Activities Told For 65th Anniversary

Editor's Viewpoint

RAYMOND GREENWOOD

Well Texans went to the polls in heavy numbers Saturday and the citizens of Burk Burnett turned out about as well as they ever do for any election--with only about 1/3 or less of the eligible voters going to the polls. carried the rest of the state, in the Burk Burnett box he narrowly beat out his opponent for the governor's nomination, "Sissy" Farenthold.

Briscoe had only two more votes in Burk Burnett than did Sissy. This has probably been the kindling for fires in several homes this week locally. If the race had been that close state-wide the divorce rate might just soar during the next two months or so.

Gary Bean, city manager, told me Tuesday that the citizens of Burk Burnett used 1,700,000 plus gallons of water Monday, which is probably a record for water consumption for this time of the year.

He repeated what gardeners and farmers have been saying for days now, "Boy, we sure need a rain".

Maybe we should all think rain.

After talking with Gary I thought of an article sent to me by Mrs. E.E. Clack. The article, written by Walter B. Moore, editor of the Texas Almanac, pointed out numerous ways that we could save water. His suggestions could save lots of things--including money for you by lowering your water usage and therefore your bill.

Mr. Moore wrote: "CAMEL DAY might be an excellent observance for Texans. On a recent trip to Washington with a group promoting the Trinity Canal, I learned that residents of Montgomery and Prince Counties of Maryland were observing Camel Day. The purpose? To save water.

Water conservationists chose the camel as their symbol for the obvious reason that he can go a long time without water. The Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission published a booklet asking every resident of the two counties to practice water conservation from midnight to midnight, or one day.

The booklet provided practical suggestions, such as these: Don't run the spigot while brushing your teeth. Fill a cup or glass and use the water for rinsing after brushing.

Don't dandle in the shower; a 5-minute shower can use 25 to 50 gallons of water. Don't flush toilets any more than essential; one flush uses 5 to 7 gallons of water.

Don't let water run while scrubbing vegetables.

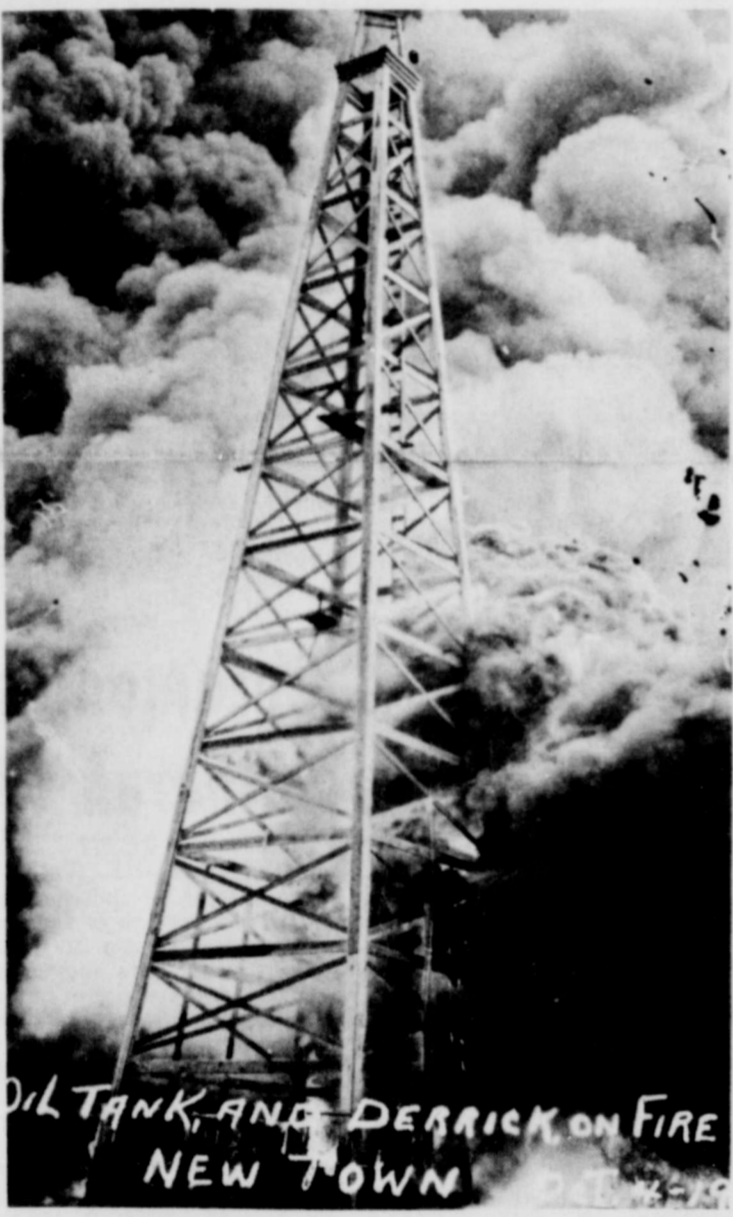

Stop pulling out ice cube trays and running water to defrost them; just let the tray stay out for awhile before you need it. Stop running water to get a cool drink; a refrigerator jar of water is colder and will eliminate any chlorine taste.

Of course, such things as eliminating leaky faucets and water closets are very obvious ways of reducing your water bills and consumption of the fluid.

There's one suggestion we pass on to those who got so indignant over the proposed 1970 U.S. Census question about how many persons share bathrooms. Says the Maryland pamphlet: "Sharing the tub was once an American tradition; and, in the interest of water-saving (25 gallons a tubful), it might be worthy of reconsideration in the 1970s."

Whether you want to practice tub togetherness or not, there are many ways all of us can save water. We'd like to see some water-worried Texas municipalities observe a Camel Day.

Water conservation should be practiced in Texas along with See EDITOR, Pg. 2

The Glenn Ash Show will kick off a long list of activities for Burk Burnett's 65th Anniversary and Heritage Week Celebration when the show begins at 8:00 Saturday night.

A large crowd is expected for Glenn's show as he has appeared in over 22 major television shows including the Glen Campbell Show, Dean Martin Show, Andy Griffith Show, Don Knotts Show, Jim Nabors Show, Mayberry RFD, Gomer Pyle and Laugh-In.

Glenn's show is billed as "organized hysteria - - hilariously funny" and every bit of that is expected Saturday night. Several local persons reported they have seen and heard Ash perform and that they believe individuals will get their money's worth.

Glenn is a top banjo picker, performer and entertainer and a full evening of delightful entertainment is expected.

That's Saturday night, 8:00 at the Burk Burnett Civic Center for the Glenn Ash Show.

Monday is the day for the monthly Chamber of Commerce luncheon which will also have talented and hilarious entertainment. "Private Mayers Hero World War One", Spencer Mayes of Graham will present his homespun skit which will keep those in attendance in stitches throughout his monologue. Each year Spencer travels all over Texas providing entertainment to special groups.

"I think we're real fortunate to have someone like this to come all the way up here to give us a program for our monthly luncheon", stated a Chamber spokesman.

"Fifty Years of Fashions" will be the theme for the style show to be held Monday night in the Civic Center. The show will be presented by the Council of Federated Study Clubs and will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Clothing representing all aspects of Burk Burnett history will be modeled by study club members. The public is invited to attend the show and there will not be an admission charge.

Tuesday and Wednesday are two other big days of the Celebration as a City-Wide Auction Sale will be held in Downtown Burk Burnett.

Avenue C near downtown will be the site of the wildest Auction. See AUCTION, Pg. 2

History Of Colorful Burk Burnett Revisited

With the celebration of Burk Burnett's 65th anniversary, it is only fitting to take a look at the beginnings of the fine city we live in today.

Most native Burkites would suggest beginning with Burk Burnett, who was born New Year's Day, 1849 to Jeremiah and Nancy Burnett in Bates County, Missouri.

The birth had broad ramifications for the future of much of Texas, especially this area and Burk Burnett, or Nestorville, as it was known in the early days.

Burk Burnett came to Denton County, Texas with his parents in 1856. His father fostered his interests in cattle and in 1869 young Burnett purchased the 6666 Ranch on the Wichita River.

Some twelve years later, during a terrible drought, Burnett managed to lease 300,000 acres of Comanche and Kiowa reservation near the Red River and moved his all-steer herd onto it.

In the ensuing years, he became known as a cattle baron. In 1905, Burnett hosted the U.S. President, Theodore Roosevelt on a wolf hunting trip in this area and Roosevelt requested the name of the post office at Nestorville to be renamed, Burk Burnett.

About a year later, J.A. Kemp and Frank Kell bought 17,000 acres from Burnett to establish a townsite. They laid a railroad from Wichita Falls through Burk Burnett and located the local depot in the middle of the acreage. In recent years the depot has been moved and preserved in the local Ol Park.

Burk Burnett came into being as a city June 6, 1907 with a public lot sale attended by hundreds of people who had ridden a special train from Wichita Falls to participate.

Most purchasers were Wichita County people, because few people could reach the sale from Oklahoma where big rains the previous night had created swollen streams to prevent crossing.

The auction was under the direction of the Red River Land Company, which was owned by Kemp and Kell. According to some pioneers who were there, the auctioneer stood on a wagon in front of the lot for sale and took the bids.

Burk Burnett purchased the first two lots offered for sale, paying $585 for each of them.

About 75 lots were sold before lunch and the "prices realized were good", as they were in what was to be the business district. Other lots in Block 26 Burnett bought, the first two brought all the way from $275 to $550.

Residential lots were sold after lunch and brought from $60 to $250 each. A total of some 1000 lots had been sold by the end of the day.

From then until Fowler's Folly in 1918, Burk Burnett progressed much as any young city. The mayors, councilmen, and citizens tried hard to make it a nice place to raise their families.

Three local churches had their beginnings with the young city.

In the fall of 1907, the First Baptist Church moved from Gilbert where it had been organized in 1890. The Methodist Church was opened April 12, 1908 and the Church of Christ was established in Burk Burnett in 1909.

The town was industry minded even then and local industry included a cotton gin, now known as the Farmer's Co-Op Gin, the Burk Burnett Star, now the Informer/Star, Wichita Mill and Elevator and Hunt-Rigby Feed, Seed, and Grain which was later purchased by Harlan Mills and now known as Bunge Elevators, and a cement block plant.

Later, during the boom, refineries, pipe straighteners, tank manufacturers and gas plants appeared to take care of the black gold that poured from the ground.

July 29, 1918 was the dawn of one of the greatest oil booms in the state of Texas. . . Fowler's Folly was its name, because S.L. Fowler organized a private oil company and drilled-- See HISTORY, Page Two

Chamber Luncheon Speaker Hilarious

"Private Mayer Hero World War One" will be the feature attraction at the luncheon meeting of the Burk Burnett Chamber of Commerce, noon, Monday, at the Civic Center.

Spencer Mayes of Graham, who presents the homespun skit, says it has never been advertised and yet is twice as popular today as in 1942 when he first presented it for the Graham Rotary Club.

Each year Mayes drives the length and breadth of Texas to give his monologue. He up dates his jokes and adjusts them to the occasion.

Appearing without script, Mayes, dressed in his 100 percent wool army uniform, complete with leggings and metal helmet, steps to the platform and pauses.

The sight of a spectacled "private" with white undies peeking through a too snug O.D. uniform always creates a hush among his audience. He wears the same uniform he wore in the 315th Engineers, 90th Division, World War One.

Then Mayes goes into his See LUNCHEON, Pg. 2

Heritage Week Displays In Downtown Windows

The unique and colorful history of Burk Burnett is portrayed annually in Heritage Week Windows in downtown stores. This year, the dates will be June 12-19.

An unrehearsed and spontaneous expression of community pride and interest, the windows usually contain every type of memorabilia from rockers brought by covered wagon to the finest of cut glass.

Hundreds of pictures are annually brought out of attics and family trunks to be shown and bring many nostalgic sighs from viewers. Early copies of the Four Sixes newspaper and a series of later clippings trace the history of Burk Burnett from its Nestorville days on the edge of the great Burke Burnett ranch through its heyday as a roaring Boomtown to its more sedate present as a popular hometown for both military and civilian residents.

Windows are prepared by clubs, organizations and individuals, all of whom have helped to give Burk Burnett its reputation as a place where civic pride has produced such tangible results as a public library, a large civic center, a swim club pool, and an outstanding school complex.

Confirmation Ceremonies Held At Local Grace Lutheran Church

In impressive confirmation ceremonies, growing out of the simple and primitive practices of baptism in the early christian church, six young people were received into Grace Lutheran communicant membership.

The six confirmands were: John Ludeke, Laurie Pearson, Carlton Roark, Valerie Schmitzer, Ken Walker and Traye Young.

Lutheran Confirmation, celebrated in a public rite, is a pastoral and educational ministry of the church that is designed to help baptized children identify with the life and mission of the adult christian community.

In preparing for confirmation the young candidate engages in a prescribed course of bible study that includes the chief doctrines of the christian faith. In this way the church provides for the strengthening of faith created in baptism and prepares the recipient for a worthy participation of the Lord's supper.

Current studies and innovative adaptations of confirmation practices are being undertaken by scholars and researchers in the Lutheran Church in order to determine the modern effectiveness of this ancient religious rite in awakening and developing church loyalty in today's youth.

By October, 200 wells had been completed in the Burk Burnett townsite and people were literally coming to Burk Burnett by the car loads . . . 14 passenger cars from Wichita Falls to Burk 24 hours a day.

Old-timers remember that they had never seen so much money and probably never will again. The bank had to stay open as long as 24 hours a day at times and the postmaster worked up to 20 hours a day and still never get all the incoming mail put up.

In the 50 years following the close-out of the Oil Boom, history has been some what tamer in Burk Burnett but the most progressive of any small city.

the efforts to obtain more water through building dams, drilling wells or pumping in water from out of state.

At the Washington hearings on various water projects, a senator from Colorado asked Texans this pointed question: "Do you regulate the drilling of wells for water?"

After some dodging of the question, and a discourse on how Texas regulates use of water from streams and lakes, the Texans had to admit that there is no state law to keep anyone from drilling a well and letting water waste away.

As I've often written, that's ridiculous. Texas should have some kind of water-well drilling and use regulation, similar to our oil proration.

As for Camel Day, I'd like to see it tried in this state, which has a camel tradition Maryland doesn't have. Remember your history--camels were imported to Texas before the Civil War as an experiment in carrying the mail and other materials across the arid West to California.

So Camel Day is a Texas tradition that might be revived, even if communal bathing isn't.

 AND FIRST THERE WAS DARKNESS
 First there was darkness, as old as the ages; as young as hope,
 And nothing lived in that darkness, as small as a world, As large as along,
 And nothing was a terrible creature, a creature of hell.
 There was a flash of light, and nothing covered . . . . .
 But wait - what was light? What was this phenomenal creature
 This, this, this light...and why?

But of that light was born another Being,
 Not a creature of anything, But a Being, and He was God. A child of light in the darkness, soon He was King and He said, "Let there be light", and there was light
 And God saw it and knew it was good.

And so He created the heavens, stars, sky, planets;
 And so He created the earth; molten, gaseous, turmoil,
 And so He created animals - cats, dogs, sheep;
 Thus He created Man, and Man's companion, Woman,
 And knew all were good.

But Man could not, would not be happy,
 And Man's companion devious, And so they created sin and evil,
 Hate, malice, scorn, terror....

But where will it end?
 And first there was darkness as old as the ages, as young as hope,
 And Nothing lived in that darkness,
 And Nothing was a terrible creature .....

 Slapping against the rocks
 Coming on strong

 Till I rush up again
 To get the same rejection
 And strong resistance
 Of the rocks which stop me
 From going on forever.

 Now my whole life is gone, and all I can do is cry
 And dream of being his wife.

 Oh I loved that man so much - Taking that man from me right now,
 Is like taking a crippled man's crutch.

Oh Lord, I believe everything You say now.

 So that I might be with You too.

Guidelines of Life

By Ed Morris, Church of Christ

"How Should We Understand The Bible?"

Human philosophy says: "We can't all understand the Bible alike." This is the liberal attitude and is not from God. If this were true the responsibility for every lost soul would rest squarely upon God Almighty. (I refer to the simple teachings of Jesus concerning our salvation from sin). We humble, but boldly affirm we not only can understand the Bible alike but we must understand the Bible alike. The Bible is God's revealed will. (1 Cor. 14:37). The Bible is complete, final, and absolute. (2nd Timothy 3:16, 17). The Bible is intelligible to the intelligent. Why would Paul say, "For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning?" (Rom. 15:4). If God knows we cannot understand the Bible alike, why did Paul say in Col. 2:2 we would have a "full assurance of understanding?" If we cannot understand the Bible alike, why do we read in Eph. 3:4, "WHEREBY WHEN YE READ, YE MAY UNDERSTAND MY KNOWLEDGE IN THE MYSTERY OF CHRIST?" If we cannot understand the Bible alike, why do we read in Eph. 5:17, "WHEREFORE BE YE NOT UNWISE BUT UNDERSTAND WHAT THE WILL OF THE LORD IS?"

NOTICE PLEASE: If we cannot understand the Bible alike, how can there be a COMMON SALVATION? How can there be a COMMON FAITH? (Jude 3; Titus 1:4). If we cannot all understand the Bible alike, one of two things (or both) would be true:

- God could not give it in a way that we could understand it alike and this impeaches His power.
- God would not give it in a way that we can understand it alike and this impeaches His goodness, love and mercy. YES, IF WE ARE HONEST AND SINCERE, LEAVING THE CREEDS OF MEN ALONE, WE CAN ALL UNDERSTAND THE BIBLE ALIKE WHEN WE WITH AN OPEN MIND REMOVE ALL PREJUDICE FROM OUR HEARS.

Clean Ovens Easy Way

Heard a clean story lately? There's a great one about ovens -- they clean themselves and do it automatically.

Women would surely rank oven cleaning right at the top if an unpopularity poll were taken on household tasks. Range manufacturers have long been aware of these sentiments and through the years improved oven designs to make the job easier. There were such innovations as rounded corners, removable oven doors and panels, easier-to-clean finishes and so forth. All of these lightened the task and were most welcome but did not change the fact that time, effort, physical handling of a messy job and hard to handle oven cleaners were still required to do the job.

But the range manufacturers' ingenuity and expertise know no bounds so they kept at the problem until ovens that "clean themselves automatically" were born. Whatever is cooked on cooks off, and the ovens cleaned automatically without scrubbing and scouring.

There are two ways it's done. One is a PYROLYTIC system, the other a CATALYTIC. More practically speaking however, the pyrolytic is called self-cleaning and the catalytic continuous cleaning. These more practical terms are agreed upon by manufacturers and are the ones consumers will hear.

HEAT is the key word in describing the self-cleaning oven. By moving a lever to lock the oven door and setting one or two controls the oven is set for a cleaning cycle.

It then heats to temperatures ranging from 850 to 1000 degrees that reduce oven mess to a soft wish-away ash. At the end of the cycle, which includes a cool down period, the powdery ash is easily removed with a damp cloth. Engineering of oven insulation and door locking devices along with rigid requirements of design safety certification, make self-cleaning ovens perfectly safe.

The continuous cleaning oven is designed to eliminate the necessity of ever cleaning the oven. A "special ingredient" - a catalyst - is mixed into the porcelain enamel coating of the oven walls or oven liner panels. At normal cooking temperatures this ingredient oxidates food soils continuously as they occur during cooking.

Each of the systems has its advantages, which allows the consumer to exercise his choice. The wise consumer will ask a sales person to thoroughly explain both so that a value judgment can be made.

Screwworm Threat Still Looms Large To Ranchers

A record-breaking 1,563 screwworm cases were confirmed in Texas for the week ending Saturday (May 27). This compares to 780 cases the previous week and 600 two weeks earlier.

According to officials of the Mission Screwworm Eradication Program, the outbreak spread to 16 new counties during the past week, upping the infestation area to 109 Texas counties. Newest counties hit by the flesh-eating livestock pest include Concho, Lampassas, Nolan, Stonewall, Howard, Jack, Knox, Comanche, Runnels, Brown, Coke, Grimes, San Saba, Wilbarger, Young and Reeves.

Dr. M.E. (Cotton) Meadows, Jr., eradication program director, said Arizona also recorded nine new cases, pushing the tally for the week to 1,574 cases in the United States. Large number of new cases also were reported in many portions of Mexico near the U.S. border.

Total case count for the year thus far is 4,447, compared to 444 for all of last year. Texas thus far had recorded 4,382 cases; Arizona, 57; New Mexico 5; California, 2; and Oklahoma, 1.

"All areas where cases are confirmed are being treated with sterile flies," points out Meadows. This involves "hot-spotting" or dropping about 100,000 sterile flies at each location. In addition, 1,600 flies are dropped per square mile each week in the southern part of the state that has heavy infestations. Certain other areas receive sterile fly drops at the rate of 500 to 800 per square mile each week. When cases are confirmed in scattered western and northern counties, routine fly drops are made along rivers and streams in addition to the "hot-spotting."

Meadows urges all producers to check their animals frequently, collect any worm samples from wounds and treat the wounds with a recommended product. Worm samples should be sent to the Screwworm Laboratory, Box 969, Mission, Texas for identification.

The program director also cautioned producers to delay such operations as docking, branding, dehorning and castrating. "The operations leave a wound and that's an open in-itation for the screwworm fly to lay her eggs. Almost 90 percent of all confirmed screwworm cases come from man-made wounds and from the navels of young calves," he added.

pest spent the mild winter in new quarters. This spring overall conditions were "ripe" for a massive screwworm invasion. More than 2,300 cases have been confirmed in Texas this spring, the earliest and heaviest outbreak in the history of the Screwworm Eradication Program.

Although sterile fly production at the Mission Lab is running at its peak -- 200 million a week -- treatment with these flies is not enough to stop the destructive, flesh-eating livestock pest. The county agent urges all livestock producers and owners of other animals (dogs, cats) to follow certain precautions:

1. Carry out all approved preventative practices to help eliminate screwworms.

2. Inspect animals regularly and carefully and treat all wounds whether they are wormy or not.

3. Delay all surgery until cool weather this fall. Shearing, docking, castrating and dehorning only provide additional studies for worm infestations.

4. Spray animals with an approved product before shipping them.

5. Be cautious of livestock shipments coming from infested areas. If buying such animals, be sure to check them thoroughly for wormy wounds.

6. As soon as a worm is found, send a worm sample to the Screwworm Laboratory, Mission, Texas. If the case is positive, screwworms is the result, sterile flies will be dropped as soon as possible to further protect animals in the area.

A "red alert" is being sounded throughout the state as screwworms continue to assault livestock and other animals. Wichita County has recorded no cases to date, and it's vital that all animals be inspected closely and regularly so that infestations can be pinpointed and treated with sterile flies.

Weather conditions are favorable for heavy screwworm buildups in northern Mexico and parts of the Southwest. Some infestations were also spread by transporting infested livestock last fall and the insect

See Bacon In Package

Ever wished you could see what a whole slice of bacon looks like while it's in the package?

A proposed regulation by the U.S. Department of Agriculture may solve that problem for consumers.

"The USDA has proposed that windowed packages of bacon show the full width and at least 70 per cent of the length of a representative slice of bacon," said Karen Kreipke, Texas A&M University foods and nutrition specialist. "This proposed change has come about because of repeated consumer complaints about bacon packages with windows showing only a small, non-representative slice of bacon."

The USDA worked with Mrs. Virginia Knauer, Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs, in drafting this regulation which should improve bacon packaging.

Miss Kreipke, employee of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said that if the proposal is adopted, bacon packagers would be offered to meet new requirements within six months.

"This would give packagers a chance to use their stocks of bacon packages and adjust their packaging process to meet the new regulation," Miss Kreipke said.

Consumers who want to comment on this proposed regulation should send two copies of their statement to the Hearing Clerk, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250. Comments should reach the Hearing Clerk before June 20, 1972.

"So, if you're a consumer who wishes to avoid buying a 'pig in a poke,' you can write and cast your vote for the proposed change in bacon packaging," the specialist said.

Chemicals Good Weed Control On Large Cotton

Even if South Plains farmers have waited until their cotton stands are established, they can still control or at least reduce certain perennial weeds.

Dr. Bob Metzger, Extension area cotton specialist at Lubbock, says that due to favorable soil moisture this spring, weeds such as silverleaf nightshade, wolyleaf bursage and Texas blueweed have made rapid growth and are common in usually clean fields.

"These weeds are often the most difficult to control, but some weed control practices now can mean increased yields later," he adds.

Metzger says that less cultivation and hoeing are another reason why these particular weeds are a problem. It is made worse because herbicides that are effective on perennial broadleaf weeds are limited to use only on grain sorghum. But Metzger reminds that even limited cultivation or hoeing can weaken the weeds for a better kill with chemicals.

He offers several suggestions for controlling these three perennial weeds in fields that are already heavily infested this year.

Silverleaf nightshade, commonly called whiteweed, can be treated with MSMA to give good knockdown and partial root kill. Dr. Dudley Smith, a Texas A&M University researcher at Lubbock, found that the best rate is one and a half to two quarts per acre, with repeated applications as needed to handle regrowth.

"There is no one-shot treatment that will give complete control," the specialist emphasizes. He adds that the air temperature should be at least 70 degrees for a good kill. MSMA should not be used in cotton after first bloom because arsenic is deposited in the cotton seed.

Smith and his co-workers also found that wolyleaf bursage, or lakeweed, can be controlled by a post-directed application of MSMA at two quarts per acre after the cotton is up. Again, Metzger says that application during cool, cloudy weather will give poor control.

Research on the Bill Alspaugh farm at Idalou saw untreated cotton yield about 100 pounds of lint per acre, while areas that had received MSMA twice for wolyleaf bursage control produced 500 pounds per acre.

"Deep plowing before planting cotton frequently spreads this weed by clipping the roots underground and preventing an effective root kill with chemicals," the specialist explains.

The Texas blueweed, or perennial sunflower, is a different problem. Metzger says that at this time there are no herbicides for effective control in cotton. The best method is still cultivation and hoeing of infested spots. In this case, deep breaking before planting can help control the weed.

The specialist adds that small patches of these weeds in non-crop areas may be controlled with 2,4-D, MCPA, Banvel and soil sterilants such as sodium chlorates and tordon beads. Sweep plowing or mowing three to five times when the soil is dry also give effective control.

"The producer must keep in mind that he is responsible for using these herbicides properly," Metzger emphasizes, "all chemical labels should be carefully studied and followed."

Youth Invited To Meeting

Young adults from age 15 to 21 are invited to an organizational meeting of a new Ecological Explorer Post at the Methodist Church Friday night. This will be a special interest unit, Ecology, and will be co-ed.

It will be the first mixed scout unit in this town whereas coed photography, veterinarian and medical posts have been tried other places recently.

Neil Kreidler will host the meeting and says that this is a very flexible program and offers field trips where spot study can be made. He also stated that, "Since this is a whole new thing, parents and interested adults are invited to come and learn what scouting has advanced to. No special skills are needed to join, only the desire to get off the beaten path a little and see what is going on outside. The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. and bring some old clothes."

Three From Burk To Attend Boys State At UT

The thirty-second annual American Legion Boy State sponsored by the Department of Texas and held on the Campus of the University of Texas, got under way today as 840 high school boys from all parts of Texas, and one from Mexico, began registration, Gil Moody, Department Commander, announced.

Among those registering from Burk Burnett were Sam Preston Hancock, Mark Bulla, and Barry Steele who were sponsored by local American Legion Posts.

Following registration, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties--the Nationalist or Federalist. Each citizen then functions as a member of his party, he attends its precinct, county and state conventions and votes in its primary.

Boys State helps to develop civic leadership and pride in American citizenship. This program arouses a keen interest in the detailed study of our government. These civic workshops stress the importance of maintaining our form of government and bring better understanding of our national traditions and beliefs to the more than 28,000 young men who are participating this year.

Highlight of Boys State will be a trip to the Capitol on Tuesday morning where each elected Boys State Official will be given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day.

Boys State enrollment this year brings the total to 16,919 junior high school boys who have attended since 1940, when Boys State was first inaugurated in Texas.

In Boys State, The American Legion provides the type of program where the young citizen has the opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. The boy "learns to do by doing."

The program takes an added significance this year as the vote is extended to 18 year olds. Most Boys Staters are in the 16 to 17 age category.

Air Force Drug Abuse Testing Program Goes Into Effect June 15 At Sheppard

By Sgt. Fred Stanzel
SHEPPARD AFB, TEXAS-- The Air Force's Drug Abuse Testing Program, now in effect at many bases in the Air Force, will begin at Sheppard AFB June 15, affecting all military people on base -- students and permanent party, enlisted people and officers -- according to Maj. K.E. Becker, program monitor.

Reasoning behind this urinalysis program is three-fold; to identify people using drugs who need help, whether they want it or not; to compile data determining the extent of drug usage in the Air Force; and to provide a degree of deterrence to people who might be tempted to use drugs.

How will the program work? "People to participate in the test will be selected by random sampling," said Major Becker. "Fifteen sets of numbers will be chosen and people whose last three digits of their Social Security numbers match one of the sets will be tested."

Men to be tested will report from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. and women from 2 to 3 p.m. These tests will be given generally on a five-day schedule.

All specimen collections will be observed by responsible medical personnel, and upon presentation of the sample, the person will be required to show his military ID card and sign a roster sheet.

"Once a person has been notified to report to the dispensary for testing, he should be advised that this program takes priority over everything--school or duty--and the only acceptable excuse for not making the appointment will be authorized leave or TDY," added the monitor.

Should a person refuse to take part in the test, he will be asked to report to his (her) squadron commander, who will have been already notified by telephone from the hospital about the refusal.

"Although the law of averages says that each individual will be tested 1.2 times a year, it is entirely possible for some to be called in four or five times a year, and others, never," Major Becker offered. "With this uncertainty involved, our drug users are under constant risk of being discovered."

Random selections will not be the only reason for presenting a specimen for drug urinalysis. New enlistees and first-term reenlistees will be required to produce samples. Those working with the program will be tested twice weekly, and people undergoing rehabilitation, every week.

One problem anticipated by the drug urinalysis team is the education program -- lowering the psychological barriers some persons may encounter concerning the testing.
