Our Congressman Speaks
 ... on Civil Rights

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 is now the law of the land. It has been duly passed by both houses of Congress and has been signed into law by the President of the United States.

The Honorable Graham Purcell, Congressman from this 13th District of Texas, has some propitious comments regarding this legislation which merit our discerning interest. We commend them here to your attention.

Says Congressman Purcell:

The House gave final Congressional approval to the bill on July 2. I voted against the bill on final passage for the reasons I have stated many times in the past few months.

I am glad to report that the amendment I sponsored was retained in the final version of the bill. This amendment permits religious schools to use religion as a basis for hiring employees. Otherwise, Roman Catholic parochial schools and universities such as Baylor University, Texas Christian University, Southern Methodist University, and the many others around the nation would have been required to hire atheists or persons of religious beliefs conflicting with those taught in the schools. I think this is a very vital matter, and I am pleased that both the House and Senate voted to approve my amendment.

Although many of you are in disagreement with the principles of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, I think we should realize that we must abide by its provisions. This is not the judicial kind of law set down by the Supreme Court in its 1964 school desegregation decision. This new law was enacted in the exact manner provided for in our Constitution. It was overwhelmingly supported by both of our major political parties. There is no question that it is now the law of the land.

Therefore, I want to urge all Americans to carefully study its provisions and requirements, and to live and act within them. Disregard for the law is not the American tradition. Neither is discrimination or segregation. All good and law-abiding citizens will accept the fact that this is now the law of the land and will obey it. There is a militancy among Negroes today that cannot be suppressed. As American citizens, they are going to demand the rights promised them by an act of Congress. Where those rights are not granted, they are going to seek them through sit-ins, through prayer and protest, through various forms of direct action. Only the most revolting and brutal force can suppress them—and that not for long. Moreover, the cost of such suppression is more than our nation can afford. It will mean, wherever it is attempted, interference with normal economic growth. And it will mean enduring blight and shame.

Ours is a nation of laws. If we obey only those laws we like and with which we agree, nothing can result but chaos. If we do not like a law, we have every right to try to get it changed through the proper and legal methods provided in the Constitution. Any other way is wrong, and cannot be allowed in our nation. Violation of the Civil Rights Act now is just as much a violation of the law as evasion of income taxes or violation of any other Federal law.

President Johnson said when he signed the bill into law, "The purpose of this law is simple. It does not give special treatment to any citizen. It does say that those who are equal before God shall now be equal in the polling booths, in the classrooms, in the factories, and in hotels, restaurants, movie theaters, and other places that provide service to the public."

President Johnson said further, "We must not approach the observance and enforcement of this law in a vengeful spirit. Its purpose is not to punish. Its purpose is not to divide but to end divisions. Divisions which have lasted too long. Its purpose is national, not regional. Its purpose is to promote a more abiding commitment to freedom, a more constant pursuit of justice, and a deeper respect for human dignity. We will achieve these goals because most Americans are law-abiding citizens who want to do what is right."

Now that the bill has become law, I hope Texans and all Americans, will obey it in the spirit urged by our President. To do otherwise is to reject the system which has made ours the greatest nation on earth.

Wanta talk about the weather? Just to stay in the vogue. It was a delightful departure from the weather script that greets us as this is being plunked out. Of course, by the time it is read, we may be back in the 100 degree plus rut.

Old Sol fought his way up this morning through a fallish haze with the temperature in the lower sixties, and, finally, with July about half over, there is a welcome, but perhaps brief, respite from some really torrid temperatures.

Don't reckon you have to be reminded that Haskell, beginning June 30, had 12 straight days of 102-plus temperatures. On last Monday and Tuesday, it was 104, Wednesday 105, Thursday 106, Friday, ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHT.

It was Saturday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, that our community fever "broke," slid plumb down to 95 from 105 in three hours. After what we've been experiencing, this week began with weather that put pep in your motor. But don't sell your air conditioner yet.

The weather picture reminds us of the following contribution by Paper Slinger Charlie Friebale, Ol' Deadeye Dick of the Dawn Patrol! Good Lawd sends me troubles And I got to wuk 'em out. But I look around and see There's trouble all about. And when I see my troubles I jes' look up and grin To think of all de troubles Dat I AIN'T in!

If you want to see ol' Earl Correll's eyes light up like a pinball machine, ask him about that winsome daughter and enterprising son-in-law, both of whom are airlines employes, and their recent out-of-this-world, literally, junket!

Pick Larmour, indomitable editor of the best little Rotary publication in the world, "The Scandal Sheet," over at Graham, says someone should explain to those fighting Republicans that they've got to run with a 20-buck banknote. Tom, against the Democrats, not each other in November!

Well, it won't be long until we know the verdict on which Republican lamb will be led into the LBJ slaughter pen. That verdict is being handed down right about now, or perhaps will be in when this meets the eye. Some classic quips come out of the Republican campaigning. Among them:

"The way those Republican factions are carrying on, you'd think they were parents at a Little League game... and 'Never thought I'd see a Rockefeller run out of gas.'"

On a similar subject, did you see where the old boy in England finally got cornered for the theft of over 1700 gallons of gasoline over a period of six months... to keep the wheels turning on his Rolls Royce, that he "liberated?" That pilfered octane is what you might call "stormy petrel." And that Briton was a victim of the cost of high living.

The recent publicity on the dire results of smoking hit the pinnacle the other day when someone nailed a sign "Marlboro Country" on a tree in the cemetery of a town in Mark Twain Territory in Missouri.

There was a show here yesterday, Latin-American type, marquee "CALIBRE 45."

We didn't know the Colts were in town. Anybody seen Nellie Fox?

We have a nephew in whom we are well pleased who has such a reputation for hanging on to the coin of the realm that he has been nicknamed "Wallpaper" by his most intimate buddies among the Kappa Sigs at Vanderbilt. Tom Fowler is a chauffeur, jeep tour guide, Town Crier, complete with frock-tail coat and stovepipe hat, this summer at Central City, the restored mining town nestled high in the Rockies near Denver. On a recent Saturday night, opening night of the highly publicized Central City Opera House for the season, Wallpaper Fowler encountered and escorted one Jack Benny to the theater. Now, if there ever was a pair that saw $ to $, it's these two.

Except Tom says Jack's out of character on the celluloid when it comes to money.

The allegedly tight-fisted Mr Benny crossed Tom's palm with a 20-buck banknote. Tom,

Mrs. W. H. Furman and little daughter, Anita Jo, spent last week in Colorado City visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. H. Posey.

Mrs. John Draper and children of Austin visited friends and relatives here a few days this week.

Accompanied by Mrs. Henry and Miss Kathleen Mullino, H. K. Henry returned Saturday from the summer training session of the Reserve Officers Corps, held at Fort Bliss, Tex. Mrs. W. A. Duncan, who has been in the Abilene Sanitarium after recovering, checked to see if it was legal tender. It was. And you may rest assured he's still got ALL of it.

This sounds like it could have happened in Haskell: "I don't care to live in a community where there are dishonest people," the man said. "I put a device on my water meter to keep it from registering, and some joker stole it."

The abundance of people named "Haskell" still intrigues us, and we wish we could research the reasons for their carrying the same "handle" as our town. Another case in point was a drop-in the other day from Jackson, Mississippi, name of Haskell Wade. He was a very ingratiating guy, was just passing through the country, and was intrigued himself to "drive into a town named after me!" He haughtily postured and a Free Presser and sent on to his Mississippi friends and kin-folks.

2 Revivals, Other Events Planned By Baptists Here

A series of eight outstanding activities and events has been calendared by the First Baptist Church of Haskell for the remainder of the summer. Dr. Ray Nobles, pastor, has announced.

This week's big event will be a Haskell-Knox Baptist Brotherhood annual fish fry, with the church here as host at 6:30 p. m. tonight. Dr. John Devin, noted evangelist, who recently moved from California to Dallas, will be the speaker.

Other activities which the First Baptist Church of Haskell either will sponsor, direct, or take part in, are, in order of sequence: Negro vacation Bible School, July 27-31; Sunday School planning session, July 29; youth camp at Luebers Baptist Encampment for ages 16-25, July 28-30; Junior R. A. camp, August 10-14; Women's Missionary Union house-party at Waco, August 25-28; and Latin American Crusade, August 30-Sept. 11.

Revolutions at the church here and at the South Side Baptist Chapel in Haskell, which the First Baptist Church here sponsors, also are imminent. The dates for the meeting at the main church are August 23-30, and at the South Side Church, August 12-23.

Rainfall Here Was Abundant Last Month

Records-wise in Haskell, June was a rainy month during which a total of 4.36 inches of moisture was received, almost an inch and a half more than the month's normal rainfall of 2.84 inches.

The welcomed amount of moisture here sent moisture totals for the first half of 1963 almost two inches above normal for the six months' period. Haskell has received 12.71 inches of rain so far this year, and the normal through June is 11.93, according to U. S. Weatherman Sam Herren here.

It rained better than one inch on three successive days, the 11th, 12th and 13th, in June, when amounts of 1.40, 1.34 and 1.01 were recorded. Together with rain on one other day, June 5, when .61 was gauged, four days of moisture in June accounted for the 4.36 inch total for the month.

Temperature extremes here last month, Herren reported, were a F2 maximum on June 7, and a 50-degree minimum on the first day of June, a rare one indeed.

CHALLENGE TO COMMUNITY SERVICE ISSUED TO ROTARY

Heralding the start of the 60th anniversary year of Rotary International, Charles W. Pettengill, of Greenwich, Conn., new president of the far-flung organization banded together for the ideal of service, Thursday noon, via taped recording, visited the Rotary Club here and challenged Haskell Rotarians to "Live Rotary."

The RI President's recorded message climaxed a Rotary information program prepared and directed by the new president of the Haskell club, Roy Johnson, vice president of the Haskell National Bank here.

Community service as the main aim and object of Haskell Rotarians during the coming 12 months was emphasized by Johnson, who told the membership and guests that "nowhere has community service been better exemplified than in the almost superhuman performance of the Haskell Volunteer Fire Department right here in our town Monday night" when efforts of local firemen confined a raging fire to one building alone and averted what might have been a real disaster in this town.

Rotarian members of the Haskell Fire Department, E. J. Stewart, R. A. (Shady) Lane, and Brooks Middleton, were cited for their "tremendous and magnificent" work as well as were all the other members of the 32-member department by Rotary President Johnson.

Rotarians here Thursday heard a voice from history as well as a voice for the future in the taped message brought here. In addition to the present president of Rotary International, Haskellites heard the voice of Paul Harris, the founder of Rotary in Chicago on Feb. 23, 1905, who flung out the challenge to service in club, community, vocational and international realms.

President Pettengill said, "It is fantastic to think that an organization dedicated to idealistic principles, meeting but once a week could survive. Yet today, nowhere in the world is there a comparable force of men meeting uniformly with such unity of purpose" as is the case in Rotary International. Today, Rotary has 550,000 members meeting in 11,600 communities in some 132 nations of the earth.

Haskell's new Rotary President Johnson declared that the theme for the year, "Live Rotary," the motto of which is "Service Above Self," can best be exemplified by "sharing Rotary," and in sharing Rotary, a club can render service to the community.

Rotarians here lost no time in putting into practice the challenges they heard Thursday, especially an appeal for community service by one of its directors, Alvin Sherman. The club endorsed the program of the Haskell Chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous, and voted its support in AA's educational projects, and put its stamp of approval on a request by the Haskell County Hospital Women's Auxiliary that it be responsible for a portion of the maintenance of a park project across from the hospital. E. J. Stewart was named coordinator of Haskell Rotary's response to the appeal.

Mid-Year Report Shows Bank Has Healthy Status

Total resources, cash on deposit, loans and discounts in the Haskell National Bank are approximately the same as the figures in these categories for the same period last year, and are slightly below what they were at the time of the last bank call on April 15, a statement of condition as of June 30 released Thursday reveals.

Cashier Abe M. Turner, Jr., reported current deposits of $4,687,275.51, total resources of $5,164,746.39, and loans and discounts of $1,928,946.36 in the latest statement. These figures compare with the April 15 resource totals of $5,467,765.14, cash on deposit amounting to $4,992,796.12, and loans and discounts totalling $1,836,470.36.

A year ago at this time, total resources of the bank here were $5,247,639.84, and deposits stood at $4,802,746.82. Loans and discounts were $1,912,013.59.

The Good Earth

While Wendell Jones and Melvin Turnbow were building our new home, my husband and I had many pleasant moments discussing gardening with these two young men.

Wendell is an avid gardener. He learned about mulching quite by accident. One year the rye grass was so thick on his lawn, he decided to eradicate this noxious pest by digging the grass out by the roots. After the task was completed, Wendell wondered about disposing of such a pile of grass. He finally decided to bury the whole thing, roots and all. The next year when Wendell planted his garden, there was one spot where the soil was more friable and porous and the seed planted there sprang up quickly and grew vigorously.

Then came the memory of the worrisome grass of the year before. From then on, Wendell really believed in mulches.

Melvin learned about planting tomatoes by the trial and error method.

The tomatoes he planted shallow, finally died, just as the plants were beginning to

Rotary Club Here Among Top 10 In Attendance Race

Haskell's Rotary Club, which observed the seventh anniversary of its chartering on June 5, remained among the top 10 in attendance standings in the 41-club Rotary District 579 in Northwest-North Central Texas during April. President Ira Hester told Rotarians here at their weekly meeting Thursday.

Reporting to the membership on statistics received from District Governor Dr. J. Harold Farmer, of Denton, Hester said Haskell's 93.88 average for April earned the club ninth place on the attendance ladder.

The Rule and Rochester Rotary Clubs, also in Haskell County, placed even higher, in second and fourth places, respectively.

Eastland's 98.11 average for April was the pace-setter for the month. The next nine in order of attendance excellence were Rule, Graham, Rochester, Cisco, Dublin, Crowell, Stamford, Haskell and South Fort Worth.

Haskell has been among the top ten Rotary clubs in the district in attendance during the first ten months of the Rotary year, which ended June 30.

Hester has been president of the club here since July 1, 1963. He was succeeded on July 1, 1964 by Roy Johnson, vice president of the Haskell National Bank here.

Guests at the Thursday meeting here included Gene Brown, formerly of Haskell, now a banker at Eagle Lake; Rotarian A. B. Youngblood, of Abilene; and Beth Vaughter, senior at Haskell High School, honorary Rotarian of the month.

150 HEAR AA SPEAKERS TELL HOW TO COPE WITH PROBLEM

Visitors from seven area communities were among the 150 people, including a cross-section of Haskell's citizenship, who heard two outstanding authorities on alcoholism last Thursday night describe an alcoholic as "not sorry, but sick" and in need of "a religious awakening," a new lease on life, to help him regain his serenity.

Sponsored by the Rotary Club of Haskell, and the Haskell Jaycees in cooperation with a dedicated group here, the Haskell Chapter, Alcoholics Anonymous, the meeting at the American Legion Hall was attended by interested citizens of this town, Stamford, Abilene, Throckmorton, Munday, Seymour and Big Spring.

The speakers, Shelby Parnell, of Big Spring, an outstanding alcoholic counselor on the staff of the State Hospital there, and "Neva G." of Abilene, a recognized leader in the AA organization, both praised the numbers of the gathering as indicative of "the cooperative attitude and spirit of understanding" of alcoholic problems in this area.

Both speakers, detailing deep insight into human behavior, explained the previous incompetence of churches to help the alcoholic "because they didn't speak the language of the alcoholic" and because to churches "an alcoholic wears the badge of a sinner." There are "many more badges of sin, equally, if not more sinful, worn by the self-righteous, such as the envious, and the greedy." Neva their aims, it was explained.

Parnell declared that only behavior of an alcoholic, churches and the clergy now are cooperating with AA, and are learning they can accomplish their aims, it was pointed out.

Parnell explained that only since 1926 has the medical profession recognized that alcoholism is an illness and a disease and should be treated as such. The alcoholic counselor, who had fallen himself, told his audience that a Higher Being had lifted him up "to serve the purpose I'm serving now."

Both speakers explained the 12 steps of Alcoholics Anonymous, and how members of this organization seek to provide a religious experience, an "awakening" through faith in God when their fellow man is powerless to help himself. They cited by specific example that there is no job too great to perform to save a fellow man who has become a slave to alcohol.

Neva G. said that "this world is full of 'dry drunks' with short tempers who need to be administered AA's 12 steps," particularly the "Prayer of Serenity," in which an AA member prays that he may as the Bible directs, "live each day unto itself," one day at a time. Neither the past, nor the future, should be taken into reckoning in acquiring the inner serenity needed to overcome alcohol, the speakers pointed out.

The messages of faith based on the AA program of dependability upon a Higher Being to achieve serenity and the stories of dedication, such as one about Parnell's having driven 825 miles to prevent a man from falling into an alcoholic abyss—these were messages indelibly imprinted upon the minds of the people assembled in Haskell for the community-wide meeting of enlightenment on a subject affecting thousands of lives.

I hear by way of Curtis Cox that Barry Goldwater up and killed his horse, because he caught the horse eating Johnson grass.

Hey, Gals — You can forget about the topless bathing suits and "shock frocks," because it's time to start thinking about your fall wardrobe... and there will be no doubt with this fall's fashion, you can tell there is a woman inside.

According to Lloyd Stewart, Star Telegram writer, there is a slight foreign accent this year to the fall fashion talk along New York's Seventh Avenue, heart of the garment district.

Spain has put her mark on New York fall fashions. Colors are warm, deep Spanish reds, glowing Goya pinks, warm browns, and brilliant blues.

In contrast to last fall's "sportive" look, the fashion picture for fall 1964 will be entirely feminine, from head to toe. There is a feeling for ruffles, for swishing capes, long floating skirts, and low-cut necklines.

Skirts have what designers like to call "movement" — pleats and panels and gores... so that a woman may step up on a curb, or into the car without the feeling that her legs are tied together.

Hemlines are shorter than a year ago. Designers are showing their collections with the hems hitting at the top of the knee caps, but they probably will cut the skirts longer for shipping to retail outlets.

One designer went so far as to predict that women would be wearing skirts eight inches above the knee in a couple of years.

A headline in a daily newspaper recently caught my eye when it said: "Steps To Ease Coin Shortage Announced." As for me, there has always been a coin shortage... but I realized it had more meaning than that.

Steps designed to ease the national coin shortage by raising production 75 per cent during the next six months and doubling it within a year were announced recently by the Treasury Department.

By next June production of all coins is scheduled to reach an annual rate of over 9 billion, compared to the 4.3-billion level for the fiscal year 1964. The new rate will triple that of 1961.

The Treasury said the increased production will be distributed among the present five denominations of coins in about the present ratios... roughly two-thirds pennies, one-fourth nickels and dimes, and the rest quarters and half dollars.

The new program is in addition to steps already taken which include operation of the nation's two mints, in Denver and Philadelphia, on a round-the-clock schedule, and the purchase of rolled nickel strip for the making of all five-cent pieces.

Additional steps include the purchase of bronze strip for pennies, thus freeing all melting, casting and rolling facilities for the production of more silver coins.

Two announced steps are aimed directly at deterring the hoarding of coins by collectors. In December, when current orders have been filled, the production of special sets of coins for collectors will be suspended.

Congress will be asked to keep the 1964 date on all coins indefinitely thus eliminating any possible incentive for keeping this year's money out of circulation for speculative hoarding by collectors.

That's pretty dern fast, Johnny!

Researchers with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration predict that a Jet transport in the near future will span the U. S., or the Atlantic ocean in less than an hour. The plane cruising at more than 4000 miles an hour will follow the supersonic transports now being developed. That's nearly as fast as "hot rodder" Don Muenzler can make on the ground.

For those of us having teenagers around the house... The 10 hints for parents pointed out by Dr. Paul Weaver, president of Lake Erie College for women, carried a lot of weight and good thinking.

Not too many papas and mamas, including this scribe, adhere to the 10-point system, but things would be much better for parents and teenagers, if the 10-point idea was given more of a chance. The 10 hints to better know and understand your teenager include: (1) Do not nag; (2) Do not criticize a teenager's behavior in the presence of others; (3) When conferring with your teenager be specific; (4) Use parental authority, but do not deliver an ultimatum; (5) Establish agreements in areas of frequent irritation between the parent and the child; (6) Reward fidelity to agreements; (7) Never neglect your child; (8) Take into account teenager's judgment in family decisions; (9) Delegate to your teenager commensurate to his, or her ability; (10) Invite your teenager's friends into your house.

Rev. Patterson Lions Speaker Tuesday Noon

Rev. J. V. Patterson, pastor of the local First Methodist Church, and a member of the Lions club, spoke before members of the organization, at the Tuesday noon-day luncheon meeting, on the subject, "What Do We Mean By Politics?"

Immediate past president of the club, Wallace Cox Jr., introduced the speaker.

"We need to know and to take a stand in politics, and the two-party system is healthful," Rev. Patterson said.

"Politics should be discussed freely, we should take a stand and it is our responsibility and privilege to go to the polls and vote," the guest speaker pointed out.

"Party politics will always be with us and we should look at both parties in fairness and evaluate the issues. In order to vote intelligently we should study the issues, and know more about the candidates," Rev. Patterson said.

Also will be presented with her ladies-in-waiting at the tableau type pageant climaxing Hey Day the night of August 8 Mrs. Frank Cadenhead Jr., assisted by Mrs. Bailey Toliver and Mrs. Barfield, is preparing the script for the moving production.

In keeping with the heritage preserving nature of Hey Day, Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Felker also announced that the "Queen of Yesteryear" event apparently was destined to create tremendous interest.

Any residents of Haskell County having dresses made and worn around the turn of the century and up to 1915 or 1916, who would like to model this apparel themselves or have someone else model, is asked to contact one of the two chairmen, who will make the arrangements.

Hey Day's "Queen of Yesteryear" will be judged by the appearance and authenticity of the garment and by the grace and poise of the person modeling it.

All the entries in this "Yesteryear" contest will sit in a group at the final Hey Day event, the pageant, on Saturday night, August 8.

Meanwhile, plans for attendant activities, a Jaycee carnival, a bountiful barbecue Hey Day evening under the supervision of E. J. Stewart and Chef John Williams, were also fast jelling as the big weekend in Haskell nears.

JIM NORMAN WILL CARRY THE RESIN— GOLDEN ERA FIDDLERS TO HAVE FIELD DAY ON HEY DAY

Mere "fiddle-faddle" was all last year's old fiddlers' contest was at Haskell's heritage-rich Hey Day celebration compared to what is in store for Golden Era fiddlers at the second annual observance this year on Saturday, August 8th, according to Jim Norman, 1964 chairman of the box-and-bow contest.

Norman, appointed Saturday as chairman of the old fiddlers' reunion, an integral part of Hey Day, by Haskell Chamber of Commerce President Abe Turner, has dubbed his event the "Golden Era Fiddlers' Field Day," and predicts "string pullers from miles around will be here."

The air-conditioned American Legion Hall here is the place, and 2 p. m. is the time on Saturday, August 8, when the foot-tapping tempo will start. Golden Era citizens, 55 years old and upward, will be eligible to "saw" their way to golden glory for four rewarding cash prizes.

Interest already demonstrated by Norman, "makes us a cinch to draw more fiddlers than last year," when competitors from twelve towns entered. The 1963 Hey Day old fiddlers' reunion drew contestants from Childress, Breckenridge, F. A. Anson, Throckmorton, Merkel, Chillicothe, Colorado City, Sagerton, Rule, Abilene and Haskell.

Prospective entrants in the 1964 contest are asked to record their desires either with Norman, Box 291, Rule, or the Haskell Chamber of Commerce.

Hey Day here, co-general chairmen of which are Dr. Frank Cadenhead Jr., and Mrs. Tom Barfield, will feature a display of railroadiana, "recalling the arrival here in 1906 of the 'iron horse' which played a prominent role in the settlement of West Texas; a beauty pageant "bonanza" to pick a reigning queen of Hey Day; an all afternoon carnival of fun and festivity in Rice Springs Park sponsored by Haskell Jaycees; a bountiful barbecue of "varmint steaks"; and a fundange type night-time production pointing up the rich heritage of this territory.

SUPERIOR SOIL SAVER — Norman Nanny, well-known Haskell County farmer, recently was awarded the Haskell Lions Club and Fort Worth Press' plaque as the "Outstanding Conservationist Farmer of the Year" for 1964 in this area. The presentation was made at a Lions' Club meeting by County Agent Frank Martin and J. C. Yearly, Jr., work unit supervisor for the Soil Conservation Service in Haskell.

was a watchmaker and jeweler all his adult life. William Alonzo Lyles married Edna Mae Mansfield on Feb. 5, 1927, at Greenville, Texas.

They came to Haskell from Lubbock in 1935 after having operated a jewelry store there for eight years.

Survivors in addition to his wife, include three brothers, T. T. Lyles, San Antonio; Jack and Glenn Lyles, Dallas; and six sisters, Mrs. Roy Ballew, c. Farmersville; Mrs. Hugh Lynch, Mrs. J. C. Duke and Mrs. Calvin Eads, all of Emory, Texas; Mrs. J. L. Williams, of Aubrey; and Mrs. Truett Sealf, of Denton.

Pallbearers were Howard Perry, Royce Adkins, Clyde Eland, Monte Frierson and Bob Wheatley, all of Haskell, and James Self, of Stamford.

meeting. It was dropped. Mayor Kelley graciously prefaced his bringing up of the current Haskell proposal with the comment, "We're not in anybody's battle and want that clearly understood." He reiterated the statement twice in the discussion, adding that, "we wouldn't relish being referee," and once stating, "We have felt our lake has been abused a little in this battle."

The Stamford Mayor's last reference was thought to refer to frequent theories advanced here by both sides in the Haskell water controversy as to the water capacity and longevity of Lake Stamford as a source of water supply.

Haskell's water troubles, now in their eighth year without a solution in sight, stem from a fairly equal division of proponents and opponents of the construction of Miller's Creek Dam, a highly controversial project which found overwhelming favor in its early planning stages which resulted in the creation of the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority by act of the Texas Legislature to build the dam on Miller's Creek twenty miles northeast of here. It was, and is proposed, that this dam impounding 5,000 acre feet of water serve as a source of water for Haskell, Rule, Goree and Munday.

As time passed, organized opposition led by the current Haskell city administration tied up the project in the courts. Only recently was this litigation all cleared, and soon thereafter, the Haskell city council passed a resolution declaring Haskell's participation in the legislature authorized water district "null and void."

Whether such action legally can be taken by a city council, acting on its own, and without the consent of the other three towns in the compact, has not been decided.

Meanwhile, three months and nine days ago, on April 7, in a campaign which centered around "do-something" about the Haskell water situation, Mayor Walling and two incumbent councilmen were returned to office, after reportedly favoring Lake Stamford as a substitute source for a surface water supply here.

Friday's action revealed in a Stamford City Council meeting was the first that has come to light on any moves made in this direction by the Haskell city council since the April 7 election.

In Stamford Friday, a Councilman posed the question, "What if the water authority does build the dam on Miller's Creek?" and another said, "We wouldn't want to see Haskell paying two water bills," after hearing the proposal of the Haskell City Council.

And if Haskell doesn't enter into a contract to obtain water elsewhere, what becomes of the water needs of the towns of Rule, Goree, and Munday, left low and dry, in the water district that already exists?

There seem to be several chapters left yet to write in Haskell's continuing water saga.

Palo Duro Canyon State Park

Etched deeply in the high plains of the Panhandle, just south of Amarillo, lies a spectacular gorge, widely renowned for its scenic beauty. This is Palo Duro Canyon, a great 15,000 acre state park of Texas. You enter it on a road which winds for miles along the bottom of the vast gorge. You see many remarkable formations such as the "Lighthouse" and "Balanced Rock" which have been formed by centuries of erosion which created the Canyon. As you drive slowly along the Canyon's beauty is enhanced by constant changes in delicate coloring. Coronado explored the Canyon in 1541, and in 1876 Col. Goodnight drove the first wagon train down a huge rock slide into its great gulf. Palo Duro Canyon is easily reached on major highways through many of our towns, and is a high spot in places to go and things to see in General Telephone Country.
