Lillian's parents were John and Annabell Birdwell. John ran the T&P Hotel located on 1st Street facing north to the train tracks. Lillian had fond memories of Christmas' past, especially one Christmas when she was a six-year-old little girl living in the hotel. She said "Christmas was a very happy time. Friends would stop by for a visit and to wish us Merry Christmas. They would often bring things that they had made, fancy needlework, cakes, and pies. Those were the best of times!"

She continued "Papa would carry two large boxes in his buggy, marking one for girls and the other for boys. They were filled with presents and little stockings made with red and green mosquito netting and filled with oranges, apples, candy, and nuts. He handed these out to every child he met. The railroad sent a boxcar filled with greenery, red berries, Spanish moss, and Christmas trees. We put up a large tree in the front dining room for everyone to enjoy and filled it with small candles. We strung popcorn and cranberries by the yard. We made ornaments from little pieces of tin and there were red apples, oranges, candy sticks, hard candies, and various nuts. We pulled taffy, made peanut brittle and molasses candy, and enjoyed plenty of apple cider and fruitcake. Hing Lee (our cook) made lots of delicious things to eat in the kitchen. There were two large

Pope returns Greece's Parthenon Sculptures in ecumenical nod

cis will send back to Greece the three fragments of the Parthenon Sculptures that the Vatican Museums have held for two centuries, in the latest case of a Western museum bowing to demands for restitution of artifacts to their countries of origin.

In announcing the decision Friday, the Vatican termed the gesture a "donation" from Francis to His Beatitude Ieronymos II, the Orthodox Christian archbishop of Athens and all Greece, and said it was "a concrete sign of his sincere desire to follow in the ecumenical path of truth."

The return, which is expected to still take some time to execute, is likely to add further pressure on the British Museums, which has refused decades of appeals from Greece to return its much larger collection of Parthenon sculptures, which has been a centerpiece of the museum since

The 5th century B.C. sculptures are mostly remnants of a 160-meter-long (520-foot) frieze that ran around the outer walls of the Parthenon Temple on the Acropolis, dedicated to Athena, goddess of wisdom. Much of the frieze and the temple's other sculptural decoration was lost in a 17th-century bombardment, and about half the remaining works were removed in

Aside from the British Museums, fragments have ended up in museums around Europe, and recently a small museum in Sicily decided to return its lone fragment to Greece in a loan that Greek authorities hope will be extended indefinitely.

The Vatican's three fragments include a head of a horse, a head of a boy and a bearded male head.

The head of the boy had been loaned to Greece for a year in 2008. Greece's Culture Ministry said it welcomed the pope's donation, which it said followed a request by Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew I, the spiritual leader of the world's Orthodox Christians. The decision helps Greek efforts for the return of the Parthenon Sculptures from the British Museum "and their reunification with those on display in the Acropolis Museum," a ministry statement said. The Acropolis Museum, for its part, also welcomed Francis' gesture. The Vatican statement suggested the Holy See wanted to make clear

In the case of the Vatican Museums, Indigenous groups from Canada have made clear they want the Holy See to return artifacts sent by Catholic missionaries to the Vatican for a 1925 exhibition and are now part of its ethnographic collection.

Jos van Beurden, who administers the "Restitution Matters" Facebook group that tracks the global restitution debate, suggested the use of the term "donation" for specifically religious purposes and "not a government to government affair" was deliberate and could inspire other groups to seek the return of items on similar grounds

They worked hard, with the rewards coming slowly but something came year's nine Associated Press' Breakthrough Entertainers of the Year, a class of talent that flowered in 2022. They are Sadie Sink, Stephanie Hsu. Tenoch Huerta. Joaquina Kalukango, Iman Vellani, Darvl McCormack, Tobe Nwigwe, Simone Ashley and Danielle Deadwyler.

Sink had been on Broadway and worked alongside stars such as Naomi Watts and Helen Mirren. But playing tress in a leading role Tony Max Mayfield in the fourth Award and a stunning mo-season of "Stranger Things," she broke through as a brave skater girl who never lets go of her Walkman, who hates pink, plays video games and is a "Dragon's Lair" champi-

Hsu also was a Broadway veteran with a few TV credits when she was asked to play both a sullen teen and an intergalactic supervillain in the movie "Everything Everywhere All at Once." That led to an unforgettable performance that included dressing as Elvis and walking a pig on

Like many of the others on the list. Kalukango had racked up plenty of Broadway credits when she took a risk and played the lead in a Broadway musical, "Paradise Square." It led to a best acment in the telecast when she sang "Let It Burn."

"Black Panther: Wakanda Forever" isn't one of Huerta's biggest roles but the Mexican actor suddenly launched a hundred memes as the mutant leader of a kingdom based on Mayan and Aztec influences beneath the ocean for centuries. Huerta, known for roles in the Netflix series "Narcos: Mexico" and the movie "The Forever Purge," has taken a big step for movie diversity.

Nwigwe, just nominated for a Grammy as best new artist, has been bubbling up with noted appearances on NPR's Tiny Desk Concert series and earning a spot on Michelle Obama's 2020 workout playlist with "I'm Dope."

This year, the Houstonbased artist was featured on lead character in a major prothe "Black Panther: Wakan-da Forever" soundtrack and dropped the EP "moMINTs" to acclaim.

McCormack has worked consistently since 2018 but 2022 seems to have turned into something special with a constellation of roles — "Peaky Blinders," the buzzy, dark comedy thriller "Bad Sisters," plus a star-making performance as the title character in the film "Good Luck to You, Leo Grande" opposite Emma Thompson.

Ashley, a British actress of Indian heritage with a Tamil background, found herself leading season two of the Regency-era period drama "Bridgerton." She had a role in the series "Sex Education," but playing the fiercely independent Kate Sharma for Shonda Rhimes was her first duction.

Deadwyler burst into the awards race this year with her performance in "Till" as Mamie Till-Mobley, the mother of teenager Emmett Till, who was lynched in 1955. She has also appeared in "The Harder They Come," "Watchmen" and the Netflix series "From Scratch" and "Station Eleven."

Vellani, another member of the Marvel Cinematic Universe on this list, is the exception, having had no such slow iron posts that were entwined with cedar branches dipped in flour reminding you of the snow." That Christmas in 1890, Lillian received a pair of black, high-topped button shoes with beautiful red tops and the prettiest black silk tassels that would swing when she walked!

Candles that went on the Christmas trees were usually 5" to 6" in size and were fitted into a holder. The candles were only lit for a few minutes at a time, usually when the family gathered around the tree in the evening and sang Christmas hymns.

An 1890 dinner would consist of roasted turkey, chestnut stuffing, cranberry jelly, sweet potato croquettes, Some people ate oysters if they were available and could be afforded. The Dessert would consist of pies and fruit cake that had been aged and covered in whiskey.

The high point was when the family would attend Christmas Eve service held in the churches. The sanctuaries would be lit by many candles and in front would be a huge tree trimmed much the same as the ones at home. One of the members would be delegated to stand by with buckets of sand and water in case of fire. Christmas hymns were sung and then came the children's part in the program. Various recitations were given. Simple re-enactments of the first Christmas would be presented. There would be a story for the children from the pastor. At the close of the service hard candy, nuts and oranges were given to all the children. At that time, almost every home had a fireplace from which to hang stockings. They were usually long cotton stockings that were worn by both boys and girls. The older the child, the more stocking there was to be filled. In the toe a large Brazil nut was usually to be found. There would be a fat peppermint stick, walnuts, butternuts, hickory and hazelnuts, an orange, which was always a special treat in west Texas. Mittens, made by mother or grandmother and perhaps a top or a small doll. Gifts were few and simple and were given mostly to the children, such as blocks, jack in the box, or slates with slate pencils, or jack straws perhaps. The wealthier families could afford the beautiful German doll and iron toys-large and small.

The J&W Fisher Store was such a success that by 1910, they hired 25-year-old James Hanson to be the professional window designer for the store. Christmas windows were designed to entice the children to bring their parents into "Toy Land" for their Christmas shopping. Throughout the next 50 years, things did not change much regarding Santa's list. Little girls wanted dolls and little boys liked guns and fireworks. Families gathered together sharing love and faith and a hope for a better tomorrow.

In 1897, one of the best editorials written at Christmas was about a little girl and her faltering faith in Santa. She sent a letter to the New York's Sun newspaper on September 21, 1897, questioning if there really is a Santa Claus. Newsman Francis Pharcellus Church answered Virginia in one of the most reprinted newspaper editorials in the world.

"VIRGINIA, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, VIRGINIA, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no VIRGIN-IAS. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world. "You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, VIRGINIA, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding. "No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

Two Bulldogs earn THSCA Academic All-State football honors

Special to the Herald

Coahoma High School seniors Rance Redden and Isaiah Eleda made the cut to the elite Texas Army National Guard and Texas High School Coaches Association Academic All-State football team.

Redden and Eleda were named to the honorable mention list for their academic achievements while also being standout athletes.

"Isaiah and Rance are well deserving of this honor," said Chris Joslin, CHS head football coach. "What this shows is these two gentlemen take care of business in the classroom. It's our real reason to be in education."

Selection to the Texas Army National Guard and THSCA Academic All-State Football team is based on GPA, class rank, and overall ACT/SAT scores.

Fired Cardinals coach hires law firm, requests arbitration

By DAVID BRANDT

AP Sports Writer

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Recently fired Arizona Cardinals assistant coach Sean Kugler has retained a law firm to investigate the allegations that he inappropriately touched a female security guard when the team was in Mexico last month for a game against the San Francisco 49ers.

Kugler hired the law firm of Shields Pettini, which said on Friday that it has filed a request for arbitration with the NFL in response to the Cardinals' handling of the situation, which resulted in Kugler's firing.

The law firm claims Kugler was fired for "unsubstantiated allegations that he inappropriately touched a female security guard."

The popular 56-year-old Kugler — who was the team's offensive line coach and run game coordinator — had been with the team since 2019. The Cardinals were in Mexico to play the 49ers on a Monday night. The Cardinals said the incident happened on the Saturday before the game and he was sent home by

"The allegations against Coach Kugler are simply untrue and have caused Sean, his wife and family enormous personal and professional damage," said attorney Michael Pettini. "Coach and his family have been desperate to understand from the Cardinals front office and others what rationale or evidence was used to terminate him for cause."

The firm claims the Cardinals dismissed Kugler from the organization without conducting a thorough investigation or interviewing him.

"Respecting women is a core value for me, and something I have instilled in my children and the players that I coach," Kugler said in a statement. "The mysterious allegations by the Cardinals are untrue, and I want to clear my name. Be it a miscommunication or mistaken identity, my family and I will cooperate fully and honestly with the NFL, Cardinals, or any other agency to get to the truth in this matter and restore my reputation."

Cardinals offensive lineman Kelvin Beachum talked with Kugler in the immediate aftermath of his firing. He said Kugler was "devastated" and that the coach was well-respected throughout the locker room.

"I don't think anyone saw that coming at all," Beachum added Friday.

The Cardinals released their own statement on Friday: "As an ongoing legal matter, we are going to refrain from comment other than to say that the team is confident the process will result in a much different set of facts than those presented today and that it had good cause to terminate Mr. Kugler's employ-

Coach Kliff Kingsbury referred back to the team's statement when asked about Kugler.

Kugler's firing has been part of tumultuous season for the Cardinals (4-9), who started the season with high hopes but have lost five of their past six

Among the other unwanted headlines: Three-time All-Pro receiver DeAndre Hopkins was suspended six games for violating the NFL's rule on perfor mance-enhancers, while franchise quarterback Kyler Murray suffered a serious knee injury last week that will cause him to miss the final four games of the season.

Also, team general manager Steve Keim began what was termed a health-related leave of absence on Thursday. Keim's duties are being handled by Quentin Harris and Adrian Wilson, who also works in the team's player personnel

Phillies finalize 4-year, $72M deal with RHP Taijuan Walker

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Taijuan Walker wanted to keep uniform No. 99, so he figured 29 of the 30 major league teams were options.

"I think there's only one team that I could go to where I couldn't be 99 and that was the Yankees," he said, a reference to AL MVP Aaron Judge's jersey number. "I think every other team was available. I was tired of switching my number."

The 30-year-old right-hander finalized a $72 million, four-year contract with the National League champion Phillies on Friday and will become the fourth Philadelphia player to wear No. 99 after Mitch Williams (1993), Turk Wendell (2001) and So Taguchi (2008).

Walker wore No. 44 growing up and got it with Seattle in 2016. Traded to Arizona, where Paul Goldschmidt had the number, he switched to No. 99. Then he was dealt to Toronto, where Hyun Ryu was 99, and Walker switched to 00. He signed as a free agent with New York, where mascot Mr. Met had 00, so Walker went back to 99 for the past two

Walker, who gets an $18 million salary in each of the next four years. went 12-5 with a 3.49 ERA in 29 starts this season for the Mets, one of Philadelphia's biggest NL East rivals. He slots into a rotation that includes Zack Wheeler, Aaron Nola and

"Very talented individual, goes out there every five days with quality stuff," Phillies president of baseball operations Dave Dombrowski said. "We really love his split finger that he threw a lot more last year and will continue to do so."

Walker already spoke with manager Rob Thomson, pitching coach Caleb Cotham and director of pitching development Brian Kaplan. Walker increased the use of a splitter from 14% to 27% last season and added a cutter, though just 5%.

He switched this year to the splitter grip used by teammate Carlos Carrasco.

"With the Mets, I was able to learn how to throw my splitter more and how to use it," Walker said. "I think coming over here, already speaking with Caleb, I think that we can tweak my cutter a little bit and my slider, but also just up the use of my split-

Walker is looking forward to pitching in front of fans at Citizens Bank Park.

"I actually talked to Ryan Howard a couple of days ago and he was telling me playing in the playoffs here in Philly it's the loudest he's ever heard a stadium," Walker said. "So for me, that's exciting, to have a fanbase who's so passionate and cares so much about the team and who shows up every day. Every time we came to play when I was with the Mets, the Phillies fans were here, they were out, they were loud.' Walker was selected by Seattle with the No. 43 pick in the 2010 amateur draft. He made his big league debut with the Mariners in 2013.

Walker signed with New York as a free agent in February 2021. He turned down a $7.5 million player option last month in favor of a $3 million buyout, making his deal worth $17 million over two seasons.

The 6-foot-4 Walker made the All-Star team for the first time in 2021, putting together a fast start before fading to 7-11 with a 4.47 ERA in 30 games, 29 starts.

To make room for Walker on the 40-man roster, right-hander Tayler Scott was designated for assignment.

Catcher Christian Vázquez, Twins finalize 3-year, $30M deal

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Having won a pair of World Series titles, Christian Vázquez hopes to win another with the Minnesota Twins.

Homemade for the Holidays

Recipe Corner Crustless pie a treat for those with gluten intolerance

The holiday season is a popular time to entertain. Food is often a focal point of holiday season entertaining. Individuals who navigate food allergies or intolerances may shy away from certain celebrations out of fear that a nibble of this or a bite of that may trigger an allergic response. In such instances, concern about ingredients can cast a pall over normally festive occasions. Those with Celiac disease or gluten intolerances must be mindful of the foods they consume. Meals or desserts containing gluten, a protein found in grains like wheat, semolina, rye, barley, graham, spelt, farina, and more, can trigger intestinal distress and other symptoms. With delicious pies, cakes and cookies on the holiday serving table, gluten is likely to make an appearance. However, with careful planning, people who cannot stomach foods that contain gluten can still indulge in their favorite holiday flavors.

"Crustless Libby's® Famous Pumpkin Pie" is a variation on traditional pumpkin pie served at Thanksgiving and Christmas gatherings. Without the crust, individuals who avoid gluten can still dive into that pumpkin-and-spice combination that's so popular around the holiday season. Enjoy this recipe, courtesy of Libby's® Pumpkin.

Opening lead — king of diamonds. Italy won its first world team title in 23 years in 1998, but not before it had a very close call against the U.S. squad in the semifinals. The Italians' margin of victory in the 64-deal match was a narrow three international match points.

Pass

Today's deal from the semifinal resulted in one of the biggest swings of the match. At the first table, the U.S. pair of Drew Casen and Bill Pollack missed their laydown small slam in hearts on an uncontested auction. North's two-club response was game-forcing, and when he later tried for slam by cuebidding clubs, South failed to give enough weight to his singleton diamond and signed off at five hearts. This did not augur well for the American pair, who naturally thought the Italians would bid the slam at the other table. But things took an unexpected turn when Bart Bramley of the U.S opened three diamonds in first seat with the East hand! The auction then proceeded: East South West 7 ♦! South's four-diamond bid showed both majors, prompting West (Sidney Lazard) to apply maximum pressure by leaping to seven diamonds. He was certain the oppo nents could make at least a small slam and wanted to make them guess at the seven level.

This brought the bidding North, who had not yet spoken and had the best hand at the table! Given his partner's bid and the preemptive tactics of the opponents, he decided South was likely to be void in diamonds, so he bid the grand slam.

In a sense, North was right, since without a diamond lead, the grand slam was cold. But Bramley led a diamond, and the contract went down one. Combined with the result at the other table, this gave the U.S. a gain of 13 IMPs. Had North doubled seven diamonds. the penalty would have been 1,700 (down seven), a gain of 14 IMPs for the Italians.

Monday DECEMBER 19, 2022

Last Breath of Sagittarius

In these final moments of the Sagittarian sun of 2022, we have to ask ourselves questions of resolve. Did we adventure? Were we brave? Did we discover new lands of new people? Historically, the most notable adventurers and explorers have set out to find one thing and ended up in quite another place. If this is you, count yourself among the ARIES (March 21-April 19). When you think about the vastness of the world and its billions of human inhabitants, it makes no sense to expect too much from any one source. Establish many channels to what you need; life becomes unstrained.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Of course you'll be more successful if you can act on good information, but there may not be time to go as deep into the research as you'd like to today. Luckily, your intuition is on 11 and will fill in the gaps for you!

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Pay attention to what makes you ask questions. This is how new interests and epic quests start -- with the spark of curiosity. Curiosity will do the job of courage today. It will be strong enough to push you past a fear.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). New isn't always better, but sometimes the inferior new thing is the right choice anyway. The reason you crave novelty is because you actually need it. Freshness wakes you up to your LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Stick with what you said you'd do and complete some version of it. It doesn't have to be the same version you set out to accomplish, but having some kind of finality will satisfy your mind and keep your standards for yourself intact.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You'd rather be a wit-VIRGO 23-Sept. ness than a judge. When it comes to matters of style and personal choices where no one gets hurt, you have the option of being a detached observation. You're not required to moralize or hand in a verdict.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). If a hero swept in to save the day, you'd rather it was a hero who also had problems, especially the sort you could handle, thus repaying the favor. You hate to be indebted in any way and will go far to avoid creating that dynamic.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You can't really work through a feeling without feeling it. Don't worry, it won't last. Feelings are drifting through, changing shape, dissipating. Let the emotion briefly rock you. On the other side, you'll be more powerful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You've known the pain of telling the truth, also the pain of hiding it. This is why you deeply appreciate the situation you're in today. Your honesty is genuinely needed and wanted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Shopping around is fun if you're in the mood but laborious if you're not. You won't have to shop, though, because you'll quickly recognize what's right for you -- a perk of knowing yourself

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You'll look for ways to connect the small things you do to a bigger vision of your future. One day it will be a thrill to see how it all lines up. Until then, you'll keep nudging your life and choices into alignment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Relationships are like cooking. Some dishes work with a few simple ingredients, and others require you to balance many elements, steps and techniques. Neither way is better; it just depends on what you're in the

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Dec. 19). Learning is your work and your play. You'll love the rewards of your intellectual pursuits this year, some of them tangible, many indescribably enriching. At times, life will open itself to you, vivid and expansive. You can afford to be a bit choosy with your relationships, as you have much to offer and very specific wants. Cancer and Leo adore you. Your lucky numbers are: 4, 30, 22, 1 and

CELEBRITY PROFILES: Among the numerous projects filling the overflowing schedule of Jake Gyllenhaal is "Francis and the Godfather," in which Gyllenhaal will tribute the late, great producer Robert Evans. Four luminaries in the highenergy sign of Sagittarius indicate confidence, charisma and an adventurous spirit. A witty Gemini Moon says Gyllenhaal is the life of the dinner party, or "Ambulance" when applicable.

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it
