

Thirty-Seven Seniors Sedate Prepare To Graduate

78th Annual HHS Commencement Here Monday

Thirty-seven seniors will receive diplomas at the 78th annual graduation exercises of the Haskell High School at the First Baptist Church here next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

The first graduating class here was in May, 1885, the year Haskell County was officially organized, though Haskell has been a county for 104 years.

At baccalaureate services, at 8 p. m. Sunday, Rev. Ray Nobles, pastor of First Baptist Church of Haskell, will deliver the message. The graduating seniors will participate in processional and recessional played by their fellow classmates, Pamela Baird, honor graduate, and Joanie Frazier.

The scripture will be given by Phil Bowers, also a senior and honor graduate. Betty Hill, a senior, will provide vocal music for the baccalaureate program. The invocation will be given by Rogers Durham, minister of the Christian Church, and the benediction by Rev. Douglas Finch, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

In the commencement exercises Monday night, a program directed in its entirety by seniors, except for diploma and awards presentation, will include the following: processional and recessional by Thomas Holden, honor student, and Basset Owens; invocation, David Anderson; welcome, Bobby Herren; the salutatorian; song by the graduating "Nine Teens"; the valedictory address by Nancy Britte, valedictorian; a song by the entire Senior Class; and the benediction by Johnny Kimbrough.

American Legion and Business and Professional Women's Scholarship Awards will be presented by representatives of these two service organizations, and Superintendent of Schools Robert R. King, will award scholarships.

Nancy Britte's four year scholastic average as valedictorian was 93.36. Bobby Herren's average which earned him salutatorian standing was 92.20.

Haskell High School Principal W. P. McCollum, will present diplomas to the following: David Anderson, Pamela Baird, Tommy Bantz, Don Bartley, Phil Bowers, Nancy Britte, Glenda Cherry, Gary CLOPTON, Kenneth Conner, Joanie Frazier, Merlan Crawford, Frances Foll, David Gannaway, Larry Gilliam, Ronnie Hamilton, Bobbie Herren, Betty Hill, Nancy Hodge, Thomas Holden, Bobby Hunt, Judy Huisson, John Kimbrough, Jerry Kreger, Nancy Lawson, Sandra Letz, Vicki McClure, Sharon Marr, Jan Matthews, Elaine Middleton, Basset Owens, Elaine Phelps, Perry Pogue, Jerry Stocks, Don Stone, Lovell Wallace, Lesley Wooten, and Bobby Zalokar. (denotes honor students.)

Class officers this year have been Pamela Baird, president; Lowell Wallace, vice president; Sandra Letz, treasurer; and Bobby Zalokar, secretary. Gary CLOPTON, reporter.

Area City 'Dads' Hear TML Talk On Finance

Municipal administrators must have a "disciplined willingness to make a strict daily analysis of their needs and must live by a daily regimen in order to create a favorable public image."

This was the message put across to more than 50 members of Region 5, of the Texas Municipal League, comprised of mayors, city managers, aldermen, and public employees by Frank J. Medanich, assistant vice president of the First Southwest Company, Dallas, in its quarterly meeting hosted by Haskell city fathers Thursday night.

Mayor J. E. Walling, Mayor Pro Tem R. L. Stephenson, and members of the Haskell City Council were the welcoming party for municipal officials from nine Northwest and North Central Texas communities. The largest delegation, eight in number, headed by City Manager Jack Davis, City Councilmen Dr. D. Clifford Burross, president of the municipal league group in this region, and Winston Wallander came from Wichita Falls.

Medanich, former TCU football star, and an expert on municipal financing told his audience, "How favorably and widely your town is known is measured by how wisely it handles its debt management. He provided a number of helpful hints about municipal operation which buyers of bonds at low interest rates like to see. One, he asserted, is an equally balanced diversification of community interests among development of industrial, commercial, and residential properties, never a concentration on any one of the three.

An adequate present and future water supply is imperative to support credit from bond buyers and continue to improve a community's public image, the speaker said.

"Whatever image you create goes a long, long way toward determining the price you are going to pay for city money in bonds, and of course, you want to get it as cheaply as possible," he concluded.

At the invitation of Councilman Wallander, the TML group voted to go to Wichita Falls at its next quarterly meeting the third week in August.

Chairman Burross commended Haskell city officials for its exemplary hospitality at the meeting here held at the Hwy Drive Inn. Cities represented, in addition to Haskell and Wichita Falls, were Dallas, Stamford, Seymour, Monday, Quanah, Vernon and Holliday.

SENIOR SALUTE

To the Girl Graduate

Fair are the flowers of Springtime
And sweet are the songs of the birds;
Roses and robins' songs mingled,
Beauty past expression in words.

Noble are the Queens of the Kingdoms,
Stately the Pride of the Race
Ruler of millions of subjects,
Loved for her goodness and grace.

Wise are the many deep thinkers,
Expounders of wisdom and thought,
Philosophers of deepest of doctrines,
By theories and grave studies wrought.

But sweeter than all of the roses
Or than all the flowers of Spring.
Sweeter than any Spring carol
Than the warbling robin could sing.

And nobler than any fair princess
That the kingdom ever has seen,
Richer in grace and her goodness
Than any majestic crowned queen.

And wiser than all of the doctors
Of letters and lengthy degrees,
Is the girl who knows that tomorrow,
She will have the world on its knees.

All praise to the girl who has finished,
Make room for the senior sedate!
Once more there's a world to be conquered,
By the might of the Girl Graduate!

G. F. Mullino, Pioneer Planter, Is Dead At 88

G. F. (Chink) Mullino, 88, retired Rochester banker, who was a pioneer cotton farmer in Haskell County, died at 11:35 a. m. Wednesday in Haskell County Hospital. He had been in failing health for about a year.

Funeral was held Friday in the First Methodist Church here with the Rev. C. R. LeMond, pastor, and the Rev. Ray Nobles, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Burial in Willow Cemetery was directed by Hojden's Funeral Home.

Born April 12, 1875, in Cumming, Ga., Mr. Mullino came to Haskell County in 1895 from Fairy in Hamilton County and settled near Rochester. He helped organize and served as director of the first bank in Rochester soon after the town was settled in 1906.

He was one of the organizers of the Home State Bank in Rochester in 1932 and served as its president until retiring in 1940.

Mr. Mullino devoted most of his business interests to cotton farming for over 45 years. He followed the methods of cotton farming progress from the 1-row walking planter and cultivator of 1901 to the modern equipment of today.

He was always interested in the new and better methods of farming and was ready to try them always. He designed and built, with the help of a blacksmith, the first 2-row cotton planter ever seen in this area.

Depot Dream Coming True

Bulletin 1

Ellis L. Simmons, of Fort Worth, vice president of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company, Thursday assured a representative cross-section of Haskell's citizenship of the railroad's desire to "assist in every way possible" in the solidly supported project to move Haskell's old landmark depot to the city park and restore it as a museum.

The railroad executive drew a spontaneous round of applause, after bending a receptive ear to the Haskell citizens group's appeal for the depot to be given to the town, when he declared, "I think this can be worked out, and I don't anticipate any trouble. This thing is not finalized yet, and I have to talk to my superiors about it, but we'll let you know soon."

Simmons added that, "We are proud you are doing this," when told of Haskell's desire to preserve the depot as a monument to the heritage of the railroad. Your help in preserving these memories means a lot to us."

The Fort Worth & Denver top official was accompanied to the meeting in the Community Room of the Haskell National Bank by Harold E. Moyer, district superintendent for the railroad from Wichita Falls, and Keith Summers, general freight agent of the lines.

Prime movers for progress in Haskell, the new projects committee and the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, began to move into a moving situation here on Tuesday.

Both the board under the leadership of its president, Abe Turner, and the new projects group, directed by Dr. James F. Cadenhead, went on record in special called sessions to make the moving of Haskell's dilapidated depot and its restoration in the city park here as a museum, meeting place, and tourist attraction a priority project on the community development agenda.

Although the proposition had not yet been placed squarely before the Jaycees' board, most of the other 12 service organizations in Haskell by Tuesday had indicated, either through an individual member or in a body, their intense interest in seeing the project through to an early and successful completion.

Editor's Note: Haskell Jaycees Tuesday night showed their civic colors by unanimously endorsing the depot restoration project and voting to support it all the way.

Taking on a full head of steam, just like a locomotive, the heritage of which every effort is being made to preserve.

Monroe Doctrine Crowd Pleaser At Rotary Banquet

Haskell had many "moving parts," main cogs that turn the wheel of service for Rotary International, who traveled far to hear a moving message from one of the greatest Rotarians of them all, D. D. Monroe, indefatigable torch-bearer for Rotary, at the annual Ladies' Night banquet for Rotarians and their Rotary Anns here Tuesday night.

Monroe, a Clayton, New Mexico abstractor, who has traveled more than a million miles by careful count to preach the Rotary philosophy of "Service Above Self," did not speak abstractly as he plugged for the development of a philosophy of life "from within." Service above self, he told his audience, "is the ultimate in human relationships, and in helping others, we help ourselves."

From this path of approach comes the Rotary motto, "He profits most who serves best," Monroe declared.

The esteem in which Monroe is held, both as speaker and man, was demonstrated by the presence in Haskell of seven past district governors of Rotary, and the present Governor of this district, Eldon Gresham, of Graham. Also present were Mrs. O. B. Sellers, of Ft. Worth, wife of the late vice president of Rotary International, and at least 12 current and immediate past presidents of local Rotary clubs in the Northwest and North Central Texas area.

Jaycees Tackle Litter Cleanup Campaign Here

Haskell Jaycees this week were setting up the manpower to climb over the tailgate and into the litter collecting wagon, the wheels of which have been set to turning by the Texas Good Roads Association and the Texas Jaycees in a statewide campaign.

Bud Lane, president of the hustling Jaycees here, is organizing his membership in the statewide anti-litter drive, and the group here is bent on making enough of a "clean sweep of things," Lane reported, "to win the $500 in prizes being offered. This money would come in handy to further projects in our community."

The Jaycee president said he hopes to enlist the help of other service organizations, in addition to city and county officials, to rid community streets, highways, and county roads of trash, bottles, and cans.

Memorial Day Closing

By agreement of the merchants, Memorial Day, May 30, Memorial Day, is one of the days designated in Haskell, Abe Turner, Chamber of Commerce president, and Mrs. Roy Johnson, manager, reminded Wednesday.

Trail Of That Vanishing Varmint Just May Be Getting A Mite Warm

Haskell County's legend of a mysterious varmint, reportedly seen infrequently in the south-east and eastern sections over a period of the last three years, had a new host of believers here Monday as searching began here Monday for a "thing" twice as big as a coyote, with a "round paw wider across than a coffee cup," seen during the past week.

County Judge Jim Alvis lent enough credence to a rapid-fire series of reports to contact state and federal predatory animal control authorities who have promised to come to this area next Monday to try to track down Haskell's varmint, he said Monday afternoon. The consensus of opinion after sifting the reports is that it is a mountain lion or panther on the prowl.

Whatever the "thing" is, it was big enough not to be deterred from chewing off the tail of a 900-pound cow last Monday. The varmint, native of almost 50 years in the Paint County, reported on Monday morning. On Wednesday night, one of Fischer's three-week-old calves suffered a similar fate, Fischer said. Then, Monday morning, the Haskell County farmer said three of his young calves were missing, and he "couldn't find hide, nor hair of them."

Harvey Terrill, employee on the Archie Pardue Ranch, a 7,000-acre spread in southeast Haskell County, which borders Fischer's place, reported Monday he saw an animal "twice as big as a coyote and of dark color" loping away from Fischer's farm one night last week about dusk.

Support for the belief that it is "some kind of unusually big cat" was furnished by Shorty West, who farms three miles south of Fischer, whose home place is three miles west of Lake Stamford. West said that several days ago, his dogs set up a howl "just about dark, and I went to the barn to see what was the matter." He reported he wasn't able to get a good look, but took a shot at what appeared to be a big mountain lion which had the dogs cornered and wouldn't let them go to the house as was their custom that time of day. The animal disappeared in the darkness.

To further build a case for fact instead of fiction as to the varmint's existence, Fischer said that not long ago a Latin-American woman working for him was doing some work on the place when she ran screaming to the house saying she saw a big animal. Investigating, Fischer said he found paw prints, made after a recent rain, "completely round and wider across than a coffee cup. It was a big cat of some kind. That varmint, I'm figuring," Fischer said.

Judge Alvis, together with the Haskell County Commissioners' Court, last Thursday called a county-wide election for Saturday, June 22, to let the people decide whether a full-time trapper would be employed to control a reported bobcat and wildcat nuisance here. The election originally was scheduled for Sunday June 23, but a group of citizens led

AL Auxiliary To Hold Poppy Day Here Saturday

Poppy Day, America's silent tribute to her war heroes, will be held in Haskell on Saturday, May 25, the Haskell American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 221, announced after its May meeting.

Mrs. Dave Persons, reporter for the Auxiliary, pointed out that hospitalized war veterans earn money and gain valuable therapy by making bright red crepe paper poppies for the American Auxiliary.

A citywide sale of poppies is planned here on Haskell's Poppy Day. Wearing a poppy on Poppy Day, Mrs. Persons declared, is honoring more than two and a half million Americans who died and nearly one million wounded during both World Wars and the Korean conflict.

The Auxiliary here heard a report on the recent district meeting in Archer City, at which Henry Druessedow, of Haskell, was elected chaplain for the 13th District.

Miss Martha Meadors was hostess for the May session at which Poppy Day plans were made. The next meeting will be June 11 in the home of Mrs. Charles Conner, and Mrs. Martin Rueffer will be in charge.

To Whom Credit Is Due

Our depot dream, initiated by Mrs. Bailey Toliver, enthusiastically endorsed, and taken on as a project with zealous dedication by the Progressive Study Club of which she is a prime mover, has a healthy chance of coming true.

The reasons for the potential realization of the restoration of this ludicrous, but salvageable, landmark are that no less potent outfits than the Mayor and City Council of Haskell and the Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company are behind the project. Both have publicly tangibly indicated their willingness and resolve to help things along with generous acts of cooperation within the bounds of their jurisdictional responsibilities.

The New Projects Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, chaired by Dr. James F. Cadenhead, and Mrs. Tom Barfield, speaking as an individual, but conveying a feeling we feel sure is shared by the community, have expressed deep gratitude to both railroad and city officials for their understanding attitude and for their actions which have boosted the project to its present favorable position.

To theirs, the Haskell Free Press unreservedly adds a ringing melofluous "Amen" from our corner in genuine gratitude to Mr. Ellis L. Simmons, vice president of the Ft. Worth and Denver, his loyal lieutenants, Mr. Harold E. Moyer and Mr. Keith Summers, and to Mayor J. E. Walling, Jr., Mayor Pro Tem R. L. Stephenson, and members of the City Council for their exemplary demonstration of civic spirit benefitting our town.

The railroad and the City are doing their part to make this depot dream come true. There's a lot of doing left to be done. And that part is up to you and yours, us and ours, the citizens of Haskell.

The Free Press believes a community togetherness on this task, from which all are bound to benefit, will see the undone done, enough and on time.

Money Talking Again

When money talks, it's difficult for anyone to do aught but listen. And the way we feel about it, it's also difficult to lift any argument that will stand up against a fellow who "puts his money where his mouth is," as the old saying goes, especially if YOU are going to be the beneficiary.

Last Thursday, through the courtesy of our Mayor and city officials, we were privileged to hear a learned, experienced man astutely versed in the field of municipal finance, effectively present helpful hints to about 50 mayors, city managers and other public employes on the importance to a town of a good "public image."

Frank Medanich, the speaker, returned to this one salient point three times in the text of his speech: Not only a present, but a future adequate water supply are an imperative need to secure buyers of any type of municipal bonds, revenue or general obligation, at reasonable rates of interest. Without an adequate water supply now, and plans for satisfactory water supply to satisfy future needs, bonds to meet the utility needs of a city or for any other purpose will be hard to come by at any equitable rate, he emphasized.

An eloquent Mr. Medanich said that in this section of the United States, West Texas, in particular, the number of people who need to be taken care of in population centers on the move have created a monumental demand for increased public services by cities and towns. Thus a strain is brought about on the municipality to increase its demand for bonds bearing its name to finance the projects for progress it needs.

It all boils down to this: A town can't have a good public image in the eyes of bond buyers with low rates of interest if it doesn't have an adequate present and future water supply. And if it doesn't have a good public image, it can't sell bonds at fair rates of interest should it ever need them.

Our conclusion, on this line of thought, are simply determined: If Haskell doesn't ever want to progress, it will have no future need to go into the bond buying business. And if it doesn't anticipate any future growth, then the present water supply is ample and adequate.

So no water needs, no needs for bonds to sell for the financing with which to grow in the future.

We thought we'd repeat this testimony before the city fathers of our own and eight other area communities, so the people may know.

Oakescripts A Pencil Pusher's Potpourri

This "potpourri of the days news, Page 2" (with apologies to Paul Harvey) is about seniors, 37 sedate seniors of Haskell High School, as it should be. Monday night, they will briefly don the mortar board of wisdom and the toga of maturity, capped and gowned, for a shining hour.

Then they will walk from those nostalgic and memorable commencement exercises across the threshold of a new world. A world, which, at that particular moment, they have in the palms of their hands.

Being some 29 years beyond a similar experience, which is as vividly recalled as though it were this week, the Pencil Pusher, running the risk of a "fatherly advice" label, all the same, would venture just one brief single sentence of counsel. Remembering that "commencement" is just what the word spells out, a BEGINNING—our counsel is:

You can, if you will, put, and keep, the world in the palm of your hand.

Elsewhere in the Free Press is a poem we thought it propitious to publish today, four days away from graduation, as a senior salute. It was written as one can see as a tribute to a girl, and we have no intention here of slighting the male members of the 1963 Class at HHS.

If the young men of HHS will but take note of the next to the last stanza, substituting their own gender, for "girl," then we believe we have our "commencement address" put across.

"And wiser than all of the doctors of letters and lengthy degrees, is the girl, (young man), who knows that tomorrow, she (he) will have the world on its knees."

This keynote is not implied in the "cocky" sense. It means YOU CAN IF YOU WILL. That's our commencement "address" to you 37 sterling Seniors. May your fate be Great!

The author of the poem, "To A Girl Graduate," was a budding newspaperman of 20. His inspiration was a high school senior, 16, salutatorian of her class, in a town then the size of Haskell. This couple married, and their first-born was the Pencil Pusher.

We don't know of anything more soul satisfying than being witness to the accomplishments of a group of teenagers. Last Sunday afternoon, our face glowed, not so much with the warmth of the auditorium, as with spirit stirring inside over what those magnificent "Nine Teens" were accomplishing on that stage under the talented tutelage of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Bell.

It was a poised performance, professional in every aspect, singing, setting, and all. Not enough can be said of this lofty-calibered couple the Belis, nor of those dedicated girls, classic as a group, and signally achieving as individuals throughout their accomplished young careers to date.

Along with 350 or so other hometowners, looking with glowing pride at the "Nine Teens," all of them our very own, our heart melted with the finding of a golden cache at the end of their Rainbow Concert. It was a cache of golden voices, sharing beauty which came from within (as Joanie Frazier said in her portion of the induction ceremony) with others. It was a rich gift to all who were privileged to be there.

Last Thursday, with a Wichita Falls Times-Record News staffer, Wayne Hutson, we spent more than an hour watching the "Nine Teens" in a behind-the-scenes, routine, hard-working rehearsal, a studio scene repeated a conservative 100 times this year. The girls were a-twit because we caught them in a state of disarray and had come to do a story about them. So far as the Pencil Pusher is concerned, this group of girls has a unique type of beauty, no matter what their manner of costume or coiffure condition. And to see them closeup, as we did at rehearsal, singing their hearts out, was just as beautiful as last Sunday's command performance.

Yes, like Joanie said, beauty comes from within, and to share this magnificent medium of beauty, in song, with others, as only the "Nine Teens" can convey it, is one of life's delights.

So, Joanie, Pam, Millie, Ruby Kay, Vicki, Jo Helen, Nancy, Karen, Andrea, and Nancy—thanks for the memories, undelible ones. And Rita, Diana, Judy, Jerre Sue, and Blouise, we know we can depend on you—with the help of those ringing Belis—to carry on a tradition, replete with character and accomplishment.

We couldn't help, but muse, as we rapidly listened to these teenagers of Haskell Sunday, how fortunate these graduating seniors, the throbbing thirty-seven, really are for having acquired their high school educations in a town the size of Haskell.

Granted, there is a lot of knowledge to be acquired, formally and the hard-knocks way, outside the environs of this small community. But speaking from the standpoint of one who has been there, we like the "learning by doing" way of life we've seen in this town. One doesn't delegate the authority to get a job done in Haskell, at the high school, at this newspaper, or at the church house. He assumes it, because there's no one else to whom to delegate it.

This is healthy, we say. And it brings out quality in a person, quality that "will out" even among tremendously greater numbers. Our graduates of Haskell High School are proving that by deeds of accomplishment in stories we handle daily. There is much to be said in behalf of training for life in a small community where every individual is tested and tried for his talent and every ounce of it is extracted from him and laid before the discerning eyes of the home folks. There is no substitute for this training. And we'll stack it up against mass education, its numbered humanity instead of personalities, and the low percentage of real extra-curricular activity, where priceless experience is gained in smaller school realms, just any old time.

We think one of the classic comments of the century was the one overheard recently on the Big-D bus filled with maids going to work in the "high rent district of Dallas." "He have the stomach trouble and he have to have a Bloody Mary."

Headline writers, a breed of their own, on daily newspapers through the country had a circus over Major Gordon Cooper's 22-orbit space spectacle.

So the editor of the Free Press may know 50 years hence that this weekly hometown compendium took cognizance of this phenomenal feat, we want to record it. "Gordia (A current comic page hero) Futs Faith (name of capsule) Down in Center of Target" and other catchy headers proclaimed this amazing achievement to the world. But the one which we thought towered above them all was that of the neighboring Abilene Reporter-News' Bill Oliver, who should get a prize for "WE HAVE FLOWN THE COOP!"

After the Pencil Pusher's 13th active participation in Armed Forces Day, a joint effort of all services replacing Armistice Day, Navy Day, etc., which began in 1951, as we recall, our observation is that "old Majors never die. Some of them MAY live long enough to make lieutenant colonel." Signed: Major Oakes Oakescript: The press here at the back of the Free Press establishment, which gets us in a sweat every Wednesday, is just like a woman, seems to us. When it gets warmed up to the subject, it surely does make a good impression.

HERBERT HINES, RULE BUS DRIVER, RECEIVES HIGH HONOR

Herbert Hines, a bus driver at Rule, who has driven 299,000 miles in 23 public school years without an accident, Monday afternoon received one of six regional awards as Public School Bus Driver of the Year in Texas in a special assembly at Rule High School as the student body, fellow townspeople, and visitors from throughout the area gave him a rousing ovation.

Jack Bryan, of the Texas Motor Transportation Association, Austin, made the presentation of the framed certificate of safety merit as A. H. Fleming, agent in charge, Motor Carrier Lease division, Texas Department of Public Safety; Rip Smith, of Wichita Falls, safety officer for the Texas Highway Patrol in this district; Conner Horton, superintendent of Rule schools, and other officials looked on with appreciation.

The award, sponsored by the Texas Education Agency in cooperation with the TMTA and the Texas Department of Public Safety, is not for safe driving alone. Along with it, judging of character for this high honor, is done on the basis of work "above and beyond" the call of duty.

Safety Officer Smith cited Hines' exemplary work in carrying medicines and groceries to isolated homes in inclement weather and one specific act last year when he carried in his arms a small girl, trudging five miles through the snow with her to get her safely home. The school bus had stalled, and Hines, after seeing that all the other bus passengers were safely deposited, carried the smallest the farthest distance to her farm residence.

Horton, Fleming, and Bryan also presented testimonials to Hines' previously unheralded and loyal work as a bus driver.

It was learned here Monday that a resolution commending the efforts of Hines and recognizing the award he received has been passed by the House of Representatives at Austin, on Friday, having been introduced by Roy Arledge of Stamford, state representative from this district.

The work of the Rule bus driver will be judged along with that of the five other regional winners for the award of Texas Public School Bus Driver of the Year, the recipient to be announced at the TMTA convention in Ft. Worth on June 7.

Hines' service spans the years 1936-63, except for four years during the war.

Jaycees Sponsor Public Meeting On Alcoholism

At the request and under the sponsorship of the Haskell Jaycees, the Haskell chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous and Dr. T. W. Williams, Haskell County Health physician, will direct a program at a public meeting Tuesday night, June 4, as a project of the Jaycees' health and safety committee.

The public gathering will start at 7:30 p. m. at the American Legion Hall here, Jaycees President Bud Lane announced.

"Alcoholics Anonymous does not provide information unless asked for it," Lane said in announcing the project. "We think the work this organization does is phenomenal, and believe a public meeting will be beneficial. Therefore, it is being staged at our request."

Lane said the aims and objects of the health and safety committee of the Jaycees are to sponsor an active educational program on the methods of coping with alcohol.

Statistics obtained by Lane from AA here show that 50 per cent of the people of this country over 15 years of age use alcohol in some form; that one out of every seven people among that 50 per cent who continue to consume alcohol will become an alcoholic; that the habits of every alcoholic rehabilitated by AA have affected the lives of 29 other people.

Chevy II Nova 400 6-Passenger Station Wagon

A Chevy II wagon looks this big when you load it up and this big when you gas it up

That, in the eyes of most Chevy II wagon owners, is just about the size of it. A king-size appetite for cargo. But a dainty one for gas. And this, we hardly need add, is just the kind of wagon we planned it to be. Taut and trim as it is on the outside, we went to great lengths to keep it BIG where a wagon should be BIG. The load platform extends a full nine feet from the back of the front seat to the tip of the lowered tailgate.

And for all the pepper we packed into that 6-cylinder engine (there's also a choice of an even thrifter 4 in most models), we were careful to keep it simple, easy to service—and a real stickler on economy. Feel in a traveling mood? Well—happy coincidence—this is the time of year your Chevrolet dealer feels in his most generous trading mood. Looks like it's high time you two got together.

I had the privilege of spending a whole day and far into the night with my family last August at "Six Flags," and if time will permit I expect to again head down the six trails of adventure some weekend this summer. Son Larry attended "Six Flags" in its premier opening in 1961; went again in 1962 and is chomping at the bits to see it again. More attractions are added each year, and the scenes are changing constantly.

Six Flags Over Texas, each laid out with a single purpose . . . to provide wholesome fun and enjoyment for every member of the family. Blended of fact and legend, these adventures highlight the romantic story of Texas under Spain, France, Mexico, Texas own Republic, the Confederacy and the United States since annexation.

These trails provide the way for the visitor to relive epochs of the past and explore dynamic prospects of the future. Contributing to that experience are a series of thrilling trips by river boats, narrow-gauge trains, stage coaches and other unusual conveyances, intriguing shops stocked with memorable items to cherish a lifetime, exciting live shows, and other novel attractions.

A continuing policy of adding new and fresh attractions will assure constant growth and further planned development of this remarkable wonderland. Universal in appeal, wholesome in its atmosphere, Six Flags Over Texas is certain to prove diverse and fascinating to visitors of all ages.

From the moment one first sets foot in Old Mexico, the land of enchantment, the holiday spirit takes over. The ride aboard the Ferrocarril Fiesta, gayest and most hilarious train, which winds its way over the countryside to this corner of Old Mexico will remain happy memories that long linger.

A visit to Spain, the Spanish missionary and their friendly wards, the Texas Indians, left the impress of Spain, even as this section of Six Flags Over Texas recalls their deeds and prowess.

It's high noon in the Wild West, as a crowd gathering around the courthouse steps reminds the visitor. The Trial of a suspected horse thief is about to begin. Judge Roy Bean will conduct the trial personally. A train ride through Indian Country, a visit to the Crazy Horse Saloon; frontier hospitality and the open-handed spirit of the Old West abound in every part of the Republic of Texas section of Six Flags.

At Six Flags the Old South lives again under the banner of the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy. In the distance a formation of men in gray may be seen marching back and forth to town. The streets are lined with spectators, ready to cheer them as heroes. Announced by the sound of life and drum, a stirring rendition of "Dixie" is heard. You enter this section just as the urgency of war calls for volunteers for the Confederacy. A big enlistment rally is in progress. The booming of cannon and a drill team smartly stepping by, herald that urgency. But peace-time ways of life in the Old South are not yet lost completely. The leisurely pace of a lazy afternoon reveals the courtiers of King Cotton in a holiday mood. Down the street four white horses stand hitched to a stagecoach. It is part of the Butterfield Overland Mail Line. The old stagecoach ride still lingers in my memory as another highlight of Six Flags.

The visit to mysterious Skull Island, a climb to the top of a 30-foot Swamp tree is a must for all explorers. Climax of a visit to the Confederate section is the big amphitheater where entertainers perform almost continuously. So with banjos strumming and hearts a-humming, the spirit of the Old South rises again to greet you graciously in this section dedicated to the great days of the Confederacy.

An exotic trip by riverboat through steaming jungles packed with danger is the high point of adventure in the French section of Six Flags Over Texas.

With fifty stars and thirteen stripes, it's the grand old flag of the U.S.A. In this section the greatness of the common land is shown. America looks forward. Science and technology are her constant spur to even greater achievements. Symbolizing that spirit is the magnificent ASTROLIFT, a soaring Space Age vehicle that carries budding astronauts high in the air across the park as it takes flight between the Texas and United States sections. Here also the visitor finds Humble's Happy Motoring Freeway. Specially built, gasoline-powered sports cars cruise along this freeway of tomorrow. In these cars the driver and the rider sense the experience of carefree driving . . . assured by traffic safety as yet undreamed of by traffic experts. Throughout the United States section are dynamic space vehicles of the future, industrial exhibits, refreshment stands and music in the air around you. The section extols the astounding growth of Texas' industrial enterprise under the flag of the Grand Old U. S. A.

facilities in the Haskell County Courthouse, and an additional $600 for the restroom fixtures. The contract was awarded to the E. H. McCown Construction Company of Abilene, the same firm now renovating and repairing the Courthouse, installing an elevator and adding six more rooms to be used by county offices on the third floor of the Courthouse.

The entire construction job is scheduled for completion by July 12, 90 days from the date it was begun.

Monroe Doctrine-- Bulletin 1---

Monroe, a dedicated dynamo of Rotary and past director himself of the international service organization, dishing up his usual platform serving, rare and juicy at the outset, and well-done at the finish, sounded the keynote of his stirring speech with, "The peace of the world never will be made in the minds of men. Rather, it will be made in the hearts of men."

The man who shares with J. Edd McLaughlin, of Rails, past president of RI, the honor of being probably the best-known Rotarian in the Southwest was introduced by Robert R. King, Haskell school superintendent and past governor in this district.

The "Nine Teens," Haskell popular, also classic, choral group sang a series of songs.

Rotary President E. J. Stewart and President Elect Ira Hester recognized their respective boards of directors, and tribute was paid throughout the evening to the "girls behind the men," the Rotary Annals of Haskell. Past President in Haskell Tom Barfield, introduced the numerous distinguished guests.

A decorations committee comprised of Rotarians and Rotary Annals R. W. Herren, Ed Hester, and Charles Conner provided a tasteful Rotary setting for the climax event of the Rotary year here.

and used it successfully for many years.

He was one of the first farmers in the county to use 4-row tractors and was the first farmer in Haskell County to plant the new combine type mulo and harvest it with a combine.

Though quite elderly toward the end of his productive life, he maintained a keen interest in the latest developments in cotton production, and enjoyed most the time he spent discussing modern farm techniques with the young farmers with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Mullino moved to Haskell in 1927, and had lived here since. He served as Haskell County Commissioner for Precinct 1 for two years in 1933-34. He had extensive land interests in the county from 1901 until 1940 when he disposed of his holdings and retired.

A member of the First Methodist Church, Mr. Mullino also was a member of the church board of stewards.

Church stewards only last Tuesday night had voted to send Mr. Mullino a letter of appreciation in behalf of the whole church for his faithful, untiring service on the board.

He married Ida Blanche Ogle at Fairy on Jan. 26, 1898. She died Aug. 31, 1938. He married Angie Herren here on Jan. 23, 1941.

Surviving are his wife; five daughters, Mrs. W. S. Taylor of Rochester, Mrs. W. M. Whalley of Estelline, Mrs. W. W. Irwin of Midland, Mrs. Hazel Cluck of Cisco, and Mrs. H. K. Henry of Haskell; two sons, Felix of Rochester and James O. of Houston; two stepsons, R. W. Herren and Clinton Herren Sr., both of Haskell; one stepdaughter, Mrs. Fred Brown of Haskell; 23 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren. Two daughters preceded him in death. They were Joyce Mullino who died in 1900, and Louise Mullino, who died in 1936.

Pallbearers were George Mullino, Pat Henry, Bobby Cluck, Jim Whaley, Dan Irwin, Grant Goddell and Pety Murray.

Honorary pallbearers were Clinton (Buddy) Herren Jr., Bobby Herren, Rodney Brown, Fred Brown Jr., James Brown, Paul Brown, George Brown, Ray Herren, Dan Howard, Edward Corzine and John Gannaway.

for this area, also of Wichita Falls.

The visiting railroad executives considerably offered to help secure prime items of "railroadiana" and other pieces of museum merit for location in the projected restored depot.

Mrs. Bailey Toliver, representing the Progressive Study Club here, which has taken the lead in the restoration campaign for the 61-year-old edifice which holds many nostalgic memories for old-timers in Haskell, asked Simmons if a pot bellied stove and an old steam locomotive might be included in any plans. The assembled railroad men promised they'd bend every effort to procure them.

Moyer told the group that present plans of the railroad call for the construction of a small structural steel efficiency building to house the railroad's administrative needs "sometime in July." It is believed, contingent on finalized approval by the Fort Worth and Denver's board, the old depot would be given to Haskell after effects now in the old building can be moved to the new one.

Meanwhile, the assurance from Mayor J. E. Walling, and the Haskell City Council, reported by Mrs. Toliver at the Thursday meeting, was that the City will provide space in the city park within sight of Highway 277, Haskell's main artery, and work out utility and maintenance plans with all concerned. Another planning meeting was called for Monday night, May 20, at 7:00 p. m.

Dr. James F. Cadenhead, chairman of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce's New Projects Committee, who presided over the Thursday meeting, said further crystallization of the depot project was to be the principal business of the Monday meeting. "Now that it looks as if we will have the green light from both the City and the railroad, if all goes well," Dr. Cadenhead said, "we have to roll up our sleeves and work out the other details."

Dr. T. W. Williams, Mrs. Tom Barfield, both active civic leaders; Porter Oakes, editor of the Haskell Free Press; Mrs. Glen Sammons, president of the Progressive Study Club; Mayor Pro Tem R. L. Stephenson, Hugh Ratliff, Chamber President Abe Turner, and others all praised the attitude of the railroad and its willingness to cooperate with the desired goals.

Simmons concluded his appearance before the Haskell civic group with praise for "this small town with big ideas."

in this town built a large measure by the Ft. Worth and Denver Railroad, Dr. Cadenhead's stem-winding committee had a sleeves-rolled-up session and took this action:

Named Mrs. Baley Toliver, one of the initiators of the project and Progressive Study Club representative, E. J. Stewart, president of the Rotary Club, Bud Lane, Jaycee president and Mrs. Tom Barfield, chairman of the Haskell County Historical Survey Committee, on a committee to set a date and plan a county-wide barbecue event, complete with entertainment, to be held in late June in the city park at the site of the proposed depot restoration. Purpose of the barbecue will be to raise funds to help underwrite the cost of moving the old landmark train.

Lions View Little League Baseball Film

Members of the Haskell Lions Club viewed a Little League baseball film Tuesday noon. Hugh Ratliff was program chairman for the day.

The interesting film, in color, pointed out the organization, rules, regulations of Little League ball clubs, and the many important lessons the youngsters learned in Little League play.

Guests present at Tuesday's session were Wilford (Pee Wee) Skiles, and R. E. Colbert, M. D.

In appreciation of club members, Boss Lion, Al Hinds, presented a table model pen set to Mrs. Al C. Williams, club pianist and sweetheart for the past five years.

Mrs. Williams was presented the gift in appreciation of her devotion, loyalty, dependability, and for her many efforts expended in promoting Lionism.

Mrs. Williams was elected as pianist-sweetheart for the 1963-64 term, but resigned due to the fact she and Mr. Williams are moving to Decatur, Texas to make their home.

Engraved on the set, which carried out the Lions colors of blue and gold, were these words: "Mrs. Al C. Williams, Haskell Lions Club Sweetheart 1963-64."

station and restoring it. Designated Desmond Dulaney, Haskell lumber and building materials dealer to "put the pencil" to the decrepit depot to determine exactly how much money it will take to get the job done.

Decided, once all the information is in, to go before the boards or full memberships of every service club in town to secure a commitment on the amount of support which may be expected from each.

Wheat Vote

With 690 out of a potential 1900 voters casting ballots, Haskell County wheat growers favored the Administration's wheat program 347 to 278, with 65 challenge voters, here Tuesday. The necessary two-thirds majority, however, failed by slightly more than 11 per cent to endorse the program.

Boone Pupils' Recital
