Daniel unit warden named

The Texas Department of Corrections Wednesday announced that Leslie Woods, assistant warden at the Coffield unit in Anderson County, would be warden of the Price Daniel unit in Snyder.

Announcement of the promotion was made Wednesday morning by Andy Collins, deputy director for operations. The 1,000-bed Daniel unit is scheduled for opening on June 27.

A 16-year veteran of the TDC, Woods has been assistant warden at Coffield since January of 1984. He began his career with the department in November of 1972 as a correctional officer. While working his way through the ranks, he has also worked in Beto I and the Wynne units.

Woods, 36, is a native of Anderson County and graduated from Sam Houston State with a degree in criminal justice. He has also done work toward a master's degree.

In addition to his work, he has been an instructor in the correctional officer training program at Trinity Valley Junior College.

His wife, Jane, is an assistant correctional counselor with the Beto I unit and she has been with the TDC for 13 years. The couple has one son, Robert, who is eight. They are members of the Tennessee Colony Church.

Jr. high sing

The Snyder Junior High School Choir will be in concert Thursday at 7 p.m. at Worsham Auditorium at the high school.

The seventh and eighth grade boys and girls choirs will perform their contest entry music. The program will last approximately 45 minutes and is free to the public.

NE parents

The Northeast Parent Club will meet Thursday at 8:30 a.m. in the school auditorium. Remaining projects will be discussed and a short business meeting will be held. This will be the last meeting of the year.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Tuesday, 65 degrees; low, 32 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Wednesday, 49 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1989 to date, 2.67 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Tonight, mostly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. Low in the lower 50s. Southeast wind 10 to 20 mph. Thursday, mostly cloudy with a 40 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. High in the upper 60s. Southeast wind 10 to 20 mph.

Officials search for more cult victims

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Satanic drug smugglers sacrificed a University of Texas student and at least 11 other people just south of the Mexican border in rites designed to bring demonic protection to their contraband activities, say officials who found the victims' bodies.

Police planned to continue digging today, searching for two more bodies at the Santa Elena Ranch 20 miles west of the border city of Matamoros.

Cameron County Sheriff Alex Perez said the scene was "like a human slaughterhouse."

Officials believe a Cuban man imported the religion and ordered the sacrifices.

At least one of the victims was kidnapped in Brownsville within the last month, and as many as three of the victims may be Americans, law enforcement officials said at a Brownsville news conference today.

Suspects in Mexican custody have told police of 14 human sacrifices, and evidence indicates there may be more, said Oran Neck, U.S. Customs chief agent in Brownsville.

Contrary to officials' Tuesday statements, Neck said today there was no evidence of cannibalism.

Authorities on both sides of the border are seeking the alleged ringleader, Adolfo de Jesus Constanzo, a Cuban national in his late 40s.

Constanzo apparently introduced a sort of voodoo or black magic to the area, Neck said.

The ritual "has overtones of a religious cult that has been exported out of Cuba and Haiti as 'Santeria,'" Neck said, based on feathers and other evidence of rituals at the ranch and the Matamoros home of a woman sought by police.

"Very clearly they believed the human sacrifices and the animal sacrifices put a magical shield around them that protected them from evil or harm, even up to bullets," said Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox.

Mexican federal officials said five men have been arrested in the case, but the American officials listed only four.

In addition, Perez said, U.S. arrest warrants have been issued for Constanzo and a Matamoros woman whose home contained an altar, splattered blood and cult paraphernalia.

In addition, Mexican officials have issued two or three arrest warrants for people who remain at large, Perez said.

Among the victims was Mark Kilroy, 21, a University of Texas pre-medical student who disappeared March 14 while on a late-night spring break outing in Snyder. See CULT, page 9

Quarterly deposits compared

Combined bank deposits again surpassed the $200 million mark in Snyder, based on first-quarter figures reported by four of five financial institutions here.

Total deposits at three banks and one savings and loan association were $203.3 million compared to year-end totals of $199.3—an increase of $4 million. Compared to the first quarter of 1988, deposits declined $3.2 million.

Snyder National Bank reported the largest deposits with $79.8 million, an increase of $1.7 million when compared to 1988 year-end totals, and a drop of $4.2 million when compared to the first quarter of last year.

West Texas State Bank's deposits were $76.3 million, an increase of $2.5 million when compared to the final reporting period of 1988 and an increase of $1.1 million when compared to last year's March 31 figure.

American State Bank showed total deposits of $18.4 million, a drop of $100,000 from Dec. 31 and a decline of $1.3 million when compared to the first quarter of 1988.

Snyder Savings and Loan Association reported total deposits of $28.8 million, a drop of $100,000 when compared to the end of 1988 and an increase of $1.2 million since the first quarter of last year.

Total loans at Snyder National were $49.9 million compared to $48.3 million at year's end, an increase of $1.6 million. When compared to the same time last year, when SNB loans were $51.4 million, the decrease was $1.5 million.

West Texas State Bank loans were $31.6 million, compared to $33.1 million at the close of 1988, a drop of $1.5 million. When compared to the March 31 figure of $33.9 in 1988, the loan number dropped $2.3 million.

ASB loans totaled $4.1 million, an increase of $300,000 when compared to the final quarter of 1988. The current loan figure was up $300,000 when compared to the 1988 first-quarter tally of $3.8 million.

Loans at Snyder Savings were $21.5 million, a decrease of $500,000 when compared to the 1988 year-end loan number. When evaluated against the same quarter of last year, the initial 1989 loan figure was down $1.8 million.

Olney Savings, which operates a branch office in Snyder, does not report individual branch deposit and loan figures.

Measles contact prompting SHS shots

Snyder High School choir students who attended last Thursday's UIL competition in Abilene were scheduled to line up Wednesday morning for measles shots.

The immunizations were to be given at the high school and SHS Principal Ray Courtney estimated as many as 60 might receive them.

No cases of measles have been reported among local high school students, but health officials say the choir may have been exposed at the contest due to two confirmed cases among Cooper High School students in Abilene.

Reports indicate the students were a sophomore boy and a freshman girl who came in contact with the disease during a church-sponsored ski trip to Santa Fe over spring break.

Snyder High School had approximately 110 choir students attend the meet last Thursday.

Courtney said notes were sent home with the affected students Tuesday afternoon, giving parents the option of the immunizations to be administered Wednesday morning.

He said he did not expect all of the students to participate since some have already received measles vaccinations.

A confirmed Scurry County case of measles involving a Western Texas College student in early March prompted the immunization here of approximately 300 persons through the Snyder-Scurry County Health Unit.

There was a Borden County case also which prompted some 67 inoculations of students there March 28.

A third measles case was confirmed here in February involving a student at Texas Tech who returned home with the symptoms. Contacts related to that case were minimal, however, and no large scale round of immunization shots was required.

Staffers with the health unit were to be giving out the shots Wednesday to Snyder High School students.

"Thunderbird;" Teri Lawdermilk, with "Pantomime;" Jimmy Realzola, with "West Texas Daybreak;" and Steven Kellams, who placed two works, "Winter Worship" and "Gone for Good." (SDN Staff Photo)

Area outlook includes possibility of rainfall

From Local Wire Reports
Brief showers were noted in Snyder Wednesday morning and the evening and night forecast includes a 30 percent chance for rain, increasing to a 40 percent chance on Thursday.

Cloudy skies and cool temperatures are predicted to be the norm with Thursday's high expected to be in the upper 60s.

Overnight lows will continue to be chilly also with lows expected in the 40s through the weekend.

A slight daytime warming trend is in the forecast through Sunday with highs predicted in the 70s by the weekend. Scattered showers and thunderstorms are expected across most of Texas through Wednesday night except in extreme West Texas where skies will remain clear.

Some of the showers and thunderstorms are expected to continue Thursday and some will be around on Friday, forecasters say.

Lows Wednesday night will be mostly in the 40s and 50s, ranging from the upper 30s in the Panhandle to the mid 60s along the lower coast.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The guy who figured out the meager amount of tax exemption for wife and kids must have been a bachelor."

Tax time is worry time, but here's a formula for at least cutting down on the amount of time spent in fretting.

It was figured out by some mathematician who said only 40 percent of most of the things we worry about are likely to happen. Of that 40 percent, only 20 percent of it actually makes much difference.

And of that 20 percent, only 10 percent of it is something you could have avoided in the first place. It was suggested if you now worry an hour a day, it should be cut down to five minutes for a more realistic figure.

And more worrying than that is believed to be a waste of time. But they don't say which five minutes of the day is best for your worrying, which may be something else to worry about.

It's time to worry and also diet when you have trouble buying new clothes—especially if you can't find a necktie that fits.

back row, Sara McDonald, second in oral reading; Chris Cunningham, first in number sense; J. Parker, first in calculator applications; Rachael Morgan, first in spelling; Elizabeth Rodriguez, fourth in ready writing; Stephanie Fambro, fifth in oral reading; Angie Davidson and Misty Myers, tied for third in impromptu speaking; and Virginie Pointeau, first in ready writing. Funds awarded to victim of rape

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A 36-year-old rape victim says she hopes landlords get the message they must provide secure surroundings after she was awarded nearly $1 million in damages from an Odessa apartment management firm.

The victim, who was sexually assaulted at knife point in August 1985, sued the owners and managers of Winwood Apartments because her assailant entered her apartment through a patio door she says she asked the landlords as many as nine times to fix before the attack.

An all-male jury in 70th District Judge Gene Ater's court heard four days of testimony and deliberated more than nine hours before awarding the victim $956,000 in damages Monday.

"I really think (the jurors) sent a message to apartment managers," she said. "Hopefully, this will prevent someone else from getting raped."

Benchmark defense attorney Ray Stoker Jr. would not say whether the firm would appeal the verdict. "We are satisfied with the compensatory damages but certainly not the punitive damages," Stoker said. The victim's attorney, Jim Osborn, said jurors worked hard "to make the world a better place to live. I hope it makes (apartments) safer."

The Odessa American reported. Jurors awarded the victim $100,000 for past physical suffering, mental anguish, emotional distress, shame, embarrassment and humiliation, $25,000 for future sufferings, $3,000 for past medical and psychological care and $3,000 for future care.

But the bulk of the award — $825,000 — came in "additional damages" designed to penalize Benchmark, which manages about 3,000 apartment units in the Odessa-Midland area.

The victim said she hopes the case sets a precedent.

"I really think (the jurors) sent a message to apartment managers," she told The American. "Hopefully, this will prevent someone else from getting raped."

Benchmark defense attorney Ray Stoker Jr. would not say whether the firm would appeal the verdict.

"We are satisfied with the compensatory damages but certainly not the punitive damages," Stoker said.

The victim's attorney, Jim Osborn, said jurors worked hard "to make the world a better place to live. I hope it makes (apartments) safer."

Syphilis linked to drug trade

DALLAS (AP) — State health officials say a resurgence of syphilis can be linked to the increase in the use of cocaine and crack.

In the past, public health workers have tried to track down the sexual contacts of people infected with syphilis. But with drug users who may not know anything more about their partners than the location of a crack house they frequent, that job becomes nearly impossible.

Texas' major cities appear to be following national trends in which years of declines in syphilis infections have been reversed. The disease infected 15 percent more people in 1988 than 1987, according to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. In cities whose names have become closely associated with illegal drug use, the increases were far higher — nearly 75 percent in Washington, D.C., for example.

In Texas, where for several years the number of syphilis cases has been declining, there was a 15 percent increase in cases in 1988 and it may increase by another 20 to 25 percent by the end of 1989, said Joe Pair, who heads the sexually transmitted disease control division at the Texas Department of Health. And the reason is expensive, illegal drugs, he said.

"These people don't even consider themselves prostitutes, because no money is changing hands. But they are exchanging sex for drugs," said Lois Kantor, who manages the sexually transmitted disease program for the Tarrant County Health Department. "They don't look on it as a pleasurable activity. It's usually a transaction more than anything."

Researchers and health professionals say crack, a smokable derivative of cocaine, is the illegal drug causing most of the problem. It is cheap — about $20 per dosage — easy to get and quickly addictive.

Crack is highly addictive and increases sexual appetites, health officials say. To that end, people who crave the drug often end up trading sex for drugs — despite the low price.

Sex "just kind of goes hand in hand with the drugs," Hugh Ramsey of the Houston Health Department told the Dallas Times Herald.

DR. GOTT PETER GOTT, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have arthritis of the spine and other joints. I take Motrin but this does not help the painful muscle spasms in my back. Nothing my doctors have tried works.

DEAR READER: Spinal arthritis is often characterized by back pain, especially because of muscle spasms, as tired muscles attempt to compensate for the arthritic changes. Thus, treatment is sometimes more successful if it is directed toward relieving spasm rather than simply controlling pain.

For example, you might be helped by massage or chiropractic manipulation. Or, if you wish, ask your doctor for a referral to a physiatrist, an M.D. trained in rehabilitation medicine.

In addition, physical therapy — including special stretching exercises, ultrasound treatments and application of heat — may relieve your spasms.

Finally, muscle-relaxing prescription drugs, such as Robaxin or Flexeril, can help.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Understanding Osteoarthritis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My adrenal glands were removed because they were producing three times the amount of cortisone needed. Now I must take steroids for the rest of my life. What's my life expectancy?

DEAR READER: The adrenal glands produce substances that are necessary for life. If the adrenal glands are removed, the patient will not survive unless these substances are administered to make up the deficit.

Fortunately, adrenal steroids are readily available by prescription. Under proper medical supervision, your longevity will not be affected, as long as you take the required amounts of synthetic steroids.

Of course, you will have to be checked regularly to make sure that your body has the proper amount and that the doses of medicine are agreeing with you. With appropriate replacement of steroids, your life expectancy should remain materially the same as it was before your surgery.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Two months ago I had a very bad case of strep throat. Since then I've noticed eruptions of tiny blisters on my palms and legs. They scale over, then reappear. Are they somehow related to the strep?

DEAR READER: Strep throat is associated with an array of diseases, including rheumatic fever, nephritis (kidney inflammation) and skin disorders.

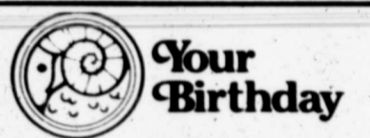

The blisters you describe should be cultured. This means that the fluid from them should be tested in the lab for the presence of strep bacteria. If bacteria are present, you should be given an appropriate course of antibiotics to eradicate the infection. If the blisters/scabs are sterile, your doctor will want to look for a cause that is probably not related to the streptococcus.

Song's revival helps creator

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Singer Ben E. King says the revival of his 1960 hit "Stand By Me" has brought new life to his career.

"You look to that one thing to keep you alive, like a motion picture actor looks for the one film that will make them live forever," said King, who is here for a two-week engagement at the Atlantic Casino Hotel. "I don't think I'll ever drop to a very low point again in my career."

Astro-Graph Bernice Bede Osol

April 13, 1989

In the year ahead you are likely to experience a substantial alleviation of troublesome factors. In fact, some of the crosses you've been forced to bear could now turn into crowns.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should have the enviable ability to keep events in proper perspective today and this could mean that little annoyances that devastate others aren't even likely to faze you. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today is a good day to provide a small luxury that will please a family member. Even if the cost bruises your budget a bit, the appreciation it will generate will be worth it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's a possibility your smaller interests may bomb out today, but don't despair because your successes are likely to come from larger issues. Focus your efforts on them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If there is something substantial you're hoping to achieve today, don't permit yourself to get caught up in insignificant details, because they could stall your momentum.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be extremely lucky today in any dealings you'll have with your more influential friends. The same might not be true in involvements with people who lack clout.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your intuition could be equally as reliable as your intellect today. Success in your endeavors is likely if you utilize your gifts collectively.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Good things could happen for you today through the friends with whom you'll associate. A word of caution, however, for best results overlook their minor failings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A sudden and fortunate shift could occur for you today in matters that are meaningful to you financially. Lady Luck will be taking a personal interest in your affairs and she'll be trying to put a smile on your lips.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Trading on your own personal experiences could be of more value to you today than acting on the advice offered by others. If something worked successfully for you in the past, it can be replicated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't shortchange people for whom you are performing services today. Instead put forth your very best efforts. A good performance promises commensurate remunerations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Partnership arrangements should work out fortunately for you today, but not necessarily in adding to your resources. In this area they might even cost you a few pennies.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Evaluate merchandise you bring into your household today in terms of quality rather than price. A dollar saved could turn out to be a dollar earned if you focus on bargains, not value.

Dukakis, Kean take stage at charity cabaret

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis and New Jersey Gov. Thomas Kean set partisan matters aside and took the stage at a charity cabaret for the theater run by Dukakis' Oscar-winning cousin, Olympia.

The actress introduced the governors as "two kids with a lot of talent, a lot of heart, on the brink of stardom — one had a national tour last year."

Her cousin, the 1988 Democratic presidential candidate, wailed "Happy Days are Here Again" on the trumpet and launched into "Michael Rowed the Boat Ashore" with jokes about the Boston Harbor campaign issue and the Alaskan oil spill.

Republican Kean, who will be president of Drew University after he leaves office, read a parody of Rudyard Kipling's "If" twitting both lame duck governors about prison furloughs and vanishing budget surpluses.

About 450 people paid $150 to $500 to attend Sunday night's benefit, which raised $65,000 for Miss Dukakis' Whole Theater in Montclair.

PEORIA, Texas (AP) — Two men have been arrested in connection with the slaying of an elderly couple who were apparently shot to death by robbers who were apparently seeking money they had received from a weekend garage sale, authorities said.

Hill County Sheriff Brent Button said Kenneth Silvers, 21, of Waxahachie, and Scott Brian Moore, 19, of Waco, were being held without bond Tuesday night at the Hill County jail on capital murder charges.

The men were arrested in the Sunday night slaying of A.L. Shultz, 63, and his wife, Peggy, whose bullet torn bodies were found in a utility room near the garage where they had held a garage sale to raise money.

Grace Jones is freed on bail

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Singer Grace Jones was freed on bail after her lawyer argued she wanted to stand trial on a charge of cocaine possession to clear her name.

A magistrate on Tuesday freed Ms. Jones on $2,700 bail on condition she returns for trial June 6. She wasn't asked to enter a plea.

Defense attorney Tom Tavares-Finson said Ms. Jones wanted to be cleared of the charge because of her recording and advertising contracts. He told the court the entertainer is not a drug user and is involved in the campaign against drug abuse.

Ms. Jones was arrested Saturday after police found 0.006 ounce of cocaine in her purse during a raid at the Music Mountain Recording Studio, which doubles as the home of her husband, record producer Chris Stanley.

The furniture business in Dallas where Shultz had worked closed about two years ago, leaving him without a pension, relatives said. The couple had moved to this small town between Hillsboro and Whitney seven years ago from Richardson.

Robert Morgan Jr., the Shultzes' son-in-law, said the couple held the garage sale to raise money because they feared losing their home because of debt.

"He had just started at his new job, so he hadn't received much money yet," Morgan told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "But they seemed to think things were looking up."

Button said that 8-12 shots had been fired, including some that were fired through the door and wall and some that were fired point-blank.

Two men who had visited the garage sale Sunday afternoon have been arrested in connection with the shooting, Button said.

The men returned to the Shultz home between 9 and 10:30 that night with the intent of stealing some guns and other property, he said.

"Apparently the motive was financial gain," Button said. "It was a burglary, a robbery, whatever. They were there to steal."

Silvers had reported late Sunday that that his foreign-made gun had been stolen. The gun used bullets similar to shell casings found at the scene of the slayings, Button said.

Guns reportedly owned by the Shultzes were found near where one of the men lived, Button said. Silvers and Moore had reportedly been living in the area for several weeks and had known each other for three weeks.

A neighbor described the couple as concerned people who worked hard for their community and church but had been worried lately about their financial problems.

"They had had a few problems in recent months due to him losing work. He had to get another job and they were sort of getting back on their feet. They weren't in any bad trouble. They just had a little setback," the neighbor said.

Peggy Shultz taught Sunday school for years at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church and A.L. Shultz was a lay leader.

Honored actor doesn't appear

LONDON (AP) — Sir John Gielgud couldn't bear to be there, but a star-studded cast including Albert Finney, Ian McKellen and Dame Judi Dench attended a luncheon to celebrate the actor's 85th birthday.

"I am most grateful to you all for being there today, but I really can't face the celebration of birthdays, and I feel that far too much is made of one's being old," Gielgud said in a letter that Dench read to the assemblage Tuesday.

About 350 people gathered at the Whitbread brewery to pay tribute to the Oscar-winning actor, whose birthday was Friday.

Host Fort Stockton Saturday...

Tigers rally to rip Lake View

SAN ANGELO - Snyder rallied from a three-run deficit to scalp the Lake View Chiefs 15-4 here Tuesday in a District 4-4A baseball game.

The win was the Tigers' fourth straight and lifts them to 4-2 in district play as they prepare for two key home ballgames. Snyder entertains front-runners Fort Stockton on Saturday, and Pecos next Tuesday. Those teams are currently tied for the 4-4A lead with 5-1 records. Fort Stockton nailed Andrews 4-2 on Tuesday while Pecos slipped past Monahans, 3-2.

"We've got our hands full on Saturday," said Snyder coach Albert Lewis, whose Tigers host the Panthers at 1 p.m. on Moffett Field. "Fort Stockton is the surprise of the district but they are for real. They don't have a weak link. We'll have to play excellent baseball to win."

Snyder started slowly here Tuesday as Lake View greeted pitcher Tommy Lane with three first-inning runs on a double and two singles. Lane, who would later come up with the run-tying hit for Snyder in the third inning, lasted through two outs before Tiger coaches brought in Kevin Dollins.

Dollins allowed just one hit over the next three innings and sat down eight straight batters along the way.

Cory Stephens opened on the ground for Lake View and managed to keep Snyder off the scoreboard until the third inning. He loaded the bags in the third.

Tuesday's Games: Snyder 15, Lake View 4; Fort Stockton 4, Andrews 2; Pecos 4, Monahans 3; Big Spring 11, Sweetwater 8.
Friday's Games: Pecos at Sweetwater, Lake View at Andrews, Monahans at Big Spring.
Saturday's Game: Fort Stockton at Snyder.

however, and walked Bert Otto to make it a 3-1 ballgame. Lane, who had left the mound for center field, then cranked out a two-run double to tie the game at 3-3. Next-up Bert Merritt followed with a fly ball that Lake View couldn't track in the gusting winds, and Lane raced home for the go-ahead run. Snyder added insurance when Israel Hinojos singled to score Merritt, 5-3.

Snyder added another run in the fifth inning then put the game away with nine in the sixth.

Lake View's only other run came in the fifth inning when Dollins began to tire and gave up a one-out single to Denver Cole.

He got Tony Puento to strike out, but walked the next three batters to push Cole home with Lake View's fourth run. Next-up Todd McAda slapped into a ground out, however, ending the inning.

The Tigers put together five consecutive hits in the sixth inning to run players around the bases pinball style. Bart Morton, Otto, Lane and Merritt all singled and Hinojos rapped a double. Randy Morris later punched a one-out single, as did Tracy Odom. When Morton came up for the second time in the stanza, he singled again.

Lee Fletcher relieved Dollins for the sixth inning and shut the Chiefs down 1-2-3 as Snyder won by the 10-run rule.

Snyder was credited with 13 hits and benefitted from 10 walks. The Tigers got some key help from the bottom of the order. Lane, the sixth place hitter, went three-for-four with a double, Merritt was two-for-three and Hinojos was two-for-two with a double. Also getting two hits apiece were Odom and Morton.

Stephens was the loser in three and a third innings. Puento pitched two and Joe Barquera finished up. Lake View fell to 3-11-1 for the season and 1-5 in district play.

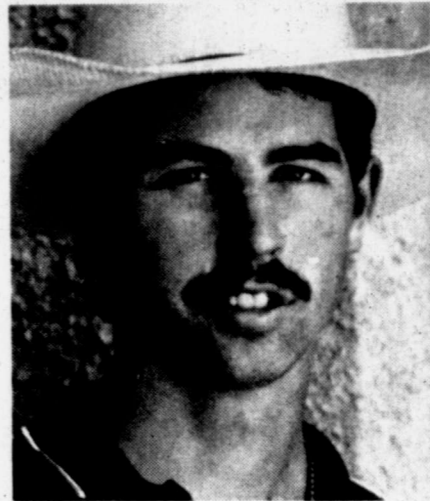

Dollins, 3-1, picked up the win. He allowed just two hits. Lane gave up three as the Chiefs managed just five for the game. Cole led the effort by going three-for-three.

Snyder will take a 12-6 record into Saturday's game with Fort Stockton.

Fans help cowboys at local rodeo, says WTC's Ray Brown

Ray Brown isn't sure why Western Texas College seems to do well at its own rodeo, but it could be the fans, he said.

"The hometown people really get behind the rodeo and the cowboys. The cowboys really like this rodeo - not just the ones from this college but from the other colleges, too," said the Western Texas College sophomore. "I guess it's something about the atmosphere of the coliseum. It's probably one of the best rodeos put on."

The annual NIRA rodeo opens Thursday at the coliseum, running nightly at 8 p.m. through Saturday. The top 10 cowboys and cowgirls in each event will then advance to Sunday's 2 p.m. short-go.

Western Texas men's team is currently in second place in the Southwest Region after seven rodeos. The top two teams at the end of the 10-rodeo season qualify for the College National Finals Rodeo in Bozeman, Mont.

Western has qualified eight consecutive times under the direction of Coach Bob Doty, who consistently recruits top athletes like Brown, a bulldogger and roper from North Platte, Neb.

Brown was runner-up in the region in dogging last year, which included a win in the average at the WTC Rodeo after he flashed a quick 4.3 second time in the short-go. He went on to place in the average at the CNFR. The polite, easy-going student is headed for more honors this season. He is currently second in the region in steer wrestling behind teammate Russell Merchant and is third in the calf roping and third in the all-around standings. He's a good bet to return to the Finals Rodeo in search of top national honors.

"That's everybody's dream but you can't worry about that, you just try to rope and bulldog the best you can," he said.

He looks for Western to have another big rodeo at home this year.

"If we can keep our heads on straight and keep trying I think we'll do good. Odessa has been hot lately but if they cool off I think we might be able to catch them," Brown said, referring to the Southwest Region leader, Odessa College, which has 1,942.5 points.

Western has 1,315 points and Howard, with 1,137, is in third place.

Those figures can be misleading because teams will use points from only seven of the 10 rodeos to come up with a final total - which is also the reason Brown feels it is possible to make up the 600-plus points necessary to catch the Odessa.

"We're all healthy and competing real well right now. We've been placing on some stock that hasn't gotten big points," added Brown. "That's promising. If we can draw well, I think we'll do well."

Texas replaces Bell with speed in Stone

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Buddy Bell's misfortune could be a blessing in disguise for Jeff Stone, who joined the Texas Rangers as a temporary replacement after Bell had knee surgery.

Stone was manager Bobby Valentine's choice primarily because of his ability to steal bases. Stone reported to the Rangers Tuesday.

"When you look at our extra men, we don't really have a pinch-runner other than (Jeff) Kunkel," Valentine said. "And with Kunkel as the extra center fielder and middle infielder, I really didn't feel like that was the most comfortable situation. We'll see how this works having another guy who can pinch-run."

"We're filling the most immediate and definable need while still allowing us to see what we really have here. That's something that will take more time."

Bell underwent successful arthroscopic surgery on his left knee yesterday at Christ Hospital in Cincinnati.

Dr. Warren G. Harding III said Bell could begin rehabilitation in several days and will be sidelined Dr. Harding removed a torn cartilage from Bell's knee. It was Bell's seventh knee operation, including two on his left knee.

In Bell's absence, Mike Stanley figures to be Valentine's choice as a right-handed designated hitter. Julio Franco, whose hyperextended right elbow is nearly fully recovered, has filled the role for the last three games.

Tarpley dons jersey again for Mavericks

DALLAS (AP) - Roy Tarpley worked out with the Dallas Mavericks today in anticipation of his return to the team after a 49-game absence tonight.

The 7-foot forward has been suspended for violating provisions of his previous substance abuse aftercare program.

The Mavericks play the Phoenix Suns in Dallas tonight. Dr. Dave Lewis of the ASAP Family Treatment Program notified the Mavericks Tuesday that Tarpley was ready to begin the next stage of his aftercare program.

"Roy is moving to the next phase of his aftercare, which is activation," Lewis said. "We'll continue to observe him and see how he does."

"I think he's genuinely excited about playing," said Dallas coach John MacLeod.

The 24-year-old had averaged 14.8 points and 10.6 rebounds in 13 games this season. Tarpley also missed 14 games Nov. 11 through Dec. 10 after undergoing knee surgery.

James Donaldson, who suffered a season-ending knee injury March 10, will be placed on the injured list to make room for Tarpley.

Dusters, coach are honored

In a display which seemed to help insure the future of athletics at Western Texas College, the WTC Booster Club honored Coach Kelly Chadwick and the 1988-89 Lady Dusters basketball team Tuesday evening at Towle Park Barn.

A number of college officials, including president Harry Krenek, board members Bob Hargrove and R.C. Patton, athletic director Dave Foster and vice president for business and finances Gay Hickman, joined booster members in honoring the ladies and their coach.

The team finished the regular season as conference co-champions, won the Region V Tournament and advanced to the Women's NJCAA National Tournament.

In return, Coach Chadwick expressed his appreciation for the support the club, college and community has given the team, with special mention going to Mrs. George Page and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Williams.

To finalize the informal supper,

Booster president Don Edgmon presented Chadwick with video equipment as a gift from the club.

The WTC All-Sports Banquet, which will honor all Western Texas athletes, has been scheduled for 12:30 p.m. April 30 at Towle Park Barn. Tickets, which include a barbecue lunch, are $6 for adults, $3 for children, and may be purchased at the college athletic office or Buddy's Auto.

Friends shocked by slaying

By The Associated Press
The 70 members of Lambda Chi Fraternity at Tarleton State University had been praying for the safe return of brother Mark Kilroy. Tuesday, they were horrified to learn he was one of a dozen victims sacrificed by a Satanic cult of drug smugglers along the Texas-Mexico border. "It's just so cruel," Zack Creech told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "Mark never did anything wrong. He was a real good person and had a great family. A lot of people loved him."

Creech last saw Kilroy at the Hard Rock Cafe in Matamoros, Mexico, the night of March 14. Kilroy disappeared while walking with other friends back to the international bridge.

"That was the last time I saw him," Creech said sadly. "I wished I would have went with him. I just wish to God I was there. I wouldn't have let this happen."

Kilroy, who transferred last year to UT, was also remembered fondly in Austin.

Frank James Padula, Kilroy's neighbor and a history senior, said Kilroy's ambition to go to medical school drove him to succeed.

"School came first to him and he knew how to draw that line," Padula told the Daily Texan.

Tammy Shead, who went to Santa Fe High School with Kilroy, said Kilroy was always trying to be the best.

"He was very intelligent, a supersmart guy," said Shead, a psychology junior.

Ronald Brown, UT vice president for student affairs, said the University would offer counseling to Kilroy's family and friends to help deal with the tragedy.

"Our sympathy goes to the family along with our concern for any society that has descended to these depths," Brown told the Texan.

In Houston, Kilroy was mourned by boyhood friend Eddie delaHoussaye, who grew up with him in Galveston County.

deHoussaye also told the Austin American-Statesman on Tuesday, "Mark was a great guy. He didn't deserve something that awful happening to him."

He last saw Kilroy after his son was born.

Kilroy topic of conversation in Santa Fe, his hometown

SANTA FE, Texas (AP) — Dwindling hope turned to horror in a small Texas town where residents had been raising money to help a family find their missing 21-year-old son.

The shocking discovery of the body of Mark Kilroy, along with at least 11 others slain in apparent satanic rituals on a ranch in Mexico, quickly spread through the town about 30 miles south of Houston.

"It's like a nightmare," said Mary Delahousey, a close friend of Mark Kilroy's mother, Helen Kilroy. "I really can't believe it. Helen and I said it over and over that we just want to wake up and not believe that it's true."

Doris Williams, a clerk at a local convenience store, said the entire community had gotten behind the search.

"Even though it had been almost a month, everyone was really hoping he'd still be alive. Everybody's heart is going out to that family," Ms. Williams said.

Authorities in Matamoros, Mexico, across the border from Brownsville discovered a dozen bodies found buried on a ranch Tuesday morning. One of the bodies was Kilroy's. He was last seen March 14 during his spring break vacation from the University of Texas at Austin.

The bodies, including that of a 21-year-old University of Texas student, were discovered in a mass grave Tuesday on a ranch just south of U.S.-Mexico border. Police said a satanic cult of drug smugglers killed them in hopes that human sacrifice would protect them.

"The whole world agrees, this is the most horrible thing ever seen in the city's history," said Enriqueta Hernandez, a reporter covering the story for the Matamoros daily El Bravo. "This is more like something you would hear about in Veracruz or Oaxaca," she said.

The southern states of Veracruz and Oaxaca are known for their large numbers of "brujos", or witches, and their occult rites.

But even in those areas, the rites are not considered "satanic" because they have no connection with the devil of Christianity. The Mexican witches sometimes sacrifice animals such as black-feathered roosters, but ritual killings of human beings are almost unheard of.

American anthropologists William and Claudia Medsen differentiate between Mexico's traditional Indian witches and what they call "satanic witches" in their 1969 book "The American Guide to Mexican Witchcraft."

"The satanic witchcraft practiced in cities and towns is a far cry from Indian witchcraft, although this distinction has been

Matamoros as well as appealing to state lawmakers to help with the search.

Law officers on both sides of the border had been stumped by the Kilroy case, with no clues despite an intensive search, the questioning of nearly 100 people and a $15,000 reward.

Kilroy's disappearance also was re-enacted for a segment on Fox Television's America's Most Wanted program.

The mother of Bill Huddleston, one of the students with Kilroy the night he vanished, took the Kilroys from their Santa Fe home to the airport Tuesday for the trip to Brownsville.

"Helen (Kilroy) of course is very upset after finding out the news that it really was Mark down there," Gwen Huddleston said.

"They went down there in hopes that it wouldn't be, but it didn't turn out that way."

Satanic rituals, human sacrifices rare in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Witchcraft is not uncommon in Mexico, where open air markets sell magic amulets and powders and where one can easily hire a witch to cast a spell on a rival.

But an anthropologist consulted Tuesday said that satanic rituals are rare, although police believe such rituals were performed in the killings of 12 people in the northern border city of Matamoros.

The bodies, including that of a 21-year-old University of Texas student, were discovered in a mass grave Tuesday on a ranch just south of U.S.-Mexico border. Police said a satanic cult of drug smugglers killed them in hopes that human sacrifice would protect them.

"The whole world agrees, this is the most horrible thing ever seen in the city's history," said Enriqueta Hernandez, a reporter covering the story for the Matamoros daily El Bravo. "This is more like something you would hear about in Veracruz or Oaxaca," she said.

The southern states of Veracruz and Oaxaca are known for their large numbers of "brujos", or witches, and their occult rites.

American anthropologists William and Claudia Medsen differentiate between Mexico's traditional Indian witches and what they call "satanic witches" in their 1969 book "The American Guide to Mexican Witchcraft."

"The satanic witchcraft practiced in cities and towns is a far cry from Indian witchcraft, although this distinction has been ignored by anthropologists," they wrote. "Indian witchcraft has little or no connection with the Christian devil, who dominates the suburban sorcery scene."

"The most feared witches in urban Mexico are those who make pacts with the devil. A satanic witch voluntarily sells his soul to the devil in exchange for wealth and power."

An anthropologist at the National Anthropology and History Institute said satanic cults are rare in Mexico because they are elitist and expensive, in part because of drugs used in the ceremonies.

"From colonial times, it never was successful" in Mexico, said the anthropologist, who asked that her name not be used.

On the other hand, herbal medicine and use of witch-doctors, called "curanderos," are common in Mexico. Most markets have stalls where herbs are sold for cures, to cast or remove good or bad spells or to cleanse a home of evil.

Human sacrifice was common in the country's pre-Columbian Indian cultures; the Aztecs killed thousands every year, usually captured enemy soldiers, and practiced cannibalism.

However, it is little known now, although not unheard of. It is said to be used occasionally in rituals in which one person is killed as part of the process of curing another.

Tomas Rojas, a police reporter for the Mexico City tabloid La Prensa, said one of the few cases he ever heard of involved the slaying of an unidentified man whose headless body was discovered about three months ago next to a hill in the northern part of the city.

Rojas said officials found the body near a circle of stones enclosing a triangle. The head was found on the other side of the hill.

Residents worry about cult stigma

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Residents of this border city said today they hope they can ward off a stigma that could be attached to their community after the cult slayings of at least 12 people, including an American college student who disappeared in March.

Mrs. Gautier said the Kilroys' persistence in trying to find Mark helped authorities find him.

"If the family hadn't put all that publicity and work in trying to find him, they probably would never have found him."

Since Mark's disappearance the family has distributed about 20,000 flyers in Brownsville and nacio Garcia, a shift supervisor at Pancho Villa's restaurant. "Those people may not even be from Matamoros."

"We don't really know what the reaction of the American people will be, but we are very concerned and we will tell the tourists that 99.9 percent of the people here are good and that it only takes one or two to give the others the bad name," Garcia said this morning.

Cable TV industry called monopoly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broadcasters told Congress today that the cable television industry has grown into a multibillion-dollar monopoly in the absence of federal controls and should be re-regulated to ensure the survival of free, over-the-air TV.

The broadcasters said the 1984 Cable Act essentially deregulated the cable industry and said cable companies that once were poor cousins to traditional broadcasters now dominate the local TV marketplace.

"In 1984 when Congress passed the Cable Act, cable characterized itself as a struggling, infant industry," said Edward O. Fritts, president of the National Association of Broadcasters.

"That act, which in essence removed all regulatory oversight, has become the communications equivalent of anabolic steroids. Today, cable television operators enjoy an unregulated monopoly. Amazingly, only 32 of more than 8,000 cable systems have any direct competition," Fritts said.

Fritts said cable TV now is a $14 billion industry that is available to nearly 80 million U.S. homes. He said the five largest cable companies account for more than 40 percent of current subscribers.

He said cable rates going up and cable companies are siphoning off sports programs that once were broadcast free.

"We ask Congress to lift the thumb that has caused the imbalance in the competitive scale," Fritts said.

Fritts testified before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on antitrust, monopolies and business rights.

The subcommittee is studying the cable industry and the antitrust implications of the proposed merger of Time Inc. and Warner Communications. Time already has the nation's second largest cable system, American Television & Communications Corp., while Warner has Warner Cable Communications.

Opponents fear the "horizontal concentration" of cable interests and the merger would create, and the "vertical integration" of giving the nation's largest payable programmer, Time Inc.'s Home Box Office, direct access to cable systems.

Subcommittee chairman Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, has expressed reservations about the proposed $18 billion merger, saying Home Box Office could be inclined to withhold its programs from non-Time-Warner cable systems.

However, the Justice Department last week gave the merger its blessing.

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., has reintroduced legislation that would require cable systems to carry all local broadcasters (known as "must carry rules") and keep cable operators from changing the channel assignments for the local broadcasters.

The courts have struck down the Federal Communications Commission's must carry rules twice.

National Cable Television Association President James Mooney has said the cable industry is willing to work with broadcasters to adopt new must carry rules that will satisfy the courts.

But Preston R. Padden, president of the Association of Independent Television Stations, said that "despite the best of intentions by cable trade association executives and industry leaders ... local independent television stations continue to suffer anti-competitive conduct at the hands of cable system operators."

Mothers of murdered kids advocate the death penalty

AUSTIN (AP) — People who kill children should be charged with capital murder, say two mothers whose young children were slain — one by a babysitter's boyfriend and the other by the child's father.

The women testified before a Senate panel considering a bill that would make killing a child younger than 6 years old a capital offense.

"I ask you to please give this bill all of your consideration," said Theresa Ward of Victoria, whose 3-year-old son Daniel was shot to death by her ex-husband.

"As gut-wrenching as this is, I cannot do anything more for my son," Ms. Ward said. "But what I can do is come here and ask you to make it a capital offense to murder a child."

"Children are being killed every day by cold-hearted people, people who show no remorse at all," Ms. Ward told the Senate Criminal Justice Committee Tuesday.

Ms. Ward and Diana McManus of Austin testified on a bill by Sen. J. E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson.

Ms. McManus said her 15-month-old daughter Casey was beaten, bitten, slammed to the ground and placed on an anthill by the boyfriend of her babysitter last August.

Hugh James Gallagher was sentenced to life for the killing, but could be eligible for parole in five years under current law, Ms. McManus said.

Ms. Ward played a taped phone conversation with her ex-husband during which the man fatally shot their son, also last August.

Senators listened somberly as they heard Ms. Ward pleading with James P. Ward not to harm the child. She had taped the phone call because he had threatened her, she said.

"You're going to kill him?" Ms. Ward screamed.

"Yes, I am," James Ward said.

"Here he is. You want to tell him goodbye?"

"Don't you dare!" cried Ms. Ward.

A few seconds later, two gunshots could be heard on the tape.

Ms. Ward said her ex-husband also shot himself but survived.

The tape was used to convict James Ward, who also received a life sentence, but who will be eligible for parole in 15 years, Ms. Ward said.

"A life sentence for this murder is no sentence at all compared to the lifetime of heartache that we are going to feel," she said.

The 1783 Treaty of Paris officially ended the Revolutionary War between the United States and Great Britain.

Briefings in favor of Wright criticized as secrecy violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer for House Speaker Jim Wright has been pleading Wright's case before dozens of his Democratic colleagues — and even some lobbyists — in sessions that critics say are flagrant violations of House secrecy rules.

The attorney, William Oldaker, has been representing Wright throughout the House ethics committee's 10-month investigation of the speaker's financial dealings. He was permitted to attend three weeks of closed-door meetings beginning in late February at which the panel's outside counsel, Richard Phelan, detailed the findings of his $1 million investigation.

Following those sessions, Oldaker prepared a thick briefing book which he has used as the basis for meetings with House Democrats and a selected handful of Democratic lobbyists and political activists to present the speaker's defense arguments.

The document is sprinkled throughout with allusions to Phelan's arguments and in some places includes direct quotes taken from secret depositions given before the committee. For example, it disputes Phelan's contention that Wright marketed his book, "Reflections of a Public Man," but notes the speaker had made it clear to staff members "that I would like for all the books to be sold that could be sold."

"My reaction is sort of beyond rage, into amazement," said Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., the speaker's chief accuser and newly elected No. 2 GOP leadership official in the House.

Cult victims are discovered

Perez said suspects confessed to removing Kilroy's brain and spine and chopping off his legs.

Sheriff's Lt. George Gavito said the killings were part of satanic rituals in which the suspects prayed to the devil "so the police would not arrest them, so bullets would not kill them and so they could make more money."

Some of the victims' brains, blood and other organs were boiled in a cauldron, and the cult prayed for "demonic protection from any kind of evil that would affect them," Mattox said.

The Mexican Attorney General's Office described Constanzo as a "Godfather" to members of the voodoo-practicing sect, and said he is believed to have fled into the United States.

Police reported finding the 12 bodies in a total of nine graves, Mattox said.

Perez said the cult members removed some of the victims' vertebrae "to use them for necklaces."

Warning given for free sheep

A Scurry County man was notified Tuesday that allowing his sheep to roam free and obstruct traffic on the Roby Hwy. could result in a $200-a-day fine.

A sheriff's deputy reported going to the man's home east of Snyder at 9:50 a.m. Tuesday and, not finding him at home, leaving notification of the possible penalties for not containing his livestock.

A department spokesman said Wednesday that numerous complaints had been received about the man's sheep often obstructing traffic on the highway near his home.

Deputies were notified at 4:08 p.m. Tuesday that a license plate had been stolen off a Canyon schoolbus while it was parked outside The Shack restaurant at 1005 25th St.

James Reynolds of the Canyon Independent School District asked to be notified if the license plate is found.

Authorities declined to identify other victims, but said all were males. Police believe two of them died after Kilroy.

"I've been an investigator 15 years and it's one of the worst things I've ever seen," Gavito said.

Kilroy apparently was taken at random after members of the cult "were told to pick one Anglo male that particular night," Gavito said.

At least one of the suspects admitted involvement in Kilroy's death, Neck said.

The case is being investigated by Customs, the U.S. Attorney's Office, Mexican federal authorities and local law enforcement agencies on both sides of the border.

It is the second drug-related mass killing discovered near the border in less than two weeks.

Mexican authorities found the bodies of three women and six men March 29 on an abandoned ranch near Agua Prieta, Sonora, just across the border from Douglas, Ariz.

Five were at the bottom of a well, and four, covered with lime to decompose them, were in an earthen septic tank. All nine had been tortured, mutilated and bound, officials said.

On April 1, the bodies of three more men killed in similar fashion were fished from the well. All were believed to be Mexican nationals.

Investigators said possible motives for the Agua Prieta slayings range from revenge for lost narcotics or drug money to discouraging informants to fighting between drug-smuggling factions.

At a Tucson news conference on Thursday, Pima County Sheriff Clarence Dupnik termed as "reasonable speculation" the likelihood that the Agua Prieta deaths were linked to those of five Hispanics, two from Arizona and three from Sonora, found March 27 bound and stabbed in a Tucson shed.

Law officers on both sides of the border had been stumped by the Kilroy case, with no clues despite an intensive search, the questioning of nearly 100 people and a $15,000 reward.

Brief time has three accidents

Police investigated three minor traffic accidents that happened within 45 minutes of one another Tuesday afternoon, including one in which two unoccupied cars collided in the Scurry County Library parking lot off the 1900 Block of 23rd St.

A 1981 Plymouth owned by Crady Williams of Rt. 2, Hermleigh, had been left running and evidently slipped into reverse, hitting a parked 1982 Ford owned by Larry Scott of 2310 40th St. at 4:20 p.m., an officer said.

At 4:12 p.m. in the 4500 Block of College Ave., a 1984 Chevrolet driven by Cheryl Winkles of 3702 Austin Ave. was in collision with a 1985 Chrysler driven by Avanel Sullenger of Clifton, in Bosque County.

A 1980 Datsun owned by Bella Taylor of 100 E. 37th St., No. 12, was struck by an unknown vehicle and driver in an incident discovered at 4:58 p.m. outside Taylor's apartment.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren
1989 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from "Wife of a Slob," I had to write. My son makes this guy sound like "Mr. Clean!"

He layers his pile of clothing with dishes (with the food still on them) plus orange peelings, apple cores, egg shells, etc. Our house smells like a compost pile. This is not just confined to our home. His employer had to demand that he clean the food and garbage out of the company vehicle.

Instead of putting garbage in the garbage container, he throws it downstairs or under the cupboards. He never vacuums his room or changes his sheets. He has absolutely no regard for our furniture — he thinks nothing of using my good crystal glasses (when all the other glasses are dirty in his room). These good glasses join the others — full of mold, under his bed or wherever he leaves them. This has been going on for 10 years. When I ask him to please clean his room, he becomes belligerent and doesn't speak to me for days.

I have just told him, for the 100th time, that he must clean his room or move. Abby, he is 26 years old and is impeccable about his personal hygiene and his appearance.

I cannot help but believe that this is an illness. I find it hard to believe that anyone could be this gross (by choice) without a deep psychological reason. I consulted a psychiatrist some years ago. He said my son would outgrow this.

Please help me, Abby. I know you often consult professionals. If one can help, I will be forever grateful. I don't mind paying for help, if only I knew where to look.

I love my son very much, and I know when he gets married, you'll be getting another letter from "Wife of a Slob" — but this time, it will be my slob. Please don't print my name. Sign this...

MOTHER OF A SLOB

before it reached the point where her lovely home smelled like a compost pile?"

Then I further soliloquized: "Telling her what she should have done won't help her. What should she do now?" And here's the answer:

You can't change anyone but yourself. Give your son an ultimatum: "Clean up your act within 24 hours, or you will find your clothes packed and on the porch because you can no longer live like a pig under this roof."

Then make good your threat — if you have to change the locks on your door.

Tough? You bet. The ball is now in your court, Mother. Please write again and let me know of your decision. I wish you well.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter to you signed "Wife of a Slob," she wrote, "There is a pile of his clothes a foot high on our bedroom floor." Then she wrote, "It's been there for two months." Abby, who's the slob?

She asked you, "What should I do?" You should have replied, "Pick up the clothes!"

I am a househusband (retired), have been married for 40 years, and have lovingly picked up after my wife most of those years and was glad to do it.

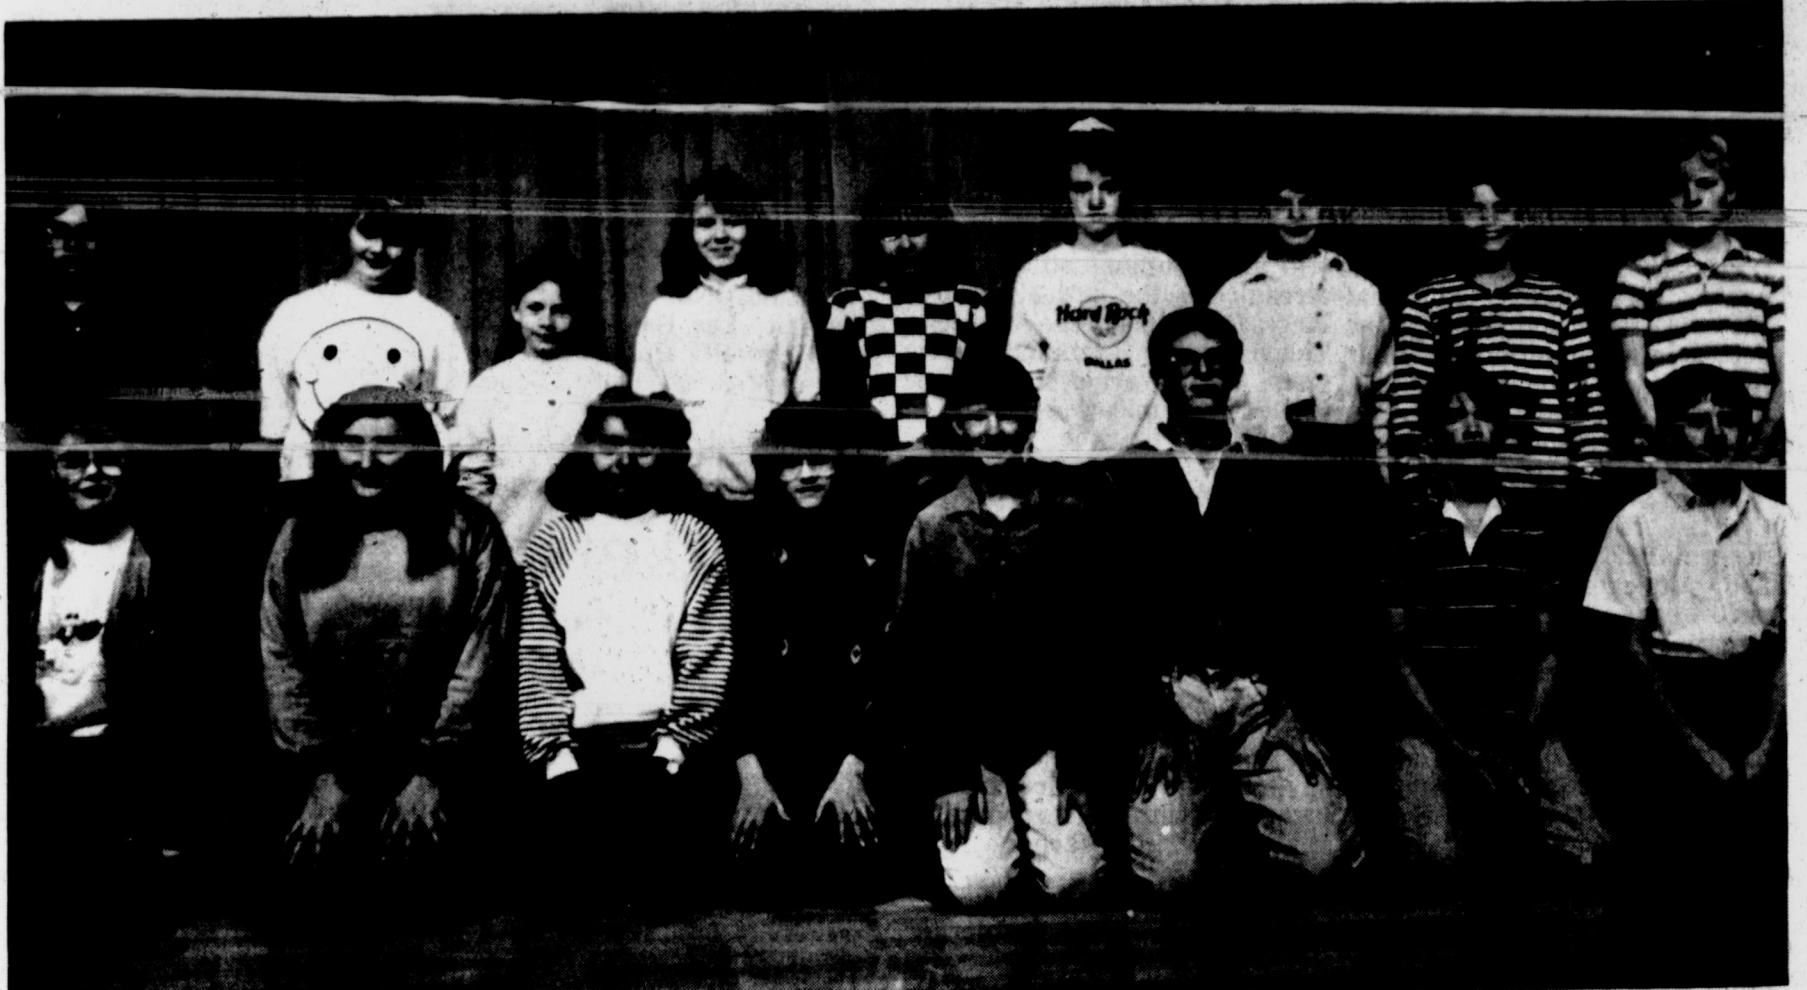

This reminds me of the story of two young men who met and one said, "I hear you're getting married." The other said, "Yes, I'm tired of no clean underwear, no clean shirts, dirty dishes in the sink and a messy apartment."

"Oh," said the first man, "that's why I'm getting divorced."

WES IN CHATTANOOGA

DEAR MOTHER: At first, I soliloquized: "Tell this tormented mother to find a psychiatrist with two couches — one for her son, and one for herself for putting up with him for so long. He didn't turn into a super-slob overnight. Why didn't she nip this gross, slovenly behavior in the bud

Sun discovers others chose Oryx also

DALLAS (AP) — Sun Exploration and Production Co. went looking for a unique new name and found a jungle full of homonyms, but only after choosing an antelope for its new symbol.

Sun E&P announced with some fanfare on March 21 it was changing its name to Oryx Energy Corp. because it believed the qualities of the namesake antelope reflected the company.

Two weeks later, Sun executives were stunned to open up the Wall Street Journal and find yet another Orix in the marketplace as Orient Leasing Co. Ltd. announced its own new handle.

"I guess everybody would have been really concerned if it had been spelled the same," said Sun spokesman Tom Sullivan, who said the company nevertheless has no plans to abandon Oryx, even though shareholders have yet to give it their OK. There is another Oryx out there, however, lurking on page 368 of the Dallas phone book.

This one is Oryx Development Corp. of Austin, and spokesman William Mina said, "We're getting a lot of calls for Oryx Energy. That's all I can say."

Out of more than half a million English words, the selection of such an unusual sound-a-like name "is an incredible coincidence," said Lee Ballard, director of the naming center at The Richards Group, the Dallas agency that came up with the name for Sun E&P.

Ballard, who headed up the two-month project, said "oryx" was chosen out of an initial list of about 3,500 names. "Some of them were the very traditional type of dictionary word; some of them were the coined word a la Unisys and those types of names that are rather trendy," he said.

"The Sun leadership took to the name of oryx immediately, partly because of the symbol, partly because of the international connotation (and) partly because the shape of the word was attractive — the y and the x," he said.

Orix "is obviously a madeup word," Sullivan said. "Ours is an animal, a noun."

But Orix USA Corp. Vice President Reuben Babner said the name, developed by a California ad agency, is also intended to reflect corporate strengths: "Originality and flexibility."

Babner said the company looked for other "oryxes," but found none. "We searched it in New York, California and Delaware," but not the whole country, he said. Babner said he was unconcerned about the homonymous names. "We're going to make (Orix) as well known as Exxon," he predicted.

Orient Leasing's 23 subsidiaries in leasing, real estate and financing, generated $1.7 billion in sales last fiscal year.

Sun E&P, spun off last year from Sun Co., is North America's largest independent oil and gas producer and had revenues of $1.29 billion last year.

Sun's Sullivan said his company doesn't care about the other firms with similar-sounding names.

"They're not in the energy business and that's the business we're in," he said. "We look forward to operating under the new name after May."
