Editor's Viewpoint

RAYMOND GREENWOOD

Someone told me that there were several big game hunters in the area--or at least several that thought they were. Or was that several big hunters? Anyway see if you recognize any of your friends in the following clipping I ran across.

Once two hunters got lost in the forest. The first hunter said, "Now we must be calm." The second hunter agreed, "You're right. I read that if lost you should shoot three times into the air and someone will come to your rescue."

So they did this, and nothing happened. And they did it again, and still no help came. They repeated this several times without results. Finally the first hunter said, "What are we going to do now?" And the second hunter replied, "I don't know. We're almost out of arrows!"

One of the most popular small-town weekly newspaper editors of West Texas was M.S. (Doc) Sellers. He was the owner of the Brady Sentinel for several years and then for a long time published the Rising Star Record.

On those somewhat rare occasions when a heavy down-pour visited his area, he would write a headline, "Rising Star Area Receives Million-Dollar Rain."

The practice caused a contemporary to quip, "Doc Sellers reported two 'million-dollar rains' this season and we looked up the statistic and found the entire value of the crops in the Rising Star area was $890,000. What we want to know is, Doc, what did you do with that other $1,110,000?"

I understand from talking with one of the local newly weds that his bride was very anxious to please him and prepared a fine meal for him with ham as the main dish. Sitting down to eat, this groom (let's call him Joe) noticed that both ends of the ham had been cut off. When he asked his wife why she had cut the ends off the ham, she said, "because that's the way mother always did it."

A few days later his mother-in-law was visiting them and he asked her if it was true that she always cut the ends off ham and why. She in turn replied, "because that's the way my mother always did it."

Still later, when grandmother was visiting, he asked if this was the way she prepared ham. "Yes," she said, "because that's the only way I could get it in the pan!" I think maybe we could learn something from this that we could apply to our business and our lives as we begin a new year. Let's not be guilty of following the same old track just because they are there.

With the flu bug hitting so many lately and businesses being bugged with the fact that a great portion of their crew may be sick I thought the following might be interesting.

Secretaries come in all shapes and sizes, colors and temperaments. Even the most crotchety boss ought to be able to find one to suit him. A secretary must have a diplomat's tact, a mule's endurance, a salesman's enthusiasm, the sun's punctuality, a sister's loyalty, a rhino's hide, an elephant's memory, a mother's sympathy, and the patience of Job.

Chamber Banquet Tickets Selling Fast

Only seven days remain for area residents to purchase tickets to the Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet which is to be held next Thursday night, January 20 at 7:00 p.m.

Featured speaker for the occasion will be Ace Reid. Ticket sales are going at a good pace according to ticket chairman Mickey Cornelius and Gene Allen, Chamber of Commerce manager. It is expected that some 500-700 persons will be on hand for this annual occasion.

Tickets may be purchased at the First National Bank, Burk Burnett Bank, First Savings and Loan Assn., Texas Electric Service Co., Cornelius Ins. Agency, the Chamber of Commerce office or from any director of the Chamber of Commerce.

Directors for the Chamber include: Bill Boardman, Joe Gillespie, Marjorie Kauer, Joe Ray McCluskey, Mickey Cornelius, Dan Schaffner, Paul Avritt, Loise Bean, Dick Johnston, John Gill, Dale

Lewis, C. J. Lippard, or Jerry McClure, current Chamber president.

The new officers and directors for the 1972 Chamber year will be installed that night. Headed by Reid, McCandless as the new president, other officers include Irv. Smith, 1st. vice-president; J.B. Riley, Jr., 2nd vice-president; Dale Lewis, treasurer; and Lester Yates, assistant treasurer. New directors for the coming year will include Walt Doerre, Loreta Hunt, Gary Owen, Larry Watts and Lester Yates.

Special awards and other special recognition will be given to several individuals as well as organizations during the banquet.

Bill Vincent, who is in charge of the menu, reports the meal will closely follow what was served last year--a delicious steak cooked on an outside grill with all the trimmings which will include a baked potato, tossed salad, garlic bread, coffee, and coconut pie.

"We hope to give those attending the banquet a great meal and to top that provide some of the best entertainment that could be found." "I think we have that combination with us serving steaks and with Ace Reid doing the after dinner speaking," a spokesman stated.

Reid, the famed COWPOKES cartoonist, was honored in 1961, 1962 and 1963, when The Texas Legislature cited him as Outstanding Texas and commended him for his "wit and skill" in depicting the Old West and in giving future generations assurance and confidence in the past to insure their faith in the future.

Also the Texas Chamber of Commerce presented him with their highly prized Cultural Achievement Award.

Recently, the Cowboy Hall of Fame asked that he be a judge for the Western Heritage Award for the best art book of the year 1968.

Reid travels some 35,000 miles each year for speaking engagements and to keep in personal contact with the newspapers that publish his cartoons.

As stated earlier, ticket sales are going at a rapid pace. People were calling the Chamber of Commerce office for tickets to the banquet as soon as they learned of who would be the after dinner speaker for the occasion. This was before the tickets for the banquet were even ready!

An enjoyable and informative time is expected to be had by those that attend this year's Chamber of Commerce Banquet which will be held in the new Burk Burnett Community Center.

"It's worth the price of the ticket ($4.50) just to hear Ace Reid--or for the steak dinner that will be served--or-

Reid McCandless, T. M. Cornelius, Albert Dillard, Mayor Billy J. Smith, Luther Caffee, Irv. Smith, A.H. Lohofener and Gary Bean, city manager.

Large Crowd Attends Formal Dedication

Over three hundred persons from Burk Burnett and the surrounding area were on hand to watch Burk Burnett's Mayor Billy J. Smith clip the ribbon to officially open the new Burk Burnett Community Center Sunday afternoon.

Among this long list of guests were many state and local officials who were on hand to view the new structure and pay tribute to Burk Burnett and its officials.

City Manager Gary Bean, who served as master of ceremonies for the occasion, in welcoming those present to the dedication stated, "This is a proud day for Burk Burnett. I'm glad to see all of the out of town visitors as well as the many local people here. This is just one of the goals of Burk Burnett that we have attained--it's not the first and it won't be the last." Bean further stated that the building was built with local funds.

Reid McCandless, who was the mayor of Burk Burnett when active plans began for the center, brought a brief history of the center to those present.

McCandless told the group that this project had been talked about for years, and then on March 5, 1968, the city council authorized that a proposed plan and sketch of a community center be drawn up. Because of lack of interest by the majority of the people at that time, no action was taken on these plans.

The Community Center was still a much needed item, thought the local civic clubs and the Chamber of Commerce, who even passed a resolution pledging their support to the city on such a venture.

The total cost of the structure was still a large bill to overcome, reported McCandless. "Then C. E. Harris, District manager of Permian Oil Co., came to our rescue when he offered 2.1 acres of land for the center from Permian Oil Co. On March 31, 1971, the council accepted the gift from Permian and gave an okay for that land as a proposed plan and sketch of a community center be drawn up.

On July 13, 1971, bids for the construction were opened. The bid went to low bidder Joe Ray McCluskey for the amount of $116,590.00.

"This $135,000 Community Center is all paid for by the citizens of Burk Burnett without any raise in taxes or without any federal funds," reported McCandless to the group. "This is your facility, be proud of it, take care of it, and use it," he continued.

Jerry McClure, president of the Burk Burnett Chamber of Commerce said, "This center just didn't happen here, it took a lot of hard work from a lot of good dedicated men and they should be commended for this project."

Jim Bradley, division manager in Abilene of Permian Oil Co., the donors of the two-acre site of the building, told the group, "We are proud to have a part in this project, and we are proud to be citizens of Burk Burnett."

Other officials of Permian, including H. D. Murray, C. M. Adams, Chuck Lucas and C. E. Harris were introduced to those present. In addition to this, members of the Burk Burnett City Council were introduced, which include Albert Dillard, T.M. Cornelius, Irv Smith, Luther Caffee, A.H. Lohofener, and Reid McCandless.

Political guests were given special recognition by the City. Those attending were Rep. Vernon Stewart, Rep. Dava Allred, Rep. Charles

Guidelines of Life

David Stout, Pastor
First Christian Church
PREACHING WHAT YOU PRACTICE

How many times have you heard it said, "Practice what you preach." Those are words of advice to any who would offer words of advice. But I wonder how many have ever considered that Christians are in fact obligated to preach what they practice? Too often the tendency of modern discipleship is to go to church, participate in all activities that the church has to offer, enjoy the fellowship, but rarely tell others about it. Not the case of the first century disciples. The band of followers of Jesus were dubbed very early in their activities as "followers of the Way". Their "way" was a mode of life, something they both practiced and preached.

To be sure, we have a morality from the Galilean, but our duty rests in our neighborhood. Our duty is to fill the gap between the two until the faith of one has become the way of the other. To mumble a phrase is easy. To learn from memory scripture or a song is rarely difficult for one who puts the mind to it. But to convey the message in life is still another story. Someone has said, "The heights charm us; the paths that lead to them is another thing. We do not like them."

To Paul, Christianity was not a clanging symbol or a tinkling bell. Christianity was a way of life. One that indeed was both practicing what was preached, but also preaching what was practiced.

Price, a veteran of the Korean War where he flew a Sabre jet fighter, is one of only three members of Congress qualified to fly and evaluate the modern and sophisticated combat aircraft of the United States.

A strong believer in water conservation, Price states more water conservation is needed in West Texas to attract new industry and agriculture businesses which would provide jobs and better wages.

Due to the congressional re-districting in 1971 Congressman Bob Price and Congressman Graham Purcell were pitted against each other for the upcoming election this year.

Local Economy Greatly Enriched By Sheppard AFB During 1971

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS-- More than $141,000,000 was added to the economy of Wichita Falls and the surrounding area by the operation of Sheppard Air Force Base in calendar year 1971.

This was an increase of approximately $11,000,000 from 1970.

Military pay, the largest single item of expenditure during 1971 was $91,000,000. Civilian payroll from appropriated funds totaled approximately $27,000,000. The Base Exchange, including the concessionaires, had a payroll of approximately $1,500,000 while the nonappropriated fund employees payroll was about the same figure.

Construction figures for contracts awarded during the year decreased. It totaled about $6,000,000 as compared with about $11,000,000 for the 1970 period. The 1971 figures included military construction project contracts for a 1,000 man dormitory, a technical training building, air-conditioning 32 dormitories and two smaller contracts, modification of air conditioning and hot water system of two dormitories and modification of roof beam of an officers quarters. It also included numerous operation and maintenance contracts.

Other projects completed during the year were a 100 bed addition to the U. S. Air Force Regional Hospital, a date processing plant, and an aerospace ground equipment shop. A 1000-man dormitory, started in 1970, is almost finished which will make three completed and one under construction.

The base procurement office spent approximately $9,200,000. Of that amount $5,500,000 was spent in the Wichita Falls area for local purchase of supplies, approximately $2,700,000 in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and about $1,000,000 in the remainder of the Texas area.

Of the 2,323 vendors throughout the United States on the bidders mailing list offering their supplies and services in support of Sheppard, 378 are from Wichita Falls.

Local support services totaled approximately $5,000,000. This included the contracts for both Serv-Air, the company which has the maintenance contract for the T-37 and T-38 jet aircraft used in the undergraduate pilot training program; and Webster

Company which has the contract for dining hall maintenance. Other services included in this is utilities, refuse collection, education, contract maintenance, custodial service, clothing alterations, dry cleaning and office machine maintenance.

The estimated increase in salaries at Sheppard in the new year due to the federal pay raise effective this month will be approximately $6,000,000 for military and $1,000,000 for civilians paid from appropriated funds.

Final Plans Reviewed

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS-- Final plans for implementation of cooperative program between Midwestern University and the School of Health Care Sciences at Sheppard Air Force Base were reviewed by representatives of Midwestern University and the School of Health Care Sciences Wednesday.

Sheppard airmen in the School of Health Care Sciences' Radiology Specialist and Medical Laboratory Specialist courses will have the opportunity to take part in an associate degree program at MU this spring.

Col. Hal Layton, USAF retired, director of inter-institutional programs at MU, explained that development of the cooperative program will be valuable in providing an incentive for airmen to improve through educational advancement while in the Air Force.

"Our program will prepare men and women in the Air Force radiology and medical laboratory career areas for best performance while on active duty and will provide means for immediate placement in civilian positions at the termination of his Air Force career."

Dr. Mary E. Hawthorne, educational advisor to the commander of the School of Health Care Sciences said, "We are making medical, educational and military history. Pioneering in developing a plan that may well serve as a national model for the preparation for health care delivery teams."

SHEPPARD AIR FORCE BASE

School of Health Care Sciences Makes Progress

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS-- Assuming a position of leadership in national health care education, many innovative programs were added to the curriculum of the School of Health Care Sciences at Sheppard AFB, during 1971.

Pioneering in development of the program of education of the physician assistant, the first 25 student physician assistants began classes at the school in July.

The optometry specialist course, which began in September, will help ease crowded appointment books in optometry clinics in U.S. Air Force hospitals throughout the nation. The course includes basic ocular anatomy, basic optics, use and maintenance of optometric testing equipment, visual therapy, and medical ethics.

The School of Health Care Sciences has made unprecedented strides in encouraging cooperation with civilian universities in areas related to allied health careers.

The Memorandum of Agreement recently approved between Midwestern University and the school, allowing inter-institutional sharing of resources has augmented the programs of both schools. Other agreements with civilian colleges and universities are now in the negotiation phase, providing exciting possibilities for future implementation.

The school's affiliation with the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in December assures continuation of an ever-expanding series of civilian approved programs. It will benefit the quality of health care provided in Air Force hospitals and better the credentials held by the school's graduates.

Col. Jerrold L. Wheaton, commander of the Sheppard-based medical school, said, "Civilian certification, registration and licensure of military allied health professionals prepares the military member for immediate assimilation into the civilian economy. It is a significant contribution to the national resource of medical manpower."

The School of Health Care Sciences has long pursued civilian certification, registration and licensure. The list of these courses has grown during 1971, now including the diet therapy specialist, diet therapy supervisor, medical service technician (vocational nurse), operating room specialist, radiology specialist, medical laboratory specialist, executive housekeeper, dental specialist, dental technician, dental laboratory specialist, and preventive dentistry specialists.

In July the Texas Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners provided medical service technician graduates an opportunity which could add to national licensure.

The state board afforded the opportunity to those graduates who meet specified academic and clinical experience requirements to apply to take the comprehensive examination challenging the 39-week medical service technician (vocational nurse) course. Those who pass the exam could be given credit for completion of the entire course. The locally taught course is 13 weeks long.

Successful challengers become eligible to take the national licensure examination for practical/vocational nurses.

The School of Health Care Sciences opened one of the most advanced Learning Resources Centers in the nation in 1971. Allowing creative individual study, the multi media center is supported by closed-circuit television, videotape equipment and illustrated audio texts.

Self-pacing is now being extended to a number of courses taught at the school, the most impressive example is the medical equipment repair technician course in the Department of Health Service Administration.

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS-- "Without qualification, this has been a great year for the Tech School."

So says Col. Thomas B. Miller, commander of the 3750th Technical School at Sheppard AFB, reflecting on his first full year at the helm of the school. Colonel Miller, who assumed command in November, 1970, is understandably pleased.

Growth has been one of the characteristics of the school over the past 12 months.

"Early in 1971, says Colonel Miller, "we assumed command of all the Air Training Command Field Training Detachments throughout the world. Also of major importance to us was the transfer of training in carpentry, masonry, heating and heavy equipment operation from the Navy to the Tech School."

While the school was broadening its spectrum of training during the last year, it also took a giant step toward full academic recognition of its training programs.

"Our affiliation with Southern Association of Colleges and Universities was a significant step, of course," states Colonel Miller, "and we anticipate that the entire Technical School will be fully accredited this coming year. This will be the first time that any military organization has ever been accredited by an educational association."

The Tech School also initiated many personnel program improvements, most in connection with Project Volunteer, during 1971.

"We've improved student housing considerably by air conditioning all of the barracks and accepting a new 1000-man dormitory. We've also eliminated many of the irritants associated with military life. Such things as bed check for students and close supervision of their free time."

"Another big improvement has been the Student Aide Program we instituted, where we put a senior NCO in the squadrons with the students.

Their only job is to help students solve their problems, and the program has been very successful."

The school was extremely active during the last year in improving educational and teaching techniques.

"We developed and implemented a plan for building a 'learning center' here in the Tech School," said Colonel Miller, "this will help improve our instructional techniques and should be an immense benefit in the years ahead."

"In the past year we've also implemented such techniques as fast track and multi media to accelerate training, which not only improves the quality of instruction, but also saves the Air Force considerable time and money."

Tech School was the host during 1971 for two unique conferences. The first, the Field Training Detachment Commanders Conference, drew Air Force personnel from around the world to discuss problems and improvements in the field training system.

The second, the Air Force Conference on Instructional Systems Development, was the first of its kind in the Air Force.

A prized feather in the Tech School's cap came when the school received an outstanding Air Training Command Inspector General report during the past year. Many areas of the school's operation were rated by the IG as "excellent," the highest rating given during such inspections.

The school was also the recipient of the National Safety Council Medal of Honor for an outstanding ground safety program.

Another notable achievement during 1971 included a contribution of 110 per cent of the Tech School goal for the Combined Federal Campaign. The school contribution was the largest, in dollars and cents, ever contributed by any organization at Sheppard.

The Tech School also surpluses Resources Conservation Program, contribution a whopping 750 per cent of its quota, which resulted in over a million dollars saved.

"The most significant achievement, though," says Colonel Miller, "lies in the fact that during 1971 we graduated over 29,000 students, prepared for jobs throughout the Air Force. That's our real mission here."

"In all respects, 1971 was outstanding for us at the Tech School, and 1972 should be even better."

TCTA Awards Total $1,250

Texas Classroom Teachers Association will award some $1,250 to promote professional growth among its membership. Presentation of these awards will be made to selected TCTA members at the TCTA annual convention in Dallas, February 18-19, 1972.

The Professional Growth Awards will be granted in three categories. Two awards of $250 each will go to two teachers who wish to continue their studies at a college or university. A grant of $500 will be made to a teacher who wishes to undertake research on an education-oriented topic, and $250 will be awarded for educational travel.

A committee consisting of the TCTA Teacher Education and Professional Standards Committee, and two members of the TCTA Board of Directors, appointed by the President, will select the recipients for the Professional Growth Awards. This committee will also select four alternates who will receive the grant if any of the recipients is unable to fulfill terms of the award.

"This award series demonstrates the continuing concern of TCTA to encourage and help teachers upgrade their skills to ultimately benefit the children of Texas," stated Mrs. Jackie Blackstock of El Paso, President of the 45,000 member organization.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN Attorney General of Texas

Referral selling is a sales scheme whereby purchases are induced on the representation that the cost to the buyer will be reduced by commissions he will earn by referring the seller to other prospects. In short, it is a method generally used to market an over-priced product or service, and it is designed to induce the reluctant consumer to enter into a contract which legally obligates him to pay for the merchandise or service.

A prospective customer may be contacted through newspaper advertising, telephone solicitation, or by a door-to-door salesman. The products typically are home fire alarm systems, aluminum siding, some household appliances such as vacuum cleaners, and promotional land sales. The initial approach may consist of an invitation to participate in a money-making opportunity or a chance to receive the product or service at no cost.

The consumer who encounters one of these referral sales schemes would be well-advised to note the following. First, a product or service which is probably over-priced must be purchased before participation in the scheme is allowed. Second, it is common for the salesman to make exaggerated representations of potential earnings to be made by referring other persons to the company who will agree to listen to the sales presentation. Third, the salesman may attempt to convince the consumer that he is getting the merchandise free because the referral commissions will pay for the product. Finally, the market for the product will become saturated in a relatively short period of time if all participants continue to refer their

Is this what you expect a Limousin to look like? Not if you're thinking Cadillac. Progressive bovine breeders do, however, consider the new Limousin breed "the Cadillac of cattle" because of quality and performance including cut-out superiority, exceptional daily gain, and earlier marbling on a comparatively low energy ration. Limousins are not really a new breed, except to the United States where they were first introduced from France, via Canada, about three years ago. They come from the Limoges area of France where their ancestry dates back before the time of Christ in ancient Aquitaine, one of the three parts of ancient Gaul.

The renowned bull Essor, pictured, will be exhibited in January 1972 at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show; then at the San Antonio Show and Houston Livestock Show in February, sponsored by the Texas Limousin Association established less than a year ago. Current Limousin breeding in the U.S. is by artificial insemination. In 1969 some 5000 cattle were bred to purebred Limousin semen. The 1971 estimates approach a quarter of a million. Information on Limousin breed is available from Texas Limousin Association, P.O. Box 717, Waxahachie, Texas 75165.

Large Prizes Set For New Limousins Class

A total of $2000 prize money has been announced for growers of new carcass-bred Limousin steers that will be exhibited at the 1972 State Fair of Texas; with prize money being furnished by the Texas Limousin Association and North American Limousin Foundation.

Texas Limousin Association will award $1000 cash for the Fair's Grand Champion steer providing he is 50% or more Limousin, with an additional $500 for the Reserve Champion if 50% or more Limousin. And the North American Limousin Foundation will award the Grand Champion steer $500 of 50% or more Limousin.

This announcement came from Jim Sammons, executive secretary of the Texas Limousin Association. Less than a year old, this association has 125 members in Texas including leading cattle breeders from most areas. Asked about special Limousin advantages, Sammons said that they have unusually productive carcasses with red-meat cut-out ratio as high as 83%. He added, "At the recent Canadian carcass show where only two Limousin cattle were among the 200-plus entries, these two won first and third prizes."

One of the renowned bulls that has sired many Texas carcass-bred Limousins is Essor who was displayed at the 1971 State Fair of Texas and who will also be exhibited in January 1972 at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show; then at the San Antonio Stock Show and Houston Livestock Show in February of 1972.

A limited number of Limousin steer calves, in certain Texas areas, are available at market price to 4H and FFA members; and semen from famed full-blooded Limousin bulls is offered by Texas Limousin Association, P. O. Box 717, Waxahachie, Texas, 75165.

Texas Cattle Exports Expected To Increase

AUSTIN--Texas, already Number One in the nation in exports of beef cattle, will show further gains in the coming years due to several programs being promoted by the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White outlined these projects now being conducted by TDA to expand cattle exports:

1. Personal contacts by TDA personnel in lining up buyers and sellers of cattle for foreign purchases.
2. New export handling facilities to be built at a half dozen locations in the state.
3. A tour of Mexican government officials under auspices of TDA personnel to the Houston, Sulphur Springs, Panhandle and San Antonio areas of the state January 12 to 14.

Recently, about 200 head of dairy cattle were shipped from Central Texas to Mexico as a result of TDA personnel contracting Mexican buyers and getting them in touch with Texas' producers. Included in the shipment are Holstein and Jersey dairy cattle.

The cattle were shipped from the Evans Reese Auction Service barns near Waco. "It is cooperation such as this through the private trade channels and through the Texas Department of Agriculture programs that give us a sound basis for further expansion of livestock exports to foreign countries," White said. "We hear a lot about imports of the exotic breeds to this country, but our cattle, too, are in much demand by foreign countries for upgrading their herds," White explained.

The Texas livestock export business amounted to more than $12.5 million in 1970. The Texas Legislature appropriated about $750,000 for construction of the new export facilities. Present shipping pens have been condemned.

Specifications for new facilities at Eagle Pass and Del Rio are expected to go to bidders by February 1, 1972. New facilities will be located at the Houston International Airport and will be the largest of the proposed facilities.

"The new Texas facilities will be unequalled anywhere in the United States and far exceed minimum standards set by U. S. Department of Agriculture and Mexican authorities," White said.

TCFA Aids Tech In Research

Cattle feeding research being conducted at Texas Tech University center at Amarillo will take on a new dimension in 1972 with the installation of a new feed milling equipment. A joint announcement today by Tom Herrick, President, Texas Cattle Feeders Association and Dr. Hollis Klett, Superintendent, University Center, revealed the completion of a three-month project involving the installation of a 40 HP steam boiler, stainless steel chest steamer, Ross 18x24 H.D. flaking mill, and the necessary supporting motors and other equipment.

The new milling equipment was made possible through a grant by Texas Cattle Feeders Association and the cooperation of Ross Machine and Mill Supply, Inc. Ross Machine provided the necessary equipment at cost and provided engineering and supervision for the installation. Cost of the equipment was approximately $11,000.00.

Don Ashley, General Manager, Amarillo Division, Ross Machine and Mill Supply, Inc., worked with TCFA staff and University Center personnel in the planning and installation phases of the project.

Dr. Klett said "the installation of the new flaking equipment will improve the efficiency of the Center's feeding tests and will allow the Center to more nearly duplicate actual conditions of a commercial cattle feeding operation."

TCFA Executive Vice President Lloyd Bergsma stated: "The Association has carried on feeding trials at the University Center for nearly two years. Present plans are for the Association to provide the cattle and other required resources for conducting two feeding trials at all times. Each trial requires approximately 150 head of cattle." Bergsma continued, "The new steam flaking equipment will be a real benefit in providing more meaningful results from the feeding trials."

TFC Wins Major Victory On Driver Regulations

WACO -- (SpI) -- Farmers and ranchers have won a clear-cut victory in regard to farm truck driver regulations, according to J.T. (Red) Woodson, president of the Texas Farm Bureau.

The final revised regulations which have been issued and in effect since Jan. 1 are in accordance with Farm Bureau's recommendations, the state farm leader said.

Woodson said Farm Bureau members around the nation responded to a call for action last Spring that resulted in a decision by the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety to change the proposed stringent rules on farm truck driver qualifications. Leaders of the American Farm Bureau Federation said the response by farmers and ranchers was one of the greatest they had ever seen. The proposed revisions announced on June 8 are similar to the final revised rules.

In brief, these revised regulations provide a complete exemption from federal regulation of truck driver qualifications in the case of a driver of a farm truck:

1. If the gross weight of the truck is 10,000 pounds or less, or
2. If the truck is a straight truck with a gross weight over 10,000 pounds, within a radius of 150 miles of the farm, or
3. If the truck is engaged in transporting machinery or supplies to or from a farm for custom harvesting or transporting custom harvested crops from the farm to storage or market, or
4. If the truck is engaged in hauling bees in seasonal movement.

A partial exemption is made in the case of the driver of a farm truck which is a combination truck with a gross weight in excess of 10,000 pounds, within a radius of 150 miles of the farm. In such cases, the driver must be at least 18 years of age, and after next Jan. 1, must carry with him while driving a certificate showing he passed a medical examination.

In addition to the provisions spelled out in the revised rules, the Bureau of Motor Carriers said that: "Generally, the operation of trucks wholly within a state are not subject to the Driver Qualification Regulations."

Farmers or their employees who are not exempt as provided above are subject to the same regulations as non-farm drivers. These requirements are that the driver must:

1. Be at least 21 years old.
2. Take a road test in driving a truck.
3. Take a written examination in the federal motor vehicle safety regulations.
4. Pass a medical examination and carry a certificate so indicating.
5. If an employee, file with his employer information relative to items 1 through 4 above, and information relative to his background and experience. The employer is required to file such information.

The Department of Transportation is preparing a leaflet summarizing the revised regulations. These will be distributed by the Agricultural Extension Service.

Local Rotary Club Reaches 500% Foundation Plateau

Burkburnett Rotary Club members have their chests extended a little farther outward because of one of their recent achievements. Dr. Carl J. Morrison, chairman of the Rotary Foundation, and Rev. Lamoin Champ, club president, reported recently that the local Rotary Club has reached another plateau—the 500% plateau—in the Rotary Foundation.

The local club gave $295 during the month of December to push the club into this highly sought area. In addition to this amount, $630 was given by the club to the Foundation over the past several months. The Burkburnett Rotary Club is presently comprised of 39 members.

The objective of the Rotary Foundation is the furthering of understanding and friendly relations between peoples of different nations through projects of an educational or charitable nature.

The Foundation, an international venture of Rotarians in some 150 countries, seeks to further understanding and good will among people of different nations. Talented and promising young men and women study abroad with expenses paid by the Foundation. They are exposed to the life of the country by Rotarians and their families who advise and befriend them. The result is a warm and significant experience which makes each educational award unique among international study programs.

This year more than 600 young people received such awards. They are the most recent of more than 4,000 at a cost of $9,290,000, who have participated since the program began in 1947. Rotarians and their relatives and dependents are eligible for awards.

Each of the more than 300 Rotary districts has at least one of its young men or women selected under the educational awards program, for a year's study in another country. Many districts get two awards, and others go to clubs not in districts. Study is at the graduate or undergraduate level or for technical training.

Each award winner must be an outstanding student and highly qualified as an Ambassador of good will. His formal study is enhanced by social and other contacts abroad arranged by local Rotarians.

The Rotary Foundation has recently launched a new award program designed for teachers of mentally, physically, and educationally handicapped persons. Qualified applicants who are selected will be given educational awards for a year's study in another country.

Each applicant must be sponsored by a Rotary Club and endorsed by a district. The Rotary Foundation trustees will select up to 25 such teachers to study abroad in 1973-74 from among candidates submitting applications in 1971-72.

Burk Volunteer Fire Dept. Receives Check

The Burkburnett Volunteer Fire Department received a check for $75.00 recently from Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies as an expression of thanks for the Department's work on the property of the Lec Cooper Estate at 4501 University, Wichita Falls, Texas.

The money will be used for the loss prevention program. The Texas Farm Bureau Insurance Companies pay volunteer fire departments this amount when the department works at a fire in rural areas, involving property insured by them.

The Insurance Company believes volunteer fire departments have contributed to reduce the amount of loss involved by fire and more important, to prevent fires. It is their hope this money will help the Burkburnett Volunteer Fire Department in their program.

Rotary clubs across the nation are now in search for qualified candidates for 1973-74 Rotary Foundation Educational awards. Each Rotary district is eligible to submit a candidate for at least one of the three awards of its choice -- a Graduate Fellowship, Undergraduate Scholarship or Technical Training award.

Each educational award is for one year of academic study in a country other than the recipient's own and covers round-trip transportation, registration, tuition, school fees, educational supplies, room and board, incidental living costs, limited educational travel during the study year, and, where necessary, intensive language training.

In addition to this the Rotary Foundation Trustees have authorized a total of 164 extra educational awards for 1973-74 to 108 Rotary districts with exceptional contribution records. Each district is also entitled to one educational award if a satisfactory candidate is presented.

TEEN TALK

By Laura Allison

Last week the high school had the opportunity to have three convicts from the State Institute of Corrections in Huntsville, Texas, speak to it.

This program, which is sponsored by International Kwans Clubs, is presented each year to Burk students. Rep. Vernon Stewart opposed the assembly by explaining that the criminals get no special favors for their parts in the program. They simply want to tell the students what happened to them and why they went to jail.

All three were under 21 years of age and had been sent to prison on some kind of drug charge. Their hope was that by telling us their stories, we will not make the same mistakes.

The Student Council has been working on registering the eighteen-year-olds to vote this last week. So far approximately one hundred people have registered, and we are expecting about one hundred more.

Registering is necessary if you want to vote this April in the school board elections, in city council elections, for the President, and any other local, county, state, or national elections. Be sure to get your card in by January 31.

Last week I told you about two upcoming activities at school, Presentation, and the DECA contests.

Well there's another one coming up on February 18-19 that will be of major interest to parents and the kids. The speech, drama, and music departments will be presenting a all-school production at the newly completed Burk Civic Center.

The theme of the production is "We've got a lot to give." The high school State Band, under the direction of Mr. Jimmy McClain, will entertain along with the chorus which is directed by Mr. David Yeary. Tryouts for the crew and cast of the show were held last Monday.

Last year's production was a huge success, so don't miss this year's show.

Lone Star Gas Innovation Told

Lone Star Gas Co. has recently introduced an innovation in heating equipment, according to Neal Hall, vice president.

The new equipment boasts solid state furnace controls that permit variation of the blower and the natural gas burner, providing continuous air movement and eliminating a build up of cold or hot air.

Two systems operating together vary the speed of the blower that circulates air throughout the home. These systems also regulate the burner flame that produces the heat. When more heat is needed, the burner flame is higher; the blower speed faster. When less heat is needed, the burner flame is lower; the fan speed slower. These operations eliminate harsh on and off cycling of the heating systems, and variations in air temperatures are held to an absolute minimum. The blower is continuously activated, usually running at a very low speed. The increase to high speed, when necessary, is gradual and practically unnoticeable.

"Because these systems use no more fuel than is necessary," Hall explained, "the consumer can normally expect lower natural gas bills. Minimum fuel usage is the result of the continuous air movement allowing the thermostat to make constant responses with the air temperature in the home. Cleaner air is also a result of the new equipment, since air moving through the blower at a low speed allows the filter more time to trap dust.

"Since total year-round comfort is of prime importance to the homeowner," Hall continued, "the constant air circulation feature makes this heating system extremely compatible with natural gas cooling equipment." The heating equipment is currently available under two trade names from local natural gas appliance dealers.

30,000 Youngsters In Gun Safety Program

AUSTIN--The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has launched a massive program aimed at training more than 30,000 youngsters in shooting and gun safety during 1972 in an effort to curb tragic hunting accidents in the state.

Theron D. Carroll, staffer in charge of the Texas Voluntary Hunter Safety Training Program, announced he has begun accepting applications to fill the 2,000 plus volunteer instructor jobs expected to be needed.

The basic six-hour course for youngsters 12 and older is a cooperative effort of the department and the National Rifle Association (NRA).

Persons interested in serving as volunteer instructors are asked to write the Hunter Safety, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Tex., 78701, for the application-examination and instructions.

The applicants accepted for the program will be tested and certified as official NRA instructors and will be responsible for organizing classes of as many as 15 students.

The instructors will be expected to provide any firearms to be used, and arrange for the use of rifle ranges if "live firing" is to be included in the course.

The department will furnish supervision, instructional materials and ammunition, and will issue hunter safety cards to youngsters who complete the course. Carroll said the first "graduates" of the course are expected to be certified after Feb. 1.

The new program makes the department the official hunter safety training agency for the state. Instructors who are certified by the department will be recognized by the NRA. The program began earlier this year with the selection and training of "senior instructors"-- a group consisting of department district chiefs, law enforcement supervisors, regional information-education officers and hand-picked game management officers. These men, who are all NRA-approved instructors, will supervise the statewide program.

Carroll said the program is aimed at school-age youths at least 12 years old, but instructors may include younger students if they wish. The department will not, however, furnish materials for, or certify, those under 12.

Four of the course's hours will be comprised of the same type of instruction as the NRA hunter safety course. The other two hours will deal with matters more directly related to the state of Texas, such as game laws, field safety, sportmanship and game identification.

Carroll said 32 hunting accidents have been reported so far in 1971, and 12 of them resulted in fatalities. Through statewide gun safety training, Carroll said, the department hopes to reduce this tragic toll.

Skid Stopper Hints Revealed

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Kids may get a big "bang" from skidding their feet across the winter ice but for motorists the bang from a skid can be much more serious and unpleasant.

Since it's skid season in many parts of the country the Tire Industry Safety Council suggests it's a good time to review prevention and cure techniques.

To prevent skids:

- * Keep tires properly inflated. To prevent swerving while braking, tire pressure on the same axle must be equal.
- * Drive more slowly on slippery roads and approach intersections with particular caution.
- * Never jam on brakes; pump them to avoid locking wheels, which can cause a skid.

If a skid starts:

- * Take your foot off the gas.
- * Keep off the brakes, braking only makes the skid worse.
- * Steer into the skid by turning wheels in the direction in which your rear wheels are sliding.
- * When the car comes out of the skid, straighten your wheels and pump brakes gently to slow down.

"Snow and sudded tires are obviously a good safety measure to minimize the chance of skidding," says Ross R. Ormsby, Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council.

"But," he adds, "special tires still can't take the place of a careful driver prepared to cope with the tricky stop-and-go conditions of cold weather."

To aid proper inflation, a prime factor in preventing skids, tire pressure should be monitored more closely as weather gets colder. For every 10 degree drop in temperature, tire pressure drops approximately one pound.

The Council recommends special caution in planned braking where winter has really taken hold; experience has shown that stopping on glare ice or packed snow can take up to ten times the normal distance on a dry road.

The Council also suggests checking tires for safe tread depth if you live in a temperate climate where snow is intermittent, and haven't switched to snow tires.

When the tire is down to 1/16 inch of tread groove depth it is unsafe, the Council says. This measurement has been adopted as a legal minimum standard in 27 states.
