Missionary Cites Leader Need In Populous Korea

A dedicated Presbyterian missionary of a year's sabbatical leave from his post in Korea told his audience at the First Presbyterian Church of Haskell Friday night he looks forward to returning, because there are in that country millions of people, "though religiously indifferent, suspicious and sometimes hostile, still they are people for whom Jesus died, who need to find Christianity." Dr. George T. Brown, Presbyterian missionary to Korea since 1953, told a family night gathering in the First Presbyterian Church here, that Korea is but seven percent Christian, and that three other religious doctrines there have failed miserably for lack of belief in a Supreme Being. "In spite of the barriers of race, culture, background and language, the fact that I can preach and sometimes they believe," Dr. Brown said of his mission to Korea, "is proof that there is a Supreme Being directing us." Introduced by Rev. Douglas Finch, pastor of the church here, Dr. Brown showed slides of Korea, the countryside, the idolatrous nature of the other religions practiced there, and the challenge that faces him to furnish pastors for country churches in the hills of Korea in his direction of a small seminary where 65 persons are being trained for rural, back-road ministries. Four hundred pastors working in behalf of Christianity, have vanished during the Communist regime in strife-torn Korea, Dr. Brown said. A total of 75 Presbyterian church edifices and congregations there are being served by but 15 ordained ministers. "That's why I must go back," he said. "And we look forward to it." Dr. and Mrs. Brown, both offspring of missionaries themselves, and their five children, are spending a year at Mission Haven, a Presbyterian retreat in Decatur, Ga., and will return to Korea in August. The visiting missionary is making visitations to Abilene, Sweetwater and Wichita Falls on his current Texas trip.

The Good Earth

Violets are peeping Up through the leaves, As the rays of the sun A gay pattern weaves. by MRS. B. F. COBB

Iris is the poor man's orchid. The color range is wide and they fit into most any landscape. The rainbow colors of these plants help to brighten "The Good Earth."

Several things can be done to help iris produce large glowing flowers this spring. First, bearded iris are inclined to take bacterial rot during a long rainy season. This disease can be identified by a soft, foul smelling spot on the rhizome of the plant. Uncover the diseased place and scrape out all the rot. Let the rhizome air for two or three days. Then dust the scar with sulphur and re-cover with soil. Be sure no water stands around the plants. Remove all old leaves and trash from the iris bed, so the rhizomes can get sun and air. Burn all residue as it may harbor disease.

Sprinkle DDT or dieldrin around the iris clumps to control the borer. If root or plant lice have invaded the iris bed, soak the ground with 2 teaspoons of nicotine sulfate to 1 gallon water.

If the iris bed is on poor soil and manure or compost was not incorporated into the soil before the plants were started, a low nitrogen fertilizer may be applied about a month before iris are to bloom. Do not put organic fertilizer on established bearded iris. This often causes rhizome rot.

Japanese, Siberian and Spanish iris all like slightly acid soil, plenty of moisture, but no water logging. The addition of well rotted manure help these plants to bloom well. The same treatment for disease of bearded iris, applies to these three types also.

The best time for transplanting bearded iris is just after they bloom. This gives a longer period for them to establish healthy clumps for next year's growth. However, they can be transplanted even as late as November. If plants are moved before they bloom the stem is short, the flower smaller.

Carbon monoxide poisoning is the favorite method of suicide in the U. S.

ELL COUNTY SITE OF FIRST STATE BUFFALO KILLING

...of a Series) eastern Haskell County, near the old Irby settlement, 12 miles east and a little north of Haskell today.

Their buffalo hunting progressed from this point, across what is now probably part of the vast 106,000 acre Swenson SMS Ranch, which lies from Throckmorton County, through at least 15 miles of north Haskell County.

The Mooars' camp was successively moved to Miller's Creek, site of a projected source of palatable water for Haskell and three other area towns today; then to the head of Lake Creek and soon afterwards, to Lake Creek, later known as Twin Lakes, where a permanent winter camp was established near the line of Knox and Haskell Counties.

At this point, and at the head of Lake Creek, and at Rice Springs, the watering place, where the town of Haskell was founded, during the winter of 1875-76, occurred, according to Historian R. E. Sherrill, "the first big buffalo killing in Texas, two thousand buffaloes being killed, and several thousand pounds of meat cured."

The meat was sold at Fort Griffin, and early in the spring of 1876, the outfit, consisting of six huge ox teams, each drawing two wagons loaded with 200 hides each, plodded to Fort Griffin and followed the government mail route to Denison.

As this strange entourage traveled from Fort Griffin to Denison, the mail carrier ahead of them heralded their coming, saying that "Hunters are coming along the road with herds of ox teams hauling stacks of hides like mountains."

History records that many settlers came to see the sight, and when they neared Sherman and Denison, they found hide buyers "wholly unprepared to classify the hides or handle the situation." So the Mooars sold the hides by telegraph to Lovenstein of Kansas City.

The stories of these peculiar types of prairie schooners laden with their mountainous cargoes, of course, went far, and this, historians agree, was a Haskell County "first." It

FREE PRESS SUBSCRIBER IN '64 Seniors Will 70TH YEAR READING PAPER Bask At Corpus On Annual Trip

To the Haskell Free Press Friday came a message from a Haskell County resident who has earned the right to be called a "steady subscriber."

Mrs. Walter Patton, of Route 1, Box 22, Weinert, in the northeast part of the county, sent in her money to take the Free Press for the seventieth year. The Free Press is in its seventy-ninth year of publication.

Mrs. Patton said she had been reading the newspaper here since 1895, "when my mother, Mrs. W. P. Phillips, was appointed Postmaster of the little Ample Post Office in the northeast corner of the county."

"There was nothing there but Indian tepees and antelope hair" in Rice Springs, the watering place around which the town of Haskell sprang, when her husband first came here with his father's family, the J. E. Patton's, at the age of seven years in January, 1882, Mrs. Patton recalled. Haskell was not organized until 1885, although Haskell County had been surveyed since 1858.

Mrs. Patton, who has lived in Haskell County since 1894, wrote, "I enjoy the Free Press," a compliment loftily regarded at the newspaper office here.

Having received, by careful count, 3,588 issues of one of West Texas' oldest newspapers, obviously, she does.

Following a series of conferences and extended deliberations, the Haskell High School Class of 1964 has chosen Corpus Christi as its destination on the traditional trip annually taken by the Senior Class during the Easter holidays.

High School Principal W. P. McCollum said Monday indications now are that some 45 Seniors will be making the trip to the Gulf Coast metropolis, the site of last year's pilgrimage by Seniors here.

Four choices were considered by the Senior Class here, and Colorado Springs and Ruidosa remained in contention until the final decision was made. They were finally ruled out, McCollum said, when the weather factor was brought up. With the Easter holidays arriving early this year, March 27-30, it was pointed out that possibilities of inclement weather at some of the places under consideration might arise.

Steps Taken To Set Up Industrial Foundation Here

Moving to pull abreast of other North Central and North-west Texas towns setting up similar organizations, the Industrial Committee of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce Friday took initial steps toward establishment of an industrial foundation under the direction of Chamber President Abe Turner and Industrial Chairman Tom Barfield.

Chamber Manager Bob Lowrance was directed to request from officials in Olney, Quanah and Stamford information which would be helpful here in drawing up charter application papers. As soon as these papers are in order, Turner said a town hall meeting will be called "for the purpose of canvassing the citizenship to subscribe to shares in Haskell's new industrial foundation."

Industrial committee members here said at the Friday breakfast meeting that at least three Haskell citizens already have indicated they will "put up $1,000 each" to help start a non-profit industrial corporation to secure industry for this community.

The Chamber's industry group will reconvene within two weeks to further crystallize the preparation of a constitution and by-laws, and proceed with its plans for financially underwriting the project.

Meanwhile, the committee heard the latest report on an industrial labor survey in progress here for the past two weeks. The survey is nearing its 800-name labor pool goal, Lowrance reported. This project is slated for imminent completion.

HERE ARE SAVING GRACES OF MANY INCOME TAX "FACES"

It soon will be time to start work on your income tax report, says Mrs. Wanda B. Meyer, home management specialist with the Agricultural Extension Service at Texas A&M University.

You may want to review some of the rules which may help you save—if they apply in your case. Here's a checklist:

A portion of a dividend payment on stock that is designated as return of investment is not subject to tax, although it reduces the cost basis on which you figure your profit when you later sell the stock.

A mutual-fund dividend, the portion that is designated as capital gain, is taxable, in effect, at only one-half of your ordinary rate.

Capital gains allotted to you on mutual-fund shares, but not paid, have to be reported as capital gains on your return. But you can claim credit of 25 percent of the amount as taxes you have paid, as that is the sum paid by the company.

A child who finished college in June, 1963, can be claimed as an exemption, under the rule for full-time student of 19 years or over, provided you furnished more than one-half of his support for the entire year.

Scholarship payments received by a child in college aren't counted in calculating whether you furnished more than a half of his support.

Social security and other tax exempt income received by a dependent doesn't count toward the income test that has to be met for an exemption. But any such income spent by the dependent for his own support has to be included in estimation.

Other rules to consider are: A couple married at any time during the year, as late as December 31, can get the benefit of a lower rate for 1963 on a joint return; a dependent who died during the year, even the first week, can be claimed as an exemption if you were furnishing more than half of his support; people who reached age 65 on Jan. 1, 1964, are entitled to an extra exemption and larger medical deduction.

TAX MAN SEZ

The worst mistakes that taxpayers make in filing their tax returns are 1) failing to attach forms W-2; 2) failing to put their Social Security number on the tax return; 3) not writing plainly; and 4) mistakes in arithmetic.

Look your tax return over and correct the errors before you send it to Internal Revenue, instead of after Internal Revenue writes you about it.

"Christian Issues In Southern Asia" Is Methodist WSCS Month - Long Topic

In the first lesson of a month-long study undertaken this week, the Woman's Society of Christian Service, of the First Methodist Church here, learned that 98 percent of the people of Nepal in Southern Asia are illiterate, and that as late as 1961 Christians have been persecuted there.

A PERSONAL PROFILE ON THE KIMBROUGHS, BIG AND LITTLE

It becomes more apparent all the time that some distinction must be made between Jarrin Kimbrough, A&M's All-American fullback of '39 and '40, a Haskell rancher-businessman today, and his son, who at 6'4", and weighing 215 pounds trimmed down from 230, who is being called "Little John" down Dallas way.

JOHNNY KIMBROUGH

It's ridiculous to call a giant like John Kimbrough II a "Little John", so the hometown folks settled for "Johnny" a long time ago. That was before the son appeared so definitely as a maturing gridiron strider of his illustrious father.

Although all seven Southwest Conference schools invited him to visit after Johnny made all-district 6-AA, known as a "Little Southwest Conference" itself because of its dog-eat-dog tactics, as a defensive end his junior year and as offensive fullback his senior season, Johnny wasn't "coached" by his Dad about a selection in favor of his alma mater, A&M, or anywhere else.

In fact, Johnny said when he was home between semesters in Haskell not long ago that his Dad didn't particularly want him to play football anywhere. Johnny took music lessons for 10 years, and admitted recently, "I think he sorta wanted me to play in the band."

Big John more or less confirmed this in an "aside" the recently at the Haskell Booster Club's All-Sports Banquet at which both he and his freshman fullback son were present to hear Hayden Fry, SMU coach, who was the principal speaker, say, "He (Johnny) has the great potential of being a real fine fullback like his father was. He has a great name to live up to."

When other comments were made in the same vein, even one from Fry asserting Johnny might "even be greater than his Dad," Jarrin John was interviewed on the subject. He said, "There's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip, you know."

It wasn't that Jarrin John was minimizing his offspring's performance to date. Perhaps he was being modest, or perhaps he really does wish Johnny would be playing 'Peruna' on a clarinet instead of running at the fullback slot for the Ponies next fall. Anyway, that's what he said, and his interviewer is prone to believe that what Big John really was conveying is that he considers football even more competitive and rugged than when he was there. And he, of all people, knows how rugged it was, even

From The Third Floor N.E. Corner

Mrs. Mary Jo Leverett
County Home Demonstration Agent

It is hard to try to teach something one does not practice personally so the "weight control" training fell into the category of "do as I say, and not as I do" deal. It does help when people work together on their problems and with several of the women after every other maybe some needless pounds will be dropped and here we do our new spring gowns some of us (me for one, I hope) may not dread to come out from behind our winter coats. Too, we want to help our menfolk to fight the "battle of the bulge" as we like them around as long as possible and excessive weight is a definite health hazard.

I don't suppose any of us crave to eat the very same food for dinner every day, but my plea for adult 4-H leaders is getting to sound about as monotonous. It would seem that for every 4-H club in the county there would be at least three mothers who could serve as leaders. I do not believe in misleading statements — it is work, it takes time, it takes thought and planning, and it takes energy. It is a gratifying activity, though — well worth everything that it takes to do the job. In every club there should be an organization (club) leader and a leader for Foods and one for Clothing. Texas 4-H'ers are using Unit books now and without adequate adult leaders for each club we cannot hope to have girls completing their required work. We can also use part-time leaders to work with groups on Safety, Electricity, Garden and other special phases.

Ladies, if interested, contact the 4-H club president and plan to be at their March meeting so I can meet you and discuss with you how you can help.

Home Grounds Beautification is the agents' program at Home Demonstration clubs this month. It is hoped that all members will be beautifying their domains as this is one improvement that can be enjoyed, not only by the families, but by all people who pass by. When we improve the outside appearances we are truly "sharing" with our fellow man. To beautify the home grounds involves lots more than just planting shrubs and trees, though we hope to have some cooperators and demonstrators doing that, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bland, who reside south of Haskell in a lovely new home, hope to establish a good demonstration. They have made plans with the agent's assistance for things to be done, especially this year. We will be looking forward to a stop with the Blands on our Fall Achievement Tour. Mrs. Bland is a member of the Center Point Home Demonstration Club.

Two 4-H'ers who are also getting in on the landscape demonstration are Mary Yates and Penny Patton, both of Weinert. Their families are cooperating 100% and the girls should develop yards that will be an asset. The girls will have an opportunity for some recognition in this area with their record books as this is a wide-open phase of 4-H club work.

Prison Terms Are Assessed Trio On Forgery Counts

Three men brought into 39th District Court here recently by District Attorney Royce Adkins were assessed prison terms of from two to four years after entering pleas of guilty before Judge Ben Charlie Chapman.

Halbert Wallace, 58, alias Charlie Pool, of Tucumcari, New Mexico, arrested January 23 in an automobile described as a "mobile general store" by authorities here, was sentenced to a three-year prison term on one count of forgery in connection with passing a forged check at the Haskell Dignout Store here in December, 1962.

Investigation into the man's activities by Sheriff Garth Garrett and Ranger Homer Melton following his arrest here by Haskell Police Chief Tom Paul Barnett and Chief Deputy Sheriff Pete Mercer, revealed that Wallace alias Pool is wanted in at least nine other Texas towns on similar charges. He also was given a one-year probation sentence on a forgery charge in Green River, Wyo., early in January.

Bobby Reddell, 27, of Abilene, was sentenced to prison terms totaling four years to run concurrently, on three counts of forgery. District Attorney Adkins said one count in Haskell County was for passing a $20 check to U. M. Ferrell at a liquor store at the north edge of Stamford. Two additional charges were for similar offenses in Stonewall County, also in the 39th Judicial District. Reddell was tried in both Haskell and Aspermont Friday.

Bobby Jack Nichols, 18, of Seagraves, was given a 3-year term on his plea of guilty to passing a forged check to Edna Andrews at the Texas Cafe here on December 8, 1963, in the amount of $12.50. Nichols, who was returned here from his place of custody at Snyder, also has similar charges against him in Snyder and Brownwood, District Attorney Adkins said.

Leroy Haverlah Describes Work To Rotarians

Performance of case work with a child's own parents to preserve and improve home-like conditions and to find a better place in which a child may live than the one from which he is being removed were described by Leroy Haverlah, Haskell-headquartered child welfare officer for seven area counties, as his principal challenges in a talk to Haskell Rotarians recently.

The Texas Lutheran College trained newcomer to Haskell declared the most acute need in this area is a foster boarding home, or homes, to which to turn when neglected children, of necessity, must be fed and sheltered away from their parents.

Haverlah declared that often, a parent or parents will employ most any device to provide food and shelter for their offspring, and these devices, sometimes involving major crime, further complicate the family situation.

The "most shameful device," he pointed out, which, like a broken bone, "can't just be set and then forget." Sometimes, a specialist, like a minister or a psychiatrist, is needed," he declared.

Speaking personally of his work, Haverlah stated that his basic work is "to help people to help themselves," and that child welfare officers frequently "see a lot of things that parents don't see themselves."

He concluded by saying the task of "picking a perfect parent" would be most difficult.

Eight guests from Haskell, Stamford, Rule, Rochester and Abilene were present for the luncheon meeting, in addition to the honorary Rotarians for February, Haskell High School Seniors Jo Helen Elliott and

It's just good sense to wash and dry electrically with
FRIGIDAIRE

The 1964 flameless electric Frigidaire washers and dryers offer complete freedom from washday drudgery. They're completely automatic and virtually maintenance free.

The washer is equipped with a unique 3-ring agitator which keeps clothes in the under water "Action Zone," removes lint, guards against tangling, and unfolds every piece to clean them inside and out. And by the way, the washer automatically dispenses bleach and detergent, whether liquid or powder.

The Flowing Heat dryer tumbles clothes gently on a cushion of air, pampering the finest fabrics. And the Automatic Dry control shuts the dryer off when clothes are "just-right" dry.

No other washer and dryer approaches Frigidaire for quality, advancement, and performance.

By AL HINDS

DID YOU KNOW: The four fastest growing states in the U.S.A. are Nevada, Arizona, Florida and California, in that order.

Slips that pass in the night: This scribe recalls the time I was a member of the Democrat standing head, "Little Items of Local Interest," somehow or other became transposed in the newspaper's make-up, and came out reading: "Local Items of Little Interest." Then there was the time the "Obituary" head was placed at the top of the church column. One of the preachers remarked that he knew his church was dead, but wished the paper would not publicize it.

Since a number of inquiries, from time-to-time have come our way concerning the publishing of a newspaper, Prattler, in a very short story form, is using this space today to give readers a few facts, not only of your hometown paper ... but of every newspaper you read.

The publication of all newspapers is similar and only in a degree is there a difference. A local newspaper goes through the same steps on a small town weekly, such as the Haskell Free Press, as it does on a daily. Only in the number of employees and the amount of equipment to print the newspaper is there a difference.

One of the days when it took only a "shirt-tail" full of type and a hand press to publish a newspaper. Now the newspaper plant has one of the largest investments in equipment of any business in a small city. Practically all of the revenue of a weekly newspaper is spent in the town it is published.

The publisher of a small town newspaper must be all things to all men. He must, and does share every interest for the betterment of the town. His interest is personal and he works shoulder to shoulder, along with his staff, with the town's churches, schools, government, clubs, organizations and businessmen in making his town a better place to live, and to do business. His newspaper must mirror the activities of his town and area and inform the readers ... townspeople and farmers alike.

The old saying "names make news" has never been disproved. Readers like to read about themselves, people they know and those about whom they have heard. Some news is mailed to the newspaper, telephone-in, brought in the office and a lot is dug up by the editor, or reporters.

While some news is mailed, or brought into the Free Press typed and well-written, most news stories that go into the newspaper have to be written and checked by the editor. Re-writing of news sent in is done to make it conform with the newspaper's style and checked for accuracy. After the story is written it is checked for mistakes, edited and headline written. In four or six words the headline tells what is in the story.

The use of pictures of news events has grown considerably the past few years, and now most all small town newspapers have a camera equipment of some kind that they may record for you the more important happenings of your community; however many hometown publishers give as much of that business to the local photographer as possible.

From the editor's and advertising manager's desks the news stories and ad copy goes to the typesetting machine where the machine operator touches the keys and the story and copy for the ads is set in type.

Of course advertising space is the newspaper's merchandise or "bread and butter." If it were not for advertising your newspaper would cost a dollar or more per copy.

After the type has been set, proof read on the ads and stories, it goes to table "stones," where the paper is made up into pages. When all advertising and news stories have been placed in the forms, the pages are "locked-up" and ready for the press. The page forms are locked on the bed of the press, and the press is readied to "roll."

After the paper is printed, names stamped on them, they are tied in bundles for each route, then go to the postoffice where they are weighed and again sorted by the postal employees, then hit the road to the readers. Of course, a number of copies of the Free Press are sold over the counter in the newspaper office and the newsstand.

This is the story of your newspaper published in your hometown by someone you know, about you, and about people you know. So, as a reader, a subscriber, or an advertiser, you have had a big part in the publication of this newspaper.

Good ol' Dr. Williams came to Prattler's rescue recently at Lions Club when President Wallace Cox Jr. auctioned off one of my pipes. The pipe was "lifted" or "stolen" from this by a couple of Lions, whose names I don't know, but their initials are Don Muenzier and Itaja Hassen. Dr. Williams was high bidder on the pipe (and by the way, his bid was a measly 11 cents); however, he gave the pipe back to me, which was mighty neighborly.

Lion's Present

Public Schools Week
Tree Planting
Despite cold weather, high winds and dust, Haskell Lions set out more than 100 trees last Thursday afternoon. Another 60 or 70 trees will be planted Saturday afternoon, Jim Sampson, chairman of the project, announced.

Due to the number of trees to be planted (about double the number set out two years ago), and to the fact one of the hole digging machines broke down, all of the trees could not be planted last Thursday afternoon.

A large delegation of Lions turned-out to plant trees last Thursday, with chairman Sampson mapping routes. In addition to the planting of trees over the residential section of town, trees were set-out at the site of the "old depot" at Rice Springs Park, and also at the park near the hospital.

Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Curtis Cox and Mrs. Cuba Duniwant served as hostesses and registered the visitors.

Richardson, the new Haskell L-H dealer, formerly served a 15-county area in which this community is the geographic hub as territory manager for International Harvester.

The Richardson establishment is the third new business to open in Haskell in the last two weeks.

Mayor Walling

Mayor Walling it will be a bid for a fourth term as Mayor, but not consecutive. He served a previous term as mayor in the 1950's, and was elected in 1960 and 1962. City councilmen Bob Sego and John Thomas still have a year to serve on their present terms.

In 1962, a record turnout of 1,321 persons voted in the city election here on April 3. The all-time high number of voters was attributed to a continuing controversy over the building of a projected dam on Miller's Creek northeast of here. Mayor Walling's administration was actively opposed to this dam as a source of palatable water for Haskell during 1960-62 and since that time has continued to be opposed to Haskell's participation in the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority, created by legislative act to provide the surface water for Haskell, Rule, Munday and Goree.

Following clearing of the court dockets last December of all legal battles in which the City of Haskell and a citizens' group here have been engaged over the Miller's Creek dam plan for several years, the municipal body here went on record declaring Haskell's participation in the water authority "dead," although the four-city water pact was created by an act of the Texas Legislature.

However, officials of the water authority declared recently they are proceeding with plans to sell the bonds voted for Miller's Creek dam, one of the steps in the project delayed for years by litigation.

Other than those who filed Thursday there have been no other candidates announcing for city posts here to date.

Folks From Afar Flock to Opening Of I-H Dealership

More than 325 visitors attended the gala "leaping out" party held at the A. C. Richardson Truck and Tractor Company's facility at which the new International Harvester dealer hung out his shingle for business last Saturday, Leap Year Day.

The guest list included the following I-H representatives: J. A. Morris, supt. of product knowledge; Earl Vick, zone manager for farm equipment; Cuba Duniwant, zone manager, motor truck division; John Jones and Dave Tate, farm equipment sales; Gene Smith, farm equipment; and Bobby Menasco, motor truck sales.

Members of Richardson's immediate family coming here from afar for the opening were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gilmore, his grandparents, of Hillsboro, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wilson, of Itasca, parents of Mrs. Richardson.

Fifty prizes were given away in addition to hundreds of flapjacks, many yards of link sausage and a barrel of coffee. Top prize winner was Don Nanny, who received a set of I-H battery cables. Abe Turner and E. W. Andrews also were on the receiving end of prizes of International Harvester products.

Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Curtis Cox and Mrs. Cuba Duniwant served as hostesses and registered the visitors.

Richardson, the new Haskell L-H dealer, formerly served a 15-county area in which this community is the geographic hub as territory manager for International Harvester.

The Richardson establishment is the third new business to open in Haskell in the last two weeks.

Demonstration at Rule

James Barr, of Lubbock, fire prevention and safety specialist of the Texas Farm Bureau, and also safety director of the farm bureau, will present a fire prevention and safety demonstration at the Rule School Friday morning, Feb. 28, at 9 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

Historical Survey

a two-volume set as a current history of this county when completed.

One of the dedicated members of the Haskell segment of the overall historical data collecting group is Mrs. Jack Pippin, granddaughter of the late fact-finding Mr. Sherrill.

At the session last week called by Couch, Belton Duncan was named chairman and director of the Haskell segment. Couch is working with seven other groups representing seven other Haskell County communities.

Personnel of the Haskell group and the realm of historical data gathering for which they are responsible this week were announced by Mrs. Barfield and Couch as follows:

Hooper T. Wilkinson, W. P. McColium, Mrs. Scott Greene and Mrs. Mary Chapman, schools; Mayor J. E. Walling, Jr., and District Judge Ben Charlie Chapman, city and county government; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pierson, church history; John Crawford and Belton Duncan, industry; John Rike and Brooks Middleton, special events in Haskell history; Miss Nettie McColium and Mrs. Jack Pippin, service clubs; Carl Wheatley, oil development; Judge Alvis and Mrs. R. C. Couch, Sr., country schools.

Archivist Couch urged school teachers, patrons and trustees of some 52 country schools, to whom forms recently were sent or conveyed to be executed in connection with the historical compilation, to mail or bring their completed histories to Mrs. Barfield at the West Texas Utilities office here or to Porter Oakes at the Haskell Free Press.

The goal of the Haskell County Historical Survey Committee is to complete the data gathering for the second volume of this county's history by late spring and have the volume off the press by year's end.

Rochester Man Makes Bond On Stabbing Charge

Leroy Beasley, about 40, of Rochester, was free on $1,000 bond on a charge of aggravated assault Tuesday after being picked up by state Highway Patrolman Jesse Priest and Rochester Constable Ed LeFevre in connection with the slaying of his wife, Mae Beasley, in an altercation reported to have taken place at their Rochester home late Sunday.

Mrs. Beasley, State Highway Patrolman Priest said, was slashed in the left chest, was taken to Haskell County Hospital where she remained overnight, then was released. A pocketknife was the weapon used, Priest reported.

Brought before County Judge Jim Alvis, Beasley pleaded no guilt to the charge and executed bond soon after the judge set it at $1,000. Date for a jury trial on the case has not been set in County Court here.

Mary Jane Brown Fund Receives Aid; More Needed

A number of Haskell and former Haskell citizens have answered the appeal during the past two weeks for continued help for their stricken neighbor and friend, Mary Jane Brown, suffering with crippling lateral sclerosis. Abe Turner, cashier of the Haskell National Bank, and custodian of the Mary Jane Brown Fund, reported Tuesday.

In her valiant battle to combat the malady, Mary Jane has had mounting expenses, and more help is needed, Turner declared.

Among the latest contributors have been the Personality Shoppe which underwrote $34.80 in necessary expense for Mary Jane's upkeep; the Haskell Lodge, I.O.O.F., $25; Mrs. J. S. Newcomb, $10; Clyde Williams, $5; Sheriff Garth Garrett, $5; Mrs. W. E. Payne, $5; and Mrs. C. L. Ashley, $5.

Gun Club Open Each Sunday P. M. During March

The Haskell Gun Club met for practice last Sunday afternoon with a few of the shooters showing up for practice trap.

Wallace Wooten, president, said that around 750 birds were thrown. Members agreed that the Gun Club would be open each Sunday during the month of March from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m.

TRUDAN 1

The true sudan hybrid from Northrup King

Trudan 1 grows surprisingly fast... reports of one and three inches a day are not uncommon. Its recovery after grazing is almost unbelievable; it sometimes grows at almost twice the rate of ordinary sudangrass. Trudan 1 is very palatable, produces well as a pasture crop, hay, silage, or green chop. Its yield potential is tremendous wherever ordinary sudangrass is grown.
