The county has reportedly been dry since prohibition. Its most recent liquor election was in 1961.

According to figures from County Clerk Dorothy Browne, 68 percent of the county's 555 registered voters participated in Saturday's election. Some 280 votes were cast against the proposition while 99 favored it.

The county had earlier set an absentee voting record when 155 people went to the polls prior to election day. County rancher and businessman Charles Canon forced the election when he submitted a list of 163 certified signatures to the county clerk. Canon had planned to to open a package store in Gail if the sale of alcohol was approved.

Western Texas College board Trustees are to tour the college ceramics facility at 5:30 p.m.,

The resolution would provide an ordinance whereby the Scurry County Junior College District would be able to tax property that will, without the ordinance, be exempt from taxation beginning with the 1990 tax year. In Brief

Fed prisoners

SEGUIN, Texas (AP) -The Guadalupe County jail is housing 81 prisoners from Washington, D.C., under a plan that should bring the county about $1 million a year from the District of Columbia.

Three other rural Texas counties also are housing felons from the nation's capital, which is under a court order to alleviate crowding at the Lorton Correctional Complex in northern Virginia.

There is irony in the arrangement: Texas' prison system is under a similar court order. As a result, it is unable to accept more than 8,000 inmates awaiting transfer from many of the state's county jails.

Thus, while jails in many urban counties are severely crowded, a handful of Texas counties are making money accepting prisoners from out of state.

Despite his interest in retaining his new post, Washington said more important matters remain to be solved in the Legislature before he accepts his new office.

Washington has been a key vote in the Senate on the workers' compensation issue now before lawmakers in a second special session that expires at midnight Wednesday, Gov. Bill Clements has said he will extend the session if an agreement is not reached by Wednesday.

Washington, a 17-year veteran legislator, is backing a workers' and trial lawyers' stance on the issue and opposing a plan favored by business. The Senate has stood at 17-14 against the business plan. If Washington were to leave the Senate and the opposition achieve one swingvote, the workers' compensation decision could be left to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Washington said he expects Clements will call for a special election to fill his state Senate seat in January before next spring's special legislative session on education funding reforms.

Operation overtrick

By James Jacoby

Rubber bridge can be played for matchsticks or a king's ransom. What-ever the stakes, as declarer you want to guarantee making your contract. It's different at duplicate bridge, where your score is compared with the results at many other tables. An overtrick or two can make your score better than all others. In today's deal South took advantage of such an opportunity.

West mistakenly led the queen of hearts (better to lead the club king and look at dummy). Declarer assumed that West held six clubs, and the queen of hearts was likely to be doubleton. South won the ace of hearts and played a spade. Nice! Up came the king. Next came the A-Q and two more spades, picking up East's 10. The contract was now safe, with overtricks if the diamonds split. But the defenders' distribution had to be considered. West apparently had started with six clubs and the lone king of spades. What if he also held four diamonds? Entries were lacking to play queen and 10 of dia-monds, but declarer could lead the 10 of diamonds and watch for the defender's reaction. Alas, West could not resist putting in the jack. The ace won in dummy; back came a diamond to the queen, and the suit ran.

What would happen if West did not cover the diamond 10?

With a certain nine tricks, declarer could not afford to let the 10 of diamonds ride, since the defenders would quickly take four more tricks if they won a diamond.

Technology brings employees and families together

ATLANTA (AP) - Several hundred MCI employees who didn't think they'd make it home this holiday season are getting to visit with their relatives anyway.

The long distance telephone company is making its videoconferencing network, which links conference centers in 11 cities, available to 440 employees to use to visit with relatives over the holidays, said MCI spokesman Paul Sims in Atlanta.

Other video-conferencing centers being used by MCI employees for holiday visits are located in Rye Brook, N.Y., Pentagon City, Va., McClean, Va., Chicago, Washington, Denver, San Francisco, and Richardson, Texas.

Barbara and Gary Venz of Duluth use the center in Atlanta Saturday for a face-to-face holiday get-together with Gary's aunt, Helen Hines, and her husband, Robert, at the Rancho Cordova, Calif., center.

"Well, we don't get out to see them more than every five or six years, so this is really great for us," Venz said. "It's a real fami-ly reunion, just like really being together. We were real comfortable doing it."

Agreement at hand as final days of session approach

Friday in chaos over workers' compensation reform resumed today with an agreement at

On Priday, the Logislature was thrown into procedural limbo after House Speaker Gib Lewis angrily adjourned his chamber for the rest of the session, which ends Wednesday.

The Senate, equally angry in rejecting the House bill, sent it back to a legislative conference committee.

But today, both chambers will return to work.

After intense weekend negotiations, key lawmakers forged an accord, which could signal the end of the yearlong legislative battle that has forced two special sessions.

Under the agreement, legislative leaders will accept seven Senate amendments to a business-backed workers' comp proposal passed by the House.

In return, the authors of those amendments, Sens. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, and Chet Edwards, D-Duncanville, signed a pledge to support the bill.

That vote swing could reverse earlier rejections of the House bill by the Senate.

Despite the developments, critics of the reform legislation say they will continue to fight.

AUSTIN (AP) - The favored by labor and trial legislative session that ended lawyers, described the amendments as cosmetic changes.

But he declined to say whether he would attempt to filibuster the bill in the closing days of the ses-

"I'm going to be in the Senate a while. I may save a filibuster for a time that may be more appropriate for those three senators," said Parker, D-Port

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby wrote a letter to senators, saying, "I would urge you to agree to them (the amendments) in hopes of getting very good bill passed by this session of the Legislature."

Mike Toomey, Gov. Bill Clements' chief of staff, declined to say whether the governor would sign the bill into law, but added, "For passage of the bill, chances have been significantly enhanced."

House workers' comp sponsor, Richard Smith, R-Bryan, said, "I believe a resolution to this issue is within reach.' State Rep. Bruce Gibson emerged as one of the main negotiators in gaining the support of Ms. Zaffirini, Brooks and Edwards, according to Mike Millsap, Lewis' chief of staff. Gibson, D-Godley, flew to Laredo early Sunday morning and met with Ms. Zaffirini to seal the

-The parcels should have sufficient cushion. There are many different types of suitable cushioning materials available, including polystyrene, shredded or rolled newspaper, "bubble" plastic and fiberboard inserts. When several items are packaged in a container, they should be separated from each other and protected from outside forces. Even single items packed alone should be cushioned for safety

—It is preferred that wrapping paper be omitted if the box itself is an adequate shipping container. However, wrapping paper equivalent to the strength of the average large grocery bag may be used if required. Filamentreinforced tape shoud be used for the closure and reinforcement of parcels whenever possible. Although twine and cord are permitted, it is preferred that they not be used. They catch and bind in mail processing equipment.

-Finally, parcels should be clearly marked with the address, including ZIP or ZIP+4 code, of both sender and receiver. The writing should be indelible ink or typed on a label and be easily readable. Placing the name and address of both the sender and the recipient inside the package is also suggested, along with a list of contents. This will help the delivery of the parcel in the event that the outside address becomes

Also, place special marking outside the parcels to alert Postal Service employees to the nature of the contents.

Items containing breakables should be marked "fragile" in three places - above the address, below the postage and on the reverse side. If it contains food that may decay, mark "perishable" in the same locations. Items with photographs or similar items should be marked "do not bend," but only if they are protected with a stiffening material such as fiberboard.

It cannot be assumed that the marking itself will ensure that no damage occurs. The Post Office window clerk has a set of rubber stamps indicating special markings and will apply them to your parcel on request.

President Bush had no comment Sunday on why he dispatched Scowcroft to Beijing, except to say as he left church, "We'll have more to say about that later."

Scowcroft and Eagleburger were due back in Washington later today.

Bush was expected to field questions today at a meeting with -editorial page editors from home for a similar briefing. Baker, who himself met on two earlier occasions with China's foreign minister, said the United States will still press China to improve its citizens' rights before relations can return to normal.

'The president ... deplores the tragedy of Tiananmen Square," said Baker on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley."

'But he's of the view that we shouldn't run the risk of compounding that tragedy by trying to isolate China from the international community," said Baker.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, questioned Bush's timing.

Staying Home for Holidays Cures Family's Travel Blues

DEAR ABBY: This is a belated thank-you. Several years ago, I wrote to you as the mother of three small children. My problem was that because of our parents' divorces and remarriages, my husband and I were on the road keeping everybody happy (except ourselves) from Thanksgiving through Easter. Christmas was horrible! One year, we were in three different states and drove 1,500 miles in eight days.

You told me that children need traditions and my husband and I should start our own — in our own home. That's exactly what we did. Thank you!

We still spend Thanksgiving with either his parents or mine, but Christmas is ours. The old train is under the tree, we open presents in our pajamas and enjoy each other and our children.

My husband travels much of the year, so being home and having few demands is doubly special. Keep up the great work! KRIS PAIGE, YARDLEY, PA.

the thank-you. Several others it, so I went. My therapist was very wrote to say that they had decided to break the tradition of going to Grandma's for Thanksgiving and Christmas and celebrate the holidays at home. Were their parents disappointed or hurt? One Wisconsin grandmother wrote: "Thank God my daughter is having Dad and me at her house for the holidays this year. Now I can relax!"

DEAR ABBY: For almost 25 years of marriage, my husband has sulked off and on. Sometimes he's sulked for just a few hours, but there have been times when he would sulk for days and even weeks! When I'd ask him what was wrong, he usually didn't answer me, and when he did, I never got a civil answer.

Many times I've apologized without even knowing what he was mad at. I've even tried sulking myself to give him a taste of his own medicine. That didn't work either.

The only reason I've stayed in this marriage for so long is that between his sulking episodes, he's a wonderful, caring person. I doubt if you can solve this problem, but maybe if he sees it in print, he will realize how much hurt he has caused me, not to mention the loss of happiness for both of us.

Our friends think I'm the luckiest woman in the world, but they have never seen this side of him. SULKER'S WIFE him, make sure there's no physical reason for your husband's periodic sulking episodes. If he hasn't shared this with his physician, he should. His periodic silent depressions may be caused by a chemical imbalance. It's worth exploring.

DEAR WIFE: Before you fault

If there's no physical reason for his sulking, tell this "wonderful, caring" man that for your I told him he needed counseling, but he said I was the one who needed you'd like him to see a counselor.

(Sulking is a subtle form of abuse. He may be punishing you for something he's angry at himself about.)

Life is too short to waste precious time in long, unexplained silences. Please, take my advice and let me know what happens.

Kemp promotes HOPE program

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) U.S. Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp told local HUD employees the agency's new housing program will be watched closely by other countries.

"What we do with this program will determine the reaction of the rest of the world, which is looking to us for leadership," Kemp said. 'How are we going to tell the rest of the world that democracy can work for them if we can't make it work right here?"

Kemp was the keynote speaker at an all-day HUD conference to explain and promote the resident initiative program.

Kemp said the new program, outlined last month by President Bush, is "predicated on the idea that there's no such thing as perpetual poverty."
