The State Board of Education (SBOE) today announced recipients of the 2022 Heroes for Children Award

Special to the Herald

AUSTIN – October 19, 2022 – The State Board of Education (SBOE) today announced the 15 recipients of the 2022 Heroes for Children Award.

Established in 1994, the Heroes for Children Award is designed to recognize excellence in advocacy for education and to highlight the many outstanding volunteers whose efforts represent significant contributions to public school systems in Texas.

Since its inception, the award has provided a means to recognize Texas residents who render selfless acts of service by offering their time, effort, and support to public schools and students. The award honors volunteers who have made outstanding contributions to student learning or who have demonstrated sustained periods of involvement and support of public education. Each year, the 15-member Board recognizes one Hero from each of their districts.

2022's honorees have given a combined 233 years of service to Texas public school systems and their communities. The Board has recognized 510 Texans since the award's inception.

"The selfless acts of service performed by these award winners have significantly contributed to the betterment of Texas public schools," said SBOE chair Dr. Keven Ellis. "The State Board of Education is honored to recognize these individuals with this award. I know they will continue to inspire not only our students but also to inspire others to volunteer and support our public schools."

Deborah McReynolds (Ector County Independent School District – SBOE District 1) Deborah McReynolds has volunteered for eight years with the Hays Science Technology Engineering, Art, and Math (STEAM) Academy in Ector County Independent School District (ISD). As a volunteer, she restored a storeroom into a fully functioning science laboratory. Deborah has also set up a rock exploration laboratory where students get hands-on experience learning about different types of rocks. She is currently responsible for operating the science laboratory where students and teachers take turns enjoying her fun and engaging lessons through the program, Sharkfinder. Her wealth of knowledge in setting up science laboratories and her passion for sharing her love of science has positively impacted ECISD students.

Esmeralda Guerrero (Mission Consolidated Independent School District – SBOE District 2) Esmeralda Guerrero has been a volunteer with Mission CISD for seven years. She currently serves as the president of the District Advisory Committee, where she leads all parent meetings. She also serves as a member of the Bilingual Parent Committee, where she assists in providing information about the school and district policies to parents. Her other volunteer activities include making copies, laminating posters, helping students and teachers in the classroom, decorating the school for special occasions, and working a booth during health fairs.sdfsfdsdf

Migrant survivors of West Texas shooting detained by ICE

By ACACIA CORONADO

Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — One migrant is dead, another is wounded and at least seven others are languishing in detention three weeks after twin brothers allegedly opened fire on them in the Texas desert, claiming they mistook them for wild hogs during a hunting trip.

Yet, the accused shooters, 60-year-old brothers Michael and Mark Sheppard, who both worked in local law enforcement, were initially released on half a million dollars bail after being jailed briefly on manslaughter charges.

The case has caused outrage among advocates for the victims and survivors, who say their detention violates a U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement directive that calls for giving strong consideration to the fact that they were crime victims who cooperated with authorities in determining whether they should be released.

"This is a hate crime that occurred immediately after they were crossing into the United States," said Zoe Bowman, the supervising attorney at Las Americas Immigrant Advocacy Center, who is representing the seven detained survivors.

Michael Sheppard, who was a warden at the troubled West Texas Detention Facility where he was accused of abuse, and his brother, Mark, who worked for the Hudspeth County sheriff's office, were recently again taken into custody and charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the Sept. 27 shooting.

The sheriff's office did not say where they were being held or why they were initially released on bond.

The case is being investigated by the Texas Rangers, an arm of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Migrants crossing the U.S.-Mexico border are often victims of crimes, including human trafficking, but most happen south of the border.sdf

Arctic Monkeys sit down with SPIN Magazine for a cover story

NEW YORK -- This month, the Arctic Monkeys sit down with SPIN Magazine for a cover story that ranges through the group's origins as a band of neighborhood teenagers in Sheffield, England to becoming a leading force in a new wave of British rock and pop music.

While singer Alex Turner, drummer Matt Helders, guitarist Jamie Cook and bassist Nick O'Malley might be a solid fixture in the indie music scene today, their musical journey has been one of evolution and constant learning — something the band covers in their talk with SPIN writer Steve Appleford.

One notable moment: the career-altering experience of driving to the edge of the Joshua Tree desert to record 2009's Humbug at the Rancho de la Luna recording studio with Queens of the Stone Age leader Joshua Homme co-producing the project.

The band credits Homme with opening their eyes to the freedom available to them as artists.

"Had we not had that experience at that time, I'd question whether we would still be going now," said Turner.

All roads (and the interview) lead to The Car, the Arctic Monkeys' new album, a record that deftly weaves together rock, funk, and even Sinatra-inspired arrangements.

It's an album that Appleford writes is "another step forward, unimaginable in their early days as a stripped down rock act."

"We wouldn't have been able to do this 10 years ago, or 15 years ago," confirms Helders.

"Everyone sort of learned their instruments at the same time, at the same pace and got better. We've got to a place where we can make music like this."

"I think everything happened at the right time."

Read the full interview in SPIN magazine.

Jason Mims (San Antonio Independent School District – SBOE District 3) Jason Mims has been an advocate for public education for the past 20 years. He helps students in San Antonio ISD, and surrounding areas find internship opportunities, takes them on college tours, mentors them until they graduate, and assists them with their college application process. It is not unusual to see a photo of Jason and his mentees witnessing and celebrating his most notable and recognizable endeavor, “Kindness Matters.”

He shares his Kindness gifts with students and their families in urban areas to increase their awareness of exceptional college opportunities available to students excelling in urban public schools. As a recognized champion of public education for the past 20 years, giving back to his community is his passion. Jason’s volunteerism is thoughtful and meaningful and encourages future leaders to dream big, explore, and make a big difference in the lives of others.

Rosalinda Ortiz (Galena Park Independent School District – SBOE District 4) Rosalinda Ortiz has volunteered at Pyburn Elementary School in Galena Park ISD for the past eight years. She has been awarded volunteer of the month every year for her passion for supporting her school community and its activities. She has been president of the Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) for many years. Rosalinda is always eager to participate in school events, and her dedication is a blessing to both students and staff. She is selfless, kind, and always thinks of others. The staff at Pyburn can always count on her to lead parent meetings for fundraisers, help with decorations for school events, or assist teachers on the campus.

Melinda Cox (North East Independent School District – SBOE District 5) Melinda Cox has been a volunteer and advocate for North East ISD for more than 13 years. At the district level, she has served on the North East Council of PTAs board as the Advocacy Chair and Healthy Lifestyles Chair. She has served on the School Health Advisory Council’s nutrition and safety committees.

Melinda is best known within the community for starting the Johnson High School Parent-Teacher-Student Association’s Smart Driving Club in 2012. The club members work with their peers, community members, local leaders, school administration, and state leaders to promote the message “Eyes on the Road, Not on Your Phone.” Through the Smart Driving Club, Melinda has educated thousands of students and their families about being smart and safe drivers. She has been instrumental in contributing to the development and implementation of local ordinances that ban cell phone use while driving and a state law prohibiting texting while driving. There is no doubt that lives have been saved through her education and advocacy efforts.

Lauren Dougherty (Klein Independent School District – SBOE District 6) Lauren Dougherty has been a passionate volunteer at Klein ISD for the past five years. As vice president of the Parent-Teacher Organization (PTO) at Brill Elementary, she organizes a monthly dual language family night event that encourages parents to come together as a community to share cultural food and recipes, along with playing games and craft activities. This monthly event has empowered parents to get involved with their children’s education, and the event has been replicated across other elementary campuses in the district.

Lauren has also become a fierce advocate for public education, focusing on school funding at the state and local levels. The Klein ISD community is privileged to have a remarkable, brilliant, and natural leader who leads others by her example of selfless giving.

Barbara Franklin (Brazosport Independent School District – SBOE District 7) Barbara Franklin put into motion a child-focused safety program that has been woven into the fabric of the Brazosport ISD community and has left a legacy that continues today after 34 years. The program is known as Brazosport Safetytown, a miniature town situated on a 100-foot campus gym floor. The town comes complete with streets, sidewalks, stoplights, buildings, other traffic devices, and tiny plastic riding trikes that allow children to practice basic safety lessons to learn how to prevent accidents.

Each year, Safetytown brings incoming first graders to the Brazosport Safetytown campus for nine days of comprehensive safety education classes.

The course covers diverse topics, including fire safety, pedestrian and car safety, stranger danger, home emergencies, poison control, dangers of unfriendly dogs, beach safety, gun safety, and gang hazards.

The success and sustainability of the program are attributed to Barbara’s leadership and unwavering support.

A clear cut case like this one, in which migrants are the victims of a widely publicized crime on U.S. soil in which charges have been brought against identified suspects, can provide a rare paper trail to protection under a visa for migrants who are crime victims in the U.S., Bowman said.

But despite the August 2021 ICE directive that strongly encourages the release of crime victims while the lengthy visa process is underway, these migrants remain in detention, Bowman said.

Six of the surviving migrants are being held at the El Paso Processing Center — an ICE detention facility — while a seventh is in the custody of the U.S. Marshals Service and is expected to be transferred to the West Texas Detention Facility, the embattled lockup where Michael Sheppard was a warden.

“It certainly seems like they are not putting the needs of these people first by choosing to hold onto them,” Bowman said.

U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement officials did not respond to phone and email requests for comment on the migrants’ detention.

The migrants told authorities they were drinking water from a reservoir on county land in Sierra Blanca, south of El Paso in the hot, dry Chihuahuan Desert, when two men — identified in court documents as the Sheppard brothers — pulled over in a truck. The migrants said they ran to hide.

Mark Sheppard told investigators he and his brother were out hunting and thought they had spotted a javelina, a kind of wild hog, when they opened fire. “Mark Sheppard told us he used binoculars and saw a ‘black butt’ thinking it was a javelina,” court documents said.

But the migrants told authorities the men in the truck yelled and cursed at them in Spanish, taunting at them to come out, and revved their engine as they backed up. When the group emerged from hiding, the driver exited the vehicle and fired two shots at them.

Jesús Iván Sepúlveda was shot and killed. Brenda Berenice Casias Carrillo was struck in the stomach and seriously wounded.

Silvia Carrillo, the wounded woman’s aunt, told The Associated Press that she heard from her niece via WhatsApp on Sept. 25 that the group was beginning the precarious desert journey from Mexico into Texas and was turning off their phones.

When she next made contact with Casias two days later, her niece told her the group had been shot at and she lay wounded, fearing she would die.

Carrillo encouraged her niece to call 911 for help. Also in the group of 13 migrants were Carrillo’s two sons, another niece and a son-in-law. Casias told her they were all okay but another man who was with them — 22-year-old Sepulveda of Durango, Mexico, — was dead.

“I felt like I was going to die, I was desperate and imagined the worst,” Carrillo said.

When authorities arrived in response to her 911 call, Casias was taken to a hospital and the other survivors were questioned by federal and immigration officials.

Their testimonies led to the arrest of the Sheppard brothers, after which the witnesses were placed in ICE custody.

On Oct. 7, Carrillo said she spoke to Casias again, this time from the hospital.

Casias sounded weak, but said she was slowly getting better and had one more surgery to go.

Casias remains stable and improving and has some legal protection, her attorney, Marysol Castro, managing attorney for Diocesan Migrant and Refugee Services in El Paso, said Tuesday.

She declined to provide specifics because she said her client is afraid for her safety since learning of the Sheppard brothers’ initial release.

Bowman said she is seeking visas intended for migrants who are crime victims for her clients, but even though the case has been widely publicized it could take months to produce the necessary court documents.

In the meantime she has petitioned, without success so far, for them to be released to sponsors in the U.S. — a decision that is solely at the discretion of ICE authorities.

John Sandweg, an attorney who served as ICE director during the Obama administration, said other factors like the survivors’ role as witnesses could mean that authorities choose to keep them in detention so they are nearby to testify in the case.

Still, on the face of it, he said, “there is not a good reason” why these migrants remain detained.

“The bottom line is that study after study after study and ICE’s own data has demonstrated the effectiveness of alternatives to detention,” Sandweg said, adding that the system “is in critical need of reform.”

Coahoma's five game win streak comes to an end against Idalou 28-16

Bulldogs set for big game against longtime rival Stanton this Friday.

Left, The Coahoma Bulldogs exit the tunnel to head back out on the field for the second half of the varsity game against Idalou on Friday, Oct. 14, 2022. The Bulldogs would go on to drop its second district game to the Wildcats 28-16. With the loss the Bulldogs five game winning streak came to an end. Coahoma will look to bounce back this Friday as they get ready to host longtime rival Stanton at Bill Easterling Memorial Stadium in Coahoma. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

By STEVE BELVIN

Contributing Sports Writer

IDALOU - The Coahoma Bulldogs could not get ahead in Friday's district contest against the Idalou Wildcats. Because of that the Bulldogs came up on the short end in a 28-16 district loss, snapping a five-game Coahoma win streak and evens its league record to 1-1, the same as Idalou.

The Bulldogs shot themselves in the foot early on, turning the ball over three times in its first four possessions. The good thing however is that the Coahoma defense rose to the occasion, only allowing the Wildcats to score after one turnover. The Wildcats got the ball at their own 20-yard line after an interception on Coahoma's opening drive.

Idalou made Coahoma pay when Tate Hendley connected with Blake Dyas for a 55-yard pass play. Tyler Jack scored on a short run for Idalou with 7:29 left in the first quarter. The other two first half turnovers resulted in no points for Idalou. Both times Idalou got the ball in Coahoma territory, at the 20 and 41.

The Wildcats missed a 33-yard field goal on the second interception and the Coahoma defense forced a punt after a fumble for the third turnover of the half. Idalou went up 14-0 at the half when Hendley connected with Dyas for a 23-yard scoring play. The Idalou defense played well throughout the game, especially the first half when they held Coahoma to 96 yards of total offense.

Coahoma had virtually no running attack throughout the game, finishing with 42 yards on the ground. Coahoma battled gamely in the second half having to go to its passing game. Boyd Cox was harassed tremendously but still managed 233 yards passing, but had to throw the ball 32 times to get it. The Idalou secondary did pick off another pass in the second half, helping seal Coahoma's fate.

Coahoma got on the scoreboard on its first possession in the third quarter. Reagan Chapman boomed a 37-yard field goal to cut the Idalou lead to 14-3. That's the way the scored stayed heading into the fourth quarter. The fourth quarter was a standoff as both teams scored twice.

Cox threw a 37-yard scoring pass to Tristan Guerrero and Jaiden Vineyard scored on a two-yard run. The Coahoma defense put in a tough night's work. It answered the bell in critical situations. In the end Idalou's run game wore it down. Idalou ran for 167 yards in the second half and ate up the clock.

Coahoma's pressure on the quarter remains relentless as they hounded Hendley all game. Hendley did hit a couple of big passes, but it's not because he wasn't getting pressured. In one stretch in the third quarter Coahoma got back-to-back sacks Shane White got Hendley the first time, Nick Tuttle, Vineyard and Landon Wells combined on the second sack. Billy Bailey also blocked an Idalou punt.

Also in the third quarter Coahoma punter Austin Perkins dropped the snap into center and was tackled at the Coahoma 46. The Bulldog defense responded by forcing a punt. The defense held up its end of the bargain. It was just one of those off nights for the Coahoma offense.

Coahoma coach Chris Joslin is ready to go to work. "Yea we made some mistakes tonight and we've got some work to do. Let me say I'm proud of my kids. We're gonna be patient and keep working; keep fighting," Joslin said. The Bulldogs 5-2 for the season, will host Stanton Friday night at 7 p.m.

Forsan steamrolls the Anthony Wildcats 37-0 in shutout win

Buffaloes ready for showdown against Cristoval Friday night

By PATRICK GONZALES

Herald Sports Writer

Kevin Kligora Huston Stockton

The Forsan Buffaloes made the long six hour trip out west last Friday night to take on the Anthony Wildcats in their second district game of the season.

The Buffaloes took care of business as they dominated the Wildcats on both offense and defense en route to a 37-0 shutout win.

With the win the Buffaloes improved to 6-1 overall but more importantly stay undefeated in District 3-2A play with a 2-0 record.

The Buffaloes wasted little time before getting on the board first. Anthony received the ball first to start the game and on their first possession fumbled the ball with the Buffaloes recovering and taking over on the Wildcats 37 yard line.

Three plays is all it took and Forsan was on the board 7-0 thanks to a 10 yard run up the middle from Forsan running back Kevin Kligora.

The Forsan defense kept the pressure on Anthony on its second possession of the game forcing a punt where the Buffaloes would take over on their own 43 yard line.

Forsan again drove the ball down the field in seven plays and was capped off with another rushing touchdown this time thanks to Huston Stockton giving Forsan a 14-0 lead in the first quarter.

The Wildcats were able to force a turnover at the end of the first quarter but again could not muster any offensive momentum thanks the Forsan's relentless defense.

Forsan would go on to score twice in the second quarter with a another touchdown and a field to give them a 24-0 lead right before the half.

Just before the end of the second quarter Forsan's defense forced a Wildcat fumble and recovered it at Anthony's 29 yard line. Looking to get more points on the board, Forsan tried for the field goal but were unsuccessful sending them into halftime up 24-0.

The second half of the game was much like the first where Forsan continued its dominance on both sides of the ball.

Forsan would go on to score two more touchdowns in the third quarter to put the game away for good.

Forsan's defense dominated the game as they held the Wildcats to just 56 yards of total offense on the night.

The Buffaloes running game proved again to be too much for their opponents as they finished the night with 306 yards of total rushing.

Leading the way for the Buffaloes was junior running back Kevin Kligora who finished the night with 114 yards rushing on 6 carries and two touchdowns. Kligora biggest play of the game came on an 80 yard rushing touchdown.

Contract Bridge

Opening lead — king of hearts.

It is sometimes necessary for a defender to lie to his partner. While bridge is undeniably a partnership game, it is also true that if the only way to get your partner to do what you want him to do is to lie, you do it.

Take this case where North-South reached five diamonds on the bidding shown. Let's say you're

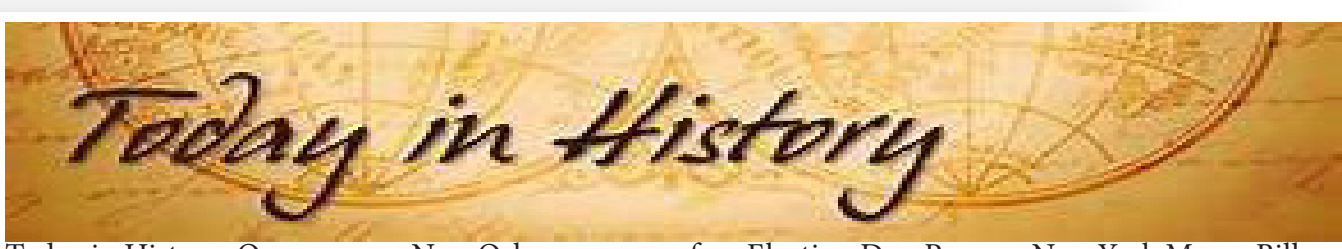

East and your partner leads the king of hearts.

After dummy appears, you don't like the prospects of your side collecting three tricks. With your king of diamonds situated in front of South's diamonds, and South virtually certain to hold the ace of clubs for his opening bid, it doesn't look like there's much you can do. Yet, if you're on your toes, you can defeat the contract.

You start by playing the seven of hearts on partner's king. When West continues with the ace of hearts, you play the three. It's true that by playing high-low in hearts, you're indicating a doubleton. To that extent you're deceiving your partner.

But your little white lie pays off handsomely when partner next leads the queen of hearts, forcing declarer to ruff in dummy. As a result, declarer can take only one diamond finesse instead of two, so you eventually score a trick with the king to set the contract. However, if you hadn't told an untruth by playing high-low initially, West probably would not have led another heart at trick three, and your king of diamonds would never have seen the light of day.

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

Today in History: October 20, the "Saturday Night Massacre"

Today is Thursday, Oct. 20, the 293rd day of 2022. There are 72 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Oct. 20, 2011, Moammar Gadhafi, 69, Libya's dictator for 42 years, was killed as revolutionary fighters overwhelmed his hometown of Sirte (SURT) and captured the last major bastion of resistance two months after his regime fell.

On this date:
In 1803, the U.S. Senate ratified the Louisiana Purchase.

In 1947, the House Un-American Activities Committee opened hearings into alleged Communist influence and infiltration in the U.S. motion picture industry.

In 1967, a jury in Meridian, Mississippi, convicted seven men of violating the civil rights of slain civil rights workers James Chaney, Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner; the seven received prison terms ranging from 3 to 10 years.

In 1973, in the so-called "Saturday Night Massacre," special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox was dismissed and Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson and Deputy Attorney General William B. Ruckelshaus resigned.

In 1976, 78 people were killed when the Norwegian tanker Frosta rammed the commuter ferry George Prince on the Mississippi River near New Orleans.

In 1977, three members of the rock group Lynyrd Skynyrd, including lead singer Ronnie Van Zant, were killed along with three others in the crash of a chartered plane near McComb, Mississippi.

In 1979, the John F. Kennedy Presidential Library and Museum was dedicated in Boston.

In 1990, three members of the rap group 2 Live Crew were acquitted by a jury in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., of violating obscenity laws with an adults-only concert in nearby Hollywood the previous June.

In 2001, officials announced that anthrax had been discovered in a House postal facility on Capitol Hill.

In 2004, a U.S. Army staff sergeant, Ivan "Chip" Frederick, pleaded guilty to abusing Iraqi detainees at Abu Ghraib prison. (Frederick was sentenced to eight years in prison; he was paroled in 2007.)

In 2018, Saudi Arabia announced that U.S.-based journalist Jamal Khashoggi (jah-MAHL' khahr-SHOHK'-jee) had been killed in Saudi Arabia's consulate in Istanbul; there was immediate international skepticism over the Saudi account that Khashoggi had died during a "fistfight." (A U.S. intelligence report later concluded that Saudi crown prince Mohammed bin Salman had likely approved Khashoggi's killing by a team of Saudi security and intelligence officials.)

In 2020, two weeks before Election Day, President Donald Trump called on Attorney General William Barr to immediately launch an investigation into unverified claims about Democrat Joe Biden and his son Hunter, effectively demanding that the Justice Department abandon its historic resistance to getting involved in elections.

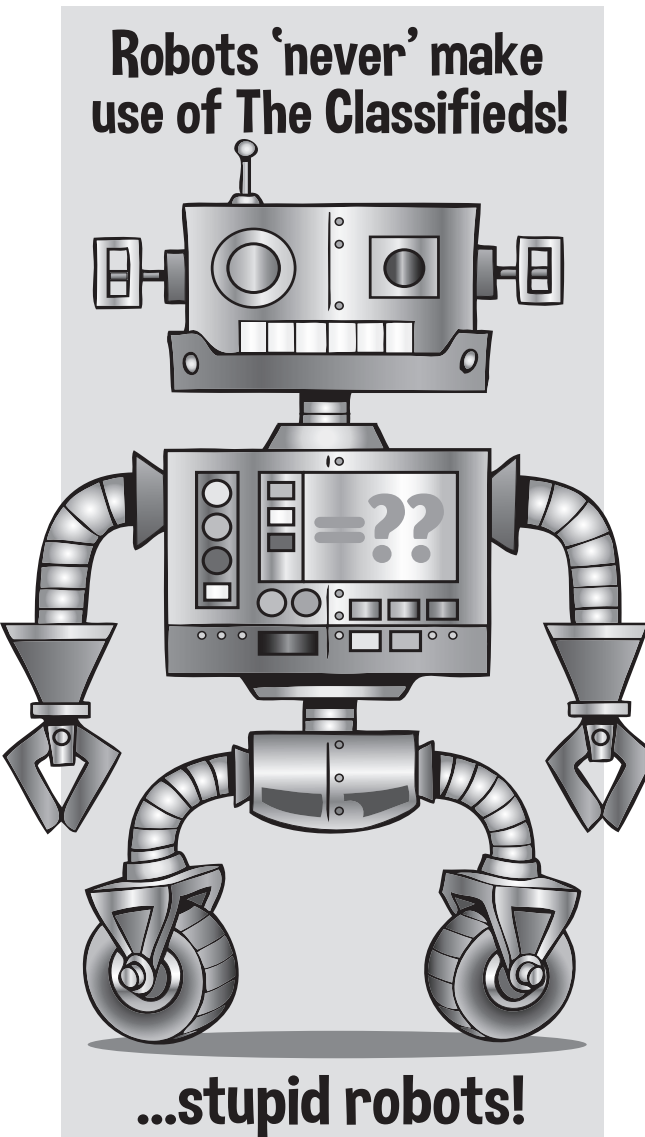

Ten years ago: Heading into the campaign's final weeks, Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney upped his criticism of President Barack Obama's plans for a second term, accusing the Democrat of failing to tell Americans what he would do with four more years; the Obama campaign aggressively disputed the notion, claiming it was Romney who hadn't provided specific details to voters.

Five years ago: The U.S. government said 24 of its peltos had now been confirmed to be victims of invisible attacks in Cuba. Suicide bombers struck two mosques in Afghanistan during Friday prayers, killing more than 60 people.

One year ago: Nikolas Cruz pleaded guilty to murdering 17 people during a February, 2018, rampage at his former high school in Parkland, Florida. (A jury would spare Cruz from the death penalty, instead sending him to prison for life.) Nine months after being expelled from social media for his role in inciting the Jan. 6 Capitol insurrection, former President Donald Trump said he was launching a new media company with its own social media platform.

New York Mayor Bill de Blasio said the city would require its entire municipal workforce to be vaccinated against COVID-19 or be placed on unpaid leave. Netflix employees staged a walkout from the company's office-studio complex in Los Angeles in protest of a Netflix special in which comedian Dave Chappelle made anti-transgender comments. A federal court filing revealed that the NFL and lawyers for thousands of retired players had reached an agreement to end race-based adjustments in dementia testing in a $1 billion settlement of concussion claims.

Today's Birthdays:
Japan's Empress Michiko is 88. Rockabilly singer Wanda Jackson is 85. Former actor Rev. Mother Dolores Hart is 84. Actor William "Rusty" Russ is 72. Actor Melanie Mayron is 70. BUFFALOES

Following behind Kligora was Brooks Wright who finished the night with 69 yards rushing on 5 carries. Forsan's Huston Stockton, Cade Wallis, and Yandell Melendez each scored a rushing touchdown in the game. Forsan's defense finished the night with two fumbles recoveries.

The Buffaloes (6-1) will look to keep its winning momentum up as they get ready to host the Christoval Cougars (4-3) Friday night at Buffalo Stadium.

Both teams enter the game with 2-0 records in district play. The game should provide fans a great matchup as both teams possess a strong running game and stout defenses that can wreak havoc on opposing teams offense's.

The Buffaloes defense has the edge over Christoval as they have held their opponents on average to 9 points, while the Cougars have held their opponents on average to 18 points a game.

On offense, both Forsan and Christoval are somewhat identical with Forsan having the slight edge on rushing yards per game with 240 yards compared to Christoval's 200 yards per game.

Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

SEC East's surge threatens No. 1 Georgia's hopes to repeat

By CHARLES ODUM

AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Top-ranked defending national champion Georgia is far from assured of a return trip to the Southeastern Conference championship game.

With the SEC East making its biggest AP Top 25 power play since Florida's Steve Spurrier and Tennessee's Phillip Fulmer ruled the division 25 years ago, Georgia is facing a grueling series of games in the second half of the season.

Led by Georgia and No. 3 Tennessee, the East Division boasts two of the top three teams in the country for the first time since Sept. 2, 1997. In that AP Top 25 poll, No. 2 Florida was one spot ahead of No. 3 Tennessee, the eventual SEC champion led by senior quarterback Peyton Manning.

Georgia and Florida were both in the top five of the poll for one week in 2020, but at no other time since 1997 have two teams from the East been ranked in the top three.

The East Division showed its renewed strength in winning two show-downs against ranked teams from the West last week.

Tennessee beat then-No. 3 Alabama 52-49 and Kentucky defeated then-No. 16 Mississippi State 27-17. The Wildcats moved to No. 19 in this week's poll.

The SEC has six teams in the Top 25, including three from the West — No. 6 Alabama, No. 7 Mississippi and No. 24 Mississippi State.

The SEC could be in position to have as many as three teams in the four-team College Football Playoff.

For now at least, the East holds bragging rights in the league.

"By no means do you see the West slipping, but you certainly see the East coming back around, for sure," South Carolina coach Shane Beamer said.

"There's great programs, there's traditional programs that have a lot of pride as well. There are programs continuing to get better. To me, it's just one of those that if you're in this league, you better recruit your butt off or it will eat you up and spit you out pretty quick."

Georgia (7-0, 4-0 SEC) is off this week before playing Florida on Oct. 29.

The annual neutral-site game in Jacksonville, Florida, is never easy, and the Gators also have been ranked this season.

Georgia must play three consecutive games against current Top 25 teams after the Florida game: Tennessee on Nov. 5, at Mississippi State on Nov. 12 and at Kentucky on Nov 19.

Coach Kirby Smart knows his Bulldogs must take advantage of their off week. They'll need to be well-rested to survive the four-game grind.

"I'm not looking down at that run because if you start looking at that run you get caught up," Smart said after Saturday's 55-0 rout of Vanderbilt.

"I'm looking solely at one thing. It's not Florida. It's not anybody else. It's us. I'm going to dig, chew and claw to get every player on our roster better because one of those guys is going to be counted on to make a play in a tough game."

Three of the opponents in the four-game stretch are from the East.

By beating Alabama, the Vols did more than show they can compete with Georgia in the East.

With their fourth win over a ranked opponent, Tennessee gained support to move past Georgia for the No. 1 spot in the Top 25. The Vols received 15 first-place votes, their most since 1999.

Tennessee (6-0, 3-0) has proved it deserves to be included in the discussion of championship contenders.

Tennessee takes a break from its SEC schedule to play UT-Martin this week. Coach Josh Heupel says there won't be a letdown.

"I say it every week, it's about us, it's about our preparation but the challenge is about us becoming our best, too," Heupel said. "They all understand there is a lot of things we have got to get better at."

For more than a year, it seemed clear Alabama and Georgia were the SEC's elite teams.

Alabama beat Georgia in last season's SEC championship game and the Bulldogs earned revenge by stopping the Crimson Tide to win the national championship. This year, the teams have taken turns at No 1.

Tennessee has emerged as a candidate to give the SEC its fourth different national champion in four years. LSU, Alabama and Georgia have won the last three titles.

The last year the Vols had four regular-season wins over ranked teams was 1998 — their last national championship season.

Altuve poised to break out as Astros host Yankees in ALCS

By KRISTIE RIEKEN

AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Jose Altuve, Houston's diminutive superstar, has long been a postseason powerhouse.

But Altuve has been a non-factor at the plate since the playoffs began. The Astros hope he finds his stroke when they return to the AL Championship Series for a sixth straight year and host the New York Yankees in Game 1 Wednesday night.

The three-time batting champion and 2017 AL MVP went 0 for 16 in Houston's three-game sweep of the Seattle Mariners in the AL Division Series. Altuve, the team's leadoff hitter, was 0 for 8 in Game 3 before rookie Jeremy Pena's homer in the 18th inning lifted the Astros to the 1-0 win.

Concerning, sure, but with a playoff resume as sparkling as Altuve's, everyone is certain that his slump will be short-lived. The diminutive second baseman hit .300 with 28 homers and 57 RBIs in the regular season.

"This guy's been good for a long time," manager Dusty Baker said. "Sometimes it's not always up. Sometimes, no matter how great you are, sometimes there are down times ... but I'm expecting big things out of Altuve. Because he expects big things out of himself."

While Altuve would certainly like to do more at the plate, he's more focused on how the team is doing overall than his individual results.

"I'm always that kind of guy to stay positive, calm, no matter what the situation," he said. "I like to go out there and play my game, regardless the result... (but) we won three games and we're ready for the ALCS and that's what we play for."

The good news for the Astros is that they swept a series despite Altuve's struggles. Yankees ace Gerrit Cole, who helped Houston to the 2019 World Series before signing a $324 million contract with the Yankees, knows better than most just how deep of a lineup the Astros have.

"They're just really good and they find ways to win even if they're not performing at their best," he said. "I don't know how many hits Jose (Altuve) got in that three-game series but all of sudden he showed up with the glove and he was making nasty defensive plays ... it's funny, when they're all clicking they're great. When they're not all clicking, they're great."

In 17 playoff series over seven years, Altuve has hit .272 with 23 homers and 49 RBIs. He homered three times — twice off Chris Sale — to lead Houston to an 8-2 win over the Boston Red Sox in Game 1 of the ALDS in 2017.

But his biggest postseason home run, and perhaps one of the most memorable homers in playoff history, came against the Yankees. Game 6 of the 2019 ALCS was tied at 4 with two outs in the bottom of the ninth when Altuve connected off Aroldis Chapman on a two-run shot to send Houston to the World Series.

Altuve was chosen as the MVP for his heroics in that series where he finished with two homers, a double and three RBIs.

That was the second time the Astros beat the Yankees in the ALCS, with the first coming in 2017 when they went on to win their only World Series. It was a title that has since been tainted after the Astros were found to have illicitly stolen signs that season.

The Yankees head to Houston with no time to savor their ALDS win after beating Cleveland 5-1 in Game 5 Tuesday in a game that was delayed a day because of rain.

The series will feature the top two teams in the AL in the 106-win Astros and the 99-win

Yankees which seemed to be on a collision course for this ALCS rematch all season. Houston won the regular-season series 5-2 but that will have little bearing on this matchup where the AL East champion Yankees will vie for their 28th title and first since 2009.

"The challenge is we're facing a great team," New York manager Aaron Boone said. "As far as the quick turnaround, we'll be fine. That's baseball. We do that all the time. We'll walk in there with some confidence. We know they are great team and rested and ready. We look forward to the challenge."

FOR STARTERS

Houston's Justin Verlander will oppose Jameson Taillon in the series opener. Verlander, who is the favorite to win his third Cy Young Award this season, will look to bounce back after a terrible start in Game 1 of the division series.

The 39-year-old allowed a playoff career-high 10 hits with six earned runs, which tied his most for a postseason game, in just four innings before Yordan Alvarez's three-run homer with two outs in the ninth allowed Houston to rally for an 8-7 win.

Verlander said he hasn't felt as consistent as he did earlier this season since coming back from a calf injury that landed him on the injured list in early September.

He said he's been working hard to get back to where he was before the injury but wouldn't provide many details on what that work entailed.

"Hopefully after the last one, I really think I identified some stuff that was kind of the key component," he said. "It's just kind of deep mechanical stuff that I really probably shouldn't really go too far into."

Baker has no doubt that Verlander will be much better Wednesday in what will be his 32nd career playoff start that he was last time out.

"This guy he knows what it takes," Baker said. "So, we're not worried about Justin. It can happen to anybody. I don't care how great you are or what your track record says, that's why you play the game. So, we anticipate Justin to come out and throw a great game."

Taillon got the loss in Game 2 of the ALDS when he made his first big league relief appearance after 143 starts.

He allowed three hits and two runs without getting an out in his playoff debut.
