RICK CHATMAN

LEON COFFEE

SNUFFY CHANCELLOR

Clown trio to provide laughs, protection for cowboys here

"Bumble Bee" and "Boogie Man" will be joined by "Snuffy" when the AJRA National Finals Rodeo opens here next week at Scurry County Coliseum.

They are the clowns, "Bumble Bee" Rick Chatman, "Boogie Man" Leon Coffee and "Snuffy" Chancellor. Chatman and Coffee return to the youth finals rodeo for the seventh consecutive year, joined for the first time by Chancellor.

They bring smiles to the faces of children of all ages but the clowns working the AJRA National Finals Rodeo have a much larger role than delighting the crowd. They are what stand between the cowboy and several thousand pounds of ornery bull.

Coffee, 37, of Austin, has been on the rodeo circuit since high school. He was a bareback rider, a bull rider, a steer wrestler and a calf roper.

Coffee has worked the 1979 and '84 NFRs and has competed every year since 1983 on the Wrangler Bullfight tour. In 1983, he was voted the PRCA Clown of the Year.

His wife, Tammy Jo, is a former Miss Rodeo North Dakota.

Rodeo is becoming a Coffee family tradition as his daughters, Leigh Ann, 11, and Brandy Lynn, 9, are following their parents' footsteps as goat tyers, breakaway ropers, pole benders and barrel racers in the AJRA. Chatman, 32, of Rio Vista, Texas, was born and raised in Fort Worth.

Chatman was the 1979 Lone Star Circuit Clown of the Year, and he hit the bigtime with appearances in the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City in 1980 and '81.

In 1984, he returned for a third (see CLOWNS, page 8)

SISD registration scheduled Friday

Registration will be held Friday from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. for students planning to enroll in the local public school system.

Students are to register at the school they will be attending.

All students new to the district will need to bring a copy of their current immunization record, last year's report card from the school they attended, a copy of the last achievement test they have taken, and proof of residence. Proof of residence may include a checkbook, utility bill or any document showing a current address.

Pre-K students, those who will be involved in the district's program for 4-year-olds, will also register from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Friday at North, Central and Northeast elementarys.

Parents of those students need to bring the child's birth certificate and immunization record.

An orientation will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at Worsham Auditorium for high school students who are new to the system, and for all freshmen.

Friday noon deadline for officer class

The application period for the next daytime academy correctional officer class at Western Texas College ends Friday at noon, officials have noted.

Applications are available at the college's continuing education department.

The class will begin Sept. 10 and end on Sept. 28. Tuition is $225.

Students who are accepted and complete the class are certified by the Texas Department of Criminal Justice and are eligible to seek employment as correctional officers at state prisons throughout Texas.

Daytime classes meet from 8 a.m. through 5 p.m. Monday through Friday for a three-week period.

For more information, contact the continuing education department at 573-8511.

Fort Worth man dies in rollover

A 19-year-old Fort Worth man was killed this morning in a one-vehicle accident, nine miles north of Snyder on U.S. 84.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Roland Alexander Hillis, who was driving northwest on U.S. 84.

Witnesses said the 1989 Mazda pickup was traveling at a high rate of speed and was attempting to pass an 18-wheeler. Hillis apparently lost control of the vehicle, went into the center median, came back into the north-bound lane and overturned seven times.

Hillis apparently suffered massive head injuries, but was not thrown from the vehicle. The accident occurred at 7:15 a.m.

Final Success Seminar set Tuesday at college

Western Texas College will hold its last Success Seminar for incoming full-time freshmen Tuesday and students planning to attend are reminded to make reservations in advance.

During the seminar, students may pre-register for the fall semester. They must be prepared to pay for registration at that time and will also pay for housing if they will be living in the dormitory or apartments on-campus.

Reservations for the seminar are to be accompanied by a $15 fee and must include the student's name, Social Security number and mailing address. Reservations can be mailed to the Admissions Office at WTC, 6200 College Ave., Snyder, TX 79549, or can be made by visiting the office on campus.

Students who do not have ACT or SAT scores on file at WTC will be required to take a placement test and will pay a $10 fee for that test.

The Success Seminar will begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Student Center.

Local police apprehend man on attempted murder charge

Snyder police department Wednesday afternoon apprehended a west-bound motorist wanted on attempted murder charges in Mesquite.

The Mesquite police department had issued a warrant for 29-year-old Reynaldo Minjarez. The message said the suspect was last seen in Arlington about 8:30 a.m. and was possibly enroute to Lubbock.

Mesquite police said the suspect was armed with a .380 automatic pistol and was to be considered dangerous. One report said the man intended to lure an officer into a traffic stop and force the officer to shoot him.

A volunteer fireman spotted a vehicle matching the description one mile east of Inadale. Snyder police converged on the scene at U.S. 84 and Ave. E where the man was arrested without resistance. He was then taken to the Scurry County jail.

Police investigated a minor wreck on the IGA parking lot. Involved was a 1990 Cherokee Jeep (see POLICE, page 8)

Suspect is identified in cattle rustling case

Scurry County Sheriff's Office has recovered 22 head of cattle in a theft that occurred Wednesday in north Snyder.

Deputies have identified a 16-year-old male suspect in the cattle rustling investigation, but no charges have been filed.

Eighteen head of the cattle belong to Dwayne Presley and four head are owned by Donnie Goswick. A break in the case came when the suspect attempted to get a third party to sell the cattle at a price well below market value.

Arrests by the Howard County sheriff's department has resulted in the recovery of a pickup reported stolen July 17 south of Knapp.

Charged with multiple counts of burglaries and thefts in five counties are Ben Garza, 36, of Big Spring and Billy Lee Green, 45, of Lamesa.

The suspects are believed to be part of a burglary ring operating in Scurry, Mitchell, Borden, Howard and Dawson counties.

The pair was arrested while driving the 1980 Toyota four-wheel drive pickup belonging to Weldon Key. The hood and fenders of the pickup had been stripped down, according to Scurry County Chief Deputy Andy Anderson.

Merchandise recovered by Howard County required three pickups, two vans and a flatbed truck to haul away. Merchandise included furniture, appliances and tools.

Although several rural burglaries have occurred in Scurry County, Anderson said the merchandise will have to be looked at again to determine if any of the stolen items are from Scurry County.

Registration for lunch program dates are set

Snyder school district has set dates to assist parents in completing free and reduced lunch applications, the first of which is Friday.

Those planning to apply for free or reduced lunches should bring verification records with their applications.

Assistance will be available through the beginning of school. Dates and times to turn in applications are as follows:

—Aug. 10, Friday, from 8 a.m.

until 4 p.m.

—Aug. 13-17, from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. and from 5:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

—Aug. 20-24, from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. and from 5:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday.

—Aug. 27-Sept. 7, 8 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Applications should be taken to Elida Garza at the school community office at Central Elementary.

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The problem with being popular is that you have to be more tactful than truthful."

Joye Loyd, retired school teacher, sent us an item she had received from an organization called Americans for a Balanced Budget.

Joye said the information is of interest to retired people, but we think it is of interest to taxpayers of all ages.

The article cited the following area where Congress wastes tax dollars:

These include $15 billion for foreign aid, $25 billion for farm subsidies, $261 million for Congressional staffs, $120 million for Congressional postage, $560 million for the United Nations, $100 million for the superconducting supercollider and $580 million for the postal service.

Also listed was $220 million for public broadcasting, $320 million for Arts and Humanities, $300 million for Legal Services Corporation, $40 million for the Interstate Commerce Commission, $2.6 billion for Urban Mass Transportation, $2.7 billion for military bases and $2.2 billion for student loans now in default.

Government waste, like beauty, is in the eye of the viewer.

About the same time, we got the monthly newsletter of Citizens Against Government Waste. They have run some recent ads which show a baby on the verge of crying when he is informed that he already owes $12,000 as his personal share of the national debt.

The figure is calculated by taking current debt of $3 trillion and dividing it by the current U.S. population of 250 million.

If only crying would help...

Q—How are they able to present AJRA rodeo awards on Saturday morning when the finals aren't until that evening?

A—The Saturday, Aug. 18, televised performance pits the top contestants of the year against each other. The awards presented earlier in the day are for both the week-long AJRA National Finals Rodeo here, and for the entire year.

In Brief

Gas watchers

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — El Paso County Attorney Joe Lucas plans to daily announce the highest and lowest price charged for unleaded gas at area service stations to slow price increases.

Lucas said Wednesday he believes stations are taking advantage of the Iraq crisis and consumers.

"I hope the citizens react right now and do something about this and not buy gasoline from these money-grubbers," Lucas said.

Mexico oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a gesture to a "friendly and important customer," Mexico will send an additional 100,000 barrels of oil a day to the United States to help ease shortages caused by the embargo imposed against Iraq and Kuwait.

The Mexican commitment, scheduled to last two months, is expected to restore about 15 percent of the more than 700,000 barrels a day the United States is no longer receiving as a result of the embargo.

Local

Show is 'on'

Youngsters who signed up to take part in special ceremonies during the AJRA National Finals Rodeo are to be at rehearsal at 5:30 p.m. Friday in the coliseum.

Snyder Chamber of Commerce is still needing about 60 young boys and girls to participate in the nightly ceremonies. Free rodeo passes will be provided for the youngsters and their parents.

Anyone wishing to participate should go by the chamber office and fill out a form today or Friday.

Book signing

Deanie Francis Mills will have a book signing for her first published novel, "Darkroom," Saturday from 2-4 p.m., at Wal-Mart. Mills is donating 10 percent of the royalties from the book to the Noah Project.

Test sirens

The city's Civil Defense alert system will be tested at 7 p.m. Thursday, if skies are clear.

The last two efforts by the city to test the system have been foiled by poor weather.

Bush trying best face with S&L bailout

WASHINGTON (AP) — One year after President Bush signed landmark savings and loan bailout legislation, the administration is trying to accentuate the positive about its handling of the still-worsening mess. Anticipating a chorus of criticism around today's anniversary of the bill, Bush's Cabinet officers are emphasizing the bailout's benefits to depositors, minimizing the rising cost to taxpayers and denouncing what they call the "blame game" played by congressional Democrats. "The staggering size of the cost estimates understandably alarms taxpayers and frightens politicians into finger-pointing and blame-avoiding. The line in the political world goes, 'Since I don't make mistakes, someone else must be making them,'"

Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady said Wednesday. Overlooked in the furor, he said, is the fact that the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989, as it is formally known, has so far protected 6.4 million deposit accounts averaging around $10,000 each. "Our job is to conduct the massive cleanup operation effectively and responsibly, to rise above the political blame game, and to work steadily and professionally to get the job done," Brady said. Attorney General Dick Thornburgh and chief White House economic adviser Michael Boskin also are defending the administration at other events this week. But the record over the last year and the outlook for the next is decidedly mixed. The Resolution Trust Corp., created to handle the bailout, has closed or sold 211 insolvent thrifts and plans to deal with 126 more this year. But that would leave it still running 135 collapsed thrifts and looking ahead to an additional 230 to 550 failures among the remaining 2,430 privately-run S&Ls. Solvent S&Ls lost $271 million in the first three months of 1990 even though they are under less pressure from insolvent institutions desperately seeking deposits with high interest rates. The Justice Department established financial institution fraud task forces in 27 cities and hired 118 assistant U.S. attorneys and 153 FBI agents. But complex fraud cases take years to prosecute and it is too soon to tell if the added staff will make significant headway against a backlog of 21,147 criminal referrals. The S&L cleanup is far wider and its cost far deeper than envisioned on Aug. 9, 1989, when Bush signed the law in a sunny Rose Garden ceremony. "If someone would have told me the day of the bill signing that S&Ls would be the No. 1 issue and the crisis would look even worse than it did a year ago, I would have said, 'You're crazy,'" said Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., a member of the House Banking Committee. "Yet, that's exactly where we are." The cost of the bailout contributed to Bush's decision to abandon his "no new taxes" pledge and led to the first serious congressional push since

Watergate to reform campaign finance laws. The bailout also threatens to spill into the general economy as a credit crunch. Real estate developers and small businesses already are complaining that they can't get loans. The Federal Reserve Board has been forced to cut interest rates. Savings and loans, barely mentioned in the 1988 presidential race, have become a prime issue in this year's congressional races. Challengers view the issue as their best chance to defeat incumbents, especially those who received political contributions from the industry. Behind the firestorm is the need for more tax money to finance the cleanup. The year-old act provided $50 billion to cover S&L losses and allowed regulators to raise additional cash by borrowing against the sour loans, distressed real estate and other assets inherited from the bankrupt thrifts. Now, regulators say they will need up to $100 billion for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1. That includes $30 billion to $40 billion from taxpayers, with the rest to be borrowed and repaid when assets of failed S&Ls are sold. Rep. Bruce Vento, D-Minn., chairman of a House task force monitoring the bailout, says taxpayers' liability won't be contained until the Resolution Trust Corp. makes headway in selling failed institutions' assets. The bailout agency last week announced its "great fall inventory clearance sale."

$20 million cost now calculated for Channel spill

HOUSTON (AP) — An accident in the Houston Ship Channel that dumped 700,000 gallons of oil into Galveston Bay nearly two weeks ago has cost shipowners as much as $20 million because of delays in reopening the waterway, an industry official says. Ted Thorjussen, president of the West Gulf Maritime Association, an organization of shipping lines, estimates the channel closing has cost the lines between $15 million and $20 million. The Greek tanker Shinoussa collided with two of three barges being towed by the tugboat, Chandy N, through the ship channel in the bay July on 28. The tanker, although damaged, did not lose any of its cargo of jet fuel because of a double hull, but the two barges spewed 700,000 gallons of a heavy catfeed oil used in petroleum refining. Because of the accident, all deep-water traffic through the Ship Channel was stopped between July 28 and Aug. 3, a move that cost the average shipowner up to $17,000 a day plus docking fees of up to $3,500 a day. Two-way barge traffic has been permitted in the channel for nearly a week, with one-way traffic allowed for tow-escorted ship traffic since last Friday. But efforts to clean up the oil spill and remove a submerged barge have delayed the full reopening of the waterway. Crews hope to move the crippled barge from the channel today, allowing two-way deep draft ship traffic for the first time since the accident. "I think it's outrageous that the channel is still restricted," Thorjussen told the Houston Chronicle. "The ships are not delayed as they used to be, but if you arrive at an inopportune time, you can lose a day both coming and going," he said. Thorjussen said he blames both an "overly cautious" U.S. Coast Guard and the salvage company, T&T Marine Salvage Inc. "The wreck is 1,000 feet away from the channel," he said. "I think you could do two-way traffic." Petty Officer Mark Sedwick said Coast Guard officials have fielded numerous calls from irate shippers in recent days. ## Fund established for 6-year-old girl

A fund has been established at Snyder National Bank to help defer medical expenses for six and a half year-old Toni Merket Jackson. Toni, daughter of Barry and Sandra Jackson, has been diagnosed with acute lymphatic leukemia and is currently in the eighth week of a 20-week chemotherapy program. She is in the intensive care unit of University Medical Center in Lubbock. Donation jars are located at several local businesses including Golden Corral, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Snyder Cablevision. Anyone wanting to send cards or donations or inquire about Toni's condition can call her aunts, Jan Buchanan at 573-3555 or Joyce Buchanan at 573-3536. Her grandparents are O.E. and Vora Jackson of Snyder and Jessie and Evelyn Wiggins of Colorado City.

Thrift owner says political motive behind indictment

AUSTIN (AP) — The former owner of the now-defunct Lamar Savings Association says his indictment in the $2 billion thrift's failure is politically motivated. Stanley E. Adams Jr. said he has done nothing wrong. "If I am to be indicted and tried for my actions, then every banker and savings and loan official in Texas during the past decade should be indicted and brought to trial," said Adams, whose S&L once applied to open a branch on the moon. Adams, an unsuccessful Democratic gubernatorial candidate this year; three other ex-Lamar officers; and two borrowers were named late Tuesday in a 14-count indictment alleging misapplication of $121.1 million in S&L funds. It accused Adams and the other officers of trying to hide Lamar Savings' poor financial condition from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and of arranging "sham" loans to fund purchases of repossessed real estate from the troubled thrift's portfolio. "The blame for this tragedy should be laid where it belongs — at the doorstep of the Reagan administration" which deregulated S&Ls, Adams said Wednesday. "These indictments against me are part of what has become a political issue and little more." In Washington, Attorney General Richard Thornburgh called Lamar "one of the most notorious failures in the Southwest and among the top 100 S&L fraud cases" being investigated. Adams' lawyer contended the former thrift executive is the victim of a double standard under which the government allowed certain S&L business practices in the early 1980s, but now calls them fraud. Lawyer Henry Novak said Lamar's transactions were legitimate. But prosecutors now are applying new "theories of criminality" to what once was standard S&L practice, he said. "It was business as usual in the savings and loan industry in 1983, '84 and '85. But now the Bush administration — since the entire industry has collapsed — what you're doing is, taking the position that that was fraud, that that was wrongdoing," Novak said. Novak, who is defending Adams in a $100 million civil lawsuit filed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., said government regulators long were out to get Adams because he was an innovative maverick in a staid business. "Stanley Adams had been the target for quite some time of bad feelings on the part of the regulators. He was an innovator. He was different. He was a maverick in an industry in which conformity was a very important thing," Novak said. Adams was principal owner of Lamar Savings from 1973 to December 1985. Government regulators shut it down in May 1988. It was the biggest thrift failure in central Texas, and officials have estimated the cost to the government at $1 billion. The colorful Adams, 56, unsuccessfully ran for governor in this year's primary. When filing for the Democratic nomination, Adams listed his occupation as "alleged white-collar racketeer" and complained about the lengthy investigation of him and Lamar. Several years ago, Lamar applied to federal regulators to open a branch office on the moon, naming a crater where the National Aeronautics and Space Administration proposed to build a space station. No action ever was taken.

Richards vs. Williams... Governor's race adding mud

AUSTIN (AP) — Clayton Williams has cost taxpayers money in the government's savings and loan bailout, Ann Richards' campaign charged. "He brags about what a great businessman he is, but it's the taxpayers who are going to have to dig into their pockets to bail out his business dealings," said Bill Cryer, Richards' press secretary. The Richards campaign took Republican Williams to task over the 1987 sale of his gas gathering firm, Clajon Gas Co.

Democrat Richards said Williams engineered the sale using $130 million worth of junk bonds, which he sold to large investors, including $6 million in bonds to savings and loan institutions that later failed. Those bonds now are owned by the federal Resolution Trust Corp. "Clayton Williams was conspiring with Wall Street financiers to roll the dice on one of the decade's biggest crap games — the unloading of millions of dollars in the junk bond market," Cryer said.

"The taxpayers of Texas need to look closely at Clayton Williams. And when they do, they'll know they can't afford him," Cryer said. In other political developments: Williams said his opponent in the race for governor should cut "the campaign rhetoric" and challenged her to outline one specific proposal for Texas and say how to pay for it. At a Kiwanis Club luncheon in Houston Wednesday, Williams characterized Richards' proposals on drug abuse and education as vague. "I want to issue a challenge to Ann Richards, a challenge to provide a dollar figure for one — just one — of her proposals," Williams said. Williams also proposed privatizing the engineering division of the Texas State Highway Department. He said the highway department could save up to $25 million annually by contracting out more design work. — The Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, Bob Bullock, has returned more than $13,000 to two political action committees because they also gave money to his Republican rival.

VOTE YES Proposition One

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS ON PROPOSITION ONE

VOTE SATURDAY AT CITY HALL
(City residents only)

- WHAT IS PROPOSITION ONE?
Legislation passed by the state allowing cities to raise local economic development funds by increasing the sales tax by one-half penny.
- WHY DOES SNYDER NEED MONEY FOR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT?
To create new jobs and attract employers, cities often have to provide financial incentives to be competitive. The incentives could include loans to expand existing small businesses, the construction or purchase of land or buildings, or financing for buildings, machinery or expansion.
- WHO CONTROLS AND SPENDS THE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT FUND?
The City Council must appoint a five member board of directors, however the City Council is fully responsible and accountable for the economic development fund.
- WILL THE ONE-HALF PENNY BE ADDED TO EVERYTHING SOLD IN SNYDER?
No. Many items are exempt from the tax including groceries, housing and rent, automobiles, prescriptions, doctor's visits and gasoline.

Footwear highlights fashion

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to put your best fashion foot forward this fall, slip into a boot that rides high on the leg and takes a lot of texture and detail with it.

Or try a sleek pump in one of the vibrant colors and luxurious mixes of unheard-of daytime fabrics such as panne velvet, brocade and satin.

"Skirts will be short, and shoes and boots will focus the look and strengthen the impact," says Dick Jacobson, president of the Fashion Footwear Association of New York.

The high boot — either to the knee or over the knee — marched down virtually every runway on both sides of the Atlantic last spring — hitting stride in the Ungaro, Lacroix, Valentino, Yves St. Laurent, Calvin Klein, Marc Jacobs, Adrienne Vittadini fall shows, to name a few.

"The shapes in ready-to-wear and footwear are simple," says Ellen Campuzano, president of the Committee for Color & Trends, a forecasting service for the footwear industry. "The newness is derived from the decorative detailing and lush fabrications."

Footwear designers including Anne Klein, Phyllis Poland, Bally of Switzerland, Nando Muzi and Reed Evins have embellished the boot lavishly, each with a unique and bold approach to the season's freshest statement.

Look for tapestry, velvets, metallic washes and printed suedes with flower, vine and scroll motifs. Ankle boots and up-front pumps also take on jeweled trims as well as filigree buckles, gold frogs, embroidery, jet beads, ribbon cockades and metallic overlays and underlays. Enamel and marcasite buckles, studs, cabuchons and lace detail high-riding vamps. This sophisticated, ethnic mood leaves nothing unadorned — embellishment is all.

Colors are rich ... jewel tones and saturated brights, such as red, plum, grape, wine, jade and the all-important blues, from cobalt to indigo. The warm, spicy shades of cinnamon, brick, terracotta and currant are further enlivened with burnished metallics.

There's also the simplicity of the classics — the oxford, monk strap, moc, shoe boots and riding boots — for the draped jackets, easy wrapped skirts, parkas, duffels and slim pants in wool plaids, English tweeds, quilted slacks and cashmeres — fluid shapes in dusty colors.

But forget man-tailored. Fall's styles are strictly feminine. Heels are both mid-high and high. What's important is strong shaping, either curved or geometric. The forever-flat continues in leathers and suedes that are soft, supple and lightweight.

The pump takes detailing that is minimal and subtle. Pleating, tucking, draping and ruching on the vamp, on the collar, at the back, all complement ready-to-wear, while adding freshness and a new dimension to old favorites — understated and easily understood.

A major new shape for fall is the sleek, foot-encompassing, up-front silhouette. These shoes rise high on the in-step and swing down in the back, giving a modern sweep to the line. Toes are snipped or squared-off, and simple elastic gores add ease of entry without breaking the clean lines of the high throat and long vamp. Heel shapes are solid and architectural.

Colors are softened to work with clothes in dusty and pastel hues. Look for grays in stone, slate and granite as well as fawn, moss, chocolate brown and amethyst.

Pigs taken from birth to barbecue

(AP) — Jim Beckett's little piggies don't go to market — they stay home — and become smoked pork chops, bacon-wrapped tenderloins, boneless roasts, barbecued ribs and hams.

This Illinois farmer, with a knack for cooking and a flair for promotion, takes pigs from birth to barbecue, profiting from creations like his new Makin' Bacon burgers — a zesty mixture of ground pork and bacon aimed at the summer cookout market.

"These are top-quality products, and they're consistent because we use our own hogs," Beckett says.

Beckett gives new meaning to farrow-to-finish. He raises 2,000 pigs a year on his Macon County farm, ships them to Peoria for custom slaughtering, then brings many back as bacon, hams and other cuts.

Beckett sells the pork to grocery stores and restaurants. One is Stoney's, a steak house in nearby Dalton City. "We like his pork, and so do our customers," says restaurant owner David Brown. "It gives us a good feeling knowing where the meat comes from."

Beckett also caters parties, gives cooking demonstrations for chefs, and feeds sports reporters in the press box during Illinois football games.

"As long as I'm around, they're not going to have chicken nuggets up there," Beckett says, chuckling and sipping iced tea from a glass etched with the rear ends of hogs and the words "bottoms up."

Beckett, who also cooked up his own brand of barbecue sauce, is not shy when it comes to promoting pork.

The license plate on his refrigerated truck reads "PORKMAN" and the bumper sticker instructs motorists to "Hoink If You Like Pork."

Canned food can satisfy snacking urge

NEW YORK (AP) — With more than 1,500 varieties of canned foods on the market, including fruits, vegetables, soups and specialties, foods to satisfy that snacking urge are as close as your kitchen cupboard.

The Canned Food Information Council in Chicago offers these suggestions:

- Puree canned fruit with ice to make a refreshing cooler.
- Mix canned fruit with low-fat frozen yogurt.

— Mix canned seafood, including salmon and crabmeat, with light mayonnaise and a favorite spice. Scoop up with crudites or pita toast for an upscale alternative to chips and dip.

In the following recipe, black beans are combined with low-fat plain yogurt and seasonings, and served with toasted corn chips, carrots and celery sticks.

Black Bean Dip
One 15-ounce can black beans, drained

¼ cup plain low-fat yogurt
1 to 2 tablespoons canned hot or mild green chilies, coarsely chopped

1 large clove garlic, minced
¼ teaspoon ground cumin
2 to 3 drops red pepper sauce (optional)

Toasted Corn Chips (recipe follows)

In a food processor or blender, mix beans, yogurt, chilies, garlic, cumin and pepper sauce in food processor or blender until smooth. Spoon dip into serving bowl. Serve with corn chips and vegetable sticks. Makes about 1 cup.

Toasted Corn Chips
6 light corn tortillas
Vegetable oil
Salt

Brush one side of each tortilla very lightly with oil; sprinkle very lightly with salt. Cut each tortilla into 6 wedges; arrange in a single layer on a jellyroll pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree F oven until chips are golden and crisp, about 10 minutes, turning chips over after 5 minutes. Makes 3 dozen.

X-ray vision

By James Jacoby

Israeli player Shaya Levit played as though he were looking through the backs of the cards in a team competition last year. After North had opened one heart and supported clubs, Levit bid three hearts as a temporizing bid. He did not want to cue-bid spades, since that might discourage West from a spade lead against slam. The bidding proceeded as in the diagram, South eventually bidding six clubs.

A diamond opening would have left declarer with little choice but to try the heart finesse, but West led the spade five, a middle lead from three small cards. Declarer South now went to work.

He played low from dummy and won the queen of spades as East played the 10. He drew three rounds of trumps and then played A-K and ruffed a heart (perhaps the queen would fall). He then played out his two last trumps, discarding a diamond from dummy. East of course had to keep the king of spades guarded and hold the queen of hearts, so he was forced to come down to a singleton diamond. Declarer now played a diamond to dummy's ace and led the jack of hearts from dummy, throwing away his other small diamond. East won the heart queen but had to lead away from the king of spades to give South his slam.

Iglehart represents SHS in bowl game

Former Snyder Tiger defensive end Jody Iglehart has been chosen to play in the 41st annual Greenbelt Bowl All-Star game slated in Childress Friday.

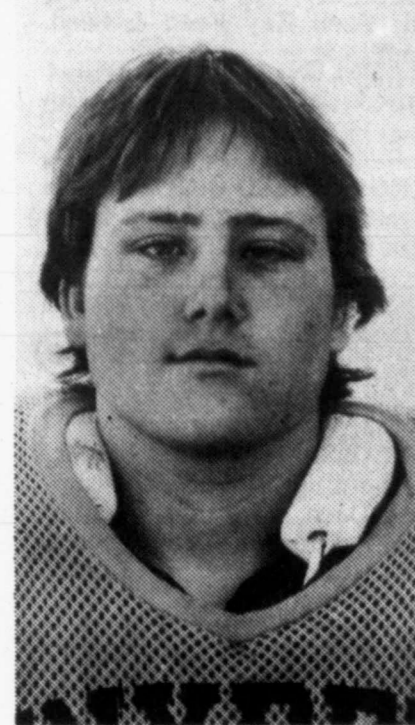

Recent Snyder High School graduate Dana Fenton will also be involved in the festivities as a candidate for Greenbelt Bowl Queen.

Fenton, who competed for SHS in basketball and track, will be among those vying for the title of Queen in a pageant scheduled for tonight.

The pageant winner will be announced at halftime of the all-star tilt.

Coaches for this year's clash between East and West Teams will be Rick Frazier, head football coach for Cisco Junior College; and Bill Anderson, head football coach for Howard Payne University.

Iglehart, a 1990 graduate of SHS, was named All-District this past season at his defensive end position.

JODY IGLEHART

He was a two-year starter for the Tigers and led the team in quarterback sacks, setting the all-time Tiger season record with ten.

Iglehart will be a member of the West Team, which includes high school standout players from Panhandle and West Texas communities.

Tiger Head Coach David Baugh said he plans to attend the Greenbelt Bowl game.

Iglehart plans to attend Sul Ross University in Alpine and will be a member of the football team there.

This year's game will mark also the first presentation of the Darrell K. Royal Leadership trophy, named in honor of the former University of Texas foot-

Gridders set for workouts

Junior varsity and varsity football players should report to the SHS fieldhouse and be ready to test weights and run a mile at 6:30 a.m. Monday as two-a-days begin.

Freshmen gridders should be dressed a ready to begin drills by 8 a.m. according to the Tiger coaching staff.

All-Stars fall to Spring Snyder Little Leaguers lose in semifinals

WACO — Snyder Little League All-Stars were halted in their quest for a state championship Wednesday night by Spring Northwest 45.

The Little Tigers jumped on top 2-0 in the first inning but a pair of errors and seven runners left on base put Snyder on the short end of an 11-5 final score.

Snyder faces Pflugerville, 7-2 losers to West University Place in Wednesday's other semifinal, in a 5 p.m. matchup at Hilton Field, for third place in the tournament today.

Jeremy House accepted the loss for Snyder on the mound. House pitched one inning and four batters while giving up seven runs on eight hits and a walk.

Page Patterson made his first appearance on the mound for the Snyder All-Stars in relief of House in the second inning.

Patterson went four stanzas striking out a pair; walking just one and giving up four runs on four hits.

Adam Cowhey was the winner for Spring going three frames and allowing all five of Snyder's runs on six hits. Cowhey walked one and struck out three.

Jimbo Trevaion came on in relief of Cowhey to stop a Snyder rally in the top of the fourth inning. Trevaion shut down the Snyder offense fanning seven hitters in a no-hit effort and keeping the locals off the scoreboard for the rest of the game.

The big damage came early to Snyder as Michael Murray smashed a three-run homer, his third of the tournament, into deep center field off House to chase the Snyder starter and give Spring a 7-2 lead in the second inning.

Murray knocked in second baseman Gabe Trevino, who had singled to left, and shortstop Tracy Mizell, who slapped a hit to center.

Snyder hitters were led by House who was two-for-three against Spring and Patrick Cumbie, one of two in the game with a homer and six of eight in tournament play with a pair of round-trippers.

Lee Idom gave Snyder a 2-0 lead to start the first inning as his two-out double scored Cumbie and House. Cumbie reached on an error and House singled prior to Idom's hit.

Spring answered with three runs in the last of the frame on a hit by Trevaisan, an infield error that put Murray aboard, a double from left fielder Judd Hurley and a single from catcher Todd Eggleston that wrested the lead from Snyder for good.

The Northwest 45 All-Stars added four more in the second, three on Murray's dinger and one on consecutive singles by Trevino, Mizell and Trevaisan. The Little Tigers came to within 7-5 with three in the upper portion of the third frame.

Cumbie, the second batter in the inning for Snyder, punched a solo homer over the wall in left field followed by successive doubles off the bats of House and Idom to bring in another run.

Page Patterson next dropped a neat bunt down the third base line for an infield hit which advanced Idom to third.

Jeff Hobbs pushed Idom across with a ground out to the pitcher to wind up Snyder scoring.

Spring tallied four more in the last of the fifth to put the game out of reach.

Spring will face West University Place at 8 p.m. today at Norcross Field for the championship.

Spring won the tournament in 1988 advancing all the way to the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa. and finishing third in the world.

LGA lists winners for monthly events

Snyder Country Club Ladies' Golf Association members announced Wednesday its list of winners for July special events.

Cynthia Jackson and Suzy Reed teamed up for first place in the group's July 3 Blind Partners.

Sally Jordan and Donna Stehley took second place followed by E. Lou Meadows and Joycelyn Holder in third and Becky Knipe and Esther Guelker in fourth.

The Association's Odd and Even event, played July 10 on the club course, was won by Jana Talbott and Lou Meadows. Second place finishers were Betty Hildreth and Donna Stehley trailed by Esther Guelker and Bobbie Hargrove in third.

Jo Sterling and Kaye Cypert notched chip-ins in Odd and Even play.

Anita Talbott was the low-gross winner and Esther Guelker took top honors in the low-net division of the LGA Queen of the Hill tournament July 24.

Barbara Moffett and Carolyn Greene were the low-gross and low-net winners, respectively, in A Flight.

Suzy Reed had B Flight's top score while Jana Talbott earned first in C Flight competition.

Anita Talbott and Esther Guelker had chip-ins at the event. The final tourney of the month, Low Score on Odd Holes, was won by Carolyn Greene. Bobbie Hargrove and Juanita Hester tied for second place and Kaye Cypert, Margy Briggs and Bobbie Hargrove were each chip-ins.

V-ball event set in Odessa

ODESSA — A co-ed, round-robin volleyball tournament has been scheduled here for Sept. 8 to raise money for the Girls Club.

The tournament, sponsored by Odessa Parks and Recreation Dept., will feature three men and three women on each team and will abide by USVBA rules.

First and second place teams will receive T-shirts and six players, three men and three women, will earn all-tourney awards.

Entry fee is $70 per team and entry deadline is Sept. 6.

Mavs, English agree to terms

DALLAS (AP) — Free agent Alex English has agreed to a contract with the Dallas Mavericks, but he won't sign until he has a chance to meet with team owner Donald Carter, a newspaper reported today.

The Dallas Morning News quoted an unnamed source as saying that English had accepted an offer from the Mavericks and was waiting for the meeting.

English and his agent, Ted Steinberg, had been talking with the Utah Jazz for several weeks and were said to be close to an agreement.

But the deal with the Mavericks reportedly came about after a series of discussions between Steinberg and Rick Sund, the Mavericks vice president of basketball operations.

"We're out of it," Scott Layden, Utah Jazz director of player personnel, said Wednesday. "We were outbid by Dallas."

Steinberg declined to elaborate on those discussions other than to say, "We are now negotiating with Dallas." Sund also refused to comment.

The News' source said English is scheduled to meet with Carter later this week. But the paper reported that English is unlikely to sign until Norm Sonju, the Mavericks' chief operating officer and general manager, returns from his vacation in Austria and has a chance to go over the agreement.

Sonju normally negotiates all contracts for the Mavericks. He is scheduled to return late Saturday night.

The terms of the agreement were not immediately known. But English, who made $2 million with the Denver Nuggets last season, had been seeking a one-year, $1.2 million deal to return to the Nuggets this season.

Two factors appear to have tipped the scales in the Mavericks' favor.

The first is money. Dallas offered a six-year, $18 million contract in its efforts to retain Sam Perkins. Once he left for the Los Angeles Lakers, the Mavericks had plenty of room to maneuver under the salary cap, a luxury the Jazz didn't share.

The second is Fat Lever. The guard, who was acquired from the Nuggets in June, became close friends with English in their days in Denver.

Jaramillo's tournament scheduled

Area softball teams are invited to enter the Jaramillo's Summer Classic softball tournament scheduled Aug. 17-19 at Winston Park.

Trophies will be given for the first through fifth teams and for the first through third individual.

Also, 10 players will be named to an all-tournament team.

A sportsmanship award and an MVP trophy will also be presented.

To enter, contact Darrell Robertson at 573-7694.

Bronco coach hospitalized

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — Denver Broncos coach Dan Reeves has been hospitalized in Redwood City, Calif., after he suffered chest pains Wednesday night, his daughter confirmed today.

Reeves is in good condition, Laura Reeves said. Her father was taken to North Colorado Hospital in Greeley when the problem occurred Wednesday and, after they determined he was able to make the trip, he was transferred to California where the family felt he could receive better care.

She said her father is fine or she would be there by his side.

A spokesman at the University of Northern Colorado declined comment immediately.

Reeves, 46, took over the Broncos in 1981 and is in his 10th season with the team. He has led the team to three Super Bowl seasons in the past four years.

Huseman is hired as Birks' assistant

New Snyder High School head boys basketball coach Bud Birks announced Wednesday the hiring of assistant Bryan Huseman of Idalou.

Huseman, as head girls cage coach at Idalou, has chiseled a 76-19 record in taking his teams to the state quarterfinals in Class 2A for the last two years.

The new member of the SHS coaching staff attended Lubbock Christian College and played football for the Chaparrals for two years. He is a graduate of Nazareth High School where Birks was his basketball coach.

Birks led the Nazareth squad to the state tournament in Austin during Huseman's junior season.

"I'm really happy to be here," said Huseman.

"It was hard going from a head coaching job to an assistant, but I really wanted to get involved with the boys."

Birks was named recently to succeed Larry Scott at the helm of Snyder basketball. Scott accepted a position as assistant principal at Snyder High.

Huseman, besides his duties as assistant to Birks with the varsity cage unit, will serve as JV basketball coach and JV football coach in charge of offensive and defensive backs.

Deadline near for physicals

Time is getting short for prospective Snyder High School athletes needing a physical examination.

Steve Krueger, SHS athletic trainer, reminds prospective athletes that all Snyder public schools students in grades 7 through 12 who are planning to compete on any University Interscholastic League athletic team must complete a UIL form and may need to take a physical exam.

The school district will pay for school physicals through Aug. 15 only. Anyone needing a physical should contact one of the following physicians and schedule an appointment: Dr. Brice, 573-8594; Dr. Burseson, 573-4926; Dr. Cooper, 573-1111; Dr. Pierce, 573-5412; or Dr. Thompson, 573-3591.

All forms should be completed prior to the physical. Doctors cannot give a physical without a parent signature on the forms.

Students who need to take a physical include the following: —All incoming seventh graders who plan to participate in Snyder Junior High athletics.

—All incoming ninth graders who plan to participate in Snyder High School athletics.

—All students new to Snyder ISD who plan to participate in athletics.

—Student who answered "yes" to questions 1,4,5,6 or 7 on their medical history form.

—Any student who has not participated in Snyder ISD athletics but plans to do so in the 1990-91 school year.

Forms must be filled out by all students planning to participate in athletics, whether or not they need a physical. The forms are available at the high school office and the high school field house. They should be returned to coaches, the athletic director's office or to Krueger.

Club offering memberships

Western Texas College Booster Club members have begun selling memberships which include season tickets for the 1990-91 basketball campaign.

Memberships come in four categories and all include season passes to men's and women's cage contests, held at Scurry County Coliseum.

The regular Booster Club membership costs $50 and includes tickets, basketball schedules, membership cards and decals.

An Executive Club membership goes for $100, a Silver Club membership is $250 and $500 gets a Gold Club membership.

Executive, Silver and Gold memberships will receive the tickets, schedules, membership cards, decals and will have special activities slated with coaches and players through the season.

Extra tickets are $15 per adult and $5 for children.

All memberships include the cost of a pair of tickets, $30, with the remainder of fees being used to directly benefit the Westerner and Lady Duster basketball programs.

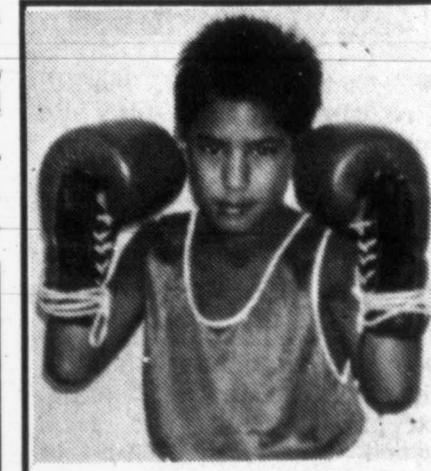

For more information or to purchase a membership contact club president Shirley Fritz at 573-7403 or 573-6679.

Oil companies freeze prices

NEW YORK (AP) — BP America Inc., Phillips Petroleum Co. and Conoco Inc. said today they were cutting their gasoline prices, while Atlantic Richfield Co. announced a one-week price freeze.

Other big oil companies promised to practice price restraint amid public outcry over alleged price gouging and after President Bush asked the industry to show restraint in the face of escalating tensions in the oil-rich Persian Gulf.

The companies have denied allegations that they have been using instability in the Gulf as an excuse to drive up prices at the gas pumps. Unleaded gas has risen more than 16 cents a gallon since Iraq invaded Kuwait last Thursday.

BP, the Cleveland-based subsidiary of British Petroleum and the 9th-largest oil company in the United States, said it was rolling back prices at the gas pumps by 3 cents per gallon. The company cited recent easing in prices in the petroleum markets and Bush's request for restraint.

No. 11 Phillips, based in Bartlesville, Okla., said it was cutting prices at some of its gasoline terminals by as much as 4.5 cents due to market changes.

Conoco, a wholly owned subsidiary of Wilmington, Del.-based Du Pont Co., said it lowered by 3 to 4 cents its wholesale prices for gasoline and by a penny its price for diesel fuel.

Kevin Lindemer, an energy analyst at Cambridge Research Associates in Cambridge, Mass., said the companies' actions were "primarily to help consumers and wholesalers take the edge off, maybe help head off some hoarding."

"It takes some of the panic and fear out of the market," he said. "It helps prices take a bit of a breather."

Arco said Wednesday its freeze affects prices of gasoline, diesel and jet fuel. Arco said it was encouraging its dealers, who by federal law set their own pump prices, to avoid increases.

The company said if crude oil prices continued to rise at the end of the week it would be forced to raise prices. "Otherwise, if we remain below the market we risk a run on our stations which could drain our supply and create a panic buying situation in the marketplace," Arco said.

Several oil companies said they backed Bush's call for restraint, but defended price hikes on the grounds that crude oil prices had increased much faster than gasoline prices in the last month.

"Since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, crude prices have increased approximately 35 percent," Houston-based Shell Oil Co. said in a statement today.

The company promised to exercise restraint but it did not lower prices, saying its increases had been about half of the national average.

The industry has come under assault in recent days from politicians and consumer groups alleging price gouging. Some took to the offensive against their critics.

"Unfortunately we are in an election year and there is a temptation on the part of many of those in the political arena who, in the desire for public exposure, thrash out one more time at the oil industry," said Robert McClements, chairman and chief executive of Philadelphia-based Sun Co.

Exxon Corp. said it would continue pricing its products "in a responsible manner that reflects overall market supply conditions." The world's largest oil company said it buys 2.7 million barrels of oil daily and "must compete on world markets and pay world market prices."

Oil companies have been criticized frequently since gas prices soared from about 39 cents a gallon in 1973 to 53 cents a year later following the Arab oil embargo. Prices climbed to 69 cents by 1978, before surging above $1 when Iranian supplies were cut off by its 1979 revolution deposing the regime of U.S. ally the Shah.

More recently, prices jumped after the Exxon Valdez spill off the Alaska coast last year and heating oil skyrocketed during a December freeze. Despite allegations, no profiteering or collusion by companies was proven.

Herbert Schmertz, a senior public relations official at Mobil Corp. during the 1970s oil crises, said the companies should criticize the government for increasing reliance on foreign oil by balking at developing domestic sources.

"The finger should be pointed right back at the people who are doing the screaming," he said.

He said that in 1973, "we treated those attacks as if they were rational attacks and we responded in a rational way. You can't deal with irrational attacks in a rational way and that mistake is being made again today."

Mobil said it took out advertisements headlined "Where's the Rip-off?" stating its position on the editorial page of today's New York Times and several other publications.

In defending the price hikes, companies have sought to explain the intricacies of oil economics. They have pointed out that while it can take up to 90 days for crude oil to reach the United States from the Middle East, companies usually pay the market price in effect when it arrives at the refinery, not the price when it was contracted for.

time to the NFR, having been honored with the position by the election of the top 15 bullriders of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association.

He was also named the Wrangler World Champion Bullfighter that year. Chatman began bullfighting and competing in 1975 when he was 17. In addition to rodeo, he was also an all-round athlete in track, pole vaulting and golf.

He continues to play racquetball, volleyball and basketball along with other physical conditioning necessary for agility in his profession.

Chancellor, 42, who hails from Fort Worth, began his rodeo clowning career at age 18. He took an eight-year "leave of absence" from the profession, but returned in 1981.

Chancellor's specialty has always been working the barrel during the bull riding event. Tucked away in an open-ended barrel, he provides a mobile buffer for the rodeo bullfighter.

In addition, Chancellor delights crowds with his diminutive mule, "Horsefly," has his "chicken-powered" vehicle called the hen-mobile.

The arena veteran was once in the business of making barrels for other rodeo clowns and has just about perfected his own 150-pound hideaway constructed of lightweight aluminum covered with layers of rubber tubes, foam rubber, tape and spray paint.

"It's a long way from my first one, which was a wooden-staved pickle barrel," said Snuffy. "I sure got banged up in that one."

The rodeo runs nightly at 8 o'clock from Tuesday through Saturday. Tickets are $6 for box seats, $4 for general admission, and $2 for children under age 12.

Lorenzo bails out of airline

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Lorenzo, one of the most dynamic figures in the tumultuous airline industry and a cost-cutting target of organized labor, announced today he was getting out of the business.

Lorenzo's Continental Airlines Holdings Inc. said he was selling most of his stake in the company, formerly known as Texas Air Corp., to Scandinavian Airlines System and would quit as chairman and chief executive.

His departure marks the end of an era in the U.S. airline industry, which has undergone sweeping changes since deregulation more than a decade ago. Using billions of dollars in borrowed money, cheap fares and bankruptcy laws to restructure high-cost airlines Continental and Eastern, Lorenzo expanded his company to the nation's biggest airline operator with about 20 percent of the domestic market.

But Lorenzo has been bitterly criticized by airline unions, which were driven from Continental and waged a bitter strike at Eastern. Both airlines are under extreme financial pressure and there are widespread doubts about Eastern's ability to survive.

Lorenzo, 50, said in a statement that he will be replaced as chief executive by Hollis L. Harris, president of rival Delta Airlines. He called Harris "one of the industry's most experienced and highly regarded executives."

Delta confirmed today that Harris, 58, retired from the company effective Wednesday to assume a position with Continental. Delta said Ronald W. Allen, its chairman, would assume Harris' duties.

The Wall Street Journal quoted industry sources as saying Lorenzo didn't want to sell his stake, but believed his continued association with the company and criticism of his operating style were hurting its performance.

Lorenzo will walk away with about $17 million from the deal, a fraction of what he was worth a few years ago when his airlines were in better shape.

SAS, which first bought a stake in Lorenzo's business a few years ago, said it was spending $50 million on the transaction, which already was approved by Continental Holdings' board of directors.

Lorenzo, a Harvard MBA, became one of the most despised figures among union groups in the 1980s because of what they called his brutal treatment of organized labor.

The most dramatic result was a strike at Eastern Airlines in March 1989 that prompted the carrier to seek Chapter 11 bankruptcy court protection from creditors while it reorganized.

Lorenzo lost control of Eastern altogether last April when federal bankruptcy judge Judge Burton Lifland placed the airline in the hands of a trustee.

A reported theft of a bicycle belonging to Gabriel Rios was reported at 4:25 p.m. Wednesday at the Boys Club.

At 2:58 p.m., police received a complaint from the Beacon Lodge that subjects were getting ice and were causing a disturbance.

At 10:04 p.m. in the 400 Block of 31st St., officers received a call that a subject was ringing the doorbell. At 4:12 a.m., police received a complaint of a jackhammer being used in the 4100 Block of College Ave.

Rethink suggested for Fort Hood cuts

DALLAS (AP) — The rapid development of a crisis such as the one in the Middle East is one reason why the Pentagon should take another look at the plans to shut down the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood, Central Texas leaders say.

Killeen city leaders said Wednesday that with U.S. troops heading to the Middle East, perhaps the Pentagon moved too quickly in cutting back military bases around the country.

And they said they hoped that federal officials would reconsider the decision that is expected to cost the Central Texas town's economy an estimated $812 million a year and drive unemployment to near 25 percent.

crisis ... and we're busy deactivating the only people who could answer the challenge," said Rick Murphy, director of the Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce.

"This is what these forces were intended to do and now that we need them, we don't have them," he said. "That's pretty scary."

Maj. Jim Boling, spokesman for the 2nd Armored Division, said two battalions already have been deactivated and a third is scheduled to cease operations Wednesday, peaking 2,600 of the division's 12,200 soldiers.

The shutdown of the Fort Hood division stems from defense spending cuts announced in January by Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney.

Sand, heat, drought...

Desert warfare 'forbidding'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few areas of the planet are more forbidding for the American warrior than Saudi Arabia, home of the world's largest sand desert, where the summer heat often tops 120 degrees and can sap even the native tribesmen.

Drinkable water is scarce. Sand and dust can debilitate not only armies on the march but also aircraft, supply vehicles and gun sightings on tanks and rifles.

Add to that the threat of being attacked with poison gases you can neither see nor smell, and you have a picture of the peculiarities of mobilizing on the Arabian Peninsula to defend the world's largest oil reserves from the Iraqi army.

President Bush told the nation Wednesday that American forces were landing in Saudi Arabia to protect the desert kingdom from a menacing million-man Iraqi army. The president said U.S. troops would not initiate a conflict but would respond if attacked.

Government sources said at least 5,000 paratroopers from the 82nd Airborne Division and other highly mobile units were en route or already taking positions on Saudi soil — backed by a swelling armada of naval air and seapower.

Diplomatic sources in Saudi Arabia said 4,000 Marines already had been moved to a oil-terminal Saudi town close to the Kuwaiti border. Those sources said the total U.S. troop strength could reach 30,000, while The Washington Post and The New York Times quoted estimates of 50,000.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has vowed to crush any resistance to his occupation of Kuwait.

The Saudi desert itself is a formidable foe for the Americans. The name alone — the Empty Quarter — speaks volumes about the inhospitable conditions.

The heat can be defeating. Temperatures in August often top 120 degrees; on Tuesday, as the first U.S. air and ground units readied for their mission, it was 110 degrees in Riyadh, the Saudi capital.

Even without the physical strain of combat, U.S. soldiers in Saudi Arabia would have to drink at least six gallons of water a day while their bodies adjusted to the climate, said an Army planner who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Deliveries of drinking water become nearly as important as armaments.

Also on the equipment list for this deployment: plenty of sunscreen lotion and sunglasses.

The desert environment presents these other challenges to the Americans there:

—Distortion of all optical systems, including binoculars and sighting optics on tanks, by surface heat waves.

—Damage to weapons, other vehicles and aircraft from the effects of blowing sand and dust. The sand can grind down helicopter rotor blades much like the effects of sandpaper on light metal. Sand also can clog engines and air filters.

—Transport of troops and supplies is more risky, particularly over the great distances in the Saudi desert, because of a lack of ground cover. That gives added importance to air power, and in turn puts a greater onus on air defenses.

Besides the dangers of exhaustion and dehydration, the heat also hurts the U.S. troops' ability to cope with the threat of a chemical attack by Iraq, according to military officers.

The use of chemical weapons is outlawed by the 1925 Geneva Protocol, but Iraq has admitted to using poison gas during its eight-year war with Iran. Hundreds of civilians in an Iraqi village that fell into Iranian hands were burned to death in an Iraqi gas attack in 1988.

Maj. Joe Padilla, an Army spokesman at the Pentagon, said the soldiers heading to Saudi Arabia are equipped with gear to defend against a chemical attack. This includes protective clothing, such as boots, gloves, masks and special trousers and jackets, as well as equipment for decontaminating clothing and gear.

They also are carrying special sensing devices, including battery-operated devices that sample the air for indications of poisonous gas, as well as medicines to counteract the effects of exposure to chemical agents, officials said.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1990 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I recently received a "summons" in the mail telling me I had been chosen for jury duty. More than 300 people were questioned by the judge, defense and prosecutor. I was picked for a trial that is expected to last 10 days.

I now find that my boss, who initially told me, "There are ways of getting out of this," is infuriated with me for missing work because I "allowed" myself to be picked. For the record, I've used one sick day in almost four years.

Abby, this is not a "vacation." Someone has been accused of a serious crime, and it is up to a jury to determine this person's innocence or guilt. Doesn't anyone remember the principles on which this country was founded? If everyone in America dodged jury duty, where would we be? I feel proud, honored and obligated to be a part of this process.

Abby, some of my fellow jurors are experiencing the same thing. Please print this and explain to every boss out there how important this process is.

PROUD TO PARTICIPATE IN NEW YORK

DEAR PROUD: Your sentiments are commendable. Our Constitution guarantees its citizens a trial by a jury of their peers. Therefore, it's unfair, unpatriotic and possibly illegal for an employer to suggest, encourage, pressure or demand that an employee evade jury duty. The labor board in your community will attest to that.

DEAR ABBY: I drive a bus for a living. On occasion, I am called on to take groups of people on charters to places like New York City. The people, for the most part, are great, but I don't think they know that it's OK to tip the driver and/or their tour guide.

It always amazes me that these tourists cheer, applaud and praise my driving abilities, then get off the bus after 12 to 15 hours, shake my hand and say, "Thank you for a safe trip!" Then they walk away. Just for the record, folks, I do these charters for $7 an hour. (Most people wouldn't drive a bus in New York or Boston for three times that!)

A tip is a "gratuity." If you are as grateful as you say you are, punctuate it with a dollar or two.

UPSTATE BUS DRIVER

DEAR BUS DRIVER: Thanks for the tip — I'll pass it along. Readers, unless you are advised to the contrary, you may safely assume that people who perform services such as waiting on tables, hotel bellmen, taxi drivers, limo drivers, doormen, hotel and motel maids, as well as tour drivers, are paid the "minimum" — and depend on "tips" to make ends meet.

DEAR ABBY: There's a woman in our office who is going to be married for the fourth time. She's only 33; husband No. 4 is 30, and this is his first marriage.

She has three children by two different husbands. She's having a church wedding and got mad at the minister because he told her she shouldn't wear white. Can you imagine? In between marriages, she's had a lot of lovers. She is kind of the office tramp.

The entire office has received invitations to her wedding. She has picked out china and crystal patterns, but I just don't feel right about getting her a gift. I'm not the only one here who feels this way. What do you think we should do?

NOT A FAN OF THE BRIDE

DEAR NOT A FAN: I think you should very politely decline the invitation and send the bride a lovely card with your best wishes for a happy marriage.

"How to Be Popular" is for everyone who feels left out and wants an improved social life. It's an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person. To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Seek a second opinion for angina

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently had an attack of angina. Although I'm on the road to recovery, my left foot and ankle have become swollen. This concerns me, but not my doctor.

DEAR READER: Angina is pain due to cramping of the cardiac muscle. It commonly appears when the amount of oxygen reaching the heart is insufficient to satisfy metabolic demands. Therefore, angina usually indicates a significant degree of arterial blockage (coronary stenosis) that may herald a heart attack or heart failure.

Medical therapy of angina helps reduce the work (and the metabolic demands) of the heart. Commonly used drugs include nitroglycerin, beta-blockers, calcium-channel blockers and similar compounds.

Even when anginal pain is controlled, some patients may show signs of early heart failure, such as swollen ankles, intolerance to exercise and shortness of breath. This complication means that other drugs, such as diuretics, must be prescribed.

Although some degree of fluid retention and ankle swelling are common in older patients and may not be serious enough to require treatment, I'm concerned that your swollen ankle could represent an early manifestation of heart failure. It certainly could if you have other symptoms, such as breathlessness and fatigue. Also, some cardiac medicines, such as beta-blockers, can contribute to fluid retention.

I suggest you ask your doctor to obtain a second opinion from a cardiologist. A specialist's advice surely wouldn't hurt — and it might relieve your symptoms, as well as prevent more serious, future consequences. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Eating Right For A Healthy Heart." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband reads your articles every day and says you are very smart, so I'm writing in the hope you can help our son-in-law. He suffers from pemphigoid. His doctors say they know what it is, but they don't have a cure. He's receiving steroids, but they don't seem to help. What can you tell me about this disorder?

DEAR READER: First, my thanks to your husband. I hope he is an excellent judge of character and intelligence.

Bullous pemphigoid is a chronic eruption of large blisters, seen chiefly in the elderly. The disease is believed to be due to a self-allergy to normal skin; thus, antibodies (protein acting against skin cells) can be demonstrated in biopsy specimens. The affliction is benign, as opposed to a more serious skin condition (pemphigus) from which it must be differentiated.

Prednisone (purified cortisone), a steroid, is the treatment of choice; it controls the eruptions in virtually 100 percent of cases.

If your son-in-law has not responded to this treatment, his doctors should consider other diagnoses. In particular, pemphigus — which can be fatal if inadequately treated — may require higher doses of prednisone given for longer periods. It, too, is diagnosed by biopsy.

If he isn't already, your son-in-law should be under the care of dermatologists, preferably in a medical center where specialized treatments — such as reverse isolation (to prevent contamination of the patient's skin) — are available.

Astrograph
by Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

August 10, 1990

In the year ahead you could be lucky in rather unusual ways. This is likely to be especially true in matters that pertain to the fulfillment of your ambitions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you fail to move while the industrious mood is upon you today, you might put off doing certain essential tasks. Your indifference grows in proportion to your procrastination. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be very careful today you are not overly possessive with people with whom you have strong emotional bonds. They'll resent restrictions even if you feel it's for their own good.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's best not to seek too many opinions today regarding an important matter upon which you must decide. Superfluous input generates confusion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conflicts with co-workers are likely today if you are too insistent everything must be done your way and within the time increments you establish.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Subdue inclinations to take speculative risks today, even though they might look like sure things on the surface. Gambles should be analyzed from every angle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Assignments you can do quickly today are likely to be done rather well. However, the quality of your performance may wane considerably when patience is required.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try to keep involvements with friends on a purely fun, social level today. It's best they're not drawn into your serious confidential affairs, nor you into theirs.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't use up your credit with friends today by requesting inconsequential favors. If you do, there's a chance they might not be responsive when you need them for something significant.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you get involved in a serious discussion with a friend today, be as open and frank as possible. Don't give your friend any reason to think you're hiding something.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In a joint venture today don't allow someone who isn't directly involved become part of the enterprise. This person's only contribution might be complications.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's possibility you might try to alter or change something today which is beyond your scope. The results of your efforts could frustrate you, as well as others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your judgment is reasonably good today, but there is a possibility you may harbor unnecessary doubts regarding your decisions. Try not to overanalyze.

Oil crisis causes deja vu among U.S. car owners

NEW YORK (AP) — Shades of the Seventies. Americans are being asked to cut their power consumption and park their gas guzzlers because a Middle East conflict has crimped the flow of Arab oil.

There aren't any long lines at gas stations or odd-even rationing based on license plate numbers. And no one's been ordered to adjust the thermostat to a set level.

But car clubs and utilities have endorsed President Bush's appeal to conserve energy following

Nuke plant shuts down once again

GLEN ROSE, Texas (AP) — The woes at Comanche Peak just won't go away.

The nuclear power plant, which began generating power Tuesday following a forced two-week hiatus, shut itself down Wednesday after a steam valve malfunctioned.

"It's not going like we had hoped," said Mark Manroe, a spokesman for plant owner TU Electric.

Comanche Peak has had three other unplanned shutdowns since it began generating power in April. The others came on April 22, May 9 and May 27.

Operators began low-level testing at Comanche Peak in February, but plant operations were stopped July 26 after a steam valve unexpectedly opened twice in one week, causing cooling water to enter the plant's operational reactor.

TU and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission began independent investigations of the incidents, each of which was classified as an "unusual event" — the least serious of four levels of emergencies established by the NRC.

the world embargo imposed on Iraqi oil as punishment for the invasion of Kuwait.

"Motorists understand action needs to be taken to guarantee access to gasoline supplies, not only for their cars but for their jobs and employment," said Geoff Sundstrom, spokesman for the American Automobile Association.

In a letter to the White House on Wednesday, the AAA supported the president's Persian Gulf actions. It also re-instituted its gas watchers program, a collection of tips on cutting gas consumption first issued in the 1970s during the Arab oil embargo.

The AAA, which has 32 million members, said the average price of self-serve unleaded gasoline was $1.24 cents on Wednesday, an increase of almost four cents from the day before and a jump of 16.2 cents a gallon in a week.

Even car-crazy California is preaching energy conservation.

"Try to make five gallons do the work of six," said Tom Rohrer of the California Automobile Association.

Half the country's oil — about 8.4 million barrels a day — is imported. The nation's dependence on foreign oil was first underscored with Arab oil embargoes in 1973 and 1979. It has now hit home again.

"Americans everywhere must do their part," Bush said in a televised appeal for conservation.

There were more calls and visitors than normal Wednesday at the energy conservation center set up in 1979 by Consolidated Edison of New York. The office helps consumers choose the most efficient appliances and touts energy-saving fluorescent light bulbs.

"You don't have to change your lifestyle, but you do have to live smarter," said Harold McShane of Con Ed. "Conservation is important. We shouldn't just wait for a crisis to do something."

Services offered prompted moves to 4 Texas cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — People were attracted to Texas' four largest cities in the past decade because of the services they offer, a population specialist says.

Dallas-Fort Worth became an urban area with national influence during the 1980s. Houston and San Antonio were too tied to economic decisions elsewhere for that, Dr. William Frey of the University of Michigan's Population Studies Center, said Wednesday.

His study for the Washington-based Population Reference Bureau found less migration from the Snowbelt to the Sunbelt in the 1980s. But there was more from the heartland to the coasts and from the country to the city, Frey said.

"Urban areas in the 1980s and 1990s, as opposed to what happened in the immediate post war period, will be successful if they're more diversified in their economic activities," Frey said in a telephone interview from Ann Arbor, Mich.

Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston and Austin attracted many baby boomers during the 1980s. Those adults will be key to the stability of the cities during the decade, Frey said.

"After about age 35 or so, people tend to stop moving very much," Frey said. "These areas have been able to capture a large portion of the baby-boom generation after they've gotten into the more stable stages of the lifecycle."

Several of those cities fall into Frey's designations of "world cities" and "command and control centers." Strong service and cultural sectors have grown within them, he said.

Frey's so-called "world cities" — New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco, in Frey's view — play a major role in the global economy.

Dallas-Fort Worth, Atlanta and Minneapolis-St. Paul joined Boston, Philadelphia and St. Louis in the 1980s as "command and control centers," Frey said.

He categorized Houston, Texas' largest city, as a "specialized area" with strong economic ties to a single industry. The city's economy diversified after the mid-80s oil bust, which caused its growth rate to fall from 4.5 percent a year into negative figures near the decade's end.

Houston's experience should teach other one industry cities, including government-driven Washington and defense-driven San Diego, to diversify, Frey said.

San Antonio, the state's third-largest city, also qualifies as "specialized area" because its military- and tourism-based economy is driven by decisions made elsewhere, Frey said.

All three metropolitan areas and Austin were among the nation's fastest growing in the 1980s. Nearly one-third of the 1985 population in Houston, Dallas and Austin were baby-boomers, Frey said.

DWI felon admits numerous repeats

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A man who says he can't even remember how many times he has been convicted of drunken driving has been sentenced to life in prison after pleading guilty on two counts of involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of two people killed in an accident while he was driving drunk.

"He's lost count," said defense lawyer Bob Lindsey, who represented Raymond Paul Mayhall, 38, of Abilene.

Mayhall accepted a plea bargain that assessed him the maximum sentence on two counts in connection with the death of his nephew and a young Abilene woman.

Mayhall admitted recklessly causing an accident that resulted in the death of Donald Wayne Goff, 19, his nephew, and Donna Covington, 18. The victims were passengers in Mayhall's car when it crossed the center line and collided with another vehicle.

Witnesses to the crash said Mayhall was weaving through traffic at a high rate of speed when he lost control of his car and spun into oncoming traffic.

Cynthia Cordova of Abilene, the driver of the other car, was seriously injured and had medical expenses of about $250,000. Her son, Jared, 5, was also injured.

Lindsey said the life sentence for Mayhall represents far less time than he might have been sentenced to had he demanded a trial.

Mayhall received two life sentences, but the sentences will run concurrently. District Attorney James Eidson indicated he planned to try both cases separately and ask District Judge Don Lane to order the sentences to run consecutively. That would have required Mayhall to discharge one sentence before beginning the other.

"If they had stacked something on a life sentence he would have been down there for a long time," Lindsey said. "He might never have gotten out."

The prosecutor also indicated he was going to contend that Mayhall's car was a "deadly weapon." If a jury had agreed that the car was a "deadly weapon," Mayhall would have been required to serve one-fourth of his sentence before becoming eligible for parole.

Eidson said he conferred with Cordova as well as survivors of Goff and Covington before offering the plea bargain.

"We feel like it was as good as we could expect under the circumstances," Eidson said. "After all, this was the maximum sentence."

If a jury had found Mayhall guilty, Eidson would have been able to show that Mayhall had the other DWI convictions and also convictions on robbery and burglary charges.

Analysts want oil reserve tap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil industry analysts blame President Bush's reluctance to tap the nation's emergency oil stockpile after the Iraq-Kuwait crisis for much of the 15 cents more a gallon many Americans are now paying for gasoline.

"There's a real question why we should put the economy and consumers through all this pain when we have the oil available," said Adam Sieminski, an oil economist for Washington Analysis Corp.

Since Iraq invaded Kuwait last week and other nations agreed not to buy the 4.2 million barrels they had been exporting daily, oil prices have skyrocketed faster than any time since World War II, including the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

The United States built a 500-million-barrel Strategic Petroleum Reserve for just such a rainy day — at a cost of $20 billion to taxpayers over the past decade. Japan and most European countries also have built similar stockpiles totaling 425 million barrels.

Because there are countries that can still increase oil production — chiefly Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and Venezuela — administration officials maintain there is no oil shortage and no need to tap the reserve to drive down prices.

"There's an overhead of oil in the marketplace, thank God,"

Bush told a news conference Wednesday. "I hope that this rapid spike in oil prices will not be permanent. ... If the world begins to see assurances that there will not be a dramatic cut-down on oil, then things will return much more to normal in the market."

At a conference in Washington on Wednesday, Mexican Foreign Secretary Fernando Solana, announced that his country would send an additional 100,000 barrels of oil a day to the United States to help fill the 700,000-barrel-a-day gap caused by the embargo of Iraqi and Kuwaiti oil. The Mexican commitment is scheduled to last two months.

One government official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said there is "evidence on the ground" that Saudi Arabia is moving to increase its oil production along with the United Arab Emirates and Venezuela.

"But there's been no official acknowledgement of it; they're keeping quiet," he said. "We'll be pushing everybody who has any additional capacity to start using it."

Amid those reports, prices of Brent Blend and West Texas intermediate crude fell between $1.50 and $1.90 a barrel on the London and New York markets Wednesday from $27.40-$28.30 a day earlier. The prices averaged $19.40 in July.

Analysts said it would take up to a month to get all that incremental oil flowing, particularly from the Saudis.

The Energy Department says it can have oil flowing from the U.S. strategic reserve 16 days after a presidential decision to use it. Sieminski and other analysts estimate that it would more likely take a month.

Once oil is flowing, the Energy Department can pump up to 3.5 million barrels from the U.S. reserve, which is stored in salt caverns along the Texas and Louisiana coasts.

It would only take a fraction of that — 500,000 barrels a day — coupled with similar coordinated releases from the other world stockpiles to douse fears of shortages and the resulting speculation and hoarding, analysts said.

Medicaid contract audit now ordered

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox says the state's contract with National Heritage Insurance Co., which cut off Medicaid payments to doctors and hospitals because welfare department funds ran out, should be audited.

"I am wondering why (the Texas Department of Human Services) is paying millions of dollars in premiums to NHIC if NHIC can simply pass through all of the liability for actual claims to the department," Mattox said in a letter sent Wednesday to DHS Board Chairman Robert Mosbacher and Commissioner Ron Lindsey.

The insurance company says payments won't be made for services "on or after" July 25 and won't resume until the state sends more money. NHIC will continue to process claims.

Lindsey said the shortage can be covered if legislative leaders approve a $76 million fund transfer.

But Mattox said the Legislature is being asked to "bail out NHIC by transferring funds from other equally needy programs." He said NHIC receives a premium that presumably requires it to assume some risk for payment of claims.

"We all have the responsibility for insuring that in this time of budgetary crises, a private insurance company ... does not stand to derive undue benefits at the expense of the mentally retarded, elderly, blind and disabled persons of this state," Mattox said.
