School Board Election Date Set

Portable Classrooms Are Approved By School Board

The Burk Burnett School Board met Monday, Feb. 11, at 7 p.m. for a regular board meeting. During the meeting, the Building Committee headed by Norman Roberts gave a report on expansion expectations of schools in the Burk Burnett Independent School District for the time period of 1974-1980. Roberts proposed in the report that portable classrooms be used to permit immediate relief in overcrowded areas. He stressed the need to release more teachers stations in the high school. Roberts had interviewed area builders to aid in his projections of growth to the district. Areas where predicted growth might be most by 1980 were east of the Expressway, the Janlee area, and west of the present football field. Members of the Building Committee are Norman Roberts, Ted Harris, and Frank Morton. Architect Charles Harper then said that portable classrooms are a must and that their purchase could be one of the most important decisions made by the board for awhile. The buildings are of metal construction with prefabricated panels made of masonite-type wood for siding. Board member John Gill made the motion for the purchase of four single or double portable classroom units with lighting to be specified by the architect and the inclusion of toilet facilities. Ted Harris seconded the motion and all board members present approved. Bid opening date was set at March 1. Thurman Allison then moved to let bids for the field house structural system and Ira Schroeder seconded it. The

Impressions
Thoughts Of A Newsmen
by Leon Smith

In which major institution do people place the most confidence? According to a recent Louis Harris public opinion survey, the medical profession stands highest in public esteem above higher education, television news, the military, organized religion, the U.S. Supreme Court, the U.S. Senate, the press, and major companies. At the bottom of the confidence pole was the federal government, and most notably the executive branch. There are those who advocate that the medical profession should be placed under the jurisdiction of the federal government, with the passage of a national health insurance law. If such a law is passed, let's hope the medical profession has a good influence on government rather than a reverse affect by the government on the medical profession. People of a nation need to have trust in their leaders and representatives so that progress can have a right of way. Without this trust, destruction surely follows. Both factions should work together as was meant to be; not work against each other. The medical profession is an example of an institution working with the public. The Growth is a key word to describe the Burk Burnett Library. The facility began in 1968 with just over 2,000 volumes, and in the past few years has increased that number to more than 13,000. The rate of this progress can be averaged at about 1,200 new volumes per year. The library is located across the street from the Burk Burnett City Hall complex in downtown Burk Burnett, and offers plenty of parking space. The address is 215 East Fourth. The $100,000 facility is funded by the city and sprawls over a 6,000 foot area. It is completely carpeted and air conditioned. According to librarian Mrs. John W. Strayhorn, there are some 7,713 volumes available for adult readers and more than 6,000 for youngsters. "We are trying to expand every area of the library," she said. "The first two years the library expanded in the area of conservation. We now are trying to expand and strengthen sections dealing with Texas history and the Burk Burnett oil boom." Mrs. Strayhorn has been with the library for nearly six years. Her assistant is Mrs. Raymond Schroeder. The first librarian was Mrs. A.T. Nice, who remained with the facility for about 1 1/2 years.

Vernon Slips By Dogs
 Vernon took a one game lead over Burk Burnett with a 71-53 victory over the Bulldogs. The Lions jumped out to a 10-0 lead with only about two minutes to go. Darrel Bohannon and John Harris led the attack throughout the game, but were especially instrumental in exploding to their lead that they never gave up. Burk was able, however, to close the gap to 19-14 by the end of the first quarter. Twelve of those points by the Bulldogs were at the charity line. By half-time, the Dogs trailed by five once again, 33-28. Vernon erupted again in the opening minutes of the second half to gain another 10-point lead. But Burk came back to within two with about a minute left in the third period. Terry Thompson led Burk in scoring with 14, while Harris and Bohannon had 18 each for Vernon.

Burk Wins Against Graham In Triple Overtime

Burk Burnett held off a raging Graham Steer team to take an 84-81 triple overtime win in Bulldog Gym. The Bulldogs cruised to a 33-16 halftime lead behind the heroics of Skip Dean. Graham was held to only six points throughout the entire second period as Burk streaked to its big lead. In the second half, however, Graham mounted a serious comeback. Perry Todd and Bobby Tate led the Steers' stampede as the Dogs lead sank to 49-35 by the end of the third quarter.

Graham was not through yet as the "Big Blue" kept roaring back. With about one minute left Burk owned a 66-58 margin, and some fans could be seen making an early exit, but the game was far from over. Graham tied the game at 66-66 and sent the game into overtime. For two overtime periods, the two teams battled on even terms. In the third overtime, Terry Thompson's free throw of a three point play led the game for Burk at 84-81.

Skip Dean had a season high of 28 for the Bulldogs. Three others hit in double figures for Burk Burnett, Thompson, Berg, and Martin had 19, 16 and 11 respectively. The Bulldog JV won their game with Graham's junior varsity 50-40.

Gas By Half-Gallon? It May Happen Here

AUSTIN—Buy gasoline by the half-gallon and multiply for the correct price?

It may happen in Texas if gasoline prices go over 50 cents a gallon.

State regulations issued in January will allow gasoline pumps unable to indicate a price over 49.9 cents a gallon to display the price per half-gallon. Sale price registered on the pump will be half the actual total which can be computed by multiplying by two.

The new regulations, which apply to retail dealers, will go into effect only if gasoline exceeds 50 cents a gallon.

They will be enforced by the weights and measures section of the Texas Department of Agriculture. Department inspectors are responsible for checking gasoline pumps to certify that meters are accurate.

According to Ed Whitesides, director of the Department's Consumer Services Division, pumps manufactured before 1965 do not have enough digits to register higher prices anticipated for automotive and truck fuels.

Later models are equipped with additional numerals for possible conversion to the metric system.

Only one company in the nation manufactures petroleum meters for retail pumps. A spokesman for the company, Veeder-Root, estimates it will be late 1975 before enough equipment can be produced to meet national demands.

Regulations require that dealers inform customers of the changes in large type affixed to the pumps. Labels must read "1/2 total price" and "per half gallon" by the unit price. Beneath the unit price another label must state the price per gallon.

A foot-square weatherproof sign must be placed on top of the dispenser to warn buyers of the changes.

Advertising petroleum fuel products will continue to be done in gallon values.

If the regulations go into effect, Whitesides warns consumers to be on the look-out for dealers whose advertising or labeling is misleading.

"Our inspection work will be intensified now that gasoline prices are going up," Whitesides said. "We can't control the price of gasoline but we can help to assure that the customer gets what he is paying for—whether gas is 36 or 60 cents a gallon."

HERE, THERE--AND YONDER

By Beatrice Smith (Mimosa Garden Club)

Do You Know . . .

That most seeds will not germinate until the soil warms to about 60 degrees? However there are some exceptions -- gallardia, cornflower, poppy, phlox, sweetpea, sweet alyssum, snapdragon, candytuft, gerbera and salvia can be planted early so that strong roots can be established during the cold months.

That newspaper makes the best cover for seed pans until the seedlings appear? It conserves moisture and hastens germination, as well as making it more even. Glass collects moisture on the underside.

That feeding early-started plants with liquid fertilizer a few days before transferring from flats or pots will strengthen them against transplant shock? Liquid fertilizer in the furrows where the seedlings are to be set will give them a quick start.

That your houseplants need extra attention now? Keep the air sufficiently moist; give them plenty of light; water them judiciously; wash them frequently to remove lice and scale; give them a good application of liquid manure or plant food occasionally.

That more houseplants fall from over-watering or poor drainage than any other cause? Other causes are too small a pot, too tight a soil, too much fertilizer, and too much or too little light.

That ice from a defrosted refrigerator or freezer can be used to water house plants? It is free from chemicals and is purer than tap water. Just lay the chunks on top of the pots. By the time the water soaks to the roots, it will be warm.

What to do about the red spider which is especially prevalent at this season? Syringe plants carefully, taking pains to hit the underside of the leaves, and maintain a humid atmosphere.

That your rubber plant probably needs repotting if black spots are showing up on the leaves? Shake the soil from the roots and repot in fresh, porous compost. Shade the plant until established.

A quick and easy way to prevent scratching the windowsill with ceramic flower pots? Cement a rubber jar ring to the base of each pot.

That the best way to water a rose bush is with a small stream of water from the hose? The slow moving water will seep into the soil and should penetrate to a depth of 8 or 10 inches.

That hummingbirds are more apt to come to your garden if you have columbine, phlox, false dragonhead and red hot poker plants for their enjoyment?

That there is a dawn and a sunset on the moon? BUT--since the moon has no atmosphere, the colors and the beauty of the earth's sunrise and sunset are absent.

How to tell the temperature--CRICKET STYLE? Those who are familiar with crickets have discovered that the common black cricket chirps fast or slow according to the temperature. In fact, there is such a close relationship that one can come close to the actual temperature by counting the chirps in 14 seconds, and then adding 40 to get the temperature in degrees Fahrenheit.

Sheppard Notes

A new edition to the USAF Regional Hospital at Sheppard should help ease the worries of expectant mothers and fathers. The hospital recently purchased a fetal monitoring machine which Major (Dr.) Victor Borden of the obstetrics and gynecology section says will assist doctors in identifying distressed babies during labor and thus help prevent certain birth defects.

Dr. Borden states that the device will record simultaneously the heartbeat of the unborn child and the strength and duration of the mother's contractions. By keeping an eye on the graph produced by the fetal monitoring machine, the obstetrician may see if the fetus is receiving an adequate flow of blood to prevent brain damage during birth.

Should it be detected that the baby is distressed, the doctor will attempt to alleviate the problem by one of several methods such as changing the position of the mother, giving her additional oxygen, reducing or eliminating the introduction of labor inducing drugs, or resorting to Caesarean section.

The new machine, according to Dr. Borden, replaces a stethoscope-like device through which the obstetrician listened to the fetal heartbeat. But during contractions it was at times difficult to pick up the heartbeat.

Although the fetal monitoring machine may see use before labor in some cases, as a method of determining whether Caesarean section is necessary in high risk cases, Dr. Borden states that the device until labor, and many of them will not need it at all.

If during prenatal observations it is determined that the baby is progressing normally and no problems are seen for mother or child, the monitoring machine may not be necessary. This is the first total monitoring machine in the Wichita Falls area to Dr. Borden's knowledge, and he sees it as a welcome addition to any hospital.

What appears to be the last job fair under sponsorship of the Transition Program at Sheppard Air Force Base will be staged March 21-23. It will be the last since Project Transition will be terminated at the base May 31.

Job seekers in the surrounding civilian communities are also invited to participate in the fair. The last job fair may be the biggest and best of all according to Transition Program officials at the base. Dubbed Operation PEP (People plus Employers equal Placement), advance interest by prospective employers have been excellent.

Also PEP will introduce an added feature. All people interested in participating in and reaping the benefits of the job fair are asked to complete a mini-resume form that will be provided to participating companies and businesses for advance review.

The short resume form is available at the base Transition office, room F, Building 343. Also Carol Cook, PEP coordinator, is available to answer questions and assist prospects in making the job fair work to their advantage.

Civilian employment has always been the ultimate goal of Project Transition. People of that office have endeavored to assist individuals in attaining this goal by maintaining employment information, supporting company job recruitments, job counseling, and assisting with resume preparation.

Free nursery service will be available for those attending. For personal and nursery reservations, call Family Services Center, 851-2300.

Weekly Health Tip
from JOE GILLESPIE
Heartburn or acid stomach is nature's warning that something has gone wrong in the digestive system. It could mean: 1) Some kind of food you have eaten doesn't agree with you. 2) You have eaten too much or too many varieties of food so that the digestive juices are confused (the kind that digests one type of food may interfere with the digestion of another food). 3) Emotional upset, at which time it is better not to eat at all, or simply a glass of milk or fresh vegetable juice. Pills are not the answer - determine the cause of stomach upset and correct the cause.

Weekly Health Tip
from JOE GILLESPIE
Heartburn or acid stomach is nature's warning that something has gone wrong in the digestive system. It could mean: 1) Some kind of food you have eaten doesn't agree with you. 2) You have eaten too much or too many varieties of food so that the digestive juices are confused (the kind that digests one type of food may interfere with the digestion of another food). 3) Emotional upset, at which time it is better not to eat at all, or simply a glass of milk or fresh vegetable juice. Pills are not the answer - determine the cause of stomach upset and correct the cause.

How much a family spends for living expenses affects its financial progress.

With inflation and rising costs of living, it's easy to let living costs get out of hand. A family's profits or earnings wind up in one of three places--income taxes and social security, family living or change in net worth.

The more that's spent for family living, the less a family has to improve its net worth situation.

Therefore, managing family finances--like managing a business--calls for decision making. This means identifying family goals, setting priorities and then making the "family living money" go as far as possible toward reaching these goals.

Since each family has a different spending pattern, it's a good idea to keep a record of family living expenses. This helps families recognize their spending patterns and plan future financial needs.

Then, to make financial progress, they should carefully budget family living expenditures.

Most people have enough wants to use up all their money, so unless they use some restraint in family spending, there may not be anything left for growth and expansion.

Are you still trying to remove those stains left on clothing or tablecloths after a busy holiday season?

Informed homemakers can get rid of such spots and spills. The most important step is immediate treatment with cool water and a sponge, thus preventing lasting stains. Even so, some products present special problems.

Some fruit juices, for example, may dry and disappear. As a result, they're often forgotten or overlooked. However, unless juice is removed, a stain may appear later due to aging or application of heat to the fabric.

To remove a fruit juice stain, sponge spot with cool water or glycerine and water. Or, try a vinegar-water solution, followed by a clear water rinse. Then blot dry with a towel. Also, for removing alcoholic beverage stains, use the fruit juice method. Berry stains, on the other hand, require immediate removal of any berry pieces, followed by sponging with cool water. Later blot with a detergent solution and rinse in clear water. If fabric is colorfast and the above method doesn't work, try pouring boiling water through the fabric stretched over a bowl or pan.

On non-colorfast fabrics, work in glycerine and let stand for a few hours. Apply a few drops of vinegar and rinse in clear, cool water.

For a candle wax stain, apply ice to solidify wax. Then scrape with a table knife. Place paper towels on both sides of fabric, and iron until wax is removed.

If color remains, use a grease solvent spot remover on it.

Also use grease solvent spot remover on lipstick stains.

During February, a program called "Pockets, Pockets, Pockets" will be presented for the fifteen county home demonstration clubs.

GRASS GROWN ON TEST PLOTS--Texas Department of Agriculture agronomist Don Ator looks over one of many grass varieties on 51 test plots at the TDA laboratory in Giddings. One variety is Eastern Gama, a favorite of cattle.

Cows Mooing Praise Over Eastern Gama

Cows can't resist eating Eastern Gama, the ice cream of grasses.

That's the reason Eastern Gama is seldom found on rangelands. Cattle and other ruminants like it so well that they have practically eaten it out of existence, says Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

One place it can be found however, is at Texas Department of Agriculture's 85-acre "farm" at Giddings. It is one of the 51 kinds of grasses growing there under the tender care of Agronomists Don Ator, R.S. Govan and Bert H. Johnson.

TDA specialist found some Eastern Gama, a native grass that has the formal monicker of "Tripsacum dactyloides," growing beside a road within a few miles of the Seed Lab which TDA opened at Giddings in 1971, and promptly transplanted some of it to the farm.

It has done well, protected and cared for as it is.

Eastern Gama is seldom found in pastures, says Agronomist Harry Forbes, because it is liked so well by cattle that they eat it out of existence, if they are not restricted in their grazing.

Forbes says he has heard that there is a ranch or two in the Houston area that grows Eastern Gama as one of the grasses in a pasture rotation program.

The "ice cream" grass at Giddings is wide leaved, but other strains may be found over the United States, growing in such protected places as road rights-of-way.

When allowed to do so, it will grow to a height of six or seven feet, and it grows in bunches. It seeds, but its seeds are difficult to collect. Therefore, roots are the best way to propagate Eastern Gama.

It likes wet climates, does not respond as well to fertilizer as do some introduced grasses, and it does well in deeper and tighter soils.

According to Commissioner White, Eastern Gama used to be common over Texas, but as cattle increased in numbers (and there are about 15,000,000 in Texas now), the grass decreased.

After all, to a cow, Eastern Gama is ice cream.

With approximately 80 new homes constructed in Cotton County in 1973, many home owners have been asking for help in planning and developing landscapes.

We have several pieces of materials that should be of help. Some of the material available are: "How To Plant Trees and Shrubs in Tight Clay Soils", "Suggested Tree Species for Southwest Oklahoma", "An Introduction to Residential Landscaping", and also a book called MODERN LANDSCAPING FOR THE MIDWEST is available that is filled with color pictures of trees and shrubs in their natural setting.

February 15, 1974 is Arbor Day in Oklahoma. Bradford Ornamental Pear, Chinese Pistache, Japanese Pagoda, and Marshall's Seedless Ash are such trees as should be considered for street planting projects in Oklahoma.

February and March are main planting months in Oklahoma; Magnolias, Holly, Sweetgum and Pine are best planted in March.

The average homeowner will not give fruit and nut trees the husbandry required for satisfactory production, and without it, the trees are a mess.

Though Pecans are messy near the house or drive, their root system uniquely suits them for use near sewer lines and lateral fields, where other trees' roots could be a problem.

Coniferous evergreens can also be safely planted in the general vicinity of a sewer line. However, no tree should be planted within 8 feet of a sewer line.

On poor upland soils, Hackberry, Silver Maple, and Fruitless Mulberry are well adapted as shade trees. However, keep them 25 to 50 feet from the nearest sewer line. Early pre-planting of shade trees, patio, sewer lines, and lateral fields, would avoid many problems.

Established trees can and most should be fertilized now. Nitrogen can be effectively applied to trees this month by mere surface scattering. Use one pound of ammonium nitrate per inch of trunk diameter scattered in the canopy area. Measure diameter at 4 1/2 feet above ground.

February is the time of real preparation. Prune deciduous trees and summer flowering shrubs. Delay roses until mid-March; also, the broad-leaved and narrow-leaved evergreens. Spring flowering shrubs such as azalea and Forsythia should not be pruned until flowers fade.

The incidence of cattle deaths from diseases caused by the genus Clostridium seems to be on the increase in this area. Diseases caused by this genus include: blackleg, malignant edema, black disease, overating disease, botulism, tetanus and red water disease.

The organisms produce toxins taken up by cattle either orally from the outside as in silage, or are absorbed if they are made internally such as from the gut or liver.

Blackleg is the most common cause of death but several cases of black disease have been reported by the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Lab.

Calves should be vaccinated at three to four months of age for protection and then revaccinated as short-yearlings to maintain an immunity. In some areas it may be necessary to vaccinate baby calves to prevent Clostridium infections. Where the incidence of Clostridium infections are recommending an annual seven-way shot for mature cows.

Specific recommendations for a Clostridium vaccination program are not made because of the variation in level of occurrence from ranch to ranch and the type of operation involved. Producers should consult their local veterinarian and develop a vaccination program tailored for their operation and area of the state.

Farmers and ranchers can get a big assist in reducing their taxes by using investment credit wisely. Seven per cent of the qualified investment in new or used property with a useful life of seven years or more can be claimed.

Many interesting beverages, sandwiches and dips can be made from cranberries. Since cranberry sauce has fewer calories than many jams and jellies, it makes an excellent snack food, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

County Averaged 36.3 Bushels Per Acre Of Barley

AUSTIN-- Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced that Wichita County ranked in the top ten barley producing counties in the state in 1973.

Barley production increased from 93,000 bushels in 1972 to a total of 170,600 bushels in 1973.

Farmers in Wichita County harvested 4,700 acres of barley and averaged 36.3 bushels per acre. This was also an increase over the 1972 average of 26.6 bushels per acre.

Parmer County led the state in barley production with a total yield of 478,500 bushels.

Commissioner White said that the 1973 barley crop established a record yield of 39.0 bushels per acre.

"Barley is a significant crop, and we are proud that Texas ranks in the top twenty barley producing states," White said. In 1973 Texas produced 3,510,000 bushels of barley compared with a total production of 1,980,000 bushels in 1972.

Grimes Is Soil Conservation Technician In Wichita Co.

Robert E. Grimes has started work as a Soil Conservation Technician in Wichita County, District Conservationist Gary A. Batto announced this week.

Grimes, 44, has been with the Soil Conservation Service for 18 years. He began his career in 1956 at Liberty, Texas, and has since worked at several locations in the eastern part of the state. He transferred to the Iowa Park Field Office from Centerville.

Batto said that Grimes will be working with land users in the Wichita Soil and Water Conservation District, which includes all of Wichita County. He will help with the application of conservation practices on farms, and ranches, as well as other types of land.

Canned hams come in a variety of sizes and types. These fully-cooked hams--ranging from one-and-one half to 13 pounds--can be served hot or cold. They're available unsmoked, smoked, specially-flavored and even glazed, says Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

WEEKLY MARKET REPORT

COLLEGE STATION-- Meat prices continue to trend upward, so meat items should be selected with care, one observer noted this week.

"A larger cut of meat is frequently an economy," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas A&M University System, said.

"Also less demanded cuts of meat are often priced below average.

"Many larger cuts can be divided easily into smaller cuts and cooked at different times," she added.

Less popular cuts of meats, such as beef heart, are tasty and nutritious when properly prepared, the specialist said.

"Steaks and roasts from the pork shoulder offer very good eating at considerably less cost than the more popular pork chops."

Turning to poultry, she termed turkey, turkey parts and fryer chickens economical protein food choices.

"Egg prices are up--considerably higher than a year ago, with Grade A, large-size eggs offering the best value."

At fruit counter, grapefruit and oranges are priced attractively with several varieties of oranges available-- Temple, Valencia and Navel oranges are a few, the specialist added.

"Tangelos and tangerines are still available, though supplies are on the decline. Apples, bananas and pears are other fruit choices, along with moderately priced fresh strawberries and pineapples.

"The most economical vegetables include bulk turnips, cooking greens, rutabagas, head lettuce, cabbage, carrots, celery and broccoli, while potato and dry onion prices are up."

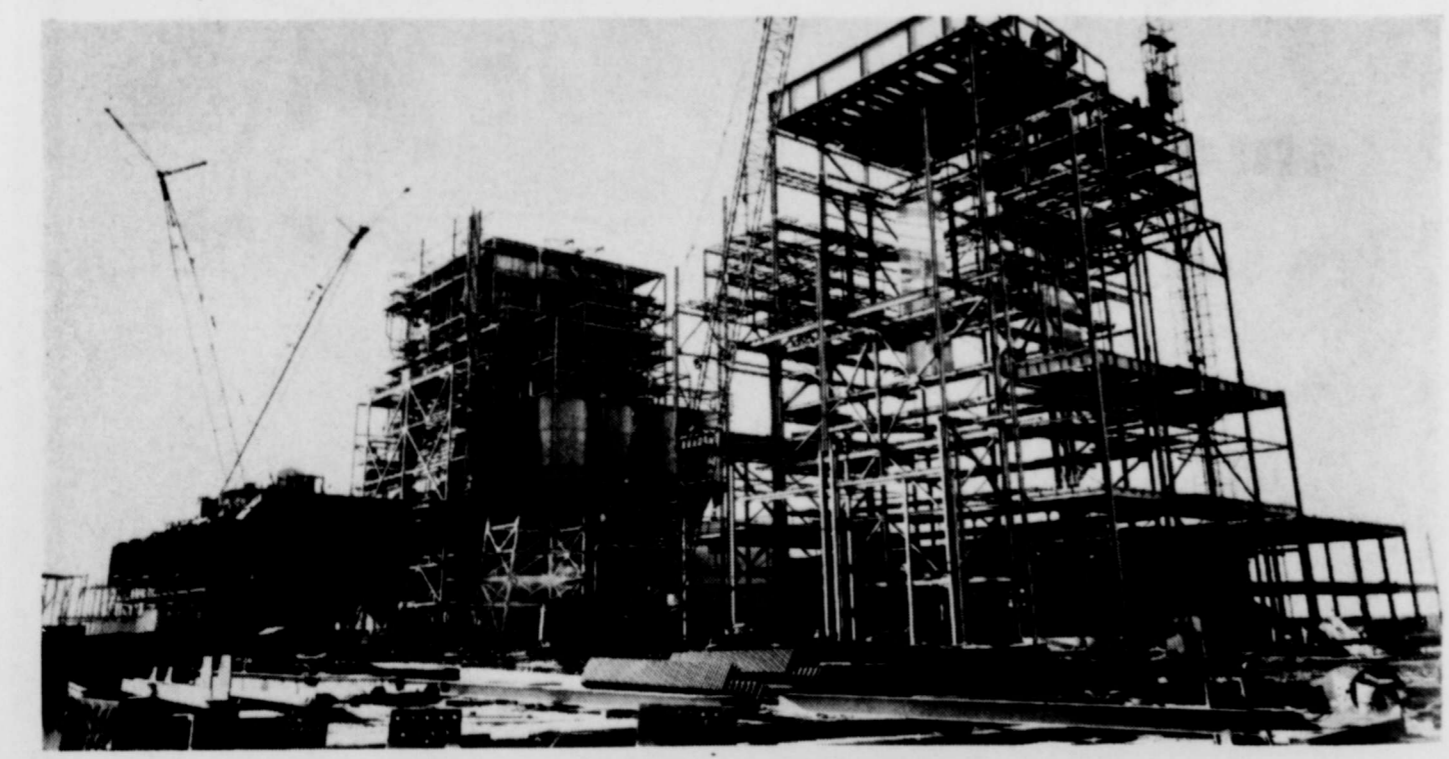

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Don't waste food. Cook a little less, even if it means serving the family smaller portions.

Store purchases properly and use promptly--what you don't eat costs money, too.

We're spending $700 million on new construction during the next five years.

We must have new plants that will permit us to diversify the types of fuel we use to generate electricity.

Natural gas is our major fuel at Texas Electric now, with oil used on a standby basis. But both these fuels are in increasingly short supply.

So Texas Electric, along with two other electric utilities, is building plants in East Texas that use lignite coal, a fuel that is not being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

One lignite plant already is in operation, and two others are being built. But it costs about twice as much to build a lignite plant as one that uses natural gas.

A nuclear-fueled plant is scheduled to be operational near Glen Rose by 1980, and this one will cost more than three times as much as a gas-fueled plant.

Financing the essential expenditure of more than $700 million in just the next five years is what makes an increase in electric service rates necessary.

We're working to supply the electricity you'll need, but it will have to cost more in the future.

Vernon Stewart Files For State Representative

I have filed for the office of State Representative, District 52. I have done so at the urging of a very large number of citizens who are vitally concerned with the future representation of Wichita County and with the important issues facing the next legislature.

For the past month I have visited with hundreds of residents of Wichita Falls and Burkburnett, obtaining cross section opinions from the young and the retired; employers and employees, and from the various races of people who comprise this district. I have found wholesale disillusionment on their part with politicians and with the people running our government. The people want a return to the simple old-fashioned fundamentals of honesty and integrity by their office holders. This is what our people deserve and this I shall try to give them. Our government must be returned to the people.
