Royalty is coming to Burkburnett! Miss America 1971 will be the guest speaker for the upcoming Chamber of Commerce banquet in January. I've thought for years that I'd give almost anything to see and talk with one of those beauties that vie for the title of Miss America. Now not just one of the contestants, but THE MISS AMERICA is going to be in our own town, and if I work it right I might even get to have a press conference with her. Now how uptown can we

This banquet, with Miss Phyllis George as guest speaker, could really be a highlight in the history of Burkburnett. A sell-out crowd is almost certain so you had better hurry over to the Chamber of Commerce office and purchase your ticket today.

Burkburnett merchants are kicking off their Christmas campaign this week with lots of specials in our Shopper and many other extras that you can read about in this paper.

A large group of merchants are sponsoring a free show on Saturdays, Dec. 5, 12, and 19 at 10 a.m. at the Palace Theatre in Burkburnett. This is an excellent opportunity to see a show in the completely remodeled theatre or drop the kiddoes by the theatre while you do your Christmas shopping alone.

Take advantage of these free shows. Let the theatre be your babysitter for your youngsters while you do your Christmas shopping in Burkburnett.

If you get a chance go by Lippard Furniture. They are having their formal opening this weekend. They have arranged to have displays of antiques and art paintings by some local people on show during the threeday affair.

While many of our "learned" professors at colleges and universities are busy running down our American system -- with obvious and sometimes tragic results among the youth they demoralize -- the truth is that America is still a land of opportunity such as no other country in the world can match. Among the several million examples that might be cited as proof for that statement, now and then one comes along which is truly outstanding. . . and a recent item in the news provides a case in point.

When William H. Mann of Washington, D.C., passed away in late October, 1970, he left a will bequeathing $100,000 to ten charitable organizations, in equal shares. This might not be remarkable in itself, except for the fact that Mike Mann (as he was known to hundreds of Washingtonians) had been an employee of the Mayflower Hotel for 42 years, having started as a busboy when the hotel opened in 1925. At the time of his death he had advanced to the post of door-

His salary; $60 a week ... and it was a lot less than that when he started.

There are those "social scientists" among us who claim that low incomes "cause" frustration, anger and violence -- thus justifying the criminal behavior of those who burn, loot, and steal. But Mike Mann proved, as hundreds of thousands of other low-income people in our country also prove, that you don't have to be rich to be honest, dependable, and responsible. Each week, Mr. Mann made sure to invest a small part of his earnings, either in savings, stocks, or bonds. Among the friends he made as hotel doorman were some much richer than he, whose advice he sought. On his vacations, Mike Mann conscientiously attended stockholders' meetings -- just to keep an eye on those who were managing his money. When the $60-a-week hotel doorman died, he owed not a penny to any man. But he brought added happiness--and

opportunity -- to a number of See EDITOR Page Two

merchants in Burkburnett are offering area shoppers what they want most -small city service, quality goods and gigantic savings in all categories.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday mark another of Burkburnett's fabulous Dollar Days. The special days this time are highlighted with extra specials for the Christmas shopper. The pages of the INFORMER/STAR Shopper (colored section of the paper) are loaded with real specials and gift suggestions for the people in the Burkburnett area.

Another plus to this shopping bonanza is a chance to win a color television and a console stereo. A color television from Bill's TV, Furniture and Appliance and a stereo from White's Auto Store will be given away in a drawing December 24. The television and stereo were purchased by the Build Burk merchants to be given away at Christmas in order that someone (or two someones) would have an extra special Christmas because they shopped in Burkburnett.

You can register for the drawing as many times as you like, and you do not have to be present to win.

Another big plus to shopping in Burkburnett for your many Christmas needs is the Lucky Dollar. Each month during Dollar Days the Build Burk merchants put into circulation a one dollar bill

Burk Police Report Vandalism Cost High

Chief of Police Buck Abbott reported things to be extremely quiet around the local police station this past week. The most recent happening was vandalism to a house at 207 Linden Lane, belonging to Howard Clement. Door knobs, a towel rack and thermostat which were taken from the house were recovered by the police, who are investigating the case. Police believe the intruders to be youngsters.

Mr. Merchant. . .

If you plan to be closed on any business day other than Christmas day, call the INFORMER/STAR office. A list of those businesses and days closed will be printed free of charge.

One local realtor was quoted as saying that he received some $2700 in damages last month alone due to vandalism.

Local police are trying to tighten down on vandalism and they urge the parents to help. Youngsters seem to be the vandals in the majority of cases, reported the police.

Police also have one theft of over $50 under investigation. Four mag wheels and tires were stolen from Mathis Chevrolet Nov. 15.

A light traffic accident involving a 1969 Buick driven by Catharine Clark of Burk and a 1964 Dodge driven by Laura Allison of 517 Hilltop was investigated by the police. There was no damage to the Clark vehicle and approximately $100 in damages to the Allison vehicle.

The Bulldogs' end Jim Sims, tackle David Norwood, fullback Bill O'Rourke, end Rick Reasoner, linebacker Doug Locke and safetyman Joe Karstetter all place on the first teams.

Stephenville followed Vernon with number of first stringers picked with three, while Hirschi followed them with two. Hirschi's men included offensive guard Joe Szymanski and defensive tackle Freddie Adams. Graham and Weatherford rounded out the teams with one member each. Graham's only member of the first team was center Tim Bryan.

Young, But Quick

"We're a young team, but the boys have more hustle than any team that I have ever coached," stated coach Stan Owen as he talked about the Burkburnett Bulldog basketball team.

The Bulldogs are quick and are good shooters, stated the coach. These two things played a major role in their 85-54 rout of Iowa Park Tuesday, Nov. 25. Last Friday they took on the Bowie cagers and lost only by the score of 46-44. It is interesting to note here that Bowie is picked to win their district in basketball competition this year, while the Bulldogs are picked to have just an average season.

Hirschi and Brownwood are picked to be the contenders for the district 4-AAA crown this season, but according to the local players they had better watch out. The Bulldogs have their eyes set on being the district champs and they definitely have the talent to be.

The Bulldogs opened the season with three returning lettermen, two of which were starters last year. Forward Larry VanLoh and guard Tom Bloodworth are the returning starter with Steve Cremmens being the third returning letterman.

The Bulldogs have a traveling squad of 12 men. The first team is made up of Steve Cremmens, junior; Larry Van Loh, senior; Tom Bloodworth, senior; Randy Aaron, who played on the B team last year, senior; and Danny Furmanek, jun-Back-up men for this first group and also seeing much action will be Rodney Roberts, junior; Jim Sims, who played on last year's B team, senior; Rick Beard, last year's B team, junior; Larry Landrum, last year's B team, senior; and Grey Leonard, junior.

Other promising young players who will be traveling with the squad quite a bit are Darrell Nichols, junior; Mike Dean, junior; Donald Patty, junior; Sam Hancock, sophomore; and Lawrence Washington, sophomore.

The Bulldogs, as stated earlier, are young, quick and are good shooters. They play a full court press and fast break which adds up to one of the most exciting types of basketball

The Bulldogs took on Jacksboro Tuesday night but the score was not available at press time. They will play Perryton in the Top of Texas Tournament in Pampa this weekend. This game is scheduled for 9:00 Thursday night. If they win that game they will play the winner of the Pampa and Woodward, Okla., game on Friday.

The Bulldogs will have their first home game next Tuesday when they again take on the cagers from Jacksboro. Time for that game is 6:00 for the B team and approximately 7:30 for the Varsity game.

Chamber Luncheon Mon

The Burkburnett Chamber of Commerce monthly luncheon is scheduled next Monday at the Town Hall. The Community Development Committee, Loise Bean chairman, will bring the program.

The program for the day will include the presentation of Business for Beauty Commendations to a number of Burkburnett business houses.

The awarding of the commendations is a joint project sponsored by the Cities Service Foundation and the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The project is designed to combat visual pollution.

Guidelines Of Life

The Christmas season is here, but it has brought with it more uncertainty regarding world peace than it had a year ago. The angels' invocation to the shepherds of "On earth peace, good will toward men" appears to have been squandered upon men whose hearts are bent toward universal upheaval and universal unrest.

But God has never squandered anything! It is simply that men continue to misunderstand and distort the real meaning of the angels' message. They were saying that lasting peace on earth could become a reality only through the person of Christ, the God-man. They were saying that men are inherently incapable of dwelling together in permanent peace withouth the sustaining and uplifting grace of God through the person of Christ. They were saying in fact that peace is achieved and retained not by man's ingenuity, nor diplomacy nor cunning, but only by men everywhere turning their hearts to the Prince of Peace in saving faith.

We have ably demonstrated again and again that man's puny efforts cannot bring a lasting world peace. His education cannot do it. His social concern cannot do it. His keeping the Golden Rule cannot do it--because he has never consistently kept it. Even man's religion cannot do it. In this age, Jesus said, there would be "wars and rumors of wars ... '

He knew us better than we know ourselves. And why not, for He is God. What, then is the solution? There are two: one temporary and one permanent. Temporarily, we can have periods of peace through a maximum influence of God's Word being felt around our world. That will happen if more people believe in Christ, and then study and live His Word.

There is no permanent solution toward keeping the peace short of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ. He can and will accomplish what we have failed to do. His appearance in Bethlehem was as a Lamb, while His appearance the second time will be as a Lion. His becoming flesh was met head-on with rejection and tragedy, which were epitomized by His crufixion. His revelation from heaven at the end of the age will be with power and great glory, King coming to claim His rightful throne. The issue is Christ. Your peace is in Christ. All outside of Him is chaos and enmity. The decision is yours.

Hustle will be a key word during the entire season as the team meets tougher and tougher teams. The team is well balanced between the junior and senior classes.

"The juniors will be a big asset next year" commented Coach Owen. He also said that he planned to rotate sophomore and freshman players during some games.

The team is shaping up rather nicely with the addition of the newly converted football players. The kinks and problems are being worked out under the guidance of Coaches Owen and Jim Phillips, both experienced in working with young athletes. As the season progresses, I think the close-knit framework of our team will prove to be their greatest advantage over other teams.

Our team is going this week to participate in the Pampa Tournament. They sould prove a major threat. Be sure to attend our first home game next Tuesday when we play Jacksboro. Game time is 6:00 in Bulldog Gym. See you there.

Basketball Teams Off To Good Start

The "A" and "B" teams of the Bulldog basketball squad got a good start in their 1970-71 season with two clean victories over the crews of Iowa Park on Tuesday, Nov.

The varsity team wasted no time in taking advantage of Iowa Park's lack of experienced players (due to loss to the football team) and numerous mistakes. They took a 14 point lead during the first quar-

The Iowa Park team was unable to recover from the onslaught of Burk scores in the first period as they trailed noticeably during the remainder of the game. When the buzzer sounded the score was Burk 85-- Iowa Park 54.

The B team took an even more impressive win over the Hawks with a score of 62 to Don Patty, Mike Dean and Sam Hacock were the high scorers in this contest. The team seemed to gain momentum as the game progressed, scoring more total points as each period passed.

Two Points Make The Difference

The Bowie A team barely nipped the Bulldogs by a score of 46 to 44 at the game there Saturday. The team fared well against this mighty team (Bowie is favored for the AA title) and its tall players. "Cold" was the word for shooting used by Coach Owen to describe the game. Generally, we were unable to make the freethrows which prove to be the team's down fall. The basket on field-goals also seems to be elusive. The B team was unhampered by anything as they took a 41 to 29 victory over Bowie in their game. Performance was excellent by all members of the team, with Alex Koulavatos and Don Patty as high scorers

Mark and David Miller with Lynn Ann and Leigh Ann Smith, dressed in Indian and Pilgrim attire, greeted 192 guests with leaf name tags and programs at the reception table.

There were many comments on the beautiful table settings and decorations done by Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Tommy Wilson, and Mrs. Neil Morris. The table were lined with yellow and orange streamers, surrounded by yellow candles, pumpkins, fall leaves and turkeys. Miniature turkeys made from pine cones with comfilled nut cups were placed as favors.

An old-fashioned Thanksgiving Pot Luck Supper was enjoyed by everyone. This was followed by a talent show and free bingo.

Mr. Wayne Miller entertained the members with a selection of poems he composed while serving his country in Vietnam. Mrs. Hoover played several selections on the piano. Lanny Walker did a pantomime dance to "They Call Me Big Mama," and received an ovation of whistles and applause. To conclude the entertainment Mike Doty, the Clown, was presented assisted by his wife, Nicky Loty. His bag full of tricks was a special treat for all the children and brought responses of laughter from everyone pre-

Nov. 23 Work On "The Curious Savage" Begins At B.H.S.

The Burkburnett High School chapter of the International Thespian Society has begun working on their upcoming production, "The Curious Sav-age," by John Patrick. The play is a comedy dealing with neglected virtues and "insane" people. The story concerns the actions of Mrs. Savage, who has been left ten million dollars by her late husband. She establishes a fund for giving money to people with foolish ideas who cannot afford them. Her stepchildren, fearing bankruptcy, have her comm-itted to the "Cloisters," a sanatorium. The stepchildren don't get rid of her that easily, for Mrs. Savage converts the money into bonds, which she hides. As the play opens, Mrs. Savage is being committed to the sanatorium, where she meets a number of social misfits. She discovers that she is happy to be a part of the make-believe world of these new friends. She enjoys them even more because they are interested in her and not in her money. Mrs. Savage keeps her equanimity and leads her stepchildren on a mad hunt for the ten million.

The play is to run the 17th and 18th (Thurs. and Fri.) of this month. Student tickets are 75¢ and adult tickets are Fertilization and management are the keys to a successful pasture program. Different treatment is recommended for different pasture

For example, early-planted small grains may be about ready for a topdressing of fertilizer. With the soil moisture on the short side in this section, it might be a good idea to withhold or limit grazing until the plants are growing again. The county agent says it is well to remember that small grains make little growth when the temperature s 40 degrees or lower. But, forage growth made in warm weather can be grazed during the little or no growth per-

All frosted grass pasture, such as bermuda grass, should be protected against fire by plowing a fire lane around the pasture. Fire not only destroys the drygrass, a very valuable livestock forage, but also kills cool season plants growing in the dry grass. Wildlife habitat and food is also destroyed when pastures and ranges are burned over.

Don't put all your eggs in one basket when it comes to a community-wide tree planting program. The possibility of large scale losses to disease and insect infestations is a real threat to one-species plantings. The use of several of the state. adapted to the different areas

Ice removal from sidewalks, streets and driveways often presents a problem and common salt is frequently used. Homeowners should be very careful in using salt because shrubs, trees and lawn grass can be severely damaged. As the ice or snow melts the water can carry the salt onto areas where the damage may be done. Visible effects may not appear until early summer. On trees, marginal leaf burn may occur or complete leaf browning and death of the leaves or, in extreme cases, loss of valuable trees and shrubs can occur.

Ammonium nitrate can be used to melt ice in areas where the drainage pattern moves the water into lawn and shrub borders. This material will fertilize the plants as well as melt the ice. If it is not available, commercial fertilizers relatively high in nitrogen and potassium may be used with much the same effect. But only enough of the material should be used to melt the ice. Continued use of these materials over long periods of time is not recommended because soil concentrations will become high enough to cause plant damage.

The optimum season for mechanical brush control work is fast approaching. Although moisture conditions are poor at present, let us hope that the situation improves in the near future.

A&M Center For Marketing Problems

ket Research and Development Center was organized less than two years ago and has already found its place in the agribusiness community of the state.

Some 21 marketing problems and studies have been accepted by the Center, designed to serve agriculture on a cost-sharing basis, according to Dr. W. E. Black, Extension economist at Texas A&M University and associate coordinator of the Center. These different projects have been financed with more than $150,000 paid by producer organizations and private industry in exchange for research and planning by teams of specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Center was begun under the leadership of Dr. Black and Dr. R.E. Branson, who serves as coordinator of the Center.

Most of the Center's clients are producer organizations, but occasionally a private firm uses the facilities. Current projects include research on new methods of processing and handling beef, and marketing Texas onions. In addition, the Center is testing consumer acceptance of a new variety of tomatoes that can be harvested mechplagued tomato producers for "After you have developed a new product, you must subject it to the rigors of the market," asserts Dr. Black. The idea behind the Center is to offer the skills, services and facilities of Texas A&M University for market development with the organizations which benefit paying the direct costs of the work done. This results in the organizations' receiving expert assistance at a savings and allows the specialists to add new information to agriculture. It allows a

Fruitcakes To Sparkle Holidays

Fruitcakes will spark the holiday with flavor excitement when spiced with just the right assortment of fruits, says Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist. The fixin's for fruitcake in-combinations. Cherries are packed whole in glace form, and are colored red and green.

Pineapple is packed in glace form as slices, fingersordiced. They are colored red, green and yellow.

Candied fruits, in 4- and 8-ounce containers, are available in bulk displays, cellopacks and vacuum jars. Most stores stock candied fruits to last only through the holiday season because of limited demand the rest of the year. If planning to buy an excess supply for later use, purchase vacuum jars; they have better keeping qualities.

Nutmeats are important ingredients in fruitcakes. Two pounds of unshelled nuts make about one pound (3 or 4 cups, depending on variety) of nutmeats. When unshelled nuts are priced at half the cost of shelled nuts, they are equally good buys.

Bake fruitcakes in different sizes for variety. A 6-ounce fruit juice can is ideal for a small loaf. Fruitcakes baked be put back into the can for safe traveling through the mail. Ring molds and various sizes of loaf pans also add variety. For large fruitcakes, line the pans with brown paper and grease with shortening. Grease smaller pans, fancy molds and juice cans well. Put a round of greased wax paper in the bottom of the juice can.

Fill pans with batter to within one-half inch of the top, juice cans to within one inch. Set a pan of hot water on the bottom of the oven during baking to prevent a heavy crust from forming.

If the agency holds to its past policy of allowing no increase in any line of coverage greater than 25 per cent, the staff proposal may be scaled down to an effective 18.6 per cent boost.

Earlier the regulatory body committed itself to a new ratemaking formula taking into account investment income of companies and guaranteeing profit on underwriting after taxes.

Staff recommendations would build into the rate base a 4.7 per cent profit on policy writing and an 8.7 per cent allowance for state and federal taxes.

Industry representatives, not yet satisfied, argued their case for a 27.7 per cent average statewide increase and removal of the arbitrary maximum change limitation of 25 per cent for any line. They claimed serious underwriting losses of $45.7 million over the last de-

The Church is the means through which God pronounces his word. God's word sets up the highest ideals for man to live by. Therefore there is no better ground to base your New Year Resolutions on. than those set up by our Lord.

'Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that lave by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Received a letter from a pilot in Abilene, Tex., this week commenting on a past column I wrote concerning my experience at trying to get a job as flight instructor at Ft. Sill. Okla., and the reasons given by a Colonel why I was not

The Col. told me that I would have been hired if I had had fewer hours logged in a conventional plane. It was the Col.'s belief that with several thousand hours flight time in conventional planes a pilot would be signing his death warrant to try to check out in a helicopter in the eight hour dual allowed.

The Abilene flyer was in agreement with the Col. and asked me if I had had experiences in flying different makes of planes that would aid me in believing the Colonel knew what he was talking about.

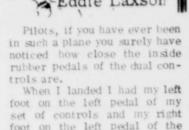

I will answer the letter by writing about two incidents -one at Jacksonville, Tex., in 1945, and the second at the former Gilchrist airport on the highway between Wichita Falls and Iowa Park, Tex., in 1950.

The owner of an Aeronca C plane (a 26 horsepower job) told me I could fly his crate if I cared to. Without dual I took the plane up for a while. NOTE -- Generally a flyer with many hours knows better than to take a strange plane up without being checked out by a competent pilot with experience in the particular plane -- I knew, but didn't heed the little voice in my stomach that kept warning me I was going against my better judgment.

The temperature was near 100 degrees F. with plenty of thermals. I found the plane would climb much faster than it would lose altitude (that day) in a normal glide attitude.

When I needed right rudder I put pressure on what I believed to be the right rudder. Experienced flyers can imagine the result.

The 1950 experience has a direct bearing on what a pilot will do in a strange plane and definitely bears out what the Col. told me and the information I received later by reading an article written by a man who holds the first helicopter

Maybe some readers have had the same experience I had while landing an Erecupe in a strong cross wind. I'll write about this next week.

ilities in October, 1963. Construction of the nearby Canyon Dam on the Guadalupe River was underway at the time and it was believed that tailrace waters below the completed reservoir might be cold enough to support rainbow trout. Working with Lone Star Brewing Co. of San Antonio, which purchased the trout used in initial stockings, White researched endless details in seeking to learn if the river would be good for trout and trout good for fishing. Texas' only public trout stream is now a success and thousands of trout are stocked annually by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service under this type of terminal market,' Dr. William E. Black, Extension economist at Texas A&M ing apprehension of poachers University, says. "Although the number of large farmers are relatively few, they produce about half of all the calves sold, and they are the ones leaving these markets.

There is an increasing realization that the old system is inefficient and causes consumers to pay more for beef than they otherwise would if a new system were developed, the economist said. The beef industry, if it is to prosper and grow, can't live with the inefficiencies. It must eliminate them if the beef industry is going to meet the competition from other foods and synthetics in the years, he said. In a recent study, U.S. cho-ice beef carcasses hanging in a Chicago supermarket cooler were traced back to a Montana ranch where the cattle

"The worst part is that these animals had spent 45 percent of their lifetimes regaining losses in weight and condition from these moves," Dr. Black said. "Shots, changes in feed and ownership and other factors had taken their toll."

Many farmers and ranchers say there's not much room for improvement in the present system, but the fact is, the present method of marketing is changing. The larger producers are beginning to sell their livestock directly to feedlots through contractual arrangements or are retaining ownership and contracting for their animals to be fed in the

According to the economist, there are so many inefficiencies in the present system that retail prices of beef could be reduced, yet returns to beef producers significantly increased if they were overcome.

"In order to do this, there must be a coordinated market-

And Now - Important Health Advice From the Experts

Would you be shocked to learn that one of the major factors in the spread of infections these days is-dirty hands? Incredible, isn't it? According to a recent study, a lot of americans seem to be counting on antibiotics and other medications to cure everything-and neglecting the simplest ounce of prevention of them all-clean hands with proper toilet facilitiesit is an easy matter to cleanse your hands with soap and water whenever necessary. Doctors say that thorough soap and water cleansing is one of the most

However, there is no doubt that many people find it difficult during the day towash up with soap and water as they should-students in school, office and plant workers, sales personnel, travellers, shoppers-almost anyone who steps outside his home, in fact. ber of alternative ways to market livestock," Dr. Black said. "The central question now is whether the leadership for improved coordination in marketing of livestock will come from within or from firms outside the livestock industry.

'If the coordination comes from within, it can either come from farmers and ranchers who join together and form their own marketing associations, or from feedlot operators, meat packers or both who 'reach backward' and integrate producers into the system. However, once there is a high degree of backward integration, producers will have lost their opportunity to organize their own marketing organizations." The other alternative is for firms presently outside of the livestock industry to move in with organization, capital, and management to do the coordinating job which producers should be doing, the economist added.

"Society at large doesn't care who's going to be the coordinator," Dr. Black said. "They just want a high quality product put on the counter as cheaply as possible and an assurance of supply. It does, and should, make a difference to those who are now in the livestock industry, however." Some feel they have the answer to the question of who
