We Care

It's Combined Federal Campaign time again. On Oct. 1, we started our campaign, which provides an opportunity to help meet the needs of the people in our community.

You gave generously to CFC last year, and I know most of you don't need encouragement to do so again. Let's try to make a real impact on Lubbock by helping erase the suffering of others. And it's so easy to contribute using payroll deduction.

We have a big job ahead of us. More and more people have turned to the CFC for support, but this year's needs are surpassing those of last year. We can take up the slack, but we can't do it without the support of each member of the Reese family. Let's show that we care by sharing. Because of generosity like yours, millions of people around the world live with less pain, more dignity, renewed hope and a better quality of life. Please chip in and see what we can do to help our little corner of the world.

Sincerely,
James W. McIntyre, Colonel, USAF
Commander

Reese graduates 36 pilots

Thirty-four United States Air Force officers, one Nigerian Air Force officer and one Portuguese Air Force officer have completed a year of pilot training and have earned the right to wear the coveted wings of an Air Force pilot.

Members of the Undergraduate Pilot Training Class 86-08 were honored in the ceremony held Sept. 26, 1986. The guest speaker at the ceremony was Brigadier General (USAF Retired) Kenneth R. Fleenor.

Second Lieutenant Randy R. Long, of Lodi, Ohio, won the Air Training Command Commander's Trophy as the class's top overall graduate. He also won a Flying Training Award, an Outstanding Second Lieutenant Award and a Distinguished Graduate Award.

Shaud to visit Reese

Lt. Gen. John A. Shaud will visit Reese AFB, Monday and Tuesday, as part of his initial orientation visit to ATC bases. During his visit, he will get a chance to see Reese and visit with the Wing Commander, Col. James McIntyre. He will also present the ATC Family Housing Branch of the Year Award to Lt. Col. Paul Baker Tuesday. Gen. Shaud took command of Air Training Command Aug. 28, 1986, at Randolph AFB, Texas.

Gen. Shaud will be making his first official return visit to Reese since 1957 when he took a portion of his flying training with what was then the 3500th Pilot Training Wing. His wife, the former Janelle M. Ohlenbusch is a native of Lubbock.

Happy New Year

Tuesday, Sept. 30, was the last day of Fiscal Year 1986. It occurs to me that this year has been tremendously successful for the Reese team by all accounts, including the comptrollers. In fact, on Tuesday there was a beehive of activity in Bldg. 800 as Maj. Lee Cox, Dan McIntire, Cheri Re, and the rest of our budget folks, put the final touches on one of the smoothest year-end closeouts ever. The enthusiasm and dedicated spirit shown by these Reese professionals was a fitting cap to a great year. We spent wisely in FY86, and under their guidance we effectively managed our limited resources day-in and day-out. I want to thank all the commanders and supervisors too, and particularly their unit RM's who had to sort the difficult spending priorities throughout the year. You folks consistently stepped up to the tough decisions with the "WHAT'S BEST FOR REESE" attitude, so typical of this proud community.

So the new fiscal year began Wednesday, Oct. 1. We all know that the funding challenges of FY87 will be even greater. It's comforting to know that we have a group of talented and dedicated folks fully capable of meeting those challenges. Congratulations.

Two New Programs For FY87

The new fiscal year marks the beginning of a couple of special programs at Reese which I want to emphasize.

• First, Reese AFB has been selected by ATC to test some innovations in CHAMPUS that I'm excited about. If successful, I see the opportunity for increased health care availability to meet both in-patient and out-patient needs of the Reese community with no additional costs to either the Air Force or the patient. Col. Roy Bobbit, and his hospital staff, are pressing hard right now to finalize the details. You will be hearing more on that soon.

• Secondly, Reese AFB has been identified as one of two bases in the entire Air Force (Lakenheath is the other) to try a UNIFIED BUDGET test in Fiscal Year 1987. An extension of the MODEL INSTALLATION PROGRAM, the UNIFIED BUDGET gives the Wing broader authority to make dollar tradeoffs between various appropriated accounts. The intent is to allow us greater freedom to spend wisely within the same total budget. Equipment versus supplies versus minor construction, for example. Col. Don McCullough is now finalizing the gameplan with ATC and the Air Staff.

Graduation—

The Product of Our Efforts

Our last class of FY 86, Class 86-08 walked across the stage last Friday morning and received their silver wings. I never tire of graduation days. It's a time of celebration for every member of the Reese team—on and off the flightline. Those pilots are the product of everyone's efforts. One can sense the pride not only of the newest aviators, but of the men and women, both military and civilian, that made it happen. This graduation was perhaps the best yet because of some carefully considered changes in the format implemented by Lt. Col. Steve Maddox, the STURON Commander, and his wife Rose. My hat's off to you folks for a top notch job.

Out-And-About

I have had several opportunities to get around this past week, and very much appreciated the chats with so many of you. One area of particular note. For the past few weeks I have been silently monitoring a rather major self-help landscape undertaking at the Physiological Training Unit (PTU). A couple of days ago I decided to drop in to congratulate the boss, Maj. Roberta Russell. While she was not in at the time, the PTU's Superintendent, SMSgt. Joe Schalk gave me a great refresher tour, and I met our newly arrived PT Officer Capt. Randy Fultz. The real object of the search, though, was A1C Tim Kepsel, who I found busy as the chamber operator at the moment. A1C Kepsel, you see, is responsible for ram-rod-ing the landscaping project. Super job folks.

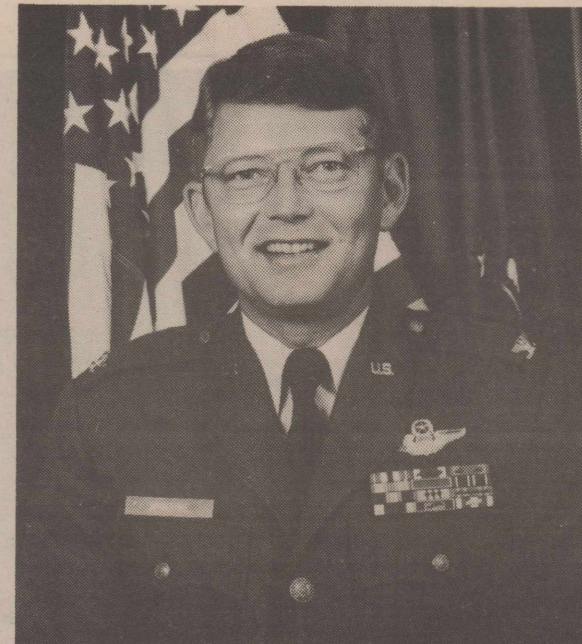

Another group of Reese pros were hard at work in the Housing Management Branch just outside the gate. Mrs. Mitzie Hallgarth, the Manager, and her troops have just won the ATC Family Housing Branch of the Year Award for 1986, and they have been quite industrious fixing things up a bit in anticipation of receiving their trophy from our ATC Commander, Lt. Gen. John A. Shaud, when he visits Reese next week.

I suppose I spent more time in the 54th Flying Training Squadron this week than any place else—three straight evenings anyway, briefing for a night flight each time, and then cooling my heels as the daily pattern of West Texas thunderbumpers moved in. Congrats to 1st Lt. Jerry Alcorn for his briefings each evening which just kept getting better and better.

More Reese Winners

Speaking of winners, let me share with everyone the names of six professionals from our maintenance outfit who have been selected to compete for the USAF OUTSTANDING AIRCRAFT MAINTENANCE PERSONNEL FOR 1986. Drop by and pat these folks on the back:

- 1st Lt. Michael A. Kaut, OIC T-37 Maintenance Branch—OFFICER
- SMSgt. Luther Morton, NCOIC, Aero Repair Branch—SUPERVISOR-MANAGER
- TSgt. William Dearwechter, FMS—TECHNICIAN-SUPERVISOR
- Sgt. Brad Whittle, T-37 Crew Chief—TECHNICIAN
- Mr. Gary Kimball, Foreman, Aero Repair, OMS—CIVILIAN MANAGER

Two-Liners of Some Significance

• ATC NCO Academy Graduation. Four of Reese's best—TSgts C.V. Pickett (FMS), Roland Duhart (FMS), Bob Wilson (64th SUPS), and Bob Carpenter (TMO)—have returned home after graduating from the ATC NCO Academy's 100th class. Congratulations to all. A special round of applause to TSgt. Bob Carpenter for his selection as a DISTINGUISHED GRADUATE.

• A special thanks to our alert Security Police, and in particular SSGts. Pat Garthwaite and Barry Landgraver who apprehended two civilians (later found to have several active warrants for arrest) attempting to break into one of our Reese Village carport storage areas. We appreciate your service, and it serves as a reminder to all—secure your property.

Final Note

I applaud the perseverance and flexibility of our operators and maintainers who are clearly working so well together to maximize safe and productive training sorties in the face of rapidly changing weather. It's been a bad stretch of weather days. And now tonight, as I complete this article, our T-37 and T-38 supervisors of flying have had to recover the fleet again. Our maintenance troops are now hustling to hanger the birds. The forecast is for winds up to 50 knots with half-inch hail. It makes me proud to hear the DO on the command net offering the DCM help from his flying squadrons to get the jets under cover in time. This attitude of teamwork and mission accomplishment is pervasive. And AS I SEE IT, that makes the difference.

Care line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. James McIntyre, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, on a weekly basis. All information provided in the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty telephone number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers should use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air their views or complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line number is 885 (Ext.) 3273.

Babysitting or home day care?

I recently received a call regarding authority to organize a babysitting program in Base Housing. I thought I would share the answer with all of our readers so that our Reese Village residents might better understand the situation.

The Air Force authorizes Base Commander approval of a "home day care" program if it is determined there is a need for additional child care capacity at the base and if training and health pre-requisites can be guaranteed by the home care provider. This is all outlined in AF regulations—beginning with the difference between "babysitting" and "day care." For example "babysitting" is defined as individual care for children of other individuals on an occasional basis, usually less than 10 hours per week, whether in the sitter's or child's home.

The Air Force defines "home day care" as care provided for a child in a home, other than the child's home, by an adult other than the child's parents; and provided on a regular basis, usually 3-10 hours each day. Let me make it clear that there is no problem with regular babysitting in Reese Village.

However, village residents should note that to offer "day care" without the permission of the Base Commander is unauthorized. In order for day care in Reese Village to be authorized, very specific and detailed requirements would have to be met.

These include: Health training certification, food handlers permits, liability insurance, and so on. Obviously, most home day care providers could not or would not desire to meet these requirements.

Reese's Child Care Center has much to offer our dependent children including educational programs, a clean, safe environment, nutritionally balanced meals and snacks, a trained and experienced staff, and access to federal, state, and community child care program assistance. I understand that the common perception is that the Child Care Center fails in providing the service of a "drop-in." Mr. Jim Hernandez tells me however, he has been able to handle "drop in" requirements in nearly all situations to date. Just give them a call first.

I want you all to know that we are always open to any good ideas to better handle the child care needs of the Base community. Call Jim Hernandez at Ext. 3541 for additional information or to make suggestions on how we can do it better.

Commander's Column

Energy is vital ingredient

Brig. Gen. Richard L. Stoner, the Director of Maintenance and Supply at HQ USAF, recently reminded us that energy is a vital ingredient of national security. In his letter to the Wing Energy Steering Group, he pointed out that the Department of Defense is the single largest user of energy in the United States, and the Air Force accounts for nearly half of it.

While Reese AFB has an impressive track record of decreasing energy consumption and increasing efficiency, we must remember that this is an individual responsibility of all personnel. Commanders and the Wing Energy Manager can not accomplish these goals without the concern and awareness each of you is capable of. Headquarters ATC will soon publish the Fiscal Year 1986 statistics and we will see how well the Reese community is meeting this responsibility in comparison to other ATC bases.

Now let's look on to FY87. October is Energy Awareness Month throughout the Air Force. The National Theme is "Invest now for our energy future." Various posters and other publicity items will be distributed this week.

Second Lieutenant Joe Martin, Wing Energy Manager, has suggested that some tangible reward is in order for displays of increased individual concern. The Wing Energy Steering Group will host a three-fold Energy Awareness Month contest from Oct. 1 through Nov. 15. The three contest categories shall be posters, editorial articles, and Air Force suggestions.

Lieutenant Martin is devising the specific rules for each of these categories. They will be published in next week's Roundup. We expect one winner in each category. These three people will receive a General Electric AM/FM clock radio, and if military, a three-day pass. So, put on your thinking caps, look for the rules next week, and think ENERGY in conducting your everyday business.

Introducing Grounds Maintenance Contractor

by Lt. Col. Ted Ownby
Deputy Base Commander

On Oct. 1, 1986 a significant change occurred in the way Reese AFB accomplished one of its major tasks. For the past 28 years maintenance and improvements to the air field areas, military family housing, the golf course and common use areas of the base have been the responsibility of civilian employees led by Mr. W.C. Tool, WS-7. The new fiscal year will see the assumption of these responsibilities by Crawford Technical Services.

Before we go too far with next year's work & workers, let's take a brief look at the Civil Engineering Squadron grounds shop's efforts. As part of the land development plan, over 500 trees & shrubs were planted; the landscaping on both sides of Main Boulevard was a key to winning the 1985 Base Appearance Award. Careful lawn care prior to every UPT graduation and VIP visit brought praises for our high standard of maintenance throughout the year; solid improvement to football, soccer and baseball fields, to picnic areas and parks, and to the golf course improved the "quality of life" for all Reese personnel. A hearty "Well Done" is hereby given to the entire grounds shop, which included 10 to 15 over hires, and the following career Air Force Employees: W.C. Teel-WS-7, Joseph T. Rosendo-WS-4, Billy M. Menefee-WG-8, Rudolfo Rodriguez-WG-6, Carl D. Tarter-WG-6 and Felix Zuniga-WG-6.

I sincerely appreciate the sweat and special efforts of these folks to give us something we can be extremely proud of and a nice place to work. Thanks W.C. for your leadership.

Crawford Technical Services—CTS—the new Grounds Maintenance contractor, is no novice in providing service type work for the Air Force. CTS is currently the transient aircraft services contractor here at Reese and has been involved in security police, base administration and in-flight simulator operations at other Air Force bases. CTS, whose home office is in Austin, Texas, has acquired the service of Mr. Bob Rabuck as Reese Grounds Maintenance contract project manager. Mr. Rabuck is familiar with ATC, having previously been employed in the grounds maintenance section at Williams AFB, Ariz.

The grounds maintenance contract requires CTS to accomplish most of the work previously accomplished by the CE grounds shop.

Anywhere grass is supposed to be growing, CTS must keep it sown, grown and mown. Within its' areas of responsibility, CTS edges, trims hedges and prunes trees. Other major items of work include irrigation, fertilizing, weed control and accomplishing work orders to mow vacant housing unit lawns, remove fallen leaves & limbs, repair lawns and establish grass, remove dead trees, perform erosion control, and landscaping and plowing the base "Victory Garden" plot. One other major area which parallels tasking of the CE grounds shop is preparing the Base for special events. CTS must spruce up certain areas of the base for presentation to the public and important visitors.

In order to allow room for "pride of ownership" that Reese personnel exhibit, specific areas around each building will remain the responsibility of the building occupants.

All in all, we are confident that Crawford Technical Services is not only well equipped and manned to provide the required services, but more importantly, has an attitude of intending to do their job and be a full fledged member on the Reese Team. This along with the outstanding attitudes of Reese people about basic appearance will result in a continuation of high standards for the 64th FTW.

Living higher on the hog

by (Chaplain) Lt. Col. Bill McGraw

Many years ago ministers were the recipients of food, used clothing and other articles in lieu of cash payment. This was still very much in vogue during the early years of my ministry.

One minister who had received lots of pig's feet but very little ham and bacon during the year, made the following statement to his congregation before he accepted their call to serve another year as their pastor, "I accept your call conditionally. If I serve you another year I want to live a little higher on the hog."

Living in today's inflated economy does call for a greater income than in the days when preachers, school teachers and even doctors were forced to accept commodities for their services. Perhaps all of these and others often wished they could "live a little higher on the hog."

It is possible to achieve a higher quality of life without an increase in material wealth. How is this so? With some effort one can become aware of many avenues of self-enrichment and enjoyment—at little or no cost.

Learn a new sport. Study the life and culture of the people where you are stationed. Air Force families have many opportunities to enlarge their mental and spiritual horizons. You are limited only by your failure to use your imagination and your brainpower. If you accept the definition of living higher on the hog to mean more than material increase, you can do it

Kudos to...

1st Lt. Jack Patterson and 1st Lt. Rick Pues for their outstanding support given to the ACE detachment at Malmstrom AFB...Capt. Walter Buck, Commander, 64FTW/ACE OLA.

Sgt. Cindy Russell for her superb efforts as bailiff during some recent court proceeding. Her cheerful attitude and outstanding efficiency made some long hours seem quiet short... from Lt. Col. William Karr, Military Judge.

Sgt. Anna Santanna, Mr. Phil Thierry, Ms. Shiril Francis, Ms. Jean Rae, without a great salary increase. Who can put a dollar value on the ability to listen to and appreciate good music?

To get money for a much-needed new building, a minister asked all who would give fifty dollars to stand. Then he immediately turned to his youth orchestra and told them to play "The Star Spangled Banner."

Living higher on the hog doesn't require any tricks or gimmicks. It does require imagination and a willingness to reach new goals. Someone said, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for."

Mr. Joe Castillo, Ms. Charlotte Broussard, Ms. Sandra Briceno, Ms. Esther Whitehead, and Ms. Carmen Lopez for their superb contributions to the National Hispanic Heritage Week program at Reese...from MSgt. Mateo Alvarez Jr., Project Officer.

1st Lt. Pete Edgar for his enthusiasm and outstanding support of the Ballenger School "Fair Day" project. His leadership and coordination and the help of all those volunteers who participated made the project a grand success...Mr. F.B. Sexton, Principal, Ballenger School.

Deadlines strictly enforced

We would like to thank everyone who contributes to The Roundup, without your help, there wouldn't be a newspaper.

We also appreciate comments about the paper, without them, areas that need improvement might otherwise go overlooked.

We would also like to remind everyone that the deadline for articles submitted for publication are due Monday at noon, prior to Friday's publication.

We realize that everyone has busy schedules, and a Monday deadline is often hard to meet, however, when important information is submitted after deadline, we cannot devote the proper attention your article deserves to make sure all the information is correct, and appears correct in print.

Increasingly, we have been receiving late articles, and later receiving complaints because the article was not printed, or contained errors.

In order to correct this problem and produce the best possible product of The Roundup, the Monday deadline will be strictly enforced. In the past, we have extended deadlines in order to include as many important articles submitted late as possible. Unfortunately, this has now become a problem due to the large number of late information we receive. The quality of the Roundup has begun to suffer.

Again, we remind you, the deadline for articles to be published is Monday at noon. Please do not ask us to extend our deadline, we are enforcing it for the good of the newspaper.

Articles and photos submitted after deadline will run on a space available basis. Due to the small size of the paper, we often don't have room for everything, and squeezing something in is not always possible.

If information for an article is not available before deadline, call Public Affairs and let us know early so we will be able to plan ahead and try to reserve a space for your article.

We would like to run everything submitted, free of errors, and try our best to do so, however, space is limited, and deadlines for printing the paper must be met.

If something is important, it is important that it meet the Roundup deadline.

Chaplains point to excellence

MAXWELL AFB—The Air Force Chaplain Service has announced its theme for 1987, "Called to Excellence." Chapel personnel are seeking excellence both in their ministry and in the lives of those they serve.

According to Chaplain, Maj. Gen. Stuart E. Barstad, Chief of Chaplains, this new theme suggests standards "based on a divine imperative." As we relate to God we are encouraged to be all that we can be. The psalmist has written, "Know that the Lord is God! It is He that made us, and we are His; we are His people, and the sheep of His pasture." Thus we are both reminded of God's care and challenged to reach beyond ourselves.

Chaplain Barstad has asked the members of the Chaplain Service to strive for quality and integrity of life for Air Force people. Chaplains have a real concern for those around them. A young airman on his or her first assignment, a family separated by duty requirements, a NCO struggling with the problems of single parenthood all may look to the chaplain for involvement, care, and support.

Chaplains are alert to the dangers of mediocrity. People of faith are people of excitement and commitment. The chaplaincy is a high calling, and chaplains hope to lead persons to a higher and more fulfilling life. A variety of programs at base chapels will highlight the new "Called to Excellence" theme.

Creativity in job, family life and community involvement can enrich both the individual and the entire Air Force community. Excellence in work is a goal chaplains have set for themselves and to which they call all Air Force people. Doing the job right strengthens us and our country. And beyond the job, people can find meaning in increased participation in family and home life as well as service to others.

Chaplain Barstad has challenged all Air Force chaplains to let the "pursuit of excellence channel our energies and enhance the lives of those whom we serve." The base chaplains encourage each person to respond to this call.

Family Services keeps busy

by A1C Greg Spraggins
Editor, the Roundup

Family Services currently has 16 active volunteers: 10 officer's wives, three enlisted wives and three retiree's wives. During the period from April 1, 1986 to Sept. 10, 1986, these ladies compiled a total of 2125 hours of volunteer services to the Reese and Lubbock communities.

On April 14, 1986, Family Services hosted the annual Spouse Orientation Workshop. A total of 35 military members and their spouses attended. Door prizes and refreshments were provided by the volunteers. In addition, a take-home folder containing valuable information was given to all participants.

During April, Family Services was also inspected by ATC MEI. The center received decidedly excellent ratings from the team.

The Quarterly Changeover Luncheon was also held in April. Some 75 active duty personnel were our guests at a luncheon held in the Family Service's lounge. All food was provided by volunteers.

In May, Kathy Winney, Membership Chairman, authored a new 15 page "Volunteer Training Guide" for use in instructing both active and new volunteers. This guide contains all current FS policies and procedures applicable to loan outs, lounge reservations, inventory losses, etc.

Early in July, the volunteers staffed a table filled with coffee, juice, and breads for dispersal to participants of the MCI. The volunteers kept this snack service running for some 10 hours.

Three of the volunteers attended the joint services Family Services Conference at Fort Carson, Colorado, in late July. These ladies attended numerous workshops detailing current budget trends, how to attract and recruit new volunteers, and ways to improve the volunteer image.

A luncheon for the volunteers and their spouses was held in July in lieu of the annual picnic.

During this six month term, the loan locker inventory has increased some 20 percent. The inventory now includes 10 new baby cribs, new kitchen pans, and new futons.

An aggressive campaign to recruit new volunteers was embarked upon during these six months. Fliers, newspaper articles and photos, as well as personal visitations were all used to attract base residents to our need for new volunteers.

In addition, during this period the monthly magazine, Reese's Piece's was distributed to all base squadrons and commanders to keep active duty personnel apprised of the FS activities.

During this period, Kathy Winney served another term as Coordinator; Rita Pettit served a second term as Assistant Coordinator and Peg Broerman served as our Advisor.

Reese recognizes workers with disabilities

by Shirl L. Francis Affirmative Employment Specialist

"People at Work" will be the theme of National Employ the Handicapped Week, Oct. 5-11, a Presidentially proclaimed week devoted to exploring opportunities and options for workers with disabilities.

"National Employ the Handicapped Week provides us with an opportunity to highlight some of the positive steps employers have taken in hiring people with disabilities. And it provides us with a chance to recognize some of the achievements of people with disabilities," said Jose Galindo, Jr., Selective Placement Program Manager. "Each year we see new strides made in technology, in education, in training, in employment, and in community involvement that result in greater acceptance and public awareness of individuals with disabilities. We must see that these efforts continue."

National Employ the Handicapped Week was first declared by a Joint Resolution of Congress in 1945 and has been celebrated the first full week of October every year since. This year's theme, "People at Work," offers employers, educators, service providers, affirmative employment specialists and workers with disabilities a chance to emphasize the integration of people with disabilities in the work place.

During this week observance, the Library will feature a display/contest—"Place the Handicap & Accomplishments." Training classes will be conducted on Affirmative Employment/Handicapped... "Slide presentation on the "Impaired Worker". Information posters will be placed in the Commissary, Base Exchange, Clubs, Post Office, Civilian Personnel Office and MWR Facilities.

The age of computers

by TSgt. Rennels
USAF NCOIC

The home without a computer in 1990 will be just like a home without a telephone in 1986. Computers are the modern revolution in communications both private and commercial, yet we will continue to face those who resist change and are computer illiterate. Computer phobia will literally have some families living in the dark ages.

Computers can positively effect almost every aspect of our life. Take for example the realm of education. I have access through my computer, to another computer. This computer service is called Compu-Serve. I can access the Grolier Encyclopedia. I now have information from Argali and avocados to Zymurgy (the study of wines through fermentation) and Zurich. The marvels of computers do not stop there. Say I want to travel. Using the travel service on the computer, I can take a small tour to Australia for 28 days. Having decided on this, now I can make my own travel arrangements. I can book a flight, buy the tickets and pay for them, all through the computer. Now that I have this all arranged, I may want some new clothing. Now I can shop at Sears for anything they offer and buy by computer.

The marvels go on and on. The point is, that information is made available to me at my finger tips. This is the key. Information of all sorts and types is what will propel our nation. The industrial revolution mechanized the United States. The silicon revolution will inform the United States.

Working with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, DoD has developed a space launch recovery plan that was recently outlined in a Congressional hearing and features:

- Addition of a fourth orbiter, replacing the Challenger, in fiscal year 1991.

- Production of 13 new heavy expendable launch vehicles to be called Titan IVs, with first launch planned for FY 1989.

- Procurement of 12 medium ELVs, at a rate of four per year, with first launch in FY 1989.

A JOHNSTOWN AMERICAN COMMUNITY

Fire prevention week Oct. 5-11

By Evelyn D. Harris
American Forces Information Service

President Ronald Reagan has declared October 5-11 "Fire Prevention Week."

The week is always observed during the anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire (Oct. 8-9, 1871), which destroyed four square miles of the city, killed 300 people, left 98,000 homeless and destroyed $200 million in property. Legend has it that the fire was started by Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicking over a kerosene lamp.

Incidentally, one of the most disastrous forest fires in history started in Peshtigo, Wis., the same day as the Chicago fire. The Peshtigo fire burned across six counties and killed more than three times as many people (1,000) as the Chicago fire. Both fires followed a long dry spell.

Here are some tips to prevent fires or death from fires during Fire Prevention Week and the rest of the year:

- Don't throw matches or cigarettes on the ground. A lot of brush fires get started this way. Besides, it creates unsightly litter.
- Don't smoke in bed. Smoking in bed or careless disposal of ashes or butts endangers your home and your family. Twenty-nine percent of fire-related deaths are associated with cigarette smoking.

□ Plan escape routes in the event of a fire in your home. Identify appropriate exit routes and a family meeting point away from the house. Teach your children what to do in case of fire. A portable rope ladder is a good investment in safety for second-floor bedrooms in case the stairs are impassible.

□ Keep working fire extinguishers and smoke detectors in your home. Extinguishers should be available to the kitchen and any room with a furnace or a fireplace. Multi-purpose dry chemical extinguishers are suggested. The majority of fire-related deaths are the result of inhaling smoke or toxic gas. Smoke detectors are recommended for each floor of your home. Also, make sure your fireplace has a screen. Shooting sparks are a fire hazard.

□ Regularly check the heating system in your house. Heating ventilation systems should be checked at least yearly to avoid carbon monoxide poisoning. Avoid storing or placing anything flammable (including clean laundry, but especially chemicals and greasy rags) close to the furnace.

□ Space heaters, woodstoves and kerosene heaters can be extremely dangerous unless used properly. Keep toddlers away from them by using barriers. Make sure they are ventilated properly to protect from carbon monoxide poisoning. Two deep breaths of air with a 2 percent concentration of carbon monoxide can kill you in two minutes. Use only appropriate fuel — kerosene in kerosene heaters, firewood or paper logs in woodstoves, and so on. Pressure-treated, varnished or painted wood can emit toxic fumes.

□ This Halloween, don't place candlelit jack-o-lanterns where children's costumes can brush against them.

THE UNITED STATES AIR FORCE
An Energy Awareness Team

A few "quit tips"

- Hide all ashtrays, matches, etc.
- Lay in a supply of sugarless gum, carrot sticks, etc.
- Drink lots of liquids, but pass up coffee & alcohol.
- Tell everyone you're quitting for the day.
- When the urge to smoke hits, take a deep breath, hold it for 10 seconds, & release it slowly.
- Exercise to relieve the tension.
- Try the "buddy system," and ask a friend to quit too.

"As many Air Force members know, routine dental care for family members has been authorized since July 1, 1985. At Reese AFB we provide approximately 30 percent of total care to family members," said Lt. Col. Fred Blosser, Base Dental Surgeon. The question continually arises of how to obtain access into the system. The method used at Reese AFB is to schedule an examination during the sponsor's birth month. Family members four years and older, are eligible for care.

Currently the clinic is providing one scheduled cleaning and one filling appointment per year. Following these scheduled appointments family members are eligible for stand-by care. Stand-by care enables family members to receive additional dental treatment by being available to fill broken appointments or short notice cancellations.

Family members must realize that the primary mission of the Air Force Dental Corp is active duty readiness. Therefore complicated, extensive treatment for family members cannot be handled at Reese. The family member should seek this care at a civilian dentist.

"We are optimistic that we can continue care for family members," he said. If you have any questions you can contact the dental clinic at Ext. 3711.

Have you tagged your kid today?

by A1C Greg Spraggins
Editor, the Roundup

That was the question members of the Reese Company Grade Officers Council (CGOC) asked recently as they handed out identification tags for children to their parents. Over 2300 tags were handed out at the South Plains Mall as a community service project.

This is an effort on the part of the CGOC to make the public aware of the importance of identification for children. The tags not only ID the child but give other vital information such as allergies the child has, medications the child is taking and the family doctor's name and phone number. The most important aspect of the tag is the consent side of the form. When signed by a parent or legal guardian, it gives a hospital permission to perform emergency medical care in case the child's parents can't be reached.

The tags were the idea of George Wager of Buena Park, California. While watching his children play one afternoon, Mr. Wager realized that his pets had better identification than his kids. He decided to do something to change that. He designed the ID tags, had some printed up and began distributing them. Since 1983, when Wager first began to distribute the tags, more than 30 million have been given away. The story on Mr. Wager appeared in the August 1986 issue of Reader's Digest.

The CGOC will be making a return appearance to the South Plains Mall to distribute more ID tags on Oct. 18 from 10 a.m.-8 p.m. To help promote the tags, Officer McGruff will be joining the CGOC. He will be appearing from 1-2 p.m. and again from 5-6 p.m.

These tags could save your child's life. If you would like a member of the CGOC to visit your organization and give your membership some ID tags, contact 2nd Lt. Elizabeth Foster at 885-3211 or 2nd Lt. Cindy LeMay at 885-3341.

Reese to feature Air Force's best

The United States Air Force proudly boasts its top entertainment touring group, the world renowned—TOPS IN BLUE. The all active duty military cast is selected from the Worldwide Talent Contest each year since 1953 at bases throughout the world.

Major Alvin E. Reilly (now a retired Colonel) had a dream to provide the highest quality of entertainment to Air Force bases at remote and isolated locations throughout the world. He created the Air Force Worldwide Talent Contest recognizing various categories of talent including comedy, drama, vocalists, vocal groups, gospel, hillbilly, and eight others. The main idea was to create the highest quality of entertainment for the Air Force family from within the Air Force family, thus the phrase "family entertaining family" was adopted. The Worldwide Talent Contest provided an excellent setting for upcoming Air Force entertainers to display their talents. The contest begins at each base where performers combine to entertain their local audiences. From there, if selected, they go up the line of competition to the Air Force level of competition, "Worldwide." Here they compete for the coveted "Roger" (the Air Force equivalent of the Actor's Oscar or Emmy). This trophy signifies the best of the Air Force's talent in their particular category.

Further, Al Reilly selected the best talent from Worldwide and produced a touring troupe known as "TOPS IN BLUE". His debut tour in 1953 went on a gruelling trek around the United States giving 230 performances in only 235 days. They were able to entertain some 320,000 active duty military members and their families. Thus, the TOPS IN BLUE seed was firmly planted and cultivated by the deepest dedication of this initial group of performers.

In 1954, Ed Sullivan recognized the amazing talents of the Air Force personnel by inviting TOPS IN BLUE to perform at Mitchell Airfield on his all time favorite "Toast of the Town". Now well known, Airman Second Class Jerry Van Dyke led the show as the Master of Ceremonies before a viewing audience estimated at 15 million.

By 1958 nearly 1 million Air Force family members had experienced "some of the finest entertainment in the world", as proclaimed by numerous news reports, but the Air Force had to cut back on expenditures. From 1958-1963 the talent program kept on going as our Air Force entertainers showed their true professionalism in their desire to perform, even if they couldn't tour with TOPS IN BLUE.

The need to entertain the Air Force family turned TOPS IN BLUE to the movie studio in 1964. For the next seven years the TOPS IN BLUE show was put on film and records for distribution throughout the Air Force.

Television productions were accomplished in 1968 and 1969. But their professional films could not compare to the excitement of their live performances.

Long awaiting, TOPS IN BLUE finally went back on the road in 1972 with a meager budget and limited equipment. An overwhelming response from bases throughout the world came to the Morale, Welfare and Recreation headquarters, admiring the professionalism and outstanding Air Force talent. In that year some 42,000 military family members were entertained. Since then the tour has grown every year to its two tour system: one for stateside bases and one for all overseas locations. The dream of Al Reilly was reborn and is now an annual reality in TOPS IN BLUE as the tour reaches over 300,000 people annually at more than 200 locations worldwide.

The tours weren't enough. The Air Force wanted to show-off its talent in an unprecedented spectacle. Under the direction of Mr. Tom Edwards, the TOPS IN BLUE challenged and produced the Garden State Bowl halftime show. With this success, the Air Force was ready to show off its performance to the world at the largest annual event—the Super Bowl. Mr. Edwards called upon his previous TOPS IN BLUE talent and dozens of other staff personnel to plan, develop and implement the finest Super Bowl Halftime performance ever. The two touring troupes combined with over 1,000 volunteers from the Sacramento, California area to entertain 85,000 Stanford Super Bowl fans and an estimated 110 million television audience viewers worldwide on January 20, 1985.

The TOPS IN BLUE continues to proudly provide free entertainment to its Air Force members, their families, and the supporting communities of Air Force Bases around the world. The Air Force is equally proud to boast that most of the funds for the shows come from monies generated by profits collected at activities on-base where military families shop and recreate. In this way the Air Force continues its tradition of family entertaining family to more people throughout the world each year.

More than just a radio shop

by A1C Greg Spraggins
Editor, the Roundup

"Do you think a radio maintenance shop maintains radios? The 1958th ISS' radio shop certainly does," said TSgt. James Parsons. They are responsible for the efficient operation of radios used for ground-to-air communications by such facilities as Base Operations, Base Weather, the Air Traffic Control tower, the 35th and 54th Flying Training Squadrons Supervisors of Flying and the Runway Supervisory Units at both Reese AFB and the Terry County Auxiliary Airfield. They also take care of the radios used by the 64FTW Command Post for long-range communications.

In all, that's about eighty radios. But along with such things as consoles, tape recorders and light guns, they are all part of the ground radio career field. What sets this shop apart are all the things they do that aren't normally done by ground radio personnel. For instance, the shop maintains a microwave receiver so the control tower can receive radar data from Lubbock International Airport. And when the controllers have a problem with their BRITE II radar monitor, or the Base Communications Center can't get their crypto gear to work right, it's Reese Radio Maintenance they call. Also, whenever something special is going to happen on base, such as a change of command ceremony or an open house, or just about any military function, radio maintenance technicians will go out and set up a Public Address system.

Despite their heavy and diverse workload, or perhaps because of it, the morale in the shop remains high. According to the NCOIC, MSgt. Lauren J. Pahl, his people thrive on the challenges offered by their unusual variety of maintenance responsibilities. Adds Capt. Allen L. Wallace, 1958 ISS Commander, "This is why our ground radio shop does such a fantastic job performing both their routine duties and those duties over and above those of other ground radio shops. They truly provide outstanding support to both the squadron and the wing."

News Briefs

Nutrition offered

The Reese Child Care Center announces the sponsorship of the Child Care Food Program.

All children in attendance will be offered the same free meals with no physical segregation of, or other discrimination against any child because of race, color, handicap, sex, age or national origin. Also, all parents utilizing Reese Child Care Center USDA meal program are to complete Form 1531 Child Nutrition Programs Application to determine eligibility for a partial or total reduction of meal charges.

Photo not required

Officers meeting promotion boards through the end of the year and affected by the new criteria for wear of the overseas ribbon will not be required to update their official photographs. Official photographs need not reflect the new criteria until January.

Story Hour resumes

Library Story Hour resumes Wednesday, 10-11 a.m., and 12:30-1:30 p.m. The hour is free and includes reading aloud, movies, activities and games and other fun things to do. All children are invited to share in the fun.

Reunion ahead

A 50th Reunion of Frenship ex's on homecoming weekend will be held today and tomorrow. A banquet and dance will be held tomorrow night at the Lubbock Civic Center. The dinner will be $10 per person. For more information, contact 866-4400.

Weekly Housing Winners

The housing inspection that was conducted on Sept. 23 yielded the following winners. The selection was made by Col. Michael Vizzone, commander, 3500 Mission Support Squadron.

Enlisted Half Duplex: SSgt. Gayle and Teresa Gustafson, 217 George, and SSgt. Gary and Phyllis Grant, 302-George.

Officer Duplex: 1st Lt. Roger and Barbara Boyer, 105 Harmon, and Capt. Michael and Pamela Stansbury, 107 Harmon.

Officer Single: 1st Lt. Daniel and Barbara Holmes, 108 Andrews.

Regulation change

New or first-time employees of the Air Force who work in hazardous noise receive an initial reference hearing test. This test establishes a baseline for comparison with later hearing tests. In the past, workers have been required to be 40 hours noise free prior to the test. This caused considerable scheduling problems for shop supervisors. A change to AFR 161-35 redefines the reference to hearing tests to require only 15 hours noise-free prior to testing.

Specials given

The Windmill Lanes are offering specials:

T.G.I.F.: Fridays after 9 p.m., 50¢ games.

Lunch Special: Three games for $1 between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. weekdays.

Fridays: COLORAMA! 7:30, $6 entry fee.

Rent-a-lane: During non-league hours, $3.50 a lane per hour, $2 each additional hour.

Sunday night and Wednesday night leagues need more people for complete leagues. Both start at 7 p.m. Call Ext. 3116 for more information.

Carvings displayed

Wood carvings by Maj. Doug Lane are currently on display at the Library. Major Lane is a self-taught carver whose work runs from realistically painted ducks to whimsical cowboy figures and boots complete with holes in the soles. Along with the figures are displayed several of the books used in developing his skill.

The Library has similar woodworking books and other related craft materials. This is the right time of year to begin thinking of Christmas and other holiday makings and there is a good selection of how-to books available in the Library.

Smokers—had enough?

The Stop Smoking Clinic will start up again Oct. 15 under new management. The next series will meet on Wednesdays at 3:30 p.m. in the Physiological Training Unit classroom (across from the Hospital). To reserve a spot in the program, call Ext. 3536.

Tea scheduled

The Reese Officers Wives' Club will host a tea for the Women's Division of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. The tea will be held in the Officer's Open Mess Oct. 16, from 2-4 p.m. Reservations are needed. Permanent reservations do not apply. Century is recalling models 100, 200, 300 and 400XL manufactured between April 1985 and February 1986. The Century models can be identified by a lot number stamped on the seat's label. Seats involved in the recall have a lot number of 8504 through 8512, 8601, 8602 and the number 1 molded into the back of the car seat shell. Owners are urged to call Century toll-free at 1-800-222-9825.
