New U.S. budget plan lacks specifics, says Sen. Gramm

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said early today he would vote against the budget resolution passed by the House a few hours earlier.

The Democrat-sponsored plan lacks specifics and "does not make any hard choices," Gramm said this morning.

"It instead dimly promises to make them in the future," Gramm said. "What we need today is not promises of action, it's action. I'm not going to vote for a budget that says we're going to do these things in the sweet by and by."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, could not immediately be reached for comment. An aide said the senator was on his way back to Washington from Texas this morning.

The Senate was set to convene this afternoon to vote on the resolution passed by the House in the morning's wee hours.

The new budget plan cuts $40 billion next year and $500 billion over five years from the federal deficit, the same as the plan worked out by White House and congressional negotiators in more than four months of talks. That first plan was rejected by the House early Friday, but most Texans supported it.

One of its most unpopular parts would have saved $60 billion by raising Medicare fees and cutting payments to hospitals and providers. The fee increases would have cost Texans $57 million over five years, according to one estimate. The new plan cuts Medicare savings to $20 billion — half of which might be made up with new taxes.

The new plan brings the total of new taxes to $145 billion, about 29 percent of the deficit savings, over the next five years. That is higher than the 27 percent of the original plan.

The original plan also outlined a specific tax program including new levies on gasoline, fuel oil, cigarettes, alcohol and other items. But the new one essentially leaves the specifics to the tax-writing committees — Ways and Means in the House and Finance in the Senate.

Bentsen, who chairs the Senate Finance Committee, will therefore play a larger role in the budget process under the new plan.

Sixteen of the 19 Democrats from Texas went for the plan in the House today. Seven of the (see BUDGET, page 8)

Enrollment topic for WTC trustees

The consideration of several bids and informational items, including an enrollment report, comprise much of a lengthy agenda as Western Texas College's board of trustees meets this evening.

The regular October meeting is scheduled for 5:45 p.m. in the college board room.

Trustees will hear enrollment reports at the local college and its extension campuses, including the Price Daniel Unit. Also scheduled are reports on the General Education Development (GED) and English as a Second Language (ESL) programs.

Items of business include the approval of the small class report and ratification of tuition and fees for the auto mechanics program at the Daniel Unit. Trustees will also consider bids for a car, a van, and computers for the office careers department.

Pre-bid consideration will be given for a gooseneck trailer for the college farm, locks for the dormitory and a convection oven.

The enrollment report at the Daniel Unit is expected to show some 107 inmates taking 148 spaces in 12 classes for the fall, 1990 semester.

WTC shows an enrollment of 1,060 this fall, as compared to 1,144 a year ago. Contact hours are down slightly from 259,824 to 250,816 and semester hours are at 10,479, as compared to 11,145 a year ago.

67 apply for next guard class

Sixty-seven people have applied for the next daytime correctional officer academy class at Western Texas College, scheduled to begin Nov. 5.

Testing for the class will be held Oct. 23.

Those applying included 40 caucasian males, 15 Hispanic males, three black males, four caucasian females, three Hispanic females and one black male.

Testing begins Tuesday on the next evening guard class, scheduled to begin Oct. 20 and run through Dec. 13. A breakdown on applicants was not available.

Two U.S. choppers missing; ships uphold trade embargo

by The Associated Press
Two U.S. Marine helicopters with eight men aboard were reported missing in the Gulf of Oman today, and warships upholding the trade embargo forced an Iraqi tanker to stop and submit to a search. British, Australian and American warships fired warning shots across the bow of the Iraqi freighter to halt it in the Gulf of Oman.

The freighter was empty and was allowed to continue on its way, presumably to Iraq, British defense officials said.

Nationwide Express mail offered here

Beginning Tuesday, Snyder Post Office will be offering one-day guaranteed delivery to all major markets in the United States.

The expanded Express Mail network has not been available in the past outside of Texas because of time factors.

The cut-off time to have Express packages at the post office will be 2:15 p.m. The post office will also be offering a $4 pick-up service to businesses that call before 1 p.m.

If a business has Express going out everyday or the same day each week, the $4 fee will be waived. There is no fee other than the charge for Express itself for anyone bringing mail to the post office.

The basic Express fee is $8.75 up to eight ounces sent anywhere in the United States. From eight ounces to two pounds, the cost is $12. The office has Express Mail postage stamps in the $8.75 denomination. Businesses which have a meter may use postage meter strips.

For more information on Express Mail, contact 573-2261.

TWC slates hearing to discuss proposed Mitchell incinerator

A public meeting has been scheduled by Texas Water Commission Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Colorado City at the high school auditorium.

During the meeting — planned at the request of the Mitchell County Advisory Committee — representatives of the TWC will explain the agency's hazardous waste permitting and hearing process and its enforcement program.

Mitchell County Commissioners signed a host agreement with National Waste and Energy Development (NWED) of Pittsburgh, Penn., in March for a proposed hazardous waste incinerator and landfill. If constructed, the facility would be located just west of the Westbrook community near the Howard-Mitchell County border.

TWC is responsible for permitting and regulating such facilities.

According to TWC, the agency has not yet received a permit application from NWED.

Opposition to the proposed facility has steadily increased since the agreement was signed earlier this year. Opponents of the facility say that dioxins created from incineration of hazardous waste could infiltrate ground water and local crops that are eaten by livestock which is later consumed by people.

Snyder City Council passed a resolution officially opposing the proposed hazardous waste facility in its October meeting Monday night. They join Scurry County Commissioners, Howard County Commissioners and Western (see HEARING, page 8)

Ask Us

Q—Is it true that the Colorado River Municipal Water District is building another lake in Mitchell County?

A—No, it won't be a lake. It will be a holding reservoir for surplus non-potable water from the Beals Creek watershed above Lake Spence. The CRMWD board is expected to award a construction contract this month for the reservoir, which will be located in western Mitchell County about five miles south of Interstate 20. The reservoir will cover about 1,470 surface acres. It will not be open to the public.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: It's Fire Prevention Week again. The theme this year is: "Make Your Place Firesafe: Hunt for Home Hazards."

Last year, 5,410 people died in fires in the USA. And 80 percent of those people died in their own homes. These fires could have been prevented.

Abby, please make your readers aware of how they can protect themselves and their families.

ROBERT W. GRANT, PRESIDENT, NATIONAL FIRE PROTECTION ASSOCIATION

DEAR MR. GRANT AND READERS: I'll send up a few smoke signals. First, I have good news and bad news. The good news: Since smoke detectors first became available in 1970, 75 percent of the homes in the United States have been equipped with them.

Now for the bad news: One-third of the smoke detectors are inoperative — in plain English, they don't work! Why? Dead batteries.

Your friendly neighborhood firefighters suggest that on Sunday, Oct. 28, when you turn back your clocks from daylight-saving time, put new batteries in your smoke detectors.

Some lifesaving tips on fire safety: Hunt for electrical hazards. Overloaded electrical outlets, fuses of improper size, frayed cords, cords run under carpets or pinned tightly to the wall are potential fire hazards. Also, don't plug more than one appliance into an extension cord. And when an appliance is not in use, disconnect it.

More lifesaving tips: After parties, before retiring, check your ashtrays for smoldering cigarette butts, and carefully examine all upholstered chairs and sofas to make sure that no "live" cigarette butts have fallen between the cushions. (Most fires occur between 8 p.m. and 8 a.m. when people are sleeping.)

Never use flammable liquid for dry cleaning indoors.

Have periodic fire drills in your home to be sure everybody knows how to get out of the house in case of fire.

When cooking out, never use flammable liquids near live coals. An explosion or flash fire could result. If you use a propane gas grill, always have the lighted match in position before you turn on the gas.

For a merry Christmas tree, choose one that does not have shedding needles, and keep it standing in water while it's in the house. If you choose an artificial tree, choose one that's flame-resistant.

If you use a portable heater, place it away from furniture, draperies and paper. Remember, the surface heat of some little portables may reach 500 degrees, so keep a careful watch on your children and warn them to keep away from heaters.

Take spring cleaning seriously — clean out your attic, basement, garage and workshop. Throw out trash and combustibles such as rags, newspapers, magazines, boxes of books, etc.

Never smoke while fueling powered lawn mowers or chain saws. And if you must store gasoline, store it in a ventilated area in a container designed especially for that purpose. Store paint and oily rags in a metal container with a tight lid.

Invest in easy-to-use fire extinguishers for your kitchen, bedrooms, and on your boat — if you have one.

The telephone number of your fire department should be taped to every telephone in your house. If it isn't, should a fire occur, don't waste time trying to find the number; get out and call the fire department from a neighbor's house. And once you're out — stay out.

A final shout: Never smoke in bed. And keep your chimneys clean.

Laredo's economic growth proves boon for 'Boys' Town'

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP) — Economic growth in Laredo has translated to boom times for "Boys' Town," a red-light district in neighboring Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, which is adding more nightclubs and brothels to accommodate increased business.

Laredo, a city of 110,000, has added 11,000 new jobs in the past five years and since 1986 has quadrupled the number of "maquiladoras," assembly plants operating on both sides of the border.

"The busiest landport in the United States, Laredo has the fastest growing economy in Texas. About 60 percent of the projected $72 billion in U.S.-Mexico trade this year will flow through Laredo-Nuevo Laredo.

And as the number of border jobs grow, so does the population across the Rio Grande as workers arrive from other economically depressed areas. Some 30 percent of Nuevo Laredo's 400,000 residents are recent arrivals — most of them young, single women from cities and villages in deep Mexico.

"We've got more people here than we have had in 20 years," said Louis Sandoval, 40, owner of the Manhattan Club, a bar with seven prostitutes. "Clubs that had closed down have opened up.

New gasolines considered

HOUSTON (AP) — Eight oil companies that have introduced reformulated gasoline could soon be getting a hand from Congress in establishing a market for their cleaner burning fuels.

Reformulated gasoline lowers smog-forming hydrocarbon emissions and harmful carbon monoxide exhaust. Congress, considering a national Clean Air legislation, already has ordered the fuels tested in nine smog-plagued cities, including Houston.

The new gasoline could account for 35 percent to 50 percent of what is sold in the United States when new clean air rules go into effect in several years, said Carlton R. Jones of Arthur D. Little consulting firm in Houston.

Atlantic Richfield Co. introduced its environmental grade in California a year ago, but the first reformulated gasoline hit the streets of Houston only five months ago when Shell introduced premium SU 2000E.

Exxon followed the next month with Exxon Plus and Exxon Supreme. Exxon is the largest purveyor of reformulated gasoline, selling it in 50 cities. About one-half of all the gasoline it makes is reformulated, said Gordon Thomson, Exxon Co. U.S.A.'s vice president of marketing.

Diamond Shamrock, Marathon, Chevron, Phillips 66 and Conoco also sell reformulated gasoline in other cities.

"I've always been environmentally conscious. I recycle everything. I eat organically grown food. I'd just as soon we drive solar-powered cars," said Dennis Banks, 39, as he pumped Shell's SU 2000E into his pickup recently.

But Banks acknowledges he buys the gas not so much because it's good for the air, but because it's better for his truck's fuel injectors.

Several polls, however, show most of the driving public is more concerned about the price than what the emissions will do to the environment.

"When people respond to surveys, they're very altruistic," said Blake Eskew of Purvin & Gertz, a Houston-based consulting firm specializing in refining. "When they're at the gas station making their purchase decision, they react to price," Eskew told the Houston Chronicle.

For now, reformulated gasoline is selling for about the same price as premium unleaded, because of price competition. But analysts say the price will increase 7 to 12 cents a gallon within four or five years to cover production costs.

President Bush's son's oil company has ties to Bahrain

HOUSTON (AP) — George W. Bush, the president's eldest son, is a director, stockholder and consultant to a Texas oil company with a potentially lucrative drilling project in the Persian Gulf, The Houston Post reported.

In a copyright story Sunday, the newspaper reported Dallas-based Harken Energy Corp. signed an agreement in January with Bahrain for exclusive rights to explore, develop, produce, transport and market oil and gas throughout the Arab island nation's offshore territories.

The younger Bush, who was paid $120,000 last year as a consultant to Harken, told The Post he saw no connection between the U.S. military buildup in the region and the company's drilling program.

"No, I don't feel American troops in Saudi Arabia are preserving George Bush Jr.'s drilling prospects. I think that is a little farfetched," said Bush, who also serves as managing general partner of the Texas Rangers baseball franchise.

The Pentagon says more than 170,000 U.S. troops have been deployed to the Persian Gulf since Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

Harken announced earlier this year that it will drill its first well in early 1991 north of Bahrain, which is located off the east coast of Saudi Arabia and 200 miles southeast of Kuwait.

"We have experienced a few logistical delays to date because of the political situation, but not severe (ones)," said Harken spokesman Dale Brooks. "We would, however, expect if hostilities broke out, we would have greater delays."

Bush told The Post it would be "inappropriate" to say U.S. armed forces in the Persian Gulf region are protecting Harken's drilling rights off Saudi Arabia. "I don't think there is any connection," Bush said.

A Sept. 3 article in "Forbes" magazine on Harken's Bahrain deal reported, "Bahrain's strategic Persian Gulf location will make the issue of oil exploration somewhat academic if the area turns into a war zone. But when peace comes, the Bahrain exploration rights could be immensely valuable." News accounts last year identified Bush as Harken's second largest individual stockholder, falling behind the Harvard University endowment fund, which held nearly 30 percent of the stock.

But the president's son said he now is a "small, insignificant" stockholder in Harken. The oil company's 1989 annual report showed that he owned 345,426 shares of the company's common stock, or 1.1 percent of the total.

Bush said he reduced his stake in Harken shortly before Iraq invaded Kuwait. He said he sold about 225,000 shares sometime "in June or July" and now owns 120,000 shares.

Oil price hikes may have little impact on funds

AUSTIN (AP) — Iraqi president Saddam Hussein may provide Texas students with more than another current events lesson.

The United States' intervention in the Persian Gulf has sent oil prices soaring. That in turn had provided extra short term revenue to the Permanent School Fund and Permanent University Fund, which benefit both colleges and public schools in Texas.

But state officials said the accompanying volatility could hurt other fund investments.

They also said that any increase in revenue probably won't be significant compared to the multi-billion costs of education.

"Everybody gets excited about $35 a barrel oil, but you just can't bank on it," said Dave Roberts, a spokesman for the General Land Office, which administers the Permanent School Fund.

Since the Aug. 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, crude oil prices have more than doubled, topping $40 per 42-gallon barrel at one point before falling back to $37.99 Friday.

Texas' top oil regulator, Railroad Commission Chairman Kent Hance, says the price could jump to $50 per barrel soon and $75 per barrel if war breaks out.

Texas' two permanent education funds includes millions of acres of mineral-rich lands.

The Permanent School Fund

lands have a book value of about $9 billion and produces income through grazing and mineral leases and royalties from oil and gas production.

The interest on these investments is distributed to the state's school districts.

In the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, the income totaled $670 million or $223 per public school student, said Walter Arellano, chief investment officer for the PSF with the Texas Education Agency.

State, local and federal spending in public schools is about $14 billion per year.

Arellano said oil revenue accounts for only about a quarter of the fund's income, meaning rising prices will have a lessened overall impact. In addition, increased energy prices may spark a recession nationally, he said.

"Along with the rest of the country we would suffer. That would negate the additional receipts of crude oil," he said.

The other trust fund is the Permanent University Fund. Income from investments on this $3.5 billion fund are shared by the University of Texas System, the Texas A&M University System and Prairie View A&M University.

Dan Burck, vice chancellor for the University of Texas System, said the increases in oil prices won't have a significant impact.

Woten dies in traffic accident

AUSTIN (AP) — A Dallas man who received a pardon after spending nearly eight years in prison for a supermarket robbery he did not commit was killed in a traffic accident, authorities say. Michael Anthony Woten, who was freed from state prison Feb. 14, 1990, with a gubernatorial pardon, died early Sunday in Austin after the pickup he was driving went out of control and overturned on a highway embankment southeast of Austin.

Texas Department of Public Safety trooper Leo Pena said Woten was still alive when he arrived at the accident scene early Sunday. He said Woten, 36, had suffered a heart attack following the accident and was flown to Austin in a helicopter.

Woten died about 15 minutes after he was taken to the emergency room of Brackenridge Hospital.

John Wayne Ferris, 21, a passenger in the pickup truck, was hospitalized with a broken ankle and a leg injury.

Woten was freed after the Dallas Times Herald uncovered evidence that Woten was with a long-distance trucker near Oklahoma City at the time the Dallas supermarket was robbed.

Friends said Woten had been living in Austin, where he worked for the Healthcare Rehabilitation Center and at the St. Dismas Halfway House.

He had been spending his night for the past week with his wife's grandmother, Birdie Martinet, who cared for Woten's adoptive son while he was in prison.

Ms. Martinet said she and her family, who live on Social Security pension benefits, have no money to pay for Woten's funeral.

Woten's legal problems began May 5, 1982, when he stopped at what was then a Safeway supermarket in North Dallas.

Christian prison inmates build home for needy family

HOUSTON (AP) — At a time when many residents are rallying against housing prisoners in their neighborhoods, a Houston church congregation opened its homes to four federal prisoners armed with hammers and nails.
 "I was scared to death," said Matthew Criswell, construction manager for Houston Habitat for Humanity, which helps provide homes for poor people.
 "When I got the word they were sending us four prisoners, I automatically started asking questions: 'Are we going to have to keep an armed guard here? Are they going to do what I say? Am I going to have to keep them away from telephones?'"
 "Now I just wish they were back, doing more work," he said.
 Last week, three convicted drug dealers and an income tax evader — all members of a Christian prison program — helped build a four-bedroom house for a needy family in an impoverished Houston neighborhood.
 The prisoners didn't get special privileges or time off their sentences for the work, but it didn't matter to inmate Calvin Edwards, 33, who said he was working for the Lord.
 "It's been a blessing for me to be out helping people," he said.
 The effort was co-sponsored by Houston Habitat Humanity and Prison Fellowship-Houston.
 The latter is a part of Prison Fellowship USA, founded in 1976 by Charles Colson, a Nixon administration aide sentenced to prison for his role in the Watergate scandal.
 Under the program, volunteers approved by their prison's warden and chaplain are allowed to take hammers and saws into the community to help others.
 "They do construction or renovation for needy families that couldn't be met through conventional financing," said Don Beard of Crossroads Baptist Church, which found homes for the inmates during their week of construction work in Houston. Other churches provided lunches.
 "They stayed with these families ... showed up every night for Bible study and then they went to the job site between 8:30 a.m. and nightfall," said Beard, himself a former inmate convicted of embezzlement.

Psychic says...

As Monday goes, so goes the 1990s

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Maybe you should remember what you were doing between 1 and 2 p.m. today.
 A psychic who successfully predicted the 1987 stock market crash, $35-a-barrel oil prices and the flurry of 1988 earthquakes says those 60 minutes could be a bellwether for the rest of the 20th Century.
 "If people want to see the future, observe Oct. 8 between 1 and 2 p.m. Texas (Central) time," psychic Sean Harribance told the San Antonio Express-News.
 The stock market, weather, economy and politics should behave for the rest of the 1990s in the same fashion, said Harribance, who is originally from Trinidad and now lives in Sugar Land, near Houston.
 In San Antonio, where he has spent his summers for the past 17 years, he made several predictions this summer, including an ominous feeling about Oct. 8.
 If the stock market plunges Monday, it's a bad forecast for overall market performance through the 1990s, he says.
 "If it's bad weather, it's an indication the weather in the '90s is going to get worse."
 On the other hand, he said, if the market improves markedly, its future will be better than his generally gloomy forecast suggests.
 The entire last three weeks of October should give a strong indication of what the 1990s have in store in terms of weather, the stock market, politics and other issues, he said.
 Harribance said he hasn't been able to pin down exactly what will happen Oct. 8.

 That may cause skeptics to shake their heads, but Harribance made several predictions Aug. 22, 1986, and Oct. 20 and 21, 1988 — most of which came true.
 In 1986, Harribance predicted in print that:
 — the stock market would tumble in the fall of 1987.
 — there would be major earthquakes around 1988. (Remember Armenia, Iran, the Philippines and San Francisco?)
 — Moslem nations would unite and lead the world to World War III, probably in 1996.
 — oil prices, then below $10 a barrel, would rise to $35 or $40 a barrel in 1989 or 1990.

 Unsuccessful predictions were that President Reagan might leave office before the end of his term, that President Nixon and Henry Kissinger might die in the next couple of years, and that Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis might ride his dark horse candidacy into the White House.
 Harribance sees a colder-than-normal November for Texas and unusual weather on Jan. 16, 19, 26 and 27.
 The psychic said the stock market will drop this fall about 200 points, with a bigger drop in May or June of 1991 and an even larger drop in the summer of 1992.

 "The market may rally in the spring of 1991. It may rally 300 or 400 points for a couple of months, then fall again."
 Harribance says the Persian Gulf crisis is part of the path toward World War III, but according to his 1986 predictions, a full-scale war isn't fated to happen until about 1996.
 "I don't see a bloody war yet," he says. "My feeling is that the U.N. or the international community will settle this."

Ex-klansman ponders political future after strong showing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U.S. Sen. J. Bennett Johnston won a fourth term, but former Ku Klux Klan grand wizard David Duke says his strong showing may translate into the beginning of a national political agenda.
 "Or maybe a run at the Louisiana governorship."
 Duke claimed 44 percent of the vote in Saturday's race against Johnston, a Democrat who had always been easily re-elected.
 "I'm very committed to making political changes in this state and in this country. I've got to be very encouraged by this election," Duke said at a news conference Sunday. "I want to move forward. I want to make an impact. I want to make a difference."

 Johnston, who got 54 percent of the vote, said he "got the message" from the more than 600,000 people who voted for Duke, but he added that he would not become more conservative, claiming much of Duke's showing was the result of rocky economic times in Louisiana.
 During the bitter campaign, Duke attacked affirmative action, forced busing and welfare abuse. He also attacked Johnston for playing a key role in the Senate campaign to reject conservative Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork and for backing the 1990 Civil Rights Act.
 "I knew David Duke had a tremendous appeal. There's frustration out there. When people are unemployed and underemployed, it's easy to blame it on someone else," Johnston said. "It's easy to blame it on affirmative action."

 Complete but unofficial returns gave Johnston 749,552 votes, or 54 percent, and Duke 605,681 votes, or 44 percent. Two minor Democratic candidates split the remainder. Nick Accardo had 21,709 votes and Larry Crowe had 14,472 votes.
 Ed Renwick of Loyola University's Institute of Politics said Duke, a member of the state Legislature, may have lost the election, but gained national attention.

Despite what Bush says, cops say drugs still biggest problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush says America is making progress in the war against drugs, but cops on the nation's streets say it's still pretty bad out there and not getting any better.
 "It's getting worse by leaps and bounds," said police Lt. Josh Landers of Yonkers, N.Y., one of more than two dozen law enforcement officials nationwide surveyed by The Associated Press. "It's crazy."
 "We're dying out here," said narcotics Detective Margaret Gagnon in Willimantic, Conn., a town of about 15,000. "We're inundated with drug dealers. Our neighborhoods are totally destroyed."

"Anyone who tells you we've turned the corner and we're winning the war, that's hogwash," said a Miami-based Drug Enforcement Administration agent who spoke on condition of anonymity.
 Bush and national drug control policy director William J. Bennett emphasized the positive during a Sept. 5 White House session marking the first anniversary of the administration's drug strategy.
 They pointed to a slight decrease in hospital emergency room admissions for cocaine and heroin, attitudinal surveys showing growing opposition to drug use, and signs that the supply of the nation's most disruptive drug — cocaine — had been reduced, reflected in higher prices and lower purity.

 The AP survey of cities from Miami to Yakima, Wash., found that cocaine has indeed become more expensive and less pure in most areas. When the DEA found similar changes during the summer, it concluded there was a cocaine shortage that may be partly caused by suppliers rigging the market to increase profits.
 "What we're hearing on the streets is they say it's just dry out there," said police Detective Daryl Higgins of Tacoma, Wash. "They can't get nothing. A year ago, that was almost a non-existent statement."
 One city that exemplifies the changes is Brownsville, Texas, on the Mexican border. Last September, a kilogram of cocaine cost $14,000 to $15,000 and was 90 percent to 95 percent pure. This fall, a kilo — 2.2 pounds — costs about $20,000, and the purity has dropped to 60 percent to 65 percent, said Armando Ramirez.

Up, up and away

By James Jacoby
 You might not feel ready to play in the finals of a North American Knock-out Team Championship, but take heart. After looking this week at some deals from the Spingold finals held last July, you might believe you could occasionally do as well as the best American players.
 In today's deal, North-South got to a shaky slam. North's jump to four clubs was a special bid showing four-card spade support, a singleton club and substantial extra high-card values. South simply assumed there would be enough for a good play for 12 tricks if the side was not off two key cards. (Key cards are aces and the king of trumps.) So he bid four no-trump. North's five-club response showed zero or three key cards. South knew that had to be three to justify North's strong bidding, so he bid the slam.
 On a good day that would have been fine. The opponents would not lead trumps; the heart king would be on side, and the defenders would have to follow to three rounds of diamonds. That way declarer could take his side-suit high-card winners and then cross-ruff the rest. But not today. With the heart king badly placed, there was no play for six.
 With a worthless queen of clubs and a big hole in his own heart holding, South, I think, should have made a temporizing false cue-bid of four diamonds over the four-club splitter bid. North would presumably bid four hearts, and South would then bid four spades. That would give the message of slam interest without certainty. North might well then decide to pass, since he could have held more for his bidding.

Anti-gang crusader's son slain in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Activist Cookie Rodriguez has worked so hard at saving this city's youth from street violence that she's been called the "Mother Teresa" of Dallas gangs.
 But this weekend, she learned of one she couldn't save — her own son.
 Ms. Rodriguez and members of her urban mission, the Street Church Academy, were washing cars to raise funds Saturday when police told her someone had shot and killed her 22-year-old son Danny as he drove near his apartment early Saturday.
 "She took it very hard," said Dallas police homicide detective Steve L'Huillier. "She's a very caring person."
 Police said they had no suspects in the shooting of the aspiring religious singer. But they said it did not appear to be gang related.
 Rodriguez was shot in the chest outside his East Dallas apartment complex shortly before 4 a.m. Police found him minutes later when a car he was driving went out of control and smashed into a pole about three blocks away.
 Authorities were unsure whether he was shot while in the car.
 He died early Saturday as surgeons tried to recover a bullet from his chest. He also was battered from the car accident. But officials said the gunshot was the cause of death.

 Rodriguez was a counselor and tutor at the academy, which was founded by his parents to help teen-agers turn away from gangs.
 "He worked side-by-side with his mother," said Daniel Molina, a student at the southeast Dallas program. "She was always protective of him and cared so much for him."
 Molina said Rodriguez had dedicated his life to Christianity and to helping youth, and often would invite students to his house to keep them out of trouble.

You're Never Too Old To Hear Better.

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.
 It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.
 These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample send your name, address, and phone number today to: Department 98464, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Dallas runs past Tampa Bay

Emmitt Smith gains 123 yards in Cowboys' 14-10 victory

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Rookie Emmitt Smith paid the first dividends on his lucrative Dallas Cowboys contract with a performance that had his opponents applauding.

Smith, a first-round pick out of Florida who missed all of training camp, rushed for 123 yards and scored the game-winning touchdown on a 14-yard, fourth-quarter run Sunday in a 14-10 victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

"I didn't expect anyone to rush over 100 yards against us this season," said Tampa Bay linebacker Broderick Thomas. "I take my hat off to him and I'll see him in two weeks."

The Cowboys (2-3) meet the 3-2 Bucs again at Tampa Bay on Oct. 21. The Bucs are 0-7 against Dallas.

Dallas had only one 100-yard rushing game last year in its dismal 1-15 season. Paul Palmer gained 110 yards against Kansas City.

It was the most yards rushing by a Dallas running back since Herschel Walker gained 134 yards against Cleveland on Dec. 4, 1988. Walker was traded last year to Minnesota.

Smith said he could've and should've done better.

"I showed myself a little today but I still didn't get an opportunity to shake and bake like I like to do," Smith said. "I felt confident but I think I can do much better."

It was the first time Dallas had won two home games since 1987.

Tampa Bay coach Ray Perkins was flabbergasted by the Cowboys' ability to run the ball.

"They ran it better against us than I thought they would," Perkins admitted. "I didn't think they were a good running football team. At least they hadn't been up to this point."

Tampa Bay's Vinny

Testaverde, the NFL's most proficient passer, hit 13 of 21 passes for 194 yards but the Dallas defense held him to only one scoring pass.

It was a 58-yarder over the middle that Gary Anderson turned into a score after free safety James Washington fell down.

Dallas built a 7-3 halftime lead on Troy Aikman's 12-yard scoring pass to Jay Novacek.

The Testaverde-to-Anderson connection put Tampa Bay ahead 10-7 before Smith stole the show in the fourth period.

"We were a bad football team today," Perkins said. "We didn't deserve to win. We dropped passes on third down and fumbled the ball on the five-yard line. You can't do those things and win in this league."

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said, "The defense played as good as it has played all year. We had some breakdowns but Tampa Bay has a very talented football team."

Andrews golfers win WTC tourney

The First Gary Schoen Memorial Golf Tournament was won last weekend by the Andrews twosome of David Burgen and Mike Campbell.

Burgen and Campbell combined for a 61-66-127 tally in the 36-hole scramble tournament Saturday and Sunday to win in the Championship Flight.

"It was a successful tournament and we hope for bigger and better things in the years to come," said Western Texas College athletic director David Foster.

"We would like to thank everyone who gave us help and donations including Mr. and Mrs. Gary Schoen, Travis and Helen Hatter, Ken Davis, Robert Holt, Robert Scott and Glen Patterson."

Foster continued, "Thanks are also offered to the 1988-89 golf team which bought and planted a tree on the back of No. 9 green in memory of Gary. Team members who donated were Lance Jones, Wade Hatter, David Turrentine, Jeff Baker and Mark Burgen."

The tournament, which is planned as an annual event, was held in memory of Schoen, a member and captain of the 1968-69 Westerner golf team. He was killed in an automobile accident in October of last year.

Proceeds from the tournament go toward funding the Gary Schoen Scholarship Foundation at WTC.

Mark Burgen of Andrews combined with Hamilton's Gary Schoen, Sr. to take second place in Championship Flight with a 64-64-128.

David Sharrock and John Medicott, of Snyder and Sweetwater, respectively, outlasted two other teams for third place carding a 65-66-131.

The duo lost Berger's Jeff Baker and Billy Brock of Snyder, who registered a 131 total on rounds of 66 and 65, on the first playoff hole and then eased past the last team knotted with a 131 total, Randy Weaver and David Holt, both of Snyder, on playoff hole No. 4.

Jeff Bill and Jim Bill of Andrews claimed first position in First Flight with their 66-63-131 followed by Tony Smith and Tommy Lay of San Angelo who notched a 136 total on identical rounds of 68 each.

Toby Black of Sterling City and Snyder's Bob Doolittle took third place with a 70-66-136 after falling in two holes of sudden-death to Smith and Lay.

The top prize in Second Flight went to Coahoma's Donnie Buchanan and R.V. Corbell of Snyder.

The duo teamed up for a 70-71-141 score which bested Sweetwater's Don Brock and Ray Hill of Snyder who ended up at 73-70-143.

Rick Hall and Eicke Perry nabbed third place after rounds of 76 and 69 for a 145 tally.

Saturday's longest drives went to Billy Brock in Championship Flight, First Flight's Jeff Bill and Steve Smith in Second Flight.

David Burgen took closest to the hole honors in play Saturday on No. 1 while Gene Steakley and Tommie Phillips wound up nearest the pin on No. 1 and No. 6, respectively, in Sunday competition.

BoSox lose 4-1... A's take 2-0 LCS advantage

BOSTON (AP) — The Oakland Athletics are looking for an early fall break before the World Series.

And, after two decisive victories in Boston, the A's figure to get it.

They just also may become the favorite to repeat as World Series champ, no matter who the National League sends against them.

Oakland became the 15th team in 22 years to take a 2-0 lead in the AL playoffs as it humbled the Boston Red Sox 4-1 Sunday night just 24 hours after a 9-1 romp on a seven-run ninth inning.

Most Oakland players, with the notable exception of Rickey Henderson, hedged when asked about a sweep of the best-of-7 series.

However, the record is clear: 12 of 14 winners of the first two games in the playoffs have gone on to win the AL pennant and the World Series.

With Harold Baines driving in three runs with a double, single and infield grounder, the Athletics posted their 19th playoff victory, an AL record.

That includes a 6-0 mark against Boston, starting with a four-game sweep of the Red Sox in 1988. Boston tied the major league playoff record for most losses in a row.

Sluggo Jose Canseco said after Oakland's first-game victory that Boston would be dead if it lost the first two games at home. Henderson was even more emphatic when asked about the possibility of returning to Fenway Park next weekend.

"No, we won't be back here," Henderson said. "If they can beat us two out of three in Oakland, then there's something wrong with us."

Willie McGee and Mark McGwire dodged questions of a sweep before the two teams took charter flights to Oakland for Game 3 on Tuesday night.

"We ain't thinking about that," McGee said.

"It's impossible to think about that," McGwire said. "We're just concentrating on Game 3."

The A's won out eight of the 12 games this season from the Red Sox, including a three-game sweep in Boston in early September.

Boston beat the odds, winning 88 games and edging Toronto for the East Division title on the final day of a 162-game schedule.

The playoff line on Oakland against Boston was superior pitching, particularly in the bullpen, faster in every speed category and explosive power.

The A's lived up to all that except, surprisingly, the power department. They had 13 hits in each game in Fenway Park, but only three went for extra bases, all doubles.

"All the hits and yet we stayed in the game," Boston manager Joe Morgan said after the second-game loss. "One clout and we could have done it."

Boston's starting pitchers threw well in the first two games. However, Roger Clemens and rookie Dana Kiecker were outpitched by Dave Stewart and then Bob Welch.

Clemens, still recovering from tendinitis in his right shoulder, which sidelined him for 24 days in September, didn't allow a run in six innings in the first game. Stewart allowed only four hits and one run as the A's rallied to pull out the victory.

Kiecker gave up one run in 5 2-3 innings, but Welch surrendered just one in 7 1-3 innings.

The difference in the two games was the bullpens. Boston's was responsible for both losses. Larry Andersen, Jeff Gray, Dennis Lamp failed miserably Saturday night. Greg Harris and Jeff Reardon joined them in Game 2.

As in the first game, Boston took a 1-0 lead in Game 2 on a sacrifice fly by Carlos Quintana in the third inning. After that, though, Welch, a 27-game winner during the regular season, and relievers Rick Honeycutt and Dennis Eckersley shut down the Red Sox.

Baines, acquired from Texas on Aug. 29, tied the game in the fourth with an RBI single, scoring McGee, who was acquired the same day in a deal with St. Louis.

After failing to score despite four singles in the sixth, Oakland took a 2-1 lead on an RBI grounder by Baines with the bases loaded in the seventh. The A's added two more runs in the ninth on a double by Baines and a single by McGwire.

Snyder tennis players dropped a pair of practice matches Saturday in a performance attributed to Friday night's homecoming activities by net coach Charlie Chrane.

"Over all, we looked like we were playing the day after homecoming," he said.

Snyder fell to Monahans, 13-12, and to Abilene Cooper's JV, 16-9.

Marcus Best was a four-time winner including a 3-6, 6-1, 6-3 come-from-behind match over Monahans' top-seeded Raymond Villa, twin 6-3 set wins over Cooper's top boy David Robertson and a pair of doubles wins with SHS teammate Kevin McMillan.

McMillan and Best dumped the Abilene duo of Chris Proctor and Kevin Priestner 6-3, 6-2 and outlasted Monahans' Villa and Orlando Ortega, 6-3, 6-1.

Michael Hess also was undefeated Saturday in a pair of singles matches and doubles with partner Jason Warren.

Christina Gonzales paced the Snyder girls' squad with wins over Lady Lobo Brenda Curbow, 6-4, 6-3, and Abilene's Suzanne O'Laughlin, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3.

Gonzales and Snyder's Leslie Sandoval knocked off O'Laughlin and Kathleen Allen in doubles play, 6-2, 6-3, as well as the MHS duo of Janice Phillips and Brenda Watson, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

Willie McGee and Mark McGwire dodged questions of a sweep before the two teams took charter flights to Oakland for Game 3 on Tuesday night.

"We ain't thinking about that," McGee said.

"It's impossible to think about that," McGwire said. "We're just concentrating on Game 3."

The A's won out eight of the 12 games this season from the Red Sox, including a three-game sweep in Boston in early September.

Boston beat the odds, winning 88 games and edging Toronto for the East Division title on the final day of a 162-game schedule.

The playoff line on Oakland against Boston was superior pitching, particularly in the bullpen, faster in every speed category and explosive power.

The A's lived up to all that except, surprisingly, the power department. They had 13 hits in each game in Fenway Park, but only three went for extra bases, all doubles.

"All the hits and yet we stayed in the game," Boston manager Joe Morgan said after the second-game loss. "One clout and we could have done it."

Boston's starting pitchers threw well in the first two games. However, Roger Clemens and rookie Dana Kiecker were outpitched by Dave Stewart and then

49ers slip by Oilers, 24-21

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers have discovered that good defense and timely offense do not always add up to victory against defending world champion San Francisco.

The Oilers (2-3) took a 21-14 lead into the fourth quarter Sunday before Joe Montana rallied the 49ers to a touchdown and field goal — aided by a timely timeout called by Houston — for a 24-21 victory and an NFL record 12th consecutive road triumph.

"The Oilers can really play football with the best of them," said Montana, who completed three touchdowns passes, including a 46-yard game winner to John Taylor with 6:51 left in the game.

"A win is a win. In the second half, we started running more crossing routes and I think that was the major adjustment that worked."

Westerners nab 3rd at SRSU

ALPINE — Eric Mouton and Troy Cattoor wound up first and second in bareback riding and Scot Berger snatched the top position in steer wrestling to lead the Western Texas College rodeo team to a third place finish in the weekend Sul Ross State University rodeo here.

Mouton carried a 64 into Sunday's short go and scored a 75 on his mount in the finals to win the event with a total score of 139.

Cattoor was just three points back taking a first place 68 into the Sunday rodeo performance where he received another 68 for his effort for a 136 score.

Berger had a two-head time of 11.7 seconds after finishing in second place in the long-go with a

Lamesa beats SHS to gain first place

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Lamesa's Lady Tors stormed in and took sole possession of first place in District 2-4A Saturday with a 15-10, 15-8 match win over Snyder.

The Lady Tigers were tied with the LHS spikers, each with identical 3-0 records within the loop.

Lamesa moves to 17-3 on the season and 4-0 in league matches while Snyder fall to 7-8 in all games and 3-1 in the district.

The Lady Tigers dug themselves a deep hole to start the match getting behind 9-1 before storming back to tie the game, 10-10.

The Tors scored next taking an 11-10 lead followed by a muffed serve by Snyder.

Lamesa finished out the opening game on its next service.

The second game was pretty much a repeat of Game One as the Lady Tigers slipped behind early, 7-1, and struggled to get back in the game.

"We didn't give up," said SHS coach Patty Grimmitt.

"The girls kept fighting and working together."

"Our problem was we made a lot of offensive errors that hurt us. I felt like our defense played well. We picked up a lot of their hits."

Camille Thompson served nine points for the Lady Tigers to lead the offense. Robbie Brazier followed with three, Amber Bowlin and Liz Greathouse each scored two and Dayla Church and Angee Crawford each contributed one.

Snyder's junior varsity Lady Tigers were edged by Lamesa in Saturday's early game, 15-13, 15-11.

Snyder hosts Dunbar Tuesday as loop competition continues.

Game time for the JV is 6:30 p.m. followed by the varsity tilt.

Cities, citizens clash over incinerators

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Officials of three West Texas communities have endorsed proposals by two companies to build incinerators that will cleanse oil-contaminated soil or burn hazardous wastes.

Government officials in Levelland, Lubbock and Colorado City signed host agreements to bring in the incinerators. Just across the New Mexico border, officials in Hobbs have signed a similar pact.

They say the projects would create jobs and spur economic growth throughout the region.

Not everyone agrees, however. Environmentalists say incineration systems could dampen recycling efforts and threaten the local environment by creating toxins.

At issue are proposals by two companies, All-American Environmental Corp. of New York and National Waste and Energy Development Inc. of Pittsburgh.

In Mitchell County, where county commissioners signed a host agreement last March with National Waste and Energy, area residents are facing the prospect of a hazardous waste incinerator, as well as the largest solid waste landfill in West Texas.

The $35 million project, which would be built on 5,000 acres of land near Westbrook, would employ as many as 100 workers and take a minimum of two or three years to complete, County Judge S.L. "Mac" Morris said.

But Darlene Hines, a member of Texans Against Pollution who lives near the proposed Mitchell County site, said her group is opposed to the project because of the danger of toxic emissions and the threat of pollution to Lake Colorado City.

"Our lake is our drinking water," Mrs. Hines told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. "Even the EPA admits that these landfills are going to leak."

"These farms and water here are my children's future."

All-American wants to put mobile incinerators in or near Lubbock, Hobbs and Levelland, said Jim Bradley, one of two Lubbock businessmen who represent the company.

The company initially would process and clean oil-contaminated soil, Bradley said.

The portable gas incinerators could process 180 tons of soil a day, he said.

The end products, Bradley said, would be steam, carbon dioxide and sterile soil. Any ash produced during burning would be hauled to a certified EPA landfill, he said.

"Our intent is to clean up the oil field. We've been messing up the country for more than a century," he said. "Most people think we're going to contaminate the world. We're not going to burn anything that will hurt the cattle, land or people."

Incinerators are safe if they work properly, said Roger Meacham of the Environmental Protection Agency.

"We know they can work and safely destroy a variety of hazardous wastes," Meacham said. "A new company has to submit applications and go through trial burns ... to prove that it will be operated as expected."

But incinerators operating above or below an optimum temperature can fail to completely destroy chemical compounds and lead to the creation of cancer-causing dioxins, said Clayton Smith, chief of the Texas Air Control Board's Regulations and Development Division in Austin.

Authorities arrest suspect in girl's death

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled Tuesday for a 10-year-old Lake Charles girl found face down in a creek in a remote area between Newton and Kirbyville, Texas.

Meanwhile, authorities reported the arrest of James Rexford Powell, 44, at his home at 3:25 a.m. today in connection with the incident.

The man, from Mauriceville, Texas, was being held in lieu of $500,000 bond in the Jefferson County Jail, said Lt. Charles Tyler with the Beaumont Police Department.

It appeared that Falayssa Ann Van Winkle, a sixth-grader at F.K. White Elementary School in Lake Charles, had been hung or choked because a rope was found around her neck, officials said.

She also was found fully clothed, with her hands bound in front of her. The results of an autopsy taken Sunday have not been released. Authorities believe the girl had not been dead long before her body was found, officials said.

Officials with the Newton County Sheriff's Office said the child was last seen between 10:30 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Saturday at a Beaumont, Texas, flea market where her family regularly displays a booth.

"The family had sent her to the peanut stand to get some peanuts and that was the last time she was seen," officials said.

Her body was found around 3:30 p.m. in Trout Creek by a couple riding a three-wheeler.

The Van Winkle family had been attending the flea market, which sells mostly antiques, for about a year and was familiar with other regulars.

Transplant work honored...

Two Americans win Nobel Peace prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — An American who performed the first kidney transplant and the American who pioneered bone marrow transplants won the Nobel Prize in medicine today.

Joseph E. Murray, 71, discovered how to prevent tissue rejection when organs are transplanted in people, and the work of E. Donnall Thomas, 70, diminished the severe reaction that bone marrow grafts can cause in recipients, the Nobel Assembly of the Karolinska Institute said in awarding the prize.

"I really thought this work was too clinical to ever win the prize," Thomas said this morning from his home in Bellevue, Wash. "There are many scientist-researchers out there who are eligible for this prize."

"It's a long shot at best, and it would be a mistake to waste time thinking about winning it."

Americans have now won or shared the prize in medicine 32 times in the past 21 years, compared with 19 winners from all other countries combined.

Murray and Thomas did their groundbreaking research in the 1950s and 1960s.

"Murray's and Thomas' discoveries are crucial for those tens of thousands of severely ill patients who either can be cured, or be given a decent life when other treatment methods are without success," said the 50-member assembly of Sweden's largest and oldest medical university.

"This year's laureates paved state's eight Republicans voted against it."

Reps. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, and Tom DeLay, R-Sugar Land, did not vote.

Reps. Greg Laughlin, D-West Columbia, and Bill Sarpalus, D-Amarillo, voted "no." Political observers and party officials have said the two men face the delegation's toughest challenges in next month's election.

The House early today also approved a temporary spending measure to get the government open while the details are hammered out. President Bush vetoed such a measure this weekend, shutting down the government.

The full effects of the shutdown won't be felt until Tuesday because today is a federal holiday.

Gramm said the shutdown forces Congress to reach a solution quickly. But he said the House approved plan isn't it.

"It's another giant escape from responsibility," Gramm said. "Simply promising to take action is not action."

His stance is apparently counter to that of Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., who called the plan a "very small departure" from the original bipartisan package.

Gramm, Bentsen and Rep. Bill Archer, R-Houston, participated in the talks that created the original plan.

the way for transplantation in man," said the award citation.

Murray, born in Milford, Mass., is affiliated with Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston. Thomas is with the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle.

The prize shared by Murray and Thomas, worth $895,000, is endowed by the will of dynamite inventor Alfred Nobel, who died in 1901.

The award citation said Murray "pioneered transplantation of kidneys obtained from deceased persons and could show that patients with terminal renal insufficiency could be cured. The field was then open for transplantation of other organs, such as liver, pancreas and heart."

Texas College Faculty Association in voicing opposition.

State Rep. David Counts told Snyder Kiwanis Wednesday that he was "very much against" the proposed facility and that they could depend on him to do all he could to fight the project.

Counts added that because of growing opposition he "just didn't see it (the project) happening."

If built, the facility would be within 15 miles of the Scurry-Mitchell County border.

Locally, citizens concerned with construction of the facility have organized Scurry County Residents Against Pollution (SCRAP). Over 3,000 signatures of county residents have been collected on petitions opposing the project.

life in their capital. One said Sunday that resistance to Iraqi forces virtually ended after the occupiers began executing suspected resistance members, sometimes in front of their families.

—In Israel, the military has started handing out gas masks to protect all 4.7 million Israelis from a feared chemical attack by Iraq. Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has threatened to attack Israel if war breaks out, and he has said he would use chemical weapons.

MRS. MINNIE ALEXANDER

Minnie Alexander

1891-1990
Services are set for 11 a.m. Tuesday at First Baptist Church for former longtime Snyder resident Mrs. A.C. (Minnie) Alexander Sr., 98, of Dallas. The Rev. Don Taylor, pastor of First Baptist Church, and the Rev. Don Cole will officiate. Burial will follow in Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Alexander died Saturday at her home in Dallas after a brief illness.

She was born Oct. 23, 1891 in King City, Mo. She married A.C. Alexander on June 7, 1911 in Grayson County. They moved to Snyder in 1920 from Rhome. Her husband was president of Snyder National Bank from 1953 to 1958, retiring to become chairman of the board until 1969.

Mrs. Alexander was an active member of the Altrurian Study Club and Snyder Garden Club and was also active in civic affairs in Snyder. She was a member of First Baptist Church and had been superintendent and a teacher of the junior department Sunday school for many years. She was the longest living and oldest member of the church. She had lived in Snyder since 1920 until she moved to Dallas about six years ago.

Her husband preceded her in death in 1969.

Survivors include one daughter, Kenneth Wallin of Plano; four sons, Weldon Alexander of Dallas, A.C. Alexander Jr. of Snyder, Lyle Alexander of Lago Vista and William L. Alexander of Houston; eight grandchildren; 13 great-grandchildren; and six great-great-grandchildren.

Opal Coomer

1898-1990
Services were held today at Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for longtime Scurry County resident Opal Laura Epperson Beck Coomer, 91, of Snyder Nursing Center. The Rev. Steve Smith, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, officiated. Burial followed in Hillside Memorial Gardens.

Mrs. Coomer died Friday night at Snyder Nursing Center.

She was born Oct. 21, 1898 in Chidister, Ark. to Matthew Bradley and Sarah E. Douglass Epperson. She was the youngest of 12 children. She married Jap Beck on May 31, 1925 in San Angelo. He died Nov. 24, 1957. She married Dan Coomer on Nov. 3, 1959 in Snyder. He preceded her in death on March 27, 1972.

Survivors include two sons and daughters-in-law, Elton and Reba Beck of Snyder and Jimmy and Dorothy Beck of Ruidoso, N.M.; five grandsons, Wayne, Weldon and Joe Beck of Snyder, Don Beck of San Angelo and Brent Beck of Lubbock; two great-grandsons, Daniel and Dennis Beck of Snyder; two step great-grandsons, Terry Linsley of Austin and Tommy Linsley of San Angelo; six great-granddaughters, Barbara, Jamie, Jackie, Kelly, Kimber and Courtney Beck of Snyder, Shana and Kay Beck of San Angelo; and two sisters-in-law, Mrs. M.S. Epperson of Albuquerque, N.M. and Mrs. Finis Epperson of Cleburne, N.M.

Pallbearers were Wayne Beck, Eldon Beck, Joe Beck, Don Beck, Brent Beck and George Vicary.

Cecil Hughes

1894-1990
CLOVIS, Calif. — Graveside services are set for 10 a.m. Tuesday at Clovis Cemetery for former Snyder and Polar resident, Cecil Ford Hughes, 96, of Fresno, Calif., under the direction of Boise Funeral Home of Clovis.

Mrs. Hughes died Sunday at Beverly Manor Convalescent Home in Fresno, Calif.

She was born Feb. 7, 1894, in Nolan County, to the late John and Lizzie Ford of Polar.

Survivors include one daughter, Lois Gentry of Fresno; two sons, Nonnie Lauderdale and Joe Lauderdale of Fresno; one brother, Ernest Ford of Polar; two sisters, Eula Clanton of Mineola and Bonnie Lyons of Snyder; 16 grandchildren; 28 great-grandchildren; and 12 great-great-grandchildren.

Dennis Holmes

1940-1990
BIG SPRING — Services are set at 10 a.m. Wednesday at Myers and Smith Funeral Chapel for Dennis H. Holmes, 49, of Big Spring. Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church in Big Spring, and the Rev. Tim Winn, pastor of First Baptist Church in New Deal, will officiate. Burial will follow in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mr. Holmes died Saturday in a Lubbock hospital.

He was born Oct. 15, 1940 in Snyder to the late Althea and Shelton Holmes. He moved with his family to Big Spring in 1954 and graduated from Big Spring High School. He attended Howard Junior College. He worked for an oil transport company in Lubbock, transferred to Big Spring in 1983 and received seven safe driving awards. He was a Baptist.

He is survived by his wife, Kay Holmes, of Big Spring; two daughters, Denise McAllen of San Antonio and Dani Beyer of Lubbock; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. D.H. Goodnough of Fort Scott, Kan.; one sister, Shelia Murray of Austin; and two grandchildren.

Polly Grisham

1901-1990
KERRVILLE — Graveside services are set for 2 p.m. Tuesday at Garden of Memories in Kerrville for Polly (Mrs. W.P.) Grisham, 89, of San Angelo, under the direction of Johnson Funeral Home of San Angelo. The Rev. Fane Downs, pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Dallas, will officiate.

Mrs. Grisham died Saturday night in San Angelo.

She was born Aug. 17, 1901 in Argonia, Kan. She is the sister of Katherine Redwine of Snyder.

Other survivors include one daughter, Margaret Georgensen of San Angelo; one son, Billy Grisham of Fredricksburg; three grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

SO makes arrest

At 9 a.m. Saturday, Scurry County sheriff's deputies arrested a 32-year-old female at Kingswood Apartments on warrants issued by the Justice of the Peace office for bad checks and a traffic violation.

A Department of Public Safety trooper arrested a 40-year-old male at 2:30 a.m. Sunday four miles south of Snyder on the Colorado City Hwy. for driving while intoxicated.

Minor mishap

Snyder police investigated a minor accident at 11:10 p.m. Saturday at Sonic Drive In. Involved were a 1983 Chevrolet pickup driven by Willie Valverde of Killeen and a 1990 Chevrolet driven by Melanie Ann Carpenter of 3403 Jacksboro.

Man electrocuted

A Snyder man was electrocuted in an oil field accident Saturday.

Gayland Vaughan was admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital at 1:59 p.m. after the test tank he was transporting for Fluid Transport Inc. hit a TU electrical line sending a 7,200 volt shock into the vehicle. He was transported to Cogdell emergency room by private vehicle.

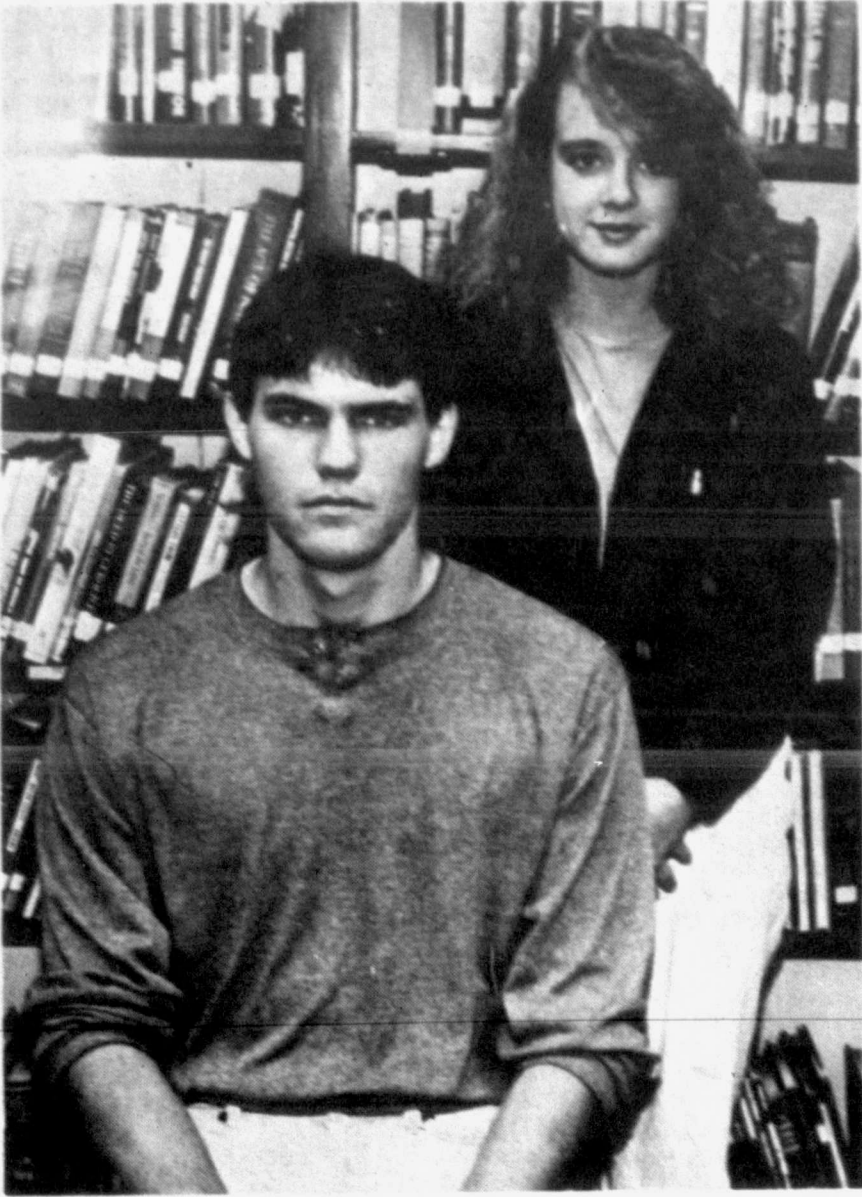

Vaughan was released from the hospital this morning.

Animal rights activists protest Shepherd's work

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Animal rights activists marched outside actress Cybil Shepherd's future home to protest her work with a cosmetics company they say tortures rabbits and mice during laboratory testing.

"We want Ms. Shepherd to carry a message of compassion to the people at L'Oreal, but she has even refused to answer our letters," said director Kathy Snow Guillermo of the Caring Consumer Campaign for People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals.

Ms. Shepherd, who could not be reached for comment, was targeted by about 75 protesters Saturday because she is a leading model for the Paris-based L'Oreal.

Heritage USA prepares for telethon

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) — Seeking donations for the $45 million purchase of Jim Bakker's defunct PTL empire, Morris Cerullo begins a 30-day telethon today with volunteers eager to help the cause.

Workers have been busy at the New Heritage USA preparing for Cerullo's month-long telethon.

"It's very, very hectic, there's a lot of activity," said Beckye Bacon, guest coordinator for New Inspirational Satellite Network. "It hasn't been that way in quite some time."

The Heritage USA property was buzzing with the activity of electricians, engineers, pastors and telephone counselors.

Cerullo paid $7 million on Sept. 26 to close escrow on the PTL satellite network, the first step in his plans to acquire Heritage USA.

He then announced the "Take It Back" telethon as a celebration and fund-raiser. Cerullo needs $45 million by the beginning of November to buy the 2,200-acre Heritage USA property. He has already made a $1 million down payment.

The telethon will air nightly for two hours until Nov. 2 with hopes of raising part of the cash.

Automated cargo handler still has problems to solve

HOUSTON (AP) — Omniport, the Western Hemisphere's first automated cargo handler, remains dependent on manual labor today some six months after the project was supposed to be fully operational.

But officials in the Port of Houston say they are learning firsthand the difficulties of making new technology work.

"Like anything that new, they're going to have some basic problems until they get the bugs worked out," said Guy Pulliam, operations manager for Falcon Shipping Co. in Houston. "It's just not like jumping in a car and turning the key and driving off."

Omniport, a computer-controlled terminal designed to handle 2.5 million tons of bagged and boxed cargo, is one of four such facilities worldwide.

Designed to be more than twice as fast as its competitors, Omniport still can't load shipments significantly faster than longshoremen working by hand, customers said. Instead of handling the big shipments needed to offset the facility's hefty price tag, Omniport has been competing for small shipments that other ports had hoped Omniport would ignore.

The Omniport terminal features four spiral conveyor systems, known as Spiralveyors, that can unload cargo from railroad cars and trucks, store the bags and boxes in a warehouse and then load them on a ship in just about any kind of weather.

The facility was developed by Bechtel Development, Continental Marine Terminals Systems and Ryan-Walsh, which together raised $80 million and formed a consortium called Houston Transmodal Owning Co.

Intent on becoming the first U.S. port to attract such a terminal, the Port of Houston spent $30 million to buy 126 acres of land at Jacintoport and make the necessary improvements.

Omniport handled its first cargo in July 1989, months ahead of schedule. At its grand opening hoopla in September 1989, consortium officials predicted the facility would be at full commercial operation by April 15, generating $500 million in revenue annually and $1 billion by the mid- to late-1990s.

The Port of Houston began planning how it would spend its anticipated $617,000-a-quarter lease payment from the facility.

entire $45 million he needs through the telethon, said Kirt Salisbury, a vice president for Morris Cerullo World Evangelism in San Diego.

"I don't know how much we'll raise," he said. "But if God chooses to do a miracle, we won't turn it down."

For the balance, Salisbury said Cerullo had letters of credit with financial institutions.

Ms. Bacon has scheduled national evangelists and local pastors to show their support for Cerullo's efforts. About 400 local people have volunteered to be ushers and telephone counselors.

"The telethon is a huge volunteer effort and the people in this area have responded tremendously," Ms. Bacon said.

Volunteers received training on how to take pledges, how to counsel people, what to do if a call doesn't go well and background on Cerullo's World Evangelism program. Ms. Bacon said.

Tonight's program will feature Cerullo, who is flying directly from Malaysia; Charisma Magazine editor Steven Strang, evangelist John Arazini, Steve Lowrey from the National Church of God and three musicians, Ms. Bacon said.

Sugar's prices are leveling off

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer sugar prices are starting to level off, and Agriculture Department analysts say domestic and global supplies are large enough to help dampen them for a while.

"On the world level, it looks like prices should stay about where they're at," says Peter Buzzanell of the department's Economic Research Service. "The reason is that we see more of a balance in world supply and demand."

Buzzanell said in a telephone interview that "growth in consumption out paced production (and) led to an upturn in prices" in the last several years.

However, he said, the price of raw sugar delivered to Caribbean ports lately has been just a little more than 10 cents per pound, compared to the 13 or 14 cents a few months ago.

In the United States, Buzzanell said, the 1990 sugar cane crop was hit by poor weather, but the sugar beet harvest is expected to be improved from last year.

Sugar consumption by Americans is still growing, but "not at a sharp rate," he said. "So, with our new (import) quota, we're anticipating that we'll have a balanced situation — and prices about where they are or, hopefully, softening a little bit."

Buzzanell was asked to comment on a new sugar outlook report issued last week by the USDA agency.

In it, analysts noted that retail prices of refined sugar in the United States averaged 41.8 cents per pound in the first nine months of the 1990 fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, up 2.7 cents from the same period in 1989.

The July average was 42.7 cents per pound, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and it edged up to 43.3 cents in August. The September prices have not yet been announced.

Total domestic sugar production in the crop year that began Sept. 1 is estimated currently at 6.47 million short tons of 2,000 pounds each, raw value, down 113,000 tons from 1989-90 production.

Proposed budget...

Bitter schism divides House & GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress grinds out a solution to the country's budget dilemma, House Republicans are sitting on the sidelines, bitterly split by an ideological schism that extends into their top leadership.

At the center of the dispute is Rep. Newt Gingrich, the Georgia Republican who took over a year ago as the No. 2 GOP leader in the House. Despite his job, Gingrich led the rebels who last week killed an earlier budget package agreed upon by his leader, Rep. Robert Michel, and President Bush.

And when Republicans sought to take a role in drawing up a new version on Sunday, Gingrich's ideological demands in a closed-door meeting hampered the ability to come up with a proposal, said one source present.

But one of Gingrich's top allies, Rep. Vin Weber, R-Minn., said Republicans "are slowly getting themselves back on a united, positive footing." A key to that, he said, is that the "bipartisan budget will be transformed over the next 10 days into the Democratic tax increase."

Frustration with Gingrich's actions broke into the open late Sunday as each party sought to blame the other for the partial shutdown of the government over the weekend. Gingrich contended that Democrats, after failing to override Bush's veto of a stopgap spending bill, now should back the president.

House Speaker Thomas Foley lost his normal calm, saying, "Of all the people in this House, of all the people in this country that have little claim to cooperation with this president, it is the gentleman from Georgia."

The jab was particularly effective, because it hit Gingrich where he is weakest within his own party: on the issue of loyalty and trustworthiness. The Georgian had no comeback, but just smiled and then strode off the House floor.

During a closed-door Republican conference earlier in the day, Rep. Rod Chandler of Washington said, "Those who do not support the president and the leadership should be silent, or resign," according to one lawmaker present, in a clear reference to Gingrich.

Gingrich is out on a limb, some colleagues say. But that's not an unusual position for the white-haired, 47-year-old conservative. And he is hardly alone.

He picked fights with a former House speaker, Thomas P. O'Neill, and was instrumental in forcing another former speaker, Jim Wright, to resign.

"This guy has no agenda except to create chaos, and to destroy Democrats," said Rep. Tim Penny, D-Minn.

But that brand of firebrand partisanship was attracting support from Republicans who are tired of more than three decades of minority status in the House, a frustration amplified by budget summits that left the rank and file out of decisions.

Those Republicans have taken to calling themselves "the potted plant caucus," a self-deprecating sign of their feelings of irrelevance. "Members are hungry for a leader who will stand up for the conference" and not simply follow orders from the White House, said one GOP lawmaker.

But one veteran Republican, William Broomfield of Michigan, worried about damage to the party in the House. "It's a very, very difficult time around here," he said. "I've never seen it quite like this, the bitterness and rancor that exists."

Dallas pastor beginning his 47th year

DALLAS (AP) — The Rev. W.A. Criswell, who is beginning his 47th year as pastor of First Baptist Church of Dallas, would like to see a new burst of growth in the Baptist church.

But every bone in his 81-year-old body tells him it's not to be.

"No, I don't see it," Criswell said. "I pray for it and will do all in my power to work for it and share in it, but I don't see it on the horizon," he said. "I hope that I'm mistaken, but I'm afraid I'm not."

Criswell said he believes people are too secular-minded to join in a sweeping return to traditional Christian values.

Meanwhile, as new membership falls off, some liberal and moderate Baptists are being driven away by leaders who insist on conservative orthodoxy within the Southern Baptist Convention.

Behind the swing to the right stands the fundamentalist rock that is Criswell.

"To be in my 47th year is a providence that I never looked for," Criswell said. "The dear Lord has been wonderfully good to me."

Supporters call Criswell the grandfather of the fundamentalist movement. Critics cite the rise of the right-wing, independent super-church as the Criswellian legacy.

"All that we are trying to do is preserve our institutions and our denomination for the work of God," he said.

Criswell said the denomination wants to preserve its universities, a desire highlighted last month when Baylor University's Board of Trustees on Sept. 21 filed a new charter with the Texas Secretary of State.

The charter established a separate Board of Regents with "sole management and control" of the 145-year-old Waco school, the world's largest Baptist-supported university.

The action was taken by the university to insulate itself from a feared takeover by fundamentalists in the Baptist General Convention of Texas, which previously elected trustees to the school.

"We've lost them in the North, such as Brown University and (University of Chicago), and we're beginning to lose them in the South," Criswell said. "We've already lost Richmond University and Wake Forest University and now we're in an altercation over the possibility of losing Baylor University."

He blamed liberalism for the losses. "Every institution could have been kept but the liberals gave them away," he said.

But Criswell said he realizes the fight will go on.

"We ought to do everything we can to keep Baylor in the denomination," he said. "I think it's possible. By no means is that question settled, by no means."

A search committee is seeking a pastor to eventually succeed Criswell in the pulpit

DEAR DR. GOTT: While vitamin C has long been touted as a cure-all for the common cold, I read recently of vitamins C and E possibly preventing hardening of the arteries. Can you update your readers?

DEAR READER: To begin with, vitamin C does not cure the common cold. Some research has suggested that supplemental vitamin C alleviates the symptoms (nasal congestion, runny nose and malaise) of this ubiquitous ailment. However, the vitamin has no effect on the virus that causes colds — nor is it a preventative.

Supplemental vitamin E has not been shown to cure or prevent any medical condition; it does not retard the development of arteriosclerosis.

A few months ago, scientists at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas reported a very preliminary study showing that human white blood cells (in a test tube) were less likely to absorb low-density lipoproteins (the "bad" cholesterol) when the corpuscles were pre-treated with vitamin C and E. Since LDL is poisonous to cells and may attack the tissue lining blood vessels — creating plaque (arteriosclerotic blockage) — the researchers reported their findings in hopes that other scientists would confirm and expand these results.

As yet, the vitamin LDL relation is unsubstantiated. A great deal more testing will be required before recommendations are promulgated for the general public. As you pointed out, vitamin C has been "touted" for various ailments. However, it is appropriate therapy for only one medical condition: scurvy, vitamin C deficiency. Vitamin E deficiency causes no recognizable illness in healthy adults. Any other potential benefits of vitamins C and E would have to be rigorously and scientifically tested. The Texas study suggests a clue — but only a clue.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I — Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to my attention at P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you comment on the external application of WD40 for joint pain? Quite a few people in my community of North Bend, Ore., have found that this lubricant alleviates the pain of arthritis.

DEAR READER: I have previously heard that some people swear by the beneficial effects of the spray-on lubricant WD40 for arthritis. Since the product consists primarily of light oil, I can't for the life of me imagine how it could relieve the pain of arthritis. The oil, which doesn't penetrate the skin, couldn't exert an internal effect. The idea of a petroleum-based substance that "lubricates" joints is ludicrous.

However, if it works for some folks, fine. I'm always open to alternative healing methods, if they're safe. WD40 is harmless when applied externally.

Survey says little is known about Hepatitis B

DALLAS (AP) — Hepatitis B, an inflammation of the liver, kills nearly 14 people every day, but a Gallup survey indicates that most Americans have little or no knowledge of the killer disease.

A survey released today revealed that 83 percent of the people contacted as part of a patient and physician education program of SmithKline Beecham have little or no knowledge about the disease.

"The survey shows that 69 percent of all U.S. adults, from 18-55, do not know that a vaccine exists to prevent people from becoming infected with hepatitis B," said Dr. David L. Hoff, medical director of the Akron, Ohio, City Health System.

Hillside Memorial Gardens has served Snyder and surrounding area for years

Hillside Memorial Gardens, located on the Colorado City Highway, has been serving Snyder and the Scurry County area for many years.

Hillside Memorial Gardens is a perpetual care cemetery governed by the State Banking Department. The one price you pay for perpetual care is the only one you ever have to pay. There are no yearly dues necessary for the upkeep of the property.

The staff at Hillside Memorial Gardens is committed to serving your best interests. W.C. and Greg Graves will be glad to help you with any of your pre-need planning. Everyone plans for the future in one way or another whether with savings or insurance to take care of something that might happen. Why not prepare for the inevitable? Making the decision to purchase a Family Memorial Estate plan now insures that the decision is made together and one is not left to make it alone. Statistics show that these decisions are made 67 percent of the time by widows and children and 33 percent of the time by husbands. The purchase of a Family Memorial Estate plan can also be a savings plan because the deed is the equivalent of a paid up insurance policy.

Lots at Hillside Memorial Gardens are reasonably priced and they offer a Pre-Need Financial Plan of only 20 percent down and small monthly payments without interest or carrying charges. If the only time you have is on the weekends, Greg can be contacted at 573-5864 and will be glad to help you anytime.

Granite and bronze memorials are available at Hillside Monument Works and Greg goes to great lengths to see that the finished product is one that pleases the family members and reflects the individualism of the loved one for whom the monument has been created.

The staff at Hillside realizes that they provide an important service to the community and work hard to maintain the trust and confidence of the people. They will be happy to counsel with anyone at anytime concerning their present or future needs.

Give them a call at 573-5251 or go by and visit with them at Hillside Memorial Gardens and Monument Works on the Colorado City Highway.

Historian's work remains popular

NEW YORK (AP) — Historian Shelby Foote, the principal commentator in the PBS series "The Civil War," recalls when he was simply a secluded scholar who wrote by hand and went days with no company other than his wife and daughter.

Now the phone rings constantly in his Memphis, Tenn., home. Foote told People magazine in its Oct. 15 issue.

Thirty-six years after he published the three-volume "The Civil War: A Narrative," Foote suddenly is being sought by the media. The books, now in their 18th printing, took him 20 years to write.

"I'm looking forward to when my 15 minutes are over," he said. "What I do requires steady work and isolation from all this hoopah."
