the whistle biew before the Tribe could get off a play.

The Indians marked up 18 first downs to the Eagles 12, moved 349 yards from scrimmage to 231 for the visitor. The Tribe drew two penalties for a total of 30 yards, while the visitors had four for 50 yards.

Fishermen Told Lake Still Has Many 'Big Ones'

The 38 and 50-pound fish caught by Mrs. Beatrice Watson and her sister, Mrs. Thelma Howard, and pictured in last week's Free Press, were not the last big ones in the lake. Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Watson, who own and operate Watson's Camp at the lake, gave the Free Press staff a 10-pound catfish caught the night before. Previously, they had presented the news reporters two nice five-pounders, Actually, just owning a pistol and keeping it on your own premises isn't against the law. in fact, the law says you can even bring it home from the store where you bought it and not be fined or jailed. Yep, you can also take it to the hock shop to sell it. But that's about where the privilege ends.

Unfortunately, a gun kept at home for self protection isn't much good unless you know now to shoot it. Most of us being city folks, and with cities frowning on our blasting away in our back yards, we must head for the country to get in some target practice.

That's probably our first step into the criminal-type class.

The law just doesn't recognize your right to fire a pistol, unless you're on your own land. This is so even though you may have permission from the man on whose land you wish to

If you're an off-duty policeman and have a pistol in your possession, you too, could be violating the penal statute. Biggest exception to the law is the recognition of one's right to carry a pistol while travelng.

But. Texas courts get somewhat shortsighted on just what is traveling, too. They don't recognize that you're traveling unless your trip is long enough to require you to be away from home overnight. Big test is whether your destination is far enough from your home that you'd have to remain away overnight. They're pretty cautious about the route you take, too. They judge the distance, not by the route you follow, but by the most direct or most commonly used route. Kinda rough on salesmen, isn't it?

I'm no lawyer, but it seems to me that if you lived in the city and wanted to do some target practice, or fire that little desk-drawer pistol, you'd have to drive at least a day's distance, whatever that may be, from home, be sure you've taken the shortest or most traveled route. And don't go hunting with that pistol while you're enroute to or at your destination.

Sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? Well, it does to me, too. Luckily this is a Texas law

I say this is "best" because it answers a big problem of many would-be target shooters. That problem is the availbility of an assistant or target thrower. Lots of men would shoot clay pigeons, now and then, if they had someone to throw the targets.

On the other hand, they don't do enough shooting to justify the purchase of clay pigeon equipment that's self - operating.
