The sound of gunfire will echo again through the rolling hills surrounding old Clairemont this Thursday, site of the annual Caprock Peace Officers Association Meeting and Rattlesnake Rodeo.

The event will be the 42nd annual meeting, this year dedicated to Johnnie Koonsman, retired Dickens County sheriff. Koonsman has been a member in the association for 42 years and has missed only two or three meetings since its founding.

Directors of the association are expressing their hope for a record crowd this year. Guests and visitors are welcome and are eligible to compete in a separate

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Criticism is like fertilizer. The right amount works wonders, but too much can be fatal."

The city council in Dermott, Ark., recently discussed ways to deal with the increasing spat of juvenile crimes in that city.

One city councilman suggested that rather than running the names of juveniles charged with crimes, the newspaper should run photographs of the kids' parents. The councilman suggested the pictures would bear the caption, "Irresponsible Parent."

The idea got nixed before the council got around to deciding if the pictures would be run as paid advertisements. Either way, the local newspaper would have been the loser in that project.

One newspaper in Iowa decided to do something about the growing drug problem. Despite the debate generated by the newspaper decision, we think it has merit.

The Clinton Herald concluded that it was time for the average citizen to join in the fight against drugs. The newspaper ran on the editorial page a coupon that readers could clip and send to the editor. The coupon read, "I've reason to believe that (name) is using or dealing in drugs."

The editor then forwarded the coupons to local law enforcement officials. The police chief said that in spite of a few anticipated crank responses, there have been more than 50 legitimate submissions of information.

However, the program is not without its critics. One local official called it "despicable." And there have been grumblings from the American Civil Liberties Union.

The editor stands firm: "The drug problem will be solved only when all of us say 'Enough' and stop endorsing drugs by our silence."

Classified newspaper ad in another city said it all:

"Found, large shaggy dog. Owner may claim immediately by convincing three small children it isn't theirs."

Fifth guard class...

Hodge tells grads to seek high levels

Twenty-five candidates were certified as correctional officers Tuesday night at graduation ceremonies held at Western Texas College.

Jerry Hodge, vice chairman of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, addressed the graduates who are now eligible for employment in the state prison system.

Hodge told the fifth graduating class — which brings to 139 the number trained in the WTC program — that vast opportunities exist within the department and he urged graduates to seek high levels of advancement.

He cited Andy Collins, director of the TDCJ's institutional division, as an example. Hodge said Collins began his career by "sitting in a graduation similar to this one and beginning work as correctional officer and working his way through the system."

Hodge, who was appointed to the board in 1987 by Gov. Bill Clements, said he has observed that TDCJ employees traditionally get involved in their communities.

Hodge also noted the growth of the agency which today has more than 18,000 employees compared to about 6,000 just 10 years ago. He also said the current number will double in the next 10 years.

"You will be joining a professional agency with a professional staff." He said their selection into the program is in itself a significant accomplishment as only about one out of 20 applicants are accepted.

Hodge also praised the Snyder community for "being a good friend of the TDCJ." He said the continued involvement of the community — especially Western Texas College and Cogdell Hospital — is reflective of Snyder's can-do spirit.

The candidates were presented diplomas by Leslie Woods, Price Daniel unit warden, and by Mike Thornton, WTC director of continuing education.

Candidates certified Tuesday night were Lisa Alexander of Shallowater; Mark Carter, Gilbert Flores, Phillip Hall, Hanford Long Jr. and Edward Petty (see HODGE, page 8)

Local, area students ready to vie in UIL state athletic events

Snyder High School girls' golf team, pole vaulter Charlie Guynes, discus thrower Katina Brandon and Borden County tennis player Amanda Anderson are all journeying to the state capital to compete in state UIL athletic events this week.

The team will go through a practice round today before beginning the tournament at 7 a.m. Friday on Jimmy Clay Municipal Golf Course. Saturday's round begins at 7 a.m. also.

Snyder finished the links season in second place within District 4-4A behind always-tough Andrews. The Lady Tigers placed Amy Armstrong and Jacy LaRoux on the all-region team.

The rest of the team, coached by Penny Perry, features Wendy Miller, Kim Duncan, Stacie Cline and alternate Amy Steakley.

Charlie Guynes and Katina Brandon will represent Snyder High at the Class 4A state track meet in Austin's Memorial Stadium.

Guynes, who turned in a 15-foot, second-place effort in the regional meet at San Angelo, will face Region I champion Mike McCarroll of Joshua among others. (see UIL, page 8)

WTC slates graduation Friday night

Western Texas College will hold commencement exercises at 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 11, in the central courtyard on campus.

A reception for the graduates will follow in the student center.

About 105 students will be receiving associate degrees and certificates at this year's program.

Speakers will be Shea Fenton and Troy Dale Williamson of Snyder and Greg Parker of Albany, all graduating students.

Marilyn Lancaster will give the faculty response. She will also be (see WTC, page 8)

Q.—Why do only city residents get to vote on the half-cent sales tax and shouldn't a person have the right to vote before having to pay the tax?

A.—State law requires only the qualified voters of the jurisdiction in which the election is called to vote. Persons who purchase an item in another city or state must pay a sales tax even though they did not get to vote in the election which established it.

In Brief

Shuttle delay

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Next week's launch of Columbia with a $100 million observatory could be delayed days or even weeks because of a problem with the shuttle cooling system.

"We're trying to understand it and understand where we go from here," William Lenoir, head of NASA's space flight program, said Monday. "We'll probably fool with it another day or so before we make that decision."

Columbia had been due to lift off May 16 or May 17, but a valve that controls the flow of coolant does not appear to be working properly, NASA said.

Shamir says

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said today that Israel would not release any Arab prisoners in return for Western hostages unless Israeli soldiers held in Lebanon were also freed.

Speaking for the first time about a possible prisoner-hostage swap, Shamir said no progress had been made in efforts to secure the release of three Israeli soldiers captured in Lebanon in 1986.

Asked about U.S. hints that Israel might free its Shiite prisoners to facilitate the release of Western hostages, Shamir said: "I don't think that anybody will ask Israel to participate in such an endeavor without having a possibility to release our own prisoners and missing soldiers."

Missing boy finally found

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The mother of a 1-year-old boy who was abducted nearly a year ago from a motel here told authorities she was elated to return home with her son today.

Donna Hofford's son, Cobra Jet Gee, was found at a hotel near Lake Tawakoni, east of Dallas, after an anonymous tip from a nationally televised crime victims' program. A woman was arrested and a man was sought in the abduction.

The boy and her mother had a joyful reunion Tuesday at the Hunt County Courthouse, said sheriff's Maj. Richard Hill.

"She was extremely happy," said Hill.

The suspects, both described as drifters, had taken Gee from an east side Fort Worth motel on June 8, 1989, said police. Sheriff's Deputy Tony Bradley said the boy was found penned in a corner of the lakeside hotel room by suitcases.

"He had a rash on his face and was a little dirty," Bradley said. "But otherwise, he was fine."

Sheriff's officers and Lake Tawakoni police arrested the 43-year-old woman and recovered Gee on Sunday. The woman remained in Tarrant County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond on a kidnapping complaint.

An arrest warrant was issued for a man in connection with the case.

The 24-year-old Ms. Hofford told police she was trying to find a baby sitter at the motel when the manager recommended two people for the job. A man then told the mother that he had received an inheritance and wanted to set up a trust fund for the child.

Ms. Hofford, asked to sign papers to receive the money, instead placed her name on documents purporting to give the man permission to take her child, investigators said.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is one I cannot discuss with anyone else because it's very personal and somewhat embarrassing.

I am a divorced, 45-year-old woman. I recently met a very charming, handsome, 48-year-old gentleman. I was attracted to him immediately. He is divorced, intelligent, masculine and well-educated.

On our first date, he told me that he was very much attracted to me, but he had something to tell me if we were to have a second date. Then he told me that he enjoys dressing in women's clothing occasionally! He insisted he is not gay or bisexual, but he has a "need" to cross-dress occasionally. (This includes make-up, high heels, a wig and women's clothing — which I assume includes women's underwear.)

He told me that his first marriage broke up because his wife couldn't deal with his need to cross-dress occasionally.

Abby, this man is totally masculine and I am very much turned on by him, but I don't want to become involved in a situation I can't handle.

What can you tell me about men who cross-dress? I can't believe they are 100 percent male. Are there any women who have dated (or married) such men who can give me some advice?

PEG IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR PEG: Your charming, intelligent, masculine friend is a transvestite. Contrary to popular belief, not all transvestites are gay or bisexual; they are biological males who have an emotional need to dress as women occasionally. Many transvestites marry and have children. In some instances, their wives are aware of their need to cross-dress and are very supportive.

However, some wives find this kind of behavior bizarre and disgusting and are unable (or unwilling) to accept it.

Your friend rates high marks for being honest with you on the first date. Whether you choose to become seriously involved with him will depend on your ability to be non-judgmental about his sexual needs.

If you cannot accept this kind of behavior, say goodbye and forget him. But if you choose to have a relationship with this man, I suggest that you contact women who are happily married to transvestites. (Their numbers would startle you.) There are groups of transvestites who get together with their families to socialize and exchange experiences. If you are interested in contacting such a group, write to: Sacramento Gender Association, P.O. Box 417701, Sacramento, Calif. 95841.

Please send a long, business-size, self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply, as it is a non-profit organization.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos "older" graduates: I was present when the then-ambassador to Japan, Mike Mansfield, delivered the commencement address for the University of Maryland's Asian Division in Tokyo. Ambassador Mansfield began his speech with, "To the graduate who is receiving his degree at age 61, young man, you have a bright future!"

Ambassador Mansfield was 83 years old at the time.

Study takes unusual look at drug use

"When the mother went back to the baby sitters for the child, everybody was gone," Fort Worth police spokesman Doug Clarke said.

Ms. Hofford made a kidnapping report and detectives later fielded tips from Las Vegas, Nev. to New Mexico in their search for Gee, said Clarke. In April, a television program included the case as a scenario.

"We received 130 calls about the case after that," said Clarke.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Experimenting with drugs can be a sign of normal adolescent development, says a new study that calls into question the "just say no" appeal to shun drugs altogether.

Adolescents who experiment with drugs tend to be better adjusted than abstainers or abusers, according to the findings by psychologists Jonathan Shedler and Jack Block of the University of California, Berkeley.

The researchers' conclusion that self-control may be more critical than abstinence conflicts with the "Just Say No" anti-drug campaign. But some peers agreed Tuesday that casual drug use does not always lead to addiction.

"This may be hard for some people to take, but the real issue is knowing when to put the brakes on," said Dr. Shirley Feldman, deputy director of Stanford University's Center for Study of Family, Children and Youth.

"There's a whole big world out there and, psychologically speaking, experimentation is healthy in most youths."

Shedler said the findings from the research, which tracked 101 San Francisco youths from age 3 to 18, "absolutely do not mean drug experimentation is something that is beneficial."

"But it does mean that some limited drug experimentation may not be catastrophic," he said. "It could be a sign of trouble to come or simply a sign of normal adolescent exploration."

The study, published in the May issue of American Psychologists, found drug abuse is a symptom of deep-seated psychological problems originating in early childhood and is worsened by indifferent parenting.

At age 18, those who used at least marijuana once a week were alienated, lacking in ability to control their impulses and distressed compared with experimenters, the study said. Abstainers at that age were anxious, emotionally constricted and lacking in social skills compared with experimenters, or teenagers who used marijuana or another illegal drug no more than once a month.

Those same psychological and behavioral traits were reported when the children were studied at ages 5, 7 and 11, according to the continuing research. The study group is now age 23.

Brian Flay, director of drug prevention research in the public health department of the University of Illinois, said, "The 'Just Say No' campaign has always been off the mark."

"We can't stop kids from trying everything," Flay said. "The 'Just Say No' campaign is extremely simplistic. It should be, 'Learn how to moderate your behavior. Learn how to resist the pressure to go overboard.'"

Some psychologists, including Shedler, contend a more effective anti-drug effort would identify children who have traits that signal possible drug problems later in life, and then counsel those "at risk" youths.

"Nobody can predict absolutely who's going to abuse drugs, but we can talk about risk factors that are pretty good indicators," Shedler said.

Among the factors identified by the study, the mothers of frequent drug users and abstainers were "perceived to be cold, critical, pressuring and unresponsive to their children's needs," the researchers said.

The study found no noteworthy findings involving fathers of frequent drug users. But fathers of abstainers were "relatively unresponsive to their children's needs" and were domineering.

About two-thirds of the 18-year-olds in the study had tried marijuana, which is consistent with national figures. Few got involved with harder drugs, although those who did have "great problems," according to Shedler.

Some researchers have credited anti-drug education with a decline in illegal drug use among young people.

Test your defense

By James Jacoby

Here is another defensive hand involving an assumption necessary to defeat a game contract. If you want to test yourself, cover the South and West hands and plan your defense after West's opening lead. Since West's queen of diamonds denies possession of the king, the chances of taking four tricks seem poor, but East should still try his best. It may well be that West does not hold the cards necessary to defeat four hearts, but it is still your obligation to picture a minimum opening bid in the South hand and then develop the proper strategy for taking four tricks. Well?

If you led a low club back at the second trick, give yourself an A-plus for astute defensive imagination. More often than not, declarer will hold the club queen, in which case there is no defense against the contract. But when South holds a ragged opening of 11 high-card points, the defense must be on the mark.

The defense becomes much more difficult when the opening lead is a low diamond rather than the queen from Q-J-10. Now it may be enough to simply return a diamond. (Whenever West holds the king, he will make a shift through the A-J-3 of clubs.) Here there is a chance for the defense only if West holds the club queen and the spade ace. If West holds the heart ace, declarer may be able to play three rounds of spades, shedding a club to still make the contract.

Cheese tips given

NEW YORK (AP) — The Mozzarella Co. in Dallas has the following tips for storing and serving cheese:

— Cheese is most flavorful when served at room temperature.

— All cheeses should be tightly rewrapped in fresh, clean plastic wrap each time they are used.

— Mold is a natural occurrence with cheese. Just trim it off with a clean knife and the cheese will be delicious.

— Some cheeses may be frozen to keep them fresh for longer periods, including fresh mozzarella, goat cheese, mascarpone and fresh cream cheese. Other cheeses will continue aging in the refrigerator and become more and more flavorful, including scamorza, caciotta and montasio.

Program features flowers

Honey Do's Extension Homemakers met for their regular meeting April 26 at Travis Flowers.

Sue Travis of Travis Flowers gave the program "Preserving Wild Flowers and Special Trends in Flower Arranging." Travis shared with club members different ways to preserve wild flowers including hanging them upside down in a dark cool place. She also showed new trends in decorating such as the Southwest design.

After the program, members met in the home of Virginia Fogle for a brief business meeting and refreshments. They voted to renew two magazine subscriptions for the Scurry County Library. Also discussed were desserts for volunteers of Snyder Neighbors Sharing program and the clubs participation in the highway clean-up March 31.

Five members were present. Patsy Bureson won the door prize.

Composer Johannes Brahms was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1833. Political philosopher Karl Marx was born in Prussia in 1818.

Steers dump Tigers in season's last tilt

The Snyder Tigers ended their baseball season Tuesday on a sour note as Big Spring blasted the home team 13-1 in a game called after six innings on the ten-run rule.

Big Spring scored a run in the fourth, seven more in the fifth and five in the sixth to ice the victory and lock down third place in the final district standings with a 9-5 record within the loop.

Snyder finished fourth at 16-9 overall and 8-6 in District 4-4A.

Tiger pitcher Jamey Morton took the loss striking out nine, giving up just five hits, and walking four.

Senior Willie Garcia came on in relief in the sixth inning giving up five hits and two walks.

The bats for the Snyder crew were unusually quiet as Big Spring pitchers Arrel Zuilla and Arty Valdez combined for just three hits, three walks and seven Ks on the evening.

Snyder broke a scoreless tie in the bottom of the third inning when Garcia lashed a double into deep left field that scored Toby Goodwin from first base on a called hit-and-run.

Garcia stole third base but was stranded there as the inning ended.

The only other base runners for the Tigers came on a walk to Morton in the fourth, a single from first baseman John Wright and a walk to designated hitter Chad Fox who was hit by a pitch in the sixth stanza.

Valdez gets credit for the win for the Steers.

Big Spring's seven-run fifth came after Morton pitched himself into trouble in the fourth walking three consecutive Big Spring batters.

Freddy Rodriguez tied the game at 1-1 after stealing home on a wild pitch.

Morton then struck out the next three hitters to retire the side.

The fifth inning was another story.

Left fielder Abel Hilario started things out for the Steers with a walk. He went to second on a single from Mike Hilario, the Big Spring center fielder, and to third on a throwing error by Snyder third sacker Randy Morris.

He was driven in on a fielder's choice off the bat of Rodriguez and the flood gates opened.

Before the homeowners were able to notch the third out Big Spring had sent 11 batters to the plate for three hits and a walk and had committed four defensive errors.

"This year was mostly a learning process," said Snyder coach Albert Lewis.

"Of course, we wanted to win while we were learning."

"We have several good young sophomores and while we are down now, we aren't going to stay down."

Zuilla, Valdez and Torres. Morton, Garcia and Williams. WP: Valdez; LP: Morton (11-9). 2B: Garcia, Snyder.

SHS golf squad set to compete at state

Snyder's Lady Tiger golf team will compete in the state Class 4A tournament Thursday and Friday with tee-times both days at 7 a.m.

Coach Penny Perry and her charges earned their trip to Austin with their second place finish at the recent regional tourney in San Angelo.

Their 745 total on rounds of 370 and 375 wound up trailing just Andrews' 341-339-680 to earn a berth in the state event.

Snyder all-region golfers Amy Armstrong and Jacy LaRoux lead the team which includes Wendy Miller, Kim Duncan and Stacie Cline. Amy Steakley is the team's alternate.

Andrews, which finished first to Snyder's second in every loop match this season, heads into the state tourney hampered by injuries to two linksters.

Jen Galloway, an All-District 4-4A and All-Region I pick, and Robin Martin were hurt in separate auto accidents.

Both are still expected to play according to published reports. Galloway suffered a bruised left knee and sternum injuries when she hit the steering wheel and Martin injured her ankle.

Besides Andrews and Snyder, one of the top contenders for the state title is Sulpher Springs.

Sulpher Springs shot an 18-hole 419 to win their region in flooded conditions in Denton.

The squad is led by medalist hopeful J.J. Rorie who finished first in regionals with a round of 78.

Celts fire coach

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics fired coach Jimmy Rodgers only two days after an improbable playoff loss at home to the New York Knicks. General Manager Jan Volk said he felt the club needed to make the change and to do it immediately.

Also fired was assistant coach Lanny Van Eman. Chris Ford, an assistant and former Celtic player was being retained, will be considered as a replacement for Rodgers, Volk said.

The shakeup came just 48 hours after the Celtics were ousted from the NBA playoffs.

College golf squad inks schoolboy star

Western Texas College athletic director and golf coach Dave Foster announced early today that Pampa golf standout Mark Wood had signed to compete for the Westerners.

Wood was an all-district and all-South Plains pick on the Harvesters' state quarter final basketball squad during the 1989-90 campaign. In 1989 Wood was a member of the PHS golf team that won district and regional championships and placed fourth in the state Class 4A tournament.

Individually the Pampa senior placed fourth at the Texas Junior Golf Association Championship in Tyler last season.

"He is an outstanding young man," said Foster. "He'll not only contribute to our golf program, to the college as a whole."

Former employees sue

DALLAS (AP) — Four former team executives with the Dallas Cowboys have sued the team and owner Jerry Jones, alleging that they were victims of fraud and age discrimination.

Former employees Don Wilson, Ann Lloyd, Doug Todd and Peggie Bullock seek a total of $10 million in damages, reinstatement and lost wages.

The lawsuit claims the four were assured their jobs were safe and later were fired, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

U.S. ship returns to port

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The guided-missile destroyer USS Conyngham, damaged by a fire so hot its decks were "bubbling," docked today at the Norfolk Naval Station as the Navy began investigating the blaze that killed a crewman.

Eighteen other sailors, including the No. 2 officer, were injured in the worst shipboard fire since a string of accidents prompted the Navy to suspend operations for a two-day safety check in November.

Six of the sailors with less serious injuries accompanied the ship back to port before going to the hospital, said Capt. Paul Hanley, Atlantic Fleet spokesman. Twelve others had been flown from the ship to hospitals.

The Conyngham, with a large scorch mark on its right side just above the water line, docked at 2:30 a.m., 21 hours after the fire erupted during routine operations about 100 miles southeast of Norfolk, said Lt. J.G. Karl Johnson, an Atlantic Fleet spokesman.

About 200 family members and friends met the 383-member crew, which disembarked as work crews from other vessels boarded the Conyngham to clear the vessel's decks of water, Hanley said.

Naval Investigative Service agents earlier were flown to the ship to help preserve evidence, said Cmdr. Deborah Burnette, an Atlantic Fleet spokeswoman.

The fire aboard the 27-year-old ship with a crew of 383 started in the No. 1 boiler room as the boiler was being fired up, and spread to the ship's nerve center, said White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

"The fire spread to the combat information center spaces, which caused the captain to evacuate the combat information center and the bridge, temporarily leaving the ship without communications and dead in the water," Fitzwater said.

One of the injured was seaman James Choss, of Hammond Lake, Ind., an electrician getting ready for bed after working most of the night in the combat information center, his mother said.

"One of the other guys in the room was hit by a fireball that singed his hair," said Elizabeth Choss. Her son described hallways filled with smoke, holes burned in the floor, masks on firefighting gear that melted onto the faces of his shipmates and "decks that were bubbling" in the intense heat, she said.

"It was just trashed — those were his words," Mrs. Choss said.

"He said a fuel pump blew down in one of the boilers" and that's what started the fire, Mrs. Choss said. Choss and his companions were unable to get out of their berth area right away because they couldn't get the hatch open, she said.

Killed was Lt. Algernon Pope Gordon Jr., 34, of Montgomery, Ala.

Flooding sweeps away cattle, homes

by The Associated Press

Floodwaters swept away homes, cattle and crops as the rain-swollen Arkansas River reached a record level, and the National Guard was called in to shore up a levee weakened by the worst flooding in northern Texas in 80 years.

In Arkansas, farmers hogtied calves for transport and residents sandbagged their homes as the Arkansas River on Tuesday hit a record 27.6 feet — four feet above flood stage — at Little Rock. More than 300 families were forced from their homes.

"People are just devastated. All you can see from here is rooftops and water," said Donna Booth Johnson, local Red Cross executive director. "One guy left his refrigerator, thinking that since the motor was sealed, it would be OK. It floated off, along with the microwave he had put on top of it."

In Texas, more than 1,600 people have sought shelter from flooding along the Trinity River. Gov. Bill Clements authorized the National Guard to send 50 soldiers to shore up a weakening levee on the Red River near Texarkana.

The water level at Lake Texoma on the Oklahoma line continued to fall after cresting at a record 644.76 feet above sea level, 27 feet above normal.

Thirteen deaths have been blamed on the weather in the past two weeks, one in Oklahoma and the rest in Texas.

In Arkansas, a threat of rain raised fears of more flooding in Little Rock even as the crest of floodwaters moved downstream today toward Pine Bluff, 40 miles to the southeast. The National Weather Service forecast a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms today and a good chance of rain and thunderstorms on Friday.

"Lord, we don't need this and neither do any of these other people," said Gary Stone, standing outside his parents' house in North Little Rock. "If the water comes over those sandbags, it's all over. It's going to be a shame for all of us to have fought this thing so long and then lose because it starts raining."

At least 400 homes have been heavily damaged or submerged by the Arkansas River, state officials said. The river also has swept away cattle, including all but 67 of a herd of 250 in Conway County, upstream from Little Rock.

"A few of them floated down river and walked out and a few of them floated down river and didn't walk out," said Conway County extension agent William Nelson.

Felix Brown and his sons and grandsons saved a herd of 170 cattle stranded on an island near Pine Bluff. Brown said they hogtied 40 calves Saturday and took them out by fishing boats, and found a barge big enough to ferry out the rest.

In Texas, the Trinity and Red rivers have engulfed farmland along with hundreds of businesses and homes.

In Ellis County south of Dallas, an estimated 20,000 acres planted in wheat, corn, sorghum and cotton were inundated after levees on the Trinity failed.

"I think it's going to pretty well put me out of business unless we get some government help," said Charlie James, who said all but 100 of his 1,800 acres of crops were washed out. "I don't really know what the alternatives are."

Pope speaks in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II, speaking in the Third World's second-biggest debtor nation, called for a moral as well as an economic approach to the "imprisoning" foreign debt crisis.

"Technical measures are not enough to resolve the great problems that menace international equilibrium," the pope told a gathering of diplomats Tuesday night.

"I feel the obligation to underline... the ethical dimension of this imprisoning crisis," which, the pontiff said, was hindering development in many poor nations of the world.

He said the foreign debt crisis endangered world stability and was causing "a deepening of underdevelopment" in some countries.

In February, Mexico and its commercial bank creditors signed a debt reduction agreement that has been praised by international monetary authorities.

But critics — including Mexico's Catholic Church — have charged that the accord will further hurt the country's poor.

No probe planned in deaths

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — The police chief of a small West Texas town said he won't investigate the deaths of five children of a Garden City woman now charged with murdering another son.

"The only way I'll open anything up is if a judge orders me to," said Bovina, Texas, Police Chief Gary Coleman Tuesday.

Diana Lumbrera, 31, was charged Monday in Finney County District Court with first-degree murder in last week's smothering death of her 4-year-old son, Jose Antonio Lumbrera. She was being held Tuesday in the Finney County Jail on $100,000 bond. Her next hearing was scheduled May 15.

The deaths of her five other children, which occurred in and near Bovina in the late 1970s or early 1980s, were ruled natural by Texas child-welfare officials at the time, said a Texas deputy sheriff.

Bovina is a town of 1,000 residents near the New Mexico border about 100 miles northwest of Lubbock.

Coleman, who said he was not personally familiar with the cases because he'd been chief in Bovina for only 18 months, said there was no evidence of foul play in the deaths of a 4-year-old girl, a 2½-year-old girl and 5-month, 3-month and 1½-month-old infants.

He can find that only two autopsies were performed. They showed two children died from sudden infant death syndrome or congestive heart failure.

"There wasn't anything suspicious at the time they occurred, and I read nothing in the two reports that would indicate anything different," Coleman said. "If you can't prove anything, you can't do anything."

But a Parmer County, Texas, sheriff's deputy who served previously as police chief in Bovina, said he had always been suspicious of the children's deaths despite the rulings they had died naturally.

Jerry Atchley, who served as police chief from 1978 to 1979 in the Panhandle town of 1,400, said he never discussed his suspicions with Coleman.

"I really always felt there was something wrong," said Atchley, who attended two of the children's funerals. "If she had another child and another death, I can't believe it's happening like that."

Meanwhile, the woman's sister said all the children had died in a similar way, after turning pale with purple lips.

The last one, a 2- or 3-month old named Christopher, turned purple as he was being fed, said Virginia Bribiesca, who lives in Garden City.

"My aunt and cousin were there with her (Lumbrera). She grabbed the kid and ran two blocks to the hospital and when she got there, he had already died," Bribiesca said.

Garden City police Capt. Stan Wojdylak said Lumbrera's arrest came after investigators received a preliminary autopsy report Friday that determined Jose had died from "asphyxia due to smothering."

Police said the mother carried her son into the emergency room of a Garden City hospital last Tuesday night. Emergency room personnel worked nearly an hour trying to revive the child, Wojdylak said.

Couple sets up fortress against flooding

DAYTON LAKE ESTATES, Texas (AP) — Kay and Purvis Strong have closed themselves off from the community — with a 2-foot concrete barrier around their flood-prone home.

The couple's house in this incorporated city sits on the Trinity River bottom. The area has been hard hit by flood waters in recent years and this year is no exception.

The Strongs put up their private dike almost overnight, after reports this week that the worst flood waters in North Texas since 1908 were surging south to the Gulf of Mexico via the Trinity River.

"Outsiders might wonder what it is, since it's not tall enough for a fence," said Mrs. Strong, who is the city secretary for Dayton Lake Estates, a 200-family community about 35 miles northeast of Houston.

"But people down here understand," she said.

Kay's husband built the barrier, made of 4-inch-thick concrete and reinforced with steel. It has two openings that were used for entry ways until Strong covered them with plywood, caulked around the edges and bolted them to the concrete.

"I think it will hold us," said Strong, 56, a disabled construction worker. "But if these waters surge six inches higher than last summer, it got us again."

When the river overflowed for 1½ months last year, water covered the bottom floor of the Strongs' two-story rough cedar home. It was only 9 inches deep, but it ruined carpeting, appliances and furniture in a bedroom, bath, kitchen and living area.

The Strongs got $5,000 from the Federal Emergency Management Agency to replace items and make repairs.

The couple, who have two grown children, plan to ride out the latest flood on the second floor.

"We got our 14-foot johnboat and four-wheel-drive vehicle, which are standard equipment down here," he said.

Strong also has a crew ready to help him move furniture and appliances upstairs if the levee is breached, and he has stocked food and water.

In addition to his dike, he has pumps and a generator in case the electricity goes out.

"I'm not really worried because I've been through so many of them," he said.

Students half way through effort to watch less TV

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — More than 90 percent of children who signed contracts promising to cut down on their television watching have stuck with the half-completed project, organizers say.

The program for fifth- and sixth-graders began at Corpus Christi's Chula Vista Academy of Fine Arts on April 2. To join the program, a student, a parent and a teacher signed a contract not to watch television Monday through Thursday nights. Students may watch programs assigned by teachers, and can tape weekday shows for viewing during the weekend.

At the end of six weeks, students who have complied with the contract will receive a special identification card and vouchers from several local businesses for treats, including pizza, milkshakes and hamburgers.

It was developed by Tony Bonilla, president of the Corpus Christi Chamber of Commerce, and Mary Helen Berlanga, a member of the State Board of Education and a mother of two sixth-graders at the school.

"The preliminary results are very promising and encouraging," Bonilla said. "It looks like we still have over 90 percent of the kids who signed the contract complying."

Bonilla announced Monday during a pep talk for the 104 program participants that Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers was offering a free party to the top six academic achievers in each class. The company also will provide coupons or vouchers for those who complete the program, he said.

Bonilla said an increasing number of businesses are interested in expanding the program in the fall.

Principal Ola Underhill said attendance has gone up slightly since the program began, with the fifth- and sixth-graders averaging 98 percent attendance. Normally, she said, average attendance is 96.75 percent for fifth-graders and 96.73 percent for sixth-graders.

Some also believe their grades have gone up, the principal said, but did not have data to support that conclusion.

Thousands could lose their care

AUSTIN (AP) — Thousands of seriously ill Texas children, too poor to afford private medical care, will be dropped from state assistance next month because the program has run out of money, officials said.

State Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein notified legislative leaders this week of the June funding cutoff for the Chronically Ill and Disabled Children's Program, saying a projected $13 million deficit left him no choice.

Other officials said money could actually run out sooner because of an April ruling by Attorney General Jim Mattox that made an additional 1,700 sick children eligible for benefits.

The program is the provider of last resort for about 16,000 children who cannot be covered by Medicaid or private insurance and who suffer from cancer, spina bifida, cystic fibrosis, epilepsy, AIDS and other diseases, officials said.

The number of children who would be affected by a cutoff would be something less than 16,000.

"We must either acquire additional funds to maintain current service levels or discontinue accepting new patients and authorizing additional services," said Bernstein's letter to lawmakers.

"Unless a funding solution is found for the CIDC Program, we have no alternative," Bernstein wrote.

John Evans, director of the health department's Bureau of Crippled Children's Services, said no additional spending is being authorized after June 1.

"To most of the clients, this means we will not pay their bills after June 15," Evans said.

Flooding prompts decision to move park for animals

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — International Wildlife Park, where 30 animals have perished in flooding during the past two years, will be moved to another location, its owner announced.

Micky Hunt, who has owned and managed the park in this community between Dallas and Fort Worth for nearly 11 years, said the prime tourist attraction would stay in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The safari park is located along Interstate 30 not far from Six Flags over Texas amusement park and Arlington Stadium, home of the Texas Rangers baseball team.

"It's very devastating to have an outside factor that you have no control over rob you of a major tourist attraction," Mayor Jerry Debo said.

Ten animals at the park were killed during last week's flooding, the worst in this area in nearly 70 years. The preserve was among the hundreds of businesses and homes damaged in the latest round of heavy rains that have killed 12 people in the Dallas area.

More than two-thirds of the park's 330 acres remain under water from the west fork of the Trinity River, which runs along the park's western boundary. Gift shops, concession stands and the main office still have about five feet of water in them.

The Trinity isn't expected to return to normal levels until Friday.

Seven deer, two antelope and one ostrich died in the flooding. Some animals had been moved to area zoos or the Hunt's second wildlife park, which is in Ohio, but many were forced to scramble for high ground.

Hunt said he didn't know how much damage the park sustained. He said he began thinking about moving the park after last year's flooding, which caused $700,000 in damage and killed 20 animals. Many of the repairs from that flood just had been completed or still were in progress when the rains came last week.

A 6-foot-high berm between the river and the park erected after last year's flooding, was washed away last week.

Hunt said repairs would be made to allow the park to open the first week in June.

He said he wanted to keep the 900-animal park in Grand Prairie, but the city wouldn't agree to build a levee at the site to prevent future flooding.

Debo said that the city cannot use taxpayers' money on private property, no matter how important a source of revenue the park is.

The park draws about 300,000 tourists each year and has annual revenues of about $3 million.

Harry S. Truman, the 33rd president of the United States, was born near Lamar, Mo., in 1884.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is an insulin reaction?

DEAR READER: Insulin reactions occur most commonly in diabetics who, for one reason or another, misjudge the amount of insulin they need and inject too much. In this circumstance, the insulin drives too much blood sugar into the cells, leading to hypoglycemia (low blood sugar).

Such a reaction causes lightheadedness, hunger, sweating, nervousness, palpitations and weakness. If the blood sugar is not restored to normal (above 50 milligrams per deciliter), patients can progress to confusion, convulsions, unconsciousness, coma and death.

Insulin reactions can also occur in diabetics who are using prescription pills, such as glyburide and sulfonylurea. These reactions are a dangerous but preventable consequence of modern diabetic therapy.

To avoid insulin reactions, diabetic patients should carefully monitor their blood sugar levels under a physician's supervision, be extremely cautious about increasing their doses of insulin or oral anti-diabetes medicine and always have an antidote at hand.

Some experts recommend hard candy as an antidote, while others prefer sweetened fruit juices or commercially available glucose solutions.

Insulin reactions are, quite understandably, frightening to patients, but, if recognized early, the low blood sugar can easily and quickly be corrected.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Recently, I read that psoriasis patients improved after treatment with topical applications of active forms of vitamin D-3, according to Japanese researchers. Since no druggist has heard of vitamin D-3, can you tell me how I can obtain this vitamin?

DEAR READER: Vitamin D-3 is natural vitamin D; vitamin D-2 is the synthetic form. Both forms behave identically in the body. Foods high in natural vitamin D include egg yolks, grains and the livers or liver oils of most salt-water fish. Vitamin D is formed in humans by the direct action of sunlight on the skin and is necessary for normal bone metabolism.

I am unaware of any reputable studies showing health benefits from the topical application of vitamin D. Don't waste your time or money looking for a vitamin D cure for psoriasis. This common skin condition is more appropriately treated with cortisone cream and other prescription drugs.

Honor rejected by Lady Bird

AUSTIN (AP) — Efforts to rename Town Lake after Lady Bird Johnson were sunk by its would-be namesake hours before the City Council was to make it official.

Mayor Lee Cooke, who proposed the idea during a 25th anniversary celebration of former president Lyndon Johnson's inauguration, said a majority of the council had agreed to the name change.

But Cooke hadn't counted on Lady Bird's veto when he organized Tuesday's special council meeting on the banks of Town Lake.

"I love walking along the shores of Town Lake just as I loved working on it with so many public-spirited able people from 1970 on, and it will always be a special place for me, but I will feel very self-conscious if it is named for me," Mrs. Johnson wrote in a letter that Cooke and council members received a few hours before the Town Lake meeting was to take place.

Mrs. Johnson noted in the letter that she had turned down previous proposals and asked that the council "follow my long-held wish."

Cooke said he hadn't asked Mrs. Johnson what she thought of renaming the popular recreational spot "Lake Lady Bird," in honor of her efforts to develop and beautify it 20 years ago.

Jury finds comics switch was okay

HOUSTON (AP) — In the trial that became known as "The Funny Papers Case," The Dallas Morning News and parent company A.H. Belo Corp. are going home smiling.

After four weeks of testimony and five days of deliberation, a Harris County jury on Tuesday found nothing improper in The Morning News' acquisition of 26 comics and features that had been published until last fall in the rival Dallas Times Herald.

The jury vote, after about 20 hours of discussion, was 10-2.

The Times Herald had sued its larger rival for $33 million, contending the features move — that included such popular items like Doonesbury, The Far Side, Dear Abby and Erma Bombeck — violated antitrust laws and was meant to help put the Times Herald out of business.

The Morning News and Belo contended the joint venture with Universal Press Syndicate Inc. of Kansas City, the distributor of the transferred features, was merely a business decision that would get the syndicate and Belo into the television programming business. The venture, known as Universal Belo, will use syndicate comics characters in TV programs and commercials to encourage newspaper readership.

Witnesses for Belo and the syndicate testified that Universal Press required all its features in the Times Herald be moved to The Morning News as part of the joint venture deal.

"The most important thing now is for our two companies to go about making the best newspapers we can and benefit the communities we serve," Belo Chairman Robert Decherd said. "We feel strongly we've been vindicated."

"I'm disappointed," Times Herald Publisher John Buzzetta said before quickly leaving the courtroom with his attorneys.

"We'll keep on fighting," said Times Herald attorney Wayne Fisher. He said an appeal was likely.

The Times Herald released a statement Tuesday saying, "We disagree that the conduct of our competitor was legal or proper in any way. In fact, it was wrong in many ways — wrong morally, wrong ethically, wrong for the profession of journalism and wrong for Dallas and its people."

"They may complain," Belo lawyer Harry Reasoner said. "We have no concern."

"Every case I try is appealed," said State District Judge David

West, who presided over the trial. "It won't hurt my feelings. If I'm wrong, I'll be glad to try it over."

Decherd said the litigation was pointless and time-consuming and that legal fees would be into the millions of dollars.

"We both should be devoting these substantial resources to our newspapers," he said. "I regret seeing these kind of resources expended on such a matter."

He also denied contentions that The Morning News intended to drive its smaller rival out of business.

Williams to back V-22 Osprey

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The embattled V-22 Osprey tiltrotor project has gotten the support of GOP gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams, who promised to lobby the defense secretary in Washington to save it.

Williams said Tuesday he would have more influence with the Bush administration than his Democratic opponent, Ann Richards.

"I will always have better access than a person who said the president was born with a silver foot in his mouth," Williams said, referring to Ms. Richards' no-holds-barred oratory at the Democratic National Convention in 1988.

"The fact is that if we don't develop this aircraft, Japan and Germany will," Williams said. "These are high-technology, high-paying jobs that will bolster and diversify the employment base of the state."

A spokesman for Ms. Richards' campaign said that she also would fight for the program and charged that Williams would be no more effective in saving the V-22 project than Republican Gov. Bill Clements has been.

"That is a great plane," Williams said Tuesday after seeing the aircraft for the first time.

If We Ran This Ad On TV, You'd Only Have 30 Seconds To See It.

Now you'd only have 25 seconds, and you wouldn't be able to go back and look at the opening line again or pause (19...18...17...) to consider its significance. You wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with this advertisement — and it wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with you. In fact, if we tried to say just this much in a 30-second TV commercial, throwing in only a brief mention that newspapers offer coupons, give you great flexibility of size, and can leave a lasting impression on your customers, we'd run out of...

"We Reach Thousands Everyday."
