FROM BAD TO WORSE

THE GROWING DEBT

When visionaries insist upon federal spending beyond our tax productive capacity to pay — at some point Mr. and Mrs. America will be pressed to call a halt to the accelerated federal spending, which places our children and their children's children in hock.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa), in commenting on the annual Economic Report to the Nation, said that the net public and private debt of this country as of January 1, 1967, was one trillion, 368 billion, 300 million dollars. That's an increase of 98 billion, dollars in the twelve months since January 1, 1966, and an increase of 420 billion, 600 million dollars since January, 1961 — making us the worst debt-ridden nation in the world. The federal debt alone exceeds that of all other governments in the world combined.

Isn't it about time that our legislators, federal, state, county and local, started to flyspeck — and to make sure that for every dollar spent we can be assured of value received?

RAILROADS IN ACTION

It has long been a sad but true fact that our educational institutions from the primary grades through college reveal little to our young people of the day to day workings of business and industry or the principles of our economic system. Of late, there have been efforts to close this gap in the educational process, and the response on the part of students and teachers has been gratifying.

To help meet a seemingly "insatiable demand from students and teachers, for a picture book on railroads, the Association of American Railroads has just published a new booklet, entitled "Railroads In Action." It is designed for the use of pupils engaged in a study of transportation, and it may be obtained for that purpose by addressing requests to the Association of American Railroads, Transportation Building, Washington, D. C.

The booklet is highly readable and is profusely illustrated. It recalls the romance of railroading while at the same time, describing with straightforward simplicity, accompanied by dramatic pictures, the gigantic role of the rails in the overall transportation system of today.

A section devoted to "Life On A Train" shows a mode of travel many young people have never experienced. In many respects, a transcontinental passenger train is like a ship. It is a complete entity with kitchens, dining cars, lounges, sleeping accommodations and luxury service.

"Railroads In Action" will indeed be a revelation to a generation of young people who have never had a chance to get acquainted with the Iron Horse.

ALEXANDER, VA., JOURNAL-STANDARD: "While the business and professional man has become a popular whipping boy for all who care to throw stones . . . the taxes produced by these so-called 'bad guys' forms the backbone of our community."

Bird-Watching and You!

America is a bird-watcher's paradise. Birds are everywhere. To see the most birds, look in the best places — moist woodlands, the edge of wooded swamps, young scrubby woods, wooded parks in cities during migrations.

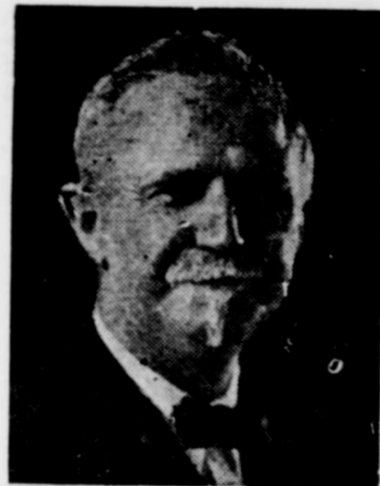

Or, attract birds to your own garden. Offer them food—suet is good for woodpeckers, creepers, chickadees and nut-hatches; sun-flower seeds, hemp, millet and canary seed will attract seed eaters. Offer them water—an old bucket with a drip hole over an old baking pan will give them the shallow, moving water they like.

Offer them a home—it's so easy with a Pure-Pak milk carton Birdhouse Kit! Buy your milk in a half-gallon or gallon Pure-Pak carton. Send Pure-Pak triangle from pouring spout and 23 cents to Bird House, Dept. P, Spring Park, Minn. You will get a heavy plastic roof, adhesive-backed siding and instructions to make a weatherproof birdhouse in 15 minutes—with no special tools, paint or glue. You'll bird-watch all summer long!

Roger W. Babson Weekly Report

Babson's Point of View on—SHORTCOMINGS OF THE DRAFT

Babson Park, Mass. — This year Congress has several "hot potatoes" to handle. One of the very hottest is Selective Service. The present draft law—which is widely criticized as unfair in several of its aspects and applications—expires July 1.

Improving The System

In a nation as large as ours probably no military draft law can be fully equitable, or be administered with complete impartiality. The present law has proved workable over a long span of years. In its essentials it is the same system that was used during World War II. However, until the past couple of years . . . when our greatly expanded military commitment in Vietnam has focused more attention on the system and its weaknesses . . . there has been no cry for serious and fundamental reforms.

Last year President Johnson appointed a 20-member National Advisory Commission on Selective Service to study the system and to suggest specific reforms. Also in 1966, a congressional study commission, headed by retired General Mark W. Clark, was given the task of making recommendations for changes in the law to the House Armed Services Committee.

Student Deferments

Agreement is pretty general—in and out of Congress—on the need for changes in the draft law. But there is no agreement at all on what reforms, improvements, or alternatives to the draft are possible and feasible. One point on which there are dramatic differences of opinion is the thorny question of student deferments.

As it stands now, any boy who gets through high school and manages to get accepted at college is safe from the draft so long as his grades are good. And if he wants to go on to graduate school, he'll be safe there too. Thus present Selective Service policy seems to favor "professional students," allowing them to postpone military service until they reach an age where they are much less likely to be called at all.

UMT Or Compulsory National Service

Gen Clark's commission recommends continuing student deferments, but only until the youth is 24 years old or has received his bachelor's degree, whichever comes first. Post-graduate students would be deferred only if they were training in professions considered essential to national security. Some people argue that the only way out of the student-deferment impasse is to institute universal military training with no exemptions. This idea makes sense and is worth serious consideration, but the nation is not yet ready to adopt it.

Defense Secretary McNamara and anthropologist Margaret Mead are among those who advocate compulsory national service, whereby all young people—girls as well as boys—would be required to register at age 18 for a two-year draft. Registrants could state a preference between military service, a hitch in the Peace Corps, or participation in other such federal programs as might be established by Congress. Chances of enactment of such a proposal this year, however, are slim.

Impact on the Economy

Congress now has less than four months to decide what to do. If it can't agree by the end of June, the present draft law will have to be extended. And it would certainly be much wiser to extend it than to amend it hastily or scrap it in favor of a program providing for youth regimentation.

Meanwhile, we must live in a world sharply divided by different ideologies and by different concepts of what is right and what is wrong. Clearly we must have a strong military system, with all the manpower requirements that implies. This fact should spur us to devise a better and fairer draft whose impact on civil life and on the economy will be as constructive as possible.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

These days there is a great deal of discussion about the presumed lower moral climate of the younger generation.

This is quite a debatable subject inasmuch as with the complex of modern mass communications, more publicity can now be given to the "odd balls" than was possible in post-electronic days.

However, if there has been any substantial breakdown in the moral outlook of the youth, perhaps then some consideration should be given to the examples set before them.

A recent incident is quite illustrative of this point. Back in the days of President Calvin Coolidge, there was a Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall, who was involved in the Teapot Dome scandal, wherein U. S. Navy oil reserve lands were turned over to private parties.

There was no hesitation in prosecuting this matter, once it came to light. As one of the results, the Secretary of Interior was convicted of taking a bribe of $100,000 and he went to prison.

While it is customary in all government offices to hang the portraits of past heads of the department on the walls, for years since this crime, the portrait of Fall was not to be seen.

But the other day, Interior Secretary Stewart Udall ordered that the long hidden portrait be found and it is now hanging in a position of honor in the Interior Department offices in Washington.

Of course, while liberals like to scoff at President Coolidge for being an old "fuddy-duddy" conservative, Silent Cal as he was known, was not a man given to mouthy orations on honesty in government. He contented himself with enforcing honesty in government, with no excuses accepted for evil.

But this little matter of a portrait hanging probably indicates better than anything else how far drifts American Republic from rock-ribbed integrity.

So far, and it is highly unlikely this will ever happen, West Point has not placed a statue of Benedict Arnold in honored view. It does display the boat that was lost when Arnold was serving his country faithfully and before he turned traitor.

Of course, times change in this era of billions of dollars flowing into Washington and perhaps a $100,000 bribe does not amount to much by today's standards.

But no doubt, youth observes, and ponders.

tees, and of special committees were given. The ladies would like to express appreciation for the courtesy of the people of our city shown to us by the attendance of our Cup and Saucer Co fee recently held.

A summary of the history of Grace Lutheran Church was given by Mrs. Nellie Schroeder. This brought back many memories to those in attendance. Many pictures and news clippings were on display.

The topic of study for the day was brought by Mrs. Anna Zweiacker "Mr. Workman, Are You A Nobody Or A Somebody?" This topic was very ably presented emphasizing the material, aesthetic approach to work in one's life. In Baptism, Mr. Christian Workman was brought into a very special position and was made a very important individual. He thereby became one of Christ's pardoned children. It was there that he received a call, not only to something but for something. He is not a self made man. The Holy Ghost called Mr. Christian Workman by and in the Gospel and thus made him a Mr. Somebody.

After the meeting closed with the group repeating the Lord's prayer in unison, the hostesses served refreshments. Those in attendance were, Mesdames: Peggy Mills, Willene Koenig, Beneola Mills, Anna Zweiacker, Trudy Kinder, Bill Schroeder, J. H. Kollmeyer, Gussie Lasley, Grace Mills, Dorothy Dickey, Wanda Young, Nellie Schroeder, Alice Ender, Virgil Brown and Pastor Otten.

City Election April 4, 1967

Earlier this Month a goodly number of my friends asked me, in fact, urged me to submit my name as a candidate for City Commissioner in the upcoming City Election, on April 4th.

That is one reason my name will appear on the ballot. Another reason is that Burkburnett has been my home for 58 years and I feel that I would like to repay, with two years of public service, for the privilege of so long a residence here.

To attain this goal — Two years of as honest and faithful service as possible for me to give — I ask for your support and vote at the Polls.

Basic Wardrobes will include fashions for women of all ages. Shoes and bags as well as suits and dresses will be modeled.

Aboussies Shoes will furnish shoes for clothes to be modeled from Camille's Dress Shop and Grace's Ready To Wear. Models will be: Mrs. Pete Wyatt, Mrs. James Fouts, Mrs. H. D. McAnally, Mrs. Jack Mitchell, Mrs. Elbert Seal, Mrs. George Loudamy, Mrs. Ed McAlvain, Mrs. Dave Wambott, Mrs. D. L. Parks, Miss Jean Ann White, Miss Janis Baldwin and Miss Glenda Krottinger.

Mrs. Jim Roberts is chairman of the clothing committee which sponsors this and all clothing activities in the county.

Mrs. Carl Watkins and Mrs. Ervan Tech are serving as clothing demonstrators this year. As demonstrators they have planned and are working on the completion of goals for family clothing.

If you expect your sewing machine to give you the greatest service and satisfaction, you can't neglect proper care. To guarantee perfect operation, home sewers need to clean, oil and lubricate their machine periodically, says Thelma Wirges, county home demonstration agent.

Refer to instruction book for specific care information and always for motor care instruction.

After you have completed a garment, remove lint and fluff from the take-up lever, thread guides, tension discs, bobbin case and machine surface with a soft, clean cloth. If necessary, dampen the cloth to clean the machine surface, but don't use a detergent.

Then with a lint brush clean the feed dog and hook or thread-handling areas under the throat and slide plates. After each cleaning apply a drop of sewing machine oil to these areas. For specific oiling points, refer to the sewing machine instruction book. After oiling, always sew a few lines of stitching on a scrap of material to remove excess oil. Every few months, clean the area behind the face plate and oil the top and bottom of the machine in the oil holes.

If the machine is to be stored, clean all exposed parts and areas behind the face plate. Swab these parts with a lint brush saturated in sewing machine oil to protect the machine from rust. Rust damage is more likely to occur when the machine is stored in a closed closet than when the machine is kept open to the air. Keep a small piece of fabric under the pressure foot with the needle down through it to protect the foot and feed from damage. When the pressure foot is down, the pressure spring is released and its life prolonged. Also, excess oil will be carried into the fabric by the needle rather than accumulating on the needle.

NOTICE

All residents who have reserved license plates for this year must pick them up at the Chamber of Commerce office before Wednesday, Mar. 29 or they will be sold. The office is open 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

A woman's body. Architecturally, quite interesting. To a man. But not to the woman who owns one. Most women tend to ignore their own bodies.

Do you? Do you check your body, particularly your breasts, every month, for any lump or thickening? You should. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere could be a warning signal of cancer. And cancer is easier to cure when it's detected early.

Sophia Loren knows the seven warning signals of cancer. So should you:

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge. 2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere. 3. A sore that does not heal. 4. Change in bowel or bladder habits. 5. Hoarseness or cough. 6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. 7. Change in a wart or mole.

SNOOZE NEWS
 by SALLY AMES

A mattress is probably the last thing in the world you'd expect to be regarded as a high fashion item. Yet this is what's happening.

New fabrics, new designs, and new colors are giving mattresses an entirely new look.

In fact, the new mattresses are so appealing that some people say they make even a completely uncovered bed look good.

The origin of this fashion appeal is a mystery. Most homemakers see the complete mattress only two or three times a year. The rest of the time, it's hidden by mattress covers, sheets, blankets, and a spread.

Yet, there's no denying that when it comes to buying a new mattress, the homemaker prefers the new styles to the conventional button-tufted woven stripe mattress of 10 years ago.

For example, at the recent winter home furnishings markets, Spring Air showed new mattresses in expensive damask and brocade covers.

These are multi-needle quilted in intricate patterns to enhance the richness of the pattern. And, for an extra plushy feel, some of these mattresses have an extra half-inch layer of polyurethane foam on each side of the mattress.

Colors, too, are a far cry from traditional drab tones. You can choose from Apricot Ice, Powder Blue, Antique Gold, and Agio Mint, among others.

Fashion in mattresses has become so important that many homemakers will spend up to $100 for a Back Supporter mattress for the extra eye appeal as well as the comfort it provides.

Of course, fashion in mattresses must be backed by proper construction so that the mattress fulfills its primary purpose of giving you a good night's sleep.

Observing Easter

"Jesus said, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die." John 11:25.

Easter, the day on which we celebrate the resurrection of our Lord, should find us worshipping Him in His Church. He is alive! His presence fills the sanctuary! All things are made new. It is the time of beginning again. Attend church and join your neighbors in singing praises to God for His Glory and Power and Love; and some of this Resurrection Joy and Power will come to you.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

FHA Chapters To Celebrate 21st Birthday In April

Texas' 72,000 - plus Future Homemakers of America join their half-million sisters in chapters throughout the United States, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands in celebrating their twenty-first birthday this year. Public attention will focus on the organization during FHA Week, April 2-8, 1967, as the girls plan a different activity for each day to emphasize their high ideals.

This national youth organization of homemaking education students in junior and senior high schools officially is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education and the American Home Economics Association. The Texas Association is sponsored by the Homemaking Education Division, Texas Education Agency, Austin. Local high school homemaking teachers serve as advisers to the 1,514 chapters in Texas.

Under the supervision of these advisers FHA'ers enjoy opportunities for developing individual and group initiative in planning and carrying out homemaking activities. They have set for themselves two very ambitious objectives: (1) To help each family member recognize his abilities and strive for their full development; and, (2) To participate actively in projects for the family, community and world improvement.

Today these enthusiastic young women are responsible members of their families, learning to be creative leaders in the homes they will have in the future. They are determined to establish secure, stable homes in this complex, unsettled world.

Six thousand officers, delegates and advisers of the Texas Association will convene for their 1967 meeting in Dallas, April 21 and 22, announces Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Director of Homemaking Education, Texas Education Agency, Austin.

Timber is a renewable natural resource which contributes millions of dollars to the State's economy. This is why the Texas Forestry Association urges all citizens to be extremely careful with fire in or near the woods. Help Keep Texas Green!

Future Homemakers of America

Over 72,000 Future Homemakers of Texas will see this birthday greeting on outdoor billboards across the State of Texas during the week, April 2 to 8, 1967. This salute to National FHA Week is sponsored by the Future Homemakers of America, Texas Association, and the rural electric systems of Texas. The Outdoor Advertising Companies of the State are donating the sign space for the showing.

PINE CLEANER
INFORMATION CENTER

Garage getting you down? If your garage is good for nothing — including the family car — organize a family clean-up team and see how effective a garage can be.

1. Be daring with your throw-away operation. You'll be surprised how many products you intended to use are too old to be efficient or have evaporated in cans or bottles.

2. Make a clean sweep of the garage with the biggest broom you can find. Use a snow shovel for a dustpan.

3. After the sweep-up, mop the floor with a pine oil cleaner — disinfectant. This treatment deodorizes, disinfects and deodorizes all at once. Then use the hose. Remember to hose down after sweeping — if you use the hose before you've swept up, you'll have mud puddles from the dust and dirt.

4. Short of hanging up the car, get as many items off the garage floor as possible.

5. Organize with pegboard. Hang garden equipment from hooks, add shelves for paints, patio and garden products, car cleaning equipment and outdoor gear.

6. Spray storage hint: hang up a shoebag for your aerosol products. That way they'll be easy to see and get to.

7. If the garage is still overcrowded after you organize, consider storing some necessary items in the attic. Garages are often damp and if there is anything which could be damaged by mildew, move it upstairs.

8. Be sure your garage smells as clean as it looks. After the clean-up, spray the garage with a pine disinfectant spray. Admire your handiwork and your pine-clean garage, now efficient as well.

Mrs. Crosley, vice president, poured coffee from a silver service and a lovely refreshment plate was served to the following members, Mesdames: A. R. Bunstine, B. N. Cauthorn, Bill Crosley, Grady Fuqua, H. C. Gilbert, I. E. Harwell, A. C. Houser, J. D. Majors, L. W. Mathis, O. E. Melton, J. B. Morris, J. M. Pogue, S. S. Reger, J. H. Rigby, Joy Sessums and S. H. Shrum.

Club adjourned to meet April 19 at the home of Mrs. J. D. Majors with program on Literature.

A woman's body. Architecturally, quite interesting. To a man. But not to the woman who owns one. Most women tend to ignore their own bodies.

Do you? Do you check your body, particularly your breasts, every month, for any lump or thickening? You should. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere could be a warning signal of cancer. And cancer is easier to cure when it's detected early.

Sophia Loren knows the seven warning signals of cancer. So should you:

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

If a signal lasts longer than two weeks, see your doctor without delay.

It makes sense to know the seven warning signals of cancer.

RESULTS OF NEW AD RESEARCH: Retailers Act on New Data Showing Newspaper Role

New York—(HK)—Advertisers commanding millions in lineage have seen, studied, and begun to act on the results of massive new research into the day-to-day workings of the retail market. The research was financed by the seven Canadian newspaper producers comprising the Newspaper Information Committee. The findings have just played a role in a substantial lineage increase for daily and weekly newspapers by a major appliance manufacturer. After a presentation of the results by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the company called for more detailed data. Next development: announcement of a sharply stepped-up newspaper campaign involving budgets of from 10,000 to 36,000 lines (the latter approximately equivalent to 15 full pages) in each of 150 markets. Both national and local co-op lineage are involved. Because the findings show clearly why retailers must use newspapers frequently to reach their customers, the Bureau of Advertising plans an especially intensive informational campaign employing the research material. The research was the fourth such project to be sponsored in behalf of newspapers by the seven Canadian newspaper producers making up the Committee. They are: Anglo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Mills, Ltd.; British Columbia Forest Products, Ltd.; Domtar Newsprint, Ltd.; The Great Lakes Paper Company, Ltd.; James MacLaren Company, Ltd. and MacMillan Bloedel Limited. local merchants have also been quick to act on the new information. In addition to disseminating the research results, the Bureau advised on the project. The actual research was done independently by the Opinion Research Corporation.

Dual-Purpose Ice A good way to have plenty of ice water when traveling is to fill milk cartons with water, freeze them solid, then place them in the water in your ice box. They keep the water cold and when all the water is gone the melted ice in the cartons can be used as drinking water. Even little fires kill little trees. Lend nature a hand! Help prevent forest fires. CARD OF THANKS I wish to express my appreciation for all the visits and other kindnesses shown me during my recent stay in the hospital.
