ABELDT
Haskell High reported its first football practice Monday. The team will be coached by Coach Benoit. The team will be coached by Coach Benoit. The team will be coached by Coach Benoit.

The San Angelo Jaycees dropped the Haskell Warriors 4-1, and Waco topped the locals 10-0, in the State Junior Teen-Age Baseball Tournament at Brownwood, Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

In the game against Angelo, Waco hit King for Angelo had a no-hitter until the 7th when losing hurler Haynes Hambleton and Tommy Perry both connected with singles.

Waco plated a pair of runs in the first inning but then could not get to Haskell's Ken Felker again until the 4th when it scored one more time.

The Central Texas outfit exploded in the fifth and sixth frames for three and four runs respectively, to settle the issue on the 10-run limit rule.

C of C On The Move

A good representation of Haskell businesses was noted Tuesday night at the second "Town Hall" meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, in the Community Room, Haskell National Bank. From the enthusiasm of those present, it was evident that the Chamber is moving in the right direction, and is out to get the job done.

E. J. Stewart, vice president, presided over the meeting in the absence of president, Abe Turner. The main objective of the session was to discuss the financial structure of the organization, and to map plans for an all-out membership drive.

A steering committee consisting of Don Muenzler, Wallace Cox Jr., Howard Perry, Raja Hissen and Mrs. Viars Felker was named to formulate detailed plans for re-activating the Chamber of Commerce, which, of course, would lead to the hiring of a live-wire manager in the near future.

In the first "Town Hall" meeting held at the Haskell County Courthouse, Tuesday night, August 4, budget for the Chamber of Commerce for the coming year was set at $13,500, which more than doubled the old budget.

LIONS HEAR "FIRST HAND" REPORTS ON SCOUT JAMBOREE

Members of Haskell Lions Club heard "first-hand" reports on the National Scout Jamboree which was held July 17-23 at Valley Forge, Pa.

Hugh Ratliff, in charge of the program, introduced Randy Wiseman, Eddie Hester and Wayne and Jeff Cadenhead who told of various phases of Jamboree activities.

Wayne Cadenhead told about arrangements, the trip to the Jamboree, and some of the incidents which happened on their return trip. Local Scouts and adult leaders joined the other boys in the Chisholm Trail Council in a chartered jet plane to Philadelphia.

Some 50,000 Scouts, Explorers and adult leaders took part in the week-long Jamboree at Valley Forge.

Eddie Hester told of the various activities at the Jamboree and Jeff Cadenhead spoke of the side-trips away from Valley Forge. Some of the high points of the side trips were the visits to Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, and the New York World's Fair.

Randy Wiseman spoke of the overall activities and impressions of the Jamboree. He said the main purpose of the Jamboree was to create brotherhood in scouting.

Vice President Jim Sampson presided at the Tuesday session in the absence of the president, Frank Martin. Jerry Cahill was noted as a guest at the noon-day meeting.

Lions voted in favor of continuing their meetings at Felker's Cafe.

South African To Speak At Weinert Tonight

Rev. Lewis Ziegler, born in Capetown, S. Africa, mission field from which he is on his first furlough in 10 years, will be the guest speaker Thursday, August 20, at 7:30 p. m. in Weinert Foursquare Church, the Rev. Carl Poff announces. He is also scheduled to show colored moving pictures, slides and artifacts.

According to the local minister, August 26, 1929, the day Ziegler's missionary appointed parents set foot on Capetown soil, he, their only son, was born in Capetown he spent his childhood and adolescent life, returning to the States some years later to study in LIFE Bible College, Los Angeles, where he met Arlene, his wife, a native of Camas, Washington. The couple's first appointment, after his graduation from Bible College was in Kansas. It was followed by Lewis' return and Arlene's initial journey to South Africa, where he now supervises 58 Foursquare mission stations in that area, with national ministers in charge.

Prior to their furlough trip, the Zieglers, parents of two daughters and one son, had practically completed a new brick church to seat more than 1,000. When they return to Africa, they plan to continue a building program.

Ziegler's three sisters are also active in missionary work, two in South Africa, and one, Mrs. Jack Anderson, serves with her husband in Bolivia.

Haskell Youth Is Injured In Car Wreck

Earl Proctor, 16, Haskell High School student, driving a 1961 Cadillac, ploughed into the rear-end of a 1952 model Chevrolet, at 807 North Ave. E., at 8:45 a. m. last Thursday.

Dennis Rueffer, 16, also a Haskell High student, occupant of the Proctor car, received deep lacerations on his head, when the impact threw him into the windshield. Rueffer was taken to Haskell County Hospital by a Holden Funeral Home ambulance for treatment, but was reported not to be seriously injured.

Tom Paul Barnett, Chief of Police, who investigated the mishap, said Proctor was driving south when his vehicle hit the parked car, belonging to Mrs. Laura Mayfield. Mrs. Mayfield had parked her car in front of the Charmode Beauty Shop, and was in the beauty shop at the time of the mishap.

Around $500.00 damage was done to Proctor's vehicle, and the '52 Chevrolet was practically demolished.

Proctor was uninjured in the accident.

Funeral Held Monday For W. A. Bowman

William (Bill) Andrew Bowman, 89-year-old retired Haskell County farmer, died Saturday in Haskell County Hospital following a 3 1/2-year illness.

A native of Copperton Cove, Ga., Bowman moved to Haskell County from Comanche County, Texas, in 1903 and had lived there since. He married the late Miss Gertrude Black in Comanche County in 1895. She died in 1945.

Bowman had been a lay Methodist minister in Haskell and Throckmorton counties and served as a trustee for the Brushy and Masters community schools.

Haskell Farm Store New Case Agent Here

Announcement was made this week that the Haskell Farm Store has purchased the Stewart Motor stock of J. I. Case repair parts, and is now operating the J. I. Case Agency at the Farm Store, 106 N. 1st, Haskell.

Further information concerning the change will be found in advertisements by Stewart Motor Service and Haskell Farm Store, elsewhere in today's issue of the Free Press.

E. J. Stewart, owner of Stewart Motor Service, said that in the future he would devote his full time to repair service in order to better serve the public.

The Grand Master, John R. Collard, in a good, moral devotion, spoke of the "Love of Freedom" and emphasized the need of everyone to set a better example of respecting law and order of our land.

The new 40x110 ft. Masonic building, located on the corner of North Avenue G and South First Street, two blocks west of the public square, replaces a landmark lodge building on Avenue E, Haskell's main stem, which had been in use for 58 years, since 1906. The structure is of steel and ornamental brick exterior, with mahogany paneling interior, acoustical tile ceiling and vinyl floors.

Ground for the new building was broken in April, and it was erected by B. D. Click and Company, general contractors of Abilene. The new edifice represents the products of diligent work of the building committee and members of Lodge 682 for more than two years.

Outstanding features of the air-conditioned building are an imposing 60x40 lodge room, with adjoining restroom, kitchen, dining room and foyer facilities, all well spaced in a 40x50 foot area. The lot on which the new lodge is located is 70x140 feet.

Those Golden Years

Since this area is blessed with an abundance of Senior Citizens, of whom we are most proud, and since longevity logically is the desire of us all, we deem it proper to concentrate our thoughts for a moment on the golden era of the life span.

Did you know those golden years have the possibility of taking on more of a healthier hue now than ever before?

About 20 years ago, the average American could expect to die when he reached the retirement age of 65. But today, 17,500,000 Americans are over 65, and the generation being born today may well be the one that can expect to be 100 years old.

But just living long enough isn't enough. Extra years mean little unless they are healthy, active years. You can enjoy all the added years modern medicine has given you; you can keep young in spirit, body and mind... by practicing moderation and following some simple rules.

It really seems unnecessary here to reemphasize the importance of seeing one's family physician regularly, regardless of age, for a checkup.

As one year passes, one usually needs less food, and there is some shift in nutritional requirements. You will need more protein, vitamins and fluids... fewer fats and calories. No one can feel young and peppy when he's carrying extra weight.

Adequate rest is essential, since both mind and body need peace and quiet to recoup from the rigors of the day.

The mark of an "old" person is creaking joints, aching back, and a myriad of other complaints. We are reliably informed that the best way to keep the body parts in working order is to use them.

Anticipating that golden era ourselves, we would aspire to these axioms:

Fill your days with productivity. The quickest way to "old age"... regardless of the measurement in years... is through boredom. So keep up your interest in your work, and your surroundings.

Participate in your community's affairs rather than fussing and fretting about yourself. If you want to be among the happiest people... the doers... share your time and talents with others in worthwhile civic pursuits.

Another shortcut to "old age" is worry... besides putting you in an unpleasant frame of mind, it can sometimes lead to illness. Many worries about tomorrow can be avoided, if you plan, and act, today.

That way, you can make of YOUR generation the one that will live to be 100. How about it?

MY TRIP TO HAWAII

By MRS. HAZEL HAYES

(Mrs. Hayes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clark of Haskell. She is the former Hazel Clark, who now resides in Carlsbad, N. M., grew up in Haskell and attended the local schools.)

I left San Francisco at 9:30 a. m. on July 3rd by United Airlines. We flew at 5,000 feet, and it couldn't have been a more perfect flight. It was so smooth you wouldn't know but that you were sitting in your own living room. It took only 4 hours and 45 minutes, and with the 3 hours that we gained in time, we actually arrived at the International Airport in Honolulu at 11:15 a. m. We saw the Hawaiian Islands as we flew in, and it was beautiful for there was no fog to obstruct the view.

We were met in the Airport Terminal by Hawaiian girls who presented us with a lei and a kiss, Aloha and best wishes for a wonderful vacation while on their island. There was always some one who would grab you by the arm and have a picture snapped with you. These were young girls who work during the summer between school semesters.

There were Cadillac limousines to take us to the hotels. My room mate was Flora Benton, from Springfield, Mo. She was an excellent "Buddy." We enjoyed the same things so it worked out beautifully. We got information galore and set up our itinerary for the week. We then went swimming at the beach (1 block away). It was the most beautiful water I have ever seen. It is green at the water's edge, then it gets blue, and about 50 yards out it is so blue it is purple. It was so clean, to my surprise, with so many swimmers. There were hundreds of surfers and you could watch them all day for entertainment. It really requires skill to ride the waves as they do, but even the best of surfers get their spills. The girls all wear bikini bathing suits, and later you get used to it. The majority have real long hair and they never wear bathing caps, but their hair is so pretty. They are so sunburned that many look like Negroes. I saw more beautiful girls than ever before. Ninety per cent are of Japanese, Chinese, Philippine or other descent. There are only 10 per cent considered full-blooded Hawaiians. We attended a water ballet that night that was beautiful. One of the outstanding performers was a 5-year-old girl who was a real doll. She was already a well-trained hula dancer.

Each day at 9:00 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. there was a Beach Show or outdoor show that was free to those staying at specific hotels. We went to the International Market Place that was only 3 blocks away every day to see the sights and shows. It reminded me of Disneyland, on a small scale, of course. You could easily spend a whole day there. They have daily shows for the public in an open theater and you have to be there at least an hour early in order to get a seat for there are hundreds who stand at every performance.

One day we rented a jeep and toured the island. We saw more this way. We circled Diamond Head, the Sacred Falls that looked like a veil and it hummed The Blow Hole was next, the Upside Down Falls, where the wind through the canyon sucks the water fall upward. We saw boys diving for Coral all along this beautiful beach. We went through the pineapple fields and the sugar cane belt. We toured the Dole Pineapple factory where they have 9,000 employees at this time of year. This was so interesting. We went to the sugar mill. We saw cow feed being made from pineapple leaves mixed with molasses, and it is shipped all over the world. We returned and went swimming at Waikiki Beach and watched the surfing. We visited the Hawaiian Village and saw a lovely show there.

We attended a Luau at the International Market Place on Sunday. We saw the pig buried in the ground with hot rocks to roast it for 7 to 8 hours. Sunday was the feast and entertainment galore. We attended the State Fair that was within walking distance. Next day we went to the other side of the Oahu Island to see the International Surfing Meet. What a skill! Majority of these boys live on the water, and they are so tanned they are

Oakescripts A Pencil Pusher's Potpourri By PORTER

For obvious reasons, we hope by the time this is read, the point of the following story will have been blunted by rain, lots of it, but this happened out at A. C. (Sparkplug) Richardson's Truck and Tractor Emporium the other day.

Mont Nash, of Throckmorton, was in the shop and spotted a pair of mud chains lying conveniently nearby. Nash, in a semi-explosive manner, inquired what "they" were doing there.

"Well," declared Clifford Sanders, Richardson's mechanic, "an ol' boy had a radiator leakin' and had to use his mud chains to get in here. He just left 'em here after I fixed his leaky radiator."

At this writing, we can see why he figured there "warn't" no more use for 'em, with the radiator fixed and all.

It says here the consensus of coaches in new District 2-AAA, formerly District 6-AAA, which includes Haskell, that our Indians will finish in the cellar of that six-team league. Wonder if Sonny Everett put his fellow coaches up to that rating, so it'll make his look good if he wins any of 'em?

We don't go along with callin' Sonny Everett "Seedy" though Seedy is the nickname for C. D. (Cellar Dweller). That Everett feller ain't about to dwell in no cellar, Winters Blizzards, Colorado City Cyclones, or what have you, Nor any of his Indians with him.

If it's the cellar to which they've relegated Everett's enterprising Indians, whomever said it ain't got no gridiron gumption. Or they sho' are leamin' heavy on mere assumption.

This being about the height of "dog days," we want to "put in" Bailey Toliver as our candidate who had some of the "Doggiest Days" of any of us this month.

Earlier this month, Bailey made a car sale and trade with a fellow from Rule. After the Rule citizen drove off in his new vehicle, Bailey started using the one he had taken in trade as a runabout here at Haskell. Trader Toliver didn't know it, but a dog went with the car. If the bound wasn't in it when Bailey drove off in it, the car was followed until Bailey stopped it, whereupon mongrel would resume his vigil, presumably for the former owner.

At last report, after some two weeks of "the Mary had a little lamb" routine between Bailey and Friend, we understand that the dog now thinks Toliver is his master, and that Toliver has no objections, and it's possible Bailey and Ol' Faithful may live happily together... ever after.

Don't these school supplies ads take you back? We recall it was a red letter day just before school started in our time to accompany Dad or Mother to the corner drug store and really "load up." As we remember, this experience offered just about the only compensation for the resumption of the grind. Possession of school supplies in quantity seemed a days-of-our-youth status symbol, or something. And if you can remember how you battled to get ahead on saving more "masterpiece" notebook labels than your classmates, you don't have to worry about the draft.

Overheard Roundin' the Square: "What's the shiniest thing on earth?" "I don't know... what?" "A cullud baby bathed in Goldwater and polished with Johnson's wax."

English is a complex language. If we ever begin to waver in that declaration, we suddenly get back on keel by recalling the poor distraught immigrant young woman who was trying to explain to her American husband what the doctor had told her about her inability to have children. "I'm impregnable," she said, reflecting "No, that's not the word... I think I'm unbearable."

The Latins (pure-D, that is) surely were smart to be able to divide all Gaul into three parts. We've wished many times we'd been able to do that with certain restraining order types. There are some folks with enough gall to divide into more parts than that.

We woke up with a start early of a recent morn after dreamin' we were fantastically almost black. Many girls are as tanned and also are excellent surfers.

The green mountains and valleys with all the blossoms and flowers everywhere is breathtaking. All the green trees have blossoms of various colors. The mass of color is almost unbelievable.

We visited the Mormon Temple grounds, the Polynesian Center, saw the largest Mormon University in the world. Saw the only Palace in the U. S. I even sat at the King and Queen's throne. Next day we were guests of the Navy and went on the Pearl Harbor Cruise. This was an outstanding trip. It lasted four hours. We saw all the piers where the ships were docked that were bombed Dec. 7, 1941. There is still oil on the banks from the cargo that sank. We saw the location of the restaurant where the Jap spied and tipped off their men for the attack. We went aboard the Arizona Memorial that can be still seen on the bottom of the Bay where 1,100 men are still inside the ship. After all these years the oil is still coming up from the ship. We were restricted to taking pictures at only two spots throughout this cruise. Pearl City was the prettiest city on the Island. It is on the Harbor.

We went to an exclusive place (we dressed up) named Iliki Hotel. It was 36 stories high and very modern, as most of the hotels are. We went up in a glass elevator that goes up on the outside of the building and you can overlook Honolulu. It was beautiful from there. We attended Hula shows each night.

We took the Mt. Tanalus tour that took us to the National Cemetery. It is located in the Punchbowl Crater. It was once a volcano. We saw Ernie Pyle's grave. While we were there they were having a military burial that was unusual for me to see. We had dinner at the Salvation Army Camp. My, what a lay-out and what a feed! I saw Robert Louis Stevenson's Little Grass Shack. We tried every type restaurant they had there. From eating at the Luau with your fingers to a Japanese restaurant where you eat with chopsticks. You should have seen me take a lesson in THIS. Their Terraki steaks are so delicious. We visited the Zoo also.

The second place that we dressed up to attend (only two places), was to go to the Royal Hawaiian Hotel. It cost $4.50 each for a cover charge. We saw the Kim Sisters perform. They are from Korea and appeared on the Ed Sullivan show. It was well worth the price.

The best outside performance was the Kodak Hula Show that is held every day at 10:00 a. m. It is free and there are at least 1,000 people there every day—maybe more. What amazes me most is the casual dress of all the people. The women wear Mumus or shifts, unless they are in bathing suits or shorts, and go bare-footed or wear sandals. You look out of place with any other type of dress. They dress like this in all business places also. The dresses are of beautiful material. Majority of the clerks and waitresses wear long shifts that are split up to or above the knee. No slips. People going without shoes amazed me. The temperature varies only 15 degrees all year. There is no air conditioning nor heating. It is not needed. It sprinkles or showers each day for 5 or 10 minutes, but it was never sultry like you would think.

I spent one day at the Employment Office there. They have a tremendous placement program this time of year. Their State and local office is in the same building. Robert Agena, Adm. of the E. S., Alfred Laureta, Dir. of Labor & Industrial Relations of the State and Mrs. Ruth Prater, the State Manpower Training Coordinator, were most gracious with their courtesies and made me feel welcome.

Prices are about the same as they are here on the mainland. Their local foods are much cheaper, but property is high for the lower wages they pay there. It is so interesting to see the people (Locals) taking life so easy. They never rush and don't care if they work or not, so long as they exist, that is all they seem to care about. They do not care for material things, only the necessities. They have very close family ties and they are such happy people. They raise most of their food and they all own their little huts or homes. They appear to have no worries. I visited with many different ones so as to get opinions of various people and learn their characteristics, etc. It was very interesting.

I didn't dream the Hula Hula was so pretty, that is if you can keep your eyes on the hands! All the movements of the hands mean something as in a sign language. We saw some male Hula dancers that were plenty good. They could shake and shimmy, too.

At sunrise I was swimming at the Waikiki Beach, then we left for home with new leis presented to us at our hotel and at the airport. Everyone says "Aloha" (meaning hello and good-bye). "Come back to visit our Island again." I'd love to do just that—for there just wasn't time to do and see everything.

When our plane circled the east and south coast of the Island and headed out to sea, I settled back and thought of a childhood dream realized. It was a beautiful dream in technical. In only 4 hours and 35 minutes I had my feet on home ground again. I was at the Waikiki airport swimming at Waikiki Beach, 3800 miles away in the A. M., and to be home by 7:30 P. M., the same evening, proved that the world is small, after all.

Haskell County History

30 YEARS AGO

(August 23, 1934)

Cattle buying by the government from Haskell County stockraisers was started Monday under an allotment of 150 head per day. Animals unfit for shipping or culling are destroyed.

Less than $75 remains to be secured by local fans in order for lights to be installed on the football field, according to George W. Wimbish, high school principal.

Mayor A. F. Thurman has announced that the summer water rate will be in effect until September 20. The special rate allows 7,000 gallons per month for the minimum charge of $1.50.

Coach Bill Richey will have 14 lettermen returning this year when football practice begins next week. This is quite a contrast with last year when Coach Richey started the season with only three lettermen.

Things surely have slowed down in the newspaper realm in recent years. The guys that used to be identified as members of the Lobster Shift, because overindulgence gave them that reddish glow, could not be considered conveying anything more now on their countenances than a Parlor Pallor.

From The Third Floor N.E. Corner

Mrs. Mary Jo Leverett
County Home Demonstration Agent

Last time greetings from the Third Floor, N. E. Corner— as Friday, July 31, brought to a close a brief but pleasant 9 months in your midst. The town of Haskell and the folks out in the county have all been most cooperative and pleasant to work with. The school administration and teachers were interested in 4-H work and obliged by allowing time for 4-H activities. This resulted in an expanded youth program which netted a greater enrollment, more participation in activities and certainly more projects completed at home which makes for "Making the Best Better."

Adults in the county were most gracious and to many homemakers the Home Demonstration Agent is the only source of information about many problems pertaining to the home. The Home Demonstration Agent is almost as much an institution for information on preserving foods as the Doctor is for help when a person is ill. The H.D.A. office should be a mecca for homemakers all over the county.
Thanks again for "Haskell Hospitality" and best wishes for a continuing successful County Extension Program.

4-H Record Books to be entered in District competition from Haskell county number 23. Workshops were conducted by the former agent, Mrs. Mary Jo Leverett, for the adult leaders and club members all over the county. This was the first year to compile a record book for most of the girls. These girls will receive ribbons on county and district level. They will also receive medals on county level. These will be awarded at the Achievement Program in the Fall.

Girls who compiled the record books are:
From Rochester: Martha Chambers;
From Rule: Caron Cloud, Deborah Denson, Pamela Pittcock, Cindy Pittcock, Charlotte McGuinn;
From Mattson: Kathy Hager, Susan Weise, Diana Davis, Debbie Campbell, Linda Brueggeman, Sue Hager, Janice Moeller, Deborah Grogan, Paulette Wilfong.
From O'Brien: Linda Gu-tierrez.
From Sagerton: Peggy Clark, Kay Whitley, Diane Monse, Ruth Hertel;
From Weinert: Judy Therman, Mary Yates, Penny Patton.

Some medals will be awarded at the Achievement to 4-H-ers who participated in the Contest events even though they did not submit record books. 4-H-ers will be notified prior to the event as to the date and place.

Youth of The First Baptist Church Enjoy Social Thurs. At Nobles' Home

The Senior Intermediates of First Baptist Church were honored at a Promotion social by their teachers and leaders on Thursday evening, August 13. The annual affair was held at the Baptist Pastorium, 1707 North Ave. G. Forty gathered on the lawn at 7:00 p. m. and enjoyed Char-burgers, baked beans, salads, chips and Cokes.

Mrs. Nobles gave biblical ex-amples of characters who had made wrong decisions and the resulting tragedies. Characters who made right decisions and the outcome were referred to in contrast. Mrs. Nobles re-minded the group of choices concerning moral conduct, ad-visers and friends, that they must make every day. She con-cluded her remarks by giv-ing simple rules to follow when a choice must be made, and challenging the young people to link their lives with God in their youth that they might become like Him in adulthood. Teachers and their wives or husbands present to honor the young people were Mrs. W. P. Trice, Mrs. R. C. Couch, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thomas, Harold Spain and Mrs. Nobles. Special guest of the evening was Miss Barbara Thomas of Germany. Suggestions Offered For Managing Cattle On Coastal Bermuda Grass

By: F. W. MARTIN Haskell County Agent

Management practices deter-mine the economic returns from coastal bermuda grazing. Greatest gains on the grass are made during the spring growth and lowest gains are made during summer, fall and win-ter. No one grass is known to produce continuous cattle gains and coastal is not an excep-tion. Certain ages and weights of cattle make greater gains than others. Therefore, consid-eration should be given to ages and weights of cattle and supple-mentary grazing or feeds.

Five to eight-month-old weaned calves weighing 250 to 300 pounds should not be ex-pected to make high gains on grass at any time during the year. They may possibly gain as much as one pound daily during the spring months and gain one-half pound daily or less after July 1. They are the poorest converters of roughage into meat.

Yearling cattle may be ex-pected to gain up to two lbs. daily per head during spring growth. However, a decline in gains may be expected during the balance of the year. This trend may be expected in spite of repeated fertilizer and irri-gation applications, although coastal will yield more tonnage of forage. The price per pound for heavy stockers is generally on a decline by the end of spring grazing and remains low dur-ing the summer. The feeder buyer is looking for lighter weight feeders and price per pound is adversely affected on 500 pound and heavier cattle.

Maybe the producer of grass could take advantage of this early grass gain by drylot feeding the cattle during the summer. Grain or a complete concentrate feed on dry grass pasture will increase carrying capacity, extend grazing but may not increase net income. Cattle will consume more of their daily feed requirement from such feeds, thus defeat-ing the purpose of the grass. Higher daily gains are made when cattle are confined and full fed a fattening ration.

Calves nursing cows make more uniform gains on Coastal.

"LET'S GO!" ... to scenic Arkansas General Telephone Country

Prescott-Vacation Headquarters

Situated in Southwest Arkansas, the bustling city of Prescott is the center of many scenic attractions. Eight miles away is ARKLA VILLAGE, an authentic re-creation of a typical frontier town of the mid-1880's, where there's fun for all the family. In another direction you take a ride on the Possum Trot Line of the READER RAILROAD driven by an old-fashioned steam engine. Go another way to a real DIAMOND MINE where, for a small fee, you can dig for your own diamonds (one woman found a $15,000 stone). Then there's OLD WASHINGTON, a famous roadside inn, which around 1830 was the last outpost before reaching the wilderness of the West. To these attractions add NARROWS and WHITE OAK lakes, and you have a wonderful vacation spot — another of the many places to go and things to see in General Telephone Country.

Woodard Speaks On "Our Role In Rotary"

Vice-President Woody Woodard, presided at the Thursday noon-day luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club, and also gave a very impressive talk on "Our Role in Rotary."

Woodard pointed out what Rotarians are doing and should do and concluded his talk with this poem, "My Rotary Self."

"One day I looked at myself. At the self that others can see; I saw the person I am today, and the one I ought to be. I saw how little I really serve, how little I really do; I saw the influence of my life, how little it was true. I saw the bundle of faults, and fears I ought to lay on the shelf; I had given a little to Rotary, but not service above self. I came from seeing myself, with my mind made up to be the sort of a person that really serves."

Woodard also reported on the Rotary Club's mowing and watering of the hospital park, a project assigned the club for this month.

Alvin Sherman announced that Lions and Jaycees were willing to help Rotarians on the cemetery clean-up project.

Secretary Desmond Dulaney introduced the following guests - James Russell, Albuquerque, N. M.; Jim Anderson, San Francisco, Calif.; Farned Hassen and Jack Watson, Stamford, and Robert Speer.

Bob Herren led the sing-song.

VISIT HERE

Mrs. Garland Head and her mother, Mrs. James Bass, of Tyler, visited here last weekend in the home of Mrs. Betty Cooper, and also looked after their farming interests in Haskell County.

What Is Conservation Planning?

People often ask the question "What Is Conservation Planning?" Henry W. Smith, Supervisor for the Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation District, a pioneer in the Soil Conservation Program, says "Conservation planning is making written plans for wise use of the land now and in the future, based on its present day needs, to preserve and restore the nation's most vital natural resource - the soil."

A conservation plan on a farm or ranch requires a knowledge of soils, management, economics, and the application of these sciences to the general operations of a farm or ranch enterprise. The Soil Conservation Service has available for all farmers and ranchers detailed information concerning the soils, their general and specific characteristics, their capabilities, and their needs.

In developing a conservation plan, a Soil Conservationist of the SCS assists the producer by pointing out to him, field by field, the soils, their needs, capacities and characteristics. He discusses alternative measures that the farmer or rancher may choose to properly treat his land. He assists the producer to choose wisely by furnishing information gathered locally on the average costs of applying various conservation practices, and the returns the producer can reasonably expect.

As the producer makes the necessary decisions for proper treatment of his land, field by field, the Soil Conservationist records these decisions. This becomes the conservation plan. The completed plan is then assembled in a folder or docket. Included in the Conservation Plan Docket is the Agreement signed by the producer and his Soil Conservation District Supervisor, the decisions of the producer for the treatment of each field, job sheets to assist the producer in applying various conservation practices, an aerial photograph of the farm or ranch with each field and pasture shown. Within each field and pasture is a number assigned to that unit, the acres of land within the field boundaries and the land use designated by the producer. Either a copy of the soils map is placed in the plan folder or the producer is furnished a copy of the published Soil Survey Report of Haskell County. The plan is a complete record of the producers decisions for land treatment for years to come.

D. A. Williams, Administrator of the Soil Conservation Service states, "Effective conservation of all our soil and water resources must be planned. Spur-of-the-moment action to meet urgent problems will never give us full and complete protection along with maximum use of these resources. The very complexity

I have been asked to write on conditioning flowers. If the proper care is taken, most cut flowers will hold up over a long period of time.

One of the most important steps in conditioning flowers is preparing the vessels to hold the blossoms before going into garden to cut your material.

First, wash all vases in hot soapy water and rinse well. This will prevent germs that hasten spoilage of green material.

Have a deep pail of water to carry to the garden, to first receive the fresh cut stems. Early morning or late evening (about 6 p. m.) is the best time to gather flowers for arranging. Water should be warm. Never use cold water, as the flowers get too severe a shock if plunged into cold water. 110 degrees is not too warm.

Woody stems, such as lilac or wisteria should be split or crushed, to absorb more water. Make all cuts on the slant. This gives more room for water absorption. Strip all foliage from the stems that will be under water. Foliage spoils fast. Put the fresh cut material in deep water as soon as they are gathered.

Roses keep much longer if 1 teaspoon of sugar is added to each quart of water. This practice also takes away the offensive odor of marigolds.

When the blossoms are removed from the first bath, recut the stems before arranging them to your liking.

If Dahlias, poinsettias or any other flower that bleeds (drips sap) is cut, the stems should be sealed as quickly as possible. This method also applies to poppies. A lighted candle taken to the garden saves striking matches to seal the stems.

If the flower show is a day or so off, and your prize rose is just at the right stage to exhibit, gather the rose at once and gently wrap some saran wrap or aluminum foil around the flower and place container of water, rose and all, in the refrigerator until the day of the show. Do not remove the wrap until just before show time. Be very gentle as you unwrap the blossom. You will still have a prize rose to exhibit. The stem should be plunged into warm water, on removal

Prattle

By AL HINDS

In a meeting not long ago in Odessa, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Guy C. Jackson, Jr., had quite a bit to say concerning the important subject of "Water."

Prattler wishes he had the space in this column to give the full text of Mr. Jackson's paper, but some excerpts from the talk should give readers some insight and some ideas of the water problems which the Great Lone Star State faces, and how those problems may be solved, to certain extent, in the years ahead.

This scribe also wishes to thank Dr. T. W. Williams, a long-time Haskell resident, civic worker, and a director in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for bringing the paper to my attention, and for the privilege of letting me use some of the material in this column.

Since the beginning of time, the principal problem of man has been water. Where there was water, man found food because the wild animal found forage. To vary his diet he learned to plant crops in the same area of natural growth and abundant water. When the water failed, he moved to other areas of adequate supply. Later man learned to divert fresh water on arid land and produce abundant crops there by permitting the construction of cities and a more abundant life for man.

"An outstanding example of this was the irrigated development of the Tigris and Euphrates valleys more than 2,000 years before the birth of Christ. This civilization was destroyed by the warlike but uninformed Huns who did not understand agriculture and irrigation, so this part of the Ancient World has been practically a desert ever since."

"On our own Continent, in the States of New Mexico and Arizona, there is evidence of a civilization supported by irrigation, hundreds, perhaps thousands of years old. Present Indian tribes refer to them as the "Hohokum" or "The People that have gone."

"This is all well, but let us get down to the "Problem of Water in West Texas."

"Up to now, West Texas has enjoyed an expanding economy. Experience gained by mining (to an incredible degree) its ground water resources, and through uncoordinated and careless use of available surface water of acceptable palatability.

"These easy-going, uncoordinated days of the past way of water use are gone. West Texas now faces a brutal reality. Give deep consideration to its water problems or stop growing."

"In portions of the area the economy has already reached an economic limit... a harsh limit imposed by limit of usable water supply."

Mr. Jackson pointed out that West Texas water problems divide into three general categories:

a. The fact that a very considerable part of West Texas economy is based upon use of ground water supplies that are declining.

b. A water quality problem that in large portions of the area is serious and

c. The hard fact is that West Texas is semi-arid in character. In this regard I would emphasize that West Texas has developed an economy to a level that probably cannot endure at present levels on the basis of long range water supplies available to it. The only out I can see is to work with a state-wide water plan which can alleviate materially the overall problem.

The major portion of all Texas irrigation occurs in West Texas. Therein there are close to 7 million acres of irrigation. Eighty percent of this is supported by ground water. At no place in West Texas where irrigation is dependent upon ground water is the water table stable. The great block of irrigation for example on the High Plains in the Panhandle (5 million acres) is one of the most prolific sources of agricultural income in Texas.

The blunt truth is, water is being pumped out at a rate of 6 million acre-feet per year, and being replenished at a rate of around 200,000 to 300,000 acre-feet a year. The question in this regard is not if the irrigation will persist, the only issue is how long will the ground water last.

When the ground waters are gone the area will face very serious economic and sociological problems.

Quality problems exist in the West Texas Red Bed region; The entire Pecos Basin in the Texas Portion faces a most serious surface water problem; quality problems faces the Robert Lee area.

The lower Rio Grande Valley presents West Texas with a tough water problem, both quality and quantity; the Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Snyder area faces serious problems.

How can this water problem be solved? By a state-wide water plan which would redistribute water supplies. The state-wide water plan for Texas simply proposes to firm up enough of the potable waters of the State at practical points and deliver required waters to points of need where this plan can be done economically, through the building of dams, conveyance works, etc., for redistribution of surplus waters.

'Open House' Set Sunday At Paint Creek School

"Open House" will be held Sunday afternoon, August 23, from 3:00 until 5:00, at the Paint Creek School. H. P. Morrison, Supt., said that everyone is invited to view the new Elementary school and cafeteria Sunday.

A program is planned during the afternoon, but the viewing of the new school building will be the main feature of attraction. The new Elementary building and cafeteria replaces the one destroyed by fire last December.

Gentle, Slow Rain Measures Over 2.5 Inches

Gentle slow, soil-soaking rains which began falling Friday night, and continued intermittently through Sunday plus another 1.9 Tuesday afternoon, totaled 2.56 inches, according to Sam Herren, the weatherman. Some sections of the county topped that amount.

The much-welcomed moisture from all reports, was general over this area.

Lightning flashed all around Haskell just after darkness set in Friday, and then the steady, much-needed rain began falling around 10:30 p. m., and continued through the night.

This was the first moisture recorded here in two months. The temperature dropped from a sultry 97 degrees to a cool 68 following the Tuesday afternoon shower. Total received 2.10 inches of rain and high winds Tuesday afternoon.

Fellowship Eve. Set Sunday At Trinity Lutheran

A "Fellowship Evening" will be held Sunday, August 23, at the Trinity Lutheran Church. Jim Schaefer, pastor, announced.

The program will begin at 6:30 p. m., with recreation. At 7:30 p. m. a "sing-song" will be held, followed by refreshments of homemade ice cream. The congregation is asked to bring cookies, cakes and ice cream for the refreshment hour.

Honored guests will be the T. C. Walker family and Miss Barbara Thomas, exchange student from Germany.

Four Counties Represented In Dist. P-TA Meet

Mrs. Edie Armstrong, representing the State PTA office, is teaching a leadership course to all PTA officers in a District PTA meeting being held today, Thursday, August 20th, from 10:30 a. m. to 3:00 p. m., in the Community Room of the Haskell National Bank.

Four counties are represented in the meeting. Mrs. M. F. Garland, District President, of Rotan, is in Haskell for the area session.

5 Rural Accidents Investigated By Patrol In July

The Highway Patrol investigated five rural traffic accidents in Haskell County during the month of July, according to Sergeant Frank Jurek, Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for two persons injured and an estimated property damage of $1,265.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for Haskell County from January through July shows a total of 31 crashes resulting in two persons killed, 13 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $14,890.00.

HASKELL FARM STORE ANNOUNCES THE J. I. CASE LINE OF TRACTORS AND EQUIPMENT

LEON STEGEMOELLER, Manager

MANY LINES ALREADY IN STOCK:

Leon Stegemoeller, manager of the Haskell Farm Store, announced Wednesday the addition of the CASE dealership to the store. After several weeks of preparation and moving, he now has a full stock of machinery, tractors, and parts. With the addition of Case tractor, Gehl, New Holland, Minneapolis-Moline and Hesston machinery already available, the store rounds out a full line of equipment to satisfy every farmer's need for equipment.

FARMERS QUESTIONED ABOUT THEIR NEEDS:

"Many factors were studied during the process of selecting Case equipment," Leon Stegemoeller said. "We asked farmers using every kind of tractor what they wanted most from their tractors. The answers can be summed into one statement: THE FARMERS WANT PROFITABLE OPERATION AND PERFORMANCE FROM THEIR TRACTORS! They don't want costly repairs; they don't want costly machine down-time; they don't want high fuel bills; and they don't want to have to pay high prices for their parts and accessories. All of these things eat into profits."

WHAT CASE FARMERS SAID:

Leon went on to say, "We checked with farmers who were using Case tractors. Some of them always used Case tractors, but many had changed from other lines in recent years. They said that they had a tractor with power to do every job and do it profitably. Many had never had a repair bill, and tractor down-time was no problem to them at all. Custom operators pulling machines praised the CASE-A-MATIC transfer of power to the power take-off when the tractor comes heavy. The CASE farmers are pleased with their tractors."

THE J. I. CASE COMPANY:

"After finding that Case equipment has been doing an excellent job for the farmer in giving them top trouble-free service," Leon said, "We looked into the J. I. Case Company. It was an old company that had just fought off a financial drought and had gained new life and life from Kern County Land Company of California which purchased controlling interest in Case last spring. One of the world's largest farming and ranching companies, it provided Case to finance research and development that will lead to new and more modern machinery. The J. I. Case Company is one of the best financed companies in industry today."

SALES DOUBLE IN TEXAS:

"Under the leadership of President D. Hill, one of the most dynamic men in the tractor industry, the J. I. Case Company has broken all records in sales gains the past two years. Case sales in Texas double; tractor sales up 50%; machinery sales set new records; The Case Company is rapidly becoming the leader in many fields."

FULL ONE-YEAR WARRANTY:

Case Company backs up its claims with a warranty on all parts and labor for one year. Many, many Case tractors have been operating in the field continuously for several years with only minor tune-ups and repairs. The farmer who farms with Case tractors is always ready to plow, plant, or cultivate.

FREE TRANSISTOR RADIO:

A transistor radio will be given to every farmer who permits the Haskell Farm Store to demonstrate a new Case tractor on his farm. Come in and see Leon and let him schedule a demonstration for you. You will be in for a pleasant experience when you climb onto the Case 750 and feel the power and ease of operation these tractors offer you.
