More AF mechanics get badge

More mechanics now can wear the Aircraft and Munitions Maintenance Badge, following changes to Air Force Regulation 900-6.

The additional specialty codes authorized to wear the badge are:

• 341X2, Defense System Trainer.

• 341X4, Flight Simulator.

• 341X6, Navigation and Tactical Trainer.

• 404X1, Aerospace Photographic Systems.

465X0, Munitions Operations.

• 411X0B, Missile System Maintenance, when assigned in direct support of aircraft generation.

• 41199, Missile Maintenance Superintendent, and 41100. Missile Maintenance Manager, when assigned in direct support of aircraft generation and holding a 41XXUB primary specialty.

• 34199, Training Device Superintendent, and 34100, Training Devices Manager, with a 341X2, X4 or X6 primary

• 40499, Photographic Systems Maintenance and 40400, Photographic Systems Manager Superintendent, with a 404X1 primary specialty.

Airmen who no longer work in one of the newly added specialties can apply for the badge if they met eligibility requirements in the past. Applications are available through Special Actions, Ext. 3823, Sgt. Barlin Webb.

Who do you suppose is right?

The central and overriding fact is that the B-1B is on alert, today, at Dyess AFB, Texas. And the first B-1B to Ellsworth AFB, South Dakota has been delivered. It can, today, deliver large payloads over intercontinental ranges. It can, today, penetrate sophisticated defenses, at high speeds and low altitudes. The United States' strategic triad of land based ICBMs, sea launched ballistic missiles and the manned bomber keeps reminding the Soviets that they cannot mount a successful "first strike" without a devastating retaliatory response by our strategic forces. The diversity of our triad has increased our margin of safety and stability in crisis because an enemy would have to neutralize all three legs to be safe from retaliation.

To be effective, a deterrent must be credible. The B-1B is just that.

The B-1B was designed as a near-term follow-on to the B-52. It gives the manned bomber portion of the triad the quantum improvements needed until the advanced technology bomber enters the inventory in the 1990s. The B-1B penetrates enemy airspace at markedly lower altitudes, and at speeds more than 50 percent greater than the B-52. It carries a larger payload and delivers it with much improved accuracy. And most importantly, it has a radar cross section 1/100th that of the B-52, greatly improving its survivability.

Five years ago, President Reagan said the B-1B would play a prominent part in his strategic modernization plan, with 100 aircraft being built—the last one to be delivered in the spring of 1988.

That was the plan and it remains so. But with any new concept, idea or invention, some problems have developed.

velopment and test processes for any new system. For a new airplane-including an airplane as sophisticated as the B-1B-problems are an accepted part of putting it all together. Nonetheless, the B-1B's critics have become more vocal recently.

Because these critics learned what we already knew: Flight tests identify pro-

It seems the planned flight test program, which is designed to identify and fix deficiencies in complex subsystems. is doing exactly that. Previously, the B-1 was tested extensively to verify airworthiness and the validity of the design. And there are absolutely no questions among the informed on that score.

Testing is now focused on subsystems. Most of the problems have been identified and fixed. These include early problems with fuel leaks and the soft-ware in the terrain following radar. None of this is intended to dismiss the importance of fixing all deficiencies. One area where more work is required is with the defensive avionics to deal with the most sophisticated future threats.

In the meantime, the aircraft is performing its intended mission, today, against today's threats.

To date, the B-1B is a program the Air Force can be justly proud of. We remain on the production schedule and are within the president's certified cost for the program. Putting the airplane on alert in less than 5 years from program go-ahead is another major accomplishment.

The B-1B, like the B-52 before it, now provides a significant contribution to our peace and security. And it will continue to do so for the projected 30 years of its life. That's important to know. Especially when so many impatient critics and uninformed detractors seem to have missed the point completely.

Reese airman shows concern

March 10, 1987, Amn. Aaron Lamb was eastbound on 4th Street, heading home for lunch. After traveling about three miles, he witnessed an accident involving a pick-up truck and a car. The car rolled over several times, leaving it upside down.

He pulled the truck over and proceeded to pull a woman and two children away from the wreckage. When police arrived, he assisted them and offered further support until help arrived. Seatbelts were not worn by the people in the car and extent of injuries was not known.

This is just another testimony of the caring concern Reese personnel show towards others," said 2nd Lt. Susan Shankland, OIC, T-38 Branch.

Airman Lamb is assigned to the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron and works in the T-38 Branch. "I think its great that our people are so compassionate and caring," said Lieutenant Shankland.

Col. James McIntyre

Last week I was TDY to El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Calif. attending a Commander's MIP Conference. I returned Friday more convinced than ever that the opportunities for inovation and change that we will continue to enjoy under MIP, provides a special advantage of which we need to capitalize on.

Reese ideas have not only helped us, and our ability to get our mission accomplished effectively, but also many of our good ideas have been implemented Air Force wide. Let's keep it up.

Upon my return, Friday afternoon, our monthly Enlisted Promotion and NCO Appointment Ceremony was held at the Enlisted Open Mess. Great turn out. Thanks to all for supporting the new NCO's, for that's an important signal to them. SMSgt. Jimmy Robinson of our 1958th Comm. Squadron runs a class ceremony, and we were particularly fortunate to have CMSGT. Matt Dunda, senior enlisted advisor, ATC Communication Division, here to be the guest speaker.

While Karen and I were unable to attend Saturday's Comm Squadron Dining-In, Capt. Al Wallace reports a huge success.

Speaking of Big Al, he gets my vote for "coach of the century" as he managed the improbable feat of steering the Colonels past the Chiefs in the CGOC-sponsored basketball game. As he said at Wednesday's staff meeting, Lt. Col. "Speedy" Collins, and Col. "Larry Bird" Drennan get MVP honors for crack shooting—double figures both. The most votes for best dressed went to Chief Clyde Herring. All win in these affairs, especially Camp Blue Yonder which gets the benefits of the fund raiser. Thanks for all the support.

Our Officers' Wives' Club also broke a fund raising record. A tremendously successful Art Auction earned over $6,000, I'm told, which is also earmarked for scholarships and other charities. Congratulations to all the hard workers in the OWC.

Visitors to Reese

The opportunity for Reese hospitality has never been greater. This week we have had the opportunity to host Ms. Erika Molloy, Col. Gary Clark and Brig. Gen. Joel McKean. Ms. Molloy, a HQ/USAF personnel and budget expert, was thoroughly impressed with her first look at the Air Force's best UPT Wing, while Colonel Clark, the ATC/DCS for personnel, got a chance to brief key wing personnel on upcoming changes in that arena—very interesting. General McKean, the Chanute Tech Training Center Commander, is our guest at the CGOC Awards Banquet tonight. It should be a super affair—plan on attending if you can

As I've said before, the word is out. Reese does it right, people know it and they want to see our proud wing first hand. AS I SEE IT, our reputation for excellence says it all.

Maintenance squadron command

Major Ervin C. Treat is the newest commander here at Reese, taking over the Field Maintenance Squadron March 9, from Maj. Bruce A. Clinard.

Major Treat was born in New Haven, Conn. July 25, 1948. He enlisted in the Air Force April 24, 1968. After graduating from basic training June 8, 1968, he was assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill. for training as an Instrument Flight Trainer Specialist. Graduating as an Honor Graduate, he was then assigned to Vance AFB, Okla., May 1969 as a T-38 Instrument Flight Instructor with the 71st Flying Training Wing.

In June 1973, he was selected for the Airmen Education and Commissioning Program. He received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Data Processing from Oklahoma State University in May 1975.

After receiving his commission as a Second Lieutenant through Officer Training School at Lackland AFB in August 1975, he attended the Avionics Maintenance Officer course at Lowry AFB, Colo. again graduating with honors.

He was then assigned to the 314th Tactical Airlift Wing as OIC of the Communication/Navigation Section and as Maintenance Supervisor. He stayed with the 314th TAW at Little Rock AFB, Ark., from March 1976 to December 1977. From there he moved to the 6990th Electronic Security Group of Kadena AB, Japan, where he served as Chief of Maintenance.

In August 1980, Maj. Treat attended Squadron Officer School on his way to Kirtland AFB, N.M. While assigned to the 1550th Aircrew Training and Test Wing from October 1980 to June 1982 he served as the Organization Maintenance Squadron Maintenance Supervisor. During his stay at Kirtland, Major Treat earned a Master of Arts Degree in Finance from Webster University.

In June 1982, Major Treat was assigned to Strategic Air Command Headquarters, Offutt AFB, Neb., where he served as Chief of Data Systems Management Branch until his assignment to Reese.

Major Treat is married to the former Marla J. Pursley of Covington, Okla. They have three sons, Sean, 13, Brett age 12, and Tyler age five.

Helen Jensen

Mrs. Helen Jensen, Officer Assignment Clerk for the Military Personnel Branch passed away Monday.

Mrs. Jensen began her Civil Service career in 1942 in Albuquerque, N.M. She had been employed at Reese since September 1966.

Mrs. Jensen, who was scheduled to retire today after 33 years of service, was remembered during a memorial service at the Base Chapel yesterday afternoon.

She was known by thousands of Reese personnel, and touched the lives of everyone she came into contact with. Her co-workers describe her as being a mother figure, and a good friend.

Thanks

The family of Mr. A.P. Miranda wishes to thank everyone for the condolences expressed after the death of his mother.

Care line

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. James McIntyre, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, on a weekly basis. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty telephone number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers should use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air their views or complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line number is 885-(Ext.) 3273.

Base gym improvements

I'm pleased with the personnel and the quality services of the gym staff but I have a suggestion for improvement. That is to have somebody posted in the weight room to monitor use of the chrome dumbbells and the weight belts. This would cut down on theft of the belts and leave somebody there to help lifters who need a spoter or somebody to explain how to use the equipment properly. Thanks for listening.

Your suggestion is a good one but due to our manning and hours of operation, it is not feasible. Signs demonstrating the proper use of the equipment have been ordered and should be in place this month. Additionally, I'm told that while theft is not a frequent problem there, weights and belts are now checked out of the gym office to preclude things from occassionally walking off. It may be inconvenient, but it will protect the equipment for everyone's use. Thanks for your nice comments about the gym staff and their services.

Reese Manor for everyone

I read in the Daily Bulletin that Reese

Manor was named the Vice Officers Club. I thought the money to build it came from both enlisted and officer's proposals. I think that the enlisted are being discriminated against. Are enlisted personnel allowed to use the Reese Manor? Thank you.

You misread the Daily Bulletin. The notice said a meeting would be held in "...Reese Manor (vice Officers' Club)..." "Vice" means "instead of" and in no way implies that Reese Manor is a "Vice Officers' Club." Reese Manor is available to the entire Reese community.

No Roundup article

I've heard that a few weeks ago the Security Police volunteered to help the people of Olton (a community about 60 miles north of Reese) fingerprint the elementary school students. I thought this was a very commendable act and should have received greater coverage in the Roundup than just the small section in last Friday's Roundup. TSgt. Deere and SrA Saenz could give you more details.

First, it says a lot to me that you would be concerned. Thanks. Second, as you know, our Security Police are continuously involved in community betterment and goodwill projects of the type you described. Of course, in the overall picture of security police work those projects represent only a small portion of their mission. SrA Saenz works closely with the Roundup staff each week to present our readers with news and information about Security Police activities both on and off base. In fact, in the Roundup edition you mentioned the SPs had a front page photo, a two page photo feature on the center pages, a "Cops Corner" story and I even referred to them in my own column.

Commends Gate Guard

I am a retired Air Force member and would like to commend gate guard A1C Kevin Dye on his immaculate appearance and courtesy. I commend his squadron also.

I appreciate, and agree with, your comments! Airman Dye and the members of the 64th Security Police Squadron take great pride in their personal appearance, military bearing and behavior. They represent Reese well! Thanks for your call.

Who can watch the kids?

I tried to make a reservation a day in advance for my children to use the Child Care Center so that I could meet a scheduled doctor's appointment. They told me they were filled up. What am I supposed to do?

First of all, I'm glad to hear that a later cancellation at the Child Care Center allowed you to have your children looked after so that you could go to the doctor as scheduled. In the future, try to make your reservation with the Child Care Center as soon as possible. If you wait until the day before an appointment, reservations at the Child Care Center may very well be filled up to the legal maximum. Of course emergencies do happen and if you need a last minute reservation, Mr. Jim Hernandez and his staff will try to help you in any way they can.

Bad language not tolerated

I was at the Child Care Center with my child today and found the staff in chaos. One person was yelling at another calling her names and cursing in front of an entire room of little children. The desk attendant was upset and rude. It's not the first time I've heard this type of language, but it's the first time I've called you. I'd appreciate it if you would put an end to this. Thank you.

Thanks for pointing out this incident. In this case it appears that your concern was right on target, and I'm sorry you and the children were exposed to this intolerable behavior. We are committed to the highest level of customer service throughout the Reese community, so let me know personally if this ever happens

Don't overlook children's vision

by Col. Roy L. Bobbitt Hospital Commander

The "Week of the Child" is one which should be observed 52 times each year. Parents, educators and health practitioners need to be tuned in full-time to observe many of the behavioral signs indicating problems. The youngsters do not always complain, even when there are serious difficulties. One of the more frequent deficiencies is that of vision. The child often thinks everyone sees the way he/she does—never considering that his/her vision might be other than normal.

It has been estimated that 80 percent of what is learned involves vision. A problem in the developmental years can affect a lifetime of performance. Occasionally a bright child can lean more heavily on other senses in compensation. Good hearing and memory can be truly remarkable in some nearsighted students. They have been known to memorize letters recited by classmates to avoid failing a school vision screening.

There is more to vision than 20/20. Even the youngster with the benefit of perfect 20/20 can have problems. It is important for the eyes to work efficiently together and aim accurately at a target to avoid losing one's place and the meaning of reading material. A sluggish focusing ability can be very frustrating when alternating between the desktop and the board.

The label of underachiever is sometimes applied to the student lacking visual skills. The youngster might learn to avoid taxing situations because of poor eyesight, quite possibly affecting physical development and maybe earning the label lazy. This can have a very negative impact on the child's self-image.

What might key you in that a problem may exist, you ask. The child with a perpetual grin may in fact be squinting. A dramatic change in performance in school or sporting activities might indicate a prescription change has taken place. This might show as poor eyehand coordination in activities from baseball to handwriting skills. Is the child within the boundaries and up to speed in paper and pencil tasks and coloring?

A significant prescription need can shorten an attention span, cause a child to avoid close work or become so frustrated so as to create a behavior problem. The child may frequently rub the eyes, suffer from headaches and sties or irritated eyes. A common compensation is posture. Look for the child who covers one eye. This can be very discreet and appear as though the child is casually resting his/her head in his/her hand. A turned head can use the nose to block input to one eye. Extreme postures and contortions can add stress to other parts of the body. The child migh daydream frequently and have difficulty completing assigned tasks or simply muddle through in an inattentive manner.

It must be pretty obvious by now that vision has wide ranging effects. No wonder the Air Force has such stringent standards for flying personnel. But, what can be done to limit problems? First, you can observe the child closely. Look for frequent grins or frowns and eyes that turn in or out. During infancy, enhance visual development by keeping activity within view. Talk and relate with the child as you move about the room in your daily routines. Pets, a view of the outdoors, toys which encourage eyehand coordination and mobiles all help. Try frequent changes in scenery to keep you the infant's interest.

For the older child with known deficiencies, select activities that stimulate improvement in those areas. Document the improvement when possible. Set goals. Make those goals reasonable and attainable while keeping things interesting. Try gift shopping with the problem in mind. The child with poor handwriting might derive benefit from the popular game "OPERATION". Use your creativity.

Don't forget that there are professional services available through the hospital, school and community. We're all working together to provide each child with all the tools necessary for a happy and successful life.

New W-4 to be released

by Maggie Seymour Tax Assistant

Good news for those of you who have tried to complete a new W-4 and given up in frustration: The IRS has developed a new and simpler version. This new form, called W-4a, will be available in mid-April. Unfortunately, this new, easier form, may not be as accurate as the complex version. In other words, giving a new W-4a to your employer may mean you will have too much or too little income tax withheld. It should be adequate for indiviausl who file simple tax returns, but those who have more complicated tax situations may be better off to use the original W-4.

The Tax Reform Act made tougher rules for penalties on under withholding, but due to the uproar and confusion over the new W-4, penalties will not be assessed for this year if you file a new W-4 or W-4a by June 1, 1987. If you do not have to refile. This waiver of penalties applies only to income from wages and only to the tax year 1987. Many of you have wondered if there are penalties for having too much tax withheld—the answer is no. Nonetheless, having too much tax withheld is giving Uncle Sam an interest-free loan and leaves you with less to live on every month, so make every effort to ensure

"Smooth move" project initiated

A base-wide effort is underway to initiate a "Smooth Move" project for Reese military personnel and their families. "Smooth Move" is a family-oriented program thas has been specifically designed to address the most commonly asked questions about PCS moves and to help the family unit ease the stress and confusion which often accompanies a PCS move—whether stateside or overseas.

The program concept began as a USAF pilot program. The program's goal was to provide military personnel and their families pertinent information they would need regarding such concerns as transportation, household goods, storage, legal matters, personal affairs, passports and visas. "Smooth Move" program is scheduled for April 21, 6:15 p.m. at the Base Chapel. Spouses and dependents are highly encouraged to attend. Child care will be available, however, reservations will be required. For more information, call Family Services, Ext. 3305.

Lost and found

The Security Police Investigations Section has impounded a suspected abandoned 1966 Corvair. If this property belongs to you, please contact the section, Ext. 3999.

Stop smoking at lunchtime

The Smoking Clinic will hold support group classes over the lunchtime period. Dates are Tuesdays and Thursdays, April 7, 9, 14 and 16. The classes will be held in the Physiological Training Unit, across from the hospital. The classes will be from 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. This is a 'no-gimmicks' education and motivation group.

Dumpsters not for grass

Normal refuse collection in base housing is accomplished Monday and Friday. The placement of lawn clippings in the dumpsters is not adviseable due to the excessive weight caused by moisture in the clippings. The contractor will pick up lawn clippings and other debris put in tied bags beside the dumpster.

The placement of non-compressible items, such as lumber or metal in the dumpsters is prohibited.

Collection of non-compressible and oversized items is accomplished by the contractor on the first Monday of each month. Items should be placed on the curb prior to 9 a m

For more information, call the Contract Management Office, Ext. 3929.

Youth activities held

The Youth Center will host a pre-teen dance this evening, 7-10 p.m.

The center is also looking for instructors in golf, swimming and piano. Interested persons contact the center, Ext. 3820.

Worship services held

Church of Christ worship services will be held each Sunday evening from 7-8 p.m. at the Base Chapel. All are welcome to attend. For more information, contact Sgt. Robert Scott, Ext. 6055.

Church Retreat to be held next week

The Women of the Chapel Retreat will be held April 21, 1987 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at Reese Manor. During the morning session, Chaplain (1st Lt.) Jim Browning will review the grief process and will speak on facing our own grief. The afternoon sessin will concern separation from spouse. Lunch and child care will be provided (pre-registration is required for child care). Husbands are invited and encouraged to attend. For more information and registration, contact Maureen Lucken at 793-0078 or the Chapel, Ext. 3237.

Financial Counseling comes to Reese

The Personal Financial Management Program is a new three-track program consisting of education, information and counseling designed to help individuals better manage their money. Some of the subjects covered are maintaining a checking account, budgeting, credit buying, money management and savings.

The program is set up with counselors available in each unit and in the Accounting and Finance Office. Counseling begins with the counselor within the unit. If the counselor feels that he/she needs to refer the individual to the Accounting and Finance counselors, a referral appointment is made.

Supervisors receive awards

Lt. Col. Kevin A. Collins, commander, 3500th MSS, presented certificates to 13 supervisors who completed a 40-hour USAF Civilian Supervisor's Course March 20, 1987. Students from Reese and Goodfellow AFBs were welcomed by Col. Mark H. Lillard, base commander, who stressed that the course was to develop and enhance their capabilities as first level supervisors. Reese graduates were Joyce Raymer, Lydia Larson, Jean Browning, Sue Smith, James Hernandez, Chris Raynor, Bernie Wright, Randy Hight, Mary Ann Lacy and Melvin Robertson.

Civilians receive Service Awards

The following people will be presented Length of Service Award for either 10 or 20 year service. The 20 year award recipients are Patsy R. Elliot, Lawrence S. Schepers and Nancy M. Gregorio. The 10 year award recipients are Angelo Rangel, Craig P. Hancock and Marilyn E. Yoakum.

The Red Cross needs volunteers

The Red Cross Volunteers of USAF Hospital-Reese are a vital part of the organizations day-to-day activities. They perform duties in such offices as the OB/GYN Clinic, Family Practice, Flight Surgeons Office and Records Section. They all donate valuable time to patient care activities. If you're interested in volunteering at the hospital, contact Mrs. Ima Cheatum at 885-4718 or Maj. Eileen Sullivan, Ext. 3285.

Police Wive's meeting to be held

Ussery retires after 31 years

In 1952 A1C Henry Ussery reported to Reese Air Force Base. After one year here at Reese, he moved on to Chanute Air Force Base, then to Tashikawa AB, Japan, and then to Prince Castle, Fla. He completed his tour with the Air Force and was discharged.

Mr. Usserv's career with the Air Force did not end with his discharge. In 1957 he returned to Reese. While here he has worked in aircraft instrument maintenance, audio visual services and since July 1977, he has worked in Safety. Mr. Ussery took over his current position of Ground Safety Manager in

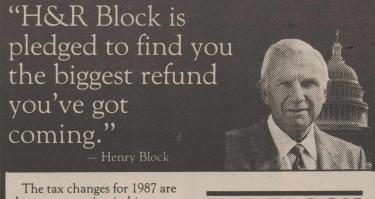

In his 31 years here at Reese, Mr. Ussery has seen Reese advance in technology, and a lot of people return later in their careers. "When I first met Col. James McIntyre, he was a first lieutenant," Mr. Ussery said of the current wing commander. 'Lt. Col. Phil Marzolino, chief, Safety Division, was a captain,'

Mr. Ussery will retire during a ceremony in his honor, to be held today, 1:15 p.m. at Reese Manor. It is open to the public.

Mr. Ussery plans to remain in the Lubbock area, teaching safety courses in Lubbock, and operating his own lawn mowing/tractor tilling business.

Be on the lookout for severe

by TSgt. Mark J. Campbell Det. 11, 24th Weather Squadron

The time has arrived to be on the lookout for the severe weather that is often experienced at Reese during the spring and summer months. The type of weather that is seen in the area ranges from thunderstorms to tornadoes.

The most common is thunderstorms. These will usually begin to build in the early afternoon hours as simple puffy white clouds. It is the increase in the surface heating that intensify these into strong storms. This will most often occur in the mid afternoon hours. Rumblings can be heard from several miles away and this is a good indicator that a thunderstorm is approaching the area.

If there is some type of buildup in the distance and you are produced from the earth and wondering as to the movement, shoots up into the atmosphere look at the very high clouds known as cirrus. On well developed thunderstorms, the direction of movement will be with the upper level winds and the cirrus clouds will indicate this.

The things to watch out for in a thunderstorm are high winds as experienced last year at Reese. Out of two separate thunderstorms the area received record breaking winds of 68 and 72 knots. These are damaging

Another thing to look out for is lightning. Lightning may accompany any thunderstorm and is present if there is any rumblings heard. Lightning is caused by the interaction of electrons and protons that are imbalanced between the earth and the atmosphere. There is a warning as to where lightning is to strike. A path of unstable electrons is and then the explosion of the interaction occurs in the form of lightning from the clouds back down to the earth. The warning comes from the feeling-rising sensation or prickling sensation that one will get as the path is first formed. If this occurs, find the lowest lying area because time is extremely short. It is not advisable to be out in the storm to begin with.

The next thing to look for in storms is the problem of flash flooding. This is a problem in the Reese area because of the poor drainage systems on the streets and the type of topsoil present. With the extensive downpoors, large amounts of water drain off of the clay-like topsoil and runs into the streets. The streets around Reese and Lubbock do not handle the large amounts of water possible from

A way to identify large downpours that may be moving into the area is by seeing very low clouds with what may look like tornadoes coming out from underneath the thunderstorms. These downpours will usually occur underneath the highest portion of the storm and may be associated with very high winds.

A wall of dust may be seen prior to the arrival of a heavy rainfall

Along with the heavy downpours hail may be encountered. Usually this will occur at the beginning of the downpour. The danger involved here is the size that the hail may attain when it reaches the ground. Hail can be identified because of the white color or higher reflectivity that is present when hail falls out of a thunderstorm. It will be associated with a downpour and may also be quite heavy.

Reese saw four inches of hail on the ground one year. It looked like it had snowed in June. At times hail may seem to come out of nothing. The reason for this is that there is a thunderstorm in the vicinity that has such violent updrafts that it is literally spewing forth the hail from the top as a volcano does lava. This too can be quite dangerous.

Tornadoes were mentioned earlier and this can be a very disastrous phenomenon.

ing at. The most common mistake is to see a dust devil and call it a tornado. Dust devils are caused by intense surface heating and when a thunderstorm passes over them they will die rapidly because of the cooling that thunderstorms can cause. Another mistake is to see the downpoor from the thunderstorm and call it a tornado. The difference between the tornado and the downpoor is that there is a marked turning in the tor-

Tornadoes come in three basic sizes: small, medium and large. All of them are dangerous and cover should immediately be taken. A spawning of a tornado is the funnel cloud. This will come out of the rain free portion of the storm. If the storm is moving towards you, it will be behind the wind and rain that is approaching. Look for the tornado in the area that seems to be the quiet part of the

Once again, it cannot be stressed enough how dangerous these tornadoes can be. They do not always come one at a time with actual families of three to four tornadoes coming from the same system. This too has been experienced at Reese. Reese is an area of the world that can say that we have seen it all and all of it is very possible.

This was to make you aware of the dangers and to know what to look for if any of these To identify tornadoes, one type weather phenonmenon ap-

Officials notes that 14 more colonels will be promoted in April than March due to an increase in retirements, according to congress and current predictions on losses this year. They added that although the number of Lieutenant Colonels and Majors retiring has increased, the increases have not been enough to maintain the high promotion increments seen in past months.

The Lieutenant Colonel list will remain at the current level until the calendar year 1985 list is exhausted, which should be about May 1, 1987, officials said. However, fewer 0-5s will be promoted beginning with the calendar year 1986 starting June 1.

What tax form should ! use?

by Maggie Seymour Tax Assistant

The three tax forms available and their qualifications and advantages were stated in part one, the most common advantage of using form 1040 is the deduction for itemizing (Schedule A). In order to itemize, your expenses in the following areas must exceed the zero bracket amounts for your filing status ($3,670 for a married couple filing jointly, $1,835 for a married person filing separately, and $2,480 for a single person or qualified head of household).

Generally, you will not exceed these amounts if you do not own a home and pay a substantial amount of mortgage interest or are financing one or more expensive vehicles. Nonetheless, it is always worth a quick check as any amount over the above bracket amounts can be deducted. If you exceed these amounts but don't itemize your deductions, you will pay more tax than is necessary.

If you do use Schedule A, your charitable contributions are included with your other itemized deductions and not deducted separately. Therefore, it is possible that if you gave a substantial amount to charity, your tax will be lower if you do not itemize. For example, as a married couple filing jointly, you gave $1,000 to your church and form 1040) was $13,500, you may de-your other itemized deductions total $3,000.

If you use Schedule A and itemize, your deduction will be $330 (Total deductions are $4,000 ($3,000 + $1,000 to charity) minus your zero bracket amount, $3,670. However, if you do not itemize deductions and take your charitable contribution separately, you can deduct the full $1,000. Nonetheless, if your charitable contributions are not high or your other itemized deductions exceed your zero bracket amount, you should itemize.

Only the following types of expenses can be used to determine your itemized • Unreimbursed medical or dental expenses that exceed 5 percent of your adjusted gross income (line 33 on form 1040). These expenses may include prescriptions, doctor's fees, hospital charges, lab fees, dentist's bills, and health insurance premiums. If your payments for these items exceed any reimbursements, see if they are above the 5 percent AGI limit. For example, you and your family had health costs of $3,150 for prescriptions, hospital fees, lab and x-rays and dentists visits. For whatever reason, these costs were not fully reimbursed from the military. Therefore your out of pocket expenses are $950. If your adjusted gross income (line 33 on duct $275 ($950 expenses minus $675 [.05 of $13,500]).

• Taxes—Deductible taxes include state and local income taxes, real estate taxes (property tax), sales tax, sales on autos (check the rules on Texas motor vehicle tax), and other personal proper-

• Interest—This includes interest and charges on mortgages, credit cards, and most other personal interest paid on items such as car or signature loans. You may not deduct charges for financing insurance premiums.

· Casualty and theft losses. To claim these losses you must attach Form 4684.

In general, losses must exceed $100 each and the total of your losses must be more than 10 percent of your adjusted gross income. For example, you were in an auto accident and your 1985 Trans Am was totalled. The fair market value of the vehicle at the time of the crash was $12,000. The fair market value is the price you could have received from selling the car before the accident. Your insurance company reimbursed you for $9,000. Your direct loss is $3,000 ($12,000 - $9,000). To figure what part of this loss you can deduct, you must first subtract $100 and then subtract 10 percent of your adjusted gross income.

Your loss is reduced to $2,900 by the $100 and if your AGI is $15,000 you must subtract $1,500 ($15,000 × .10). The total loss you may deduct on Schedule A is $1,400 ($3,000 - $100 = $2,900 -$1,500 = $1,400).

• Miscellaneous Deductions—Many of these deductions are often overlooked. This category can include items such as employment related education, costs of looking for a new job in your present occupation, malpractice insurance, employment agency fees, and other employment related expenses. Miscellaneous deductions also include the costs of producing income such as service fees and clerical, accounting and legal assistance. Check the rules for these deductions carefully. Don't overlook union and professional dues, subscriptions to professional journals, and fees for tax preparation and advice. As an example, your wife has a job as a store manager when you are transferred. She wants to find a similar job in your new area so she has a new resume prepared for $45, subscribes to a professional journal that lists job openings for $30 and registers with an employment agency. The agency finds her a managerial job and she pays them $300. All of these costs are deductible and you may claim $375 in miscellaneous expenses or producing income such as service fees and

Remember, you do not have to complete Schedule A and itemize just because you are using form 1040. If it is not advantageous to you to itemize, simply skip line 34 on form 1040.

Centers and preschools offer needed services

Air Force celebration of the Month of the Military Child. The Reese AFB Child Development Center and Preschool will be conducting several special events as part of this month long program. Local events planned include a Balloon Launch, Child's Parade, Ice Cream Social, and Open House Picnic with Parents.

The base child development center provides hourly, weekly, evening, and weekend care to children six weeks through 10 years of age. A part-day preschool program is also offered. The center is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Thursday and until 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday evenings. The center is closed on Sunday.

Jim Hernandez is director of the child development center and Gloria Goff the preschool. The child development program is part of Morale, Welfare and Recreation.

The base child development preschool enrollment is 45. Dur- room is divided into centers; AFB, Tx.

This week is the start of the ing a month, over 1,824 families such as an art center, music stationed at Reese AFB use the center, reading corner, block center to provide care for their children while they work or participate in base activities. Approximately 80 percent of the cost of operating the program is generated by parent fees; the remaining 20 percent is provided from Air Force appropriated funds.

> The food service program is an important part of the child development and preschool operations. Children are served meals and snacks which meet United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) requirements. The base is partially reimbursed for the cost of the meals and snacks because the center participated in the USDA or Air Force Welfare Board Child Care Food Program similar to the school lunch program. In addition, USDA commodities are used to upgrade the quality of the meals. Over 80 meals and 90 snacks are served area, and housekeeping, or dramatic play center. Children have the opportunity to play with puzzles, blocks, wheel toys, puppets, books, and other materials which promote their development. Playground equipment has been installed to give children opportunities to be active and exercise their growing bodies. Activities are planned for the older children. Field trips, including trips to the Texas Tech Planetarium and the Texas Tech Museum are part of the yearly schedule.

Those individuals who are not aware of the many changes that have been made in the Air Force Child Development Program and the base child development center and preschool should visit the centers during the Month of the Military Child. An open house is scheduled for April 30, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Air Force child development centers and pre-A variety of activities is offer- schools operate under the sponcenter was built in 1963 and has ed to the children attending sorship of the Directorate of a capacity of 114 children. ## "Beach Party '87" success

by Capt. Ronald Panting 54th FTS, PA Rep

Sounds of waves breaking on the shore washed over the Officer's Club as the 54th Flying Training Squadron celebrated the advent of spring with "Beach Party '87." The annual fling was hosted by Eagles and Check Section. Special Kudos go to 1st Lt. Roger Graulty, his wife Laura, and 1st Lt. Sue Ross.

Everyone had a great time "pigging" out on the roasted pigs and other tropical delights. During breaks in the dancing, prizes were awarded and several contests held. The sexiest legs contest was won by Trish Rhodes, although she had some pretty tough competition from Capt. Mark "Hash" Brown. He had some consulation though, as he also was the runner up in the ugliest legs contest. Capt. Jay Shablik won the honors both in that category and the worst tan contest.

Everyone really enjoyed dancing to music from the 60's, especially our two winners of the Annette Funacello/Frankie Avalon look-alike contest, Maj. Reggie Clark and Capt. Pam Zimmering. Capt. Tom Bruther won first place in the Limbo contest.

As things wound down and everyone headed back to "shore" there was a rekindled spirit and anticipation for the summer among the members of the 54th FTS.

A son, David Coryell born to Donell and A1C Jacqueline Garland on March 19, at Lubbock General Hospital.

A son, Dedrick Tremayne Jr. born to A1C Dedrick T. and SSgt. Lolita L. Albert on March 21, at Lubbock General Hospital.

A daughter, Ashley Vivianna born to TSgt. Frank R. and Helene Lechuga on March 21, at Lubbock General Hospital.
