Forsan ISD names lone finalist for Superintendent job

Editor's note: Forsan ISD provided the following story to the Big Spring Herald in the form of a press release.

Special to the Herald

Forsan ISD announced its lone finalist for superintendent at its January 20 Special Called Board of Trustees meeting.

The district has named Mr. Dane Richardson as the lone finalist on a unanimous (7-0) vote.

Board President Lewis Boeker said “With more than two decades of experience in education, Mr. Richardson brings a wide-range of experiences and has a proven record of success. Dane is very involved with his family, which is a core value for Forsan ISD. He is a motivator and wants to build relationships to foster trust with everyone he encounters. Dane understands that, with any transition, people will be a little anxious—as such he will immerse himself in the school and focus on building relationships to ease the transition. While academics and extracurricular activities are always top of mind, Dane understands that these two aspects of education work in harmony to support FISD in producing highly capable graduates. The board and I look forward to where Dane will lead us as we collectively strive for the next level of success for Forsan ISD!”

During his career, Richardson has served at all levels including, most recently, serving as the Director of Field Service for Region 16 Educational Service Center (i.e., ESC16 in Amarillo, Texas). In this role, Mr. Richardson was responsible for serving district superintendents and district leaders across 60 school districts and more than 80,000 students in the areas of school board trainings, school business services support, and training and evaluation of administrators.

TIFP and TIRZ on County agenda

By ROGER CLINE

Herald Staff Writer

Howard County Commissioners will consider action on a Tax Increment Financing Program and Tax Increment Reinvestment Zone when they meet Monday afternoon.

The meeting will be at 3:30 p.m. Monday in the third-floor courtroom of the Howard County Courthouse, 300 S. Main St. Those wishing to participate remotely can visit <https://www.facebook.com/Howard-County-Info-Tech110733893888746/> to view the meeting on Facebook Live.

Listed with the TIFP/TIRZ item on the commissioner's agenda are Ryan LLC and “Maher Maso, Principal”. Ryan LLC is the company founded by Big Spring native Brint Ryan, who headed up the renovation of the Settles Hotel. Maher Maso is principal of Ryan's Dallas office and formerly served as mayor of Frisco, Texas.

Following the Ryan LLC item, Bobbi Henson, West Texas Deputy Regional Director for U.S. Senator Ted Cruz will be

May 7 election prep on HC agenda

By ROGER CLINE

Herald Staff Writer

The Howard County Junior College District Board of Trustees will consider matters related to the May 7 election when it meets Monday. The meeting, scheduled for 12:30 p.m. Monday, will be held in the Fireplace Room of the Howard College Student Union Building. Those wishing to participate remotely may call 1-888-204-5987 and enter the access code 3148424# at the meeting time to listen in.

Business related to the upcoming election will be considered near the end of the meeting, during the portion dealing with Board Education and Development Items on the agenda include order of the election and consideration of an election services contract, ostensibly with Howard County Election Administrator Jodi Duck.

Prior to the public meeting, the board will meet in closed executive session at 10 a.m. to participate in a conference call with the District's attorney concerning “The Travelers Indemnity Company/Insurance Claim for Hail Storm 3/13/2021” and “Confidential Agreement and General Release with Thesis America Inc./Student Information System,” according to the agenda. The board will also consider a self-evaluation during the closed session. Any business stemming from the closed session will be handled when the board reconvenes in open session.

Following the executive session, the board will break for lunch before starting the open meeting with the invocation and recognition of guests.

The board will consider approval of routine matters including minutes of the Dec. 13 regular meeting; December 2021 financial statements; monthly reports of auxiliary services; personnel matters; and the college's internal audit report.

The board will next turn to New Business, beginning with the Confidential Settlement Agreement with Thesis America Inc. discussed during the closed session.

The board will consider implementation of a Student Information System project.

Obituaries

Myra Brown Robinson

Myra Brown Robinson, of Dallas, Texas died on Jan. 16, 2022 at the age of 102. Myra was born on Dec. 20, 1919, to parents Flora Bozeman and John Brown in Fort Worth, Texas. The family lived on the Triangle Ranch in Mitchell County, Texas, and traveled the 220 miles to Fort Worth to be near a doctor for Myra's birth.

Myra lived on the Triangle Ranch with her family and brother Reynolds from 1919 to 1925 when the family moved to Colorado City so that the children could attend school. She graduated from Colorado City High School in 1937 and attended UCLA. During her growing-up years, she endured the Depression and the Dust Bowl.

Myra married Glenn Robert Robinson of Miami, Oklahoma, on April 5, 1942. Three weeks after their wedding, Bob was called to report for duty by the army where he served in the 95th Infantry Division in France and Germany and was discharged in Oct. 1945 as a captain. Immediately after his discharge, Myra and Bob moved to Oklahoma City where Bob worked for Stanolind Oil & Gas.

In 1947 Bob and Myra returned to Colorado City and with Bob's father, Glenn Robinson, organized Robinson Drilling Company with three cable tool rigs. Glenn served as the landman, Bob was the tool pusher, and Myra was the accountant, working on the kitchen table after the children were in bed.

When Bob Robinson died in 1972 as the result of an automobile accident, Myra retained the company and served as CEO for 40 years. In 2012 she moved to Dallas.

Myra was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Colorado City where she served as organist for 20 years. She was later a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Big Spring, Texas where she served as elder.

While living in Big Spring, Myra served on the boards of Schreiner University, Kerrville, Texas; the Texas Presbyterian Foundation; and the Presbyterian Church USA Foundation. She was awarded the Big Spring Woman of the Year in 1984.

She was honored twice for her work in the oil industry: in 2003 she received the Top Hand Award from the Permian Basin Petroleum Association and in 2005 Myra was named to the Permian Basin Petroleum Hall of Fame by the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum.

Myra was predeceased in death by her parents, her husband, two sisters and one brother. She is survived by her sister, Lucy Brown Saye of Clarendon, TX, and children Mike Robinson (Monika) of Big Spring, Myra Crownover (Terral Smith) of Austin, Anne Compton of Dallas and dear friend and assistant, Gloria Rocha. She was also blessed with eleven grandchildren and twenty-five great grandchildren.

A memorial service will be on Monday, Jan. 24, at 2:00 p.m. in the Sanctuary of Highland Park Presbyterian Church, 3821 University Boulevard, Dallas. A second memorial service will be held on Monday, Jan. 31, at 2:00 p.m., First Presbyterian Church of Big Spring, 701 Rannels St, Big Spring, TX In lieu of flowers, please consider a memorial to the Dallas Arboretum, 8525 Garland Road, Dallas, Texas 75218 or the First Presbyterian Church of Big Spring, 701 Rannels St, Big Spring, TX 79720.

Robin Kay Smith

Robin Kay Smith, age 60, of Big Spring, passed away on Wednesday, Jan. 19, 2022. Funeral Services will be held at 2:00 p.m. Monday, Jan. 24, 2022, at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Rosewood Chapel. Interment will follow at Trinity Memorial Park.

The family will receive friends from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 23, 2022, at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

Robin was born on Feb. 6, 1961, in Peru, Indiana, to parents Kenny Spencer and Maxine Wilburn. She moved to Texas as a young child and resided here until her passing. She graduated from Big Spring High School in 1979 and attended Howard College. She worked various jobs in her career and retired from the State of Texas in 2016. Robin attended church at The First Church of the Nazarene for many years. She enjoyed going out to lunch with her friend, Rhonda Sanders, and taking trips to Walmart. She enjoyed snuggling with her dog Cloie. She enjoyed taking Travis to his travel league baseball tournaments. She enjoyed participating in Girl Scout activities with Kayla. She enjoyed taking both kids to the water park, bowling alley, movie theater, skating rink, and Starbucks. She was never one to stay idle long! She was very social and never met a stranger. She was a wonderful sister, mother, and aunt. We know that she is rejoicing in Heaven and is dancing to the music as she has been made whole! She will truly be missed by all who knew her.

Survivors include her children Kelleigh, Travis, and Kayla Smith. Three brothers, Dean Spencer of Kingsland, TX, Kent Spencer and wife Autumn of Greenwood, TX, and Michael Forshee and wife Mary of Big Spring, TX. Sister Candy Chesworth and husband Pat of Big Spring, TX. She is survived by nieces Lauren Barber and husband Eric of Coahoma, TX, Jordan Crawford and husband Ricky of Big Spring, Alexis Pool and husband Michael of Greenwood, TX, Michaela Spencer of Midland, TX, Morgan Forshee of Big Spring, TX and nephews Joshua Spencer and wife Autumn of Texas, Justin Forshee and wife Elizabeth of Big Spring, TX, Garrett Spencer of Austin, TX, Chris Spencer and wife Brandy of Texas, and numerous great-nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her father, Kenny Spencer, and mother and stepfather, Maxine and Stephen Forshee.

Pallbearers will be Michael and Brian Chesworth, Jimmie Billings, Eric Barber, and Ricky Crawford.

In lieu of flowers, please consider donating to "The Drive-Thru Nativity" fund at The First Church of the Nazarene in Big Spring, Texas.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home and Crematory. Online condolences may be made at www.npwelch.com.

Mary Socorro Salazar

Mary Socorro Salazar, affectionately known by many as Quito, age 85 of Big Spring, passed away on Wednesday, Jan. 19, 2022 at her niece's home in Midland, TX. A Funeral Mass will be held at 10:00am Tuesday, Jan. 25, 2022 at Holy Trinity Parish. Interment will follow at Trinity Memorial Park.

A Rosary will be held at 7:00p.m. Monday, Jan. 24, 2022 at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Rosewood Chapel.

She was born Jan. 14, 1937 in Big Spring, Texas to parents Catarino Salazar and Isabel (Garcia) Salazar.

She was a lifelong Big Spring resident and member of Holy Trinity Catholic Parish. She spent her days caring for various family members and friends and keeping an immaculately clean home. She and her sisters loved to seasonally decorate the home as it was the place that family and friends gathered for many holidays until 2020. In her remaining years, her greatest longing was to be reunited with her deceased family members.

Survivors include seven nieces and nephews, Debbye ValVerde of Big Spring, Brenda Nack (Peter) of Baltimore, MD, Lisa Williams (Mark) of Midland, David Salazar (Sheila) of Big Spring, Tony Salazar (Michelle) of Big Spring, Denise Salazar (Marty) of Big Spring and John Salazar (Arlington). She is also survived by sister-in-law Cruz Salazar of Baltimore, MD and 10 great nieces and nephews, Laura and Jordan Williams, Elyse and Catherine Salazar, Michael, Beth and William Salazar, Sophie Deanda, Aaron Patterson and Alana Wegner.

She was preceded in death by her parents Catarino and Isabel, brothers Frank, Joe and Tim Salazar and sisters Inez and Flora Salazar; sisters-in-law Ruth Salazar and Gina Salazar and nephew-in-law Larry ValVerde.

Pall Bearers will be Mark Williams, Jordan Williams, Tony Salazar, Michael Salazar, William Salazar, Marty Deanda and Aaron Patterson. Honorary Pall Bearers are David Salazar, John Salazar, Peter Nack, DJ Alviar, Arthur Olague, Michael Flores, Johnny Flores and Albert Deanda.

Visitation will be held Monday, Jan. 24, 2022 at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home at 6:00 p.m.

The family would like to thank Home Hospice for previous care and Hospice of Midland who provided care in her final days. The Williams family is deeply appreciative to Marisa Rayos of Home Instead, for providing companionship and personal care for Quito for the last 18 months so that they could continue working.

The family suggests memorials to Holy Trinity Parish, PO Box 951, Big Spring, TX 79721-0951.

Arrangements are under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home and Crematory. Online condolences may be made at www.npwelch.com

Prior to being recruited to the Region 16 ESC, Richardson served as superintendent of school in White Deer ISD, where he led the district to improvements in many areas, but especially in the areas of finance, academics, and extracurricular programs. During his career, Mr. Richardson has also served as principal, coordinator, coach, and classroom teacher.

Regarding being named Lone Finalist, Mr. Richardson, said, "I'm an educator who is passionate about serving students, staff and the greater community. I am excited to become a part of the Forsan ISD community. I look forward to visiting and getting to know FISD's students, staff and community members. I would like to thank the Forsan ISD Board of Trustees for giving me this incredible opportunity. I'm excited and ready to get to work—Go Buffs!"

By state law, the district must wait 21 days before offering Mr. Richardson a contract.

County Treasurer Sharon Adams will present personnel considerations, the December Treasurer's Monthly Report, and the Treasurer's Quarterly Report for the fourth quarter of 2021.

County Auditor Jackie Olson will present financial statements for Community Supervision, the Corrections Department and the Juvenile Probation Department, and ask commissioners to approve them.

Olson will also present invoices, purchase requests and budget amendments for the commissioners' approval.

Howard County Librarian Mavour Braswell or her representative once again broach the subject of a proposed mural at the Howard County Library. The item was discussed at the commissioners' previous meeting, but tabled to request further information.

Precinct 3 Commissioner Jimmie Long will introduce two items, the first, requesting permission to go out for bids on windows for the Courthouse, and the second, requesting permission to go out for bids for a design-built boiler system for the Howard County Courthouse and Library.

County Elections Administrator Jodi Duck will ask the commissioners to consider the purchase of redistricting and election management mapping software, as well as a printer/plotter/scanner for use with the mapping software.

County Sheriff Stan Parker will present the Sheriff's Department annual report on Racial Profiling for 2021.

County Road Engineer Brian Klinksiek will present a roadway maintenance update; while County Clerk Brent Zitterkopf will present his Monthly Report for December 2021 and discuss a possible write-off of bad debt for Bexar County Mental Health.

At the end of the meeting, commissioners will have an opportunity to mention items to be placed on future meeting agendas.

The college's response to COVID-19, Status No. 21, will be considered, including the Open Howard College program.

The board will also consider a resolution recognizing School Boards, likely in observation of January as School Board Recognition Month.

The board will also consider approval of resolutions recognizing gifts to the college from – for the Big Spring Campus – the Dora Roberts Foundation and Steve and Jo Stone; and for the San Angelo campus, the Ellis Family Foundation and Fred Krebs.

The board will consider an audit report and a fund balance report.

Student information system servers, storage and server software will be considered for purchase. The board will also consider handbook and catalog changes, hear a report on the ongoing roof projects at the Big Spring and SouthWest College for the Deaf campuses and repairs related to the 2021 hail storm.

College President Dr. Cheryl Sparks will present her report, including information on upcoming activities and recognitions.

The board will discuss the upcoming election as previously mentioned before hearing legislative and general updates. The board will also hear a report on the upcoming Board of Trustees Institute scheduled March 1 and 2.

A time will be made available for a meeting evaluation and discussion of future agenda items, before the board chairman gives his report.

The meeting will then be adjourned.

THE GIRL LOVES WRITING

By Tumbleweed Smith

Special to the Herald

TUMBLEWEED SMITH

I had the genuine pleasure to meet Tamra McAnally Bolton, a gifted and respected writer who lives near Jacksonville. I have 3 of her books now and each one shows her amazing talent. When I interviewed her I asked her to read from her book WHEN I WAS SMALL, a book for children. She read these words:

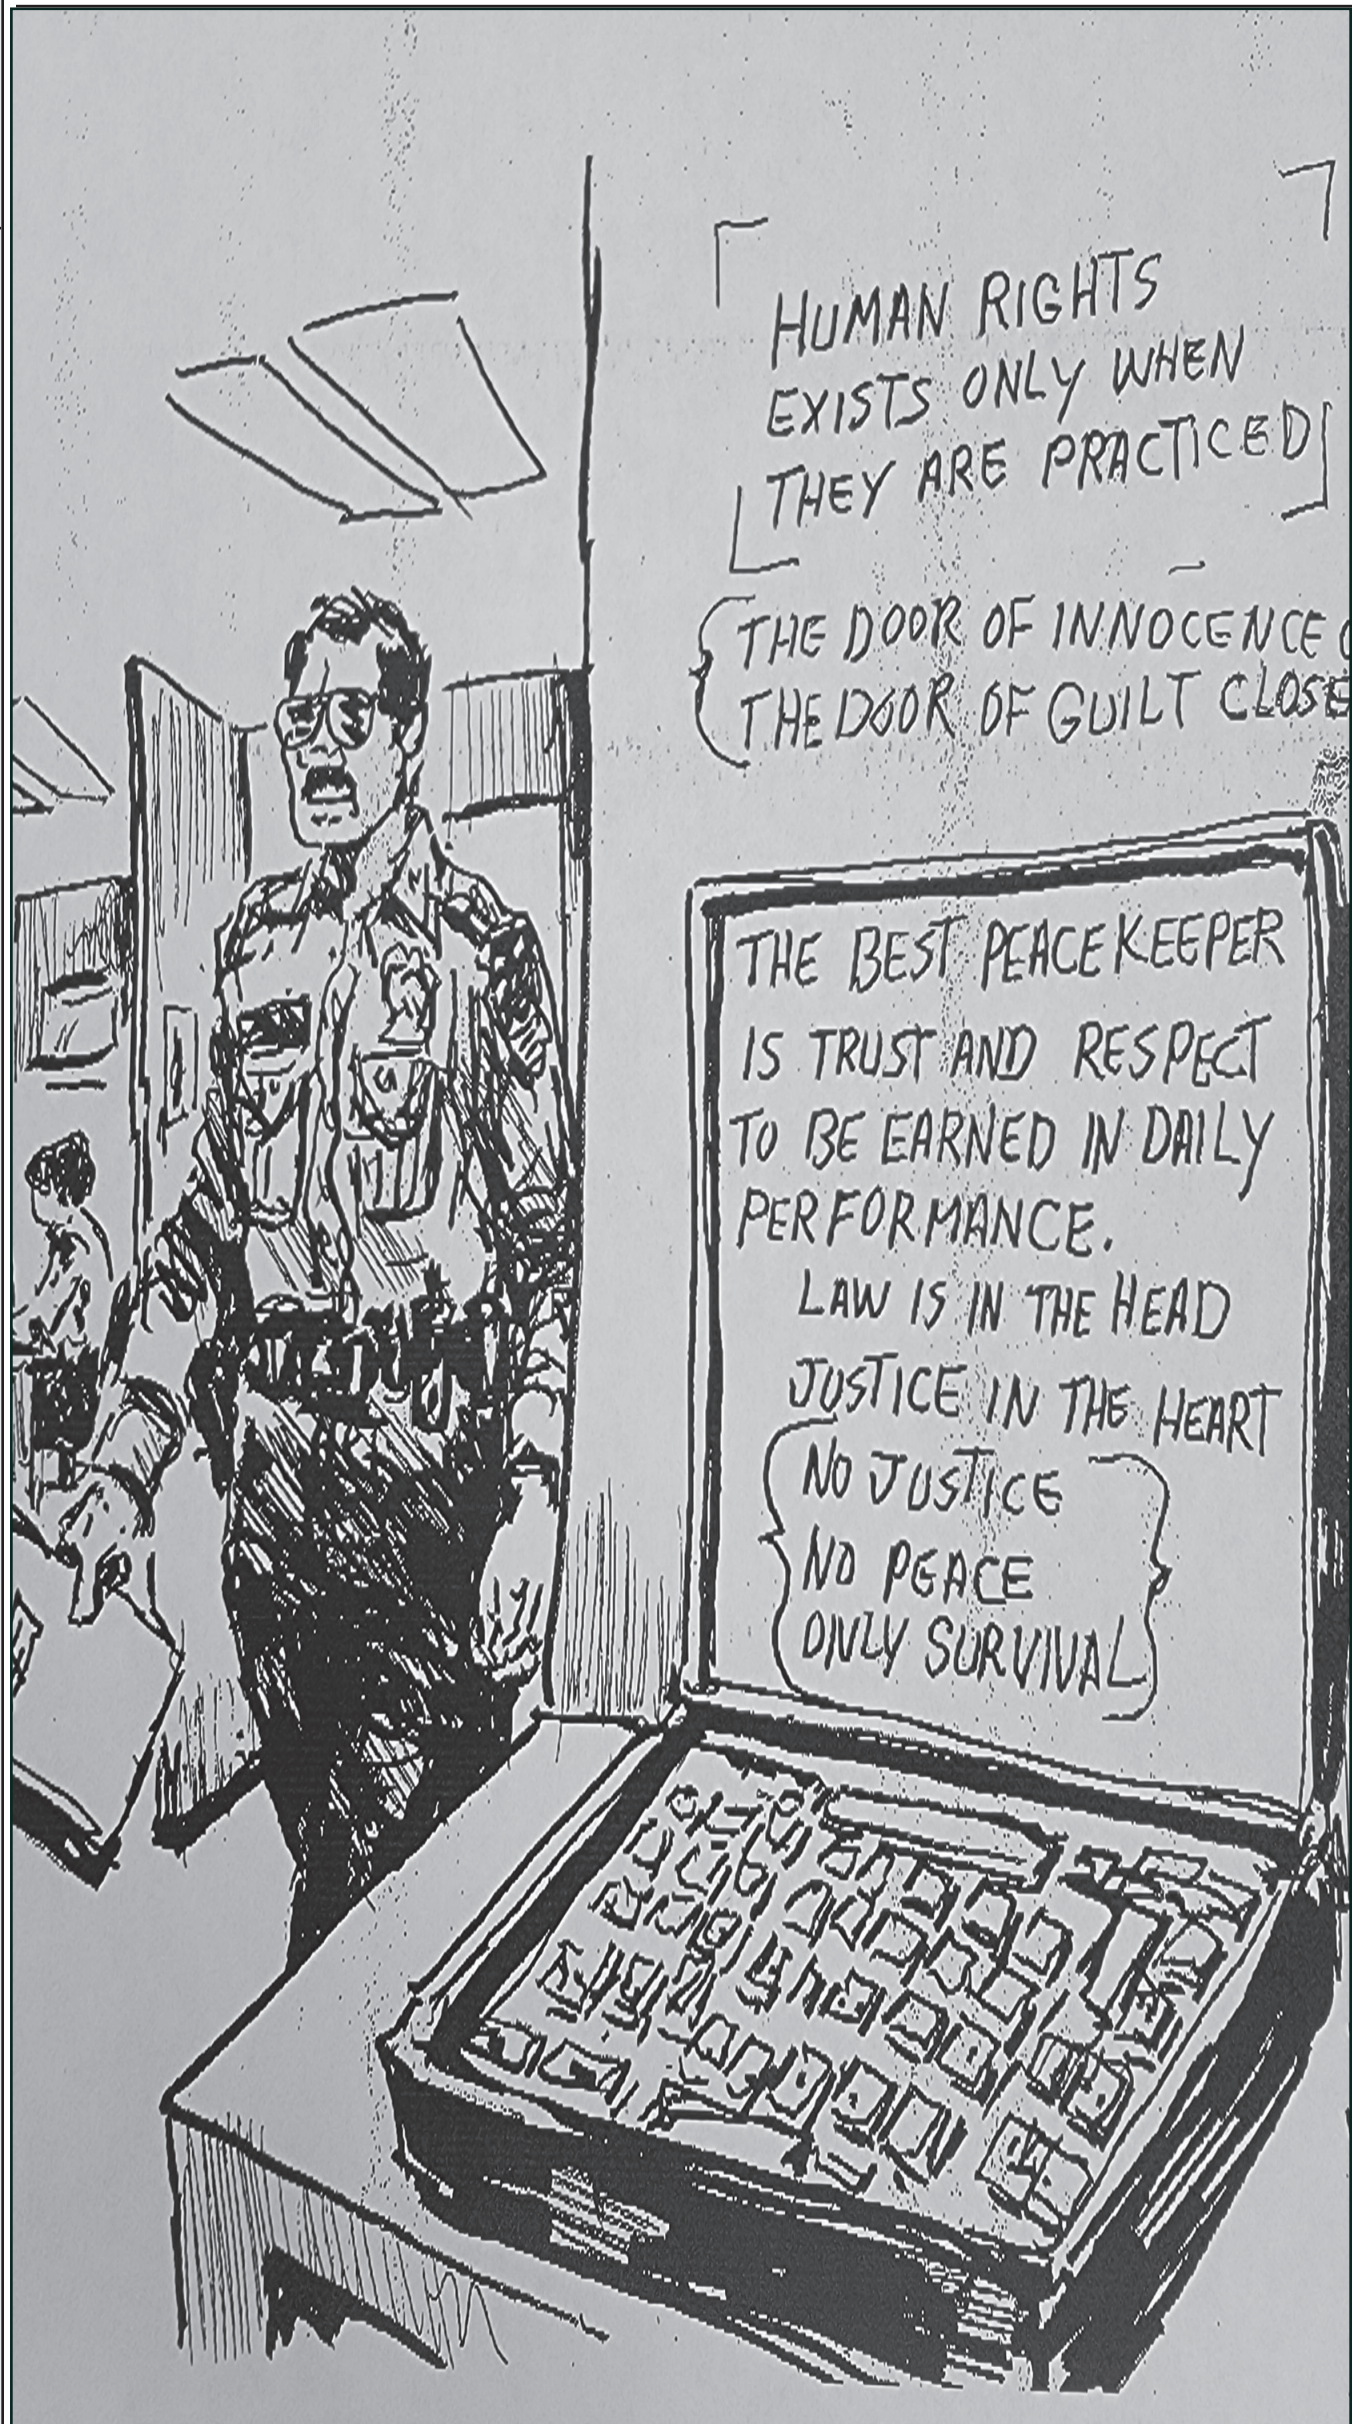

"When I was a girl, a long time ago, the places I'd roam, I loved them so. The dusty old barn with its stacks of hay, the wide-open meadows where the butterflies play, the clamor and cluck of the chickens at feeding time and the pop and snap of fresh clothes on the line." It's a short book that she and her husband illustrated.

Her latest book is THE ART OF STORY KEEPING that gives hints about saving family memories. "If you don't get those stories down they're going to be gone, lost forever." The book that took her 20 years to write is titled A BLESSED LIFE: THE WORLD WAR TWO SEABEE'S STORY. It's about her father's experiences on Iwo Jima. The book details the many visits with her dad, taking notes and making recordings and attending reunions of his fellow Seabees, where she talked with other veterans of Iwo Jima. That book won awards from the Military Writers Society, the Chanticleer International Book Awards and the Pulpwood Queens Book Club.

Her writing career has taken her from the California desert to the snowy mountains of Wyoming. Her articles and photographs have been published in several magazines including Parade. Some of her photos have graced the covers of regional and national publications.

"You're never too old to be a kid," she says. One thing she wrote about brought back some almost forgotten memories for me. In her book WHEN I WAS SMALL she talks about wriggling her toes and making frog houses in the freshly plowed dirt in springtime. I hadn't thought about frog houses in decades. I found out that not everybody in Texas knows what they are. I used to make them while growing up in Waco and visiting my aunts and uncles around Canton. I told Tamra I hadn't made a frog house in a long time. "That's so much fun," she replied. "I cannot pass a freshly plowed piece of ground and not make a frog house. People have forgotten how much fun it is to be a kid. It's easy to make a frog house. Just get your bare foot and wriggle it in the dirt as deep and as far as you can, then pat the dirt all over the top of your foot. You have to be careful pulling out your foot because you don't want it to cave in." We both had a good laugh talking about frog houses.

Her stories cover everything from riding in a Baja Buggy to dogsledding and reporting on upscale resorts. "I've had all kinds of adventures and done things I never dreamed I would get to do. I've done just about everything on my 'do before I die' list that I started when I was about 12." She has been writing since she was 5. "I'd write little poems and stories and wouldn't show them to anybody because I was afraid they'd laugh at me. By the time I was 40 that changed."

DAILY PRAYER

Second Time Around

By STEVE BELVIN

Contributing Writer

Big Spring. Lived down the road from it for umpteen years. Never knew it was originally called Big Springs. Something about a spring that ran through Big Spring. All the Native Americans would congregate for healing, cleansing and just to have good water to drink. Changed the name to Big Spring in 1915.

Through the years Big Spring became known as the Crossroads of West Texas. Because of all the truck traffic from the southeast heading to the West Coast. No this is not a history lesson because I wasn't too good in the subject.

What I'm getting at is I think of this area as the Crossroads. So I'm going to talk about some Crossroads area basketball teams.

WHAT'S GOOD

Garden City lost one of its basketball players in a auto accident last week. The sixteen-year-old was also a golfer. His name is Ryder Glass, and he was a member of National Honor Society and Future Farmers of America.

Garden City canceled its game with Bronte. Two days later, they traveled to Forsan to play a very good Buffaloes squad. Garden City prevailed in a 54-47 overtime victory.

After the game, the Forsan folks provided a meal for the visitors. Showing love, giving love is what it's all about.

WHAT'S BAD

Thirty-seven people in attendance for the Howard men's home game against New Mexico Military Institute on a Saturday afternoon. Come on, Big Spring. It's got to be more sports fans out there. Great family fun on a Saturday afternoon. Inexpensive entertainment in a family atmosphere.

I guarantee you there's a lot of talent that plays in the WJCAA. Many NBA players have come up through the conference. Scott Raines has a good squad with this Howard team. They're not very tall, but they are pesky, like a fly, always in your face.

It's a shame more people don't get out and enjoy that level of play. Be a sports fan - not just a Big Spring sports fan. Go out and support these young men just because they are not from Big Spring. Means you can't be supportive of them. I wonder just how well the Hawks would play if Dorothy Garrett Coliseum was one-fourth full.

WATCH OUT FOR LADY DAWGS AND LADY STEERS

I need help. When is the last time the Coahoma Bulldogettes won a district basket title? I'm just asking. Can ANYONE HELP ME? Coahoma got a decisive win over Stanton, the district favorite. It was expected to be a two-team race. Lady Dawgs have the upper hand. Still have to go to Stanton and win, though.

Loved the way the Coahoma crowd reacted. Noisy crowd; had a group of students banging on tables and eating pizza the entire game. Great basketball atmosphere. That's what I call a real homecourt advantage.

The Lady Steers of Big Spring are off to a good start in district, finally beating Lubbock Estacado, following it with a 51-35 win over San Angelo Lake View on the road. The big district roadblock is Levelland. No. 6 in the state with a 19-1 record.

Playing those ladies twice can't help but get you ready for the playoffs.

SOFTBALL ANYONE?

Softball season is right around the corner. We have some good teams in the area. Let's start with the Colorado City Lady Wolves, who came one series from reaching the Final Four in Class 2A, losing to eventual state champion Stamford. Then there's the Forsan Lady Buffaloes, who was in District 4-2A along with Colorado City. They made it to the quarterfinals, also getting eliminated by Stamford.

The Coahoma Bulldogettes in Class 3A always a power. The thing about Coahoma is they are in the toughest region in the state (Region I). Loads of competition like Jim Ned. and Brock and Brock to the east, Bushland in the Panhandle, and Holliday and Jacksboro in the Wichita Falls area.

Dream Scrimmage. Forsan, Colorado City, Coahoma, and Big Spring at Howard College's Foundation Field. Big Spring finished second in it's district. Should make a formidable opponent for the other three powers. Everybody plays everybody. Five innings limit each game. Oh well, I can dream..

I'm wondering if the last time the Crossroads area had a state softball title was Forsan with back-to-back in 2009-2010. Correct me if I'm wrong. I need all the help I can get.

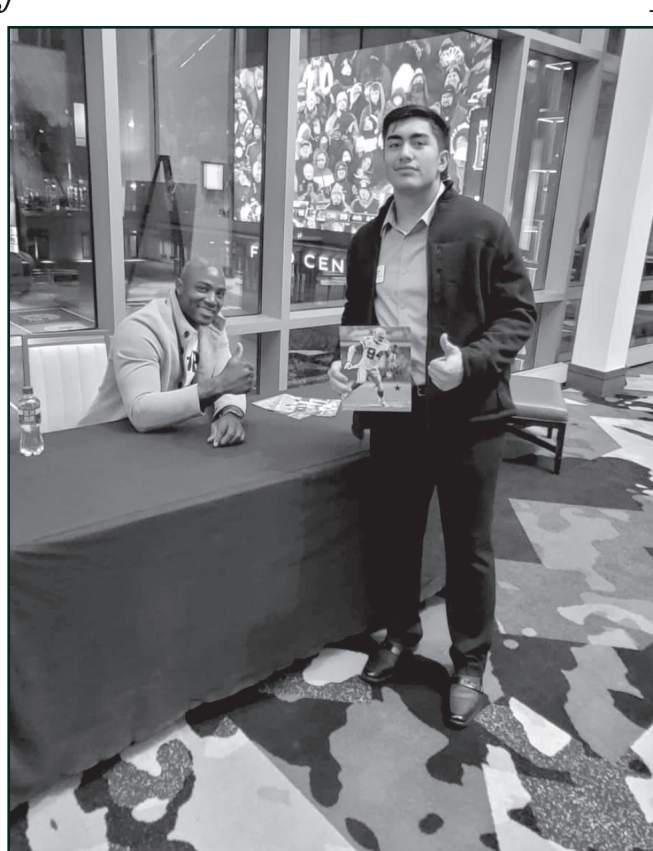

Shanna Taylor is still coaching at Forsan. Kudos to a two-time state coaching champion.

The 2010 state championship team went 28-4, beating Blue Ridge in the title game 5-0 behind the one hit pitching of Amanda Longoria. Two of Forsan's losses came to Coahoma.

Let me know what's going on out there. I have lots of questions. Are there any members of the 2010 team living in this area? I want to know. Memory Lane - Someone asked me about the whereabouts of former Big Spring tennis star Rocky Tubbs.

Help me out. Drop me a line My email is belvinsteven@yahoo.com. .

Right: Gabriel and his dad Sunny Baeza pose for a photo at the Ford Built Tough Player of the Week Banquet. Baeza was invited to the Banquet after winning the Ford Built Tough player of the week award after his performance against Littlefield. Baeza had one of the best days I have ever seen live. He had 325 pass yards with four TD; Baeza also chipped in 207 rushing yards with three more touchdowns, giving him a total of 532 yards and seven touchdowns.

MLB's snail-paced lockout talks to resume with union offer

By RONALD BLUM

AP Baseball Writer

NEW YORK — Locked out baseball players plan to make a counteroffer to management on Monday, 11 days after clubs gave the union a proposal when the snail-paced negotiations resumed following a 42-day break.

The players' association asked Major League Baseball on Thursday to schedule the negotiating session, which is to take place in-person.

There is dwindling time to reach an agreement in time for spring training to start as scheduled on Feb. 16.

The scheduled March 31 opening day is also increasingly threatened, given the need for players to report, go through COVID-19 protocols and have at least three weeks of workouts that include a minimal number of exhibition games.

Players don't receive paychecks until the regular season, and owners get only a small percentage of their revenue during the offseason. Those factors create negotiations that are a game of chicken until mid-to-late February, when significant economic losses become more imminent.

When owners made their new proposal during a video meeting on Jan. 13, players reacted coolly and said they would contact MLB when they were ready to respond.

Baseball's ninth work stoppage, its first since 1995, started Dec. 2 following the expiration of a five-year labor contract.

Unhappy with a 4% drop in payrolls to 2015 levels, players have asked for significant change that includes more liberalized free agency and salary arbitration eligibility.

Management says it will not consider changes to free agency, salary arbitration or revenue sharing but made the latest offer in an attempt to propel talks.

Six seasons of major league service have been required for free agency since 1976. Salary arbitration eligibility since 2013 has been three seasons plus the top 22% by service time of players with at least two years but less than three years.

MLB proposed to replace the "super two" arbitration group with additional spending for the entire two-plus class based on performance. Players have proposed have expanding eligibility to all players with at least two seasons.

Players also want to reduce revenue sharing, which would take money away from smaller-market teams and allow large-market clubs to retain a higher percentage of cash — presumably to be spent on salaries.

The luxury tax threshold was $210 million in 2021, and MLB proposed raising the threshold to $214 million. Players have asked to raise the threshold to $245 million and to eliminate non-tax penalties.

Teams also want to expand from 10 postseason teams to 14, and players have offered 12.

Brady, SB champs aim to avenge regular-season losses to Rams

L.A. RAMS (13-5) at TAMPA BAY (14-4)

Sunday, 3 p.m. EST, NBC

SERIES RECORD: Rams lead 18-9.

LAST MEETING: Rams beat Buccaneers 34-24 Sept. 26, 2021 at Inglewood, California.

LAST WEEK: Rams beat Cardinals 34-11; Buccaneers defeated Eagles 31-15.

RAMS OFFENSE: OVERALL (9), RUSH (25), PASS (5), SCORING (T7).

RAMS DEFENSE: OVERALL (17), RUSH (6), PASS (22), SCORING (15).

BUCCANEERS OFFENSE: OVERALL (2), RUSH (26), PASS (1), SCORING (2).

BUCCANEERS DEFENSE: OVERALL (13), RUSH (3), PASS (21), SCORING (5).

TURNOVER DIFFERENTIAL: Rams plus-2; Buccaneers plus-10

RAMS PLAYER TO WATCH: NFL receiving leader Cooper Kupp had the quietest game in his record-breaking season for the Rams last week against Arizona, matching his season low with five receptions for a season-low 61 yards. The receiving Triple Crown winner still made his 17th touchdown reception of the year, and he freed up the rest of the Rams' offense as an obvious target of the Cardinals' defense. Los Angeles is almost certain to need a bigger offensive game this week to keep up with Brady and the Bucs, and Kupp is overdue for a breakout postseason performance after being injured for two of the Rams' previous three playoff runs of his career, including the 2018-19 Super Bowl surge.

BUCCANEERS PLAYER TO WATCH: With leading receiver Chris Godwin lost to a season-ending knee injury and Antonio Brown no longer with the defending Super Bowl champs after refusing to re-enter a game, WR Mike Evans continues to show why the Bucs were such an attractive destination for Brady in free agency in 2020. Evans is the only player in NFL history to begin a career with eight consecutive 1,000-yard receiving seasons. He had nine catches for 117 yards and a TD in last week's wild-card victory over Philadelphia. He set a franchise record with 14 TD receptions this season, second in the league behind Kupp. Evans had eight catches for 108 yards in Tampa Bay's 10-point loss to the Rams during the regular season.

KEY MATCHUP: Brady and a nicked-up offensive line vs. the Rams' pass rush featuring DT Aaron Donald and LB Von Miller. No QB consistently does a better job of getting rid of the football than Brady. Teams that have given the Bucs the most trouble over the past two seasons, including the Rams, have been able to make the seven-time Super Bowl champion uncomfortable in the pocket. He threw for 432 yards but just one TD in the most recent meeting. The Rams sacked him three times.

KEY INJURIES: LT Andrew Whitworth (knee) was injured on the first play of the Rams' playoff win over the Cardinals. His status is uncertain for Sunday. ... Bucs All-Pro RT Tristan Wirfs (ankle) and Pro Bowl C Ryan Jensen (ankle) were hurt during last week's win over the Eagles. Wirfs' status may linger until game time. Backup RT Josh Wells (quadriceps) is on the injury report, too, after being hurt against Philadelphia.

SERIES NOTES: The Rams lead the all-time series 18-9, including both meetings since Brady joined the Bucs last season. It's the third time the franchises have met in the playoffs, with the previous two matchups coming in low-scoring NFC championship games during the 1979 and 1999 seasons. The Rams won both — prevailing 9-0 on Jan. 6, 1980 in Tampa, and 11-6 with Kurt Warner throwing the winning TD pass to Ricky Proehl with less than five minutes remaining on Jan. 23, 2000 in St. Louis. The Rams took the last two regular-season meetings, 27-24 on the road in 2020, 34-24 at home this season.

STATS AND STUFF: Sean McVay needs one victory to become the winningest postseason coach in the Rams' modest playoff history. He is currently tied with John Robinson with four postseason wins. ... QB Matthew Stafford got the first playoff victory of his 13-year NFL career last week despite throwing a career-low 17 passes. He set the Rams' single-season records for yards passing (4,886) and completions (404) in the 17-game campaign. ... RBs Sony Michel and Cam Akers teamed up for 113 yards rushing last week. Akers returned from a torn Achilles tendon in Week 18, putting Los Angeles' rushing attack in top form. ... Akers is averaging 122.3 yards from scrimmage in his three career playoff games. ... WR Odell Beckham Jr. has six TD receptions in his last eight games. He made his first career playoff TD catch and got his first postseason win last week against Arizona. ... Aaron Donald and Leonard Floyd each sacked Brady in the Rams' win in September. Seven-time All-Pro Donald has three sacks in seven career playoff games. ... Three-time All-Pro CB Jalen Ramsey hasn't had a postseason interception in the five ensuing games since his playoff debut with Jacksonville in January 2018. ... If 40-year-old LT Whitworth can't play or is limited by his ankle and knee injury, fourth-year backup Joseph Noteboom is likely to make his first career playoff start. ... Brady's long list of career accomplishments includes postseason records for yards passing (12,720), TD passes (85), wins (35) and games played (46). He led the NFL with a career-best 5,316 yards passing this season. He also paced the league in completions (485), attempts (719) and TD passes (43). ... The Bucs have won a franchise-best five straight playoff games. They've scored at least 30 points in each of the victories. ... TE Rob Gronkowski scored his 15th postseason TD last week against the Eagles. Hall of Famer Jerry Rice (22) is the only other player with more career playoff TD receptions. ... While the Bucs became the first team to win a Super Bowl played in its home stadium last February, they had to win won three road playoff games to get there. Technically, last week's wild-card win over the Eagles was the club's first "home" playoff win since the 2002 season. ... The Bucs are 8-1 at Raymond James Stadium this season.

Bills head to KC for AFC title game rematch against Chiefs

BUFFALO (11-6) at KANSAS CITY (12-5)

Sunday, 6:30 p.m. EST, CBS

SERIES RECORD: Bills lead 27-23-1.

LAST MEETING: Bills beat Chiefs 38-20 on Oct. 10, 2021, in Kansas City.

LAST WEEK: Bills beat Patriots 47-17; Chiefs beat Steelers 42-21.

BILLS OFFENSE: OVERALL (5), RUSH (6), PASS (9), SCORING (3).

BILLS DEFENSE: OVERALL (1), RUSH (13), PASS (1), SCORING (1).

CHIEFS OFFENSE: OVERALL (3), RUSH (16), PASS (4), SCORING (4).

CHIEFS DEFENSE: OVERALL (27), RUSH (21), PASS (27), SCORING (8).

TURNOVER DIFFERENTIAL: Bills plus-8; Chiefs plus-4.

BILLS PLAYER TO WATCH: RB Devin Singletary was an afterthought the first 12 games of the season with just 495 yards and two touchdowns; that included 25 yards rushing in a 38-20 win in Kansas City. But in the past six games, Singletary has combined for 456 yards and seven TDs, including one score through the air.

CHIEFS PLAYER TO WATCH: TE Travis Kelce dealt with COVID-19 late in the season, but it hardly hampered him against the Steelers last week. He had five catches for 108 yards and a touchdown while also throwing a TD pass on a trick play.

KEY MATCHUP: Chiefs QB Patrick Mahomes will face the league's No. 1 pass defense and overall defense, one week after he was 30 of 39 for 404 yards and five TDs against the Steelers. He became the first player in NFL history with at least 400 yards passing, five TDs and fewer than 10 incompletions in a postseason game. Mahomes was 33 of 54 for 272 yards with two touchdowns and two interceptions in a loss to Buffalo in October.

KEY INJURIES: Bills DE Mario Addison was limited in practice with a shoulder injury. ... Chiefs RB Clyde Edwards-Helaire (shoulder) could play after missing last week's game against Pittsburgh. RB Darrel Williams (toe) and CB Rashad Fenton (back) missed time in practice this week.

SERIES NOTES: The Bills and Chiefs have split four previous playoff meetings with Kansas City winning last year's AFC title game 38-24. Buffalo beat the Chiefs 38-20 when the teams met in October. The franchises date back to the AFL, in which the Chiefs won the only playoff meeting.

STATS AND STUFF: The Chiefs have won five straight playoff games at Arrowhead Stadium. It is the longest current streak in the NFL. ... Kansas City is trying to reach the AFC title game for the fourth straight year, joining the Raiders (1973-77), Bills (1990-93) and Patriots (2016-18) as the only teams with at least that many in a row. ... The Bills are making their third consecutive playoff appearance and fourth in five years under Sean McDermott. ... Buffalo has won a playoff game in consecutive years for the first time since its four-year Super Bowl run (all losses) from 1990-93. ... Buffalo has lost eight straight playoff games away from home, including Super Bowl losses at the Rose Bowl and Georgia Dome. Buffalo's last win away from home came at Miami 29-10 in the AFC championship game on Jan. 17, 1993. ... Buffalo scored on each of its first seven drives against New England last week, becoming the NFL's first playoff team to finish a game with no punts, field goals or turnovers. ... QB Josh Allen's five TDs passing against New England set a Bills playoff record. By completing 21 of 25 attempts for 308 yards, Allen finished with a 157.6 passer rating, the second best in an NFL playoff game behind Peyton Manning's 158.3 in the Colts' 41-10 win over Denver in a wild-card game in 2004. ... Allen has 303 yards rushing in five playoff games to rank third behind Kenneth Davis (549) and Hall of Famer Thurman Thomas (1,442) in franchise history. ... The Bills are 9-0 this season when scoring a TD on their opening drive and 12-2 when topping 100 yards rushing. ... The Bills finished the season allowing an NFL-low 12 TDs passing. ... Chiefs coach Andy Reid could tie Don Shula for third-most postseason wins with his 19th. ... Mahomes was fourth in the NFL with 4,839 yards passing this season. He also had 37 TD passes. ... Mahomes needs 50 yards passing to surpass Russell Wilson (2,777) for most postseason yards in a player's first five seasons. ... Kelce has caught at least one pass in 126 consecutive games. He had 1,125 yards receiving this season for his sixth straight 1,000-yard season. ... Kelce had 118 yards and two TD receptions in last year's AFC title game against Buffalo. He needs six catches to pass Reggie Wayne (93) for fourth most in the postseason. He needs two TD catches to tie John Stallworth (12) for third in the postseason. ... WR Tyreek Hill set the Chiefs' record with 111 catches this season. He had 1,239 yards receiving. Hill had 172 yards receiving against the Bills in last year's AFC championship game. ... Chiefs DE Frank Clark needs one sack to tie Reggie White (12) for fourth most in the postseason since sacks became an official stat in 1982. ... Chiefs RB Jerick McKinnon had 142 yards from scrimmage against Pittsburgh. He became the fifth player in the past nine postseasons with at least 60 yards rushing and 60 yards receiving in a single game. ... The Chiefs held the Steelers to 44 yards of offense in the first half of last week's 42-21 win.

Number of early NFL draft entrants hits nine-year low at 73

By RALPH D. RUSSO

AP College Football Writer

The NFL announced Friday that 73 underclassmen have been granted special eligibility for the draft, the fewest in the last nine years.

All-American linebacker Nakobe Dean was one of four players from national champion Georgia on the list, along with receiver George Pickens, safety Lewis Cine and defensive lineman Travon Walker.

Mississippi's Matt Corral is one of only two quarterbacks on the list, and a contender to be one of the first quarterbacks selected in the draft scheduled for April 28-30 in Las Vegas.

Alabama, which lost to Georgia in the College Football Playoff title game, also had four underclassmen granted special eligibility for the draft, including All-America receiver Jameson Williams, who tore a ligament in his left knee in the championship game.

Fellow Crimson Tide receiver John Metchie, who injured his knee in the Southeastern Conference championship game, has also declared for the draft, along with Alabama tackle Evan Neal and linebacker Christian Harris.

Neal is expected to be one of the first offensive lineman drafted and a potential top-10 selection.

The number of players granted special eligibility was down from 98 in 2021 and 99 in 2020. A record 106 juniors entered the draft without completing degrees in 2018.

Before this year, the only time since 2014 the number of underclassmen entering the NFL draft with special eligibility fell below 95 was 2015 when the number was 74.

FORSAN BUFFALO HOOPS IS IN SESSION

It is District basketball time! Both the Lady Buffs and the boys' Buffs teams have been in district play for a couple of games now. The Lady Buffs hold a record of 7-12 and are 2-2 in the district. According to Max Preps, the boys Buff team is 15-7 and 1-1 in district play. Both teams play a solid brand of basketball, with good defense, and both squads can score at any time on the court. It will be a fun season to watch unfold, and we wish both teams the best of luck moving forward.

2022 traing dates set for school integrated pest management coordinators

First scheduled date Jan. 27 in Lubbock

Integrated pest management school coordinator trainings will be held across Texas in 2022. Janet Hurley, AgriLife Extension integrated pest management program specialist, Dallas, will be among the

By Susan Himes

Special to the Herald

The first one-day school IPM coordinator training is Jan. 27 at the Texas A&M AgriLife Research and Extension Center in Lubbock. This course is for new and veteran school IPM coordinators who need the six-hour class to qualify as their institution's responsible IPM coordinator.

The cost is $135 per person with advance registration. The fee includes training materials and lunch. Register in advance at <https://tx.ag/LubbockIPMJan>. Credit cards, checks and purchase orders are accepted.

The training is designed for IPM coordinators, grounds managers, pest management professionals and school administrators but is open to anyone. All class participants will receive a notebook with necessary forms and paperwork regarding school IPM program implementation.

"This training helps new and established IPM coordinators maintain their program but also ensure they are ready for a Texas Department of Agriculture inspection," said Janet Hurley, AgriLife Extension integrated pest management program specialist, Dallas. "As per law and rule, each school district has to have a trained IPM coordinator. At the same time, TDA is required to inspect schools to ensure they are complying with the rules. Our staff, including the other urban IPM specialists, are well-versed in what schools need to do to stay in compliance."

Hurley will be instructing the one-day trainings and she and Don Renchie, Ph.D., AgriLife Extension pesticide safety program coordinator, Bryan-College Station, will teach at the two-day trainings. Hurley said regional experts will also be invited to speak.

Continuing education units available

Continuing education units are offered for individuals who hold a TDA structural pest control license. The one-day course offers five total units for these license holders — two general laws and regulations, one general IPM, one general safety and one pest.

Participants with a TDA pesticide applicator license can receive three continuing education units — one in laws and regulations, one integrated pest management and one general for the one-day course. The type and quantity of CEUs for the two-day trainings are still pending.

One-day IPM coordinator training

In addition to the Lubbock event, another one-day training will be held March 10 for the East Texas area. Registration and additional information for this event can be found at the Region 8 School Education Center website or by calling 903-572-8551.

"This class is also open to anyone wanting to learn more about integrated pest management and the laws and rules pertaining to pesticide licensing, as well as those wanting a better understanding of pesticide classes and what you can use in and around school property, plus information on cockroaches," Hurley said.

Two-day IPM coordinator training

The two-day classes run from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. each day with an hour lunch break. The pre-paid cost is $210 for both days, $135 for a single day. The cost at the door is $240 or $155, respectively. The 2022 schedule, regions and locations for two-day workshops are as follows:

March 30-31, Dallas-Fort Worth area, Texas A&M AgriLife Research and Extension Center, 17360 Coit Road, Water Education Building, Dallas.

May 11-12, San Antonio area, San Antonio Independent School District Central Office, 514 W. Quincy St., San Antonio.

Sept. 14-15, Houston area, AgriLife Extension office in Fort Bend County, 4332 Highway 36 S., Rosenberg.

Oct. 12-13, Central Texas area, Round Rock ISD: Kelly Reeves Athletic Complex, 10211 W. Parmer Lane, Austin.

Day One of the two-day trainings is required new coordinator training. The all-day course meets the requirements that TDA requires for all new IPM coordinators.

For IPM coordinators who have been in their positions for more than three years, the course offers six hours of CEU credit to maintain IPM coordinator certification. For pest management professionals and ground personnel, this course offers a good foundation on IPM, the laws and rules associated with pesticide licensing, school IPM and pesticide safety.

"'Once is never enough' is the most common statement made by veteran IPM coordinators," Hurley said. "The first time they attend one of these classes, it's hard for them to process all the steps needed to have an organized sustainable program. I am told that it takes up to three times to fully understand their role as the IPM coordinator. It's not just about eliminating pests; it has a lot to do with people management."

Day Two offers advanced coordinator training for both experienced and new school IPM coordinators. This second day is ideal for those school IPM coordinators and pest management professionals wanting to understand specifics about insect pests and rule interpretation.

For 2022, participants will learn more about pesticide safety as it pertains to labels and safety data sheets, as well as what is required when training unlicensed personnel, Hurley said.

"IPM inspections are the backbone of every pest management program, and this class will have a hands-on section where participants will be taught how to inspect and where to inspect," she said. "Ants and mosquitoes are some of that hardest insect pests to prevent around school campuses, and our plan are to have the local entomologist in each area to cover these pests."

Think your home value is soaring? Talk to a farmer

By SCOTT McFETRIDGE
Associated Press

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Fourth-generation corn and soybean farmer Jeff Frank doesn't feel rich, but simply based on the skyrocketing value of his land in northwest Iowa, it's an apt way to describe him, even if he laughs at the idea.

He lives in the same nearly century-old house, grows veggies in the family garden and shops at the same grocery store about 15 miles (24 kilometers) down the road. "We live the same way we have all of our lives," he said.

Still, even if Frank's life hasn't changed, the several hundred acres he owns about 80 miles (129 kilometers) northwest of Des Moines have suddenly made him worth millions of dollars.

ATTENTION PROPERTY OWNERS

Property owners have certain rights that may reduce their property tax burden.

HOMEOWNERS

Persons who own their residence on January 1, 2022, may claim their home as a residential homestead. The filing of this document is only necessary if the homeowner has changed homesteads since January 1, 2021, the appraisal district has requested an updated application, or the owner has become eligible for additional exemptions since last year. A copy of a current driver's license must accompany the application. Homeowners may also defer the portion of the tax on their residence homestead if the value of the home was raised more than 5% above the previous year. Although the tax collection is deferred, interest continues to run on the unpaid portion of tax at a rate of 8% per annum and the deferred tax remains a lien on the property. To apply for the deferral, the owner should contact the appraisal district which appraised the property in question and complete an application.

DISABLED PERSONS

Persons who are disabled under Social Security law are entitled to additional exemptions on their residential homestead. Disabled applicants must apply with the appraisal district and furnish a determination letter from Social Security. Disabled persons receive all benefits on their home that are available to over sixty-five persons (see below)

PERSONS WHO ARE OVER 65 YEARS OF AGE-EXEMPTIONS AND DEFERRAL

Persons who are over 65 years of age or disabled persons may file for additional exemptions and a ceiling on school taxes for their residential homestead if they became sixty-five during 2021 or will be sixty-five during 2022. Over-sixty-five persons should apply for this exemption at the appraisal district office in their county. Over-sixty-five persons are also eligible to defer paying the tax on their residential homestead if they wish. The taxes continue to accrue during the deferral plus interest, but no attempt will be made to force payment during the deferral. Details and an application may be obtained from any appraisal district or the State Comptroller.

DISABLED VETERANS

Persons who have been declared disabled by the Veteran's Administration are eligible for additional exemptions on property they own. The declaration letter from VA is mailed annually, but the appraisal district only needs a copy in the first year of eligibility or if the percentage of disability changes. In certain situations where the disabled vet is 100% disabled and unemployable, their homestead can be completely exempt. An annual reapplication for the 100% exemption may be required by the Chief Appraiser.

FARM AND RANCH OWNERS

Farmers and ranchers may be entitled to receive an alternate method of appraisal determined by the farm income to the property. This method is available to farms and ranches commercially raising crops or livestock or which are used as a wildlife habitat under State guidelines. An application for agricultural use value and additional information is available from your appraisal district. Re-filing is only necessary if requested to do so by the Chief Appraiser.

EXEMPTION APPLICATIONS

Exemption applications for all property tax exemptions including total exemptions for charitable, religious, and other total exemptions may be obtained from an appraisal district nearest you or through the State Comptroller's Office at 1/800-252-9121 or from their website <https://comptroller.texas.gov/taxes/property-tax/forms/>

BUSINESS PERSONAL PROPERTY OWNERS

State law now requires the filing of a rendition declaring what types of business personal property that a person or company owns. Failure to file the rendition will result in a 10% penalty. If a fraudulent rendition is filed, a 50% penalty is mandated. A rendition can be obtained from the appraisal district office where the property is located or from the comptroller website or from their website <https://comptroller.texas.gov/taxes/property-tax/forms/> Deadline to file -April 15. A 30-day filing extension is available by written request.

AVAILABILITY OF ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS

Taxpayers may receive certain notices required by law from the local appraisal district in electronic format. Written agreements with the county appraisal district must be entered first, ensuring what electronic means of delivery are acceptable. If you are interested in receiving communications in electronic format, you should contact your local appraisal district to receive a form requesting electronic communications and how that communication should be transmitted.

PROTESTING PROPERTY VALUE

Taxpayers whose property value increases by at least $1000 will be mailed a reappraisal notice stating the proposed value. The taxpayer may file a protest of the value change by completing the protest form that will be included in the notice. An informal hearing will be available to taxpayers, and if not satisfied, the taxpayer may have a formal hearing before the Howard County Appraisal Review Board. Depending on the pandemic situation, the hearings may be via phone or electronic medium.

If you have questions about any of these topics, please contact the Howard County Appraisal District at 432-263-8301 or come by our office at 315 S. Main, Big Spring, Texas. Other information may also be available on the Comptroller's website at comptroller.texas.gov/taxes/property-tax/

Opening lead — eight of spades.
It is an essential principle of declarer play that when the outcome is in doubt, you proceed on the assumption that the cards are divided in a way that permits the contract to be made. To play otherwise would be self-defeating.
The same principle applies to defensive play. A defender should not credit declarer with a hand that makes the contract impregnable.
Consider this deal, where East applied the principle very effectively. He won the opening spade lead with the king and returned the king of hearts!

From then on, South was fighting a losing battle. He won with the ace and returned the king of clubs, but West, of course, ducked. This rendered the dummy useless to declarer, and he eventually finished down two.
Now let's assume that East had not led the king of hearts at trick two and had returned a low heart instead. In that case, South would win with the queen, establish dummy's clubs and, with the ace of hearts still in dummy, have no trouble scoring 10 tricks.
The spectacular king-of-hearts play has a sound foundation. East reasons that if declarer has the ace of clubs, the contract cannot be defeated. He therefore credits West with that card.
Once East makes this assumption, it follows that the only way to neutralize dummy's clubs is to dislodge dummy's side entry. There is no way East can be certain that his plan will succeed, but he knows that unless he attacks boldly, his cause is almost surely lost.
Note that South can't thwart East's plan by ducking the first heart. In that case, East simply continues hearts to achieve the same result.

Level: Advanced

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Appetizers, sandwiches and other game day offerings often prioritize taste over nutrition. However, by rethinking some game day staples, it's easy to put a twist on popular favorites to make them lower in calories and fat and more nutritious.
This year skip the calorie-laden potato skins for "Sausage-Stuffed Red Potatoes," which are just as delicious. Try this recipe, courtesy of "Taste of Home Healthy Cooking Cookbook" (RDA Enthusiast Brands, LLC) from Taste of Home Kitchens.

Sausage-Stuffed Red Potatoes
Makes 16 appetizers

- 8 small red potatoes
- 1 pound Italian turkey sausage links, casings removed
- 1/2 cup chopped sweet red pepper

- 4 green onions, chopped
- 9 teaspoons minced fresh parsley, divided
- 1/3 cup shredded reduced-fat cheddar cheese

- Scrub and pierce potatoes; place on a microwave-safe plate. Microwave, uncovered, on high for 8 to 9 minutes or until tender, turning once.
- Meanwhile, in a large skillet, cook sausage and pepper over medium heat until sausage is no longer pink. Add onions and 4 1/2 teaspoons parsley; cook 1 to 2 minutes longer. Remove from the heat; stir in cheese. Cut each potato in half lengthwise. Scoop out 1 tablespoon pulp (save for another use).
- Spoon about 2 tablespoons sausage mixture into each half. Place on a microwave-safe plate. Microwave on high for 1 to 2 minutes or until cheese is melted. Sprinkle with remaining parsley.

Sun Conjunct Mercury Retrograde

They may be as correct as you.

A hectic conjunction of the sun and a retrograde Mercury could bring on overwhelming feelings for those prone to such a default setting. It's not the only option. It can be avoided by saying no to things, or by saying yes and taking a sporting attitude about the challenge. Doing the hard things is what makes us great.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're getting to the deeper levels of a task. Repetition will only make you sharper. Even if you take the exact path you took yesterday, you'll still learn something new.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Memories rewrite themselves each time you visit them, which changes your experience of the past but doesn't change the actual past. Someone else sees it differently.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). You belong in creative dialogue with people you admire and respect. You'll be influenced by people who capture your imagination and lead your thoughts to expansive, colorful new places.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You feel ready to live bigger but oddly enough, it's best accomplished by simplifying and focusing on fewer things. Progress is a function of concentrating your efforts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). A little cleaning, clearing a bit of clutter, adding a personal touch to your environment -- these are the things that make you feel more centered and settled against the backdrop of an unpredictable world.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). With a different approach, things can and will change. With the same approach, you will get the same outcome. Knowing what to try next is the tricky part. Get advice from the experienced.

Annie's Mailbox

Infidelity From Both Sides

Dear Annie: I just finished reading the letter from "Caged Bird," and my heart broke for her. The reason is because I lived that same life, and her letter could have been my own.

What was done to her by her mother and to me by my mother were not the products of "motherly love" or "misguided motherly concern." These were the actions of a controlling, manipulative, abusive woman. Period. I escaped from her control. -- Lived It

Dear Lived It: I'm so glad that you escaped from your mother's abuse. Please make sure that you are in therapy and allowing yourself to escape from the pain that she imposed on you. I hope your letter lets "Caged Bird" know that she is not alone and many others have flown out of the cage of control, abuse and manipulation.

Now that you have flown out of your mother's abuse, it is time to grieve the relationship that you never had with her. Every child wants their mother to love and support them. When there is abuse involved, the child will constantly try to please the mom or think that they are somehow to blame -- that they did something wrong to have a mother who acted that way. As an adult, you can see that it was not you at all and that, sadly, your mother was not a well person. Give yourself time to grieve that relationship that never existed.

Grief is part of the human experience, and sharing our vulnerability helps us create truly close bonds with others.

Dear Annie: I want to point out one possible cause for why "Caged Bird's" mother could be acting so controlling with her daughter, who missed out on life growing up: Her mother did not act out of love but jealousy.

Her mother played favorites with her sons. Her mother was probably jealous that her daughter would grow up and become better than her. How sad, but now is the time for her to soar and leave her toxic upbringing behind. -- One More Possible Reason

Dear Reason: Your letter brings up a very good point. The fact that she treated her daughter so much differently than her son could absolutely be a sign of jealousy. Thank you for your insight.

Dear Annie: I just read your article about the husband having a relationship with someone in the office. The wife asked why women try to break up marriages like that. I'd like to offer some insight, as I've had experiences on both sides of the issue.

First, in dating a married man, I lost sight of the morals my parents had instilled in me. I was young and naive, and I believed what the man was saying to me about him wanting to leave his supposed loveless marriage. It took me years to figure out I set myself up for failure in coupling with someone who was already coupled. It was a way for me to be safe from true commitment, although I didn't realize I was doing that psychologically.

Years later, when I was married, my husband cheated on me with a bevy of women, some of them knowing he was married. When I heard all those women on the voicemail, my now ex-husband tried to say they were not calls for him. He was a cheater, period. I knew from my own experience that I had to be the No. 1 priority, because I deserved it. And that's what relationships should be. I'm remarried and happy now. My heart goes out to the wife, hoping she can stay strong and make decisions that prioritize her mental health and personal happiness. -- Finally Happy the Second Time Around

Dear Finally Happy: Thank you for sharing your experiences, and congratulations on finding a partner who brings you peace and happiness.

US and Russia try to lower temperature in Ukraine crisis

By MATTHEW LEE and JAMEY KEATEN

Associated Press

GENEVA — The United States and Russia sought to lower the temperature in a heated standoff over Ukraine, even as they reported no breakthroughs in high-level, high-stakes talks on Friday aimed at preventing a feared Russian invasion.

Armed with seemingly intractable and diametrically opposed demands, U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken and Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov met in Geneva for roughly 90 minutes at what the American said was a "critical moment."

But there was no apparent movement on either side, and Blinken said the U.S. and its allies remain resolute in rejecting Russia's most important demands.

Nonetheless, Blinken told Lavrov that the U.S. would present Russia with written responses to its proposals next week and suggested the two men would likely meet again shortly after that.

With an estimated 100,000 Russian troops massed near Ukraine, many fear Moscow is preparing an invasion although Russia denies that. The U.S. and its allies are scrambling to present a united front to prevent that or coordinate a tough response if they can't.

"We didn't expect any major breakthroughs to happen today, but I believe we are now on a clearer path to understanding each other's positions," Blinken told reporters after the meeting.

Blinken said Lavrov repeated Russia's insistence that it has no plans to invade Ukraine but stressed that the U.S. and its allies were not convinced of that.

"We're looking at what is visible to all, and it is deeds and actions and not words that make all the difference," he said, adding that Russia should remove its troops from the Ukrainian border if it wanted to prove its point.

Lavrov, meanwhile, called the talks "constructive and useful" and said the U.S. agreed to provide written responses to Russian demands on Ukraine and NATO next week. That could at least delay any imminent aggression for a few days.

But Lavrov declined to characterize the U.S. pledge.

"I can't say whether we are on the right track or not," he told reporters. "We will understand that when we receive the U.S. written response to all of our proposals."

Moscow has demanded that the NATO alliance promise that Ukraine — a former Soviet republic — never be allowed to join. It also wants the allies to remove troops and military equipment from parts of eastern Europe.

The U.S. and its NATO allies have flatly rejected those demands and say that Russian President Vladimir Putin knows they are nonstarters. They have said they're open to less dramatic moves.

Blinken said the U.S. would be open to a meeting between Putin and U.S. President Joe Biden, if it would be "useful and productive." The two leaders have met once in person, in Geneva, and have had several virtual conversations on Ukraine that have proven largely inconclusive.

Washington and its allies have repeatedly promised "severe" consequences such as biting economic sanctions — though not military action — against Russia if an invasion goes ahead.

Blinken repeated that warning Friday. He said the U.S. and its allies were committed to diplomacy, but also committed "if that proves impossible, and Russia decides to pursue aggression against Ukraine, to a united, swift and severe response."

But he said he also wanted to use the opportunity to share directly with Lavrov some "concrete ideas to address some of the concerns that you have raised, as well as the deep concerns that many of us have about Russia's actions."

Ukraine is already beset by conflict. Russia's Putin seized control of Ukraine's Crimea Peninsula in 2014 and backed a separatist insurgency in eastern Ukraine, part of a simmering but largely stalemated conflict with Ukrainian forces that has taken more than 14,000 lives. Putin faced limited international consequences for those moves, but the West says a new invasion would be different.

Ahead of his meeting with Lavrov, Blinken met Ukraine's president in Kyiv and top diplomats from Britain, France and Germany in Berlin this week.

Adding to its repeated verbal warnings to Russia, the United States stepped up sanctions on Thursday. The U.S. Treasury Department slapped new measures on four Ukrainian officials. Blinken said the four were at the center of a Kremlin effort begun in 2020 to damage Ukraine's ability to "independently function."

The Russian Foreign Ministry reaffirmed its demands Friday that NATO not expand into Ukraine, that no alliance weapons be deployed near Russian borders and that alliance forces pull back from Central and Eastern Europe.

The State Department, meanwhile, put out three statements — two on Russian "disinformation," including specifically on Ukraine, and another entitled "Taking Action to Expose and Disrupt Russia's Destabilization Campaign in Ukraine." The documents accused Russia and Putin of trying to reconstitute the former Soviet Union through intimidation and force.

The Russian Foreign Ministry mocked those statements, saying they must have been prepared by an Orwellian "Ministry of Truth," and Lavrov caustically dismissed them.

"I do hope that not everyone in the State Department was working on those materials and there were some who were working on the essence of our proposals and their substance," he said.

The Russian Foreign Ministry also rejected Western claims that Moscow was trying to rebuild the Soviet empire and carve out its zone of influence in eastern Europe, charging that it's the West that thinks in categories of zones of influence.

Blinken has taken pains to stress U.S. unity with its allies in opposition to a possible Russian invasion, something that took an apparent hit earlier this week when Biden drew widespread criticism for saying retaliation for Russian aggression in Ukraine would depend on the details and that a "minor incursion" could prompt discord among Western allies.

On Thursday, Biden sought to clarify his comments by cautioning that any Russian troop movements across Ukraine's border would constitute an invasion and that Moscow would "pay a heavy price" for such an action.

"I've been absolutely clear with President Putin," Biden said. "He has no misunderstanding: Any, any assembled Russian units move across the Ukrainian border, that is an invasion."

Russia on Thursday accused the West of plotting "provocations" in Ukraine, citing the delivery of weapons to the country by British military transport planes in recent days.

VALUE

It may come as a surprise to city dwellers excited by their home values that countless farmers like Frank are actually experiencing a real estate boom that makes residential prices pale in comparison. While median existing-home prices rose by 15.8% in the U.S. last year, farmland values went up about double that rate in places like Iowa.

"I'm definitely surprised by the magnitude," said Wendong Zhang, an economist at Iowa State University who oversees an annual farmland value survey.

The rising values, especially in the Midwest, are due to high prices being paid for the key commodity crops of corn and soybeans, plentiful harvests in recent years coupled with low interest rates and optimism the good times will continue.

But they're a mixed blessing. They're enriching farmers who already have a lot of land, but making it much harder for small operators or younger farmers starting out to get land unless they happen to inherit it.

Most purchases are by operations that see the value of larger scale, seizing the chance to buy nearby land.

"If you miss this opportunity, you may not get another chance," Zhang said, describing the current mood.

As for consumers, higher land costs typically don't affect grocery prices.

Historically, farmland values rise and fall, but in the past couple decades they have mostly risen, and in the past year they have risen a lot — 33% in Frank's part of the state and 29% throughout Iowa, one of the nation's top agricultural states. Agricultural prices also have soared elsewhere in the Midwest and have climbed in most other parts of the country, too.

Federal Reserve Banks in Chicago and Kansas City reported double-digit increases in Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Missouri and Nebraska.

In Iowa, average farmland has risen from $7,559 an acre in 2020 to $9,751 an acre in 2021.

Nationally, farmland was up an average of 7% but that doesn't include the last half of 2021, when prices really took off in many areas.

Farmland prices have even climbed in California despite concerns about persistent drought. In 2021, the average prices of $10,900 an acre was up 9% from 2020.

The land purchases augment an existing national trend of more agricultural production coming from ever-larger farms.

Dan Sumner, an agricultural economist at the University of California-Davis, credits some of the rising value in switching to higher-value crops, such as replacing alfalfa with nut trees.

Overall, though, Sumner said farmers are feeling good about their future.

"It reflects confidence in the economics of agriculture," he said.

The upswing follows tumultuous years of trade wars, market breakdowns due to the coronavirus pandemic and drought in much of the West.

For individual farmers, the biggest benefit of rising values is that they can borrow money at better rates for annual needs like seed and fertilizer and longer-term investments like tractors and even more land.

The high prices have prompted plenty of people to buy and sell land, leading to a record of $765 million in agricultural land sales last year overseen by Farmers National Company, one of the nation's largest landowner services companies.

Randy Dickhut, a Farmers National real estate broker in Omaha, Nebraska, said a more typical year would see about $500 million in sales.

"It's been very busy," Dickhut said. "It's certainly easy to sell."

But Holly Rippon-Butler, who runs a dairy with her parents in upstate New York, called the farmland prices increases "just nuts."

"The hard reality is, buying land is almost impossible unless you have some preexisting source of generational family wealth," said Rippon-Butler, who works with the National Young Farmers Coalition, an organization the among other priorities advocates for policy changes and public funding that would enable more people to have access to land.

Given high land prices, Rippon-Butler said beginning farmers she encounters typically work as little as a quarter-acre of land and see 20 acres as a relatively large operation. Many farmers also rent land, and as values rise, so do rental rates.

Frank, the farmer in northwest Iowa, said that even though he's technically wealthier now, it hard for him to expand his holdings as he prepares to pass along the property to the next generation.

"I have a son who farms with me and of course he'd like to expand but buying farmland right now is a big undertaking," he said. "Even for a small farm you're talking about millions of dollars."

EXPLAINER: Why fear of 5G halting flights has faded

By The Associated Press

The rollout of new 5G wireless service in the U.S. failed to have the much-dreaded result of crippling air travel, although it began in rocky fashion, with international airlines canceling some flights to the U.S. and spotty problems showing up on domestic flights.

Airline industry officials say the decision by AT&T and Verizon — under pressure from the White House — to delay activating 5G towers near many airports has defused the situation.

The delay is giving the Federal Aviation Administration more time to clear more planes to operate freely around 5G networks. On Thursday, the FAA said it had granted new approvals that will allow an estimated 78% of the U.S. airline fleet to make landings even under low-visibility conditions at airports where the new, faster wireless service has been turned on.

That still leaves about one-fifth of the fleet vulnerable to being prevented from landing at some airports during bad weather, but that chunk is certain to shrink. The CEOs of American and United say they don't expect any major disruptions to flights. Here is a rundown of what happened.

WHAT'S THE CONCERN ALL ABOUT?

Cellphone companies have been rolling out next-generation 5G service for a few years, and this latest slice of it, the so-called C-Band, helps make AT&T and Verizon more competitive with T-Mobile. It promises faster and more stable wireless networks. But 5G is still mostly promise and less actual applications. For now, it lets you download a movie much faster. But the telecommunications industry is touting it as critical for autonomous vehicles, modern manufacturing, smart cities, telehealth and other fields that would rely on a universe of internet-connected devices.

The concern comes from the fact that this latest bit of 5G operates on part of the radio spectrum that is close to the range used by aircraft instruments called radio altimeters, which measure how high aircraft are above the ground.

The issue was highlighted in a 2020 report by RTCA, an aviation research group, prompting pilots and airlines to sound alarms about possible radio interference that could jeopardize safety. The telecom industry, led by trade group CTIA, disputes the 2020 report and says 5G poses no risk to aviation.

WHY DID AIRLINES CANCEL SOME FLIGHTS TO THE U.S. THIS WEEK?

International airlines canceled some flights that were scheduled to operate just as the new networks went live. They feared not being able to land at their destinations under 5G-related restrictions imposed by the FAA.

HOW MANY FLIGHTS?

Airlines canceled more than 350 flights on Wednesday, according to FlightAware. That sounds like a lot, but it's just 2% of all scheduled flights — and it's likely most of them got scrubbed for other reasons. For context, there were nearly 10 times as many cancellations on Jan. 3, when airlines struggled with winter weather and large numbers of employees calling in sick with COVID-19.

IS THE PROBLEM SOLVED?

No, although the FAA says it is making progress by determining that more altimeters are adequately protected against interference from 5G C-Band signals. Planes with certain altimeters might never be approved, which means the operators would likely have to install new equipment to land at all airports.

IS THIS A PROBLEM ONLY IN THE U.S.?

For the most part, yes. The FAA says there are several reasons why the 5G C-Band rollout has been more of a challenge for airlines in the U.S. than in other countries: Cellular towers use a more powerful signal strength than those elsewhere; the 5G network operates on a frequency closer to the one many altimeters use, and cell tower antennae point up at a higher angle. CTIA disputes the FAA's claims.

Carrie Coon and Morgan Spector star in "The Gilded Age," premiering Monday on HBO.

Old money clashes with new amid the changing economic order of late-1800s New York in a period drama from "Downton Abbey" creator Julian Fellowes that is upcoming on HBO. In "The Gilded Age," premiering Monday, Jan. 24, it's 1882 and there is a growing conflict between the old ways and the new. One side is represented by New York socialites Agnes van Rhijn and Ada Brook (Christine Baranski, "The Good Fight," Cynthia Nixon, "And Just Like That ..."), old money sisters who take young niece Marian Brook (Louisa Jacobson, "Gone Hollywood") into their Fifth Ave. brownstone following the death of her father.

To their dismay, their new neighbors are George and Bertha Russell (Morgan Spector, "The Plot Against America," Carrie Coon, "The Nest"), whom they regard as new money riffraff despite that he has made a fortune in railroads and she is a social climber and a capable woman in her own right.

Caught between these worlds is Marian, who must decide whether her future lies with the established order or in going her own way.

The nine-episode first season was filmed in late 2020 and early 2021 around New York City as well as in Newport, R.I., and Troy, N.Y. The turn-of-the-century architecture at these locations was a source of fascination for Spector, who embraced the chance to play someone from that era, albeit with some trepidation.

"You know, I'm married to a British actor," Spector, the husband of Rebecca Hall ("Passing"), notes, "and when they start they do a lot of this type of drama, this sort of this era, the sort of high-style, high-language stuff. I'd done it in school but never really professionally so I was a little nervous about approaching it."

"But I think it's sort of a testament to Julian's abilities as a writer," he continues, "that you sort of slip into it quite easily, actually. But yeah, I really loved George. I love his combination of ruthlessness and deep love for his family and sweetness with his children. It gives you a lot to sort of oscillate between."

Coon, meanwhile, loved that Bertha was her own woman with her own mind and thinks that had she existed in a later time, could conceivably be a senator or an entrepreneur.

"What I related to particularly with Bertha was an egalitarian marriage where her husband was not intimidated by her ambitions," she says. "That's certainly something I share with my husband (actor/playwright Tracy Letts, "Divorce") and so he's my biggest champion. And I loved that Bertha and George have this passionate, equal, sexual relationship at the center of this story."

"I found that very relatable and very compelling – and very fresh and contemporary-feeling," she continues. "You know, not some stodgy period piece. These are people with the flesh-and-blood compulsions and I really appreciated that about them."

Everyone is a suspect at 'The Afterparty' in Apple TV+ whodunit comedy

"The Afterparty" premieres Friday on Apple TV+.

A murder at a high school reunion sets the stage for multiple suspects, perspectives and genres in a "Rashomon"-like whodunit comedy set to begin streaming on Apple TV+.

In "The Afterparty," premiering Friday, Jan. 28, the murder of class nerd-turned-music star Xavier (Dave Franco) at a party following their 15-year reunion makes suspects of a group of friends, each with a possible motive.

Among them are Zoe (Zoe Chao, "Love Life"), the former fun girl stuck in a dull administrator position at the same school; Brett (Ike Barinholtz, "The Mindy Project"), class bully and Zoe's estranged husband; Aniq (Sam Richardson, "Veep"), a nice guy who carries a torch for Zoe; Yasper (Ben Schwartz, "Space Force"), Aniq's best friend; and popular girl Chelsea (Ilana Glazer, "Broad City").

Interviewing them is Detective Danner (Tiffany Haddish, "Girls Trip"), who takes statements from the suspects. So each episode is an account of the evening from the perspective of a given character. And the episodes have different genres, ranging from musical and Hitchcockian thriller to cop drama and comedy.

It was quite the exercise in storytelling for series creators Chris Miller and Phil Lord ("Spider-Man: Into the Spider-Verse," "The LEGO Movie"). But it was no walk in the park for the actors, either, as they had to juggle genres and keep track of where their character was at any point in each account.

Chao said with all the shifting around, "my brain would hurt by the time (we finished) every day but it felt like we were using everything we've got, which was fulfilling."

"It really makes you have to revisit the tenets of acting," she adds, "like the moment before, the moment after. Like where are you in the story at any given moment? And you just had to hone in on the art. I mean, you do that with any project but we're revisiting the same story from multiple angles and hitting similar beats but in different ways and in different genres. So it made you have to be really present and specific and intentional, which is great."

The series was shot during the pandemic, so after the actors filmed scenes repetitively, they then went back to their quarters and into isolation. So the shooting days took on a surreal quality as one blended into the next.

The CW's 'March' shines a spotlight on HBCU marching band culture

Fans of the Netflix marching band series "Marching Orders" will want to check out a new entry in that same vein that's upcoming on The CW.

In "March," an hourlong documentary series premiering Monday, Jan. 24, HBCU (Historically Black Colleges and Universities) marching band culture is seen through the experiences of the Prairie View A&M University (of Houston) marching band, whose members give blood, sweat and tears as they balance their musical passions with academic and other demands.

So in the eight episodes, viewers will become acquainted with the stories of some of this energetic and dedicated group, including Tre, a junior bass drummer and new father; Kaylan, the senior captain of the Black Foxes dance team and a force in her own right; Nehemiah, a senior mellophone player and aspiring leader who struggles with his diplomatic skills; and Martayvia, the senior leader of the piccolo section trying to earn her way back into the band after a falling out with some members.

Leading them is Dr. Timmey Zachery, the formidable director of bands who tries to mold his charges into a cohesive unit while providing life lessons and a paternal ear to chew on.

"A lot of these kids, not only (does) the band provide them the scholarship that's getting them to that end game of a degree," explains Shari Scorca, an executive producer of the series with Jamail Shelton, Cheryl Horner McDonough and

"March" premieres Monday on The CW.

Marcel Fuentes, "at the end of the day I think that Dr. Zachery and his staff were trying to make better citizens, better people, you know, after the program. And I think that the hardest thing for a lot of them is balancing their studies with the band hours, and some of them have jobs and family responsibilities."

Indeed, the pressures can be immense for these students. The series follows their quest to become the highest-ranked HBCU band in the country as well as their performances at homecoming and games against rivals Texas A&M and Southern. Through it all, the students persevere and remain focused on their ultimate goal – a college degree and post-college career.

"I really want to put a focus on how hard these kids work and how great this generation of students is," Scorca says. "I'm excited for the future after seeing these young people and how they're all going to graduate with great degrees and go on to do great things because they have that special discipline that the band gives you."

BY JAY BOBBIN

The team that helped make John Madden's TV career

Q: I was saddened by the news of the death of John Madden. How long did he and Pat Summerall work together broadcasting football? – Mark Troy, via email

John Madden

A: One of the most iconic teams in sports announcing first was brought together in 1981 by CBS, where they would call five Super Bowls together. In 1994, they moved to Fox, which made a winning bid for television rights to NFL games – and they called three more Super Bowls there. Though Summerall intended to retire from broadcasting in 2002, Fox brought him back and paired him with others, since Madden (who won Super Bowl XI himself in 1977, as the then-coach of the Oakland Raiders) had moved to ABC after his contract with Fox had ended.

Q: Will Piper Perabo be back in some form in Season 2 of "The Big Leap"? – Denise Gates, Stuart, Fla.

Piper Perabo

A: Though Fox hasn't canceled the show as of this writing, a second season isn't guaranteed, despite all the hints the show-within-the-show dropped about what it could do "next season." Without spoiling anything for those who haven't seen Season 1, it's possible that Perabo could be present in the way she was toward the end of the first round ... though the creative forces also might elect to leave that alone.

Nicole Byer

OF 'GRAND CREW' ON NBC

You often do your own material as a performer. How different is it to speak someone else's words as a sitcom star on "Grand Crew"?

Honestly, it's not that different because I know (series creator and executive producer) Phil (Augusta Jackson) so well. Phil and I did improv together in New York for a very long time. Ten years ago, we did improv out here (in Los Angeles), and then (my character's) name was Nicky. She was based on me a little bit, so it is my voice.

I feel like our writers' room (on "Grand Crew") and Phil are just so talented that everything that was written was just easy. It was easy to find. It was easy to say. It was easy to perform. So, honestly, it wasn't much different than what I'm used to. It was fun and funny.

You were well-acquainted with many of the other talents on "Grand Crew" before starting the show. What has that meant to you?

I really love working with friends, and I also love working with people who are open to collaborate and are just easy to work with... funny, talented people who are a joy to be around but also professional. It's like we can joke, but also, we came to do a job. I love that so much, and that's what I've learned. I really like my friends.

There have been so many other sitcoms about groups of friends, what do you think makes "Grand Crew" special?

You see the magic happening on this show. I don't want to toot our own horn, but we have very magical chemistry that happened almost instantaneously, and I think that really comes through on the screen. I think these people are interesting, they are funny, and they seem to just really have joy and love each other.

'Fast Foodies' returns for Season 2 with more repartee and reimagined dishes

Justin Sutherland

Anyone who has found their curiosity piqued by the reimagined dishes on truTV's "Fast Foodies" can actually try a few – if they happen to be in the St. Paul, Minn., area, that is.

That's the home of the Handsome Hog, the Southern cuisine eatery owned by Justin Sutherland, one of the chefs on the show. On the Thursday nights the series airs, he has watch parties featuring the dish he's creating onscreen as that night's special. It's a clever bit of entrepreneurship that he reports has paid off.

"Last season every Thursday was standing room only ...," he notes. "This season, we definitely are going to do a lot more now that we know the demand for it and are a little bit more prepared. We've got some dishes planned out. I don't know the episodic breakdown yet fully, so once I figure out the order of episodes, we're definitely going to plan some dishes to coincide with our watch parties."

As the second season kicks off Thursday, Jan. 27, Sutherland and fellow chefs Kristen Kish and Jeremy Ford again put their imaginations and culinary chops to the test creating reimagined fast food dishes for celebrity guests to sample and choose which is best. This season, they include comic Nikki Glazer ("Blind Date"), actor Jesse Tyler Ferguson ("Modern Family"), comic/actress Natasha Leggero ("Another Period"), "Saturday Night Live" player Bobby Moynihan and NBA commentator Baron Davis.

In Thursday's season opener, Glazer is the show's guest diner, someone who Sutherland says he has always admired. And the chemistry is evident as the repartee between Glazer and the three chefs is easy and entertaining.

Keeping up with stand-up comics, people who make their living being fast on their feet and funny off the cuff, can be challenging for some. But Sutherland says that kind of interplay has proven stimulating for him and his castmates.

"It's great. It keeps the energy up," he says. "It gives us something more to do than just cook. And I think honestly, it's a lot of back-and-forth. I think there's moments where we're keeping them on their toes and from the majority of the guests that we've had, I think it's been a really good back-and-forth of all of us making each other laugh and keeping each other on our toes. ..."

"But at the end of the day, it's our show," he continues, "and we've got to balance being the host of our show and kind of maintaining control (with) also playing off of their jokes. And yeah, I think we've all gotten better at improv and keeping the things moving."

"Reacher: Season 1" (Amazon — series premiere, Feb. 4)

Based on the novels by Lee Child, this original eight episode action series follows Jack Reacher (Alan Ritchson, "Above the Shadows"), a former military police investigator and drifter who arrives in a small Georgia town and finds himself arrested for murder. As he works to prove his innocence, a deep-seated conspiracy begins to emerge. Malcolm Goodwin, Willa Fitzgerald and Chris Webster also star.

"The Endgame" (NBC — series premiere, Feb. 21)
 Emmy-winning "NYPD Blue" writer-producer Nicholas Wootton is among the executive producers on this new high-stakes thriller starring Morena Baccarin ("Gotham") as Elena Federova, a recently captured international arms dealer and criminal mastermind so cunning that she's able to orchestrate complicated bank heists even while in custody. Her opposite number is Val Turner (Ryan Michelle Bathe, "All Rise"), a relentless but socially awkward FBI agent who is determined to keep Elena on a short leash. Kamal Angelo Bolden, Costa Ronin, Noah Bean and Mark D. Espinoza also star.

The family that makes wine together stays together.

At least, that's the rationale behind "Promised Land," an ABC drama series that premieres Monday, Jan. 24. Stage veteran John Ortiz – seen previously in such shows as "Luck" and "Togetherness" – plays the patriarch of a vineyard-operating clan in California's Sonoma Valley that's challenged for wealth and power by a rival dynasty, the leader of which is portrayed by "Scandal" alum Bellamy Young. Christina Ochoa ("Animal Kingdom") and Cecilia Suarez also are members of the show's largely Latinx regular cast.

"It definitely brings to mind some of those great family-driven dramas with lots at stake," Ortiz says, "like 'Dynasty' or 'Succession,' or even one of my favorite movies of all time, 'The Godfather.' It's the push and pull and ins and outs of family/business life."

The artistic director and co-founder of the LAByrnth Theater Company, Ortiz describes his "Promised Land" alter ego, Joe Sandoval, as "a passionate, hard-working man who has given his life to nothing but the earth and the vineyard and his family. He has poured his heart and soul and sweat into the land, and he is incredibly driven by the opportunity that this country has provided for him. And he intends to be successful at it, at all costs."

The costs are raised considerably by Young's character, "who also happens to be Joe's ex-wife and the mother of three of his children," as Ortiz explains. "He has a foundation that I think is pure, and if anything, the 'cracks' in him stem from his belief in right and wrong. And what some people might characterize as 'stubborn' can become a fault."

best of ... BEST PAUL NEWMAN MOVIES
 BY JAY BOBBIN

"Somebody Up There Likes Me" (1956) Newman made a big leap into stardom in the story of boxer Rocky Graziano. The film is included in a Newman birthday salute Wednesday, Jan. 26, on Turner Classic Movies.

"The Long, Hot Summer" (1958) An ideally cast Newman plays Ben Quick, a reputed troublemaker who gets a mixed reception in his new locale, in this William Faulkner tale.

"Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" (1958) Newman makes a first-rate Brick to Elizabeth Taylor's Maggie in the Tennessee Williams play.

"Exodus" (1960) Newman impresses as a freedom fighter helping to establish the State of Israel in director Otto Preminger's drama.

"The Hustler" (1961) One of Newman's most memorable roles is "Fast" Eddie Felson, a pool-playing upstart who wants to take on the legendary Minnesota Fats (Jackie Gleason).

"Sweet Bird of Youth" (1962) A drifter (Newman) gets involved with a former film star (Geraldine Page) in another Tennessee Williams adaptation.

"The Prize" (1963) Newman displays great humor within a thriller premise in the Irving Wallace story about an unlikely Nobel Peace Prize winner caught up in intrigue while in Sweden for the ceremony.

"Hud" (1963) Called "the man with the barbed-wire soul" in ads, Newman's character in this excellent drama is a rancher's (Melvyn Douglas) rebellious, amoral son.

"Harper" (1966) Newman's smooth, sly screen image largely was crystallized by this private-eye tale that boasts a great all-star supporting cast.

"Cool Hand Luke" (1967) An outstanding Newman plays an independent-minded convict who shows "a failure to communicate."

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" (1969) Newman and Robert Redford had their first teaming as the title outlaws who, at least here, stage robberies with a humorous spirit.

"The Sting" (1973) The reunited Newman and Robert Redford are great in this best picture Oscar winner as Depression-era con men out to even a score with a tough gangster (Robert Shaw).

movie review

BY JAY BOBBIN

'Taxi Driver' remains a powerful ride

Certain movie-character names stand as immediate identifiers of what the person and film are all about, and Travis Bickle is one of them.

Any remotely familiar with motion pictures will recognize that as Robert De Niro's role director Martin Scorsese's searing 1976 drama "Taxi Driver," which currently is streaming on Netflix. The Paul Schrader-written story of a disenfranchised loner who finds acceptance through unusual means has retained its power, painting a haunting portrait of the New York era while telling the tale of one man's very specific journey.

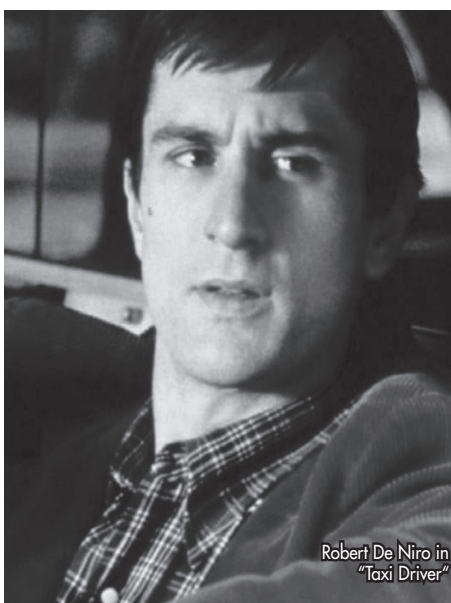

Bickle finds work as the late-shift cabbie of the title, and he has definite thoughts about the social decay he sees around him, underscored visually (and brilliantly, by cinematographer Michael Chapman) by the steam that rises from the street grates, create a sort of curtain over the city. His hopes for something better are personified by an attractive political-campaign worker (Cybill Shepherd) who is somewhat bemused, and ultimately turned off, by his efforts to court her.

Soon, though, Bickle finds another purpose in Iris (Jodie Foster), a young prostitute he envisions rescuing from that occupation. Turning himself into her avenging angel of sorts, he changes his physical appearance, fashioning his hair into a mohawk ... and moving toward turning his increasingly violent fantasies into reality. Bickle's resistance to being questioned is crystallized by his iconic line, "You talkin' to me?"

In a decade of upheaval that was filled with movies that questioned authority, "Taxi Driver" was one of the most disturbing examples, particularly coming from a major studio (Columbia Pictures). It undoubtedly went a long way toward establishing Scorsese's career and it surely centered De Niro as a versatile performer, coming as it did on the heels of his Oscar win as the young Don Corleone in "The Godfather, Part II."

Another strong suit of "Taxi Driver" is its unforgettable score by Bernard Herrmann, the frequent Alfred Hitchcock associate who died soon after competing this assignment. The music strongly evokes the atmosphere and the plot, and it's a stunning piece of work on its own. Additional cast members who make their marks include Peter Boyle, Albert Brooks, Harvey Keitel and then-entertainment critic Leonard Harris.

Though there has been talk of a sequel from time to time, there still is no other movie like "Taxi Driver" the better part of 50 years later. And many will contend, rightfully, that it deserves to continue standing on its own.

ALAN TUDYK

Alan Wray Tudyk was born in El Paso, Texas, on March 16, 1971. Though he started performing as a stand-up comic, an audience member threatened to kill him ... and he then began studying drama in college, appearing in summer stock during that time. Though he enrolled in the esteemed Juilliard School, he left that institution before graduating from it.

After making his Broadway debut in "Epic Proportions," Tudyk began a long string of movie credits including "28 Days," "A Knight's Tale," "Dodgeball: A True Underdog Story," "I, Robot," "Transformers: Dark of the Moon," "3:10 to Yuma," "Death at a Funeral," "Knocked Up," "Rogue One: A Star Wars Story" and "Tucker & Dale vs. Evil." He also was a star of "Serenity," spun off from the science-fiction series "Firefly," of which Tudyk also was a star.

Tudyk has done voiceover work in such films as "Alvin and the Chipmunks: Chipwrecked," "Wreck-It Ralph," "Frozen," "Big

'POV' documentary features a health-care advocate 'Not Going Quietly'

BY JAY BOBBIN

If Ady Barkan doesn't seem to have the circumstances to be a hero, an award-winning documentary reaffirms that determination and courage can be found anywhere, even in his situation.

Diagnosed with ALS in 2016, attorney and activist Barkan has been crusading ever since – along with others who share his concern – to put a spotlight on inequities that exist in the American health-care system. That effort is highlighted in the film "Not Going Quietly," which was honored with an Audience Award at the 2021 South by Southwest event, and is getting its broadcast television premiere on the PBS series "POV" Monday, Jan. 24 (check local listings).

Barkan's campaign gained wider attention after his encounter with a senator on a cross-country flight in 2017, when Barkan pointed out that then-pending tax cuts would impact programs necessary to his health. The politician then voted for the cuts, inspiring Barkan to co-found the Be a Hero initiative. "Part of what this movie shows," says Barkan's wife, Rachael King (who appears in the film), is that if you have a tracheostomy, like Ady to draw attention to, is that having home care, being in his home allows him to have the quality of life by being around his family."

"Not Going Quietly" director Nicholas Bruckman adds, "Ady says in the film, 'We can't convince the politicians, but we can highlight the stakes for the American people.' You see that throughout the film, there is a direct line drawn between whether that organizing and activism

Donovan Mitchell has the Jazz on his chest but the Mets in his heart

Donovan Mitchell's formidable game may belong to the Utah Jazz but his rooting interests lie in another sport entirely. And it's mainly thanks to his father.

Indeed, the 25-year-old All-Star shooting guard spent much of his childhood in Major League locker rooms, the result of his father Donovan Sr. being in the employ of the New York Mets' front office. So naturally he grew up rooting for the Amazin's with a poster of David Wright on his bedroom wall in the Mitchells' suburban New York home.

In fact, the younger Mitchell himself might have had a baseball career had fate not intervened. In his sophomore year at the Canterbury School in Connecticut, he suffered a broken wrist in an infield collision that ended his season. He turned his focus to basketball and transferred to Brewster Academy in New Hampshire, where his play attracted the attention of college recruiters.

After two years at the University of Louisville, where he was First Team All-ACC his sophomore season, Mitchell declared for the 2017 NBA Draft and was selected 13th overall by the Denver Nuggets, then sent to the Jazz in a draft night trade.

Now in his fifth season with the Jazz, Mitchell has established himself as an elite scorer with the ability to take it to the rim or shoot it from beyond the arc and dominate games. With the Jazz owning one of the top seeds in the West, his talents certainly will be instrumental in a postseason run.

Mitchell and the Jazz can be seen in action Wednesday, Jan. 26, when they host the Phoenix Suns in a game airing on ESPN.

The STREAM Scene

Where all the top choices can be found in one place!

"The Accidental Wolf"
 "Succession" actor Arian Moayed is the creative force behind this thriller series about Katie (Kelli O'Hara, "13 Reasons Why"), a Manhattan housewife and mother who takes action when she receives a mysterious call from a panicked man who evidently is fighting for survival and pleading for the life of his pregnant, wounded wife. Raul Castillo, Mike Doyle, Judith Ivey and Denis O'Hare also star. (ORIGINAL)

"The Golden Palace"
 In honor of Betty White, who recently passed away just shy of her 100th birthday, Hulu offers the only season of this 1992-93 CBS comedy that catches up with former Golden Girls Rose, Blanche and Sophia (White, Rue McClanahan, Estelle Getty), now transplanted in South Beach following the remarriage of ex-housemate Dorothy (former cast member Bea Arthur), where they run an art deco hotel called the Golden Palace.

"After Life"
 The third season of this dramedy series continues the adventures of Tony (series creator and writer Ricky Gervais), a small-town newspaper columnist who discovers that the best way to move on from the death of his wife is to make others feel good. Penelope Wilton ("Downton Abbey"), Ashley Jensen ("Extras"), Tom Basden ("Plebs") and Tony Way ("Edge of Tomorrow") also star. (ORIGINAL)

"Random Rings: Seasons 1 & 2" (Jan. 26)
 This series of animated comedy shorts that originally aired on Disney Channel features Disney characters, primarily the cast of "Big City Greens," making random calls to strangers a la "Crank Yankers," except here the calls are all scripted to convey the feeling of catching someone off guard.

InFocus

"Dollface: Season 2" (Hulu — season premiere, Feb. 11)
 The sophomore round of the original comedy series catches up with Jules (Kat Dennings) and pals Madison, Stella and Izzy (Brenda Song, Shay Mitchell, Esther Povitsky) post-pandemic, post-heartbreak and heading toward 30 as Jules tries to keep the gang together while they navigate work, love and a deeper relationship with each of themselves.
