 Over $92,000 is now being placed in the hands of Haskell County cotton growers in the form of a total of 1980 tax exemption cotton checks which were received by the local office Saturday. An additional 1700 checks, which will total approximately $100,000, are expected in the near future, County Agent Maxwell reported.
 Relief in Haskell jumped to the highest mark in a year Saturday when the sum of $3,490.40 was distributed during the week through the local office, according to T. L. Donohoo, administrator. Slightly more than $3,500 a week was distributed during the early months of 1934.
 Under the supervision of Edd Hollar, foreman of State Highway work in Haskell County, more than 2,000 trees and shrubs have been planted along the highways in a beautification program.

Man Behind The Man

Smithville, a town with a heart deep in the heart of Texas, down in Bastrop County, Monday rolled out the red carpet for a native son at one of the most appropriate appreciation events ever scheduled in this state.

More than 1,000 folks from every segment of this nation's population made a special point of being there to pay most deserved tribute to Clifton C. (Cliff) Carter, one of Smithville's very own at a dinner climaxed Cliff Carter Day.

Not very many folks in this country are familiar with the name, Cliff Carter. As special assistant to President Johnson, Cliff is one of those rare, selfless, diligent, dedicated "man behind the man" types who stay in the shadows, shunning the limelight, but who have helped the directors of our nation's destinies attain and hold positions at the pinnacle.

Cliff Carter has been for years, and is still being, that type of aide to Texas' own noble President Lyndon Baines Johnson. No man with the awesome responsibility of the Presidency of the United States could have attained that stature without the indispensable assistance of faithful and dedicated friends.

In this category, Cliff Carter has been a go-getter and pace-setter for many years. And the esteem in which he is held was tangibly demonstrated by the fact that all roads led to Smithville for the hundreds who took part in Cliff Carter Day there Monday.

Although a native of Smithville, where he graduated from high school in 1935, and was an outstanding athlete, Cliff's home is considered as Bryan.
 He attended Schreiner Institute and the University of Texas. He is a World War II veteran, married, has three children, and is a most successful businessman.

Carter's dedication to LBJ began when our President first ran for Congress in 1937. Since then, Carter has been a volunteer worker in every single one of LBJ's campaigns, congressional, senatorial, presidential. He was regional chairman of Johnson's 1948 campaign for Senate, state campaign chairman for Johnson in 1954, and has been a member of Johnson's staff since 1957.

In the critical months since November, 1963, Carter has been one of the chief special assistants to the President, acting as chief liaison man with the Democratic National Committee and key party leaders all over the nation.

He has been the listening post, the watchtower, and pulse-feeler at the national committee headquarters and the national Democratic Convention. No two men could have been relied upon more heavily during the last campaign, the one resulting in a landslide for Lyndon, than he and Lawrence F. (Larry) O'Brien, with whom he met daily in session with party leaders from across the nation, at Washington headquarters, reviewing the past 24 hours and putting into motion the strategy for the next 24.

Recently, when a certain staunch citizen from Haskell went to Washington, he had instructions from our district attorney, Royce Adkins, to "say howdy" to his old friend, Cliff Carter, while there. When he expressed this desire upon arriving on Capitol Hill, his attentive host mused, "It might be easier to get you in to see the President."

This simply points up the burden of responsibility Cliff Carter himself carries on his efficient shoulders in behalf of our President, who carries the weight of the entire nation on his.

Yet, quiet, engaging, amiable, unruffled Cliff Carter, despite this mounting burden, is most approachable and amazingly helpful, no matter what your mission, large or small.
 No man deserved more the accolade and kudos bestowed upon Cliff Carter by those who know him best in his hometown Monday.

What this nation needs is more folks with the talent and the temperament of a Cliff Carter. Long may he serve our nation's best interests so productively.

Bob is a longtime friend of our District Attorney Royce Adkins, who will introduce him tomorrow night. The Pencil Pusher, who used to be a member of that infamous "Third House" the galleryites down at the State Capitol, most of whom are... shh... lobbyists 'cause me... PUBLIC RELATIONS MEN... (we were down there to get bills passed, not kill 'em... there's a difference!) also had a whispering acquaintance with Bob when he was Sergeant-At-Arms for the House of Representatives. We were always whispering to him, and asking him to call "Statesman So-and-So" off the House floor to "Strike a note for freedom."
 Bob Murphey and a predecessor we know pretty well, Obie Jones, of Austin, did a stellar job being Sergeant-At-Arms, one of the toughest down there in the law-making factory. It takes TACT, MAC, TONS of it.

Well, it's started again! You heard it Sunday afternoon, we are sure... "A few severe thunderstorms with damaging winds, and a FEW tornadoes either side of a line from 60 miles...!"
 Short year, wasn't it?
 We are in receipt of, and very grateful for, a 56-page special section recently published by the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS AND NEWS on "HemisFair, 1968," which is the tremendous, tourist-lure project now being put together in San Antonio. It surely will be a bonanza, not only for San Antonio, the hub of its operations, but for the entire State of Texas.

Lieutenant Jack Larned, one of the stalwarts of the San Antonio Police Department, a native Haskellite, and son of our amiable, perky lady landmark here, Maye Larned, was the thoughtful dispatcher of this special section to us. And our cup runneth over.
 The direct dollar impact of HemisFair will be felt in every area of Texas, according to a map in this special dramatizing the origin of out-of-state automobile tourists, based on a projection of existing State Highway Department statistics.

For the information of the figure filberts, a projected 526,000 tourists from Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota are expected to be TRAVELING THROUGH HASKELL COUNTY enroute to, and returning from HemisFair down San Antonio way in 1968.
 The Texas Highway Department has determined these tourists' average stay in the state will be 5.8 days, and that their average expenditures will be $7.85 per day per person.

A little planning and work on Haskell's part could assure OUR reaping a bountiful harvest from the "built-in" tourist crop that the "sowing" of HemisFair is providing for all of Texas.

Thanks again, Jack Larned, for your thoughtfulness. You have provided us with valuable source material for a subject, HemisFair, that is going to be in the minds and on the lips of this whole nation during the next few years.

Our most accomplished and personable parson-cousin, Rev. Roy Hulan, back in the Bluegrass of Kentucky, sent us a piece the other day written by Joe Creason in the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL. Joe, whom we knew in our college days as a roving correspondent working on the state staff of the same newspaper, was feelin' a bit nostalgic, as he reported an imminent meeting of his fellow fourth-esters in Louisville K-Y.

Joe recalled his last job before going with the cosmopolitan LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL with Murray, Ky., LEDGER AND TIMES, then a twice weekly.

One day, a few hours before press time, an old farmer entered the office and announced he wanted to place a classified ad in an effort to sell his farm. The farm, he said, was run down and badly eroded, and since he wasn't making ends meet, he wanted to sell and buy somewhere else. Feeling touched by the farmer's story, Joe pulled all the stops in composing the ad. Instead of being run down, the farm in the ad copy became something of a show place, with rolling meadows and fertile fields. The first person in the office next morning was the farmer.

 "Don't run that ad no more," he said. "Since I read it, I've decided that farm's what I've been lookin' fer all my life!"

Hope March came in like you wanted it to. But beware of the Ides of April!

Personal Note To "Dudle": Happy Four Score and Three, Dearest One. May you continue to brighten all the corners where you are for many more years to come.

VIGNETTE BY KATHARYN DUFF— MRS. ARLOS WEAVER, TEACHER, HOMEMAKER, CITED BY WRITER

(Editor's Note: The merited tribute paid Haskell's own Mrs. Arlos (Hazel) Weaver last week by ABILENE REPORTER-NEWS Columnist Katharyn Duff deserves space in this sterling and dedicated teacher and homemaker's hometown newspaper. Here is Miss Duff's complete commentary concerning our exemplary fellow citizen.)

Mrs. Arlos W. (Hazel) Weaver, teacher of English in Haskell High School, is, since the beginning of this semester, Dr. Weaver.

Her doctorate in education, was conferred at winter commencement at North Texas University.

The degree climaxes a remarkable quest for education, Dr. Weaver has:

Been 40½ years from first college course to this high degree.

Taught every school year during the 40½, plus an occasional summer of college teaching.

Earned all her hours for her bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees in summer school or by correspondence, never spending a long term on college campus.

Committed for most of her collegiate work.

Dr. Weaver, a teacher who has earned a flock of honors, is a native Oklahoman, a Texan since she began her college work at summer school at Arlington in 1924.

After her summer courses she took exams for her teacher certificate, became a classroom instructor that fall.

Her first job was at Cliff, a rural school near Knox City, a post she got with the assistance of an aunt, the late Mrs. N. B. Webb, of Rochester, herself a longtime teacher.

Mrs. Weaver spent the next school year in a rural Dallas County school, then returned to this area for the teaching years since. She was at a rural school which is now part of the Mattson system, was seven years principal at Lake Creek, was seven years at Weinert, and since 1945, in Haskell.

In winters she taught and took correspondence work, in the summers she went to college and gradually the academic hours accumulated.

She got her bachelor's at Abilene Christian College. Her master's at Hardin-Simmons University. One summer she spent in an ACC dorm, the rest of the time she drove back and forth to classes, Haskell-to-Abilene, Abilene-to-Haskell.

For her doctorate she spent some on-campus summers at Denton. But most of her college has been motorized. (She has worn out more cars than most women. She has had no serious trouble, but once she did hit a cow, a collision which did the cow no good.)

The commuting has been prompted by the fact that along with teaching and going to school, Dr. Weaver has been a homemaker.

She and her husband, a farmer who now commutes from the Haskell home to the farm at Weinert, have three adopted daughters, Mrs. Nanette Davis, of Abilene, Mrs. George Cedello of Garland, and Jennabeth Weaver of Haskell. In addition, the family reared four other girls.

Dr. Weaver has been a long-time pianist for her church, Methodist, a Sunday School teacher active in women's church work. She is a member and often president, of various professional and social organizations.

And she is a teacher. She teaches English, sponsors the Owl Club and Quill and Scroll, is a counselor in student guidance. (She was named Outstanding Teacher by the First District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.)

She has no thought but to teach, as long as Haskell wants her to teach. But she can ease off some now on college work. Some summers will now be her own.

Herbert Ray To Direct Service Officers' Clinics

A series of regional rehabilitation clinics for veterans' service officers will be held this spring throughout Texas. Herbert Ray, of Haskell, service officer for Haskell and Stone-wall Counties, and president of the Veterans County Service Officers Association of Texas announced Saturday.

The two-day clinics will be conducted by the Veterans Affairs Commission of Texas, in cooperation with the Texas Departments of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, and the Veterans County Service Officers Association, Ray reported.

The clinics are held each year at this time, and this spring the following schedule has been arranged:

March 11-12, Coachlight Inn, Huntsville; March 18-19, First National Bank, Waco; March 25-26, American Legion Post 148, 2412 Avenue Q, Lubbock; April 8-9, Worth Hotel, Fort Worth; and April 22-23, Driscoll Hotel, Corpus Christi.

These clinics, said Ray, who will serve as director at each, will serve as refresher courses for veterans county service officers, and for all post, chapter, and barracks service officers, and for all persons interested in state and federal benefits which are made to certain veterans of military service, and for their dependents and survivors.

Charles L. Morris, executive director of the Veterans Affairs Commission of Texas, along with Ray, is coordinating the conduction of the clinic series.

Moisture Totals 'Right At' Normal During February

Haskell completed the first two months of 1965 on the bonus side of the moisture ledger by almost a half inch, U. S. Weatherman Sam P. Herren, Jr., announced Monday.

During February, it rained or snowed on four different days, providing 1.30 inches of moisture, he said. Normal for the second month is 1.34, so this area was "just about it," declared Herren.

Two month totals show 2.68 inches of moisture here, and the normal for January and February combined is 2.25 inches, so Haskell is about one-half inch above normal since January 1.

Largest rainfall measurement last month here was .82 on the 8th. Measurements of .19, .18 and .11 were received on three successive days, February 16-18, inclusive.

Temperature extremes last month here were a whopping 89 degrees, and within five days of each other, Herren reported. on the 24th, and a very low Sunday, last day of February. Lowest reading was 11 degrees

Hard-working pickup... with a flair for fun!

Works hard, but knows how to relax! That's the new Ford Twin-Beam pickup. Two front axles give you big-truck toughness on the job, smooth riding comfort all the time. Each front wheel is suspended independently on a forged I-beam axle, forged radius rods lock in wheel alignment, heavy-duty coil springs cushion the ride for comfort you never found in a tough truck before. That's why, on the job or off on a family outing, Ford's Twin-Beam suspension pickup is best for you.
