Final day to file for county office in March primary

Some 17 Scurry County candidates have announced their intentions to run for office in the March 13 general primary election and it is anticipated that several more may toss their hats into the ring today, the final date to file.

The deadline to file with either Hasie Sneed, Democratic chairman, or Mary Strelecki, Republican chairman, is 6 p.m.

Prospective voters are also reminded that Feb. 13 is the final day to register to vote in the March election. Anyone who has not registered to vote may do so at the county clerk's office.

There are nine offices up for reelection in the county. Those offices are county judge, county commissioner precinct 2 and 4, county treasurer, county clerk, district clerk, county attorney and peace justice precinct 1 and 2.

Shaping up as the most competitive races are those for county judge and commissioners. For county judge, retired Farm Bureau manager Marlin Terrell will oppose incumbent Bobby Goodwin on the Democratic ticket. Two others have filed as Republicans. They are 16-year Scurry County resident Bob Doolittle and Texas Real Estate & Appraisal owner Greg Crawford.

In the race for precinct 2 county commissioner, Democratic incumbent Tommy Pate is being opposed by businessman Don

Rollback... Absentee balloting underway

Today is the first day to vote in-person absentee in the county's upcoming rollback election, which seeks a roll back of county taxes from 39.80 to 34.75 cents per $100 valuation.

It is also the first day to apply for applications by mail for the Jan. 20 election.

A group of citizens presented the rollback petition to County Clerk Frances Billingsley on Oct. 16 and she verified 1,304 certified names on Oct. 23. County commissioners then set a date of Jan. 20 for the election.

Anyone who wishes to vote absentee should bring their voter registration certificate to the county clerk's office on the third floor of the courthouse. Hours are from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Voters do not need a reason to cast their ballots by the in-person, absentee method. The in-person absentee voting period will be held through Jan. 16.

Voters age 65 and over or those with a disability may vote by mail. They should call or write the county clerk's office for an application. After completing the application, the prospective voter will mail it back to the clerk's office, which will then mail the voter a ballot. The final day to request applications for absentee voting by mail is Jan. 13.

According to the clerk's office, there are 9,010 county residents registered to vote in the rollback election.

Commissioners told...

Rollback to exceed $42,000

County commissioners were informed today that a total cost of $42,225 will be incurred by Scurry County if county taxes are rolled back in the Jan. 20 election, and Cogdell Memorial Hospital Administrator Tom Hochwalt said a rollback would have "an immediate and dramatic impact" on the hospital.

County Tax Assessor-Collector Rona Sikes cited an approximate cost of $30,800 to her office. In addition to clerical work that must be done, Sikes stated that last year she collected some $16,000 penalties and interest from Feb. 1 until August. Because penalties and interest cannot be collected during that time if the rollback effort is successful, she included a $16,000 loss to her expenses.

County Auditor Linda Franklin informed commissioners that the refund checks will have to be printed in the tax assessor-collector's office where the necessary computer equipment is located, therefore her office's expense would be minimal, and County Treasurer Rita Staton presented an estimated cost of $5,500 for both offices combined.

Franklin said additional employees will have to be hired to sign some 10,000 checks, as well as to perform processing and bookkeeping entries. "We don't have the money in our budget at all for this," she said.

Staton said that her budget only provides for supplies and postage for normal operations of the office for one year. She also stated that the checks cannot be signed and prepared for mailing during regular office hours because her office is currently carrying a full workload.

"...therefore, we will have to work after our normal office hours or hire someone because quite a number of hours will be involved in seeing that the checks are properly handled in order to reach the taxpayers," she said.

The cost of holding the election, according to County Clerk Frances Billingsley, will be $5,325. Election judges and clerks will have to be paid for all 15 precincts as well as the absentee box. Kits and supplies for voting must be purchased, and printing costs for the ballots will be incurred.

Billingsley is the only county employee who has money budgeted for election costs.

Committee formed to combat rollback

A local committee to combat the Jan. 20 county rollback election has been established and has designated a campaign treasurer with the Scurry County clerk's office.

Joe Gainer, a local accountant, will lead the educational effort to oppose the election that seeks to reduce the county ad valorem tax rate for 1990 from 39.80 cents to 34.75 cents.

The group is called Committee for Tax Facts, and members of the steering committee are Bill Parker, Joe Jackson, the Rev. Miller Robinson, Charlie Henderson, Dr. Carl Dillaha, Bill Wilson Jr., Dr. Jim Burleson, Fr. William Costegan, David Holt, Tommy Davis, Ruby Anderson, Jack Denman, Roy Baze, Teddy Hatcher, J. B. Tate Sr., Stanley Noah and Martin Brooks.

"There has been too much misunderstanding and misrepresentation surrounding this issue," said Gainer. "Our purpose is to communicate the facts—and we won't be dealing in innuendo."

According to Gainer, the Jan. 20 rollback election is "about progress, not about politics." He added, "We're neither supporting nor opposing any particular official or candidate. We're simply advocating Snyder's future."

"Of course, no one wants higher taxes, but all of us need to remember that taxes are necessary for law enforcement, fire protection, and good health care. The people need to know that this rollback could have a negative impact on our community. That's the message that needs to be heard."

Gainer said other members of the steering committee would be announced at a later date, and that the group would be available to present informational programs. Gainer reminded voters that absentee balloting began today and will continue through Jan. 16.

U.S. troops begin withdrawal; focus still on Noriega, embassy

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — As the first elements of the U.S. invasion force withdrew, Panama's new president said the Vatican should hand Manuel Antonio Noriega over to the United States because his country is not yet capable of trying the ousted general.

A church official said it was up to Noriega to decide when to leave the Vatican embassy, where he sought refuge Christmas Eve.

Two artillery batteries from Fort Ord, Calif. — a total of 141 soldiers — were pulled out Monday, said White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater. One planeload of troops arrived at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio late Monday.

The rest of the 14,000 troops sent in for the Dec. 20 invasion that toppled Noriega will probably leave "on a piecemeal basis," Fitzwater said. He did not specify when that might occur.

"The president is glad to see some of the troops coming home and hopes the rest can leave as soon as possible," Fitzwater said. The 12,000 troops permanently assigned to Panama would remain.

Twenty-three U.S. servicemen were killed in the operation and 322 wounded. Among Panamanians, 297 soldiers and some 300 civilians were killed, according to the U.S. military.

Meanwhile, 20 American diplomats expelled by Nicaragua in retaliation for a U.S. troop search of the residence of that country's ambassador to Panama left Managua on Monday night.

Blood drive today at Towle Park Barn

Whataburger and Spanish Inn are among the businesses offering incentives to those donating to the first blood drive of the year in Scurry County today.

The drive got underway at 10 a.m. at Towle Park Barn and will continue until 7 p.m. Local drives are sponsored by Cogdell Memorial Hospital and Scurry County Advisory Council for United Blood Services in Lubbock.

Whataburger and Spanish Inn were inadvertently omitted from an earlier article listing businesses which are offering incentives to blood donors. Whataburger is offering coupons for a free soft drink or milkshake. Spanish Inn will be giving away seven $5 gift certificates.

Each blood donor will also receive a coupon for a DQ sundae from Dairy Queen; a coupon for a malt or shake from Sonic Drive In/Gandy's Dairies; a coupon for three hush puppies and medium soft drink from Long John Silver's; a coupon for small soft drink and order of potatoes ole from Taco John's; a dollar coupon from Golden Corral Steak House; and a squeeze bottle or mug from UBS of Lubbock.

Every other donor will receive a coupon for a regular order from Gill's Fried Chicken.

Seven $5 gift certificates from Jaramillo's Restaurant will be distributed by random drawings.

A Sunday buffet-for-two at Willow Park Inn will be allotted by drawings. Cookies will be provided by Lawrence IGA.

Orange juice will be furnished by Cogdell Memorial Hospital and each participant may choose that or a canned soft drink provided by Dr Pepper Bottling Company.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The ultimate blow to any ego is to learn that even mistakes go unnoticed."

One of the good things about a New Year is the ability to start with a clean slate. A new year is a time for optimism and healthy ambition.

We've never really understood the fellow who wanted to start the new year off with a headache, but celebration has become a tradition as the old year passes, and a fresh one begins.

We heard about one party animal who didn't get home from the New Year celebration until about 3 o'clock on New Year's afternoon.

His wife was understandably irritated.

"It could be worse," the husband said. "You know, New Year's parties come only once a year."

"Who's talking about a New Year's eve party," added the disgusted wife. "That was your office Christmas party."

It could have been the same wife who was putting on cold cream. Her young daughter watched intently as her mother methodically spread the cream.

Once the cream was spread all over her face, the young daughter asked why, and the mother said it was to make her beautiful.

The youngster continued to watch as the mother began wiping the cream off with a tissue. Then the daughter asked, "What's the matter mommy, you giving up?"

Thought for the new year:
Give your decisions, but never your reasons. Your decisions may be right, but your reasons are certain to be wrong.

Q. I have read that some counties are having second thoughts after having voted for a rollback. Is this true?

A. At least some people in Ellis County (Waxahachie) who say they voted for the rollback have returned their refund checks to the county treasurer. An AP story said the checks ranged from 13 cents to $60. In Polk County (Livingston), some refund checks were also returned, the largest being an $80,000 refund to Champion International Paper.

In Brief

Richards files

AUSTIN (AP) — The slate of several political races remained up in the air as potential state officerholders hustled to beat a 5 p.m. deadline today for the filing of candidacy papers.

Democrat Lloyd Doggett and Republican Roy Barrera Jr. contemplated races for attorney general in the March 13 primaries. Dallas businessman James Huffines, Gov. Bill Clements' appointments secretary, discussed with advisers a run for land commissioner.

On Monday, State Treasurer Ann Richards filed for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Gasoline spill

MONONGAHELA, Pa. (AP) — About 10,000 gallons of gasoline spilled into the ice-clogged Monongahela River after a barge hit a bridge, but state and federal officials said water supplies were safe.

"The situation's under control and the water supplies are safe," said Betsy Mallison, a spokeswoman for the state Department of Environmental Resources.

The leaking barge, owned by Gutman Oil Co. in Charleroi, broke loose about 8:30 a.m. Monday, hit the Monongahela Bridge and ruptured about 15 miles south of Pittsburgh.

Cleanup crews worked into the morning today pumping out the remaining gasoline.

Soviet unrest

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist Party chief in the Azerbaijani town of Dzhali-Abad was among 80 people injured in a clash between police and demonstrators demanding his ouster, an official said.

Members of a grass-roots political group, the Azerbaijani People's Front, staged the demonstrations Friday and Saturday, said Savili A. Perets, deputy director of the southern republic's official news agency, Azerinform.

1990 census may include homeless

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When the federal government took its last census in 1980, it never counted Brian Upshur, who was then 21 years old, homeless and staying in a rescue mission. "I knew about the census," said Upshur, now head of food service at the Los Angeles Mission. "But the census was always something you didn't want to be involved in. The attitude was the government was trying to keep tabs on you."

In the 1990 head count, the Census Bureau will try to do a better job finding, gaining the trust of and counting homeless people — one of the biggest groups missed by the last census, along with blacks and recent immigrants.

The government plans to take steps like sending officials to parks and alleys where homeless people sleep and hiring the homeless themselves as census takers.

Los Angeles and other cities sued the government to implement many of the new procedures, because of what all agree was an undercount in 1980. The Census Bureau's own estimates are that the government missed 4.6 percent of Los Angeles residents in the last census.

An accurate count is important because census data determines, among other things, federal funding for city and private programs and the number of elected representatives in Congress and the state Legislature.

But despite a massive effort by the Census Bureau and the city, the homeless — among the people who could most benefit by the government dollars and political representation that comes from the census — will do their best to avoid being counted.

Just finding many people will be a chore in Los Angeles' seedy and dangerous Skid Row area and lesser-known neighborhoods frequented by the homeless. Gaining their trust long enough to fill out a census form or answer questions will be a battle. "Ultimately, the best we can hope to get is a guesstimate," said Cedric Hinson, a counselor at the Los Angeles Mission. "I don't think we can presume that these things are going to be accurate."

The city plans to open its emergency shelters, usually open only in bad weather, on March 18 so the homeless will be available for counting.

City officials also are working with homeless shelters, church groups and community activists to develop ways to get the word out about the census and to draw up a list of the likely spots census takers will find homeless people.

The Census Bureau will use the city's list of places to find homeless people as a road map when census takers hit the streets of Los Angeles March 20 and 21.

Your Birthday
Jan. 3, 1990

In the year ahead you are likely to make several important changes in your basic lifestyle. These alternations will bring more joy and security into your life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a possibility today that you might go to the wrong person for some advice pertaining to a domestic matter. Be sure that those from whom you seek counsel are wiser than you are. Capricorn, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Guard against inclinations today to treat your responsibilities too lightly. Don't let them intimidate or overwhelm you, but at least give them the respect they deserve.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your budget could really be done in at this time if you treat it like a scrap of paper and yield to extravagant whims of the moment. Govern expenses, don't generate them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In a critical arrangement today you might feel you have an ace in the hole upon which to bank. However, this could be wishful thinking because your big card may be trumped.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's best not to believe everything you hear today, because someone with ulterior motives might try to feed you some misinformation. Verify facts with different sources.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take a hard look at your expenditures at this time to determine whether or not you're falling into an extravagant pattern where unnecessary expenses are concerned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may have to deal with people today whose opinions are in conflict with yours. If you hope to maintain harmony, don't come on too strong. Strive to be open-minded.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not rely too heavily upon your intuitive perceptions today, because they could be faulty. Try to examine problems from a logical perspective.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Keep accurate records if you're involved in some type of arrangement today where you're the one who handles monies for friends. Later your actions may be questioned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If an agreement upon which you're presently working isn't everything you were told it would be, don't be reluctant about renegotiating it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This might be one of those days where you're more impulsive than rational and do things without thinking. If you start skidding around corners, put on the breaks and reduce your speed limit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Strides can be made today, but you'll have to put out the proper effort to do so. If you're looking for something magical to make life easier for yourself, you could be disappointed.

Researcher says some may be hurt by wage increase

DALLAS (AP) — Up to 5.6 million women will be unable to keep or find jobs over the next two years, when the minimum hourly wage increases from $3.35 an hour to $4.25, a Massachusetts researcher says.

But his findings have been disputed by labor experts and a sociologist who specializes in women in the labor force.

The Dallas-based National Center for Policy Analysis — a non-profit, non-partisan research institute funded mainly by large corporations and oil companies — asked Robert Nakosteen of the University of Massachusetts to study the wage hike.

Nakosteen developed the projections based on a study he co-authored on women in the 1979 labor force. The study showed a correlation between wage hikes and displaced female workers.

The minimum wage hike will go into effect in two stages, with a 45-cent increase being implemented in April 1, followed by another 45-cent increase in April 1991. The package also allows a sub-minimum training wage of $3.35 an hour for workers ages 16 to 19. In April 1991 the sub-minimum wage will increase to $3.61.

John Goodman, president of the National Center for Policy Analysis, said the minimum wage hike was "a horrible mistake."

"In my opinion if you have your wages freely determined then everyone will be able to get a job; no one will be barred from the labor market," Goodman said. "But once you put a floor on it (and) you say to a group of people 'You cannot lower your price,' then you put them at a disadvantage and make it impossible for them to get jobs anywhere."

Sisters have four babies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — When Ron Thompson sat down for lunch on New Year's Eve, he was the grandfather of five. At breakfast Monday, he was a grandfather of nine.

Three of Thompson's daughters — Mary Tolson, Joan Thompson and Carol Thompson — gave birth to four boys at Seton Medical Center late Sunday and early Monday.

One of the new arrivals — Jeremy Andrew Thompson Armendariz — was the first baby born in Austin in the 1990s, said hospital spokeswoman M.A. Bengston.

After about five hours at the hospital Sunday, Ms. Tolson, 28, gave birth at 2:40 p.m. to Shane Taylor Tolson, who weighed 7 pounds 9 ounces.

When Ms. Tolson went into labor, she asked her 19-year-old sister Joan, who was in the ninth month of her pregnancy, to drive her to the hospital. At Ms. Tolson's delivery, Dr. Chris Seeker said Joan told him, "You will probably be seeing me, too."

Seven hours later, that prophecy proved true as Joan was hustled to Seton by sister Carol.

Joan gave birth to Jeremy Andrew was born at 12:01 a.m. He weighed 6 pounds 10 ounces.

Carol, 24, then went into labor and gave birth to twin boys just before 3 a.m.

The mothers and four boys spent New Year's day at Seton in good condition.

Seeker, who delivered all four boys, said, "It's been a busy day."

"For being the first baby of 1990, Jeremy and his parents received an array of gifts from an Austin radio station.

"This beats partying," Joan said. "At least I have a (sense of) relief and not a headache."

Mrs. Bush happy

WASHINGTON (AP) — First Lady Barbara Bush voiced delight over the addition of a grandchild to the presidential family.

"Great news," she said Monday, revealing that her son Marvin and his wife, Margaret, had just adopted a 2-month-old boy, Charles Walker Bush. The couple also has an adopted daughter, Marshall, 3.

Lighting available to enhance homes

By READER'S DIGEST For AP Newsfeatures
 Lighting can do more than keep darkness away.

Judiciously chosen and placed, it can enhance your home's appearance by altering shape and color, dramatizing its advantages and minimizing its disadvantages. Lighting can also increase working efficiency and create a healthier environment for you and your family. Here are some tips:

Lamps
 An average-size room usually needs four or five light sources. In a room where dark-colored walls and upholstery absorb light, you may need more lamps or higher wattage bulbs.

— Choose lampshades according to the effect you want to create. An opaque shade, which produces a strong pattern of up and down light, is more decorative than practical. If you want cheerful, soft even light that you can read by, select a shade made of light-diffusing fabric, plastic or paper.

— Avoid narrow-topped shades as the heat from the confined bulbs deteriorates the shades.
 — To achieve harmony in a room, keep the tops of table and floor lamps at the same level and use shades that are similar in style and fabric.

Ceiling Fixtures
 Worried about choosing the right size chandelier for your dining room? A good rule of thumb is that its diameter in inches should equal the diagonal of the room in feet. However, some decorators feel that when it comes to chandeliers, it's better to overscale than to underscale. A large chandelier may give a small dining room or a narrow hall just the extra glamour it needs.

Healthy Lighting
 To reduce eye-strain:
 — If you use a floor lamp for reading, place it slightly behind you either to the left or the right of your shoulder. With a table lamp, line up the base with your shoulder about 20 inches to the left or right of the center of your reading matter. Make sure the bottom of the lampshade is above eye level; a lower one restricts the light that falls on your book or newspaper.

— To make television viewing easier on the eyes, use a dimmed downlight, a recessed or a canister-type ceiling fixture that casts a pool of light. Or use a table lamp with a three-way bulb on its lowest setting. Place the lamps so that they aren't reflected in the TV screen.

Mood Lighting
 — Install dimmers for flexible mood lighting. Bright lights stimulate activity while dim lights are more conducive to relaxation. A dimmer is no more difficult to install than an ordinary light switch or lamp socket. Just follow the package instructions.

— To create a warm, intimate atmosphere, substitute small pools of light for general lighting.
 — Pink bulbs warm up a room, making its light much more flattering than white light. Blue and green bulbs are cool, making a room seem more serene.

Other Options
 In addition to lamps and ceiling fixtures, consider:

— Accent lighting to emphasize specific details in a room such as paintings or decorative objects.

— Cornice lighting that casts light downward over a wall.

— Track lighting that provides flexibility in directing beams of light. The track can be mounted on a ceiling or a wall.

— Uplights that accent objects above them. The soft, diffuse light comes from canister-type lighting fixtures placed on the floor.

— Valance lighting to provide a wash of light downward over draperies and upward over a ceiling from a special window valance.

— Wall sconces to bounce light off the ceiling or walls or to light an object.

empted. Too bad. A successful player has to risk sticking his neck out sometimes. Although all East has is one queen, four spades will still make. It was small consolation that South misplayed four hearts.

Declarer won dummy's heart jack, following suit with the seven-spot. Next he played a spade to his queen. West won the ace and returned the spade jack. South threw a diamond on dummy's spade king and led a club back to his jack. West won the queen, played another spade, and later took the setting tricks with the ace and 10 of clubs.

Declarer should have stopped to think why he had unblocked with the seven of hearts at the first trick. After he pitches a diamond on the spade king, he can ruff a spade with a high heart, lead a diamond to dummy's ace and ruff a diamond high, and then lead an intermediate heart to dummy's king and ruff the last diamond. The only cards left in the North and South hands are hearts and clubs. South can now lead the lowly two of hearts to dummy's three-spot and play a club back to his jack. West will win the queen and be forced to play another club, or to give declarer a sluff and a ruff if he plays a spade.

West can thwart this endplay if he plays a diamond after winning the ace of spades. That deprives declarer of the communication to eliminate the side-suits before playing clubs. But leading away from the king of diamonds is not easy.

Cheerier 1990s urged upon first 1980's baby

AUSTIN (AP) — Putting his first 10 years behind him, the first baby born in Austin in the 1980s has three goals for the 1990s — be a grown-up, own a house and become a police officer.

Lupe Morones is hoping the next decade will be kinder to him.

During the 1980s, Lupe's parents separated, his father was sent to prison, his mother run over and killed by a taxicab, and his grandfather twice underwent major surgery.

But all is not sad for Lupe, who attends special education classes at Galindo Elementary School.

"It was a happy time when my mother was alive, and it is still a happy time," said Lupe. "My mom used to be a happy person with us, and she wants me to be happy."

Lupe started his second decade with a lively birthday party at an uncle's country house Monday.

On Jan. 1, 1980, Emma Morones and Felix Morones proudly held up their son, Lupe, who was captured in an Austin American-Statesman photograph the next day as "Decade's First."

Lupe's mother and grandparents taught him how to deal with his parents' separation in 1987, and the 5-year prison sentence his father received in March 1988 for arson and sexual assault.

Lupe was living in his grandparents' home when his mom was struck and killed by a taxi as she crossed a city street in the rain last June.

Lupe grows quiet when the accident is mentioned.

"It still worries me," he said. "I don't like to talk about what happened to her."

Lupe says his mother is in heaven, but "in my heart, too. In all of our hearts."

Grandparents Eulalio and Emilia Arevalo, who raised three of their own children, have health problems that so far have not interfered with their task of raising five grandchildren.

Emilia Arevalo, 69, is diabetic. Her husband Eulalio, 70, had surgery for colon cancer two years ago and received a pacemaker for his heart the week before Christmas.

Lupe sometimes earns a dollar by helping his grandfather clean the front yard. Like many 10-year-olds, he then spends the money on video games.

His first memory is riding on a play horse when he was about 2 years old. He remembers living in the country, in the trailer near Elroy that his father was accused of burning when the parents were separating.

Happier memories include riding in old family cars, such as the blue station wagon that his mother drove, and his father's old pickup with a radio that made him cry when it played sad music.

Fifty said arrested in hotel party violence

ATLANTA (AP) — At least 15 people were hurt and about 50 arrested after a New Year's Eve party at a downtown hotel turned violent and drunken revelers threw potted plants, fire extinguishers and bottles from balconies.

"At midnight it was literally raining bottles. I got hit in the back of the head with a bottle," said police Sgt. J.R. Collins.

A similar scene occurred in Charlotte, N.C., where a New Year's celebration at a hotel turned into a near-riot. Fire officials evacuated the Howard Johnson hotel after youthful vandals unrolled fire hoses, emptied all the fire extinguishers, pulled smoke detectors from walls and broke the fire alarm system.

"There must have been somewhere around 1,500 teenagers," said Fire Department battalion chief Arnold Mullis. "They were out every window and on the balconies. There were a couple of hundred of them in front of the building on the street. We had to move our vehicles back to avoid being hit by flying debris, beer bottles, beer cans."

In Atlanta, about 2,000 young people were celebrating in the 1,685-room Marriott Marquis hotel when the bash turned violent, Police Sgt. R.J. Lynn said.

"Nobody knows what started it. One minute it was fine and the next minute things were falling," said a police spokesman who refused to give his name.

Guests reported there were fights, they were hit with fire extinguisher blasts when they walked out of their rooms and they were trapped in elevators when vandals managed to short-circuit them.

Paramedics said as many as 15 people were treated for injuries ranging from broken teeth to cuts on the head. One was knocked unconscious, apparently by a falling object.

Brad Bosworth, a hotel manager, said eight people were hospitalized. The hotel's atrium was strewn with toilet paper, beer bottles and cans, smashed glass tables, ripped-up furniture and potted plants. On several levels of the atrium, garbage and pillows were tossed about.

Bosworth said hotel officials had barely begun to assess the damage Monday.

In Charlotte, hundreds of youths threw hotel furniture from balconies and windows of the 11-story hotel. Some furniture landed in the swimming pool, authorities said.

No arrests were made because officers were unable to identify those who did the damage, said Capt. Earl Mathis of the Charlotte Police Department.

Washington mayor Barry eyes 4th term and battles image problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plagued by rumors of drug use and facing a possible challenge from Jesse Jackson, Washington Mayor Marion Barry is heading into an election season declaring he can still run the city and win a fourth term.

"I am going to manage the affairs of the city, and I'm not going to address these rumors and innuendoes," Barry declares. "We've received a lot of support and when the time comes to start campaigning we will be there."

Barry shrugs off his ties to Lewis. "That doesn't bother me," he says. But the matter clearly has made his re-election campaign more challenging.

Barry told top aides last week he has raised $250,000 for the September primary and November general election. He predicted he ultimately would raise $1 million, according to sources.

But one of the chief challengers, District Council member John Ray, had raised nearly $250,000 by Sept. 1. And when Barry outlined his re-election plans, he told top advisors he expects financial contributions from them.

Barry gave reporters a brief look at his medical records after a television report that he had been hospitalized twice in 1983 for cocaine overdoses, rather than the hiatal hernia reported at the

DEAR ABBY: I am a young Lutheran minister who has just moved to a new community. I am told that a few years ago you had a wonderful answer for a reader who wrote to you complaining that every time he turned around, the church hit him up for money. You told him in no uncertain terms what the church did with all its money.

If you can locate that letter, please run it again.

WISCONSIN PREACHER

DEAR PREACHER: I located it. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: We are not overly religious people, but we do like to go to church once in a while. It seems to me that every time we turn around in church, we are hit for money. I thought religion was free. I realize that churches have to have some money, but I think it is getting to be a racket. Just what do churches do with all their money?

CURIOSUS

DEAR CURIOSUS: Even priests, ministers and rabbis must eat. Since they work full time at their tasks, the churches must support them. Staff, professional choir members and musicians must also be paid. Buildings must be maintained, heated, lighted and beautified. (And, of course, first they must be built!) Custodial staff must eat and feed their families. Most churches engage in philanthropic work (aid to the needy, missions and education); hence, they have their financial obligations.

Even orchids, contrary to folklore, do not live on air. Churches can't live on air, either. Religion, like water, may be free, but when they pipe it to you, you've got to help pay for the piping. And the piper!

DEAR ABBY: After reading your

By veterans...

Burial benefit not often used

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Veterans' Affairs Department says too few people are taking advantage of its most lasting benefit — free burial in a national cemetery — while at the same time VA officials are planning for more space.

One-third of the nation's 27 million living veterans don't know about the national cemeteries, a VA survey showed. "They just sort of forget about things" many years after military service, said Jo Ann K. Webb, national cemeteries director. She said the burial should be viewed as "something they're giving back to you in perpetuity for your contribution."

Nonetheless, the VA expects the number of burials to increase by the year 2010. But the private cemetery industry says it believes the VA is overestimating the number of future burials, and it suggests limiting eligibility for burial in national cemeteries.

All veterans but those with dishonorable discharges may be buried in a national cemetery regardless of whether service was during war or peace.

Also eligible are reserve, ROTC or National Guard members who died on active duty, surviving spouses who do not remarry, and unmarried minor children.

The VA prepares the grave site, buries the dead, furnishes a headstone or marker and a flag for the casket, and provides perpetual care. "They are truly shrines," Webb said. "You get a real good feeling when you visit them."

The VA does not, however, provide funeral arrangements, transportation or military honors. Grave sites cannot be reserved.

Veterans who choose burial elsewhere may receive a headstone or grave marker from the VA. Veterans also may receive an American flag to cover their casket and a memorial certificate with the president's signature.

The VA buries about 10 percent of all veterans, Webb said, and with the increasing age of the veterans' population, "We are in a growth mode."

The median age is 67.4 years for more than 9 million living U.S. veterans of World War II, while more than 100,000 surviving World War I veterans have a median age of more than 92 years.

The number of VA burials has grown more than one-third since earlier in the 1980s and should exceed 60,000 in the year ending with September 1990. The VA estimates burials will grow to 80,000 in the year 2000 and peak a decade later.

A 1987 report by the VA said that in the next few decades, 36 national cemeteries will have to join 47 that limit internment to relatives of people already buried there. The same report identified 10 areas where the need for burial space would be greatest.

Those are Chicago; the San Francisco area; Miami-Fort Lauderdale; Cleveland-Akron-Canton; Detroit; Pittsburgh; Dallas-Fort Worth; Seattle-Tacoma; Albany-Lima, N.Y.; and Oklahoma City-Lawton, Okla.

But the American Cemetery Association estimates there is enough existing private space for new burials for the next century, executive vice president Stephen L. Morgan said.

Morgan said he would like to see VA limit eligibility, perhaps to combat-era veterans, and abide by the policy adopted in the 1970s of having one national cemetery for each of 10 federal regions.

The American Legion says it opposes any such restrictions on grounds people would be unfairly excluded, and it has gone on record as supporting additional national cemeteries "as needed." The Veterans of Foreign Wars also opposes restrictions, and supports having a national cemetery in each state.

Dallas police filed more than 911,000 reports in 1989

DALLAS (AP) — 1990 began quietly for Dallas police with a dispatcher wishing patrol officers "Happy New Year."

Within five minutes, though, a unit from the city's northwest patrol division had been sent on the first call of the year.

In 1989, police filed more than 911,000 reports. But in contrast to previous years, none concerned the shooting death of a colleague.

After 1988, when five Dallas police officers were gunned down, only one was shot to death in 1989. That was outside the city limits in April, when an off-duty sergeant was shot at his suburban Duncanville home by police called to investigate a domestic disturbance.

The Dallas County sheriff's department also had a fatal shooting. Last Jan. 4, Suzanne Kays, a 33-year-old Dallas County sheriff's deputy on the job for only her second day, was fatally shot with her own gun while confronting a former mental patient in a restricted area of the Lew Sterrett Justice Center.

Dallas officers who came to her assistance fired shots at Kays' suspected killer, wounding him. Kays had worked as a civilian detention officer with the sheriff's department for seven years. Alfonso Seward was charged with capital murder, attempted capital murder and attempted murder.

The Dallas police department lost two officers in January, but not via gunfire. A squad car wrecked during a chase on a rain-slickened street.

Houston records last & first homicides for 1989 and 1990

HOUSTON (AP) — A celebratory New Year's gunblast killed a security guard, the first homicide in the state's largest city in 1990.

Police say an 11-year-old boy accidentally shot to death by his 11-year-old friend became Houston's final homicide victim of 1989, the city's 512th.

Houston Police investigators Monday were questioning residents of a southwest Houston apartment complex in the shooting of the security guard, Terry Lee Whitaker.

Whitaker, 21, was found about 1:43 a.m. Monday sprawled in shrubbery in the rear of an apartment complex, across the street from where he was assigned. He was shot in the head, chest and arms.

Whitaker, married and the father of a newborn child, had been a security guard for three weeks.

Authorities say Whitaker was last seen alive shortly after midnight Sunday near the area he was patrolling. Homicide Sgt. Tom Murray said Whitaker may have gone to check on gunfire coming from the complex across the street.

"It's not unusual to hear gunshots on New Year's Eve," Murray told the Houston Chronicle. "But his natural conscientiousness may have led him to get involved."

Investigators believe Whitaker confronted or surprised three males in the complex.

Evidence revealed he was shot at one location between 1 a.m. and 1:43 a.m. and his body dragged to the rear of the complex and put in the shrubbery, Murray said.

The spent shells found at the location indicated more than one weapon was used to shoot Whitaker, whose own gun was taken, Murray said.

Police statistician Debbie McMenemy said the 11-year-old shooting victim, Mynor Perez, was the 12th juvenile slain here in 1989 compared with 19 in 1988.

Six of the 12 victims were deemed slain in accidental shootings, Ms. McMenemy said.

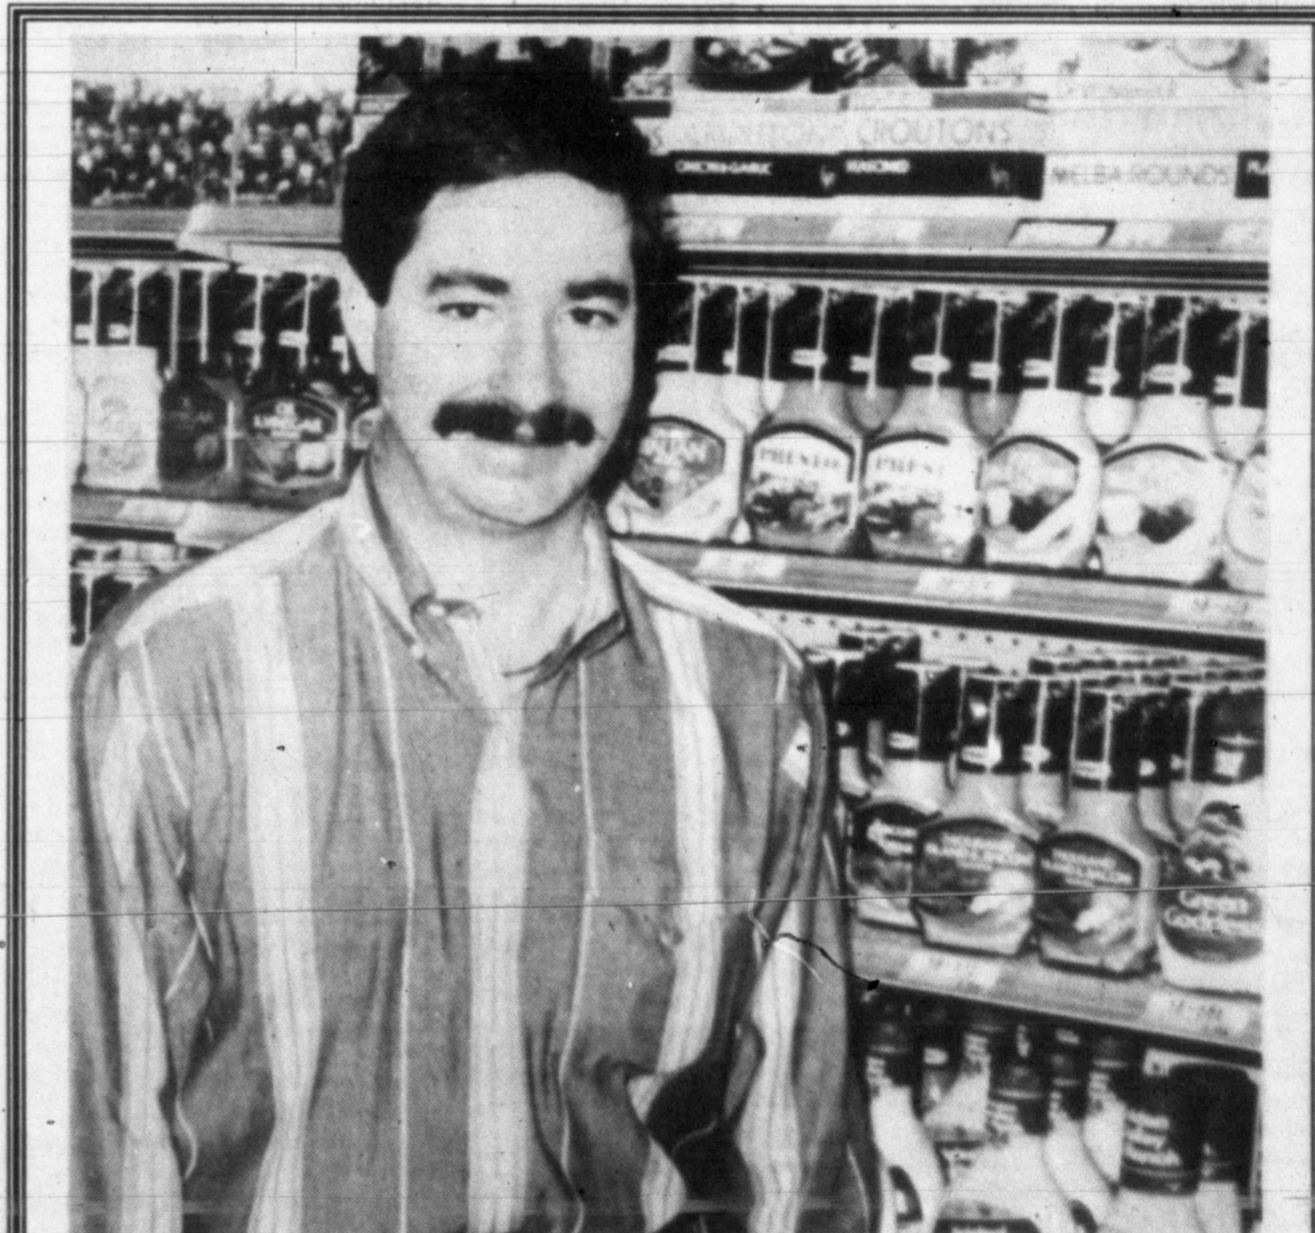

Perez and his friend of four years had been shooting at each other with toy guns near the swimming pool of their apartment complex Sunday.

Perez later found a .25-caliber pistol in a dresser drawer in his playmate's apartment while the boy's parents were running errands.

The two boys began playing with the pistol, which discharged while in the friend's hands, striking Perez once in the head about 4:15 p.m., police said. He was pronounced dead at 7:32 p.m. at Ben Taub Hospital.

The case will be referred to juvenile probation authorities without charges, police said.

Please Bring A Friend Or Loved One, Someone Whose Voice Is Familiar

Dr. Gott
Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have senile macular degeneration. I've lost the vision in one eye, and the disease has spread to the other one. Recently, I heard that 200 milligrams of zinc a day would stabilize the condition, but then was subsequently told that consuming more than 15 milligrams of zinc daily could have adverse effects. What do you think?

DEAR READER: Macular degeneration is a condition of unknown cause marked by a malfunction of the portion of the retina needed for primary (central) vision. This is the leading cause of visual impairment and blindness in the elderly. There is no known medical treatment; some cases can be helped by laser surgery.

Zinc will not affect macular degeneration. The Recommended Daily Allowance for the mineral is 15 milligrams daily. Doses above this can cause anemia, nausea, abdominal cramps and fever. Therefore, taking 200 milligrams of zinc a day could result in dangerous toxicity.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I - Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed as having several salivary stones in my mouth and jaw area. My oral surgeon suggests leaving them alone, since they don't bother me. Do you have any information to provide?

DEAR READER: Hollow, fluid-containing organs - such as the gallbladder, kidneys and salivary ducts - are particularly prone to stone formation. Dissolved calcium is present in body fluids, and can precipitate as granules under certain circumstances, much the same way ice forms on the surface of a pond. The reasons for this chemical reaction are unknown but are probably related to the acidity/alkalinity of the fluids, coupled with poorly understood genetic influences.

Salivary stones are common. They can be large or small and can affect the saliva-producing glands themselves or the ducts that supply saliva to the mouth. Ordinarily, these stones do not cause symptoms and are left alone. They do not affect health.

On occasion, however, salivary stones result in blocked ducts, leading to swelling, pain and inflammation. When this happens, the stones should be removed. I agree with your oral surgeon: Leave the stones alone unless you experience symptoms from them.

Woman dies when car runs over her

SOUTHLAKE, Texas (AP) - A woman died after being pinned by a car that apparently slipped out of gear while she was walking behind it, police said.

The woman, Pamela J. Rickett, 40, died Sunday night at Harris Methodist Hospital in nearby Fort Worth about seven hours after the accident.

Rickett had gotten in the car and started it as she prepared to go to a grocery store, but then left it to get a sweater. As she was walking behind it, the car slipped into reverse and rolled backwards, Southlake police Capt. Malcolm Jackson said.

"The car was still in reverse and running when she was found pinned under the car," Jackson said. "Someone in the house heard the accident and ran outside, that's who found her first."

Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman David Wells said the accident would not be included in the agency's count of holiday weekend traffic fatalities because it occurred on private property.

Crowd jeers Zsa Zsa Gabor during parade

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Zsa Zsa Gabor, who had predicted an outpouring of love and enthusiasm for her appearance in the Tournament of Roses Parade, appeared startled when she was greeted with Bronx cheers.

"Go to jail, you floozy," some spectators on Monday screamed when she rode by on her Tennessee walking horse, Silver Fox.

The 72-year-old Hungarian-born actress was convicted last year and sentenced to three days in jail, fined and ordered to perform community service for slapping a Beverly Hills policeman who stopped her Rolls-Royce. She is appealing the conviction.

She expected a different reaction from parade-goers.

"They'll love me, you'll be surprised," Miss Gabor said Sunday. "I got 10,000 cards from people who said I was right."
