Being the editor of a weekly newspaper is a GREAT job, meaning it's both a large job and a good job. You either learn fast or you spend a lot of time running in circles. As you can see, I don't learn very fast.

I did pick up one thing last week that I might pass on to any new fireman or old. If you hear the fire siren blow and you don't know where the fire is, you had better call in. Or you might try to follow someone like I do. This system is almost foolproof, unless you fall in behind someone like I did who didn't know where the fire was himself.

I had seen this same truck going to nearly all the fires and assumed that it was a fireman. Evidently he wasn't because he went right out of town and never found the fire.

I don't know who this person was, but he was driving a foreign-made plumbing truck. I think it was a VOLT WAGON.

I've never been one to believe in fortunetelling or horoscopes, but I do read horoscopes once in a great while. My wife read my horoscope to me for Thursday, as follows:

You will receive a telephone call which will bring a great fortune.

Not fifteen minutes later, Gene Allen called to invite me to a Chamber of Commerce breakfast. I did appreciate the breakfast Gene, but what are you going to do about my great fortune?

Saturday the Derrick Yearbook Staff will sponsor the Presentation. The purpose of this presentation is to present honors of various types to individuals elected by the students, such as senior favorite, junior beauty and most handsome, and the highest honors, Mr. and Miss Burk Burnett High School.

The presentation will be held at the Burk Burnett High School Cafeteria at 7:00. Tickets are priced at $1.50 general admission and $2.00 for reserved seats.

I would like to extend a welcome to our friends and neighbors in Devol and Randlett. We feel that the new telephone system which will make possible toll-free calls between Burk Burnett and these two towns will bring us all a little closer together.

Feel free to call on the Informer Star staff at any time that you may need assistance on news items.

The road to success is always under construction

Burkburnett Men Receive Citations From Governor

Some 18 Burk Burnett business and civic leaders received citation Monday from the Texas Industrial Commission and Governor Preston Smith for having made a "significant contribution to Texas' industrial development."

The citations were presented to local recipients by E. H. Sheffield of the commission staff in a meeting culminating nearly a year's work towards incorporating pertinent industrial location information on Burk Burnett into the nation's most sophisticated computerized site location data bank.

Called "Insta-Site," the commission's computer program already has received two distinguished awards itself from the Southern Industrial Development Council, a professional society covering sixteen Southern states.

Participation of local leaders in gathering information for "Insta-Site" means that information on Burk Burnett industrial assets will be instantly available to all industrial firms considering new plant sites in Texas.

Sheffield presented Jack Aaron, who served as the commission's local coordinator for the project, a massive 88-page printout containing 1444 items of

Burkburnett City Council Enacts Retirement Plan For Employees

In its February meeting, held Monday night, the Burk Burnett City Council approved the bid of $505,000 made by Mrs. Doris Savage for the sale of a quarter of an acre of land adjacent to the city cemetery.

In other business, city manager Gary Bean explained to the council that the drought conditions had not affected the static water table levels of the city's 11 leases.

The council also approved the taking of bids for two new pickup trucks, one for the street department and one for the meter department. Plans were also approved to accept bids on a new backhoe for the street department.

Bean felt that the new equipment would be justified considering the repair cost of the old trucks and the fact that the trucks could be bought out of last year's budget.

Reports stated that water consumption for Burk Burnett last month was 27.5 million gallons. Bean proposed that the two city water towers be repaired and painted, and that the council accept bids for the job.

Ordinance 397 was accepted by the council. This act put the retirement program for Burk Burnett city employees into effect. In this program the city workers will contribute 3% of their salaries to a retirement fund, which will be matched by 3.2% from the city of Burk Burnett.

Bean also reported the hiring of Mingard Nixon as a part-time dog catcher. One of the city's old trucks will be kept for use by Nixon.

Pictured above, standing, are Howard Thomas, manager for Santa Rosa Telephone Company of Vernon, and C. A. Deuschle, manager for Southwestern Bell, also of Vernon. Seated and making the first call from Burk Burnett to M.T. Crocker in Devol is Burk Burnett's Jerry McClure.

Devol-Randlett Linked To Burk Toll-Free Calling For Randlett & Devol

Direct, toll-free calling between Burk Burnett and Devol and Randlett, Oklahoma, is scheduled to go into service February 8 at 9 a.m.

Calls between Burk Burnett and these two communities are now handled as long distance calls, with a minimum charge of 15¢.

Dub Deuschle, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, stated that when this new service goes into operation telephone users in Burk Burnett will be able to call and be called by every other telephone user in the two communities without paying a message charge. He also added that telephone users in the three communities will be able to dial direct, without going through an operator.

The community interest between Burk Burnett and the Oklahoma communities have continued to grow in recent years, and it is felt that this should increase that interest.

The telephone service for Devol and Randlett is operated by Santa Rosa Telephone Cooperative, Inc. Southwestern Bell operates the telephone system for Burk Burnett. This new system will take in some 1,200 square miles.

Devol now has 107 telephones and Randlett has about 311. Devol and Randlett customers will be listed in the new Burk Burnett directory, which should be delivered about March 1.

All calls between Burk Burnett and Randlett or Devol will be limited to five minutes by means of a conversation timing feature. Approximately 45 seconds before the five minutes is up a dial tone will be sounded.

This five minute time limit is to insure that all telephone customers will have a chance to call.

Bench stated that he had to grow up fast, being 22 years old and having to play, travel and room with men of 30 and older. The young baseball star urged students to "Be the best" in anything they try.

Alvin Hill Completes 50th Years With First National Bank Of Burk

Alvin Hill celebrated Monday the 50th anniversary of his association with the First National Bank of Burk Burnett.

Since Hill started with the bank in 1921, he has seen the bank and the town of Burk Burnett go from good to bad and back to good again.

Hill remembers that when he came to Burk Burnett the population was between 8 and 10 thousand people. In less than two years the population dropped to about half that. Hill stated that during this time, the bank assets dropped to about $5 hundred thousand.

There were two other banks in Burk Burnett at that time, Hill says, the American State and the Farmers State. In 1923, due to the depression, the American State Bank of Burk Burnett sold to the First National, and in 1941 the Farmers State and the First National Bank consolidated assets into one bank.

Hill stated that he has seen a lot of good times and a lot of bad times, but that he enjoyed them all.

Among the benefits he received in the past fifty years with the bank, Hill counts his many friends as the most valuable.

Guidelines Of Life

By Max Dowling, Pastor
Central Baptist Church

The Bible lesson in Luke 13:11-13 tells of a woman whose back was so bent that she was "bowed down." Jesus, who was always aware of human need, "called her to him." Luke 13:11 teaches us that this woman had "a spirit of infirmity." For eighteen years her back had been bent, and I can believe that the bent back had gotten into her mind and left her with a sense of handicap, inferiority and defeat. Jesus said, "Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity," and he straightened not only her back, but also took the bent back out of her mind and enabled her to face life with confidence, to rise above that which was defeating her.

It is possible for a similar experience to come to any of us. When something is defeating us, we can gain power over it and find new confidence by doing three things.

1. We must be willing to understand and accept ourselves. William James quoted a woman as saying, "The happiest day in my life was the day I admitted that I am not physically beautiful and stopped worrying about it." When an individual accepts himself, his life takes on new meaning and power. All of us have handicaps of one sort or another, but we should not let the handicap get into our minds and defeat us. We can go on in spite of ourselves and win victories.

2. We must be willing to trust in the help of God and other people. No experience in life will come that you and God can't handle together. One of the reasons people lose confidence and get shaky is that they realize they do not have the ability and strength to do the things they feel they must do. But we are not alone, and do not have to depend just on ourselves; other people will help us as they have in the past, and the Lord will help us as we trust him each day.

3. We must be willing to live by faith the best we can. An average life span is about half a million hours. Why not start NOW to genuinely experiment in living by Christian faith. Such an experiment may change your whole life. Say to yourself, "Just for one day I am going to try the religion of Jesus Christ." When an unkind word almost reaches your lips, turn it back with a short prayer. When tempted to do something you know to be wrong, as yourself, "What would Jesus do right at this moment if he were in my place?" You may not be able to handle the months and years, but each of us can try Christ's way for just one day -- a single day at a time. By living faithfully as best we can, we shall experience inner satisfaction, spiritual well-being, and the inspiration to face the next day with confidence.

SPORTS

SIDELIGHTS

by Robert Sturges

I can say only one thing about the game Tuesday night--close--much too close. Certainly, a victory of two points is as good as one of a hundred, but what a difference it makes to the people watching the game!

No one who saw the game Tuesday can honestly state that they never became involved in the game. Cheers and yells were numerous and loud. The gasps of fans as balls rolled off the rim of the basket could be heard quite easily. But most of all, it was the general anxiety of be heard quite easily. Anxiety mounted as the crowd watched the score shift constantly this way and that.

Watching the Bulldogs fight fiercely to score two points for the lead, only to have Graham gain control of the ball and score on a bad Burk pass, didn't help anyone's hopeless attempts to remain calm. Fans did play an active part in game strategy by causing general confusion during Graham's freethrows.

But a word of praise should go to the players on the court. As the game opened, they were quickly outscored and left far behind by the Steers. Frustration set in, and Burk seemed to lose all control of the ball. Then, in the true spirit of a great team, the players shunned this feeling of defeatism and began a logical plan to regain the lead and, finally, victory. Patterns relayed to players on the court by Coach Owen, combined with a precise control of the ball to form the winning formula for Burk.

I've noted this type of game plan during many of Burkburnett's contests on the basketball court. Early in the game they are generally weak and as the game progresses, they regain composure and go on to victory, or at least to a close score. There are always a number of players who score in two figures. In the Graham game, Larry VanLoh scored an outstanding 29 points. Such consistency by Burk is a key asset to their ability to come back strong, even when far behind.

Weatherford will be our next opponent in District 4-AAA play. The will be coming here to face the Bulldogs Friday night at 6:00. Why don't you go to the game and watch how exciting and action-packed a basketball game can be when the Burkburnett Bulldogs play.

Bulldogs Top Graham Steers

The Burkburnett Bulldogs dished out their second round of defeats to the Graham Steers Tuesday night here in Bulldog Gym.

The A team played one of their closest games of the year against the Graham varsity squad. Burk fell behind in early scoring in the first period and lagged for the remainder of the quarter. Some progress was made by the Bulldogs in the second period after a reorganization of their offense. This change in game plan resulted in a one-point lead at half time.

However, the lead was short-lived, as the Graham crew came back strong in the third period to score a number of baskets on long, accurate shots. Burk's defensive set upheld the Steer's lead to only two points during the third quarter.

As the fourth period opened, there were numerous occasions when the score was tied. One-and two-point margins were shortened quickly by free-throws. As the scoreboard ticked off the final seconds, Burk stalled for time to hold the lead. Graham finally intentionally fouled Bulldog guard Randy Aaron in order to regain possession of the ball. This proved to be an unwise decision however, as Randy scored two out of three baskets to give Burkburnett its win, 70-68.

The B team found victory an equally tough goal to attain as they battled on the gym floor. Burk was in the lead in scoring from the very beginning of the game, and established a comfortable lead which lasted through the entire game.

The Steers most serious bid for the lead came in the fourth period, in which they scored twenty points.

The Bulldogs won by a score of 76-63, with Lawrence Washington scoring 21 points.

When you promised to share and share alike, did that mean your wife could use up all the hot water?

You could get up earlier. Then you'd be sure to beat her to it. Of course she wouldn't be too impressed with your chivalry. Another alternative is a larger gas water heater. Gas water heaters are easy to buy, easy to install, and recover hot water up to twice as fast as comparable electric models.

So stop competing with your better half. Get a larger capacity hot water heater. For fewer fights and lots more hot water.

Lone Star Gas Co. Board Elects New Chairman

Lone Star Gas Company's Board of Directors last month elected Roy E. Pitts, vice chairman, to the post of chairman and designated the 37-year Lone Star employee as the company's principal policy officer. The Board also designated W. C. McCord, president, as principal executive officer. The promotions were effective Feb. 1.

The Board action was taken due to the retirement of L. T. Potter from regular employment January 31.

Pitts, a graduate of the Dallas School of Law, joined the company's legal department in August, 1933. He served the company as attorney, assistant general counsel and as general counsel prior to his election as vice president and general counsel in April 1967. He was named as senior vice president and general counsel in 1968 and was elected vice chairman in June, 1970.

McCord, an engineering graduate of Texas A&M University, began his Lone Star career in 1949 as an industrial engineer. He held various engineering positions and was serving as director of building management when elected vice president in 1967. That same year he was named senior vice president, chemical operations, for Nipak, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary company. He was elected senior vice president, operation, in September, 1968 until elected to the presidency in February 1970.

TREAD AND TRUE ECONOMY

The current money pinch is prompting economy-minded motorists to take a long look at retread auto tires—both for winter and warm weather driving.

The Tire Retreading Institute of Washington, D.C., says sports and conventional car drivers alike are discovering that the "new breed" of quality-certified retreaded tires available today give the same smart look, high safety performance and road mileage as comparable new tires—at half the cost.

The "new breed" of retreads has been made possible by vastly improved retreading equipment, materials and techniques, and quality control, the Institute explains, adding that: "About 70% of the cost of a new tire goes into its casing. It makes good sense for motorists, from the standpoint of safety and economy, to have their tires retreaded by reputable quality retreaders. Tire Retreading Institute members guarantee their 'new breed' of retreads from coast-to-coast."

New USDA Leaflet On Garden Mulches

Garden mulches and how to use them is the subject of a new leaflet available from the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

Gary A. Batte, SCS district conservationist at Iowa Park, said the leaflet, "Mulches For Your Garden," has the best and most concise explanation of how to use mulches and compost in a garden that he has ever seen.

"The leaflet explains how mulches cushion falling raindrops which reduces soil loss and soil compaction," Batte said. "Mulches keep soil cool in the summer, conserving moisture; they also furnish food for earthworms which are valuable for aerating the soil. Organic matter added by mulches helps keep soil crumbly and easy to work."

The conservationist said that some mulches are more valuable if composted before using. The new publication shows how to build a simple compost bin out of wire or boards and is complete with drawings and pictures.

The leaflet lists the number of cupful of various kinds of fertilizer, wood ashes, or epsom salts to add to a bushel of compost to speed decomposition and to increase the compost's plant nutrient value. Details are also given on how to make acid compost for use with azaleas and rhododendrons.

"Proper handling of mulches is one of the most important but least understood soil and water conservation measures used in Texas," Batte stated. "All good conservation farmers leave the stalks and stems from their crops on the land to reduce erosion and conserve moisture. Few conservation measures do more to reduce pollution from blowing dust or from sediment."

The district conservationist said gardeners could use the same principles in flower and vegetable gardens by utilizing mulches from grass clippings, tree leaves, straw, stems and stalks from harvested vegetables, and other material.

To get your free copy of the leaflet "Mulches For Your Garden," contact any Soil Conservation Service office. The Wichita County office is at Iowa Park, Box 818, telephone 592-4176.

TOGETHER

Brothers — together — helping one another. We are our brother's keeper and his helper. Comfort, cheer, and encouragement should be given to each other.

There should be a willingness on the part of each to sacrifice for the other.

A Divine Example was sent to us, and these are His words: "This is my commandment, that ye love one another, as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

You are invited to attend church Sunday to learn more of the One who gave us this commandment.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

COUNTY AGENT NEWS

B. T. Haws
Wichita County Agricultural Agent

Are you interested in learning how to prune peach trees? If so, a meeting will be held in the county court room in Wichita Falls on Thursday, February 18, beginning at 10 a.m. Mr. U.A. Randolph, Superintendent of the Montague Experiment Station, will be in charge of the demonstration. The general public is invited to attend.

It's been eight weeks since the last case of screwworms was confirmed in the Southwestern United States. Program officials, however, caution that the unseasonably warm temperatures of recent days are conducive to buildups in fly populations. They advise stockmen to continue close checking of all animals for possible cases. During 1970 only 153 cases were confirmed in the nation -- best record ever.

The program formerly known as the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) has a new name. It is now the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) for 1971. It permits resumption of the Federal cost-sharing of various conservation practices with farmers, but under a restructured program in line with modern day needs to better both the on- and off-farm environment. It makes farmers partners in the venture between the Federal, State, City and local governments dealing with the pressing problems of pollution.

Hog cholera has for many years plagued the swine industry; however, due to an intensive eradication program, it is on the road toward extinction.

Texas is currently in Phase III of the hog cholera eradication program. This is the search and destroy phase with State-Federal indemnities available for payment of hogs destroyed because of cholera.

Isolation of new purchases is particularly important now as we close in on this dread and costly swine disease. A major number of the cholera outbreaks are a result of the interstate and intrastate movement of exposed feeder pigs and subsequent mixing of these exposed pigs with cholera free herds. The success of the eradication program depends solely on preventing the exposure of cholera free herds to the cholera virus.

Swine producers should isolate newly purchased animals. This is a sound disease prevention management. Not only will this help reduce the exposure of herds to cholera, but to other diseases as well.

Agricultural quarantine inspectors intercepted more than 47,000 plant pests and diseases at U.S. border ports of entry during 1970. This is an average of 129 pests or diseases per day. They were found in passenger baggage, ship and airplane stores, mail and cargo. The quarantine inspectors are part of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Some of the most dangerous pests, fruit flies, continued to be a major problem and increased about one-fourth during 1970. However, this increase reflects a rise in quarantine inspection activities.

Efficiency of Production Can Help Producers

With the current low hog prices, commercial producers must strive for efficiency in order to withstand this price-cost squeeze.

According to Dr. W. B. Thomas, a Texas A&M University Extension swine specialist, the major factors that influence the efficiency or cost of producing a 220-pound market hog are fixed cost, feed efficiency, cost of grain and pigs marketed per sow per year.

"Fixed cost, such as depreciation, interest on investment, insurance, miscellaneous and repairs cost approximately $1.25 a head for each $100 invested, provided 16 pigs are marketed per sow each year," the swine specialist explains. "It is impossible to produce hogs without any capital investment, but the amount invested should be the minimum required to provide proper environments for the pigs."

Feed efficiency, the amount of feed required to obtain a pound of gain, certainly affects the cost of production. If by following better management practices, adjusting feeders to eliminate feed waste and feeding various classes of pigs according to their needs, the feed requirement can be reduced by one-half pound for each pound of weight gained, an approximate savings of $3.50 on each head would result if milo were costing $2.40 a hundredweight.

The price of grain sorghum also greatly influences the cost of production. "As the price of grain sorghum increases 40¢ a hundredweight, the cost of producing a 220-pound market hog increases approximately $2.70, provided a feed efficiency of four pounds of feed for every pound gained is obtained," Thomas says.

Therefore, producers should make arrangements for their grain needs when it is the cheapest, which is usually at harvest time. So, start planning and making arrangements now for next years needs.

"Pigs marketed per sow each year also influences the fixed cost per pig as well as labor required per pig produced and the amount of sow feed required per pig," Thomas adds. "Pigs marketed per sow each year is influenced by management. Productive, crossbred sows respond to good management, which results in increased productivity and efficiency."

It is the wise producer who keeps the four factors of fixed cost, feed efficiency, cost of grain sorghum and pigs per sow per year in mind as he seeks ways to increase his swine profits, advises Thomas.

If sending cookies for valentine remembrances, cookies travel best when packed well; malleable kinds include soft drop cookies, filled cookies and chewy bar cookies.

Use a strong cardboard box or metal container for mailing cookies. Cookies with honey and fruit improve flavor with age. Applesauce, molasses, oatmeal and mince-meat cookies are good packers.

Bake bar cookies in foil pie pans and mail them in the pans, Miss Thelma Wirges suggests. Line the mailing container with aluminum foil and put a cushion of crumpled paper towels or wax paper on the bottom.

Wrap cookies in pairs, back to back, with foil or plastic wrapping to seal in flavor. Pack snugly in rows with heavy cookies at the bottom. Cover each layer with a cushion or paper towels and top with a thick layer.

Wrap the filled box in foil and heavy brown paper and tie securely.

For Valentine greetings in the form of a sweet dessert, try this heart-shaped meringue filled with lemon. The recipe makes four to six small meringues or a large one.

Before preparing the meringue shell, line a cookie sheet with unglazed brown paper on which is traced a large heart or small hearts of your wish to make individual servings.

Beat four egg whites until frothy, then add a half teaspoon cream of tartar and gradually add one cup sifted granulated sugar. Beat until the mixture is stiff.

Add a half teaspoon vanilla and a few drops of red food coloring.

Now, using a pastry tube or tablespoon, outline the heart design with the meringue. This makes a border. Then build up the outer edge of the border to about a half inch and in the center put just a bit of meringue for a base.

Bake in a slow oven 275 degrees F. until set. The large heart will take about one and a half hours to cook -- the smaller ones from 25 to 30 minutes.

To remove the meringue easily from the brown paper, lift the paper and all from the pan and place a damp towel on the warm cookie sheet. Replace the paper and meringue and after

Farm Management Decisions Important for The 1970's

Farm families will face a multitude of management decisions in the 1970's. That's certainly an understatement if there ever was one. But wise management decisions hold the key to the continued survival of farming operations during this decade.

What decisions face farm families? Dr. William E. Black, economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, discussed 13 issues at a Farm Family Management Conference recently in Lamesa.

To Farm or Not
1. With the continued narrowing of profit margins per unit of farm production, farmers are motivated to do one of two things -- enlarge their farming operation to more production units, or drop out of farming. For those who cannot expand and must quit farming, the major decision is when to drop out and what is the husband's alternative employment opportunity. Moving from farm to non-farm employment is more of an adjustment than many farm families realize or are willing to make.

2. "If the decision is to stay in farming, then the farmer should consider investing in marketing," says Black. The farmer will need to have his production locked into a marketing arrangement ahead of time, or he will not produce. This marketing arrangement can become the basis for financing his production.

Right to Manage
3. "Farmers must retain their identity so that they will be able to make management decisions," emphasizes the economist. "Whether farmers will fight for the type of marketing arrangements that will keep them as independent managers or not is one of the major decisions they will make in the 70's."

Agricultural producers will have to give up more of their vanity of traditional independence in production and marketing and bring about a system of greater internal cooperation and coordination. One goal will be greater disciplined control over output as to quality, quanty and timing. "If farmers rely upon nonagricultural business firms or the government to develop and operate these controls, they will lose their right to manage their farms."

4. "Farmers will need to decide between the political arena and the market place for their economic gains. The guarantee of income in agriculture is not without its price. Until the treasury faucet is turned off, farmers will not become overly serious about their own supply management programs."

5. According to Black, the rising expectations of farm people is another management decision. Farm families today demand income and leisure time comparable to what people in most occupations have. Whether or not they can get and enjoy that kind of life will be another concern in the 70's.

New Technology to Continue
6. New technology will continue to pose new opportunities and new choices. Extensive investment in research and development will likely continue to pay off in more economical sources of power, highly automated systems and unique production techniques. How much investment the farmer will make to aid output--both in research and application--will be another decision.

7. Farmers will also be confronted with social programs that initially seem hard to swallow, such as the public concern about pesticides, nitrates and odors. These public concerns are bringing about restrictions on farm operations, and threats of further restrictions will influence the farmer's choices. Instead of remaining a part of the problem, Black suggests that farmers become a part of the solution.

8. Incometaxes will increase. The economist cites two reasons for this--larger anticipated income per farm, and greater demand for public services and programs at the local, state and national levels. Thus, taxes will become increasingly important as a consideration in managing farms--particularly income and estate taxes.

Labor Picture Changing
9. "The hired farm labor situation is changing. Farmers must now compete with the total economy in a more or less national market." As farmers expand in the labor-intensive enterprises, they become involved in new concepts for employing labor--employment and health insurance, minimum wages, pension plans and unionization rights. Part of these programs will be defrayed by the farmer directly.

10. "The geographic and cultural divisions between the farm and non-farm world will continue to fade," contends Black. "Farmers will not be able to operate in an agrarian world. They will become a bigger part of the process that allows society to survive." Thus the farm public will be demanding educational assistance in a wide variety of subject matter in addition to that for commercial agriculture.

Consumer Orientation Needed
11. "In order to compete with farm product substitutes, farmers must become more concerned with how the consumer accepts his product--and her desires regarding that product. They must relate their business to their customer rather than to themselves. Farmers must take a stronger hand in developing and maintaining markets for their products."

12. Agriculture will become more international. Thus farmers will need to relate to the worldwide dimensions of food and fiber, points out the economist. "International trade will continue to be one of the mainstays of our agricultural economy."

13. Financial arrangements will change as the financial structure of farms and ranches changes and could become a part of the marketing arrangement. More reliable sources of credit will be sought and there will be changes in rental arrangements, consultant services, custom work and incorporation. "Farmers must become more and more concerned with the threat of agribusness takeover."

"The management decisions facing farm families in the 70's constitute a continuing and intense challenge to those planning to succeed in farming," points out Black. "Many adjustments must be made now, and the pace will continue to pick up. For those who fail to adjust to critical changes, the opportunity to adjust to future changes can be lost."

$85,000 In Prizes Awarded at Nat. Western Rodeo

Nearly $85,000 in prize money was awarded in Denver Jan. 24 to winners of the 65th annual National Western Rodeo, the Rodeo Cowboys Association says.

The rodeo, hailed traditionally as "the year's first big one," had more than 500 professional rodeo cowboys entered. Paul Mayo, 28-year-old bareback bronc riding champion of 1970, won all-around honors by winning the most money in two events. He pocketed $2,665 in bareback bronc riding, to take first in that event, and won $1,245 in bull riding.

The biggest money-winner at the rodeo, however, was Joe Watkins, 33, Montview, Calif. He left the Denver coliseum with $4,355 garnered from steer wrestling.

The biggest money-winners in the other events were: Mel Hyland, Surrey, B.C., with $1,170 in saddle bronc riding; Sandy Kirby, Woodstown, N.J., with $2,488 in bull riding; and Olin Young, Peralta, N.M., with $3,011 in calf roping.

Bucky Bradford, Tucson, Ariz., and Gary Gist, Lakeside, Calif., emerged top winners in team roping, each collecting $782.

More than 150,000 persons viewed the rodeo, which had 19 performances. Fourteen of the performances were complete sell-outs.

Following the Denver rodeo, many of the cowboys traveled south to compete in the Fort Worth rodeo, now in progress. Prize money at Fort Worth is expected to reach nearly $90,000.

Professional rodeo cowboys pay their own travel expenses plus rodeo entry fees, and receive only what money they are skilled enough to win in the arena.

Suppose your kitchen is furnished with the white enamel refrigerator, dishwasher and the black or blue-and-white stove that were the pride of yesterday. There's no reason why they should not have a charming setting, and one that plays down their starkness. This can be done by giving them a white background. A vinyl wallcovering printed with bright floral or geometric motifs. By carrying such a pattern over all the flat spaces, and repeating one of the stronger colors in a plain floor covering - and perhaps on the ceiling - you will be making the most of the age-old principle of distraction. A high degree of distraction and character can also be applied by using bright border papers. These are becoming available in all price ranges and you will want to study the subjects carefully as they range from corny decal types of design to elaborate period pieces with draperies and festoons. To avoid both the infantile and the overly theatrical, and get the right width of border, in the colors you need, you may have to cut your own borders. This is easy too and can be great fun. Look at paper strips horizontally instead of vertically - as they are printed - cut out as much of the pattern as you need, for width, and paste it over a plain wallcovering of the same material. For more information on wallpaper and wallcoverings, send $1.00 for a 208-page book to: "Living Walls," Wallcovering Industry Bureau, 969 3rd Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022

HOW TO HANG ON TO A GOOD HUSBAND How do you rate as a mate? Are you great - or are you a house as a spouse? Though your best friend - including your husband - may not want to tell you, you can arrive at a pretty accurate answer by quizzing yourself about the things you do and say. Here are some questions to which you should be able to answer "I do!" But do you? Spend his money? Many a husband feels that one more "final sale" will be the last straw! Remember, a bargain is something you want and need, available at a lower than usual price, if it doesn't meet this test, it isn't a bargain. Remember, too, that these are times when the higher priced of two items is the real buy, china costs more than earthenware, but is much less breakable. Cook his favorite foods often? Even if he likes something you consider bad for him, he should be able to digest it once a week without dire effects. Besides, many low-calorie cookbooks offer non-fattening, nutritious ways to prepare old favorites. Keep yourself energetic and even-tempered for him? He'll enjoy his leisure hours more if you are smiling and unbraided at the end of the day. No matter how hectic your schedule, make at least one hour of rejuvenating relaxation a part of it - either an afternoon nap or a feet-up-on-the-hassock "rest period." Help him start the day right? Most men are grumpy when they wake up - so why add fuel to the fire? Make sure he sees a pretty sight - hair neatly combed, lips enlivened with a trace of lipstick, and so on - he'll love to touch. And remember, this is the time of year that wind and weather team up with water and detergents to dry your skin. Do use special care preparations, like A and D Cream, to protect and restore its softness. Entertain to do him proud? Treating his family and friends royally when they come to visit is a supreme compliment to him - and it's easier and less costly than you might imagine. Ample portions of simple fare usually make a better impression than a wide assortment of exotic foods with just a dab of each. Just as important as your actions are your attitudes, as revealed in the things you say (or don't say) to and about your mate. Do you? Build him up in public and keep his secrets? Fidelity is more than a matter of staying monogamous. You're being disloyal each time you recite "cute" anecdotes that make him look small - correct or interrupt him in front of friends - or tell friends and relatives things they have no right to know. Compare him favorably to other husbands you know? Instead of pointing out to him how much more other husbands in the neighborhood are making etc - concentrate on praising etc - concentrate on praising his good points. You may soon have something that Mrs. Jones will try to keep up with. Accept him as he is without trying to change him? Any "reform" campaign is not only hard on the vocal chords and the marriage ties, but futile besides, the only person who can change your mate is friend spouse himself. You married him for what he was - or did you? Tell him the good things that happened during the day? Avoid a long recital of the day's problems and woes - especially if there's little or nothing he can do about them. Chances are he's had a heck of a day too. Try the same flattery you used before you married him? It worked then - why shouldn't it work now? Try it again - and really listen when your husband speaks. Both actions are great remedies for domestic headaches.

Decorating Tips By Rhonda Racz Home Decor Director Hardwood Institute

EASY STEPS KEEP FURNITURE CARE-FREE I've had a stack of letters from my readers in the last few months asking me what's the proper way to care for furniture. I'm not at all surprised at the lack of information most homemakers have about how to treat their prized tables, desks, buffets, and other pieces. After all, with all the wax and polish manufacturers out to promote their own products, it's very simple to get confused. But it's easy to give your hardwood pieces the treatment they need and deserve!

• Soil and wax build-up may be carefully removed with a little mild soap and a soft damp cloth. Work quickly, avoiding joints. Wash, rinse and dry a small area at a time. Overlap adjacent areas for even results. • Wax furniture only once or twice a year. Always wax along the wood grain. Never use a self-polishing wax. • A paste wax or liquid polish will help keep a high gloss or luster on a finish. Apply polish on a soft cloth, but never directly on the furniture. • To maintain a medium or a low luster finish, use a polish or wax without any silicone. • For furniture with a paint finish, use a wax or polish specifically recommended for paint. Other waxes may discolor paint finishes.
