Binnicker calls for pay hike

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force James Binnicker urged Congress to step up its efforts to provide competitive pay and compensation for Air Force members.

Testifying before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee March 31, Chief Binnicker outlined what he considers the most critical Air Force personnel issues for this year. That list included permanent-change-of-station reimbursements, military pay and variable-housing-allowance offset.

He cautioned Congress not to cut military personnel programs. "While we fully understand the need to reduce the federal budget deficit," he said, "We feel that America gets the most for its defense dollars by avoiding the false economy of cutting personnel programs as was demonstrated in the late 1970s."

He was referring to a time when military recruiting and retention reached all-time lows following a series of military pay caps. Chief Binnicker called the lack of adequate PCS reimbursements "One of the most critical personnel issues facing the Air Force today." He noted that for every $3 Air Force members spend on a PCS move, the government reimburses only $1.

A 1985 Air Force survey showed median out-of-pocket PCS costs ranged from about $1,500 for mid-grade enlisted (E-4-E6) to more than $2,700 for senior officers (O4-O6) for every PCS move.

Chief Binnicker said nearly 60 percent of Air Force members have to borrow money, from savings accounts or elsewhere, to meet PCS expenses. To help alleviate that financial hardship, he said, "It is essential that we pursue a restoration of the Temporary Lodging Expense (TLE) allowance for members above the grade of E-4 with dependents and for all single members."

TLE is designed to help offset food and lodging expenses incurred during a PCS move. It reimburses members up to $110 a day for up to four days. Last year, Congress denied payment of the temporary lodging entitlement except to E-4s and below with dependents. Congress had authorized TLE in Fiscal Year 1986.

Chief Binnicker said overall military pay now lags behind civilian wages by 9.4 percent. The last five military pay hikes have been capped, and the recent three percent January pay raise compares to a 4.2 percent increase in civilian wages.

"This pay raise differential is not going unnoticed by our members," he said. Chief Binnicker said service members are concerned about the erosion of other benefits as well—VHA offset, for instance, in March 1986, Congress modified the variable housing allowance. Under that change, service members must forfeit a portion of their housing allowance (BAQ plus VHA) when that allowance exceed their actual housing costs. They forfeit half the difference.

The chief said the offset provision penalizes those who made substantial down payments on homes to lower monthly mortgage payments, as well as those living in outlying suburbs who traded longer commuting distances for affordable housing. He said the offset most severely impacts junior members who can least afford any reduction in housing allowances.

Implemented in October 1980, VHA is designed to supplement housing allowances in high-cost-of-living areas. Chief Binnicker said changes in rate computation and two years of VHA rate freezes have eroded the allowance's benefit. He said members now pay as much as 18.9 percent of their housing costs out of their own pockets.

Chief Binnicker said the Air Force supports repeal of the VHA offset provisions and opposes any changes "which would further restrict VHA payments or annual VHA rate increases."

The Chief concluded, "Service members are concerned about the erosion of benefits and particularly the inconsistency of pay and allowances from year to year. The continued turbulence of the VHA program is a classic example of such inconsistencies which cause unexpected and needless financial hardships."

AFA, our organization

The Air Force Association, a national, nonprofit organization that fights for better benefits for Air Force people and supports a strong national defense posture, begins here Monday and continues through May 29.

According to base membership drive chairman 1st Lt. Mike Kiley, AFA's effectiveness in support of Air Force needs is directly related to the size of its national membership. All active duty, Reserve, Guard and USAF civilian personnel are urged to join the AFA.

"Membership in the Association is open to all Air Force people," 1st Lt. Kiley said, "and AFA is the only organization that represents the entire Air Force family." The Association has long been regarded as the Air Force's professional society and, through its active duty Advisory Councils, "hears the needs of Air Force people, takes positions on those needs, and fights for them," he said.

The Air Force Association is also in a unique position to help the Air Force since it has over 325 chapter organizations located in all 50 states and at many overseas locations.

These chapters provide a civilian-military forum for building support for Air Force needs that exists through no other organization. In this area, AFA members are encouraged to join the Lubbock chapter by contacting 1st Lt. Kiley, Ext. 3936 during duty hours or after duty hours, 885-2405.

Membership dues are only $18 for one year and $48 for three years, and includes affiliation with the chapter.

AFA members enjoy many varied benefits including a subscription to the highly regarded Air Force Magazine, eligibility for several low-cost group insurance programs, an automobile lease and purchasing program, car rental discounts, an AFA/VISA card, as well as numerous opportunities to work with all elements of the Air Force family and community leaders to solve problems and effect changes.

As I see it

By Col. James McIntyre
Wing Commander
64th Flying Training Wing
Reese AFB, Texas

A note about self-help: Take pictures

Much is going on in the work areas across the Wing that ought to be recorded for posterity, especially the tremendous improvements so many of you are creating through your own self-help efforts. Let me encourage all units to take the time to snap some pictures BEFORE you start, lest you or anyone that follows later on forget what your work area used to look like. You might consider taking prints of the "BEFORE" and "DURING," arranging them in a picture frame or album to show off very graphically the fruits of your labor.

Ground breaking—Picnic area renovation by the Reese team

Speaking of self-help, I was very much impressed with the briefing I received this week from Lt. Col. (select) Rufus Hutchinson, who took on my challenge to organize perhaps the largest community-wide "self-help" project that Reese has ever attempted—a rather complete renovation of our park area just north of the golf course. As most of you know, we've designated significant MIP savings for the materials necessary to turn the park into a real source of pride for everyone. Believe me, pictures are being taken for sure.

Today, in fact, CE troops broke ground, doing the heavy work for starters to prepare for a host of self-help projects that must follow. As most of you already know, the plan includes a complete rehab of the existing pavilions, sidewalks, brand new covered picnic tables, and a new raised (hence flood-proof) playground area for the kids with all new equipment.

I want to say thanks already, because I'm proud already of the major effects expended by several folks. First, hats off to 1st Lt. Steve Kmiecik and James Markham, from Civil Engineering, who worked long hours of off-duty time to design the park concept, and plot out the detailed tasks, manhours, costs, etc. Next, thanks to our contracts division folks, namely TSgt. Jeff Cossairt for working the procurement end quickly, without which delivery of materials to begin now would have been impossible. Don't forget all the innovators who through their good MIP ideas, saved the bucks that allowed Reese to fund the project in the first place.

Rufus' planning committee, namely Lt. Col. Cliff Hardison and Maj. Cliff Treat from MA; SMSgt. Jim Grimmitt from RM; and Lt. Col. Kevin Collins from ABG and Maj. Gary Praesel of the 35 FTS are each putting together teams of talented self-helpers who, under the supervision of CE pros, will give their Saturdays and Sundays, starting this coming weekend, to make Reese just a little bit better place to be. I'm told that it is already pretty well organized. Get this, the Reese volunteers will account for an estimated 3,000 manhours, involving unit teams of various sizes totaling at least 185 people to supplement our own CE troops.

Get involved, if you're not already. I fully suspect that a good place to find that special Reese spirit shining bright for the next three weekends will be among those who are involved at the park. See you there.

Out and about

Congratulations, on behalf of all us "bosses," to our top-notch secretaries—our bosses actually. Wednesday was "Secretary's Day" within Secretary's Week, and while the florists and candy merchant's obviously felt the rush, all of us realize that whatever token gift may be given, it's frankly not enough. Eleanor Dobkins, for sure, is a great representative of all the Reese secretaries—a pillar of strength, a dedicated professional, a protector, wise counselor, and most of all, a friend. Thanks to you also, Ruedelee. Your hard work and long hours are definitely appreciated. Thanks to all of you.

Another success story was brought to my attention just last night by my better-half, who does a better than average job at getting OUT AND ABOUT. Karen dropped in to the first ever "SMOOTH-MOVE" NIGHT held at the Chapel last evening, and was very impressed. A new community service initiated by our Reese Family Action Information Board (FAIB)—comprised of Family Services, Personnel, Social Actions, Hospital, and Chaplain representatives among others—and the brainstorm specifically of Dr. (Capt.) Mike Vasquez from the Hospital, folks planning to move to a new assignment will now have an opportunity to get all their questions answered in a compressed, very thorough and interesting series of briefings by Reese's own experts. From what Karen told me, over 75 Reese families had been contacted, and attended—the group with PCS orders to leave Reese sometime in the next three months. Our own experts covered the key housing, transportation, finance, legal and other personal affairs issues for our own departing members, in a forum that generated good discussion. A class act, very much on target for those sorting out the complications of a PCS.

So here we have yet another great idea—significantly, Reese folks going the extra mile to take care of their own. We've got several to thank, starting with Lt. Col. Kevin Collin's Mission Support Squadron troops; Maj. Dave Winney, the new program's coordinator, along with 1st Lt. Ted Tragus, and TSgt. Ron Henyan who did a lot of the planning. And once again, volunteer efforts from our Family Service's ladies, particularly Peg Broerman, Kathy Winney, Robin Tragus, and Cathy Straub who spearheaded the publicity efforts, and sent out all the invitations. I'm sure I missed several others due special credits. Thanks to all. You are what gives this special base the edge.

A final note

Many wiser than me have contended that "Success breeds success." But we see the proof of that around this community every day. If these articles are too long, usually that's the reason—congratulating breeders of success—winners. Winning is not only contagious, it tends to be a habit after a while. In our business, that's as it should be. Most of all, when the climate is right, as it is here—an environment of professionals intent on doing whatever it takes to get the job done better than anyone else, an environment that allows pride to flourish, where folks know that they can make a difference, and that what they do each day is an important ingredient to a critical mission—then success and achievement, individually and collectively, tend to follow. Join me in congratulating two recent SOS grads, whose return to the Reese flightline from Maxwell was followed closely by letters from the ATC Commander, Lt. Gen. John A. Shaud, praising their top performances in PME. Capt. Dave Solomon and Gary Hecker, both made DG (Distinguished Graduate). You see, it's not just a matter of coincidence that these officers come from Reese—their individual drives for excellence are—AS I SEE IT—because of it. And so it goes among members of a winning team.

Kudos to...

Maj. Ernest Petrash and 2nd Lt. John Fuss for their outstanding support of the AFROTC Det. 820. As investigating officers, their professionalism and dependability were very noteworthy... Col. Elton Brian, commander, Det. 820, AFROTC.

Engine removal by crew chiefs?

I'm a T-37 crew chief and today I was told that we would be removing engines from the aircraft without any help from the engine shop. I really don't mind '3 pointing' the engines in preparing them for removal, but I'm concerned that equipment may be damaged or people may be injured in actually hoisting the engines out of the aircraft. Why do we have to do this?

The issue of why crew chiefs sometimes perform complete engine changes, instead of folks from the engine shop, goes back to the Dedicated Crew Chief concept which was adopted, in part, to help enrich the crew chief's job. Under this concept, crew chiefs receive more specialized training—including instruction on changing engines—and will be called upon to use that training from time to time. Concerning the engine hoisting, I appreciate your concern, but rest assured that your supervisors make every attempt to ensure your safety by following established procedures. However, if you have any suggestions for improving removal procedures, you need to bring them to your supervisor's attention. Procedures can almost always be improved in some way, and the best sources for improvement are you—the people who actually do the work.

Revised dining hall hours?

I heard a rumor that the dining hall is not going to open until 7:30 a.m. on weekends. If that's true, how are people who have to be at work by 7:45 a.m. going to have time to eat before they report to work?

Our base commander looked into this situation closely by reviewing weekend work schedules and receiving more than 150 surveys from meal card holders. The hours at the Caprock Cafe changed on April 20 but the weekend/holiday schedule calls for brunch to run from 6:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. This should easily accommodate the folks who like to eat breakfast before going to work.

Housing inspector—stop making tracks!

Lately, I've seen the housing inspector driving a cart over the grass. I know they have a large area to cover but driving on the yard tears up the grass and then the next week we get written up for that. Can you get them to drive the cart in the street and not on the grass? Also, I was written up for having grass just over the two inch limit but under the three inch limit, why?

The carts are designed to be driven on the grass without damaging it. The housing inspectors will not drive on newly seeded, wet or muddy areas. If you ever feel that your yard has been damaged by the inspector, give me a call. As for the length of the grass, during the spring, the length is two inches. Later when the weather is hotter the length goes to three inches. Check the Base Commander's letter to all Reese Village residents for all the details. If you cut your lawn on Saturday or Sunday, you should have no problem passing a Tuesday inspection.

Bowling alley conditioning

I recently asked the person in charge of the bowling alley why they couldn't dress the lanes more than once a day. She said there wasn't enough bowling to allow for that. I think you would get more bowlers out there if the lanes were in better condition. Can we dress the lanes in the morning and afternoon instead of what they're doing now?

Right now it's not economically feasible to condition the lanes more than once a day. Should we get our lineage up to an average of 35 to 40 games per lane per day—which would represent a very significant increase—then we could afford more conditioning.

Thanks Clothing Sales and Base Laundry!

Friday afternoon I had to purchase a new blue uniform, then have it altered so I could wear it to meet a board Monday morning. I thought it would be impossible to get the uniform ready that fast but the great efforts of the people at the base laundry and clothing sales helped me out quite a bit. I really appreciate their service and thought you would want to compliment them on their commendable effort.

You bet! I've passed on your vote of confidence and appreciation to the clothing sales and laundry staff. This is just one more example of a super attitude geared to serving the customer. Thanks.

Commander's Column

Time flies when you're having fun

by Col. William Drennan
Deputy Commander for Operations

The old expression "Time flies when you're having fun" is certainly true in this job. It occurred to me the other day that it was this time last year that the Wing was undergoing a Management Effectiveness Inspection—the first UPT Wing to be visited by a combined ATC Inspector General/Standardization Evaluation team.

That team had the expertise, time and manpower to delve into every facet of the 64th Flying Training Wing—there were literally "no secrets." Those of us who were here also remember that it was "no secret" at the conclusion of the inspection that we not only passed, we excelled. The results were the kind that other Wings only dream about.

The MEI results validated what we knew all along—that excellence is the standard at Reese. Inspection results are not the goal, of course, training quality pilots for the Air Force is, but they do serve as proof that we're performing our mission well.

The challenge that we face every day is to sustain that record of excellent mission accomplishment. We're probably about six months away from playing host to that same team of inspectors. It's time now for every individual and every unit to take a critical look at their part of the overall Wing mission with an eye toward polishing up sound programs and getting those back on track that may have strayed a little since that last inspection. Superior mission performance doesn't just happen. It comes from a daily effort to reach and maintain a level of excellence. Ideally, we should be able to welcome any inspector, any day, no notice and be proud to show him how we do business.

If you're not quite up to that standard yet, now's the time to start.

Prophets of "doom and gloom"

by Lt. Col. Phillip S. Marzolino
Chief, Safety Division

Safety officers are sometimes viewed as the local "prophets of doom and gloom." In part, this is probably because a safety officer never really gets to see the successes of a safety program, only the failures. Consequently, it's important to take a short review of what has been going on at Reese with the safety program.

So far, Reese is enjoying one of the best years on record with regard of mishaps.

We've had the lowest number of reportable lost duty days to individuals that we've ever experienced. This includes both on and off duty accidents. People are obviously paying more attention to doing things smart.

The flight safety picture is equally bright. Total flight mishaps are at a very low number, and the severity of the reportable mishaps we've had is relatively minor. This is one very strong indicator that our maintenance folks are providing top quality jets and the aircrews are handling the problems that crop up very well.

So far, all of this simply sounds like people doing their jobs right. Well, that's the point of this review. The best safety program is one that is integrated into the everyday operation and behavior of the individuals assigned. The record we've accumulated so far this year indicates that is exactly what is going on at Reese. We've seen additional evidence to support this in our inspection program. Commander, supervisor, and individual involvement in performing the job by the book is at an all time high. That's what is causing the overall record to look so good.

As a group, we have proven we are capable of making our program work; the challenge is to continue as we have been.

A review of the past several years experience clearly shows the next several months to be the high risk period. As a result, we will be having a Mission Enhancement Day next month to focus attention on the dangers of complacency and inattention. I strongly urge each person on this base to consider what they can bring to this special emphasis day to help us finish out the year as well as we have begun it.

Wow! What an energy team

by Col. Mark H. Lillard
Commander, 64th Air Base Group

Congratulations and appreciation to our Reese Village residents for their outstanding individual efforts in energy conservation and awareness.

Military family housing residents ended the second quarter of this fiscal year with a 12.2 percent reduction in energy consumption.

Since September, the housing area has had an average of 9.8 percent reduction monthly compared to the 1985 target. This is what I call an energy winning team!

Other facilities on base ended the second quarter with a small reduction. However, the average monthly reduction is a healthy 3.9 percent under the fiscal year 1985 baseline target.

Without endangering our primary mission of training pilots, our goal is to try and reduce our JP-4 fuels by .05 percent per year (or 5.0 percent from fiscal year 1985) by the end of fiscal year 1995.

Our cumulative JP-4 consumption at the end of the second quarter is slightly under target.

Our cumulative consumption of diesel fuel and MOGAS at the end of the second quarter was more than six percent over target. We still have another half a year to go, so we can't afford to relax our guard.

Energy awareness and conservation is here to stay. Not only at Reese AFB, but with all government agencies.

Did you know that DoD is the single largest user of energy in the United States? The Air Force accounts for one-half of the DoD consumption. We are talking about millions of dollars, our tax dollars, which pay for energy consumption. Energy is vital to our national defense. Let's not waste it!

Be a team member. Let's all do our part to save energy dollars. Individual awareness is really what it's all about.

Studies communist countries' advances and failures in military strength, industry, education, technology and agriculture. Compares present practices to Marx's original theory and exposes communism's definition of peaceful co-existence.

"The USAF in Southeast Asia—1967" presents a general documentary of Air Force operations in Southeast Asia during 1967. Highlights include air rescue, recon, air strikes, security, crash and rescue, assault aircraft, night operations, forward air control and airborne command post activities.

Sony salutes the military

PARK RIDGE, N.J.—One lucky serviceman or woman will be the recipient of a 1987 Jeep 4WD Comanche and a host of exciting Sony products this June when the Sony Special Markets Division reveals the Grand Prize winner in its Sony Salutes The Military Sweepstakes.

Hundreds of additional winners will be awarded prizes as well. The promotion, which is being carried out with the cooperation of exchanges at bases throughout the U.S., also features a wide variety of Sony electronic products at special low prices.

To participate, military personnel simply need to go to the base exchange, fill out an entry blank and drop it in the ballot box. It's as easy as that.

The Grand Prize Comanche comes fully equipped with a 2.5 liter, 4-cylinder engine, 4-speed manual transmission, power brakes and a vinyl bench seat. The Grand Prize winner will also receive a Sony 13" Trinitron remote control television, a three-piece cassette-recorder, a stereo entertainment system, a car stereo system and a Sony Discman portable CD player.

The Sony Sweepstakes will also award a Harley-Davidson Sportser 883 motorcycle to a First Prize winner, while five Second Prize recipients will win Minolta Professional Maxxum Model 7000 cameras.

Ten Third Prize winners will be awarded Tag-Heuer Formula 1 watches and 250 Fourth Prize winners will receive Sony Cordura Nylon duffle bags. In addition to the national prizes, there will be two winners at each exchange who will win a Sony Walkman.

Sony Salutes The Military Sweepstakes began in April and winners will be chosen by random drawing at the end of June.

Volunteers are special people

Sunday through May 2 is Volunteer Appreciation Week. From the chapel to the hospital, volunteers not only provide a service, but save the Air Force money. Volunteers are retirees, spouses of active-duty personnel and just about anyone who wants to contribute their time to help others.

After three decades of service, the mission and goals of the Family Services volunteers remains the same—taking care of their own, the Air Force family. Several activities have been planned in honor of the Reese AFB Family Services Volunteers.

The volunteers kick off the week's festivities by hosting a Thirtieth Anniversary Celebration, Saturday, 6:30 p.m., at the Officer's Open Mess. Quarterly awards will be presented as well as recognizing the 1986 Family Services Volunteer of the Year. A special slide presentation highlighting the past 30 years of family service history will be narrated by Vicki Hudson, co-anchor of the KCBD-TV news team.

On Monday, there will be an Open House at the Family Service Center, 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Bldg. 6100. Refreshments will be served. Rounding out the week will be the Annual Personal Affairs Orientation for spouses on Wednesday, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Base Chapel. This event is co-sponsored by Family Services and the Consolidated Base Personnel Office.

Many retirees volunteer their time and expertise for a variety of programs such as the medical retired activities program at base hospitals throughout the country, a surgeon general program which helps inform and advise the retiree community about their health care benefits.

Retirees volunteer for many base functions and serve on various base councils representing local retirees. Their active-duty experience enables them to help base personal affairs units with preretirement counseling programs.

At USAF Hospital-Reese, there are 16 Red Cross volunteers. These volunteers take blood pressures, schedule appointments, chaperone, serve as receptionists, dental assistants and in administrative positions. They work in various offices such as OB/GYN Clinic, Family Practice, Flight Surgeon's Office and Records Section.

At Reese Chapel, volunteers are involved in almost everything from Newcomer's Dinner to Bible Study teachers. Friday school, a program for preschool children, teaches school skills, social adjustments, music, Bible stories and crafts. The program has six volunteer teachers who work with the class, which lasts from September to May.

If you are interested in volunteering to a local organization, give them a call. What you get in return might be more than what you give.

Mrs. Peg Broerman (right) talks with a new Reese Family Services volunteer, Mrs. Jeanette Hilpp, with her daughter Sabrina.

Detachment 1025 catches yearly award

"Air Force Office of Special Investigations (AFOSI) Detachment 1025, Reese AFB, Texas, was recently selected as AFOSI District 10 Outstanding Small Detachment of the Year.

"Surprise and honor were my initial thoughts," commented Special Agent Edward F. Lawton, detachment commander, when first informed of the selection by Col. Robert Lukens, commander, AFOSI District 10.

"This is a privilege for us since it is the first time this detachment has received such prestigious recognition for its' work at Reese AFB and the South Plains area," added Lawton.

According to Agent Lawton, all AFOSI districts nominate outstanding small and large units for competition selection at Headquarters AFOSI where the top two units of the year are selected. Selection criteria involves a variety of factors, including the depth and complexity of investigations, support activities within the community and general overall mission accomplishment. Selection of Detachment 1025 was among seven AFOSI detachments located in Texas and Oklahoma.

Detachment 1025 accomplishments included newly implemented security briefings to all UPT students; presentations to AFROTC Detachment 820, Texas Tech University and extensive liaison visits with law enforcement agencies throughout the South Plains area. The actual investigative jurisdiction for Detachment 1025 encompasses nearly the entire Texas panhandle and several Oklahoma counties.

Detachment 1025 investigations resulting in court-martials and civil trials involved several narcotic sale and distribution cases; child molestation and sexual misconduct matters; the falsification of official U.S. Government documents by a DAF civilian employee resulting in his federal conviction; and a federal trial of a retired USAF NCO who pleaded guilty to rape.

"We look forward to increasing our involvement in the Reese AFB community without detracting from our primary responsibilities in conducting investigations. With the DoD emphasis on fraud, our role in investigating 'white collar' offenses has expanded," explained Agent Lawton. Besides their primary mission, AFOSI personnel participate in intramural sports and attend numerous PME and other functions normally attended by 'blue suiters.' "

Other assigned detachment personnel include Special Agents James R. Wilson, Bobby G. Wilson, Jeffrey Creager and Investigative Assistant Glenda O. Mankins.

Protecting our resources

by 2nd Lt. Joan Kinsey
Chief, Cost Branch

Good management means getting the job done in the most effective and efficient way possible. Internal Controls are simply a part of good management and an inherent and ongoing responsibility at all levels of command. The fact is, most of us use internal controls without realizing it.

The overall objective of internal controls is to provide reasonable assurance that funds, property and other assets are safeguarded against waste, loss, unauthorized use and misappropriation.

The Internal Control Program is governed by the Office of Management and Budget Circular A-123 and AFR 15-1, Air Force Internal Controls. These publications can help you establish, evaluate and report the effectiveness of your internal controls. This program is becoming increasingly important in the age of Gramm-Rudman as we are tasked to accomplish our mission effectively with fewer available resources. By ensuring controls are in place and working, we can protect those resources.

Air Force has directed a preliminary vulnerability assessment be conducted base-wide. Every organization has the responsibility of reviewing the functions under their control and assessing the vulnerability or risk of waste, loss, unauthorized use or misappropriation of resources. This preliminary as-essment, as well as the rest of the Internal Control Program, receives high visibility from the ATC Commander to the President.

Although the preliminary vulnerability assessment is our current task, internal control is an ongoing process, and many people do not realize they are using it. Showing your ID card at the commissary is one way the commissary manager can prevent unauthorized use of that facility. And how many people lock their offices or buildings at night?

These examples are simple, but they demonstrate that internal controls are common sense measures that are present everywhere. They protect our resources. Are you protecting yours?

Just another fish story

The Reese Rod and Gun Club held a fishing Tournament April 4 at Lake Spence.

The overall winner of the tournament was Jose Valez, who weighted in at eight pounds, 12 ounces. Second place went to George Dalton with two pounds, 12 ounces. The tournament consisted of any species of bass, with a ten fish limit.

A follow-on fishing tournament will be held May 30 at White River Lake. This tournament will be for any species of game fish, which include bass, wall-eye, crappie and catfish. There will be a 10-fish limit with state bag and length limits applying. Preregistration forms are available by contacting 1st Lt. Mark Nabell, Ext. 3510, or TSgt. Rick Covalt, Ext. 3500. Preregistration will take place the week prior to the tournament.

The Reese Rod and Gun Club is a branch of MWR and is open to all personnel interested in either hunting or fishing. The club meets on the second Tuesday of each month, 7 p.m., at the Enlisted Open Mess. During the year, the club is planning numerous fishing tournaments and will try to obtain a hunting lease for the coming season.

Jose Valez (left) with his eight pounds and 12 ounce catch, and George Dalton with his two pound 12 ounce catch.

Special Olympics

The Special Olympics Track and Field Meet will be held Saturday, 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at Estacado High School. The school is located on North Quirt off Loop 289. Volunteers are needed and point of contact is Capt. Diarte Ackerly, Ext. 6096 or SSgt. Jim Bourns, Ext. 3122.

Wheels for Life bike ride

The St. Judes Children's Research Hospital bike ride will be held May 2, beginning at the base picnic grounds. The ride course will be around the perimeter road with refreshments provided along the way. Prizes will be awarded to the top three finishers in three age brackets. Awards to the youngest and oldest riders will also be presented.

Persons interested in participating or volunteering to help are asked to call SSgt. Gordon Couffer, or SrA. Felix Saenz, Ext. 3615.

Jog with the jag

Don't forget the first ever "Jag Jog" May 4, beginning at noon at the base picnic area.

The Jag Jog consists of a five mile and one and one-half mile course beginning and ending at the base picnic area. For both courses, the time for the first one and one-half miles counts as an aerobics run time. Those who complete the five-mile run have the opportunity to win trophies and savings bonds.
