Health and Safety Tips From AMA

FITNESS AT 40-PLUS

Many men over 40 fight their own physical fitness, says Today's Health, the family magazine of the American Medical Association.

These are individuals who assume that because of their age they are no longer capable of much physical effort. One of the greatest dangers to men past 40, says Today's Health, is falling into sedentary ways, either because of job confinement or sheer laziness.

The male past 40 is advised to do two things with regard to physical exercise—

—If he is not reasonably adept at a specific sport—bowling, golf, tennis or swimming—he should take instruction in at least one of these or some other form of physical recreation.

—He should take an inventory of his physical activity in the course of his regular daily schedule. This includes physical activity on the job and at home. It might include such chores as gardening and maintaining the home, sports activity and what he is doing in the way of regular calisthenic exercises. Often these do not provide enough activity.

For the sedentary person who decides to become more active, a good starting point is walking. This means a brisk posture walk, holding the belt line level and raising the breastbone. Then in addition to regular physical activities start devoting part of the weekend to a pleasant physical activity like golf, bowling, dancing or swimming—something that is really enjoyable.

Fifteen minutes of regular exercise every day is hardly enough to produce noticeable results quickly, but it is a good start. Over a period of time, nevertheless, its benefits will be evident.

With regular physical exercise, the sagging, dragging middle-ager will begin to exhibit a total change in his attitude. He enjoys his meals more and shows more interest in his home. Even his physical appearance is more vital.

For the man past 40 who decides to begin an exercise program, a visit to the physician for a physical examination is advisable, to make certain there are no conditions that would limit exertion.

Feb. 9 & 14

The average housewife walks nearly eight miles a day, mostly in and around her home.

How well she endures the strain depends on what's beneath the floors. Hard unyielding materials spell discomfort. The Southern Pine Association recommends a "raised platform" floor structure which utilizes the natural resiliency of lumber in a series of shock absorbers for walking comfort.

eral Nigro that current operation of STTC and the 3630th FTW as separate entities has resulted in duplication of some functions. Consolidation of these functions is being accomplished in the interest of economy, General Maddux said.

The ATC commander called attention to the "highly effective manner" in which the 3630th FTW has been accomplishing its mission, but added that its continued placement as a tenant on an ATC base is not considered to be the most efficient or the most economical method of operation.

In announcing the assignment of the 3630th to Sheppard Technical Training Center under General Nigro's command, General Maddux also pointed out that the establishment of a "single manager" concept of operation for all mission activities at Sheppard will reduce coordination problems, permit better resource management and enhance decision-making locally as well as within the headquarters.

Col. Frank L. Gailer Jr., who has commanded the 3630th FTW since its organization under a unique tri-deputy operation, will continue in this capacity under the overall command of the STTC commander, General Nigro.

COMMUNITY AUCTION

Citizens of the Burkburnett area are urged to clean out their closets, garages, attics, and business houses. Articles which are no longer of use to you may be of use to someone else.

A Community Auction will be held in the building formerly occupied by the Shamburger Lumber Company on Saturday, March 4, at 9:30 a. m.

Again the citizens of our community are banding together to help meet our needs.

The Youth Center Board of Directors have initiated a much needed expansion program to enlarge the present facility. The original Youth Center building was built in early 1950 when Burkburnett's population was only approximately 4,500. With the present population of 9,000 residents, also an average of 1,500 children using the Center WEEKLY, additional area is imperative to be able to offer a satisfactory program for the youth in the Burkburnett community.

Organizations who are members of the Community Service Council have endorsed the Community Auction as a means to raise funds for the Youth Center's building program and have pledged their support.

Anyone willing to help this worthy project by donating cash or articles for the Auction Sale are to bring their donations to the Shamburger Lumber Company building located at 200 West Third Street on the following days and time schedule.

WEDNESDAYS

February 15 or 22 From 3:00 To 5:00 P. M.

SATURDAYS

February 18 Or 25 From 10:00 To 12:00 A. M. Or 2:00 To 4:00 P. M.

If you have articles too large to carry in your car, please call 569-2221 and either the Jaycees or Decca organizations will pick up these articles and deliver them for you.

Alvin Hill, Chairman of the Youth Committee of the Community Service Council said, "Let us show our youth we are interested in their welfare and future by taking the time to gather articles for this sale which will help defray the cost of upgrading the Youth Center to meet today's needs."

Plans Underway For Youth Center Benefit Auction On March 4th

Community cooperation, Burkburnett's greatest resource, is being mined again as the citizenry prepares for a Texas-size auction sale for the benefit of the building fund of the Burkburnett Youth Center.

Although the auction sale will not be held until Saturday, March 4, items are already being received at the showroom, the former Shamburger Lumber Company building on West Third Street.

These range from a tiny perfume bottle to the three-quarter antique hand carved bed made in Jefferson County more than 100 years ago.

Local business houses have been asked to donate shelf-worn merchandise to the auction, but Jack Aaron couldn't find any at the Burkburnett Bank, of which he is president. So, he did the next best thing, donating $100 in new currency. Then, to show that bankers have been as well as heart, he helped the Jaycee crew unload one of their truck collections.

Regular collection hours have been arranged for each Wednesday and Saturday prior to auction day, with men's and student's organizations volunteering to handle collection trucks.

Women's organizations are supplying volunteers to tag and classify each item as it is brought in.

Faculty Contracts Renewed At Burkburnett

The Burkburnett School Board has announced renewal of faculty contracts, including those of the athletic coaching staff.

Receiving one year contracts were Cecil Devine, Bob Carpenter, Pat Smiley, Mike Bridges, Frank Mitchell and Stanley Owen. Head coach Bill Froman had previously received a three-year contract.

Two-year contracts have also been approved for the principals in the school system: James Pearson, high school; Walter Koller, athletic director; Carl Dixon, junior high school; Morris Simonson, Hardin elementary; Bill Weatherford, Southside elementary; and Earl Brown, Sheppard-Burkburnett elementary school.

Resignations were received from Connie Ramsey, Karen Graham, Mary Hastings and Sylvia Patterson.

Dow Estes, tax assessor-collector, reported collection of $168,727.82 from the current roll and $4,656.24 from the delinquent roll.

The board voted to join the Southwest Educational Development Laboratory and to accept a front end alignment machine for the auto mechanics work shop.

Patio Added At City Youth Center

The Burkburnett Youth Center has been enlarged to include a fenced patio. Financing and building of the patio was a project of the Burkburnett Jaycees.

The Youth Center building committee had estimated the cost of the patio and fence would be $1,200. By contributing the man-hours necessary to the construction, Jaycee members shaved about $500 from the estimated cost. Use of the dirt-moving equipment was contributed by the County Commissioner's office.

Youth Center dances and a Jaycee sponsored donkey ball game furnished funds for building the patio, according to Jaycee Project Chairman, Eddie Reed and Byron Key.

AN INVARIABLE PATTERN

Whenever a controversy arises concerning the expansion of a government activity that displaces a private function, the reasons given follow an invariable pattern — the government activity is being expanded in the name of the public good and any private concern or business that opposes the move is placed in the position of obstructing progress. This has been the justification for federal involvement in everything from urban renewal to medicare to natural resources, electric power development and so forth. Last year a good example was the prolonged and partially successful campaign to expand parcel post service.

The investor owned common carriers of express emphasized that the public interest would be best served by preserving a strong common carrier express system. As usual promoters of government in business pictured the discussions as merely a controversy between the Post Office Department and the private package carrying companies. The fact that the private companies were providing a service that would otherwise be unavailable to shippers, and that the public interest most emphatically lay in preserving the services of these companies, was widely overlooked in the clamor to find more revenue for parcel post.

During recent hearings on regulatory matters before the Interstate Commerce Commission, an inkling of the express companies' true role in the transport system was revealed in testimony from various sources including the Department of Agriculture which termed private express service, "necessary for the continued improvement and prosperity of rural America." It added that shippers "should have available to them as many types and modes of transport as possible."

The public interest is not always automatically served by constant enlargement of government in business nor is ever bigger government synonymous with progress.

Preserve Freedom In U. S. Also

Shortly after last fall's election, one northern Congressman commented that candidates running for reelection from Right-to-Work states who had favored repeal of the right-to-work clause (14b) in the Taft-Hartley Act " . . . were murdered in this election." Scores of labor backed candidates went down to defeat and right-to-work was one of the fundamental issues contributing to their defeat. As the Carter County News-Times of Morehead City, North Carolina, notes: "In every campaign where explanation was given of the stands of the candidates, voters overwhelmingly rejected those who advocated that a person must join the union or lose his job."

At a time when the people of the United States are involved in a war 9,000 miles from home to preserve the basic right of self-determination of a small nation, it is not surprising that they turned thumbs down on candidates for public office who advocate the destruction of a basic right of self-determination for the individual in our own land. The unions will hurt rather than help the cause of organized labor if they persist in efforts to destroy the right to work without paying tribute to a union treasury.

"WORSE OFF TODAY"

The results of many years of a "little bit of inflation" are beginning to be felt, and the public is apparently becoming aware to some degree that government fiscal policies can breed inflation. Finding of a recent survey conducted by the Opinion Research Corporation show that 8 out of 10 people surveyed are concerned about inflation. Seventy-one per cent feel that the best way to curb it is through reduction of federal spending.

The grimmest findings of the survey dealt with inflation's impact on people. It revealed that the effects of inflation are being felt more seriously by the elderly and those with little education. More than 4 in 10 persons, 60 years and older, report that they are "worse off today" than a year ago. These are the very people who are supposed to be helped the most by Medicare, Medicaid, Social Security and all the other paraphernalia of the expanding welfare state.

No matter how worthy the goals of government programs, unless they are within the means of the taxpayers to support, they will end in the spreading of impoverishment as inflation saps the strength and character of our people.

-Cold Facts About Treating the Common Cold

1. While scientists have not discovered a cure for the common cold, there is much you can do to reduce the chances of catching cold. Stay away from sneezers and coughers. Avoid getting overworked, wet or chilled; stay out of stuffy, crowded, over-heated rooms.

2. If you do catch a cold, stay home. Don't take it to other people. Get plenty of rest, eat sensibly, drink an extra amount of liquids, keep warm.

3. Keep your cold from spreading by covering your mouth and nose when you cough or sneeze. A cough can spray germs a distance of 12 to 15 feet.

4. Take an effective cold medication to relieve your sniffles, sneezes and stuffy nose. You can now get all-day and all-night relief — thanks to Contac, the unique capsule which contains over 600 "tiny time" pills that work over a 12-hour period.

Roger W. Babson Weekly Report

ROGER W. BABSON

Babson's Point of View On: HIGHER TAXES

Babson Park, Mass. — The great debate is in full swing in Washington, President Johnson has asked for a hike in corporate and individual income taxes. He calls the proposed increase a 6% "surcharge." This will be levied on the tax itself, figured at prevailing rates—and will be added at the end of the form. Hence, as the President intends, the new tax can be easily removed as soon as the emergency in Vietnam is over.

Battle Lines Drawn

A storm of charges and counter charges has been stirred up by Mr. Johnson's recommendation. Criticism is not aimed at the kind of tax. First, the amount—around $5 billion—is not very heavy in relation to a nearly $800-billion economy . . . nor contrasted with a budget close to $135 billion. Second, the low-income citizen can hardly get excited; for it is intended that a family with two children have $5,000 taxable income exempted.

The big battle is between economists and would-be economists. One camp holds that the private area of our economy is already in a recession (they say this is obscured by the tremendous surge in arms production. In the opposite corner are the anti-inflation forces (they maintain that the federal budget is already out of whack and any further bulge in the deficit will start inflationary fires raging again).

Enter Politics

As you may guess, such a brawl among the intellectuals is a made-to-order opportunity for our politicians in the Capital. And they have jumped in with both feet. Republicans and some conservative Democrats are demanding that no tax change be considered until the President's spending proposals have been gone over with a fine-tooth comb. Their cry: Cut spending to balance the budget!

Across the aisle, however, the banners of the Great Society have been raised. Despite defections at the conservative fringes, there is a hard core of determination. It is emphasized that the United States is strong enough to meet its commitments both at home and abroad. Surely—the Democratic argument runs—we are not going to abandon the underprivileged and the needy when the country is spending less than 9% of its annual Gross National Product on total defense.

Wait and See

Through the smoke of battle only one signpost can be seen. It points to a delay of months before any final decision on a tax boost may be reached by Congress. Working on the side of procrastination is the Democratic conviction that the Republicans will be able to cut out tiny slices from the over-stuffed Administration budget. They are confident that, although the opposition may be strong enough to obstruct, they certainly do not have the power to launch a successful attack.

Then, too, those with an eye on what the economists are saying are quite happy to adopt a wait-and-see policy for the next few months. This applies to both Republicans and Democrats. They feel that by late spring or early summer more will be known about the health and well-being of our business body. Then will be time enough to take the unpleasant action.

War the Key

Right now the odds favor some kind of "surcharge" tax this year. But the decision is not for the U.S.A. alone to make. All the hue and cry about the health of the private sector of the economy may make good headlines. Surely, however, no one expects that the nation is going to slip far into recession in the next six months if the war continues in Southeast Asia. Hence, if Ho Chi Minh is still avoiding truce talks by midsummer, the country will undoubtedly have higher taxes by year end.

Yet, it must not be forgotten that there is another side to the coin . . . hopefully a brighter one. Should Hanoi decide before autumn that talking could be more profitable than fighting, we freely predict that the 90th Congress would not vote for a bigger tax bite. That is why we say the war is the key to a tax or no.

Top Tree Topples

WAYNESBORO, Miss. — The nation's top magnolia tree, believed to be more than 400 years old and accepted by the American Forestry Assn. as champion among its species, has been felled by dry rot and decay.

The stately southern magnolia grandiflora which stood in the southwest corner of Wayne County, was 116 feet tall with a crown diameter of 56 feet. The entire top of the dead tree has fallen to the ground and all that remains is a naked stem 60 feet high.

Subsidized Retirement

EFFECTIVE September 1, seamen's pensions were increased from $150 to $175 a month, and one may retire and begin receiving this pension after twenty years of service, regardless of age. To take an extreme case, suppose a young man of eighteen becomes a seaman. Not only does he draw $558 per month plus room and board while at sea, plus many hours of highly paid overtime, plus five days of vacation for every thirty days of service, but he may retire on full pension at age thirty-eight. Now suppose he lives on, as many do, to age seventy-eight. That means he will be drawing a pension of at least $175 a month (plus increases that are expected from year to year) for a full forty years. In other words, he works twenty years, but is paid for sixty years.

Some will argue that after he retires as a seaman he will take another job. This is probably true, but the cost of his twenty years of work to American shippers will be the total amount of pay he receives over the sixty year period. This has nothing to do with whatever he may earn in other ways following his retirement. It is generally known, I believe, that the shipping companies do not and cannot pay these high emoluments. They mostly are operating cost subsidies by the federal government to the extent of approximately $200 million a year, not counting construction cost subsidies. That subsidy comes out of the pockets of the American taxpayers and has nothing to do with the non-existent earnings of the shipping companies. Shipping costs are based on the twenty years of service rendered by this man, plus the pensions he receives for the ensuing forty years. Many Americans such as myself continue to work on to sixty-five, seventy and seventy-five years of age in order to have something to contribute toward the pension of this young man who retires at age thirty-eight.

The wage level of American seamen is four times as much as foreign seamen, and the ships they sail cost twice as much as ships built abroad. The government (not the operator) pays 72 cents out of every dollar in wages earned aboard a subsidized ship. That is why our American ships would be off the seas entirely were it not for the federal subsidy. It is also one of the very important reasons why our country is losing, in fact has long since already lost, its competitive position, not to mention leadership in maritime transportation. Not enough is being produced for every worker to retire at age thirty-eight and be maintained the rest of his life on pension. Some are able to do so only because they have succeeded in high-jacking other Americans who must continue to work at advanced ages. Do you see anything fair or just about that? It illustrates the well known maxim that every government intervention in the economic activities of the people means less goods and services at higher prices for the public.

Family FINANCIAL PROTECTION

Policyholder Questions Answered by the Institute of Life Insurance 277 Park Ave., N.Y., N.Y., 10017

Q. I have several life insurance policies. Rather than naming specific beneficiaries for each policy, wouldn't it be simpler to make them all payable to my estate, and then leave instructions in my will for disposing of all the proceeds?
A. It wouldn't necessarily be simpler. It would likely involve some unnecessary expense for you and your beneficiaries. And it might cause unnecessary problems. First of all, keeping your beneficiary designations up-to-date in your life insurance policies isn't usually very complicated. Your life insurance agent will be glad to help you make any changes that may be necessary from time to time — as your family's needs change, or if an intended beneficiary should die before you do. There is no charge for your agent's service.

Changing the terms of your will generally is more complicated and may involve legal fees. (Of course, you should definitely have a will and make sure that it is up-to-date.)

Also, disposing of the proceeds of your life insurance via your will is likely to increase the cost of probating your estate. And payment of the proceeds to your family may be delayed during the probate process, at a time when they may need money. But a beneficiary named in a policy normally receives payment within a day or so after the policyholder's death. There may be several other important advantages in naming a specific person as beneficiary — for instance, the lifetime income options in your policy.

However, unusual estate problems occasionally outweigh all these factors and make it preferable to name the estate as beneficiary. If you have such problems, you should talk them over with your lawyer, as well as your insurance agent.

WHERE TO USE PERFUME? FIND YOUR HEART-BEAT!

Apply it to every pulse spot, and each beat of your heart will warm and diffuse the fragrance. The nearest jack-o-hearts is honor-bound to respond. Make the test with Escapade, a romantic fragrance that is all jasmin and lilac and roses. St. Valentine's Day in the morning! It's lovely!

Escapade, anyone? Right about now, when the snow and the sleet and the rain and the wind and the cold and the sniffles and the sneezes and the snoring have become just a bit too much, wouldn't you like to have a little escapade for yourself? Something zinky, springy, sparkling and unexpected? A sure start might be to breathe yourself in a provocative, persuasive new cologne. One of the world's famous perfume "noses", Dr. Oliver Marton, of Shulton Inc. recommends a fresh, modern blend of lilac, jasmin and pink roses, with a romantic topnote and a light touch of precious woods. Um-m-m! How could Friend, Husband, or Light-of-love resist? This heady aura may well lead to a sly little escapade for your memory book. Or conjure up the dream anyway, which is half the fun! How about St. Valentine's Day, or before, or after, for that matter? Somebody's heart is likely to beat faster, if it's only yours! Just pop a drop of Escapade on your old popliteal* and call it a saucy, piquant accent for your personality.

TAX REQUIREMENTS FOR STUDENTS

Students who work during the summer and earn less than $600 are not required to file an income tax return. Unmarried students who earned less than $900 usually don't owe any tax. However, it is very important for students to file a tax return if they worked during the year and income tax was withheld from their wages. They must file if they expect to get their refund. Just like Dad, most students like to get a refund.

SPRINGBOARD

IF YOUR child's mattress can stand up under this kind of treatment, chances are it's the type recommended by orthopedic specialists to provide the firm support vital to proper growth. According to Justine Hannon, Director of Nursing at the Hospital for Joint Diseases in New York City, the school-aged child should have a durable, resilient mattress that provides even support for his growing body. Steel inner-spring mattresses—such as the ones being "tested" above—supply proper support at four critical growth points: the neck, trunk, pelvis and legs. Mattresses that sag, Miss Hannon points out, not only fail to support these vital growth points but build up an uncomfortable cushion of heat by clinging to the body's contour. Innerspring mattresses, carrying up to 600 steel coils, permit free circulation of air within the mattress while firmly supporting the body with accommodating resiliency.

End Threat Of Moisture On Windows

Maintaining a healthful degree of humidity inside a house — enough moist air to prevent stuffed-up noses, raspy throats and dried-out furniture and floors — can cause the unwelcome problem of window condensation. Condensation occurs when warm inside air hits a window that has been chilled by cold outside air. The clash causes water to form on the sash and pane. It fogs up the glass and drips down the window sill causing damage to wallpaper, drapery and rugs.

To control the problem windows must offer good insulation. Wood windows with weatherstripping and insulating glass are the best protection. As a low conductor of heat and cold and a natural insulator, wood will not turn cold even in relatively frigid weather. Tests show that a stock wood window of ponderosa pine with factory-applied weatherstripping will prevent temperature clashes — and condensation — even when the outside thermometer registers 30 degrees below zero. High conductor sash materials such as steel and aluminum will transmit the cold and cause condensation at about 20 degrees above zero.

Additional protection is afforded with insulating glass in wood sash or storm sash over single-paned wood windows. Humid air touching insulating glass in wood sash will condense only under extreme weather conditions. Since insulating glass is now available in all stock units of ponderosa pine, it's possible to provide maximum window insulation in every room in the house.

Control of condensation is important in any home during the winter months, but particularly when using electric heat, which allows a higher degree of humidity than other fuels. With electric heat, humidity can be kept at a comfortable and healthful 27 to 30 percent. To forestall resultant condensation problems from this increased humidity, many electric utilities recommend wood windows for electrically-heated homes.

Medicines cause most accidental poisonings in children. Aspirin heads the list. Children under 5 years of age who swallowed aspirin were the victims in one-fourth of all cases of accidental poisonings reported last year to the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers. The potential poisons appear to be available to children upstairs, downstairs and all through the house.

Blue And Gold Banquet

A most enjoyable evening was had by all present at the Annual Blue and Gold Banquet of Cub Scout Pack 151, on Thursday, Feb. 9.

The Town Hall was festively decorated with the Cub Scout colors, Blue and Gold, and a beautiful Blue and Gold Birthday Cake adorned the center table. The Scouts, parents and guests gathered this night to celebrate the 57th year of scouting.

Dinner consisted of either roast beef or chicken with all the trimmings, and was very delicious, thanks to the excellent catering of the Derrick Restaurant.

After the introductions of guests and pack members, the Cubs entertained their parents with songs and skits.

The conclusion of the banquet came with the cutting of the lovely birthday cake and it was distributed to 102 guests. The cake was presented to the pack from its sponsor, St. John the Divine Church.

A lot of hard work and time went into the banquet, but seeing the happiness and excitement of all the boys, certainly made it worthwhile.

Thanks to all for a most delightful evening.

New Racing Club Formed In Burk

A slot car club has been formed in Burkburnett and has been named the Eliminators. The purpose of this club is to Promote Sportsmanship, improve racing as a sport, to maintain and create interest in slot car racing and to improve the image of slot car racing as a family activity.

The club holds regular meetings every Friday night at the Action Hobby Shop at 7:00 p. m.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

If your refrigerator seems to be frosting up excessively, here are a couple of things you might check to improve the situation. First, carefully examine the rubber seal around the door. If the rubber has dried or lost its resilience, it could be causing an air leak in the door. It should be replaced. Second, try checking the temperature control. If it is too low, it could be causing the freezing unit to over-ice. A third thing to watch is leaving foods uncovered. The moisture in the food just adds to the frosting problem.

MIDTOWN AIRLIFT

Sikorsky Aircraft Helicopter model picking up Budd Skylounge for trip to airport. Forty passengers on a Skylounge would be airlifted from downtown Los Angeles to airport.

Los Angeles—(HK)—A Skylounge transit system that would pick up passengers from various points in the city and then fly to the airport by helicopter may be in the offing.

The Skylounge concept, according to Clifton A. Moore, deputy general manager of the Los Angeles Department of Airports, calls for passengers to travel between the inner city and the airport in a helicopter-borne bus, or lounge.

A $735,000, one-year study of the feasibility of the system is now underway. Demonstration equipment will be constructed and put into operation if the study warrants.

The Budd Company of Philadelphia, Pa., has designed the lounge for the program. The helicopter that would carry it is the famed Sikorsky Aircraft "Sky-crane." The lounge, which would be hauled on the ground by a prime mover, would pick up passengers and their luggage at various points in the city and then be flown to the airport from a central terminal.

Moore and other project officials say the study marks the first time that serious consideration has been given to a combined air-ground, intra-city transportation network.

A Skylounge system, they say, could cut travel time for the 15-mile trip from downtown Los Angeles to Los Angeles International Airport from one hour to about eight minutes. The system could also be adapted to the needs of other metropolitan areas.

Two-thirds of the study is financed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, about 25 percent by the City of Los Angeles, and the remainder by the project's several participants.

COOK IT YOURSELF

Keep food costs down by preparing more foods yourself. This could mean more time in the store and more work in the kitchen. Lets use meat as an example since it takes the largest portion of your food dollar. Consider the cuts that require more preparation in the kitchen and longer cooking time. Boneless stew beef that has been cut and trimmed for you in the store is twice as costly as beef plate and considerably more than the blade chuck. You and your trusty carving knife can make your own stew beef in just the size pieces you like and with just the right amount of fat.

GALS GOOD WITH MONEY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Nearly two-thirds of the employees in banks today are women, and half the officers in your local bank are likely to be women by 1957, the president of the National Association of Bank Women told Minnesota members of the association at a meeting here. Miss Eleanor A. Kropf, second vice-president of the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York City, reported that women have been entering banking, which was once completely "man's work," very rapidly since World War II.

A-HUNTING WE WILL GO

More than 20 million Americans each year head for where the game is. With equipment in hand and faithful Rover by his side, the American hunter joyfully goes back to nature. And whether he takes the family or goes it alone, he often spends more than a week or so camping out while hunting. To make the hunt happy, here are some tips:

Waiting in the duck blind in the early morning can get cold and damp. Keep spirits up and hopes high by having coffee handy—kept hot in the new unbreakable stainless steel Thermos brand vacuum bottles.

Avoid lugging everything but the kitchen sink on hunting trips by making equipment do double duty. For example, a "Thermos" ice chest can keep food fresh for days out in the field, then be used to bring home small game.

Whatever the weather, the right sleeping bag can be just as comfortable as your own bed at home. The new "Thermos" sleeping bags are use-rated to help you choose the proper one for your sleeping conditions.

Whether hunting or camping, take along a Pop-Tent to be set up next to your camp trailer for an extra bedroom.

Hospital At Base Receives New Ultrasonoscope

Sheppard AFE — The USAF Hospital at Sheppard Air Force Base has recently acquired a revolutionary diagnostic instrument to its medical equipment inventory, according to Col. Q. J. Serenati, hospital commander.

The new instrument, the Ekoline 20 Ultrasonoscope, utilizes ultra-sound in a principal similar to sonar. It is a rapid and harmless test used to determine displacement of internal body structures by interpretation of echoes reflected in a cathode ray tube.

The Ekoline 20 is currently used in Neurology to determine location of internal head injury, but is capable of and will be used in localizing foreign bodies in the eye, liver or kidney, in measuring the head size of babies prior to birth, and in analyzing the size of abnormal fluid collections around the heart.

While rapidity of testing and portability are two of its attractive features, it is also harmless to the patient because of the low intensity of the sound. Its use will avoid the necessity of performing other painful and more difficult diagnostic procedures on the patient. The Ultrasonoscope is another piece of medical equipment placed in the hospital inventory so that the Air Force Community at Sheppard will be assured of the best possible health care and services when in Sheppard's USAF Hospital.

Labeled for PROTECTION

Some medicines may be taken internally; others are for external use only; therefore labels caution us as to their proper use. These precautions are for our own protection and good.

All things in life are not so clearly marked as to their proper use. The Bible is our source and guide, our label.

Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path.

Psalm 119, 105

ATTEND CHURCH, STUDY GOD'S WORD

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

AUSTIN — Texas legislators are at work on Gov. John Connally's recommendations for raising $144,200,000 in new taxes which include a "surprise" proposal to legalize the sale of liquor by the drink.

His local option, mixed-drink endorsement was the major bombshell in an otherwise predictable package based on boosts or adjustments in old-standby sales and business taxes and a transfer of farm road financing to the highway fund.

House Revenue and Tax Committee hearings are due to get underway immediately. Legislative leaders acknowledge some bitter controversies are upcoming for the first major revenue program advanced since Connally took over the governor's office.

In his 25-minute speech to a joint session of the House and Senate, Connally outlined his views on how to raise the $971,500,000 necessary to carry out his general revenue spending program for the next two years.

Here, in summary, is the governor's tax program:

- Repeal the sales tax exemption on all alcoholic beverages, effective July 1. (Should yield $26,000,000.)

- Increase the gasoline tax 1c a gallon (from 5c to 6c), effective July 1. (Since $24,400,000 of the additional revenue automatically would go to the available school fund, general revenue of this amount would be freed for legislative appropriation. Tax raise would add $73,200,000 to the state highway fund.)

- Repeal the 1949 Colson-Briscoe Act's general revenue allocation of $15,000,000 a year to farm-to-market roads and leave financing of these roads to the highway department. ($30,000,000 general revenue gain.)

- Tax distilled spirits and wine sold by the drink at licensed establishments five-cents-an-ounce. ($15,000,000 gain.)

- Increase the corporation franchise tax rate from $2.25 per $1,000 to $3. ($30,900,000.)
- Raise the natural gas production tax from seven to eight per cent of wellhead value, effective July 1. ($17,800,000.)

Connally said he had tried to fashion "an equitable plan which will impose the least possible burden upon the individual and business taxpayers of this state."

He emphasized that he recommends legalizing liquor by the drink only on a local-option basis and under "strict regulation" with punishment by revocation of licenses for repeat sales of liquor to minors. He hit at the existing "subterfuge" which now permits serving of mixed drinks through "so-called private clubs."

"It is time to bring this matter into the open," the governor said. "It is my considered opinion that a far-more-wholesome climate will prevail if liquor can be sold by the drink, legally and under tight regulation."

Connally got his biggest applause when he said he would NOT recommend a state college-university tuition increase.

Pay Hike Urged
 The Legislature has unanimously petitioned the governor to submit as an emergency interim pay raise for all state employees.

Connally did not mention this request in his address, however. If such a raise would be voted, to take effect immediately, another $5,500,000 in general revenue would have to be raised.

Connally's budget includes an overall-average 20 per cent pay raise for the state government workers, effective September 1.

It is not an across-the-board 20% raise. Raises would vary widely by salary groups. For example, lower paid workers would be raised from $2,640 a year to $3,024 (approximately 12%) and those in highest classifications from $12,830 to $17,784 (nearly 39%). This means a $32 a month raise to the little fellow and $412 per month in this high salary brackets.

Connally last week added $19,000,000 to his spending recommendations for another purpose—to raise to the maximum authorized by a 1963 constitutional amendment welfare grants for the needy aged, blind, families with dependent children and the disabled and to implement the Title 19 program of federal state aid to the indigent.

Ag Report
 Texas agriculture is failing to attain its reasonable production potential by as much as a billion dollars a year, the House Interim Committee on Agriculture has found.

This suggests that Texas agriculture is now operating at only one-half to two-thirds of its capability," the report says.

Committee made three recommendations. They are to set up a Coordinating Board to set agriculture goals, compile annual agri-business statistics, county-by-county, for planning and programming, and pass legislation to permit agriculture to provide funds of its own for research and promotion.

Attorney General Speaks
 Students at state-supported colleges no longer are required to take a "loyalty oath" in the opinion of Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin.

Martin said the 1949 act which required the oath of students and faculty was altered in 1963 by a law covered only paid employees of the school. Some legislators are considering a bill to put students back under the law.

In other opinions, Martin held:

—District court judges who are members of county juvenile boards must be paid an additional $325 a month in salaries, and county commissioners cannot pay less.

—Parks and Wildlife Department has authority to issue depredation permits for killing of wild birds or animals in Dimmitt, Uvalde and Zavala Counties.

—A person convicted of a felony and given a suspended sentence is not barred from applying for and receiving probation under the misdemeanor probation act.

—Texas inheritance tax provision concerning use of the "resident decedent's" entire estate wherever situated as a factor in determining the rate to be applied to succession of property is constitutional.

—Presidio Co. Hospital District can levy a tax for initiating operation of the district.

To Have Or Not to Have

The on-again, off-again proposal to make Guadalupe Mountain lands into a national park is off again, but perhaps only temporarily.

A halt that slowed the progress of Texas' transfer of Guadalupe Mountain lands came when Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler went before the Senate Committee on Counties and urged that the rugged lands be made into a state park.

Committee had voted to report the bill favorably, subject to insertion of a corrective amendment if needed.

Possible amendment would provide a safeguard against any subsequent federal legislation that might deprive the state of its bounty in the event of oil or mineral production.

Sadler, however, presented his views and summed up with a declaration that minerals alone, "in a short period of time would more than pay for the total cost of the establishment of a state-owned park in the Guadalupe Mountain area."

Committee members directed that the bill be held back for a hearing and further action later.

Redistricting Clouded

Two recent Supreme Court decisions invalidating congressional districts of 128 and 104 per cent population disparities in Indiana and Missouri may renew the reapportionment fight in Texas.

House Speaker Ben Earnes fears the court may turn down the 1965 Texas redistricting acts. Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham, chairman of the House Redistricting Committee, hopes to discuss the matter with a Houston federal court which passed on the Texas act and indicated some disapproval but never issued any standards of population tolerance.

Mutscher proposes to appoint three study groups on guidelines for congressional districting, standards for reapportionment of the House and to sample opinions of legislators on districts for their areas.

Short Snorts
 Texas has intervened in the suit filed in the U. S. District Court of Maryland against W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Labor, testing the constitutionality of an amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act, applying federal minimum wage laws to state hospital and college employees.

A. C. Turner of Walker County has been named by Judge K. K. Woodley of the Court of Criminal Appeals to another term on the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Board of Pardons and Paroles has elected Pat Bullock of Colorado City as Chairman for the two year term ending Feb. 1, 1969, and James Berger of Austin has been named Director of Parole Sdpervision for the State of Texas.

Texas Highway Department officials say more than 6,700,000 motor vehicles will be registered in Texas in 1967, and car owners are urged to purchase their license plates early.

Senate confirmed Burton G. Hackney, Brownfield, as state commissioner of public welfare. State Board of Insurance, in a new report, defends the often-criticized auto-rate-regulation practices.

Weatherstrip Locks Out Air Seepage

Even the best heating and cooling systems can't do a good job if air is seeping in and out of doors and windows.

For this reason, properly-installed, tight-fitting weatherstripping around window sash and doors is essential to the efficient functioning of your heating system and air conditioner. Just as important, it can save precious fuel dollars from flying out the window.

The ability of weatherstripping to cut air infiltration, heat loss and fuel bills has been proven with tests on a five-room house in 12 locations throughout the country. It was found that air seepage through non-weatherstripped windows and doors can account for as much as 37 percent of total heat loss.

On the other hand, effective weatherstripping like that which is factory-applied to ponderosa pine stock wood windows cuts infiltration loss to a minimum. This reduces fuel costs by about 24 percent, or an actual saving of between $15 and $38 per heating season for an average five-room house.

Wood Sash Ups House Comfort

Proper windows can help give your home maximum comfort and minimal maintenance. For example, stock windows of ponderosa pine with insulating glass cut heat loss, prevent drafts and guard against bothersome condensation. Wood units are treated with a chemical preservative to prevent weather abuse, and many styles have tilt or lift-out sash to make window washing easier.

By Mary Whitman

The dog in Noah's ark may have been an Afghan. Some Afghanistans tribes think so. Historians have traced that dog back to the Sinal Peninsula, at any rate, where Moses received the ten commandments.

Dogs have a history that parallels that of people — and may have begun well before then. Dog lovers will enjoy boning up on the facts in a new volume called Dogs of the World, part of the World Library series of Whitman Publishing Company, Racine, Wis. In Egypt the Greyhound has been known for 3500 years, and the royal Saluki dog even longer than that, for he appeared on Sumerian carvings six thousand years ago.

A dog known as far back as 4000 to 5000 B.C. is the Norwegian Elkhound, who once hunted with Stone Age men, and later helped the Vikings. The small and lovable single once rode in boats with sails of painted skin. He was one of the famous Celtic dogs imported to Italy along with grain, gold and silver. The Collie, a hardworking sheepdog, never made the grade socially until Queen Victoria took a liking to him; he is still popular today. The proud Dalmation, on the other hand, once posed for Greek sculptors. He may have come from India originally. At one time he traveled with packs of gypsies, and in general led a checkered life.

Youngsters will enjoy the chapter called "Your Dog." After a steeping of history, it tells how to buy a dog and train and feed him.

A book of this kind, available at variety stores, makes learning a game for schoolgoers, and adults may want to read it aloud at the den meeting or story hour.

Dogs are a hobby the whole family can share.

THAT OLD DEVIL SUN. The nomadic Bedouin tribesman fought the harsh effects of the sun and sand by wearing a long covering called a djellaba (jell-a-ba). Today, during the sunny season we wear less clothes rather than more and expose our skin to the drying rays of the sun. In Colonial India, Maharajahs had special servants who did little but shade their masters with large umbrellas. In the frequent 100-degree heat, British army men wore solar topees and their wives wore veils without long-sleeved dresses and parasols.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing. TRIMMING AWAY THE FAT. The ordinary American, who finds the keeping of his checkbook a not inconsiderable task, surely must be stunned at the size and complexity of the federal budget proposed by President Johnson. Congress, with all its experts on fiscal matters, will be many weeks, if not months, unraveling all the threads of spending that Mr. Johnson has spun in the budget. Yet every American, housewife as well as professional economist, can grasp the single most important feature of the budget: it is "super-colossal," to use a fanciful term employed by Hollywood motion picture producers. Indeed the administration budget is like a Hollywood production in all its lavishness. It is true, of course, that a large part of the budget goes for necessary expenditures such as national defense. The American people can't afford to skimp on their own security. However, even here economy-minded congressmen should carefully scrutinize proposed spending. Leaving defense aside, it is clear from the budget that Mr. Johnson intends not simply to have guns and butter, but guns and caviar and champagne. He hasn't proposed any reduction in lavish Great Society spending. On the contrary, the administration Washington Post correctly points out that "outlays for health, education and general welfare programs are budgeted to rise." It adds that "the Great Society programs should be stronger on July 1, 1969 than they are at the present time." This means that Mr. Johnson has refused to heed the warning yellow light flashed by the voters in the fall congressional elections. The Great Society was a major issue, and the voters sent a much-reinforced Republican contingent to Congress because of opposition to giveaways. It is unfortunate that Mr. Johnson has not paid attention to the warning light. This is the time to cut down on unnecessary spending. Consider the farm subsidy program, for instance. Today the U.S. has greatly depleted its former agricultural surpluses. This means that America is in an ideal position to get rid of the New Deal style farm programs and to shift agriculture to a free market economy. Farmers and consumers could be happy at the same time, with an end to quotas and controls and subsidies. But Mr. Johnson has refused to take such reasonable action. Instead, he has budgeted $3.2 billion for farm subsidies and another $1.8 billion for international food giveaways. The latter never won a friend for Uncle Sam. Foreign aid has fewer and fewer friends in Congress. Even some of the milder liberals now realize that this kind of aid is "rat hole" assistance. Yet Mr. Johnson proposes to spend $3.2 billion on foreign aid. It will go to countries such as Egypt, which is doing Russia's business in the Middle East, and to Haiti, the voodoo republic in the Caribbean that has a bloody-handed dictatorship that includes communists in its cabinet. Mr. Johnson's determination to carry on the Great Society extravaganzas is evident in his proposal that $18.3 billion be devoted to anti-poverty measures and related programs in the welfare field. This is part of the budget that should receive principal attention from the revived conservative coalition in Congress. All good Americans are for health, education and welfare. But the question is one of means. The private sector of the economy, working with local communities and the states, is the best sector to handle such matters. Free enterprise is the real employer of our working population, and labor training and related programs should be based on what businessmen — practical citizens — determine is wise and necessary. Indeed the best way to uplift poor families is to help the head of the family find a job. The way to provide new jobs is to ease the tax burdens on business and to give business incentives to invest more in new plants and services. Yet the Great Society penalizes business, and tries to put the government into the act at every level. This system can't succeed; it can't help the poor citizen in the long run. If the 90th Congress is a sensible Congress, it will trim the fat from the administration budget and give our enterprising people a chance to create a wider prosperity.
