New AF maintenance badge authorized

The military formation was comprised of members of the Deputy Commander for Maintenance Complex and the two maintenance squadrons—the Organizational Maintenance Squadron and the Field Maintenance Squadron. This was also the first retreat where all participants were dressed in fatigues.

Six maintenance members were awarded the new Air Force Aircraft and Munitions Maintenance badge. The award recipients represented a vast cross-section of age and experience. They received the awards on behalf of all military members assigned to the DCM complex at Reese. The master badge was awarded to CMSgt. Lawrence E. Wittich, Maintenance Superintendent for the DCM Complex, and SMSgt. David Vasquez Jr., NCOIC Flightline Support Section (FMS). The senior badge was awarded to Capt. Henry D. Shipley, Maintenance Supervisor (OMS) and SSgt. Lawrence A. Lewis, FTD 429 Instructor. The basic badge was awarded to Capt. Dianna M. Ackerley, Maintenance Supervisor (FMS) and SSgt. Christian Pelletier, Crew Chief (OMS).

The idea for an aircraft and munitions maintenance badge first surfaced in 1978 as a suggestion. It was reviewed again in 1981 and 1982. Each time it was disapproved. However, in 1984, CMSgt. Gene Garzone and CMSgt. Jim Frankland of the USAF Maintenance Staff, took on the task of getting the badge authorized and approved. In ceremonies held at the Pentagon in September, Lt. Gen. Leo Marquez, Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics and Engineering, presented the first badges to the top officer graduates of the aircraft and munitions maintenance officer courses and selected enlisted personnel selected from the Major Commands

CFC — What is your excuse this year?

Anonymous

I've had it! If I read one more article asking to contribute to the Combined Federal Campaign, I'm moving to Ethiopia where people can really use my contributions.

This is America! Land of opportunity! What's the matter with these people who are constantly asking for my money? I've never asked anybody for help and I make it just fine.

Well—OK. When I was young, I did join Girl Scouts.

And yeah, I did take swimming lessons from the Red Cross.

Sure...my cousin is mentally ill and she's gotten some help from mental health agencies. But that's the only person in my family who's gotten help.

Well...you're right. Grandma did get transportation and stuff through a family services agency while she was in the nursing home. Took her to the doctor and the like.

But, so what! She's dead now. Died of diabetes. Of course I noticed some of that CFC money goes to research for diseases like that. But where were they when she needed them?

Umm, maybe I should've given my contribution to that organization. Maybe she'd still be around...Grandpa too...he died of cancer.

Nope! I still think those folks in Ethiopia need my money more than us Americans. Oh... CFC money can go there, too?

Wait a minute, here! It's time to look out for old number one! I've had it rough. Dad was an alcoholic...Beat up on mom constantly.

Really? CFC helps out organizations which fight alcoholism and spouse abuse, too?

Yeah. But, do you have any idea what a terrific dinner I could buy with that $120 share I'm supposed to contribute this year? Doesn't seem "fair" to me. What do I have to show for it?

Beans and water? You mean that's what some people in San Antonio have to eat meal after meal?

Hold on, though. If I go giving all my hard earned money to CFC, how am I going to pay $280 a month for my hot, new Toyota Corolla SR-5?

What? That's how much it costs for five days of residential care for a mentally retarded child? You mean like my cousin?

But...but...I've picked out this terrific-looking outfit at the mall I want for $63!

What? Twenty-five hot meals for homebound senior citizens? Why, that would have fed my grandma almost an entire month!

Hey! I was thinking of perming my hair. That costs $45. How much would that buy?

Wow! Five days of residential care for a recovering alcoholic. My pop sure could have used that.

How about $160? That's what I blew at the coast this weekend.

Ten days of shelter for a battered woman and her children, huh? Boy, if I could keep another kid from going through what I did...

Wait a minute! I can! Hey... can I tell them where I want my money to go?

Great! Let's see, first I want to contribute to disease research, then of course, to that battered spouse shelter, and then...

Sunday: set clocks back one hour

Don't let what you have read about changes in daylight-saving time confuse you. You'll still have to set your clocks back one hour on Sunday.

Under the new law signed by President Ronald Reagan in July, Standard Time still resumes at 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in October; however, daylight-saving time rolls around a little earlier next spring—on April 5. The idea of lengthening the number of weeks of daylight-saving time has been debated since the United States began experimenting with the concept during the 1974-75 energy crisis.

Increasing the length of time under daylight-saving time has usually been opposed by rural law-makers whose districts and states straddled the western edge of time zones. They complained that the increased darkness in the morning would be a hardship for farmers and a safety hazard for schoolchildren.

The U.S. Department of Transportation, which regulates time zones, did a study on the effects of having 10 months of daylight-saving time in 1974 and eight months of daylight-saving time in 1975. The study's conclusions:

- Daylight-saving time saves energy. Based on energy consumption figures for 1974 and 1975, observance of daylight-saving time in March and April of those two years saved the equivalent of 100,000 barrels of oil in energy each day—a total of 6 million barrels in each of these two years.

- Daylight-saving time reduces motor vehicle accidents, fatalities and injuries by enabling more people to travel home from work and school in daylight, which is much safer than darkness.

- By enabling people to get home from work and school and complete more errands and chores in daylight, daylight-saving time seems to reduce people's exposure to crime, which is more common in darkness than in light.

Daylight-saving time is observed in all of the United States and its territories except Arizona, Hawaii, the eastern time zone portion of Indiana, American Samoa, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Prologue

The truth is, I am what some people would call a list maker. That's a person who writes down things he thinks need fixing or tending to, lest he forget. Once in an organized list, these "promises-to-act" can be pursued in their turn later—supposedly. Unfortunately, most list makers like me lose the list soon after making it. Then another list is born, and more often than not, the pattern is repeated. Some contend that list makers stay more organized this way—maybe. Frankly, I'm not too sure.

But I do know that a good time for list makers is between flights. It's Tuesday night and I'm at DFW International awaiting American Airlines flight 601 back to Lubbock. I've just completed a comprehensive list. Most of the items were generated at today's Model Installation Program (MIP) Commanders' Conference in Washington, D.C. Of course the list is safely tucked away in my briefcase for future action when I get back to Reese. That done, I now want to jot down a few words for the Roundup: Tomorrow is Bill Tynan's deadline you know.

MIP—It's Time for the Pay-off

The continuing success of our MIP initiatives has generated close to $100,000 of so far unobligated savings that ought to be wisely spent to improve the working and living conditions of our community. Towards that end, I have several ideas of my own—one of which is to improve our outdoor athletic areas. Perhaps providing a facelift to our jogging track by way of resurfacing it might be one option. But I'd like to hear your ideas on what we can do to improve our community. So, for the next two weeks I'd like to hear your views through the CARELINE on what we ought to do with our savings. In addition to it's normal function, I think the CARELINE would be a great way for me to hear your ideas first hand. Please call in your ideas by Friday, Nov. 7. Thanks.

Deputy Chiefs of Staff

Last week Reese's two special visitors were both new Deputy Chiefs of Staff at ATC Headquarters: Col. Gary Clark, DCS/Personnel and Col. Chuck Crawford, DCS/Comptroller.

Both visits went well, benefitting not only them but Reese as well. It's hard to measure the importance of such orientation trips—but it's surely a two-way street though. These two distinguished officers saw the Reese team in action and left with useful mental pictures of Reese and our people that will serve them (and Reese) well as decisions are made at Headquarters in two key functional areas: PEOPLE and MONEY. I am fully aware of the costs—in time and effort—associated with hosting visitors. But I know all of you agree that our efforts are worth it and pay dividends in the end. Remember, these key players are pivoted in supporting Reese's mission.

Besides, folks from Headquarters need to see the #1 team in person to fully appreciate the stories they hear about our pride, professionalism and attitude. Lots of people were involved with these visits—my thanks to each and every one of you—I'm just sorry that space precludes mentioning everyone specifically. But I would like thank Lt. Col. Vizzone and his MSS personnel experts as well as Mr. Ron Armes and his MWR Facility Managers for hosting Col. Clark. While much of the credit for Col. Crawford's successful visit goes to Maj. Lee Cox and his AC Branch Chiefs—Thanks folks.

Col. James McIntyre

One high point was the Commanders' and First Sergeants' breakfast on Thursday morning which gave those key Reese leaders the opportunity to hear views of both Col. Clark and Col. Crawford as each highlighted some of the current issues being worked at Air Force and Air Training Command Staff levels.

Later that morning I enjoyed seeing Col. Clark interface with a group of T-37 and T-38 IPs in the 35th Flying Training Squadron. As Col. Clark works personnel issues of concern to our IPs, like enhancing FAIP assignment opportunities, it is important for him to hear our IPs views first hand. Thanks to all.

While Col. Clark gained insight from the personnel side, Col. Crawford gained an invaluable perspective on Reese—particularly on the flightline. You see, Col. Crawford is a "budgeteer" by trade, and it was important for him to view first hand, the Reese team in action. Our maintenance and operations people generating, flying and recovering sorties at a "blue sky" pace with the smell of jet fuel, engine noise and general hustle and bustle painted quite a different picture for someone who usually deals with accounting.

Reese—From "Snails to Eagles"

Recently I received a heartfelt letter from a lady who lives in Smyer, Texas. I think that all of you would like to know how people see us and how they feel about the important job we do in keeping our great nation free.

Dear Sir:

My note of thanks may seem unusual to you but I will explain in as brief a note as I can. After being raised with an Army Major uncle and dad plus a Navy brother, then my son just returned from 2½ years in a Navy vocational school in Japan, you can tell I have seen some of our "so-called" Armed Forces. I was raised near Carswell AFB and at Fort Hood when I was older.

My ideas of service men were one notch above a snail and when my sons and I moved to Smyer, I wasn't enthused about being in another base town. We live about 7 miles northwest of Reese and we enjoy seeing the jets from a distance but when my brother wanted us to attend your Open House, I have to say I expected the usual big shot, smart—, typical service people with no backbone or morals and a mouth full of good ole Texas bull crap.

Excuse my bluntness but I had the idea that all service people were in because they could get paid for nothing. I can't begin to explain my surprise when we arrived at your base Sunday morning. The planes took my breath away from a distance and when I was shown such courtesy and given detailed explanations of each aircraft upon my request, I could not believe it.

Your Air Force team and their mates were amazing. The boys and I stayed all day. I spoke to many of your officers about the pilots and I went to booths where wives of Air Force men were eager to assist in all aspects of my curiosity and didn't feel uncomfortable with my enthusiasm. I came from your Open House totally in a state of awe. I was excited beholding the controlled environment of Reese and how easy it seemed to be for the people who served there to keep it all in order.

I saw no disorder, no problems, no fuss. No trouble at all. What I did see was the most talented crew ever, men who looked special, not just well groomed or dressed in uniforms but special in that they knew masses of information and still stood as humble, walked with civilians as an equal but glowing as men of devoted excellence. The women were not macho or big mouths, but ladies and talented in their own respect.

Tears came to my eyes when I watched the planes fly and thought of the men who stand behind the control of such power. You gave me new life in your devoted crew. I praise you all as the most respectable men and women I have ever seen. There has to be so much more of Reese that is equally as devoted and professional, but the pilots and crews of the aircraft we saw and the teams who made up Reese's Open House make a lump in my throat each time I see a plane take off from your base. I stop and look from a distance every time I pass and say a prayer each day for you all because I know first hand who runs the team, who is behind the wheel, and what keeps it all moving smoothly.

That is true intelligence, no brag or fake, just sincere acts of remarkable dedication to one cause. I am proud to have been on your great base and witnessed the total precision of a top notch team. My views have gone from snail to reach higher than your magnificent F-4 Phantom can fly. No movie or video can ever give a true idea of what the Air Force is in it's entirety. The real test is to see the men and women first hand. You all are above and beyond excellence.

BRAVO and GOD BE WITH YOU.

Lady from Smyer

BRAVO to the entire Reese team! What a super testimony which highlights where the rubber meets the road. Each one of you can be very proud of each and every part you play in the mission—every single day. It is important. AS I SEE IT, we can't afford to forget that—our nation is counting on us

Kudos to...

SSgt. Tim McCormick and A1C Jerry Cook for their quick response and professionalism they displayed during a recent emergency response...Mr. James Majorowski, shift chief, Lubbock General Hospital.

Major "Sparky" Schwartz for outstanding assistance to the 1986 Charles P. Bubany client counseling competition...Mr. Clay Abbott, Texas Tech University.

1st Lt. Pat Barnes and 2nd Lt. Stewart Laing for the outstanding tour given the General Military cadets. Their positive attitude and professionalism had a strong impact on each cadet...Colonel Elton L. Brian, Commander, DET 820, AFOTC, Texas Tech University.

...OSI Special Agent Bob Wilson for outstanding service at the Commander in Chief's Conference at the Air University, Maxwell AFB, Ala.—from Lt. Gen. Thomas Richards, commander, Air University.

...OSI Special Agent Jim Wilson for his selection as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America for 1986.

...Audio Visual wizards 1st Lts. Keith Clifton, Larry Massey and Greg Barber for their outstanding work in supporting three luncheons, the Honor Guard Banquet and the 54 Flying Training Squadron Dining In last week. Super job guys!

Eliminating last minute "use or lose"

by Colonel Donald J. McCullough/DCR

We have just ended another leave accounting year for military personnel and are rapidly approaching a similar deadline for civilians. If you were to look at our leave accounting system as we approached 30 September and as we approach 31 December, you would be surprised to see the increasing number of leaves being processed. You could ask "what creates this phenomenon?", but it is easy to understand. People suddenly become aware that their leave balances exceed the number of days that can be "carried forward."

For military personnel, the magic number is 60 days; for civilians, it is normally 240 hours, but can vary under some circumstances. If the balance will exceed these maximums, and is not used by the end of the leave accounting year, it is lost! This generally explains why the sudden rash of end-of-year leaves. How do we allow ourselves to get in this position? One of the benefits we as federal employees and service members enjoy is paid vacations.

The provision for that program is in public law and is therefore one of your rights which should only be denied for military necessity. Studies have shown that vacations from duty are essential to the morale and motivation of all workers. Lengthy breaks from the work environment tend to have a beneficial effect on an individual's psychological and physical well being. These effects are not normally seen from weekend absences or short periods of leave.

In providing the leave entitlement, Congress intended that we use that leave as accrued, not as an extra money program. In living up to that intention, we are encouraged to use our entire accrual each year and in so doing to take at least one vacation of two weeks or more in duration. Although it is generally a good policy to have some leave "banked" for emergencies, PCS moves, and even for terminal leave upon separation or retirement, our people should never end up in a "use or lose" situation.

As supervisors, we are tasked to develop and monitor a leave program which encourages the periodic use of leave, not only for the maximum benefit of our people, but also to prevent the loss of leave at the end of the leave accounting year. We have gone through some challenging periods during the past year with the MEI, MCI, and a myriad of other special events and activities. All of these demanded our total attention and effort and put time off at a premium. Our people responded to the commitments in true Reese fashion. After the smoke cleared, we should have dusted off our leave schedules and ensured that our people took those postponed leaves.

As we make preparations for the new year, one of the goals the Wing Commander has asked us to pursue is a positive, working leave program and that we eliminate the need for those last minute "use or lose" situations. The benefits to be realized include increased productivity through a rejuvenated work force and high morale at all levels.

P.S. Don't look for me next week—I'll be on leave in California pinning some new wings on another son and visiting another Air Force family—my daughter's!

How good is your defense?

by Lt. Col. Phillip Marzolino
Chief, Safety Division

Tom Landry, one of the top NFL coaches in history, is a strong advocate of starting to build a team around defense. The reason is quite simple: the defense can control who has the ball and, consequently, who has the best opportunity to win. Winning on the highways is very similar to football—the best offense sometimes turn out to be having a good defense.

Since the first of October, the highways have definitely been taking their toll on the Reese community. We have recorded a total of 11 traffic accidents in the last 21 days (not counting fender benders we don't know about) and 12 of our people have been injured to one degree or another. This equates to one accident every other day! The worst part of all this is that the vast majority of the accidents were preventable: falling asleep at the wheel, running a red light, being hit by another vehicle that failed to yield the right of way, hitting a cow on the highway, etc. Equally important, the law of averages would dictate if we don't reverse this trend, it's just a matter of time until someone is seriously hurt or killed!

There are no magic solutions to this problem; however, the record is very clear to all of us that we must take control of the situation ourselves or we may be the next statistic. This brings us right back to the concept of defense. Just as the defensive squad in a football game must be alert for whatever the offense may come up with, as drivers we must be constantly alert for errors of other drivers and be prepared to react to them. This means anticipation. Anticipate the other driver not seeing you or running that red light; anticipate an animal on the highway; anticipate fatigue; anticipate that you may be needing the seat belt on this trip and buckle up. Of course, anticipation is only half the battle; the other half is giving yourself an out should your worst nightmare become reality. Try this test. The next time you are driving home from work and you see another car approaching your lane of traffic at an intersection, ask yourself, "What would I do right now if that car failed to yield and pulled in front of me?" Are you aware of other traffic that might impeded a possible escape route? Are you aware of shoulder conditions that might facilitate your avoiding the collision? If you are, congratulations—you're doing a good job of driving defensively, particularly if you do this continually. If you're not, it's time to re-evaluate your performance as a driver before you end up as accident number 12.

Eye opener

Two Reese Airmen were involved in an auto accident Oct. 17 at the War Highway and 19th Street intersection as another automobile tried to beat the light and failed. Seatbelts were used, and neither Airmen were seriously injured. A child in the other vehicle was being held by the front seat passenger and died due to failure to use a child restraining seat. The two women in the other vehicle are still in Lubbock General Hospital.

Invest for energy future

by 1st Lt. Joseph L. Martin
Wing Energy Manager

In keeping with Energy Awareness Month, I thought it would be appropriate to remind you of some things which you can do at home and at work to lower your personal utility bills and those of the base.

- Keep all your heating outlets and air return vents free from obstructions. Your system will have to work harder if you block off the free air return system.

- During the winter months, open your curtains and blinds during the warm part of the day to let the sunshine in. Close them at night to prevent stored heat from escaping.

- Use kitchen, bath, and other ventilating fans sparingly. In just one hour these units can blow away a houseful of warmed air. Turn them off just as soon as they have done their job.

- Clean weatherstripping around doors and windows. When the West Texas dust piles up these strips don't function as designed. You'll be surprised at the difference.

- Concentrate lighting in your home and work area where you need it. Don't light areas you seldom use and don't need, but avoid sharp contrasts.

- The next time you replace a defective bulb, use the next smaller wattage size. You probably won't notice the difference, except on your electric bill.

- Boiling water in a kettle or covered pan requires less energy than boiling water in an open pan.

These energy helps are simply statements of physical facts that could lead you to a more energy efficient facility. Keep this month's theme in mind as you consider them—Invest Now for our Energy Future.

"Being a jet pilot involves a lot more than nerves of steel, fast reflexes and eagle eyes...you've got to have bladder control!"

The 1986-87 Influenza Immunization Program for Reese AFB will be conducted Oct. 20-Nov. 14. Immunizations are mandatory for all active duty personnel (IAW AFR 161-13). All personnel should be aware that the immunization is most effective in preventing illness when received early in the season. All active duty personnel who have a valid medical waiver prohibiting the immunization (pregnancy, allergic to eggs) must bring proof of the waiver to the Immunization Clinic to avoid receiving a 'no-show' notification.

All base organizations must contact the Immunization clinic at Ext. 3846 to establish the date, time and location for their immunizations and to provide the name of their contact person. Each organization is expected to provide a qualified individual who can validate the unit's personnel roster and to pull notification cards.

All personnel, including those on mobility, are required to have their shot record with them when receiving the immunization.

Immunizations for dependents and civilian government employees will be given after Nov. 14 based on the availability of vaccine.

For more information, call SSgt. Willie Garth, Ext. 3846.

Theater discounts

The Mathis Recreation Center has discount theater tickets to the following:

United Artists tickets for the cinema at the South Plains Mall—$3.75

Fox-Mann tickets—$3.25

Tickets may be purchased at the Mathis Recreation Center Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., and Saturday, Sunday and holidays, noon to 9:30 p.m.

Activities planned

The Reese Enlisted Wives' Club meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Enlisted Open Mess. A guest speaker-demonstration, corsage making and much more is planned. The club will also hold a bake sale at the BX Main Exchange tomorrow. For more information, contact Jackie Rausch, 885-3512/2216, or Vickie, 885-2651.

Luncheon ahead

The monthly Company Grade Officer's Luncheon will be held Monday in the Davis Room of the officer's club. Dr. Christianson of Texas Tech University will be the guest speaker. He will be speaking on the SDI research done at Tech. The luncheon begins at 11:20 a.m. For reservations, call 1st Lt. Eddie Norris, Ext. 3759.

What's happening

The Reese Mexican American Club will have its' next general membership meeting at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Enlisted Open Mess. Club membership is open to all military and civilians regardless of race, religion, color, national origin or sex. Anyone may attend the meeting. For more information, call MSgt. Matt Alvarez, Ext. 6065.

Time to mow

The garden plots on base will be moved by Civil Engineering Nov. 3, and all individuals need to pick up their wire fences, wooden or metal stakes and other equipment. For more information, call TSgt. Charles Gonzales, Ext. 3710.

Challenge accepted

The members of the Windmill Chapter of the NCOA has accepted the challenge from the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron in donating money to the Reese AFB Chapel Holiday Fund. The fund is used to help make the holiday season a little brighter for those who need a little help. The NCOA donated $100 to the fund. MSgt. James Montgomery and SSgt. Jim Bourns presented the check to Chaplain (Lt. Col.) William McGraw Jr. Recipients are indentified by squadron commanders and first sergeants.

Allowance changed

The Variable Housing Allowance offset change has been in effect since March and we still have new personnel arriving at Reese who have not been briefed on the procedures of the new change. Supervisors should instruct all new personnel to report to Housing Referral after they have selected off-base housing. They should bring a copy of the lease, mortgage or rental agreement for Housing Referral to keep in their file. Singles, single parents and military married to military must report to Base Billeting Office, Bldg. 1142, to process their paperwork to be eligible for VHA.

Films shown

Project Warrior films will be shown during the lunch hour from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the following locations: Monday, officer's club; Tuesday, NCO club; Wednesday, Caprock Cafe.

This month's films are "Interdiction and blockade" and "Strangle." Both films are part of the Air Power film series and were filmed in the 1950's.

"Interdiction and Blockade" covers the battle for sniper infested New Guinea in 1942 and describes how American air power cut off Japanese supply lines of food and ammunition.

"Strangle" shows how superior American air power strangled the German effort in southern Italy in 1944.

NCOA needs help

The Noncommissioned Officers' Association is looking for old, used or unwanted trophies, in any condition. We will be able to use part of the trophies for fund raisers. If you have any that you wish to donate, please contact SSgt. Jimmy Bourns, Ext. 3121/3122.

Shots given

The annual Mission Support Squadron flu shots will be given Tuesday between 8 a.m. and noon and Wednesday between 1-3 p.m. in Bldg. 920, downstairs in the break room. You must have your shot record in your possession. If you are allergic to the shot, you must bring proof of such at this time. This is a mandatory military formation.

Housing wanted

The Housing Referral Service has a continuous need for non-discriminatory housing for military and DoD civilian personnel. If you have a house, apartment or mobile home you would like to rent or sell, take advantage of our listing service. This is a free service available to all personnel. Just call Paul Young at Housing Referral Service, Ext. 3601, or come by the Housing Referral Office, Bldg. 6100. Providing a photograph of your property may aid in the sale or rental of the property.

Scare scheduled

The Security Police Wives' Club will sponsor a Haunted House at the Boy Scout Hut on War Highway from 7-10 p.m. Oct. 31. Admission is $1, and chil-

A RECEIVER SHOULD SOUND BETTER AT HOME THAN IT DOES ON PAPER

The purpose of a stereo receiver is to reproduce music, of course, and the pleasure it gives you depends on its sound quality. But it is tempting for shoppers to base a buying choice on paper specifications rather than on sound—on the assumption, for example, that all "75 watt" receivers are equally powerful. Because of this, many circuit designers focus their primary attention on producing impressive numbers rather than impressive sound.

NAD takes a different approach, subjecting circuits to critical listening tests as well as lab measurements. This "real world" design philosophy results in audibly superior receivers that outperform other products having superficially similar paper specifications.

The NAD 7175PE receiver sets a new world standard for musically useful performance using POWER ENVELOPE circuits designed to deliver more than 4 times their rated power into a real loudspeaker.

Come by Hi-Fidelity and hear the difference. We think you'd rather have better sound, not better numbers.

Banquet scheduled

The Noncommissioned Officer Academy Graduate Association will host the Annual Enlisted Awards Banquet Nov. 22, 1986, at the Officer's Open Mess.

CMSgt. James C. Binnicker, Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force, will be the guest speaker for the banquet. The Wing's outstanding First Sergeant, Senior NCO, NCO and Airman of the Year will be announced at the banquet. Those selected will then go to compete at the ATC and possibly become one of the Air Force's 12 Outstanding Airman of the Year. The NCOAGA sponsors this event annually through fundraising events. Health alert

The early autumn months are high-risk months for the transmission of encephalitis by mosquitoes in Lubbock. Encephalitis (Western equine and St. Louis types) is a virus disease of the nervous system transmitted by mosquitoes.

It is seldom fatal but can result in physical pain, loss of productivity and even hospitalization. The disease is not spread from person to person. Wet conditions allow the mosquitoes to breed. Base housing residents are urged to eliminate breeding sites such as empty flower pots, to report mosquito problems to Base Entomology, and to use mosquito repellants at night when necessary.

NCO Leadership School Class 87-A will be held at the Enlisted Open Mess, Thursday, at 6:30 p.m. Col. Ramon Broerman, deputy commander for maintenance, will be the guest speaker. Everyone is invited to attend.

Training given

The Reese Dental Clinic will start a Red Cross training program for dental assistants. The program will be six months long and upon successful completion of the program a training certificate will be issued. Training will consist primarily of practical experience from assisting in the dental treatment room. The class will begin approximately Nov. 1. For more information, call TSgt. Harold Hiatt or Lt. Col. Fred Blosser, Ext. 3711.

Officers meeting promotion boards through the end of the year and affected by the new criteria for wear of the overseas ribbon will not be required to update their official photographs. Official photographs need not reflect the new criteria until January.

Story Hour resumes

Library Story Hour is Wednesday, 10-11 a.m., and 12:30-1:30 p.m. The hour is free and includes reading aloud, movies, activities and games and other fun things to do. All children are invited to share in the fun.

Property lost

The Security Police Investigations Section has the following lost or abandoned items: one female's wristwatch and one key ring containing two keys and two tags. If this property belongs to you, please call the Investigations Section, Ext. 3999.

Troop meets

Boy Scout Troop 548 meets every Monday at 7 p.m. at 226 War Highway. Any boys 10 and one-half-years-old and in the fifth grade, or 11-years-old and in any grade are invited to attend. For more information, contact TSgt. Dennis Sebranek, Ext. 3701.

Farewell held today

by A1C Greg Spraggins
Editor, Roundup

Ms. Bertha Smith, a civil service employee, will retire today after 34 years of service at Reese AFB.

Ms. Smith has worked in numerous jobs from the 3500th Pilot Training Group to her current position at Base Supply. She has been recognized as a Professional Performer by both the 1975 and 1981 ATC Inspector General Inspections, and is well respected for her supply knowledge.

During her past ten years, Ms. Smith has provided support to Reese AFB and the Pittsburgh ANG and Air Reserve Supply satellites.

A farewell reception will be held today at 8:30 a.m. in the Supply Training Room.

Your ideas can pay off

by 1st Lt. Frank S. Kelley

Here are some tips on coming up with ideas that pay off for the Air Force and you. Be constructively discontent. Don't accept things because its always been that way.

Be creative. "Some people are creative and some aren't." This is an incorrect statement. The truth is, creativity is a technique that must be developed and practiced for you to become proficient. Everyone has the ability—but only a few tap this valuable resource.

Become aware of your surroundings. Find the new or different way to accomplish an old task. The two biggest stumbling blocks to this new or different approach are self-censorship, and shortsighted criticism from others. Don't self-doubt your own ideas. Just because you thought of it doesn't mean it must be wrong. Along the same line, don't let others stifle your creativity with idea killing phrases like, "It won't work," "It's never been done before," or the worst, "We've done it this way forever."

Make a "what bugs me" list. Look around you. Is there something that you feel is silly, or stupid, but you must do it the old way because it's always been done that way? When you find something, write it down.

Raise questions about the situation. Ask yourself "What?" "Why?" and "Why not?" Refer back to your "What bugs me list." Think of ways the items on your list can be eliminated or reduced. "How do I do this?" you ask.

Brainstorm your ideas either by yourself or with others. Develop a host of possible solutions. Throw "Air Force" and "Brown Shoe" logic out the window. Sometimes the wildest ideas reap the greatest rewards. Remember, if your solution is too outlandish, it can still be tamed down later as the refinement of your solution begins. Don't be afraid to let ideas hitchhike on each other. It's just another way to improve the original idea.

Let the problem/solution lay for awhile. Creativity can't be turned off and on at your request. If you get stumped, put the idea aside for a while and come back to it later. A new approach and or solution will come to you.

Finally, when your idea is completely formulated—put it on an AF Form 1000 and send it to the Suggestion Office. The folks at XPMTS/45 will be happy to test the waters for you. One of three things will happen: You'll receive a disapproval with reasons cited; you'll get a certificate, or you could receive anywhere from $25 to several thousand! The final advantage is you'll be saving the Air Force money—money that comes from your tax dollars.

Now, don't you think it is worth a little effort? Take a shot. You and the Air Force could both be big winners.

Advice for credit card users

by 2nd Lt. William T. Huffman and Capt. Michael D. Russell
Base Legal Office

For many, life as we know it could not exist without the use of plastic money.

Credit cards can provide an everyday convenience, however, they can be the source of many problems when used improperly or when the card company's computer makes an error in your bill.

Proper action to be taken if such an error occurs is covered under the Federal Fair Credit Billing Act. By law the consumer has 60 days to send a written notice to the credit card company of any errors in his bill. The company must acknowledge the complaint within 30 days of receiving it and must take appropriate action within 90 days. The company is required either to make corrections in the bill or to investigate the complaint and explain why the consumer owes the amount billed.

In cases where the consumer claims he or she was billed for an item never received, it is the credit card company's duty to verify that the item was actually delivered or mailed.

A company may not close your account prior to an investigation into the complaint, including a written explanation of the account. You will have at least 10 days from the time you receive the explanation to pay the disputed amount. After that time, the company can declare your account delinquent and report that information to third parties, however, the company must also report that the bill is in dispute, and must give the consumer written notice if the delinquency is reported to third parties. If the dispute is later resolved, the creditor must notify the same parties of the resolution. If your credit card company allows you to pay the full balance without payment of finance charge, the company must give you at least 14 days from the date the bill is mailed to pay that bill.

The best advice for credit card users is to keep a copy of each receipt and compare receipts with charges when you receive your bill. If you find an error, you should attempt to settle the dispute as soon as possible.

For more help or information on consumer problems, contact the attorney General's Consumer protection office in Lubbock at 806 Broadway, 747-5238 or the Reese Legal Office, at Ext. 3505.

Wearing the uniform while traveling

by TSgt. Robert A. Carpenter
Traffic Management Supervisor

Personnel performing official government travel or on leave are reminded that they are not required to wear military uniforms unless they are traveling on MAC charter flights or departing from a military airfield. However, those who choose to wear the uniform need to be aware of the standards set forth in AFR 35-10, paragraph 1-7. The proper uniform when traveling from commercial airports is the service dress or just the light blue short or long sleeve shirt/blouse with tie or tab. The maternity smock or light blue short or long sleeve maternity blouse with tab is also authorized. The only authorized outer garments are the all weather coat, overcoat, raincoat, or the light weight raincoat.

Personnel departing from military airfields such as McGuire AFB, N.J. or Travis AFB, Ca. are restricted to the service dress uniform only. Exceptions will apply to those countries listed in the foreign clearance guide which prohibits the wear of the uniform.

Any further questions regarding the wear of the uniform when traveling can be answered by calling your local TMO Passenger Service Station at Ext. 3837.

You can ride along

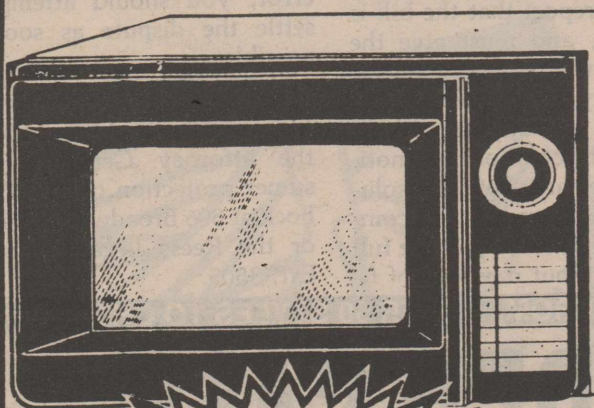

by A1C Felix Saenz
Base Crime Prevention Manager

The 64th Security Police Ride Along Program is live and well. This program is open to all military personnel and their dependents over 13-years-old as well as DoD civilian personnel assigned to Reese AFB. This program gives participants a chance to observe their police force in the performance of their duties by riding along with them during part or all of an eight hour shift.

If you wish to participate in this program, please contact the Security Police Desk Sgt. or A1C Felix Saenz at Bldg. 500 for an application which will be forwarded to the Crime Prevention Manager. Your request times and dates of participation must not interfere with your school schedule, or duty time unless prior approval has been received from your supervisor. Military may wear their choice of duty uniform or may dress casually, but neatly, in civilian attire. If you have any questions concerning this new program, please feel free to contact A1C Felix Saenz at Ext. 3615 for more information.

Best of 1958th Comm Sq. named

by SMSgt. Jimmy L. Robinson

The 1958th Communications Squadron has selected its outstanding Personnel for 1986, and also for the third quarter of 1986.

MSgt. Christopher H. Pillifant, chief, Air Traffic Control Training, won the top Senior NCO honor of the Year. Sergeant Pillifant was assigned to the 1958CS as an Air Traffic Controller on June 14, 1985, and on Jan. 1, 1986 he took over his present duties. He was selected as the 64th Flying Training Wing Senior NCO for the second quarter, 1986.

SSgt. Donald E. Pierce was selected as the NCO of the Year for his outstanding job as a Quality Control Inspector assigned to the Maintenance Support Staff. His abilities, and the procedures he introduced, were instrumental in the maintenance branch receiving ratings of "excellent" during both the Management Effectiveness Inspection (MEI) in April, and the Mission Capability Inspection (MCI) in July. Sergeant Pierce arrived in the squadron July 27, 1982. He is a selectee for promotion to Technical Sergeant.

SrA. Donald C. Danford was selected as the Airman of the Year for the outstanding job he has done as Chief Clerk of Administration. He was promoted below-the-zone to Senior Airman in January 1986. He was identified as a "Professional Performer" by the MEI team in April 1986. He was honored with the 64th Flying Training Wing Semi-annual Outstanding Administrator Award for March-August 1986, the second time he has received this recognition. SrA. Danford was assigned to the 1958th Comm. Squadron from technical school Dec. 23, 1983.

MSgt. Jed J. Schatz, NCOIC, Maintenance Support Staff, was selected as the Senior NCO of the Quarter. Sgt. James D. Bush, a Weather Equipment Repairman assigned to the Airfield Systems Section, was selected as the NCO of the Quarter. And the honor of Airman of the Quarter was won by A1C Scott W. Gearhart, an Air Traffic Controller.

Boo! — Safety tips for Halloween

by Sgt. Cherie Powers
Ground Safety Specialist

Much of Halloween safety begins with everyday common sense. Keep your children safe by following these tips:

Costumes—Should be made of flame retardant materials. Be certain costumes allow children to walk easily without tripping. Children should wear comfortable, well-fitted shoes or sneakers. Do not let them wear mother's high heels. Use light colors, reflective tape, or decals so children are visible at night.

Masks—Should be properly ventilated, with holes for nose and/or mouth, and large eye holes for good visibility. Wear the mask on top of the head when walking, pull it over the face only when reaching the location.

Before your children leave (accompany your children if at all possible), discuss the following points with them:

- Go only into familiar neighborhoods.
- Plan to follow a route and designate a time to return.
- Stop only at houses or apartment buildings that are well lit and/or display that they are participating in trick 'n treating.
- Do not enter homes or apartments unless an accompanying adult approves.
- Affix name, address, and phone numbers to the sleeve of young children's costumes in case they get lost.
- Give coins and instruct children to call if there is a problem or if they will be late.
- Walk on sidewalks, not streets, and do not run out between parked cars.

Treats—Give children a meal or snack before going out and emphasize that no treats should be eaten before they get home.

Discard commercially produced candy if the wrapper is loose or the seal has been broken.

Wash fruit and slice it into small pieces, checking for inedible additions.

If anything is suspicious about treats, report this to the police.

Some parents have opted to get their kids together for Halloween parties instead of sending them trick-or-treating.

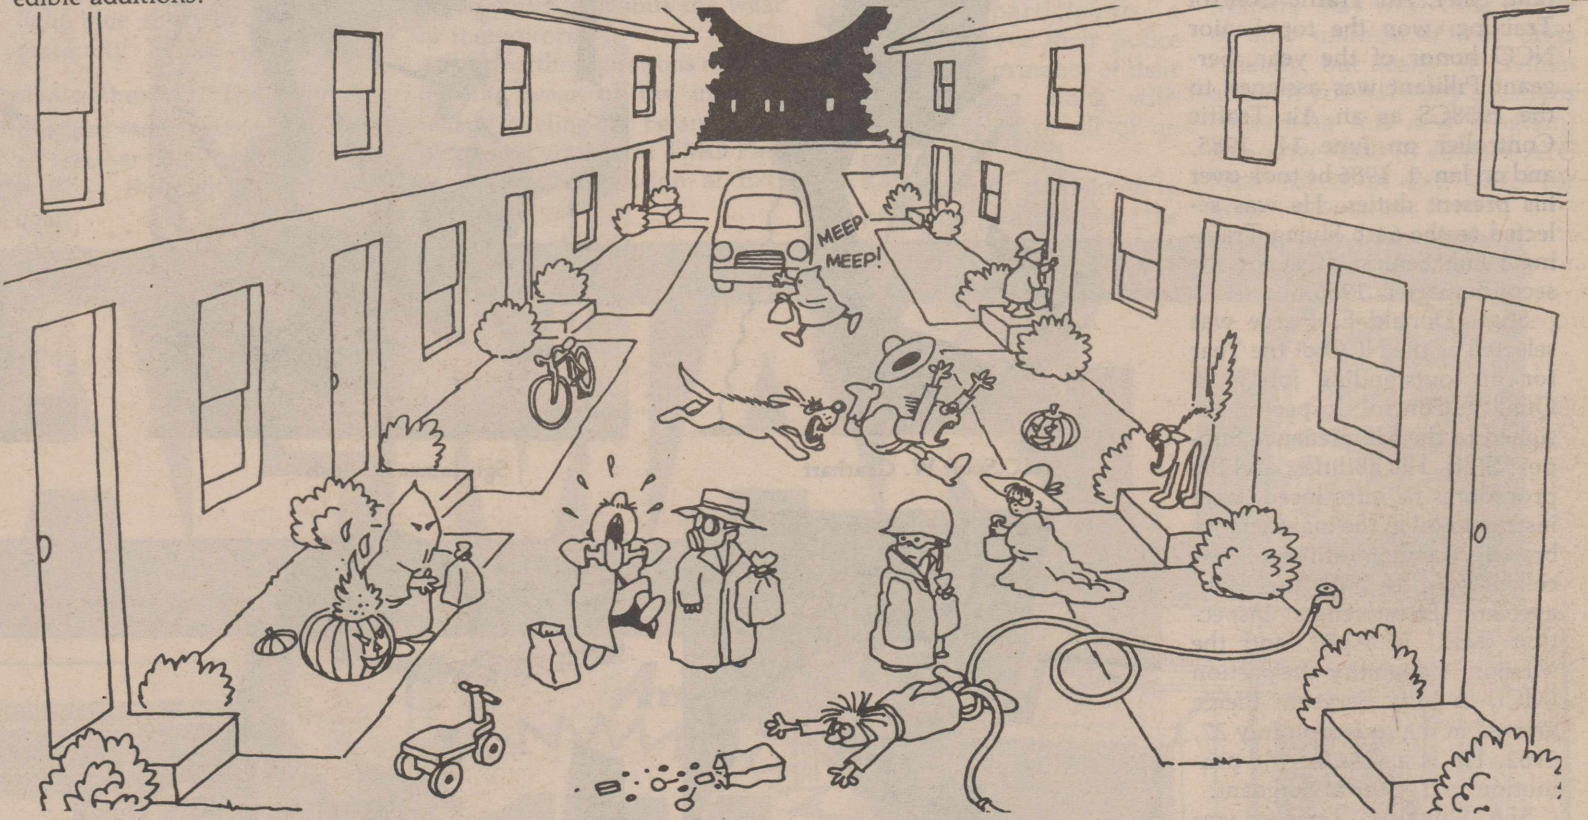

If you don't wish to give food as treats, consider the following inexpensive, non-edible items. Look for age guidelines on packages:

- Balls and jacks
- Coloring books
- Storybooks
- Instant photo of the child in costume
- Kites and planes

Yo-Yos
Hand puppets
Snack coupons at fast food restaurants

Your children are worth the time it takes to do a little planning. Let's keep them safe so their Halloween will be fun and a memorable occasion.

Fire prevention week recapped

by A1C Robin Reams
Staff Writer, Roundup

Fire Inspector Arnold P. Miranda paid the Reese Day Care Center and Reese elementary school a visit during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-10.

Fire Prevention Week is designed to "make children aware of fire hazards in the home," Miranda said. Students were allowed to try on a fire fighting hood, inspect fire trucks from both the Reese Fire Department and the Lubbock Fire Department, and were shown how to properly use a fire extinguisher in order to familiarize them with fire fighting equipment and technique.

During his presentation, Miranda stressed the importance of smoke detectors and provided children with the following tips to insure smoke detectors remain in working conditions.

- Replace batteries every year or as needed.
- Replace bulbs every three years or as needed.
- Replace damaged parts as soon as they break
- Check the alarm every 30 days by releasing smoke or pushing the test button.
- Clean the detector face and grillwork often to remove dust and grease.

- Double check the device if you've been away from home.

Miranda also stressed the importance of being prepared before a fire occurs. An escape plan for every home in the event of a fire should be made and taught to the whole family, with all rooms having at least two escape routes and the Fire Department phone number should be posted near every phone in the home, were among the necessities of fire prevention Miranda talked to the students about.

FIRE SAFETY CHECK LIST

Answer YES or NO.

Heating and Cooking:

1. Are furnaces, stoves and flue pipes away from combustibles?
2. Are portable heaters located and maintained properly?
3. Are clothes, curtains and furniture away from stoves, heaters or fireplaces?
4. Is the chimney cleaned and checked regularly?

Housekeeping:

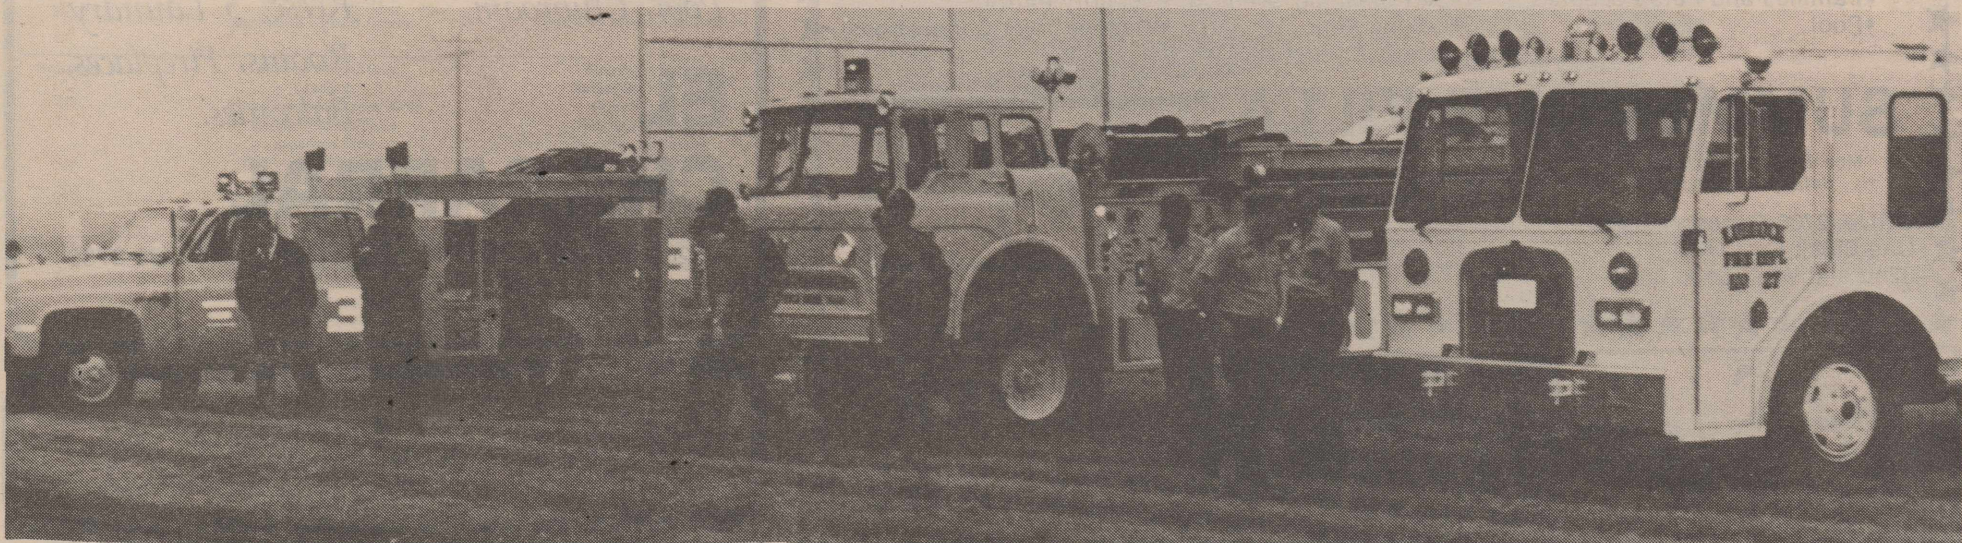

1. Is rubbish clear of attic, cellar, closets, yards, garage and stairs?
2. Are flammable liquids stored in approved safety cans?

3. Is smoking in bed against house rules and ash trays kept handy?

Electricity:

1. Are extension cords placed safely and in good shape?
2. Do you use only 15 amp fuses?
3. Are refrigerator and other appliance motors checked regularly?

"Why I am proud to be an American"

The winner of the Tops in blue poetry contest, "Why I am proud to be an American," held Oct. 20 at the Mathis Recreation Center.

SSgt. Raymond Courville was selected as the winner from the other poems shown.

Why I'm Proud To Be An American

Am I proud to be an American?
Well, let me tell you sir;
She's the homeland that I love,
And I'd give my all for her.

In America we have the right,
To vote and go to school;
We have the right to speak our minds,

From the beauty of New England,
To the redwoods way out west;
Every State adds to the grandeur,
Making us the very best.

To make and change the rules.

She has welcomed weary
travelers,
Who were searching for a home;
Where freedom is a way of life,
So they'd never have to roam.

I'm thankful for the men who paid,
The price to make us free;
Who willingly laid down their lives,

A place where one could build,
Some land on which to trod;
Where men are free to rule
themselves,
And free to worship God.

To insure our liberty.

She's like a precious diamond,
She has a flaw or two;
But I'll proudly wave the stars
and stripes,
Now, and my whole life through.

by SSgt. Raymond W. Courville

Why I'm Proud To Be An American

Why am I proud to be an American.
This question has been asked,
The answer comes from long ago,
That fathers to sons have passed.

Living in the land of free,
With heart and soul so true,
Standing behind the greatest flag,
Of red, white and blue.

Thinking of men who died,
To keep our country free,
Who fought until the very end,
In the name of liberty.

My father has passed on to me,
As did his up the line,
Our pride here in the U.S.A.,
As I'll pass on to mine.

This country's lasted through the years,
Of pain and war and strife,
And still the people are coming here,
Wanting the freedom life.

I was born and raised here,
I'm proud to do my share,
And working all around me,
Are others who also care.

So if you will just look around you,
I'm sure that you will see;
Many proud Americans.
As proud as they can be.

Now you know the reason why,
This pride of mine shows through,
Until I die I'll still salute,
OLD GLORY'S RED, WHITE AND BLUE.

by AIC Ronald R. Medus

"Why I Am Proud To Be An American"

In the sky, I see the red, white and blue. I hear the anthem that reaches deep inside of you.

With a feeling of freedom and a sense of pride, I salute our country and the many men who died.

Through battle and war we will all stand tall, working as a team we shall never fall.

Our land is filled with beauty and theres plenty to see,
that's why I am proud to be an American...

The home of the free.

by Amn. James E. Calverley

Why I'm Proud To Be An American

I'm proud to be an American;
So proud in every way.
To come from the place we call,
The good ole U.S.A.

A country strong in freedom,
Freedom to express our thoughts,
Our words, our lifestyles,
Our key to happiness.

Who paid the price?
What did it cost for this to come about?
Many people lost their lives,
Of this we have no doubt.

We must remember those who fought and Those who gave their lives, so that
We might yet express our thoughts
With no compromise.

To fight for their country, for freedom
For you and me, was ever so important
In their hearts; they called it liberty.

I'm proud to be an American, to come from
This land; that was held ever so dear
To those who took a stand.

To think, to feel, to speak outright,
To have their words of say, things that
Would not be possible if it wasn't for Their day.

A country based on freedom, freedom to Express the ideas of it's people, it's Secret to success.

I'm proud to be a part of such a grand Nation, that stands for freedom of Ideas, of thoughts and liberations.

A song once written so long ago
Tells us a story,
From which we know.

Of how men waited in the dawns early
Light with the rockets aglare
And bombs bursting in sight.

Their blood was shed much more than we Know to give us the freedom of today
That we show.

A right to say, "Yes, I'm proud you see
To be an American
In the land of the free."

And as our star spangled banner waves
High in the air and if we stop and think
Why its still there.

We give thanks to God and all
The great men, the ones who fought
And died for their country to win.

And our country once again is saved
And still our flag continues to Wave in the land of the free and
The home of the brave.

If you're asked . . .

...about Air Force budget needs: The fiscal year 1987 Air Force budget request of $104.5 billion supports this nation's need for capable aerospace deterrent and warfighting forces. It is balanced to ensure nuclear and conventional capabilities that can successfully address the full range of threats to U.S. society, and to the security of its allies.

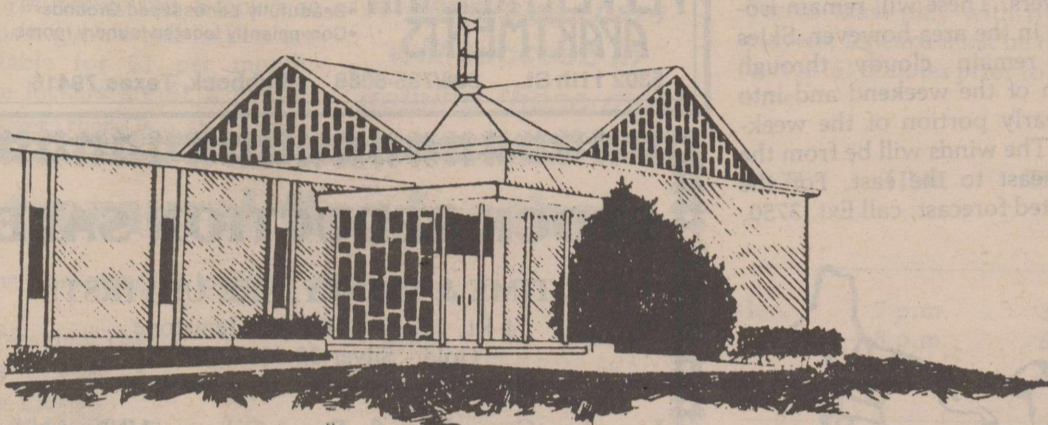

Military budgets suffered sharp declines in the late '70s but began to rise to sufficient levels in the early '80s. Today, the trend is changing and budgets are shrinking again. Many people say the United States simply cannot afford the current level of defense spending. Others have an inflated idea of how much is spent each year for defense.

Consider:
—Americans spent more on alcohol last year than was spent operating the entire Air Force—including the Air Force Reserve and Air National Guard.

—Last year's research and development budget is less than what Americans spent for cigarettes.

Although the country's deficit reduction is an important goal, of equal importance is a steady, well-planned program for ensuring the nation's current and future security. A reduced defense budget will not provide the resources needed to maintain a high quality, high confidence defense for the United States and its allies. (AFNS)

Weather to improve

by TSgt. Mark J. Campbell
Det. 11, 24 Weather Squadron

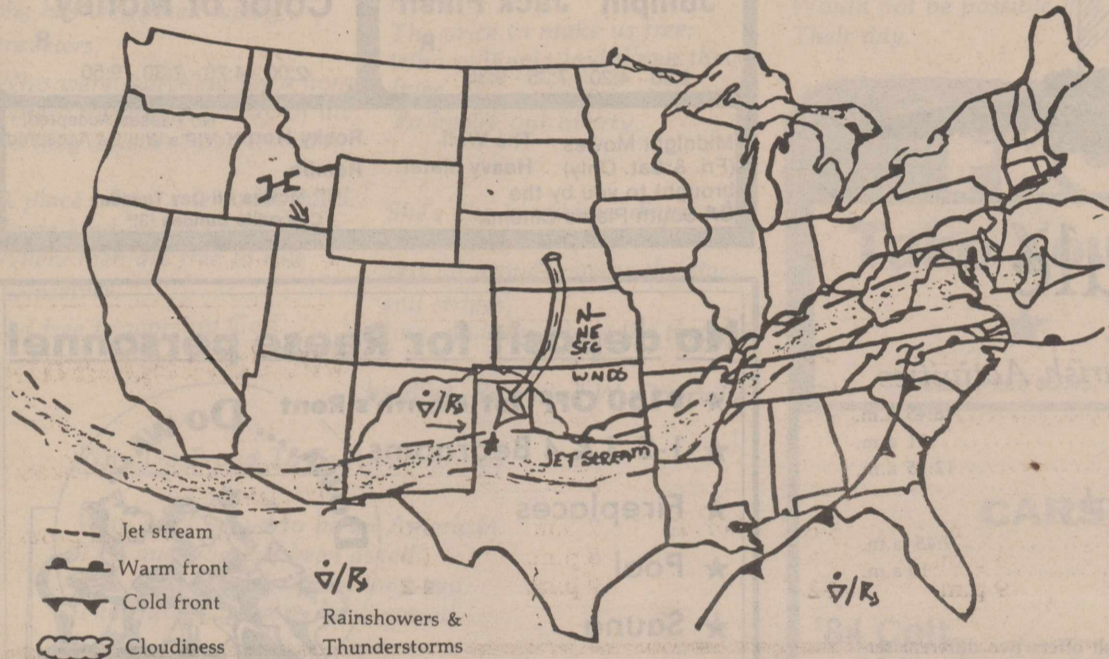

The weather trend is struggling to get back on pattern. Every time the weather begins to settle down, another system affects moves in and brings in more precipitation and cloudiness. The last system that affected the weather was another hurricane that was located down to the southwest. The remnants of the moisture that was associated with the hurricane brought into the area by the jet stream. The result was rain showers and drizzle for Monday and Tuesday with the clearing on Wednesday. The hurricane that did affect the area was called Roslyn. This was the third hurricane that brought adverse weather to the Reese area. The last one was called Paine which was in the area only about a week and a half ago.

On Thursday chances of rain-showers were all around the area resulting from upper level low center that moved in from the west. This center was taking the moisture that was at the surface level and pulling it up into the upper levels of the atmosphere, producing rainshowers. This low center has been moving to the east by the jet stream. The weather behind the low appears to be quite fair. After the upper level low moves off to the east, there will be a relatively high pressure ridge move into the Reese area and this will produce north to northeasterly winds which will keep the temperatures a bit on the cooler side.

The weekend weather trend should be improving over the last few weekends that Reese has experienced. The day time high temperature will be in the mid to upper sixties and the over night low will be in the mid to upper forties. The moisture levels will decrease somewhat and this will lessen the chance for thunderstorms and/or rain-showers. These will remain isolated in the area however. Skies will remain cloudy through much of the weekend and into the early portion of the weekend. The winds will be from the northeast to the east. For the updated forecast, call Ext. 3750.

Forecast weather for the weekend

If you're asked...

...about the Packard Commission: President Reagan established a Blue Ribbon Commission on Defense Management July 15, 1985, to "study the issues surrounding defense management and organization, and report its findings and recommendations."

David Packard, deputy secretary of defense under Melvin Laird from 1969 to 1971, was appointed chairman of the 15-member commission made up of prominent citizens, including three retired senior military officers. Because industrialist Packard, co-founder of the Hewlett-Packard Corp., was the chairman, the group became known as the Packard Commission.

The commission submitted its final report to President Reagan June 30, 1986. Entitled "A Quest for Excellence," the report lists the commission's findings and recommendations concerning key aspects of national security planning and budgeting, military organization and command, acquisition organization and procedures, and government-industry accountability.

In forwarding the commission's recommendations to enhance the nation's defense management, Packard said the suggestions "should not obscure accomplishments of recent years." He continued, "The American people justly continue to have high confidence in the United States military as an institution, and in the ability of our men and women in uniform to defend the nation. The morale and fighting ability of our armed forces have achieved a level higher than at any time in my recent memory." (AFNS)
