by 1st Lt. Patrick Barnes Deputy Chief, Public Affairs Division

Community Service can come in many shapes and forms. The Air Force is well known for taking part in all types of projects for one cause or another.

Last Saturday 15 young officers of the Reese AFB Company Grade Officers Council (CGOC) continued the Air Force's community service tradition by painting the home of a elderly Lubbock citizen, managing to have some fun in the process.

The Paint Up Program (PUP) sponsored by the city of Lubbock, is designed to get service organizations to voluntarily paint the homes of low-income families or families on welfare.

The 1986 Hq ATC Daedalian Supply Effectiveness Evaluation Team will visit the 64th Supply Squadron Wednesday through Aug. 15. Col. Richard W. Dush and Lt. Col. William A. Grigsby will conduct an on site evaluation of base supply operations to selast the Command nominee for Daedalian competition at USAF level. The last time Reese AFB was considered for this honor was in 1984 when the Supply Division was selected as runner-up in the Air Force-wide competition.

The Daedalian Supply Effectiveness Trophy, established by the Daedalian Foundation, is made available to the Air Force by the Order of Daedalians, an organization founded by World War I pilots. The trophy is a large silver cup donated by Colonel Joseph A. Wilson, USAF, retired. The purpose of this award is to promote supply effectiveness and efficiency. The organizations eligible for inis award are supply organizations that directly support aircraft or missiles.

We would like + welcome the Daedalian te ri to Reese AFB, and express our appreciation to the Reese family for efforts put forth in making cur organization worthy of consideration, said Capt. Raymundo Rosa, Chief, Operations Support branch.

Binnicker: Keep today's programs functioning

by SSgt. Ada Martin

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS-AFNS-The dream is a reality, he is living his highest professional goal. CMSgt. James C. Binnicker was inspired by the first Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force, Paul W. Airey. He saw Chief Airey ride by in a jeep and was "awestruck."

Years later he met CMSAF Don Harlow at a dining-out in Dover, Del. "I decided I'd like to do that," he said. And he

The chief doesn't feel any one thing in his career put him in the top enlisted slot. He has worked in life support and operations, as well as a first sergeant. He also has been the senior enlisted adviser for Pacific Air Forces and Tactical Air Command. In addition, Chief Binnicker served in several positions with the Air Force military personnel center.

"I worked a mixed bag of jobs, assignments and commands," he said. "I couldn't say to some young person this is the roadmap that you need to follow."

Turning to his new responsibilities, he said. "I don't have a laundry list of things that I want to fix. What I want to do is make sure that the programs we have today are functioning at maximum capacity.

"One of those is professional military education. We are reviewing our entire PME program from top to bottom.

It's not a major overhaul, but rather a fine tuning and a chance to ask some tough questions. The relook at PME is going to be one of the landmarks of accomplishment in 1986 and 1987. It will improve an already outstanding program," Chief Binnicker added.

He is very concerned with the impacts of the recently reduced budget. "Regardless of how hard the commanders try to reduce the impacts, some programs will have to be curtailed or trimmed, and in some cases eliminated," he said.

commanders are as commit- said. ted as the S-cretary of the Air Force and Chief of Staff to placing people programs on the highest priority. "So with that kind of commitment I think we can feel comfortable that we are going to be taken care of," he said.

Chief Binnicker is impressed by how much Air Force people are improving, too.

"Today, the enlisted people are more formally educated than when I came in the Air Force 29 years ago," he said. "The number of degree-holders wearing stripes has increased significantly.

"The Community College of the Air Force has had a great and positive impact on the Air Force. What we have is a very bright and shiny enlisted corps doing a very technical job in an outstanding way.

"It is really stimulating to visit these young folks in the shops and offices and see them working. They have so much responsibility, they accept that responsibility, and better, there are still situa-

"When I was a Wing and Advisor during 1974-75, I would come back from a trip worn out from listening to the negative questions and many complaints," he said.

"Today that's not the case. I don't get the 'me' question or 'why can't I?' or 'what are you doing for me?' type of thing. It is so reassuring to visit a maintenance outfit and have the crewchiefs tell me that their main concerns are their jets. They're very proud of them," he said.

With the changes in airmen responsibility, education and attitude, the chief sees another need for growth. "It's going to be tough for the Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force in the year 2000 to continue to challenge and enhance the role of our noncommissioned officers. They are doing more than they have ever done before," he said.

As I See It...

By Col. James McIntyre Wing Commander 64th Flying Training Wing Reese AFB, Texas

The Best Year Ever

Last evening, Karen and I took Doc White's HDL prescription to combat high cholesterol—one glass of wine—as we celebrated the anniversary of our arrival to the Reese community, one year ago.
We've never before witnessed such tremendous team spirit, dedication, and professionalism in over 20 years in the AF. The best year ever! As you all know, there's nothing like being a part of a winning team. THANKS to you.

The Stuff of Winners

Lubbock Mayor, B.C. "Peck" McMinn, reads from the same sheet of music I do...and all of you.
In a recent A.J. article, he reminded Lubbockites of what the song writer, Hogey Carmichael, told us some 40 years ago:

"ACCEN-TU-ATE the POSITIVE...
E-LIM-INATE THE NEGATIVE... and don't mess with MR. IN-

BETWEEN."

Last week I was darn proud to hand out MCI Professional Performer awards to a group of you during our Wing Ding celebration at the picnic grounds. That moment signaled to me the culmination of three extremely tough challenges that the Reese Team, all of you, has met head-on in just a few short months, and come out overwhelming WINNERS. First, the MEI—"EXCELLENT"; next the ATC-wide competition, TURKEY SHOOT '86—"THE BEST WING IN THE COMMAND"; now, the MCI—"EXCELLENT"

I'm sure most of you noticed A1C David Fiori stand tall and render the sharpest salute I've been given in a while as he received his certificate at the Wing Ding. His positive attitude, and pride, which represented all of you so well by that single proper military courtesy tells the story of Reese. We emphasize the positive and take tremendous pride in being the best. And it is exactly that attitude that will keep the Reese team in the position of pre-eminence in the future.

The Beat Goes On

I took some time at Wednesday's Wing staff meeting going around the room pointing out all those positions that have turned-over in the past year. Nearly 90% of the staff and key commanders of the Wing. A constantly changing team. Yet, the beat goes on at Reese at an accelerated pace. On last Tuesday, Lt. Col. Pat Flanagan, the 35th FTS Commander, and his wife Nancy, closed out two of the most successful years ever for the T-37 squadron. We were particularly honored to have Brig. Gen. Bob Hullender, ATC/DO, fly-in that morning to attend the Change of Command ceremony in which the reins were passed from Lt. Col. Flannigan to Lt. Col. Rich Galloway. ATC Headquarters gains another top Reese-trained professional in Pat Flannagan. To you, Pat and Nancy, thanks for making a squadron so much better. To Rich and Joyce Galloway, we are all confident that you two are the right folks to carry-on in the same excellent tradition. Good luck.

General & Mrs. Andrew P. Iosue

Thanks ahead of time to all for the great efforts to make Reese shine for General and Mrs. Iosue's visit Thursday. I'll make a point of reporting on the outcome next week. What I've seen is the PRIDE of every unit in action while folks got the base ready. Thanks, its important, and reflects how we go about everything at Reese.

Hospital Open House

The Hospital just held a first-ever OPEN HOUSE yesterday. Col. Roy Bobbitt, and his proud staff celebrated their 15th anniversary in the facility in a very big way. They are really on the roll folks, concentrating on the quality of our health needs like never before. And it shows.

Here's Whats Coming Up

• 13 AUG 86: AT RANDOLPH. Your Wing Commander gets to sit through the outbrief to General Iosue of the best MCI report given by the IG team in years. Thanks again.

• 15 AUG 86: GRADUATION OF CLASS 86-07. Another group of the best trained pilots in the world get their silver wings. I never tire of that day of celebration when the product of Reese's hard work walks across the stage. Nor do we forget that every man and woman in the Wing played a key role. If you haven't been to a graduation ceremony in a while, this would be a good one to see. Maj. Gen. Mel Vojvodich, a real fightin' warrior wing commander in Viet Nam, will give the address to the graduates.

• 28 AUG 86: CHANGE OF COMMAND OF THE ATC/CC. General Andrew P. Iosue retires this month. His replacement has not yet been announced. Karen and I have been asked to attend the ceremonies at Randolph.

• 29 AUG 86: 4 DAYS OF LEAVE, MAYBE, driving a great circle route back to Reese from Randolph through Santa Fe, Taos, Denver, and Albuquerque. Karen insists, frankly.

• 14 SEP 86: ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE. Capt. Mark Brown and a host of sub-committee chairmen are putting a great program together, even though it's not our turn for the Thunderbirds team. Mark this day on your calendar.

• 19 SEP 86: POW/MIA DAY. The Reese community will host an evening function and sunset retreat ceremony—TATTOO OF THE PLAINS—in front of the headquarters building. We are going to do it right, folks, in true Reese fashion. The ceremony will include the Drill Team, missing-man fly-by, AF Band of the West and their choral group, and Lt. Gen. (Ret.) Jack Flynn, former senior ranking AF POW in VN as the reviewing official. A special thanks to MSgt. J.T. Washington and Capt. Randy Bartels for spearheading all the groundwork. It's a GO, thanks to these two pros.

• 22 NOV 86: ANNUAL ENLISTED AWARD'S BANQUET. Thanks to a group of our hard working senior NCO's, this years banquet proves to be the best Reese has ever seen. I spoke with the new Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force, Chief Binnicker, on the phone yesterday. He has agreed to visit Reese in November for a day or two, and be our honored guest speaker that Saturday evening. How about that?

Final Note

You may have noticed the media coverage that our CGOC bunch got for participating in the City of Lubbock's PAINT-UP program. Thanks to Lt. Bruce DeWitt and several community spirited volunteers from the Reese CGOC, one elderly lady downtown has her home protected once again with a fresh coat of paint from top to bottom. A worthwhile Saturday's work, Bruce. All of Reese is proud of you and your council. Thanks.

Careline

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. James McIntyre, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, on a weekly basis. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty telephone number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers should use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air their views or complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line number is 885-(Ext.) 3273.

Gym heat not neat

The gym staff has been waiting forever to get an air conditioner in the base gym. It is very hot there now. I wonder if you can help them get some air conditioning in the gym? Thanks, have a nice day!

The mechanical ventilation system in the gym was not working when you called. It has since been fixed and the air is circulating. Thanks for the call.

Stray sprinkler spray

In the month I've been here at Reese, I've come to enjoy walking back and forth to work and around the base. In every area of the base—including the sidewalk in front of your house—sprinklers that water the sidewalks and their walkers make it uncomfortable for pedestrians. Is there anything we could do about that?

During the spring we discussed the stray sprinkler spray issue a number of times in the column. There are many factors which cause the problem of sprinklers spraying on the sidewalks, not the least of which is the West Texas wind! The CE Plumbing Shop continually repairs and adjusts the water system to prevent sprinkler over-spray, but we need the help of all Reese people to help control the problem by notifying their building custodian or calling the CE service desk at ext. 3647 whenever you observe sprinkler malfunctions.

In the case of the sidewalk in front of my quarters, the existing sprinklers have been purposely adjusted to sprinkle across the sidewalk to establish new grass between the sidewalk and the street, following street paving and curbing project last winter. We'll have a better sprinkler system in there before next year. Meanwhile, bear with us.

Cheaper gas downtown?

What dictates the gasoline prices at the base service station? Recently I've noticed that the on-base prices are four to five cents more expensive than those downtown.

Art Hernandez, our exchange manager tells me our local policy is to con-

What have you done for the fleet today?

A few years ago, I happened to be at Subic Bay and noticed a new bumper sticker that had been widely distributed throughout that sprawling home port for the U.S. Navy's Pacific fleet. The sticker simply asked, "What have you done for the fleet today?" That question, and the attitude behind the creation of the sticker, obviously had a lasting impression on me, to the point that it has become a personal cliche. The orientation of that simple question has always struck me as exactly right for a military organization-what HAVE you Force. We all know that, but done for the fleet today? For at Subic Bay, the Fleet is the mission, and if anyone working there was forced to answer no to that question, he or she probably hadn't earned their pay that day.

Asking yourself what you've done for the fleet today has a wonderful way of focusing the mind on what it is that we're all about. At Reese AFB, the "Fleet" is the 64th Flying Training Wing and the mission—there's only one—is to train pilots for the U.S. Air and the guys manning the sometimes in the heat of our daily battles, we lose sight of that mission temporarily. When all is said and done, though, there isn't a single person working on Reese AFB, military or civilian, who is here for any purpose other than to help train those new pilots. Medical technicians, clerk-typists, plumbers, jet engine mechanics, military pay specialists, gymnasium personnel, security policemen, billeting clerks, weathermen, staff judge advocates weedeaters, are all here at Reese to hack that single mission.

There is a remarkable unity and esprit de corps in the 64th FTW that isn't always found in other wings and other bases. It's a perishable commodity that only thrives when the atmosphere is right throughout the entire organization. One way to help ensure we don't lose that here at Reese is to ask yourself just exactly what you've done for the "fleet" today...and what you can do for it tomorrow.

Years ago a group of wealthy businessmen got together and decided that they would build the tallest tower that had ever been built. It would be taller than any other existing structure of it's day and would be built with the care and craftsmanship required for it to become an unsurpassed architectural landmark. It would stand grander than the Eiffel Tower and rank amid the great pyramids as one of the greatest wonders of the scrambled their language and world. Anyone who would scattered them over the face stop and think to whom we're ever lay eyes on the magnificent sight would always remember the handful of men that had engineered the incredible achievement.

After months on the drawing board, the foundation was laid and the impressive structure began to take shape. The men took great pride in their work and it looked as though when finished, the tower would reach into the very heavens themselves. Then Scripture tells us that the Lord looked down on the people that were building the tower with great displeasure and of the whole earth. What remained of the half completed Tower of Babel crumbled in the years that followed.

Why was the Lord displeased? Were the people building the wrong type of tower or were they building the tower too high? No: What was wrong had nothing to do with the tower. What was wrong was the reason the people had for building the tower in the first place. The people said, "Come let us build a city with a tower that reaches to the heavens, so that we may make a name for ourselves..." Today this ancient story should make us working to bring glory and honor in and through our lives. If we're working only for ourselves who will pay us our wages in eternity?

The Lord Jesus said to His Disciples, "If anyone wishes to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me. For whoever wishes to save his life shall lose it; but whoever loses his life for My sake shall find it. For what will a man be profited, if he gains the whole world and forfeits his soul? Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul?'

These surveys check twenty stations in the local area and the average price of the ten lowest becomes the basis for our price. However we cannot go under our cost. #### Reese is outstanding!

Yes sir, this is MSqt. David Barber and I'm due to retire here in a couple of days. I would just like to say the personnel and facilities are outstanding. If you don't mind, please put that in the paper. I sure have enjoyed it here. Thanks a lot. "You just made my day."

Didn't get to go

Last Friday afternoon you had the big Wing Ding to celebrate about the MCI rating. I was wondering why some people got to take off work and enjoy themselves while a lot of others had to work and couldn't go to the picnic. We all did our share on the MCI and it doesn't seem fair. Can't you plan better so everyone gets the reward for the job they did?

The last few weeks have been full of challenges for everyone at Reese. First there was preparation for the MCI, then the super successful MCI, and finally, the recovery from the MCI and return to normal operations. Through it all, the beat went on, and we kept up the mission of training pilots. All Reese personnel can be proud of their outstanding efforts! I sure am!

Every time we have a celebration, rest assured that, from my vantage on down through the senior leadership, we are super sensitive to the fact that not everyone can participate. In an operation as critical and complex as ours, some functions have to continue. The tower has to stay open, the hospital continues treatment, security police patrols go on, the fire department operates as normal, emergency facility repairs have to get done, and the aircraft have to be fixed. Realizing this, we work hard to plan an affair that will allow the release of as many folks as possible, and I applaud the Wing supervisors for shaking loose enough folks to give us the turnout needed to make the Wing Ding the great success it was.

I recognize that a lot of folks didn't get the full benefit of the time off. However, the vast majority had the opportunity to at least stop by for a while. I'm immensely gratified at the number of folks who saw the job that had to be done, and went after it, particularly the hundreds of dedicated maintainers who not only worked through the picnic, but past it to bring our fleet status back up. I'm also impressed that, although authorized to take the time off like the rest of the base, almost all the maintenance civilians on both day and swing shifts elected to work beside their military counterparts. My hat's off to them! Our savvy supervisors also pushed hard to make sure everyone got some share of the festivities, hauling literally hundreds of burgers, dogs, and soft drinks to the troops who couldn't come. In one super exhibition of solidarity, one of the maintenance squadrons noticed that a small group from the other squadron had been left out, and delivered food to them-that's the Reese team attitude.

All in all, it was a great day, for a great reason. I continue to be impressed with the spirit our Reese folks display every day, and have to say that the level of dedication and commitment here is the finest anywhere in the world.

Get ready for the annual chili cookoff

GOODFELLOW AFB, Texas (AFNS)-The legendary West Texas heat will get even hotter this September as the 13th Annual Armed Forces Chili Cookoff showcases the best spicy concoctions that military people can create.

Registration is now under way for the cookoff, which is sponsored by Goodfellow AFB, near San Angelo, Texas. The competition will be held Sept. 5-6 at the base's recreation camp on Lake Nasworthy.

Each year, the chili cookoff boasts some of the world's top chili recipes, as teams from throughout the armed forces vie to dish up the winning bowl of "Red." Parties, dances and games will also be part of the event.

"Chili cookoffs are fun, social gatherings steeped in Texas tradition," said Capt. John Boyle, Goodfellow Public Affairs Officer. "And, for the military, this is the granddaddy of them all."

A party and dance set for the evening of Sept. 5 will feature music from the Air Force Band of the West. Activitives scheduled for Sept. 6 include the chili olympics, with individual and team sports on tap. Children's activities, for youngsters up to 12 years old, will follow.

Contests for all ages will take place during the afternoon, culminating with the chili judging. Awards will be given to the top three winners. Festivities will end with a dance, concluding at 11 p.m. that evening.

For an entry application, write to: 2nd Lt. Kathy R. Ullrich, 3480th ABG/DPMU, Goodfellow AFB, Texas 76908-5000; or, call autovon 477-3296.

Twenty-year smoker extinguishes the habit

McCHORD AFB, Wash. (AFNS) - Why stop smoking? Being tired of the habit was reason enough for MSgt. Victor VanLoan, assistant flight chief with the 318th Figher-Interceptor Squadron here.

The sergeant said he was tired of his many sore throats, colds and viruses. He was tired of burning holes in his clothes, tired of smelling tobacco smoke in his home, and tired of feeling he had no en-

A smoker for 20 years, Sergeant VanLoan decided to quit smoking while being treated for a sinus infection at the base clinic. "The doctor suggested I join a smoking

It's your career

by Col. James R. Cox Sembach AB, West Germany

Are you looking to get out of the Air Force that is? For some of us, that may well be the right choice. But likewise, for many the decision should be a careful one.

Many years ago as a "first termer" I faced that same dilemma. I had goals I thought were only achievable on the outside. I really wanted to return home to be around family and long-time friends. My wife was also eager to be closer to loved ones.

Neither of us relished the thought of separations, remote assignments or frequent moves. And there were frustrations with "the system"some of the people we worked for, long hours and round-theclock demands. The decision seemed simple enough.

Then someone stepped in and changed it all. He'd had a rocky career himself, but he took time to call me aside and tell me the Air Force needed people like me, that he thought I should stay in because I could make a contribution.

That one short discussion changed the course of my life, and I thank God for that. It made me realize that my contribution was being recognized, that I could contribute more, and contributing was one of the most significant of life's rewards.

That night, I started a ledger of advantages and disadvantages of staying the Air Force. Within a few short days, the pros outweighed the cons. So I made the plunge.

If you are a supervisor, I hope you'll reach out to those young people working for you who you know can make a contribution. Let them know you recognize their efforts and their potential. And if you are one of those young people considering separation, I hope you will take a closer look. After 22 years, I might just decide to make it a career! How about you? (Courtesy of USAFE News Service) cessation class starting in a week," he said.

"The class taught me how to cope with the frustrations of stopping smoking. The main thing I learned was that you have to be willing to stop smoking and you have to want to stop smoking.'

Capt. Elizabeth N. Smith, health promotion coordinator and in charge of the base's smoking cessation program, said the four-week program consists of twice-weekly onehour sessions.

"We combine the use of nicotine resin gum with a special support group program, taking care of the physiological and psychological dependencies of smokers," said Captain Smith. "We also give participants a list of additional local support resources."

According to Sergeant VanLoan, program participants had the freedom of adapting procedures to suit themselves. "The program suggested that some of the smokers cut down the number of cigarettes smoked per day. I just went cold turkey; it was the hardest thing I've ever done," he said.

"When the going gets rough people needs things to help them," he explained. "The group offers the support they need. And the program teaches them to understand their habit and offers techniques to help them substitute other behaviors for smoking."

The sergeant was taught that smokers react differently to quitting smoking. "For instance," he said, "some people get the shakes. I coughed and coughed. Some people gain weight. I gained seven pounds, which the program helped me lose."

During the first two weeks of the program, Sergeant VanLoan was tempted by other smokers to start smoking again. "Now, when I'm around a smoker the smoke burns my throat and makes me nauseous," he said.

The sergeant advises people who don't smoke to not start. "Today a smoking habit is a liability," he said. "Years ago smoking was the thing to do, but by the year 2000, I believe smokers are going to be in a difficult position.

"I quit smoking because I was tired of it and the grip smoking had on my life. As a former smoker I don't know anything good I could say about smoking except, 'I quit.' (AFNS)

Smokebusters save lives with new approach

Filled with the hope of saving others, two men armed with knowledge, experience and a new idea are battling a life-threatening spectre. Ghostbusters, right? No, gasp, they're Smokebusters!

The two both Air Force doctors, have developed a flexible smoking cessation program with a success rate that parallels that of the American Cancer Society's 33 percent rate for long-term cessation and 55 percent short-term.

Smokebusters deals with the smoker's physiological and psychological dependencies on cigarettes. The first shot in the war on cigarettes was fired in 1984 by Capt. (Dr.) Lamont Warden, a resident at the David Grant Medical Center at Travis AFB,

His weapon is nicotine resin gum, while his tactics are support, therapy and behavior modification. The program consists of eight 60-minute weekly sessions.

Nicotine resin gum keeps patients from dealing with nicotine withdrawal until they are stronger both psychologically and behaviorally, according to Captain Warden. "Once they are on their way, we taper off the gum," he Captain Warden was transferred in 1985 to Fairchild AFB, Wash., where he began another Smokebusters program. Capt. (Dr.) Jeffery Oswald, also a resident, took the reigns of the original program, adding hypnosis and relaxation training.

"Relaxation and stress reduction training give people the opportunity to handle situations they used to smoke in," said Captain Oswald.

He added that hypnosis reinforces the desire to quit. "Some people cannot tolerate the gum and hypnosis helps them. Hypnosis is not magic, just another tool to help overcome a difficult time," he said.

Another of the difficulties faced by the participants is weight gain. "Usually onethird of the class will gain weight, so we address weight management in both programs," Captain Warden said.

Captain Warden believes in Smokebusters because it works. "What helps the most is personal determination. The reasons people join our programs are more varied than the methods we offer," he said.

Despite the obvious hazards of smoking, not all program participants join for health reasons. According to the doctors, some come to set an example, or for financial reasons, to gain control of one cigarette a day, the first their lives, or because smoking is inconvenient.

The program produces varied results. "Some of the graduates breathe easier, some sleep better, and some have more energy," said Captain Warden.

Most graduates are rewarded with an improved sense of smell. However, Doctor Warden cautioned that coughing may get worse at first because the lungs are waking up and starting to clear the smoke residue.

Unfortunately, not all graduates remain non-smokers. "Some people resume smoking because they haven't given thorough thought to what situations cause them to smoke, what benefits they receive from smoking, and how to identify those benefits," said Captain Warden.

"People who quit smoking are going to have a hard time. In order to quit smoking, they have to want to quit smoking and make a commitment." He recalled one patient who said, "You only have to say no to one."

According to Dr. Warden, programs like Smokebusters are easy to run and are worthwhile. "Establishing this program is the most rewarding thing I have done as a doctor," he said.

"My goal is to get some kind of stop-smoking program throughout the Air Force. Such a program could save the Air Force millions of dollars," he continued.

"I compare what I am doing with building a fence at the top of the cliff rather than keeping a fancy ambulance at the bottom to pick up people.

"Preventive medicine is becoming much more important. Almost all illness I see can be traced to alcohol, tobacco and obesity. Eliminate these three things and we would be a much healthier society," he

Air Force renames Sunnyvale AFS

Sunnyvale AFS, Calif., has been renamed Onizuka AFS in honor of Lt. Col. Ellison S. Onizuka, who died when the space shuttle challenger exploded Jan. 28, 1986.

Edward C. "Pete" Aldridge Jr., Secretary of the Air Force, said Air Force policy allows renaming installations for deceased members who have made major contributions to the mission.

"In furthering this tradition, we have renamed Sunnyvale AFS in memory of Colonel Onizuka and his contributions to the nation's space program," said Mr. Aldridge. A ceremony commemorating the renaming is planned for later this year.

Mr. Aldridge said the Challenger tragedy was a shock to all Americans, even to those familiar with the risks inherent in space explorations.

"Our loss of seven crew members touched the hearts of millions across the nation and around the world," he said. "The Challenger seven exemplified the pioneering spirit that is the foundation of our country's space effort."

"Elliston Onizuka was one of those pioneers," said Mr. Aldridge. "As a crew member who had previously flown aboard a space shuttle mission, Ellison was a major contributor to our conquest of

We're getting ripped off

by A1C Felix Saenz

Crime is occurring everyday. It will always exist, but you and I can help reduce crime. People inadvertently encourage other people to steal by leaving their property insecure. Over the past month, several insecure items housing, because they were left insecure. The city of Lubbock has had various problems with insecure property being ripped off. It is happening to us right this minute.

People don't realize that anyone can be ripped off, at any time. Most people think about it, but don't find the time to secure their property. have been stolen from base -People say "I won't get ripped off," or "who would want to steal that." People are constantly believing in fantasies. Believe it people, we live in a harsh world with all kinds of criminals. There are people stealing everyday. People steal anything of value that they feel they can sell or use.

Unfortunately, people get ripped off when they least expect it. If your property is insecure, please secure it. It is less costly to secure your items than to try to replace them later. Remember, you will be encouraging people to steal your property if it is insecure.

Now, are all of your valuables secured? Are your bicycles, lawnmowers and your property sitting on the porch secured? If not, stop reading and secure your property, because YOUR INSECURE property could be getting ripped off this very minute. Avoid the agony of getting your hard earned valuables stolen. YOU worked hard to get it, take a little time to KEEP it.
