

The rain men who disagreed with Mayor Walling's arguments were heard on Feb. 15 between T. H. Ishel, of Lubbock, former manager of the attorney, and James W. Wilson, attorney for Mayor Walling and members of the City Council.

In seeking dissolution of the injunction which was granted by the 11th Court of Civil Appeals, city officials of Haskell, led by Mayor Walling appealed, contending that the 30th District Court erred in granting a permanent injunction at a hearing for a permanent injunction, in holding that the City of Haskell may not expend City funds in opposing the Millers' Creek project, and in enjoining the City officials from paying out city funds for attorneys' fees to prosecute suits against the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority.

Haskell County achieved almost 20 percent of its U. S. Savings Bond purchase quota for 1963 during the first two months of the year, and is running well ahead of the statewide percentage, J. M. Crawford, county bond chairman, announced Monday.

February sales of savings bonds in this county totaled $13,087, bringing to $49,887 the figure for the first two months of the year. This is 19.9 percent of the $250,000 goal set for Haskell County in 1963. The state percentage stands at 18.8 to date.

Verbal Vignettes

Hereinafter are capsule comments the Free Press feels it propitious to present concerning people, events, and situations currently topical, and therefore deserving of our views as we evaluate the news.

Power of Public Opinion

We've got a couple of things going here about which much has been said in the columns of this newspaper. As citizens putting the collective community shoulder to the wheel, much can be done—and the effort, properly distributed by blanket indorsement—IN WRITING—can be most productively effective.

The Free Press appeals to your innate sense of civic duty, dormant in some, potential in some, kinetic in others, to all join forces in a letter writing campaign. We urge you to "take pen in hand", urging construction of the government flood-control project west of Rule on the Double Mountain Fork of the Brazos and restoration of the depot for preservation of "railroada," which has been a vibrant factor in our area's growth and development.

Public opinion, you know, is the strongest force in the world, stronger than atmospheric pressure, nine-and-one-half pounds to the square inch.

Your recording, in writing, your personal interest in these two projects, both of which will be enriching, economically and environmentally, to this area, will get the job accomplished.

On the federal flood control project, styled "Seymour Reservoir" on U. S. Engineers' maps on the Brazos three miles west of Rule, we appeal to you to write: The Honorable Graham Purcell, Member of Congress, Suite 1219, New House Office Building, Washington, D. C.; The Honorable Ralph Yarborough, Member of the Senate, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.; and The Honorable John Tower, Member of the Senate, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Similar indication of interest directed to the attention of The Honorable Lyndon B. Johnson, Vice President of the United States, Washington, D. C., certainly would be in order as well on this matter so vitally important to the future of our area.

E. L. Simmons, vice president of the FW&DC Lines, Texas and Pacific Depot, Ft. Worth, and J. K. Lamb, FW&DC agent, Burlington Station, Abilene, are the two gentlemen to whom you should speak out for the depot restoration.

Your lone letter of expression, joined in by hundreds of others, will strike a note for development in "this old house" that is Haskell County. Do it today.

No Rule Less Than the Golden Rule Can Apply

We have been more than moderately impressed recently by two thought-provoking presentations on the prime premise of our time—survival of a civilization.

One prescription came from the podium of a service club. The other, from a pulpit. Together, they made sense to us. We hope we can mesh these gears of graymatter for effective understanding.

In both meaty estimates of the current critical situation involving mankind today it was brought out very forcefully that the world deserves a greater measure of compassion and concern than we have shown, one for the other, at every turn.

After all, the foundations of moral law follow the simple axiom of treating all God's children like human beings. Or, in mankind's relationship, one to the other, the proposition should be: If you care, you'll share. Rather than be members of the Do-Nothing cult, we should discipline ourselves to lift up our voices against those sins that divide God's people, renounce those things that make universal peace impossible, pray for peace, and insist on the elimination of those things from our pattern of living that breed war.

Christianity, not Christiopathy, is what we need to practice as God's children, all of us—because, putting it humbly, if we can't live together, we're going to have to die together. Which is not so pathetic as it is real.

Convincingly consistent with the course we should all be traveling, all peoples of all races, all creeds, all colors, we submit, is the code of the airline pilots' association, the Brotherhood Of The Air, it is sometimes called.

This group has a common denominator: dedication to human safety—and there is no executive, martial, caste, color, creed, or any other category of priority in the air among these guardians of human life. Dedication to human safety supersedes all other priorities.

That is what this world needs—that common denominator—TOP PRIORITY DEDICATION TO HUMAN SAFETY.

There are indications around the world today that human nature is ready for higher level cooperation—a summit meeting on the subject.

A God's-eye view of peace, eradication of hunger, self government, and projection of the principles that make for human dignity, would be the beacon by which we could all "home" as the pilot would say, on that common denominator.

And in setting forth the ground-rules for the perpetuating of the game of life, or life itself, for that matter, any rule less than the Golden Rule would not be enough.

Oakescripts A Pencil Pusher's Potpourri

By PORTER

If this column comes out in Cajun, blame it, credit it rather to (one) Momentous) Menee's son-in-law, Joe McDonald, the Wichita Falls banker with a heart to match his bulk. Despite the fact that all he had to do was worry about putting on and taking off the whoje show as retiring president of the Northwest Texas Field and Stream Association, he and his winsome wife Jean, a Honey from Haskell, had the thoughtfulness to ask my Heavenly Housekeeper (I call her Angel—she's a Jew!) and me to the annual fish and game family feed last Thursday. Justin Wilson, the Cajun storyteller who sprang from the Louisiana bayou bends, rooked the rafters in his rollicking tall tales in Bayou lingo. And some sinky stylists, among them Jean and Joe's darlin' daughter, Jo Beth, modeled the latest in sports apparel.

Two of the best punch lines were the one about the telephone operator trying to "get through" to the Cajun, who was supposed to call Capitol 2-1112. She asked him if he got the message, and he replied, "Yes, but how do you make a Capital 2?" And the one about the Cajun comin' across the drunk who fell into the freshly dug grave in the cemetery. The drunk complainin' about bein' cold, and the Cajun told him, "You oughta be. You done kicked all the dirt offa you."

It's impossible to convey Cajun parlance and inflections so well just call off the dogs here and now. Here, Phideaux! Here Phideaux!

It was the Pencil Pusher's privilege to visit last Friday with a respected friend, your former Congressman and mine, Frank Ikard, who was named President of the American Petroleum Institute, the largest and strongest oil and gas association in the world, in January. Frank became the top man for this top job in the industry so indispensable to our economy as well as our nation's security only 13 months after leaving Congress to accept the executive vice presidency of API.

This neighbor of ours, product of Clay and Wichita Counties, has continued to increase in wisdom and in stature, the stature of a statesman which parallels his own imposing physical stature.

And he has retained that magnetic personal touch so many of us in his Congressional District have known firsthand.

Seeing Frank takes us back to World War II days, some dark ones for him and his adorable wife, another Jean, because Frank had been captured by the Germans in hand-to-hand, mortal combat in Luxembourg in the Battle of the Bulge. First he was reported missing in action, later listed as a Prisoner of War in Stalag 9 in Halle, Germany. It was just after the gnawing experience of not knowing whether Frank was dead, had been relieved with Jean's receipt of the heart-warming news that he was alive, but a prisoner. For the first time since the harrowing weeks of waiting, Jean went out among old friends one afternoon to play bridge.

Chief topic of conversation was the welfare and achievements of the husbands who were in the service. One-by-one, Jean's friends announced the promotions about which they had heard—"So-and-So got his captaincy recently" and "So-and-So finally received his majority," and so on. Jean Hunter Ikard was the last to speak. The war had caught up with her husband too speedily for possible promotions. Frank had been thrust into the front lines as leader in a rifle company, and he was still a slick sleeved private while fighting for his life in the Huertgen Forest and the streets of Luxembourg. He was twice wounded.

As if recalling the long days and almost interminable nights of waiting, Jean, at the end of all this promotion talk, said softly, even fervently, "I'm thankful Frank and I still have our Privacy."

A Wichita Falls City Councilman was awakened in the wee hours the other night by a telephone caller who asked bluntly, "How do you stand on water?" (Yes, people in other places besides Haskell discuss that liquid subject, too.)

"You freeze it," shot back the Councilman as he turned over and went back to sleep. A mighty safe stand to take. This of boy might go far in Haskell. He's truly an every-tub-on-its-own-bottom boy.

We can't help but record in writing how impressed we are with the number of revivals being held hereabouts and the number of evangelists working both sides of the street. It's sorta like being on the train with a bunch of conductors coming by punching your ticket where it reads "Providence," not Rhode Island, let us explain. The evangelists, we've heard, have had a whole passel of tickets on many a train of thought around here lately. It's been a healthy trip.

Seeing all these evangelists converging on Haskell and environs makes us wonder the same thing we did when we saw that array of bankers at the Chamber of Commerce banquet. Do they think we need their help? Or do they want some of what we got? Financially, in the bankers' case Spiritually, in the evangelists' case.

Overheard while roundin' the Square, "Even his best friends won't tell him, 'This is Your Life-Buoy.'"

Last night I rode around Haskell, saw a boulevarded Highway 24 from city limit to city limit, and the cutest little restored FW&DC depot you ever laid your mortal eyes on, with a coal burnin' choo-choo side-tracked beside it, and I traversed Highway 277 from city limit to city limit, and saw big signs at either end of town declaring, "Haskell. Haven of say.

Haskell County History

50 Years Ago

Page One stories are chock-full of local news about a wide variety of interesting things and people.

Miss Fannie Baldwin, better known as Jack, presented the toast at the annual banquet given by the juniors of TCU for the seniors. Miss Baldwin is "one of the most popular girls in the university and is prominent in the social life of the college and holds important offices in class and literary societies," according to the story reprinted from the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram.

"Under headline, 'Haskell In Line of Progress,' a story says, 'In the city election on Tuesday there was a light vote polled. The water bond proposition carried by a vote of 154 to 77 against.'

In the aldermanic election, with two aldermen to be elected, N. McNeill received 128 votes, H. M. Pike, 123 votes; and S. W. Scott, 64 votes.

A record-breaker for Haskell County is announced. A four-column picture shows 20 cultivators used on one farm planting 640 acres in milo maize in just four days. It was on the farm of J. H. Shipman in the southern part of the Highway Hospitality, Says Howdy, Stranger, Slow Down for Historical Markers Ahead."

Then I stopped by the Court-house, and the Chamber of Commerce sign there read, "Follow Arrows to Museum of Haskelliana. See Authentic Relics of One of The Oldest Counties in Texas." And I made the Square, and in front of the Free Press was another sign, which said, "Home of A Seventy-Six Year-Old Newspaper, Headin' For A Hundred. From Our Files, J. Frank Dobie Taps His Richest Resource Vein For 'Coronado's Children.'"

All this excitement in sequence made me feel sorely in need of a refreshing swim. I went to Rice Springs, but it had dried up. So I woke up. It was all just a dream, and early on April Fool Morning, too. Might have known I'll buy THAT dream, though.

Oakescript. The English language she is most intriguing. If you think you have a huasle with it and its multiplicity of double meaning at times, pity the poor outlander. The other day, Joe Pouns, one who brightens my every day with a cheery morning call, and with a cheery morning call, and I were discussing a pretty solid story it looked like I was going to get to break with a Haskell dateline, Good Ol' Joe, a real citizen, says, "I hope you land that lineage." I didn't realize until after we hung up Joe was talkin' about chalking up lines of printed words to my "string" as a correspondent.

The Pencil Pusher thought he might be talking about my establishing an authenticated affiliation with some aristocratic ancestry, like Sir Harry Oakes, say.

county this feat took place, and and it was recorded for posterity by E. L. Adams, Haskell photographer. Names of the men on the planters were: Lee Williams, Barney, Roy, Harvey, Bob, and A. G. Vannoy; R. B. Cecil, and Raymond Shipman; J. T. Willie, and Redolphus Pinkley; Bob, Luther, Rufus, and T. H. Highnote; C. A. and Tom Foster; Cleveland Lanham, and E. F. Chandler.

"The planting of the 640 acres is probably a record-breaker, considering the acreage on one farm for Haskell County. We would like to see who can beat this record," the Free Press adds. Mr. Shipman, the story ends, came to Haskell County 10 years ago with $190. "He is one of our farmers that rides in an auto."

Another Page One story details the passing in Rome, Italy, on March 31 of Financier J. Pierpont Morgan.

R. W. Herren and Son shipped five cars of fat cattle last week to the Ft. Worth market from their ranch west of town.

The family of Dr. J. B. Meyers left Saturday for Dallas, where they will reside. Dr. Meyers will remain in the west for a time before joining his family in Dallas.

Mrs. James P. Kinnard visited her daughter, Mrs. A. R. Couch of Weimert this week.

The Symphony Club will meet with Miss Fields on April 9. The Symphony met with Mrs. Wallace Alexander April 2 and elected the following officers for 1913-1914: President, Mrs. O. E. Patterson; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Earl Cogdell; 2nd Vice President, Miss McConnell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Muchison; recording secretary, Mrs. J. S. Keister; parliamentarian, Mrs. Turrentine; custodian and reporter, Mrs. Cahill; chorus director, Mrs. Alexander; accompanist, Mrs. Cogdell.

30 Years Ago
Voters of Haskell are thoroughly satisfied with the city administration if the light vote polled in Tuesday's election is any indication. No opposition developed against re-election of Hill Oates and Alfred Pierson to the board of aldermen.

No other names were filed for councilmen. A total of 32 votes were cast for the incumbents.

In another light vote, D. H. Persons and W. M. Cass were re-elected to the Haskell School board.

In final events of the Haskell County Interscholastic League Meet, the following placed in their respective events: Ward School declamation, Junior girls, Marjorie Ratliff, second; junior boys, Claude Warren, first; high schools, junior boys, George

WHAT IS POOLING

In spite of all the jokes about "oil-rich" most Texans aren't rich. Relatively few own even one oil well.

All Texans have a stake in the oil business, because it makes jobs, puts money in circulation, and pays taxes.

Texas oil operators have to compete in other states and foreign countries. The production methods for greater efficiency in Texas. It is a question as to whether they prefer to do this job themselves or let the government do it.

Many of the most responsible people in the industry believe the Texas Legislature can do the most troublesome problems by passing Bill 510, and oil and gas pooling bill. The oil field language simply means putting all owned pieces of acreage together, sharing drilling a well, and splitting any income equally.

A fair pooling law would create drilling of uniform and proper size (according to the pattern of the field.) It would help to cut down on unnecessary development, thus free capital for more "wildcat" drilling. It would provide a legal way for landowners their minerals in proportion to their holdings.

An outcry has been raised against pooling by the professional "small-tract drillers." Many years have enjoyed the legal sanctity of oil and gas which rightfully belonged to one else. Advocates of pooling do NOT believe property rights should be confused with the right to take another man's property—or that a pooling should cover the FREE CONFISCATION of other's oil and gas.

Contrary to claims of persons who, of their own, want to retain the outmoded pooling of the past, House Bill 510 does NOT tie up acres of acreage with one well; it does not affect already drilled or reservoirs already developed. It does not take away the landowner's bargain or change the terms of any lease except to necessary to form a drilling block. House Bill 510 would merely give all landowners an opportunity to have their properties developed when some cannot be located or one owner seeks to obtain a fair advantage. The rights of all would be protected.

Ask your Senator and Representative to support House Bill 510—so Texas, too, will have a reasonable and legal way to assure each his FAIR SHARE.

Couple Here Mark Golden Milepost Of Marriage On March 30th, 1913

Two natives of Georgia, who have lived in Haskell County almost a half-century, and who were united in marriage in Knox City on March 30, 1913, celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary with an open house here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Overby, of Brick Village, Haskell, had a host of callers from 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday as they marked the 50th milestone of their marriage at the occasion given by their only son, and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Overby, natives of Haskell, now of Hurst, near Ft. Worth.

Mr. Overby, 87, a native of Newman, Georgia, was born on June 26, 1875, moving to Waco, Texas, from Georgia in 1898. He lived there until 1901, at which time he came to this area, settling in Stamford and going to work for the SMS (Swenson) Ranch. He was with Swenson headquarters for seven years until 1908 and was engaged in farming in this area for many years. He farmed five miles west of Haskell until retiring and moving to town about six years ago.

Mrs. Overby, the former Alice Morris, of Raleigh, Ga., was 71 on Monday. She came to Texas in 1913 to join her husband-to-be, and they were married in Knox City by the Rev. J. H. Hamblen, father of Stuart Hamblen, who wrote the famous song, "This Old House."

After a brief residence in Hamlin, the couple established residence on a Haskell County farm and have lived in this county since that time.

The only son, Paul, is a brick mason at Hurst. He finished school here in 1938, as did his wife, a graduate of Haskell High School, the former Ila Faye Gregory. The mothers of the students are the ones who work with them in most of their school activities and problems—not the fathers. Isn't it logical that the school board should be represented by women, as well as men?

We now have two qualified women on the board—let's all give them our support and the greatest of ease

A fellow who was sitting next to me at a local cafe picked up a newspaper that carried a story concerning a man by the name of "Sam Hill." After reading the story, the fellow quipped: "Well, I have heard about Sam Hill all of my life, and have often wondered who the guy was. Continuing he remarked: "I often times have heard the expression of "What in the Sam Hill are you doing?" "Where in the Sam Hill have you been?" etc.

Not long ago a stranger sauntered up to me and said "Pardon me, aren't you Dr. "So-and-So" of Gainesville, Texas?" When this scribe convinced the fellow I was not the Gainesville physician, he apologized and remarked "Well, you certainly look like the Gainesville doctor... even to the cigar, mustache, flat-top hair cut, size, the way you dress, etc."

After the above incident, it dawned on me that while I was traveling for the Southwestern Paper Company, I drove into the fair city of Gainesville one day, while making my territory and just as I parked my car, a lady passing by, hailed me and said: "Well, doctor, since you treated my little boy... he is feeling much better... I was so flabbergasted I did not get around to telling the dear lady that I was not the Gainesville physician, and neither did I treat her youngster."

The old saying is that everyone has a "look-a-like" somewhere in this big, wide, old world... but I pity the "pore" of Gainesville "Doc" who has a mug like mine.

It sure will be a relief when we can buy a $40 suit for $40 again.

Criticism is often the only contribution weaker minds make.

Scientists are still trying to control the weather... and may some day do so. Even way back in 1947 "Rain-Makers" were dropping dry ice pellets in cumulus clouds. I, for one, am glad the time has not come when we can control weather. The trouble is, if we get to controlling the rain and weather, plenty of trouble will result.

For instance, suppose Mrs. Sally Omigosh has just placed wash on the line... and despite drying machines... a lot of ladies will hang-out clothes... and then about that time, Mrs. Omigosh's neighbor, Myrtle Twitplepus, decides she needs a shower on her petunias... so she sends out the rain-maker, and a shower follows... but in the meantime, Sally Omigosh's clothes, just about dry, get all soaked again, so her dander is up, and she in turn goes over and starts an argument with Mrs. Twitplepus... words fly, and Mrs. Twitplepus calls her husband over and Sally Omigosh also calls her husband to the scene... and they get to arguing in a big way. Neighbors of the Omigosh's and Twitplepus hear the ruckus and take sides. Now the first thing you know they will be "feudin' a woshin' the Martin's and the McCoy's... I just don't think controlling the weather would work.

The American dollar, as all have realized, has shrunk woefully, so far as purchasing power is concerned. Measured in terms of cost of goods and services, it will do about half the work it did a few short years ago. Despite that fact, the world is seeking the dollar more eagerly than ever and abroad, a nation's strength and hopes for the future are pretty largely determined by its ability to do business in American currency.

Assayed those-gover (to man in next row). "Excuse me, but we can't hear a word." "Man, And is it any business of yours what I'm telling my wife?"

I believe it was Henrik Ibsen who said: "A community is like a ship, everyone ought to be prepared to take the helm." So true, so true!

Stamford PCA Stockholders' Session Saturday

More than 1,000 members and guests from an 80-mile area are expected to attend the 29th annual stockholders meeting of the Stamford Production Credit Association to be held Saturday, April 6, in Stamford. President C. G. Burson, Sr. has announced.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a. m. next Saturday at the Round-Up Hall on the Texas Cowboy Reunion Grounds. Business sessions will start at 10 o'clock, and a barbecue luncheon will be served at the close of the meeting.

Following reports by General Manager J. L. Hill Jr. of Stamford, and Director Lassiter Hensley of Guthrie, the main address will be delivered by W. N. Stokes, president of the Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston. Burson will preside.

Two directors will be elected at this meeting. Nominated for the two places are J. F. McCulloch, of Stamford, and Hensley, who are the incumbents, and M. E. Overton, Haskell, and Earl Murdoch, Jayton.

In other business at the session, Herbert Bellinghausen, of Knox County, chairman of the nominating committee, will conduct the election of directors and will call for the selection of a 1964 nominating committee. Other members of the 1963 nominating committee have been O. L. Glover, Haskell County; M. C. Hager, Kent; Cleton Pritchett, Dickens; Freddie Wylie, Shackelford; Lee Smith, Stonewall; Billy H. DeBusk, Jones; and T. E. Long, King.

Courthouse Job

(Continued from Page 1) house thus will replace an earlier Commissioners' Court-studied decision to erect a separate office building at the southeast corner of the Square on property owned by the County at a cost not to exceed $30,000. The alternate plans came under study as the result of an acute need for more office and storage space by county offices, and the necessity for more accessibility to offices used most frequently in transacting county business.

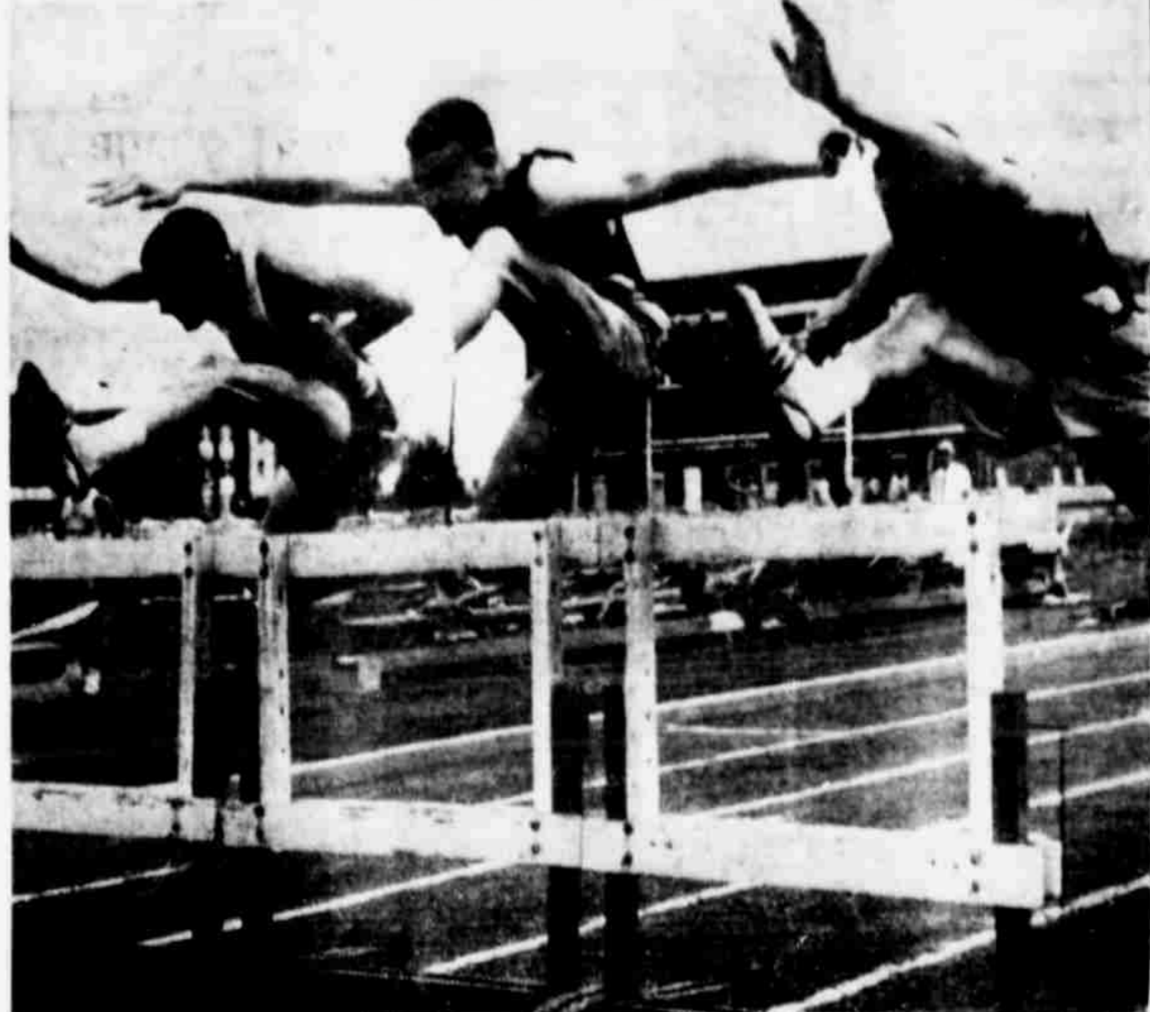

Judge Alvis and the Court believe the installation of an elevator in the Courthouse and the addition of six rooms, will make available an entire floor of the Courthouse heretofore not accessible for use. Busiest offices will be relocated on the first floor, where some agencies are now housed, and these offices in turn, will be moved to new facilities "higher up" in the building, it was explained.

Space for the six new rooms to the Haskell County Courthouse will be provided by installation of a ceiling at second floor level, which also will be a floor for the third floor over the 39th District Courtroom. The roof of the building now constitutes the courtroom ceiling, which would be dropped to the level of the second floor. Small galleries now existing on either side of the Courtroom at second floor height would be removed.

A similar plan to utilize "free space" in the Courthouse at Colorado City by lowering the courtroom ceiling reportedly has been completed with most acceptable results.

Judge Alvis emphasized Friday, as he has on two previous recent occasions in the matter of the projected new office building and, or, the Courthouse remodeling, the work will be accomplished with existing funds at no additional expense to the taxpayers and without a bond issue.

County Clerk Bill Reeves reported that, in other business transacted this week by the Commissioners' Court the Haskell County Agent was authorized an additional $25 per month for travel, and Darrell Knight, of Abilene, was employed as auditor and supervisor of the accounting department of Haskell County Hospital on an annual basis. Audits were authorized to be made at the hospital each year instead of intermittently every three to four years as previously.

FLYING LOW Hamlin's Larry Butler (left) is on his way to edging out two leading Haskellites to win the 120-yard low hurdles in the four-way sprint and muscle marathon which Carlos' cindermen from Haskell won overall going away, at Hardin-Simmons' Parramore Stadium last Saturday.
