RAYMOND GREENWOOD

Tuesday our graduating seniors will walk across the stage for their diplomas, their last official act as students of Burk Burnett High School.

As we look back over this past year and even the past years that these young men and women have been in school, we realize what an exceptionally fine group of seniors we really have. Many of these youngsters have a long list of honors and achievements. But to me what is even better is the fact that they support no list of "wrong doings". As a whole, this group of seniors have the qualities that make parents and friends proud.

To each of you we say best wishes, and may the best be yours in the future years.

A special congrats goes to Steve Cremeens as he has been given an athletic scholarship to Midwestern University for his basketball abilities. To become a college athlete takes more than what most people imagine.

Basketball players are usually 6'9 or 10 or maybe even 7 feet tall. Football players must weigh in the mid 200's if they are linemen and they must be able to run the 40 yd. dash in 4.5 seconds. Even the back must weigh over 200 lbs., be over 5 feet tall and run the 100 yd. dash in the below 10 second time.

With competition this keen in college sports, you can see why we are exceptionally proud that one of Burk Burnett's outstanding players made it into the college ranks.

Speaking of school, Bill Darland, high school principal, reported that all report cards will go out Friday, June 2. I know that all students are anxious to take the report of their years work home to their parents. (Probably just as anxious as I always was).

Chamber manager Gene Allen states that the chamber office now has a supply of new city maps in. If you are needing one before the Chamber has time to distribute the maps to the usual places, just drop by the chamber office for your free copy.

There is an old joke that is going around the printer trade. "I was out with a printer's daughter last night, but I wasn't her type."

I recently heard of a fellow who had lost a credit card, but wouldn't report it to his company. "The woman who found the card," reported the man, "spends less money than what my wife did."

City-Wide Auction Sale Set By Local Chamber

Burkburnett citizens get ready, for something's coming the week of June 12-17 that only Burk Burnett would do.

That week has officially been designated as heritage week in Burk Burnett so old time dress, old fashioned bargains and who knows what else old fashioned will be going on during that time.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a two day town-wide auction sale for that Tuesday and Wednesday. Merchants and citizens are urged to bring what ever they wish to the auction and all citizens are definitely urged to be on hand for the buying. The only restriction to the auction is that no clothing will be auctioned off, but an area near downtown will be provided for rummage sales, etc. where individuals may sell clothing if they wish.

Tagging of articles for the auction downtown will begin at 7:00 a.m. at the Chamber office on Ave. C both Tuesday and Wednesday. The auction will begin at 10:00 a.m. and run until noon, begin again at 2:00 and run until 5:00 both days with the only exception being that Wednesday the auction will continue until all articles are sold.

No items will be accepted by phone. Mark those dates on your calendar, June 13 and 14. You'll have the opportunity to buy new merchandise as well as used and also the opportunity to sell anything that you might wish at the same time. Begin now thinking of what you can bring to the auction.

Saturday and Sunday of that same week the Burk Burnett

Steve Cremeens Signs With MU

Steve Cremeens, the 6'11" forward for the Burk Burnett Bulldogs signed a basketball scholarship with the Midwestern University Indians in Indian coach Gerald Stockton's office Wednesday morning.

Cremeens, a three year letterman with the Burk Burnett Bulldogs, played an important role in the Bulldogs 21-7 season this past year and their District Runner-up title.

In speaking of Cremeens Bulldog coach Jim Phillips stated,

"Steve is one of the outstanding basketball players of this area. There are a great number of good players all trying for scholarships, therefore the schools don't give them out easily. Steve provided the Bulldogs with great leadership this past season and was our leading rebounder."

In athletic awards, besides his three year letters, Cremeens lists All District both his junior and senior years, See CREMEENS, Page 2

Hardin PTA Begins Installation Of Units

What was described nine months ago as impossible, or it would take a miracle to accomplish, seems to have been done.

The Hardin PTA set out in the later part of August to secure enough funds to air condition the Hardin primary and elementary schools. With projects in mind that included everything from bake sales to womanless beauty pageants, the organization set out to raise the estimated $11,000 to purchase and install the air conditioners in the schools.

Last week the organization, with some volunteer help from the Civil Engineering group at Sheppard Air Force Base, installed its first two pilot units in two rooms at the school.

Later this month, the remainder of the units, 34 to be exact, will be put in place.

The PTA is currently within $2,000 of its goal of $11,000. "We still have a little money coming in from our recent Fun Night and we hope to raise a fair sum from the free chances on the 1961 Chrysler we are selling," stated Glenda Galvez, president of the PTA. "For the remainder of the money, maybe a miracle will come by."

The automobile mentioned was donated to the group by Mathis Chevrolet for the purpose of the PTA to raise money for the Air Conditioner Fund. The drawing for the automobile will be held Saturday.

One of the largest single contributors to the air conditioner fund came from the recent Hardin King and Queen Contest. Selected delegates from each of the rooms at the school in the vying for the honor. They as well as their classmates, canvassed the town for votes (a penny a vote) and came up with an amazing $1,800 in pennies, nickels and dimes. This figure also included the $150 in proceeds collected at the gate at the pageant.

Another large contributor was the Burk Burnett Jaycee Club. The PTA helped the local Jaycees with their annual Our Little Miss contest held in April, and in the return the Jaycees presented the PTA with an $800 check. Gary Mooney, president of the Jaycees, stated the amounts of profits from the pageant would never have been derived if it had not of been for the Burk Burnett businessmen. "When the businessmen were approached for ads in our program or for sponsorship of one of our girls, they readily agreed. Many even took out larger ads when they found out what the money was going for."

Mrs. Galvez re-emphasized See HARDIN PTA, Page 2

Police Arrest Local Youth, Solve Theft

Wednesday, May 17, Burk Burnett Police arrested a Burk Burnett youth believed to be the one that burglarized the Burk Burnett Clinic May 15.

Arrested was James M. Herrington, 19 years of age. Herrington is currently being held in a Wichita Falls jail on $5,000 bond for that burglary.

Stolen from the clinic were a sizable amount of drugs and drug paraphernalia.

This is the second offense for Herrington who previously had been arrested for possession of marijuana and received a judicial probation.

In a burglary Saturday night at Bills TV, intruders made off with an 8-track stereo tape

TEEN TALK

By Laura Allison

The Seniors are out of school at last! It's really hard to believe that after all these years of hard work, we finally get to see the result of it. Most of us seniors have gone through elementary, junior high, and high school together, but graduation will end it. Even though many of the kids will stay in good ol' Bark, it will never be the same. Some will go to the University of Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech, or any number of schools. Some will get married, go into the service, or simply move out of town. I know all of us could hardly wait until the end of school -- until the end of school got here. Now we have mixed emotions. Although we're ready for the rest, it is so sad to be leaving. We know once we have that diploma, we'll never be able to come back; we'll never really be a part of the school again. But, on the other hand, that's part of growing up, and we don't really want to stay in the same place for the rest of our lives. At this time of graduation, it makes me think of the people who have helped me the most to obtain this goal: my parents. Ever since I was a little kid, I can remember them helping me with my homework or just sitting down to explain something to me. When I would make bad grades, I'd get punished because they knew I could do better. But when I did good work, you can believe they really praised me. Anytime I have ever gotten any kind of honor or award, no one could have been any prouder -- except maybe my little sister. You can believe it's going to be the toughest thing I've ever done to leave such a wonderful family to go to school!

This is my last column for this paper. This opportunity to express my thoughts to all of you has meant so much to me, and I will really miss it. My most sincere wish for you all is that you will know the joy and peace of having Jesus Christ in your life and will live to do His will.

In addition to this, he is the senior class president, was selected to Who's Who at BHS, Mr. BHS, and was also the captain of the Bulldog basketball team. Creemeens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Creemeens.

and the interest shown for concerts by area bands. Another activity frequently mentioned was some sort of swimming activity -- perhaps swimming and diving competition. The ability for these activities to be offered will be under study and all information relating to them (time and place) will be published weekly in the INFORMER/STAR. If any person interested in conducting classes pertaining to these or other activities would like to do so, they are asked to contact Bob Carpenter at 569-2875. Students are urged to actively engage in these programs as they are offered to insure success of the summer program.

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--ARMED FORCE RECOGNITION--Maj. Gen. Jerry D. Page, former commander of Sheppard Technical Training Center, (center) is congratulated by Elton Welch, AFA president, who presented General Page a gun case for his services to the base and the community during the Air Force Association barbecue at Tom Danaher's Lake Wichita airstrip Wednesday evening. SAFB ATHLETES SEEK 4TH STRAIGHT TITLE

SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS--Defending champions Sheppard AFB seek their fourth consecutive Air Training Command track crown next week on the Senators field, but will do it with a brand new array of talent. Sheppard coach Bob Kauffman named his ten man squad last week and predicted that his charges "have a fine chance of winning but we're going to have to make our best showings in the relays to stop Randolph, Lackland and Mather.

"If we don't win the relays we're going to be in trouble because they carry ten points for the winner, the points we'll have to make up for no entries in the hurdles, shot and discus."

The Senators will not only have to take the relays, but will need strong performances from the dashmen in the short sprints.

Sheppard co-record holders in the 100, Art Dixon and Bill Miller will be joined by Z. Williams in an event that Kauffman is optimistic about taking a first and at least another place.

The Senators best chance for a first in the individual events on the cinders is the 440 where Jesse Norman is given a great chance of shattering the ATC mark of 49.8. Norman has turned the quarter mile in 47 seconds and a similar performance next week could make Sheppard a winner.

Mark Norman and Kauffman will wear the Sheppard colors in the 3 mile, and though neither has topped the existing mark of 14:42.6 in official competition, both have broken it repeatedly in practice and non-service meets.

The steeplechase is a cinch to go, claims Kauffman, the old mark of 9:51.0 has been on the books for two years now and with Conrad Nightengale of Lackland in town, there's no way it'll be on the next time around.

Kauffman will be the lone Sheppard enterer, he expects that while Nightengale is the favorite, "I think I can push him and give us at least a second or third."

Dixon and Bob Miller will run in the 220 for Sheppard but neither has come close to the ATC mark of 21.6 though Miller has done it in 23.3.

Mark Norman will go to the 880 by himself and will be joined by Kauffman in the mile. "The mile record of 4:17.2 looks pretty safe," claimed Kauffman, "I don't see anyone breaking that mark for awhile."

But it's the two relays, the 440 and sprint medley that Kauffman is really about.

"We've got a great chance to sweep them both, we did it last year and I think that this year's team is one of the best we've had.

Bill Miller, John Aterton, Art Dixon and Jesse Norman will carry the baton in the 440, the race that gave the Senators last year's title.

The sprint medley relay lines up four runners, the first going 100 yards, the second 220, the third 330 and the anchor runs a 440.

Z. Williams will run the Sheppard 100 followed by John Atherton (220), Bill Miller, (330), and Jesse Norman (440).

In the field events, the Senators are expecting one championship and entertain outside hopes for high finishes in two others.

According to Kauffman, "If there's one event that I'd say we'll definitely win, it's the pole vault. I don't think there's anybody in ATC that is going to go any higher than Ron Shortt. The biggest question will be whether he can hit the 16' mark and how the others will finish behind him."

Grover White will carry Sheppard hopes in the high, long and triple jump with help from Darrel Moss in the long and high jumps.

White has gone 6' 1" in the high jump during practice and has a 20' 2 3/4" broad jump in intramural meets, both a long way from the ATC marks or even last years winning leaps.

There will be no Sheppard entries in the shotput or discus, a move dictated by one very practical reason, "There's no one on base that could even finish fifth in either event, so I decided not to enter anyone who wouldn't have a chance. We're limited to ten people on the team and I wasn't about to waste two slots on anyone who couldn't help us."

"If we do as well as I think we will and should in the sprints and relays plus picking up some points in the field events and long runs, we'll win it again."

The meet gets underway Monday morning with preliminaries and heats with finals in the 16 events set for Monday and Tuesday evenings.

All events will be on the main track and infield, and there is no admission charge.

MAYBE WE OUGHT TO CALL IT CONTROVERSY DAY

Memorial Day, also known as Decoration Day, is one of this country's most solemn holidays. Custom has come to recognize it also as a day for enjoying the first long weekend of summer.

But perhaps no national holiday has been the subject of disagreement approaching that surrounding the day we celebrate on May 29.

ORIGIN

The actual origin of the holiday lies in the custom of decorating graves during ancient festivals in Europe and Asia. Most nearly parallel to the U. S. observance is Germany's Heidengedenktag (Heroes' Memory Day) which is celebrated on March 12.

In 1866, a group of women from Columbus, Miss., a small town near the site of the Battle of Shiloh, made a pilgrimage to Friendship Cemetery, an 18-acre tract on the edge of the village. The ladies went despite urging to the contrary from their husbands. "The memories are too bitter," they said. "Emotions are still inflamed."

Their act of kindness became a symbol after the bitterness of the Civil War. An article in the New York Tribune described the activities of the Southern ladies:

"The women of Columbus, Miss., have shown themselves impartial in their offerings made to the memory of the dead. They strewed flowers alike on graves of the Confederate and the National soldiers."

In a way, the men of Columbus were right. The bitterness resulting from the Civil War has through the years interfered with the universal observance of Memorial Day.

CONTROVERSY

Subsequent to the Columbus graveside ceremony, similar observances were held throughout the South and in a few scattered locales in the North. Then, in 1868, the Grand

Army of the Republic, an organization of Union veterans, designated May 30 "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion."

Official designation by Union veterans caused Southerners, embittered anew by the excesses of Reconstruction, to consider the holiday a day to honor only Union dead. Southern states first ignored the holiday and then set aside a different day as Confederate Memorial Day, a practice that still persists.

Controversy over the holiday continues even as to its very name. Intended to be known as "Memorial Day," reference to the day as "Decoration Day" began early. So popular was the name "Decoration Day" that its use prompted the Grand Army to urge that the "proper designation of May 30 is Memorial Day"—not "Decoration Day." Yet, the official name of the holiday in three states is "Memorial Day or Decoration Day." In Tennessee it is officially "Decoration Day."

OFFICIAL RECOGNITION

Recognition of Memorial Day as a holiday came in 1873 when New York designated it a legal holiday. Rhode Island followed in 1874 and Vermont in 1876. The U. S. Congress made it an official holiday for federal employees in 1887. By 1910 it was a legal holiday in all states except nine Southern states, including Texas.

The state of Texas never officially adopted a statewide day of recognition until the day was re-legislated by the U. S. Congress in 1971. Individual communities had their own decoration days, a practice that still exists in many rural areas.

In 1971 Congress changed the date of the nationwide observance of Memorial Day from May 31, to the last Monday in May, which this year falls on May 29. All states except four adopted the change. Arizona observes the holiday on May 31 and Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina do not recognize it at all.

CELEBRATING THE DAY

The day is celebrated in various ways throughout the nation. The main feature of most observances is a military or veterans parade to cemeteries for memorial exercises. At military installations a ceremony at noon generally marks the day with a 21-gun salute. Garlands of flowers are cast upon the seas from military ships.

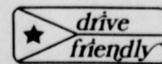

The national focus is on an observance at Arlington National Cemetery, near Washington. The President generally participates in this ceremony. Theodore Roosevelt was the first president to participate in Memorial Day celebrations. He spoke at Gettysburg National Military Park in 1904.

FAMILY OUTINGS

Because the day falls just after the close of public schools for the summer, the holiday is seized as an opportunity for family outings. Parks and recreational facilities overflow each year on this first holiday of the summer. Highways are crowded with traffic carrying Texans to an abundant variety of recreational pursuits.

DRIVE FRIENDLY

Traditionally, the accident levels during the long Memorial Day weekend are high—marring the holiday with tragedy. The Governor's Committee on Traffic Safety has urged Texans to DRIVE FRIENDLY during the Memorial Day weekend. DRIVE FRIENDLY means planning travel to avoid hurrying, observing traffic laws, and refraining from drinking while driving. This Memorial Day DRIVE FRIENDLY.

Wheat Trade Team Slated To Tour In Texas Area

A joint Colombian - Guatemalan wheat trade team will arrive in Texas, May 28th, for a three-day look at wheat production and marketing facilities with eyes toward future purchases, according to Ken Kendrick, Chairman of the TEXAS WHEAT Producers Board, host organization. Members of the four-man delegation will include: Messrs. Ramon Caparrosa, Chief of Foreign Trade, and Fernando Villamizar, Chief of Planning, respectively of the Colombian Agricultural Marketing Institute of Bogota, Colombia; Mario Alfredo Rosenberg, Manager, Guatemalan Regulatory Office for Wheat Imports; Almon C. Creeman, Regional Director, Great Plains Wheat, Inc., Caracus, Venezuela.

Colombia expects to buy about 16 million bushels of wheat in the world export market this year, hopefully 95% of which will be from the United States, according to Bill Nelson, Executive Vice President of TEXAS WHEAT. This level of exports from the United States to Colombia will be up 25% over last year and 55% more than the five year average. Guatemala, a much smaller country, will import approximately 3.2 million bushels of wheat this year, but the United States can expect to supply as much as 99% of the total.

All United States wheat sales to both of these countries are cash commercial transactions, according to Nelson, who will meet the group in Houston where they will make a boat tour of the Houston ship channel to view the wheat export facilities.

The officials will arrive in Amarillo on May 30th. In the High Plains Area they will study quality maintenance during harvesting and country elevator handling as well as terminal elevator storage and shipping techniques. Storage and shipping quality information will be studied at the Producers Grain Corporation at the Producers Grain Laboratories. An informal wheat pricing and marketing discussion will be held with members of the Amarillo Grain Exchange.

After leaving Amarillo, the group will visit Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, Minnesota, New York City and Washington, D.C., where other types and qualities of wheat will be appraised and grain trade and government conferences held before they return to their home countries June 16th.

The TEXAS WHEAT Producers Board is supported by individual wheat producers through a five-mile per bushel self-assessment on their production for export development, such as this mission, as well as for research, insect and disease control, which may add to the income of the producer.

TEXAS WHEAT conducts its foreign market development activities through Great Plains Wheat, Inc., a regional organization supported by wheat boards or commissions from all the Great Plains area wheat producing states in an attempt to find new or expanded markets for United States wheat.

"Money In Vegetables" Conference To Be Held

The third of a series of "Money In Vegetables" conferences for West Texas will be conducted in the Munday High School Auditorium in Munday, Thursday, June 22, 1972. James A. Rogers, Chairman of the Agriculture and Ranching Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and General Manager of the Plainview Production Credit Association, explained that the purpose of the conference is to look at vegetable production as another economic opportunity for West Texas.

The conference in Munday is being sponsored jointly by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the First National Bank of Munday, the Rolling Plains Economic Program and the Munday Chamber of Commerce.

Newly Developed Method Will Make Humus "Mining" Possible

Modern man has done a good job of clearing fields for crops, yards and gardens. But in doing so, he has interrupted Nature's methods of soil enrichment.

To offset this, man has added all kinds of fertilizer to the soil, without realizing it's difficult for plants to assimilate it. At the same time, he has cleared away the leaves, branches and other deciduous material that, having decomposed into compost and eventually into humus, would make fertilizer nutrients available to crops, shrubs and lawns.

Humus is the element that opens the door for the plants to get the foods they need -- to help build more substantial root systems and get better results from fertilization and insect and disease control. But composing takes years -- even decades -- to decompose suf-

The conference will begin at 1:00 P.M. and continue through the afternoon.

All vegetable growers and land owners, as well as vegetable processors, finance people and related agri-business people, are invited to attend. The purpose of the conference and background information will be explained by Claude W. Brown of McCamey, President of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Other program participants will include the leading experts of the state on the production and marketing of fruits and vegetables according to J.G. Simmons, District Agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The program will include a tour of the Munday Vegetable Research Center.

A search is going on to find rare and endangered plants and animals in Texas.

According to District Conservationist Gary Batte of Iowa Park, the Soil Conservation Service is heading up the effort which involves about 26 state, federal, educational, and private organizations. A recent meeting of these groups in Austin marked the first statewide attempt to coordinate such a project.

Batte said that several committees were formed which will try to accomplish four broad objectives:

1. Prepare a watchlist of our state's rare and endangered species of plants and animals.
2. Determine the type of habitat required by each species and develop a list of measures important to the preservation of each.

3. Develop and initiate a system of monitoring rare and endangered species and their habitat.

4. Develop cooperative measures to protect various species found to be in danger.

The Conservationist said there are several rare and endangered plants and animals found in Texas. The animals include the Attwater prairie chicken, golden-cheeked warbler, whooping crane, American alligator, red wolf, the Houston toad, and others.

Batte said there are several times as many rare and endangered plants as animals. They consist of trees, grasses, forbs, sedges, and even native legumes. Some of the ones which grow in the North Texas Area include Big Bluestem, Canada wildrye, Texas bluegrass, and Engelmann's.

"The SCS is trying to help preserve these rare and endangered plants and animals," Batte said. "Almost all of our work is in the form of help and suggestions to landowners and operators who are cooperators with soil and water conservation districts. "Since most of the wildlife in Texas is produced on privately-owned lands, this gives the SCS a good chance to help people preserve --and maintain wildlife habitat.

Batte explained that coordinated watchlists of rare and endangered species will be sent to all SCS offices as soon as they are prepared.

Chicken -- A Boon To Budget, Menu, Diet

Chicken is a friend of the menu planner, a hit with the outdoor cooking crowd and generally a boon to the food budget. The fryer chicken adds to its already high rating with homemakers.

Fryers outsell all other poultry meats. These round, tender, ready-to-cook chickens weigh from one and a half to three and a half pounds and are from six to 10 weeks old. They are specially bred, fed and pampered to produce high quality birds that come in convenient forms at reasonable prices. Their balanced rations are enriched with vitamins and minerals, tailored to produce today's fryer. It's a fascinating story of scientific progress.

Chicken is a protein rich food. Therefore it takes its place in any meal as the meat course or main dish. Serve it at a hearty breakfast, as a luncheon dish or the main course for dinner. Remember chicken at picnics, barbecues, cookouts, or in packed lunches. It's versatile and adaptable to every type of meal whether for the toddler, the hearty eater, the gourmet or the calorie counter. Serve chicken at the low cost meal or the guest dinner.

Chicken abounds in protein and its protein of the best quality because it contains all the essential amino acids. Calorie watchers should know the low fat content of chicken. However, fried chicken or chicken with fat added in cooking does increase in calories.

Fresh chicken should not be stored in the refrigerator for more than two or three days. Keep frozen chickens in the freezer compartment of the refrigerator for a few days if necessary. Thaw before cooking by allowing the chicken to stand overnight in the refrigerator or at room temperature for four to five hours. If thawing must be done rapidly, keep the chicken sealed in its wrapper and place it in a pan under cool running water for 30 minutes to one hour.

Price Introduces Cotton Legislation

Congressman Bob Price recently introduced legislation to assist cotton growers who suffer complete or partial crop losses through no fault of their own.

"In view of the high costs and risks and low profit margins associated with farming operations today, I believe this bill would serve the interests of cotton growers by protecting their established yields through the price support program," Price said.

The bill would amend the Agricultural Adjustment Act to allow victims of crop losses, sustained from causes other than natural or intended beyond the control of the producer, to use the average per acre yield of other farms in the country for that crop year in figuring participation levels in the USDA's cotton program during the three succeeding years.

"Losses sustained from natural causes are already protected in present regulations; this bill would give growers an added measure of protection of yields from other accidental causes. I hope my bill will receive favorable and prompt attention by the Congress," Price concluded.

The stockman searching for low-cost feed may find it in his pasture lands, provided he has kept them free from weeds. Pastures don't produce as much feed per acre as do the intensively tilled fields producing grain, but because pastures do not require the input of labor and machinery as do other crops, they can yield high quality feed at low cost. For every pound of weeds that grow in pasture, a pound or more of good forage does not grow.

Herbicides are available to control many broad-leaved weeds infesting pastures. In most cases they are cheaper and more effective than mechanical methods. Proper management of livestock to prevent them from grazing pastures too close also helps in controlling weeds. The herbicides 2,4-D; 2,4,5-T; dicamba and silver have label of clearance for use in pastures. Use of the materials, as listed on the labels, will meet the requirements established by the Environmental Protection Agency. 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D can be obtained as water soluble amine, oil soluble amine and low volatile ester formulations. Dicamba is usually available in the amine formulation.

Users are urged to expect some desired plants to be affected by the treatments. Seedlings of forage grasses and clovers can be injured or killed when 2,4,5-T, dicamba or silver is used. The amount of injury varies according to the time of spraying. The more tender the susceptible plant, the more severe its injury. Small amounts of herbicides are capable of damaging or killing susceptible plants such as alfalfa, clovers, grapes, oaks, flowers and ornamentals. For pastures infested with annual broomweed, coneflower, dock, eastern bitterweed, horse mint, pigweed, cocklebur, ragweed, poor joe, mustards or any of many weeds, the right amount of 2,4-D at the right time will settle the matter. Brush and weeds can also be controlled with 2,4,5-T. For harder to kill weeds, such as buffalobur, horsenettle, silver leaf nightshade and other hardy species dicamba is recommended.

Thousands of hours and millions of dollars are wasted annually because horse owners do not follow adequate horse health. Good grooming is an essential part of a horse's health. Grooming frees the coat of dirt and dandruff and gives the owner a daily opportunity to check for injuries and skin diseases.

Regular exercise maintains muscle tone and prevents the accumulation of unnecessary fat. Confined, inactive horses become mentally unheathy. They get bored and frustrated and this starts bad habits.

You can prevent foot problems by keeping a horse's feet clean. If horses are kept in wet, dirty stalls and the feet aren't picked regularly, thrush, a foot disease, may set in. Also, trim the feet or shoes of horses as often as necessary so that undue strain will not be applied to the horse's legs.

Keep tools in a safe place to prevent injuries to animals to and keep barns neat. Make sure horses have feeders that are safe and that can be cleaned easily. Scrub water buckets and troughs to rid them of dangerous disease organisms. Feeding horses on the floor or ground is a major way for parasites to be picked up and swallowed. In feeding the horses select a good quality hay and build your ration around it. Good hay is usually adequate for idle mature horses. However, when horses are working, growing or lactating, they need supplemental grain with their hay. Trace mineralized salt should be supplied free choice. Exercise, ample water, feeding regularly and in constant amounts are of utmost importance in preventing such digestive disturbances as colic.

Guidelines of Life

OUR CONVERSATION

Many, many years ago three women were sitting in a doorway of a house in Bedford, England talking about the things of God. They were discussing how they had been saved through the blood of Jesus Christ, how a wonderful peace and joy had come into their hearts, how their prayers had been answered many times over and other things concerning the salvation which they had found.

These housewives were so engrossed in their conversation that they did not notice a man passing by on the street who had stopped to listen to what they were saying. But as he listened the man realized that these women had experienced something which was real and which he had never experienced. He walked on and from that moment left his godless ways to begin the search for salvation in Christ.

His search was soon successful. Later he wrote about it and experiences which followed in his life. The man was John Bunyan and the book was PILGRIM'S PROGRESS, one of the greatest classics of the Christian faith.

What a marvelous thing it would be if each Christian person was as anxious to talk about their relationship to Christ and what it has done for them as these three ladies. There are many people that listen to our everyday conversation but so few hear us say anything about the one that loves us the most. How wonderful to think that our everyday conversation can point others to Jesus if we will only talk about the things which we have experienced and know through Christ.
