

Ordinance Clears Way Setting Up City Court

Ordinance cleared for setting up a City Court under an ordinance passed by the City Council at its last meeting.

The ordinance provides for the establishment of a municipal court to handle violations of city ordinances. The court will be composed of a judge and two lay members. The judge will be appointed by the City Council and the lay members will be appointed by the voters.

The ordinance also provides for the election of a City Clerk and a City Treasurer. The City Clerk will be responsible for the collection of taxes and the City Treasurer will be responsible for the disbursement of funds.

The ordinance was passed by a vote of 7-2. The two dissenting votes were cast by Councilmen J. F. Cadenhead and J. E. Walling.

Lions Ladies Program Tuesday Night Climaxes Successful Year

Under the leadership of J. F. Cadenhead, M. D., the Haskell Lions Club climaxed a very successful year with the annual Ladies' Night Program on Tuesday at the Highway Drive-In.

With more than a dozen projects completed under Cadenhead's leadership, Haskell Lions have definitely been on the move. Some of the projects carried out during the past 12 months include sight conservation, pancake supper, safety campaign, Do-Nut Sale, Good-fellows fund drive, improvement of the school library, tree planting, mop and broom sale, soil conservation, "I Am An American Day" and many others.

Fifty Lions and ladies were present for the annual affair to hear Rev. Douglas B. Finch, pastor of the local First Presbyterian Church speak on the educational situation.

"Educators are largely responsible for the condition of our country today," Rev. Finch in a blistering, but well-founded attack upon the educational situation, pointed out to the attentive Lions and Ladies.

"Criticism will make us improve our educational system. We are guilty of trying to over-organize and plan the lives of our young people — but the thing we are most in need of is more love, concern, sweetness and warmth in our homes and schools," Rev. Finch said.

"Religion, although popular, has not captured the hearts and minds of people, and the tendency, in some of our leading Universities and Colleges,

Red Cross Disaster Relief Office Here Being Closed

The disaster relief office of the American National Red Cross, set up here following the disastrous May 26 storm, was being closed out Wednesday, after having fulfilled its mission of providing assistance to storm victims.

Mrs. Estelle C. Johnson of Galveston, case worker in the local office, said that a total of 38 applications had been processed in Haskell. The sum of $3,230.18 was expended by the Red Cross in behalf of local disaster victims. This was spent in meeting needs for food, clothing, housing, furniture, and in one instance medical assistance in helping approximately 200 persons in 31 families.

In addition to Mrs. Johnson, Red Cross Field Representative A. W. Voight and Glen R. Arvilla, building advisor, were included in the personnel of the Haskell office.

Considering the scope of the damage inflicted by the storm, the need for Red Cross assistance was considerably below what had been anticipated. Voight and Mrs. Johnson said. This resulted from the fact that most sufferers in the storm had adequate insurance.

The emergency Red Cross office was set up at the City Hall by personnel from the Lubbock area office, including "Pete" Upton, manager of the Lubbock Chapter, and Mrs. Maxine Caldwell, home service secretary at Lubbock. Personnel from the national staff—Mrs. Johnson, Voight and Arvilla—came to Haskell on May 30th.

After the local office had been set up, Red Cross personnel here also serviced disaster needs in Jones and Callahan Counties resulting from storms in those areas.

In closing the office here, Mrs. Johnson and Voight expressed their appreciation for the cooperation of the City Council in providing office quarters and other assistance, and to merchants and citizens for the manner in which they had cooperated.

Campbell was in a party of some 25 or 30 employees of Peerless Pump Company of Plainview who had come to the lake Friday to spend the weekend on an outing and fishing trip. All of the men lived in the Plainview and Lubbock area.

Officers who investigated the tragedy were told that Campbell and two companions, Hank Hurt and Jay Keeling were riding on the lake in an outboard motorboat between 9:30 and 10 p. m. Friday. While "quite a ways out from the shore," Campbell stood up in the boat and told his companions he was going to jump in

$90,000 Motel Is Planned Here

Plans for a modern, 15-unit motel representing an investment of $90,000 to $100,000 in Haskell were revealed this week by Menard Field of Floydada, following purchase of Kennedy Courts in this city.

Mr. Field, a former resident here, is a well known motel owner and operator. He owns the plush Fieldand Motels in Floydada, and recently completed a modern 15-unit motel in Crosbyton.

The property purchased here, Kennedy Courts, is located one-half block south of the courthouse on US Highway 277. Haskell's first motel, or "tourist court," it was built in 1925 by J. F. Kennedy, who continued as owner until selling the property to the Floydada man.

Plans and specifications for the new semi-luxury type motel to be erected here are now being prepared. Mr. Field said. Work will be started as soon as the present buildings on the site can be cleared.

"Everything on the ground at Kennedy Courts is for sale to be moved from the site," Field said Tuesday. This includes buildings, furniture and furnishings, plumbing fixtures, appliances, etc. "The sooner it can be sold and moved the better," he declared.

The new motel to be built on the site will be the finest of its kind between Wichita Falls and Abilene, he predicted.

"The Root of the Matter"

The philosopher Bertrand Russell, in talking about life and its meaning, said: "The root of the matter is a very simple thing. It is spiritual love. If you feel this, you have a motive for existing, a guide to action, a reason for courage, an imperative necessity for intellectual honesty. . . . Although you may not find happiness, you will never know the despair of those whose lives are aimless and void of purpose."

Has your life seemed void of purpose? Have you known aimlessness and despair? Do you need to find a meaningful direction?

The Religion in American Life program, taking up the philosopher's basic thought, properly remind us that the root of the good life, "spiritual love," is to be found by worshipping in the church or synagogue of our choice each week.

Don't Let It Happen Here

All important to seekers of plant locations are the attitudes of the people of a community.

No man or corporation wants to invest money in a city where civic pride is low and residents go about in a gloomy state of mind grumbling about this or that.

Employers know that the contentment and efficiency of their workers depend in large degree on community pride and contentment.

The following editorialized account from the Winfield (Kans.) Daily Courier emphasizes the penalty a city may pay for the pessimism of its citizens:

"A group of men came into a small Iowa town, and started wandering around, talking to residents. These men did not seem to have anything particular on their minds, but were just visiting with people they met.

"As a result that Iowa town lost an industrial plant which would have employed 1200 persons the year around.

"Why? Just because a majority of the people these men talked to were running down the town. The people were pointing out the bad side of life and the things they didn't like. It was a costly deflection of progress for every resident of that city—and only those who were residents of the city were to blame. The 'howlers' brought it upon themselves.

"For these men visiting were from a big Chicago industry which had selected this town as their best location (provided that town was one where people were happy to live.) It didn't measure up on the last and greatest need for the personnel of a large plant—at least the howlers gave that impression. The plant went to another Iowa town 40 miles away.

"This is a true story, and can be found in the records of a certain Chicago firm which used members of its board of directors to make the final survey—just visiting with the people of the town. They wanted no part of it after meeting the 'town howlers.'"

Pouring of concrete on State Highway 18 in the Sagerton area will begin next week, according to the contractor, L. E. Whitham Construction Company. For a time this week it appeared there would be trouble over the labor to be used on the job, as men had come into Sagerton from as far away as Oklahoma expecting to secure work. Local people had been waiting for several weeks, feeling that as taxpayers they were entitled to first consideration, and trouble was threatening between local and out-of-county workers. However, Commissioner Jim Darden of Prec. 4 has secured an agreement with contractors to use only Haskell County labor where possible. After this agreement was announced, many of the out-of-county men left for their homes.

People, Places & Things

By A. PATE

A pollster recently made his own survey of our ailing public school system. His results:

"The trouble is the teachers are afraid of the principals, the principals are afraid of the superintendents, the superintendents are afraid of the school boards, the school boards are afraid of the parents, the parents are afraid of the kids, and the kids know it."

A certain Haskell High School girl is not so certain that she appreciates these storm warning alarms.

When those sirens and whistle devices began screaming the other night, she started to accompany her parents and little brother to the storm cellar.

Leaving the house from the door to her room, she raced toward the cellar. Forgotten hazard was the clothesline in the backyard. It caught her on the bridge of her nose, flipping her backwards, inflicting a cut on her face and almost blackening one eye.

"I made it to the cellar, but don't know whether it was worth it or not," the young lady commented ruefully after a look in the mirror.

It is frequently said that when several Baptists congregate, someone in the group will give a message of thanksgiving, and a collection will be taken.

Now we know that without question this happened recently on the airliner carrying Rev. Ray Nobles, First Baptist pastor, and R. L. Burton, layman, along with a group of other Texas Baptists from Fort Worth to San Francisco, Calif., to the Southern Baptist Convention.

After becoming air borne at Fort Worth, the Baptists had full run of the big passenger plane. In teen-age parlance, they were having a blast.

Then Burton had that Baptist urge for taking a collection, and consulted with his pastor, suggesting that if Rev. Nobles would say a few words over the plane's PA system, Burton would then pass the hat.

The idea worked fine. Rev. Nobles' brief message was well received and Burton netted a good take as he passed the collection plate (in the form of one of those large wax-covered paper cups or containers.)

The entire crew of the plane had been so nice that it was Burton and Rev. Nobles' idea to make the offering a gift to the chief pilot, to be divided among the crew.

Then they learned regulations forbade acceptance of the gift, the chief pilot suggesting the money be given to some charity.

That left Burton holding the bag—or container—and its contents of currency and silver. He stated that in all his years as deacon in the Baptist church, this was the first offering he had taken that he couldn't get rid of.

Burton still was carrying the collection in the container when he and Rev. Nobles met the Haskell man's brother, Dr. Joe Burton of Nashville, Tenn., Secretary of the SBC, after they arrived in San Francisco. Naturally, a full explanation was in order, after which the collection was converted into "folding money" for more convenience and safety in handling, while the Haskell men were in attendance at the convention.

In making final disposition of the collection, Burton gave his personal check for the sum to a convention agency.

"If it had not been against regulations, we would have much preferred making the gift to the crew of our plane because they really treated us well," Burton and the Haskell preacher said.

Another instance in which the church influence was detected occurred at Little League baseball field the other night.

Rogers Durham, minister of the First Christian Church, generally handles the public address mike at the games. Because no admission is charged a "little red bucket" is passed among spectators each evening to raise funds for Little League expenses.

It was time for the bucket to be passed, and Rogers called for two men to do the chore, announcing their names over the loudspeaker.

After a brief interval he repeated the call: "Will So-and-So and So-and-So please come get the little red buckets and take the offerings for tonight?"

Apparently there is no limit to what science can accomlish. Dabbling in the field of weather control has been going on for decades, and in the opinion of many people, considerable progress has been made.

Files of The Free Press for 1912 carry occasional stories about rain-making experiments conducted by Millionaire C. W. Post, founder of the West Tex. as town of that name.

Charges of dynamite and blasting powder were set off when weather conditions were favorable, and the explosions caused rain to fall, or so it was claimed.

In recent years, Dr. Krick and others appeared on the scene with more scientific rain-making methods. These included "seeding" potential rainclouds with particles of silver iodide from airplanes, and from the ground by use of specially designed small furnaces strategically placed.

Although it has never been definitely established as a fact, the first big rain after Lake Stamford dam was completed was credited at the time to Dr. Krick.

That rain was certainly welcome, but because it was a little "off base" and upset engineers' calculations concerning a huge 8-foot hot water discharge pipe at the WTU plant on the lake, nobody seemed to want to take credit for the rain.

That was the deluge that fell squarely on the head of Horse Creek, a dry-weather wash or gully that entered the lake just above the big discharge pipe. Engineers did not consider it possible for enough water to flow from Horse Creek to cover the big pipe, much less move it.

When the big rain came, the wall of water rolling down Horse Creek looked like a miniature Niagara Falls. When it hit the discharge pipes, they were scattered around like ten pins and then covered with eight or ten feet of water.

To get the big pipes back in place taxed the ingenuity of the contractors building the WTU plant.

Finally, they brought barges here from the Gulf Coast and hired two deep sea divers to do the job.

The incongruity of salt water barges and ocean divers in a West Texas area that had been nothing but prairie country for thousands of years was something to tax the imagination.

We recall mentioning something like this to R. V. Sass, construction engineer on the job for WTU. The veteran engineer had worked on some of the biggest projects of this kind in the world, from Hoover Dam to others in Canada, Tennessee, California, and in several foreign countries.

Using expressive and sometimes salty language, he told us that when he was called out on this project and first looked it over his impression was that someone had made a helluva mistake in thinking a reservoir could be built at the site. A dam, yes, but there was just no drainage area for water to fill the reservoir. A drought had been in progress for several years, and a man could almost jump across Paint Creek anywhere there was a pool of water. And to call Horse Creek a "creek" was a joke. "Probably got that name because one horse could drink all the water that flows in it," he remarked. But after seeing Horse Creek on that one big rise, Engineer Sass catalogued the stream and Paint Creek in a class to themselves.

Still on the subject of weather control, an engineer and geologist who makes his home in Abilene and Denver, Colo., was here briefly last week. The man, F. Neal Bosco, is associated with a laboratory which has perfected a "weather control flare" which he says has been used successfully in preventing damage from tornadoes and hail storms.

Simple in operation, the flares are lighted and burned on the ground when a storm cloud is imminent. Particles of silver iodide by the millions are sent into the air and when reaching the cloud have a tendency to dissipate a tornado, while preventing the formation of hail and creating nothing but gentle rain.

Bosco explained the theory and operating method in using the flares to Fire Chief Tom Watson and several members of the department. He said the flares had been used in Abilene in recent weeks, and credited their use with being responsible for no tornadoes striking that city.

So confident was he in the efficacy of the flares that he left two with the request that the fire department use them the next time a storm cloud is imminent.

As a result, you might say that Haskell firemen now have a double-barreled preparedness against the next storm that approaches—the tried and proven alert system, and this new-fangled flare that supposedly will stop a tornado in its tracks and convert it into a meek and gentle downpour.

PAINT CREEK ... COMMUNITY NEWS

BY MRS. GENE OVERTON

is busy as a June ... is not a cliché. Those who have high enough to know have a good stand, as high as the cot, who do not have a good stand for a good stand, and the rest, to decide whether to take a chance at a good stand, or a fruitless bush-plant. Others are in the land. Hardly any field, they plow until it dries to under more farmers plow. I suppose that the weather run the business and they just grow philosophical and take what comes and do the best they can. It's foolish to try to do any other way. There is always either too much rain, too many bugs, or too much dry weather. But it almost always comes out a crop of some sort—It's a great way of life though, and we all love it, or we wouldn't do it.

Doesn't the newly plowed ground look and smell good this week. The rain was so fine, and everything is growing so fast one can almost see it grow.

O. K. O. K. Ira Coleman's fish did grow a pound from the top of the paragraph to the bottom of it as I told it. It grew a pound from the time he told me until I wrote it, too—the big fish weighed 82 pounds. But I just knew he said 63—and my typewriter did the 64 by itself.

Beverly Jean Kuenstler was honored with a pre-nuptial shower on last Monday afternoon at the Paint Creek Methodist Church by the members of the Young Married couples class. Guests were met at the door by hostesses, Mrs. Allen Isbell and Mrs. Durward Livengood. Mrs. Willie Lee Medford registered guests in the bride's book. A refreshment plate of punch, cookies and mints was served. Guests were from Paint Creek, Haskell, Rule and Stamford.

Woodrow Smith had the misfortune to be run over by a combine wheel while combining on the Bill Hager place on Saturday afternoon. He was taken to the Stamford Hospital where X-rays were made, and it is thought the leg is not broken. He remained in the hospital overnight.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Overton and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Overton were in Grand Prairie Saturday to visit Arthur Montgomery. They say he is responding to treatment real well and looks well. His last X-rays were most encouraging, and he thinks he can come home this weekend.

They returned by Jackboro and visited Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel who were teachers in the Post school years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Morrison and girls spent Saturday in Mineral Wells with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. V. P. Morrison. They have moved into the new retired preacher's home which his conference has built.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tate and children were at home during the weekend. Mr. Tate is attending school in T.C.U. this summer.

Mrs. Thelma Bricker and a girl friend from Fort Worth spent several days in San Antonio and points in south Texas recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McBeath of Amador and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Jones Sr. of Rule spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Overton.

Rev. and Mrs. James Patterson were here for a family reunion Sunday before last and James preached at the Methodist Church Sunday evening. He was called to the ministry while farming in this community about 29 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Mickler and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Weak of Wickett left Thursday for Oregon and Washington and California. They will visit the World's Fair in Seattle while they are gone.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gillespie, Pamela and Becky of El Paso spent last weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Gillespie and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cobb.

Durward Mickler and Steve of Snyder spent last Saturday and Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Mickler and his sister's family, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Isbell and children. Mr. and Mrs. Burl Medford are building a new house on Mr. Henry Thane's place on farms north of the farm-to-market road. It is a part of the old Guillet place.

Mrs. Jim Mickler has gone to Pecos to spend several weeks with her daughter, and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Young. Bob Mickler and his family have moved from the ranch in New Mexico to the lake home of James Ross Mickler at Veda's Camp.

Use of Summer Legumes Ideal Soil Builder

Many farmers in the Haskell, Rule, Rochester area plan to grow sizable acres of cowpeas this summer. In most cases cowpeas will be grown for soil improvement. Cowpeas can be a profitable cash crop. According to Hinds A. McGowen, Soil Conservationist, Haskell, the diverted acreage program presents opportunities to plant or sow some or all of the acres to summer soil improving crops such as cowpeas. This may be done as early as May, or where skip row farming is done, blank rows may easily be planted to cowpeas in July. Most farmers who planted cowpeas last summer are following them with cotton. Weight determinations were made on several fields last September. Curtis Cox had clipped plantings of Victor peas on clay loam which clipped 8250 pounds per acre green weight. Two weeks later the dry weight was 2600 pounds. Joe B. Cloud had row plantings of Victor peas in skip rows on loamy fine sand. Green weight yields were 10,500 lbs. per acre. The dry weight was 2500 pounds. On the I. D. Killingsworth Estate, cowpeas were planted in regular width rows on clay loam and shallow clay loam soils. The green weight was 9000 pounds per acre and the dry weight was 3,000 pounds.

Cowpeas are beneficial from two standpoints; large amounts of nitrogen and heavy tonnage of organic material are returned to the soil. Make your plans now to include cowpeas, guar, or Mung beans in your summer cropping program, McGowen concluded.

County Has Seven Rural Accidents During May

The Highway Patrol investigated 7 rural accidents in Haskell County during the month of May according to sergeant Frank Jirick, Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for one person injured and an estimated property damage of $1,710.00.

The rural traffic accident summary of Haskell County from January through May of 1962 shows a total of 24 crashes. As a result of these crashes there were no persons killed and 10 persons injured. The estimated property damage amounted to $27,725.00.

Beginning with this month, the Texas Department of Public Safety lends its support each year to the national Slow Down and Live summertime Safety campaign which, as its name indicates, has as its objective the task of emphasizing the need for motorists to control their driving speed. Speed control is vital to safety, because of the overcrowded condition of the highways caused by thousands of vacation travelers, most of whom are in a big hurry, since vacation time is usually all too short.

The veteran patrol supervisor said, "the hurry attitude frequently steers them into a speeding violation or worse than that, a serious accident, or even death itself."

ever on the night of the storm here. There were no TV nor radio announcements and many persons had no warning of the storm until it hit.

This fact prompted Mrs. Eastland to write Mr. Sitchler concerning the lack of TV weather bulletins on the evening of the storm. His reply follows:

Dear Mrs. Eastland:

Thank you for your note. The all too frequent use of "Sitchler" by the paper is an irritation to me, and I know that people in general get fed up.

Apparently you did not hear my statement on the early morning broadcast Monday, May 28. In it I stated that ALL credit for Haskell coming through the storm with very few light injuries was due to the Highway Patrol and law enforcement officers in the Haskell area. (I did not know at that time the part your fire department played). That statement was sincere then and is sincere now. Very few people realize the courage it takes to get out and hunt tornadoes in a severe thunderstorm situation, knowing all the time that one can drop down on you at any time. Haskell should thank the Highway Patrol and her own people for their courage and foresight in setting up the warning system. All we could do with the radar here was to direct the Highway Patrol to the most likely spot in a thunderstorm over twenty miles across.

I think the gist of your criticism, however, is toward the absence of a radio or TV bulletin—and please be assured your criticism is welcome, and the following will perhaps explain that. It is an explanation and not an alibi.

A hook on the radar is not conclusive evidence of the presence of a tornado. Hooks are seen without any tornadoes occurring and tornadoes happen without hooks showing. It has been our practice to ask the Highway Patrol to check out suspicious echoes, including hooks, before issuing any warnings. There have been times that the Patrol could not reach the suspicious area in time and we have had to issue warnings on the basis of the hook only. About 7:45 that night, we told the Patrol of the hook in the vicinity of Haskell. They reported no violent weather was in progress, but that they were there and watching. Some 30 minutes later we told them the hook was still there, and they stated there was still no violent weather. Apparently the storm was developing all the time up in the cloud with not much showing underneath to see. It dropped suddenly not far from Haskell, and the only warning system that could have worked was the one Haskell was using. I don't think there would have been enough time for all the relaying necessary to get the warning out over TV and radio. I repeat, the only people Haskell should credit is the Highway Patrol and her own people.

Very truly yours,
 C. E. Sitchler

Girls Auxiliary Coronation

Last Sunday night a beautiful and impressive Coronation Service was held at the First Baptist Church, Rule. A backdrop with the shadow of the World Globe, and the theme "Go-Tell" with greenery and candlelight was the setting for the recognition of 44 girls auxiliary members having attained one step forward in Missionary activity. Mrs. Don Davis opened the service by singing "Go, Tell It On The Mountains" and a choir of girls from the rear of the auditorium answered with "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go."

The service was conducted by Mrs. John Estes, W. M. U. President; and Mrs. Rodney C. Dowdy, local and District 17 G. A. Director.

The following Junior girls were Maidens, Ladies in Waiting, and Princesses. They were commended for their excellent work and presented their G. A. Charm bracelets by the W. M. U.: Kay Smith, Sheila Chambers, Cathey Bailey, Menda Beard, Rhonda Carroll, Marilyn Moore, Dell Davis, Penny Davis, Karen Lee, Debbie Wilson, Karen Cloud, Charlotte Allison, Sandra Gilliam, Anella Chambers, Cindy Pittcock, Paula Elmore, Pam Ross, Beverly Smith, Brenda Allison, Jill Fannin, Nan Jones and Susan May.

The following girls were presented their sceptors by Mrs. J. E. Geer: Connie Carnes, Virginia Westbrook, Marjorie Langston, Judy Bailey, Edith Chambers, Gerre Colbert and Beth Simpson. Susie Dowdy was presented her cape as Queen Regent.

The closing part of the program was the recognition of two Y.W.A. girls for work done on their Citation. Mrs. Aubrey Simpkins presented Mary Whorton, a Junior in Baylor University, and Susie Dowdy, a Senior in Rule High School, with the Gold Citation Key, a most cherished recognition.

Flower girls and crown carriers used were: Tammy Bishop, Mike Liles, Vickie Langston, Billy Langston, Carol Miller, Rance Carnes, Gail Lott, Larry Simpson, Susan McAdoo, Lane Hertenberger, Pam

TWICE AS MUCH COOLING

With the patented features of Paramount Coolers

Yes! This famous Paramount 1000 c.f.m. evaporative cooler gives you up to twice as much cooling because of these patented features:

- Many coolers lose as much as 70% of cooling efficiency because dust, dirt and salts clog the filters. Patented No-Clog Sta-Fresh Filters are guaranteed clog-proof, assuring 100% cooling efficiency all summer long.

- Filters saturated with water become heavy and often sag and settle from the top, drawing hot, unfiltered, uncooled air into the cooler which may create as much as a 70% cooling loss. Patented Grip-Lock Filter Holders are guaranteed to prevent sagging and settling of filters assuring 100% cool, clean, filtered air.

- Without correct water trough adjustment, sections of the filters remain dry, resulting in substantial cooling loss and costly service expense. Patented Free-Flo Visible Water Troughs with external adjustment assure 100% saturation, and 100% cooling for the entire life of the cooler.

- Added feature - Patented Window Closing Attachment lets you close and lock your window. Eliminates entry of dust, rain and drafts into your home.

LETTERS... To The Editor

FREE PRESS: All of us at West Texas Utilities Company were dismayed at the destruction which the tornado worked in Haskell last week; however, I know we join with the people in Haskell in our sincere thanks that no one was seriously injured. Your editorial about WTU's and the telephone company's efforts to restore electric and telephone service to the city was certainly appreciated.

As you may know, part of the men who worked in Haskell had just finished many hours of work repairing the tornado damage which occurred the day before between Anson and Hamlin. Voluntarily, these men reported in for emergency work in Haskell.

We, too, have "thanks" to say—"Thanks" to our customers for their patience and cooperation which helped speed restoration of service. Haskell can be quite proud of several things—the manner in which the alarm was given, the efficient action of their Civil Defense agencies, but perhaps the most outstanding thing was the calmness and courage with which your citizens faced the whirling disaster.

Sincerely, R. E. Kennedy Abilene, Texas.

Haskell Free Press: Please continue my subscription. We have enjoyed it very much, front to back. Especially "Haskell County History" and "People, Places and Things." Sincerely, Flavious F. Kimbrough 444 Montana Ave. Turlock, Calif.
