The election at this place on Tuesday was extremely quiet and no sort of disorder occurred in the town, or has been reported from any voting place in the county. ### The Good Earth

By Mrs. B. F. Cobb

Since frost has killed most vegetation there are several things one must do before putting the garden to bed for the winter.

Dahlia tubers can be dug, divided and stored. Examine and discard any severely injured or diseased tuber. Wash all soil from the clump. Take a sharp knife and divide tubers, being sure to leave a small piece of stem on each... It is from this stem the new plant emerges. Dust the tubers with sulphur and store in peat moss or dry sand. A cellar or a dark closet are both good for storing bulbs and tubers.

Gladiolus corms should be dug, washed and examined for damaged or diseased spots. Discard any that are questionable. Let them dry for a few hours, then store like you do dahlia tubers.

If you would like to have amaryllis bloom in the house this winter, dig the bulbs, wash and let them dry for a few hours, then let the bulbs rest in dry sand, dry grass or peat moss for at least a month before putting them in pots.

If dahlias are to be left in the ground, bend (don't cut or break off) the stems over and leave them as a mulch on the plant's tubers. If stems are cut, water enters into the hollow center and spoils the tubers.

Mulch chrysanthemums that have never wintered outdoors. Those that were set out from pots this summer will need this care.

Do not fail to water rose cuttings if we have long periods of cold, dry weather. Prepare rose beds now so the soil will be settled by time plants arrive at the nursery in late December or early January.

The soil should be thoroughly pulverized. If the bed doesn't drain well, dig the soil out about 18 inches deep and put a two or three inch layer of gravel into the bottom of the hole. Place the soil back in the hole and let it settle until rose planting time. Sulphur dusted on the bed will prevent an invasion of black spot and powdery mildew when the roses are planted.

Some advise putting an inch or so of well rotted cow manure in the hole and covering it with two or three inches of soil, so roots will not come in direct contact with the fertilizer. Be sure it is well rotted manure you use. Fresh manure will kill plants.

Rochester Feasts On Turkey Turks

After a dry first quarter, the Rochester Steers hung up a touchdown in each of the next three periods to defeat the Turkey Turks 22-8 in a district 6B last Friday. It gave the loop leaders a 4-1 mark.

Oison LeFevre romped over from the two to run a 59-yard drive with a touchdown in the second stanza for the Steers.

Guard Phil Hudspeth fell on a Turk fumble at the opposition 19 in the third. Soon after, quarterback John Hudspeth, his brother, went four yards for the touchdown. Sid Smart ran over two extras.

Phil Tanner went 27 yards around left end for the final Steer TD in the curtain closing quarter. John Hudspeth loped across with the extra pair.

Turkey's lone tally came in the third when an Alton Steliff pass found Harvey Case on a scoring play covering 31 yards. John King ran over the extra points.

HEALTH FACTS by Rohe

AGE-OLD TROUBLES

According to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, 90% of those over 65 years have serious dental trouble. Poor teeth necessitate following diets of soft- consistency foods that don't always meet nutritional needs—causing in turn new health problems.

Since 95 out of one hundred people after 70 suffer impaired vision which leads to high accident statistics, optometrists suggest these eye-saving tips: Use higher wattage bulbs; give yourself an "eyebreak" while TV-watching, reading or sewing; carry a flashlight for low-light areas; and step up the frequency of regular eye check-ups.

Xeroderma (pronounced: Zer-o-der-ma, commonly called dry skin, is another serious affliction of the aged. This condition, characterized by itches, cracking and painful chapping, can be alleviated by the use of non-prescription Alpha-Keri. Doctors have found Alpha-Keri to be effective in softening the skin and "locking in" moisture to relieve dry skin.

FACTS ABOUT MEDICARE

Q—Under what conditions are the hospital diagnostic services provided?

Suppose your doctor wanted you to have certain X-rays, laboratory, or other tests made to help him make his diagnosis. He could send you to the hospital to have these tests as an outpatient—not admitted to say overnight. You would pay a deductible of $20 toward the cost of a series of tests made in a 20-day period and 20 per cent of any cost above $20. (The $20 deductible you paid for these outpatient diagnostic services could count toward your $50.00 deductible under your medical insurance).

Q—How much of my medical bills will the supplementary medical insurance plan cover?

A—You pay the first $50 of your total bills for the year for doctors' visits, surgeons' fees, and other services covered in the supplemental plan. After that, the plan pays 80 per cent and you pay the remaining 20 per cent.

Q—What types of doctors' bills are covered?

A—Bills for home and office visits and visits paid to you in a hospital or other institution, also surgeons' and consultation fees are covered.

Q—My doctor says that I will have to pay his bill first, before I collect from Medicare. Is this true?

A—Medicare provides two methods for the payment of doctor bills. If for and the part will be used. Medicare will pay of the reasonable of the patient, if sent in the claim receipt itemized to the doctor, if sent in the claim. The only difference two methods is for sends in the agree that his or the patient will than what is the reasonable services. He will from the patient 20 per cent of charge and any $50 deductible.

MINIMIZE THE RISK

Life has been, is, and probably always will be, an uncertain road potholed with risks. If crystal balls really worked, charting a smooth and safe course would be considerably easier. But they don't, and every day we face chances, choices and hazards. Sometimes we're lucky, we make the right choice and avoid unforeseen hazards. Other times we don't and we hurt ourselves. Odds are that with each passing year we will encounter more and more hazards that affect us and our neighbors.

But unlike the weather, chance or risk is an area we can do something about. We can protect ourselves with adequate insurance. If a neighbor slips on your icy sidewalk and injures himself, adequate insurance can assure both your financial security and his. If your store is burned or robbed, adequate insurance can prevent a crippling financial loss that would imperil the livelihood of both you and your employees. Adequate insurance can safeguard your home and guarantee your financial responsibility to others. In today's crowded, shoulder-to-shoulder world, your responsibility extends far beyond your own threshold.

Beginning November 13th, we all can take a major step to minimize the effects of these accidents by making sure we have the right kind of insurance in the right amounts. Through the efforts of our own Haskell Insurance Agents, a free, professional insurance check-up can be yours for the asking during the next seven days...the official observance of "Protection Week" here and across the country.

These independent insurance agents, all identified by the Big "T" Seal of the National Association of Insurance Agents, will review your present insurance and compare your coverage with the risks you face. They will also counsel and provide information and assistance in all phases of personal and business protection.

These Haskell agents are providing a vital public service and it is to our own best interest to make sure we take advantage of it.

INFLATION HITS EVERYONE

Not the least vicious aspect of inflation is the tendency to set one group against another, each claiming the other is gouging the public with high prices. As a matter of fact, inflation plays no favorites, and you don't have to be an economist to figure this out. As food prices continue to reflect inflationary governmental fiscal policies that steadily push down the value of the dollar, some people suspect that the farmer, the processor or the distributor, is making a killing at the expense of consumers. People do not realize that, in a free competitive market, prices inevitably find the fairest level commensurate with natural laws of supply and demand.

The meat industry, from the farmer to the consumer for example, functions in a free market, and it is highly competitive. Rising profits do not mean fat profits. One major packing company said a reduction in the supply of hogs, constant pressure on markets, low volume, high prices and high operating costs were all to blame for the slump.

There, in brief, is the story of inflation. It hits everyone over the long pull. The truly remarkable part is that industries such as meat packing have kept abreast of the demands of a rising population...not only have kept abreast, but have been instrumental in sustaining a steady upward trend in living standards. Inflation or no inflation, if you do not believe this you have but to look at the meat and grocery counters in the store in which you trade. You will see an abundance, the like of which the world has never known. It is there because industries that operate in a free market are the most productive and the most efficient... attributes that virtually guarantee fair and reasonable prices.

Some have tried to harvest this freeze defoliated cotton a bit soon, and it is counted off for the fiber not being fat enough, or something. Anyway, it all will be ready in a few days, and we just hope the gins can keep it ginned as fast as it is going to be rolling in. The weather has been perfect for cotton harvest.

CHILDREN'S CORNER YOUR BIKE

Did you know there is a great story behind that bike of yours? Let's take a look at its great-great grandparents. A Bavarian forest keeper invented the bicycle in 1816. He called it a "Hobby Horse"—and it was a crude machine—just two wheels attached to a wooden bar which the rider straddled. There were no pedals—the rider moved by pushing his feet backwards against the ground. Almost everyone has heard of the bicycle made for two. But, did you know that there was once a bicycle built for ten? It was called the Decamptole, and it was built in Massachusetts in 1896. With all ten riders pedaling, the bike could reach speeds of a mile-a-minute! The Golden Magazine for Boys and Girls has a lot to say about bikes in the current issue in an article called You and Your New Bike. It tells how to take care of them, gives hints of riding safely, explains all the different parts, and shows you why bicycling is one of America's favorite family sports.

Dates Vary For Taking Deer And Turkey

The sharp sportsman will know his hunting guide as he reads for the big game season, reports the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. This is because of the varied dates for big game hunting.

The season opens in Haskell County on November 16. The assortment of beginning and ending dates ordinarily hinges on the counties under regulatory authority of the Department and those where the harvest periods are provided directly by the State Legislature.

Most of the regulatory counties will have Saturday, Nov. 12th, for the deer season opening to permit a weekend beginning.

In the bulk of the remainder,

BLONDIE

where the dates are set by statute, the season will open Tuesday, Nov. 16th.

In the main, the season will end at the same time, on December 31. And the shooting hours basically are alike . . . from one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset.

The bag limits vary, also. In some counties, where deer over-population is a problem, a bonus third deer is permitted. The third deer, however, must be an antlerless deer and be so tagged, as provided in the regular hunting license. But a permit is needed to shoot antlerless deer.

There are other angles worthy of hunters' attention, the Department pointed out. For example, a legal buck is defined differently in some counties. Similarly, the wild turkey seasons vary as to dates, limits and kinds. In some counties only gobblers are legal game.

The Sportsman's Corner

by Dr. Joe Linduska, Remington Wild Life Expert

POWLING
 Bird on the wing has always been a hunter's most difficult target. Among the earliest firearms were "fowling pieces" which used small pellets that were more apt than the single ball to get the bird. These primitive shotguns were cumbersome and very inaccurate.

In 1831 the new sport of trap shooting came to America from England. Designed to sharpen the hunter's eye, live bird targets were released from underneath men's top hats. Because of the easier handling shotguns, it became "fashionable" even for women to compete.

Upland game, waterfowl and clay targets are popular with modern scattergunners. Grouse, quail, doves or migrating ducks and geese are fair game to today's hunters. Many discerning shotgun enthusiasts opt for the light weight Remington Model 1100 automatic shotgun, one of the most accurate for "bagging the bird."

Cotton Classing Office Opens At Munday
 The Munday Cotton Classing Office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture opened for the season Monday, October 31, with A. D. Peebles, in charge. Lateness of the crop delayed the opening of the office nearly a month this season compared to last season when it opened on October 4. Beginning this week and continuing through the harvest season, the local Cotton Division office will issue weekly news releases on cotton quality and prices for the area served by the Munday Cotton Classing Office. Classing for the week ending November 4 totaled 4,384 samples. Consumer and Marketing Service statistics for the week show about 10 per cent of the cotton in the White grades, over 80 per cent in the Light Spotted grades, and about three per cent in the Spotted grades. Leading grades were Middling Light Spotted and Strict Low Middling Light Spotted with about 40 per cent each. Staple lengths for the same period showed approximately the following ranges: 29/32, 18 per cent, 31/32, 16 per cent, and 1 inch and longer 10 per cent. Micronaire readings for the week indicate about two-thirds of the cotton was in the 3.5 to 4.9 range, about one-fourth in the 5.0 to 5.2 range and about one-tenth "miked" 5.3 and above. Average prices on the limited number of sales of early ginning mostly range from 30 to 60 points above loan value.

Methodist Youth Entertained
The MYF and sponsors were host to a youth rally in the "Baker" building which included all of the high school faculty and the faculty in Munday, on Friday night, Nov. 4.

The program included a special feature, a karate demonstration with explanations and discussion. Featured were Rev. Charles Scott and wife, Mary. Rev. Scott is Methodist Pastor in Weinert and is anxious to discuss this specialty of his faith in Christ and his chosen field, the ministry. Charles is a "1st degree Black Belt" and Mary is a "Blue Belt." They received their training in the Korean style karate at the National Karate Institute in Dallas.

In March of this year Charles won first place in U. S. finals at Oklahoma City and in May was 1st place winner in the National Open in Houston, winning the "Sportsmanship Medal" in this competition.

He will be eager to give us a better understanding of this sport and how it relates to us as Christians and are wondering about the sport as recreation.

GETS PROMOTION

O. K. Jones III, whose parents and wife, live at 1218 Hudson Road, Stamford, was promoted to First Lieutenant in Saigon, Vietnam, October 1st, where he is assigned as the accounting officer in the U. S. Army Headquarters Area Command.

Lt. Jones received his commission through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps program at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, where he received a B.B.A. degree in accounting in 1965.

He was graduated from Stamford High School in 1960.

Dissatisfied Rolling Plains cotton producers affected by a recent U. S. Department of Agriculture ruling which would penalize farmers for certain skip-row planting in the past, and greatly affects the 1967 projected yield, can have an opportunity of voicing their individual opinion of the USDA decision through means of appeal for a fair projected yield.

"Farmers across the Rolling Plains who feel their 1967 projected yield is not what it should be, or think they are not receiving the pounds they are entitled to, may appeal to their county ASCS committee," said Charles Stenholm, executive vice president of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

This possible solution of the highly controversial ruling which has been increasing in interest and opposition during the past few weeks, came out of a meeting of 125 cotton farmers and ASCS personnel from 15 counties of the Rolling Plains Thursday night in Stamford. The meeting which was called by the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., was to determine the feelings of the farmers as to what action should be taken concerning the ruling which will mean a loss of up to 4 million dollars in the Rolling Plains.

Also attending the meeting were Frank Moore of Plainview and James E. Goad of Rosebud, both State ASCS committee members; Lewis Davis, State executive ASCS director, and W. M. Hott, State program specialist.

"Although tempers flared and feelings ran high during the meeting, several routes to take were brought out into the open," Stenholm said, "But a lot of major unanswered questions still remain."

"Where are the pounds of cotton the Rolling Plains lost? Has the State of Texas received its fair and equitable projected yield? How is the projected yield for Texas derived by the USDA?"

"These are questions that no one has been capable of answering thus far," Stenholm said. "But they must be answered and soon."

Roman Legacies

The father of today's cross-country highway is the Appian Way, Rome's oldest and most famous road. The Appian Way was so well built that no repairs were needed until after 100 years of use.

Our right to vote originated with the Roman plebeians, first to elect representatives to government. The officers or tribunes sat in the Senate and showed "votum," which meant "I forbid," to stop laws injurious to the common people.

In ancient Rome salt was such a precious commodity that soldiers were paid with bags of salt or money to buy it—thus our word salary. Those Roman legacies are part of a fascinating Life Magazine series devoted to the "glory and grandeur that was Rome."
