'CRONYISM' AND THE COURT

In nominating Associate Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas to succeed Earl Warren as Chief Justice and Federal Judge Homer Thornberry of Texas to become an Associate Justice of the nation's highest court, President Johnson has struck at the concept of an independent judiciary.

Under the balance of powers concept written into the Constitution, the Executive and Judicial Branches of the U.S. government are supposed to be independent of one another. But Mr. Johnson, by seating two longtime political cronies on the Supreme Court would exercise an influence on the character of the court decisions long after he left Washington and went back to the ranch.

While not a "lame duck" in a strict sense (as he hasn't been defeated at the polls), Mr. Johnson in a general sense belongs in that political category. He declined to seek reelection because he recognized that he had lost popular support and could not win in November. He obviously intends to be the kingmaker at his party's presidential nomination convention. It seems improper that he also should be a shaper of the Supreme Court for years to come by action in the final months of his office-holding.

With respect to Justice Fortas and Judge Thornberry, it is sufficient to note that they have been close political associates and allies of Mr. Johnson for many years. Mr. Fortas demonstrated great skill in getting Mr. Johnson out of tricky situations, such as embarrassment that resulted when a top White House aide under the Great Society was involved in a particularly messy morals case. This skill, while useful to politicians, hardly seems to qualify Mr. Fortas for elevation to Chief Justice. Judge Thornberry's principal attribute seems to be loyalty to Mr. Johnson, which is a quality greatly admired in political circles. Again, that quality doesn't mean a man is well suited for the Supreme Court, where he will be helping decide constitutional cases.

In defending Mr. Johnson, some persons have said that other Presidents made last-minute judicial appointments when they were clearly out of favor. This may be so, but it doesn't constitute justification of Mr. Johnson's nominations. Because other Presidents were in contempt of the public will is no cause for accepting such contempt in 1968.

Basically contempt is what's involved. On all sides, there is dissatisfaction with the Johnson administration. There also is profound dissatisfaction with the Warren Court and the ultra-liberal tack it has taken. In November, the American electorate will go to the polls. A new President will be chosen. The election will determine the outlook of the nation. It is only reasonable that the President, to be inaugurated next January, be allowed to exercise the right of nomination with respect to vacancies on the Supreme Court. If this procedure were followed, the will of the American people would be more accurately expressed.

Unfortunately, Mr. Johnson, while unwilling to exercise presidential leadership to win the war in Vietnam and end the slaughter of American youth on the battlefield, is eager to continue to do political battle for the Great Society and apparently a radical, active philosophy on the Supreme Court. He is determined to carry on the Earl Warren tradition of judicial twisting of the Republic by naming Justice Fortas Chief Justice of the United States. In short, Mr. Johnson is carrying out his own version of a court-packing scheme.

The Warren Court has cruelly distorted the Constitution and laws of the United States since 1953. It has given criminals a mandate for anti-social action, allowing them to hide behind technicalities. It has deprived the states of authority over education that they traditionally enjoyed. Civil disobedience elements have been given free reign to trample on the rights of the law-abiding majority. Laws to control subversion have been struck down or crippled by action of the Warren Court.

The American people have had enough of the Warren Court. They do not need a Fortas Court that follows in its footsteps. What is needed is a truly independent judiciary that recognizes the limits on federal interference with the rights of the states and individuals, a Supreme Court that will uphold law and order and deal firmly with challenges to the security of the United States. Nothing in the record of Messrs. Fortas and Thornberry encourages fair-minded citizens to believe that their elevation would result in a safeguarding of the principles on which this Republic was organized. It is understandable, therefore, that some members of the Senate plan to nudge in extended debate to block their nomination.

The strips which band birds used to be inscribed "Wash Biol Surv" for Washington Biological Survey. They were changed after a farmer shot a crow and wrote the government: "Dear Sirs: I shot one of your birds the other day and followed the instruction. I washed it, bled it, and served it. It was terrible.

In all U.S. wars, one out of 38 participants died in service.

Wichita County Has 30 Accidents On Rural Hwys.

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 30 accidents on rural highways in Wichita County during the month of June, according to Sergeant D. S. Lawson, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in 26 persons injured and an estimated property damage of $22,230.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first six months of 1968 shows a total of 125 accidents resulting in five persons killed, 88 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $79,528.00.

"During the first six months of 1968 in Texas there were 1472 traffic deaths, or four less as compared to the 1476 traffic deaths for the same period of 1967," the Sergeant stated.

However, if past trends continue the last six months will probably raise the 1968 total to one percent over the 1967 total of 3,367 deaths.

The Sergeant also stated that a training school for 120 new patrolmen with the Texas Department of Public Safety will start July 30.

To qualify for employment in the uniformed services of the DPS, a man must be between the ages of 20 and 35, not less than 5 feet 8 inches tall, have a high school education or its equivalent, be in sound physical condition and be a citizen of the United States.

All interested young men who can meet these qualifications are urged to contact the nearest DPS patrolmen or DPS office for complete details concerning the position of a patrolman, training and benefits.

DOOR TO DOOM!

HOW BIG IS DRUG ABUSE?

Why do so many teenagers try drugs as a runout from reality? From Hoboken to Honolulu kids and many who are no longer kids are sniffing glue for kicks, smoking marijuana, even experimenting with more dangerous drugs. Every morning across the nation thousands of narcotic addicts wake up with a common craving — to get enough illegal drugs so they can hang on through the day.

How big is drug abuse? No one can estimate how many people misuse drugs today.

The director of the American Social Health Association's national program in drug dependence and abuse, Dr. Charles Winick, believes the number runs into the millions.

"The problem of drug abuse is one of the nation's costliest social problems — and continues to spread," he says. "One-shot lectures are not enough to combat it. The urgent need is for research on drug use and abuse.

"We need to know more about why so many persons are adopting the 'tune-in, turn-on, and drop-out' philosophy.

"We need epidemiological studies in communities to determine who and where the drug dependence persons are"

Citizens who want to help stamp out drug abuse may write to the American Social Health Association, 1740 Broadway, New York City, to find out what to do.

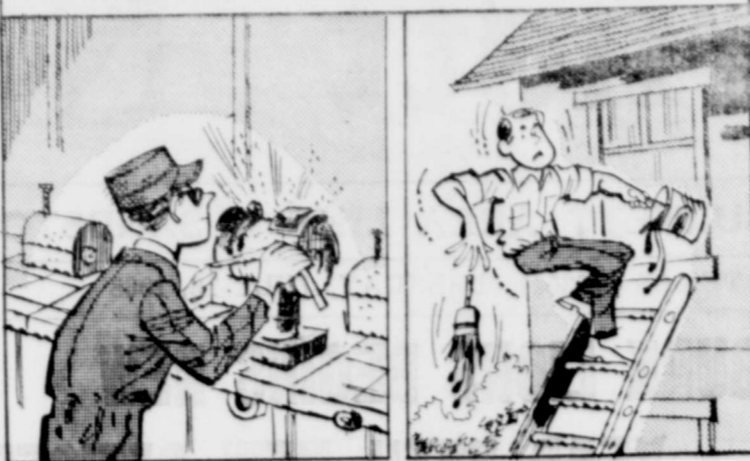

Insisting on the right-of-way without regard for safety is a good way to end up "dead right." The Portland, Oregon, Traffic Safety Commission advises drivers to give a little. Its one of the first principles of defensive driving.

"It is fashionable these days to decry business as merely a money grabbing pursuit," writes Mr. John S. Knight, publisher of the Miami Herald. But, he points out, that narrow viewpoint overlooks the fact that "without wealth generated by business, there would be no security for anyone. . . . The onward march of progress began not with government as such, but with the inventive, imaginative, and resourceful attitudes of business and industrial leaders.

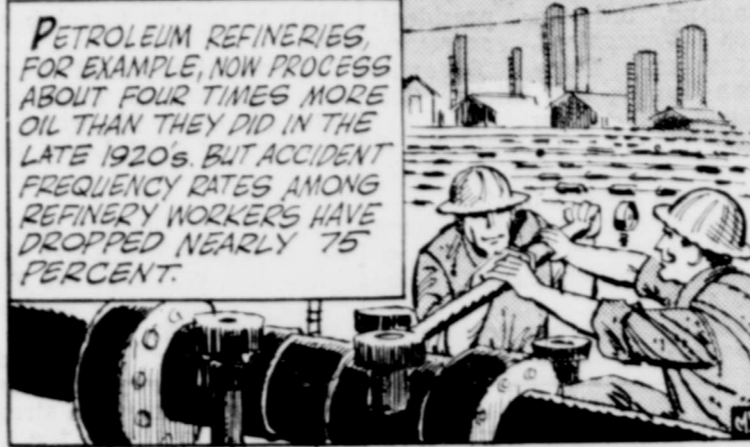

Mr. Thomas M. Goodfellow, president of the Association of American Railroads, noted that the country's rapidly increasing population will necessitate the building of 20 to 25 new cities of 100,000 people every year remaining in this century. Such population centers, he said, "will require more and more transportation."

The Post Office and Agriculture Departments were cited as "major examples of excessive Federal employment growth." They were so labeled by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce in advocating a cut of $800 million in budgeted personnel costs in the administration's 1969 budget.

SAFETY HIGHLIGHTS

AMERICAN WORKERS ARE 10 TIMES SAFER AT WORK THAN OFF THE JOB. DURING THE PAST FOUR DECADES THE FREQUENCY OF ON-THE-JOB INJURIES DROPPED SHARPLY WHILE EMPLOYMENT, HOURS WORKED AND OUTPUT SHOWED TREMENDOUS GAINS.

PETROLEUM REFINERIES FOR EXAMPLE, NOW PROCESS ABOUT FOUR TIMES MORE OIL THAN THEY DID IN THE LATE 1920s. BUT ACCIDENT FREQUENCY RATES AMONG REFINERY WORKERS HAVE DROPPED NEARLY 75 PERCENT.

Texas Industrial Commission Advertising Campaign Pays Off

James J. Kelly, Acting Executive Director of the Texas Industrial Commission, displays one of the national advertisements designed to interest new industry in coming to Texas.

The Texas Industrial Commission, Austin, revealed this week that the current national advertising program of the Commission has resulted in 1,208 inquiries between September, 1967 and the end of May, 1968, up 93% from the same period a year ago.

Inquiries are in the form of clipped coupons or letters mailed to the Commission as direct results of advertising placed in a wide variety of industry trade magazines and general business publications.

The primary objective of the Commission's advertising program is to advise and inform manufacturers and industrialists outside the state about the advantages of locating a plant in Texas. Such points as favorable tax rates, employment practices, high caliber work force, stable government, mild climate, and wide open spaces are stressed in the advertisements.

The central theme for all advertisements is "Turn To Texas." One add of a current series directed to industry executives pictures a woman at work in a factory, with the headline, "New York's Kay Nesom Won't Clip This Coupon To The Texas Industrial Commission Today. But Her Boss Should!" This series carries a coupon offering three Industrial Commission Source Books: 1968 Texas Plant Location Fact Book, Texas Community Profiles, and Texas Market 1960-2020.

Another series of ads directed toward executives in specific industries points out the number of new plants in those industries which came into Texas in 1967.

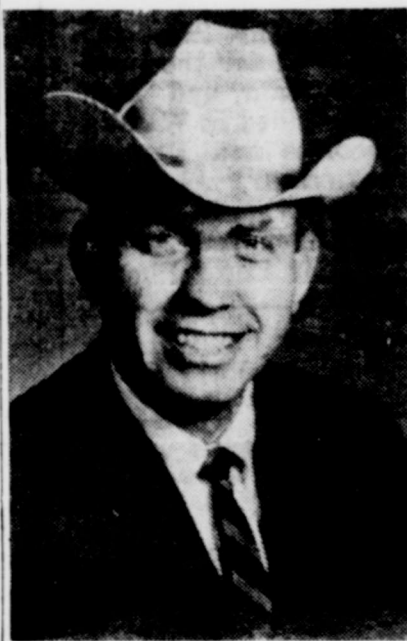

In addition to media advertising, the Industrial Commission conducts periodic direct mailings to a select list of some 9,000 manufacturing executives outside Texas.

Advertising the important advantages and potential that Texas offers industry is a major function of the Industrial Commission. It is also charged with compiling research material to support the state's case for industry and consults with Texas' communities large and small to assist them in setting up programs to attract new industry.

Joe Brown To Receive Texas Agric. Award

JOE BROWN

COLLEGE STATION, (Special)—Joe Brown, farm editor of a daily newspaper and a major television station, active in youth and research activity promotion, has been selected to receive the "Man of the Year Award in Texas Agriculture" for 1968.

Brown, with the Wichita Falls Times & Record News and KFDX-TV, is one of six prominent agriculturists and leaders in related fields named to receive the award from the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

The awards recognize contributions to improving levels of living and economic progress in communities, counties, the state and the nation, explained Elwyn L. Dysart, Hartley County agent and president of the TCAAA. The organization is the largest of its kind in the United States, he added.

Brown will be presented his award at the Association's annual convention scheduled for Aug. 4-6 in Abilene.

"Brown works closely with the county agents and specialists in the North Texas area and uses his newspaper and television show to keep those interested in agriculture abreast of current developments," Haws says.

Brown has been a leader in the drive by District 3 residents of North Texas to bring a Rolling Plains Research and Extension Center to the area. He has visited other centers of the same proposed type and written articles and features to show how the centers work and how they can improve existing Extension and research programs.

He has been a strong supporter of the Rolling Plains Economic Program which was recently established following a two-year study by Extension Farm Management Specialist Norman Brints of Vernon. He has been writing articles on various aspects of agriculture in the 28-county area to show how farming and ranching can be improved by following the guidelines the RPEP has established.

Brown covers a large share of the meetings held in his area by farmers and youth groups and attends as many of the county junior livestock shows as possible.

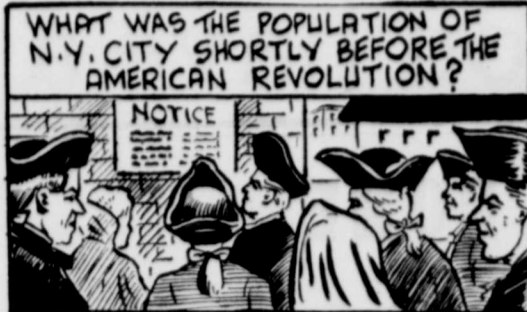

He is frequently the speaker at County 4-H Achievement Banquets and provides photographs for 4-H exhibitors to complete their record books.

Brown is a strong supporter of the annual Wichita Falls District Beef Show that includes 26 North Texas counties. He gives newspaper coverage to this event, and many times helps "sell" steers in the premium auction to merchants prior to the show, says Haws.

He is a member of the Newspaper Farm Editors of America Association and of the agriculture development committee of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce and is chairman of the livestock subcommittee.

Brown is an active Roman Catholic and a member of the Wichita Falls Jaycees.

Fun with food

Let Them Eat... Pudding!

Puddings, one of today's most enjoyable desserts, didn't start out that way. Historically puddings, tasting like porridge, were all-purpose meals for the poor. When Marie Antoinette suggested, "Let them eat cake," they were probably eating pudding. A good cook was known as a "pudding wife," the stomach was called a "pudding house."

He Stuck In His Thumb...

Plum pudding first appeared in England in 1675 and began the trend for sweet pudding desserts. Only a few recipes were known until 1866, when Thomas J. Murrey wrote "Puddings and Dainty Desserts," which contained 33 varieties.

Fun With Today's Prepared Puddings

"Today's 'pudding wife,' starting with prepared mixes, can cook or stir up more puddings than Marie Antoinette ever dreamed possible. Pudding mixes can also be used to add rich flavor and texture to pie fillings, cakes, souffles, mousses, frostings, trifles and even floating island desserts.

The whole family can have fun with puddings, choosing favorite flavors such as chocolate nut, butterscotch or mocha. They're smoothies! For a party the home economists at My-T-Fine suggest alternating slightly cooled layers of continental chocolate and vanilla pudding in parfait glasses. Top each dessert with whipped cream and chocolate shavings.

Today prepared puddings are fast, safe, delicious desserts that cunningly help children consume daily milk quotas. Stock a variety of flavors and prepare a different dessert each time by consulting the package panel for new recipe ideas.

From Panama To Sheppard Made By Volkswagen

SHEPPARD AFB, Texas — At the end of a three-year assignment at the Inter-American Air Force Academy, Albrook AFB, Panama, 4,000 miles lay between M-Sgt. John C. Padilla Jr. and Sheppard AFB. Sergeant Padilla and his family drove the 4,000 miles by Volkswagen.

In planning the trip to his new management analyst job at Headquarters Sheppard Technical Training Center, Sergeant Padilla, his wife Dora, son William, 13, and daughter Christina, 11, simply wanted the trip. After three years as an instructor in Panama, it was time for a vacation. A trip through Central America covering Panama, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, Guatemala, and Mexico seemed natural and challenging.

Traveling under official orders with travel pay, the family completed the trip in nineteen days.

"It's a nice trip to make once," the sergeant summarized in a brochure prepared for friends in Panama. "If your children are old enough to understand people and customs, the trip is a once-in-a-lifetime venture," he said.

Sergeant Padilla coordinated his trip with a publication available from Southern Command, "Information for Automobile Travel between the United States and the Panama Canal Zone." His passports were stamped "official" at the U. S. Embassy to reduce delay at borders. The Volkswagen's engine was covered with rubber to prevent damage on the rural roads. And he bought auto insurance — his U. S. policies were invalid in Central America.

After packing wash and wear clothing for the family, an ice chest with some snack material, a camera and five-gallon purex containers with water, the family climbed into their VW the morning of June 8, 1967, and drove north.

The Padillas are from Southern California. They speak fluent Spanish, but say they rarely used anything but English during the trip. "Se habla ingles in every town," the sergeant related.

While customs passage from country to country is generally time-consuming for the "tourista," the family was traveling under official orders. "In many cases the "auduana" official moved us to the head of the line," he said.

Only once did a man enter my car — to attach a sticker promoting tourism in Costa Rica. And as we entered Honduras, the car was fumigated. We finally had to unpack the car at the U. S. border station," explained Sergeant Padilla.

"The 209 miles from the Panamanian border to San Jose, Costa Rica was the worst part of the trip," said the sergeant. "From the border with an elevation of 50 feet, we had to climb to over 11,000 feet." He said the road gravel was the size of golf balls. And there were landslide areas, fallen trees, animals, people and driving rain. The rain turned out to be helpful because it filled the potholes and made them easier to spot along the road.

That climb over "Cerro de la Muerte," "Sierra of Death," required extra patience and driving skill for seven hours and fifty minutes. The reminder of the trip was easier.

Central America had plenty to offer the Padilla's on their quick journey. "I'd recommend any family driving to or from Panama take the allotted twelve days travel time plus a 30-day leave," suggested the sergeant.

After navigating the "Cerro de la Muerte," the family spent a couple of days in San Jose, Costa Rica. There the "ojo de agua" or "Eye of Water" peers skyward thrusting 6,000 gallons per minute through its iris. The turquoise eye is about 25 feet across and the overflow from the spring at its center supplies two swimming pools, a lake and water to a town 62 miles away.

Nicaragua offered the only fresh water lake in the world with shark, tarpon and marlin in it.

Central American towns are born around their churches. Each community is built around a church, then a school, then a recreational area. And in every town there is a statute to honor motherhood. Though father is very much the head of the family it is mother's womb that bears the family.

Guatemala was in the middle of an uprising when the Padillas drove through. At the border, special tourist license plates were wired for identification. Helicopters hovered around Guatemala City, troops milled in the streets — the town was armed to the teeth. "But their warfare is curious," related Sergeant Padilla. "At noon the war ends. It is siesta time and everyone goes inside for a nap. Promptly at two o'clock, the hostilities resume."

At one point the sergeant paused to shoot a picture of a machine-gun laden jeep as it cruised the city streets. "In Spanish, I made it very clear to the sergeant-in-charge that I had only a camera," he said.

The Mexican coastal town of Veracruz won the family's affection. From the Hotel Imporio downtown, the Padilla's explored the famous and beautiful battle ground that had served as the point of commerce between Spain and Mexico. Ships docked beside the hotel and were open for visitors.

"The toll road from Veracruz to Mexico City was fantastic," remarked the sergeant. "That Mexican expressway was banked so that cars would not have to slow down for curves, even in the mountainous terrain. There were guard rails and exits all along the 250 mile route."

Traffic in Mexico City was rugged. Though there is much to see, the Padillas felt the city lacked the traditional flavor of most Mexican cities and towns.

Over good Mexican roads, the Padillas returned safely to U. S. Customs at Laredo, Texas, and happily placed their feet on U. S. soil again.

"We thoroughly enjoyed the trip," recapped Sergeant Padilla. "but it took a lot of patience." The roads were difficult at first and younger children would have easily gotten bored, he warned.

The pamphlet Sergeant Padilla prepared for his friends in Panama is available by request to: Family Services, Albrook AFB, APO 09825.

PARENTS' RESPONSIBILITY

"Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6

Ask anyone what his most precious possession is, and he will almost invariably say, "My children." The desire for the welfare of our children enables us to "move mountains". We will do anything, give them anything, if we think it will help them.

The one most important thing we can do for them, however, is to instill in them a love of God, and a desire to obey him. The church can help you in this endeavor, inspire and strengthen you. We invite you to take your family to church this week. It may make a great difference in the life direction taken by your children.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

THE TRAVEL LOG

By Ian H. Corbin

THE SOUTH PACIFIC

For uncounted centuries the South Pacific was an awesome challenge; its limitless waters uncharted, its islands unnamed. Today it is an invitation to travelers from all over the world. That invitation is being eagerly accepted by thousands more people each year.

There has always been a magnetic lure to that tropical world. One of Somerset Maugham's best known works "Rain" had its setting in Pago Pago. Gauguin deserted his family in France to paint his masterpieces in Tahiti. Robert Louis Stevenson's former home on Western Samoa is now the residence of the island's governor. One of the theater's classical musicals was adapted from James Michener's famous "Tales Of The South Pacific".

Into the latter half of the 20th century the South Pacific still guards some of its ancient secrets despite the research of scholars. Its history and its legends are intermingled.

What is the accurate story about the Bounty's mutiny? The mutineers told one account when they reached Pitcairn Island. Captain Bligh made a 100% conflicting report before the Admiralty Board when he at last reached London.

What are the origins of the natives of the Pacific? Did they, by some navigational miracle, sail in their handmade canoes from the West Coast of South America as the skipper of the Kon Tiki tried to prove some years ago? Are the Polynesian descendants of migrating natives of the Middle East as some anthropologists insist? What were the beginnings of the Maoris of New Zealand? How far back into the millennium must one go to know the first aborigines of Australia? The secrets remain.

But the recent years have brought about changes. The vivid paintings of a French exile who died a pauper hung in the great museums of the world, worth a king's ransom. The ocean is no longer uncharted, endless stretches of water. The lovely islands have names. The floating palaces of cruise ships long ago replaced the lumbering sailing ships. A Clipper today means not a ship but a jet aircraft crossing the Pacific at 30,000 feet at nearly 600 miles an hour.

There are still the explorers; thousands of them from all parts of the world determined to see the magic of the Pacific for themselves. They come with guide books, cameras, drip-dry holiday clothes, and the assurance they will have the best of it without the inconveniences or downright hardships of the past. There will be air-conditioning, soft beds, international cuisine as well as local specialties, and one-day laundry service at the new hotels which have sprung up all over the South Pacific.

An example are those of Inter-Continental Hotels. Their locations form a kind of horseshoe on the map of the Pacific. Starting with Tahiti where the Hotel Tahara's Inter-Continental will open late in 1968, across to American Samoa (the United States' only possession south of the Equator) where the Hotel Inter-Continental Pago Pago looks up at Rainmaker Mountain. Down to New Zealand where the new Hotel Inter-Continental Auckland was opened last March, overlooking the historic harbor of Auckland. Over to Australia and in the gracious city of Melbourne rises the Hotel Southern Cross. A continent away is Indonesia with the Hotel Bali Beach on the shores of that fabled island and the Hotel Indonesia in the capital city of Djakarta. Then to Singapore to visit the Singapura Inter-Continental and on to Bangkok for the Siam Inter-Continental, Thailand's newest and most luxurious hotel.

Somerset Maugham, Captain Cook, Dutch planters, Australian colonials, and Anna of the court of the King of Siam would have envied today's traveler. He can enjoy the world they knew; only he can do it so much more pleasantly.
