

City Council Increases Burial Rates

The Burk Burnett City Council met Monday night and voted to increase the cost of opening graves in the Burk Burnett Cemetery to a minimum of $65.00.

City Manager Gary Bean said that due to a new minimum wage law, about $10,000 will be added to city labor costs. He urged the council to set a fee of $10 for making water or sewer connections except during regular working hours and to raise the charge of opening graves locally to a minimum of $65 to help keep up with these costs. He also recommended that the cost of cemetery space be raised to $100 and that there be no funerals on Sundays or holidays except in the case of true emergencies.

Bean stated that since Burk Burnett's rates on funeral burials have been so low, persons from all over the area who have never even been in Burk Burnett, are brought here to be buried and are filling up the local cemetery. He also recommended that the city be notified in advance of Saturday funerals so that proper labor can be available. He said of the costs, "We're not even breaking even and we sure won't be after the new wage law is in effect."

Alderman James Spinks made the motion to follow the city manager's recommendations and increase rates accordingly. All members of the council present approved the motion.

The council approved unanimously the Texas Municipal League's recommendation that a new city plumbing ordinance be adopted. The ordinance (No. 327) is a detailed study of all aspects of plumbing approved by TML and recommended by many plumbers. The only two changes made were that there not be an advisory board appointed and that the Burk Burnett rate schedule be inserted.

In other action, the council voted unanimously to grant a five-year lease to W.M. Morton on the old 32-acre Ellis Lease owned by the city. Morton owns an adjoining farm and was willing to lease the land at $20 per acre a year. The council also agreed to continue use of the Burk Burnett Bank as city depository, and approved Ordinance 326, which would grant easement on a Cropper Road plant.

The council agreed to dispense with the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, approved two basic easements for Texas Electric Service Company, and granted Ross H.

Brown an oil permit to drill a well one location south of one of his larger wells. This will be well number five.

Gary Bean reported that the Community Center is holding its own financially, which he said was very good. The council agreed to pay accounts payable totaling $17,192. Tax collections totaled $1,761.17 and corporation court fines for April were $745.

Two guests attended the meeting. Mr. Ladd, a local resident, reported to the council that there was a cat problem in his neighborhood. He described the cats which "run wild" in the area as nuisances and are destructive, and products of a "cat ranch". He said that his neighbor feeds stray cats which attracts more to the area, but his neighbor does not restrain them from causing destruction on other people's property. The council agreed to look into the matter.

James Foyce, president of the Senior Citizen's Club in Burk Burnett, told the council that his club would like to build a 50 x 40 metal building for the club to hold meetings in. He suggested that the city set up two accounts (one in each local bank) for donations to be kept.

He said that building of the facility could be done in steps, with certain sections being built at a time when an ample amount of money was saved. For instance a concrete slab might be poured first, then the metal added later, and other steps could follow as the money is saved.

Councilman Reid McCandless stated that he felt enough money should be saved first to make sure enough would be donated to build the complete building. Alderman Donald Pate agreed, since a concrete slab without a building is of no use.

Pate then made the motion that the council start the accounts, with the stipulation that the council will have to approve before construction can actually begin. All present approved the motion.

The council named a steering committee to oversee the development of long-range plans for the riverside park located just east of Burk Burnett. The committee includes Riley Lane, Mickey Cornelius, Bill Vincent, John Musick, F.R. McCandless, and Donald Pate.

PPG Employees Take First Aid Courses

PPG employees had a few lessons in first aid Wednesday at the Burk Burnett Community Center when a large first-aid class was conducted by the Wichita Falls Red Cross chapter.

The all-day course was taken by about 60 employees of the new PPG Float Glass Plant located just south of Burk Burnett. John Guckian, assistant manager of the Red Cross chapter, said that this was the largest multi-media course ever conducted in the Burk Burnett-Wichita Falls area. The course usually numbers around 10 persons at a time.

The course consisted of basic first aid, four films, work book classes, and practical exercise. "You see it in the films, read it in the books, and then do it," Guckian said.

According to Jim Maloney, head of employee relations for PPG near Burk Burnett, PPG Industries boasts the best safety record in the glass industry in the world. He said that approximately 30 per cent of PPG's employees will undergo the first aid course and that the plant will employ about 900 persons by the end of the year.

During the course, students were shown how to set splints, stop bleeding, start breathing, and treat poisoning.

Beginning at 7 p.m. the same day in the Post Home, a salad supper is planned. All World War I veterans and wives, and Gold Star Mothers will be honored guests at the salad supper. Each Legionnaire and Auxiliary, along with their families, is asked to bring a favorite salad to the post.

Due to the new overtime charge on all city employees due to the new labor law, there will be a $10 charge on water connections and disconnections which are not made during regular work hours (8-5, five days per week). According to City Manager Gary Bean, this will not affect emergency conditions such as breaks in lines.

U. S. Postal Service To Present School Program

Four Burkburnett schools, 40 classrooms and 1,000 students, participated in the U.S. Postal Service Schools Program during Student Postal Week, May 20, 1974, according to postmaster W.T. Zimmerman.

Designed for students in the third, fourth, and fifth grades, the Schools Program offered an entertaining and informative study of all facets of America's postal system; from a step-by-step examination of how a letter goes from one city to another to the vivid depiction of American history through postage stamps.

"For years," Postmaster Zimmerman said, "police and fire departments and other public institutions have had active programs to make young citizens understand the way they work. This is the first time the Postal Service has launched such a program nationwide. We are hopeful that children, not only enjoyed our materials, but also learned more about how to make proper use of the mail."

Each classroom participating in the program has received a Postal Service Educational Kit. The kit contains 25 copies of "Jr. Postman", a colorfully illustrated 24-page Teacher's Guide; a full-size poster entitled

"How Your Letter Gets There," showing how a letter travels from a little girl to her grandfather; 60 bookmarks displaying stamps and the stories behind them, and 30 Jr. Postman wallet-sized cards, certifying that the student has taken part in the Educational Program. 1,000 Educational Kits have already been distributed to participating schools, according to Postmaster Zimmerman. "Response to the program here in Burkburnett has been tremendous," he said.

B.T. HAWS

The support of all cattle producers in Wichita County as well as those throughout the state is needed if the current brucellosis eradication program is to be effective.

All breeding cattle two years of age and over should now be tested for brucellosis when ownership of the cattle changes. Testing may be done on the ranch or farm or at an auction market. A test is good for 30 days if the animal is ear tagged and the owner has a test certificate.

Texas leads the nation in the number of brucellosis infected herds. It has 26 per cent of all the infected herds in the United States. Oklahoma, Louisiana, and Mississippi account for 37 per cent of the infected herds.

Testing programs are moving forward in other states and the action has been effective. Thirty-seven per cent of all the counties in the nation are now "modified-certified" brucellosis free and 63 per cent are "certified" free of infected cattle.

Farmers can reduce insecticide usage by the wise use of cultural practices. The more traditional methods of pest control such as crop rotations, timing of plantings, early production and stalk destruction are still effective today when used in an integrated program, with insecticides used only to suppress insect outbreaks. Non-chemical pest control practices are designed to change the environment so that it is unfavorable for insects.

Through the use of both old and new technology, integrated pest management can boost profits while at the same time protecting the environment.

Curing concrete during hot weather calls for special care to prevent rapid evaporation of water. A curing of about seven days is recommended. Water can be retained in freshly poured concrete by covering it with burlap, sand or other material that can be kept wet. "Ponding" water on a concrete slab also works. Or the concrete can be covered with plastic film, waterproof kraft paper or other watertight cover. Proper curing increases the strength of concrete and helps it resist freezing and thawing, water and wear.

Foliar feeding is the process of applying a dilute solution of fertilizer on the leaves of plants. Studies have shown that plants can absorb small amounts of fertilizer nutrients through their leaves. Since high concentrations of salts or nutrients in the solution will damage leaves, only small amounts of nutrients can be applied per application. This usually amounts to one to four pounds per acre. Thus crops such as grain sorghum or cotton that may use 60 to 80 pounds of nitrogen per acre during the growing season would require many applications if foliar feeding was substituted for regular soil applications of fertilizer.

Foliar feeding has been used as a method of applying trace elements which are needed in very small amounts. However, to meet the nitrogen phosphorus and potassium requirements of field and forage crops through the feeding technique is generally uneconomical. Foliar feeding is most often used as a temporary or emergency treatment to correct a specific problem or nutrient deficiency, such as iron chlorosis.

With foliar feeding, nutrients are absorbed through the leaf surface. Therefore, only those leaves on the plant at the time of application can absorb the nutrient. As new tissue forms, the small amount applied to older leaves may have been used, so another application is required.

Fertilizers prepared for foliar feeding are often marketed as liquids. The label must show the analysis similar to solid fertilizers. The percentages of nutrients are also on a weight basis. For example, a liquid fertilizer containing 10 per cent nitrogen and weighing 12 pounds per gallon would contain 1.2 pounds of nitrogen per gallon.

To supply 60 pounds of actual nitrogen would require 50 gallons of the fertilizer or 600 pounds, the same as any other fertilizer containing 10 per cent nitrogen.

A careful evaluation of costs and expected returns is essential before fertilizer is applied to field and forage crops by foliar feedings.

HELPING A NEIGHBOR—Garland rancher Glenn Raney helps a neighbor with a sick cow. Raney and his father own 200 of their own cows and calves, a figure which makes them typical ranchers. According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, 83 percent of beef cattle in the United States come from herds of less than 500 head.

Time To Control Pecan Nut Moth

Control measures for the pecan nut casebearer should be applied during the period from May 24-27, according to B.T. Haws, County Extension Agent. Pecan nut casebearer moths emerged over an extended period of time. Therefore a second application will be needed five to seven days following the first application. To further tie down the exact timing of when pecan nut casebearers should be controlled, producers are urged to inspect the small nutlets for the flat light green to white pecan nut casebearer eggs. These eggs are about the size of a pin head and generally will be deposited on the brown ends of the small nutlets. Once eggs are observed the producer knows that these eggs will hatch in a few days and an insecticide must be applied to protect the nutlets.

By inspecting the small nutlets closely after the eggs have been found, exact timing for control of pecan nut casebearer can be tied down even further. Control measures should be applied as soon as the first damaged nutlet is observed. This method works very well for those producers that are willing to spend the time required to inspect for the first damage of the pecan nut casebearer.

The insecticide used for pecan nut casebearer control can be mixed with a fungicide to protect the pecan tree against scab and zinc sulfate to prevent zinc deficiency. All these can be mixed together and sprayed on pecans at the same time. Thorough tree coverage is necessary to obtain effective control of the pecan nut casebearer.

Some insecticides which might be used for control of the pecan nut casebearer are Sevin, Malathion, and Zolone. Information on other materials that might be used in a commercial orchard can be obtained from your County Extension Office. The insecticide used should be mixed and applied according to the directions on the label.

Soil Stewardship Week Set For May 19-26

Soil Stewardship Week, a nationwide observance which emphasizes man's responsibility to protect and conserve soil, water, and other natural resources, will be May 19-26 this year, Fred Dwyer, chairman of the Wichita Soil and Water Conservation District announced today.

This year's theme, "A Different Place", emphasizes "how the many changes now occurring in the nation affect our continuing responsibility to be good stewards of the land," Dwyer said.

Dwyer cited the energy shortage, environmental pollution, and the growing concern over land use as examples of changes and developments affecting the use of America's natural resources.

"We hope," said Dwyer, "that during Soil Stewardship Week, millions of Americans will pause for a moment to consider their responsibilities for the protection and use of the land on which we live."

Lord's earth." Dwyer explained that many churches in the district are scheduling special Soil Stewardship services during the observance.

This will be the 19th consecutive year that the Wichita SWCD, along with almost 3,000 similar districts throughout the nation, has sponsored Soil Stewardship Week. The custom of setting aside special "Rogation Days" for this purpose began more than 1,500 years ago in France, when French peasants prayed for help after crop failures had brought widespread hunger.

Synovex-H implants resulted in increased gains of 17% on 3 1/2 month old creep-fed heifer calves that were nursing cows grazing native pasture. In another test, Synovex-H implants caused increased gains of 17% on stocker heifers grazing wheat pasture for 126 days in OSU trials.

Generally no significant differences in carcass quality were found between heifers implanted with Synovex-H and the controls.

Very limited data indicates the response from Synovex-H appears equal to or better than DES in three trials. More data is needed before recommendations can be made.

Implanting replacement heifers is not recommended by OSU since extremely rapid growth is not needed at the risk of upsetting normal hormonal balance.

Inspects can be easily controlled if grain bins are cleaned out and sprayed before harvest. A spray containing 2.5% Malathion applied at the rate of 2 gallons to 1000 square feet should do the job.

In storing grain on the farm, one must make sure the grain is exceptionally dry and not contaminated with weeds or weed seeds.

About the first of February, courts overruled the previous decision about diethylstilbestrol (DES) because DES had not been given a fair trial.

Calves implanted with one 12 mg of stilbestrol have gained from 0-53 pounds more at weaning time than non-implanted calves, according to research at Oklahoma State University. DES implants are not recommended on nursing heifer calves because of possible side-effects.

Harris Angus, Burkburnett, has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri, announced Lloyd Miller, executive secretary. There were 373 memberships issued to breeders of registered Aberdeen-Angus in the United States during the past month.

Home Demonstration News

By Dee James
County Extension Agent

Poor food-handling practices in the home often cause illness in the family, even though the foods were safe to eat when purchased or first prepared.

Lack of sanitation, insufficient cooking, and improper storage can allow bacteria in food to increase to dangerous levels.

A "search and destroy" plan for food bacteria can prevent food poisoning.

Heating foods to 155 degrees F. and above destroys vegetative cells of "perfringens clostridium." Illness from this bacteria can cause abdominal pain, diarrhea, possible nausea and vomiting. These symptoms, starting from 8-22 hours after eating contaminated food, usually subside within 24 hours.

To kill spores of this bacteria, cooking temperatures must reach that of boiling water—212 degrees F.

Initial cooking of a food usually reaches these temperatures, but recontamination occurs if the food remains at room temperature very long.

Other precautions include the following: --Use lots of soap and hot water on hands, all surfaces and utensils in contact with food before and after use. This is the strongest safeguard against contamination.

--Don't use the same utensils, cutting board and counter for raw and cooked foods unless they're washed between uses with chlorine and water. Don't just rinse them.

--Cook meats properly. Keep them hot—above 140 degrees F.—and serve hot.

--Cool meat rapidly in a refrigerator, if it's cooked for later use.

--Keep cold cuts and cold-sliced meats cold (below 40 degrees F.) and serve cold. Don't let these foods reach room temperature.

--Heat leftover, cooked meat to an internal temperature of at least 155 degrees F.—and don't just warm it up. Once reheated, eat it while hot.

--Don't place frozen food over other foods in the refrigerator. Moisture dripping from a defrosting item may contaminate others.

--If you carry cream, custard, or meringue pie or foods with custard fillings on a summer outing, keep them in a cooler until served. Follow the same precaution for salads and sandwiches made with salad dressings containing eggs or milk products.

Remember, it's up to you to "Keep Food Safe to Eat."

Cooper H. D. Club Hears Food Report

The Cooper Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Everett George for a regular meeting last week. Mrs. R.R. Swinford opened the meeting and Mrs. W.P. Rogers gave the club reports. Mrs. Anna Mae Emmert gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Hubert Miller introduced Mrs. Dee James, Home Demonstration Agent, who gave a report on food safety.

The next meeting will be at the Friberg Community House with Mrs. Cecil Huddleston as hostess.

Present were Miss Sandra

Miller, Mrs. Dee James, and members: Mmes. Swinford, Barfield, Owen, S. Spencer, Volmer, Emmert, A. Spencer, George, Rogers, H. Miller, Bryant, Clayton, Gill, Huddleston, and S. Miller.

Farm Numbers Decline

The number of farms in the United States was 2.84 million in 1973, down about one percent from the previous year.

USDA estimates the same percentage decline for 1974, continuing a downward trend that started in 1936.

WEEKLY MARKET REPORT

Beef, now at lower wholesale prices than it was a year ago, is one of the few food items boasting that distinction today, one expert says.

She's Gwendolyn Clyatt, Consumer Marketing Information Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Scattered beef specials now offer the comparative shopper good values on chuck cuts, sirloin and rib steaks, round steak and beef liver," she added.

At pork counters, Boston butt and loin roasts are in the spotlight, while other features include quarter loins cut into chops, smoked picnics and some brands of bacon. Turning to poultry sections, Mrs. Clyatt cited chicken, eggs and turkey—both whole bird and parts—as economical. She termed turkey and egg supplies "large".

"Fresh fruit and vegetable items in good supply at economical prices include apples, orange, grapefruit and strawberries."

"Also, dry yellow onions, green onions, mustard, turnips and greens, cabbage, carrots, beets and radishes—along with soft-shell, or summer, squash."

"Watermelon prices dropped this week as supplies started increasing, while cantaloupe and honeydew melons reflect varying prices, usually according to melon size," Mrs. Clyatt said.

She reported pineapples in fairly heavy supply—and bananas in lighter supply with higher prices.

Consumer Watchwords: chicken meat that turns darker near the bone after it's cooked indicates a young, tender bird. Because today's chickens are marketed at earlier ages, bones aren't completely calcified. Bone marrow expands during slow freezing, as in home freezing, causing pigment to seep through the bone—which doesn't affect taste or quality.

Students Invited To Music Camp

High school and junior high students from Burk Burnett are being invited to attend the Summer Music Camp featuring band and choir training June 17-19 at McMurry College in Abilene.

Dr. David Blackburn, director of the McMurry Chanters, and Roger Rush, director of McMurry Band, are in the process of assembling a faculty of distinguished musical educators both from Abilene and elsewhere.

"I hope some vocalists and instrumentalists from Burk Burnett can take advantage of this total and exciting musical experience which we plan," said Dr. Blackburn, who is also chairman of McMurry's division of fine arts. "We also intend to mix in some fun."

The camp will not only provide musical training for junior and senior high students, but will provide advanced college credit for music teachers.

"We plan to have camp recreating and a distinguished concert series as well," says Rush. "The emphasis will be upon creative learning in music."

Classes for youth will include conducting, organ, voice, piano, theory, twirling, drum majoring, and guitar. With youth choral training will be the summer concert choir, ensembles, private and class lessons. A lab band will give young musicians experience in jazz, rock, and other popular music forms.

Music teachers may earn up to four hours of credit. A two-hour course in techniques of arranging, and a two-hour course in vocal and choral techniques will be taught.

HE WILL MAKE THE DESERT BLOSSOM

The first time I saw a desert, I was appalled at its bleakness and nakedness. Then, in an article in National Geographic magazine, I was alerted to the hidden beauty of arid land. Only then could I understand three things:

Why Jesus loved the wilderness
Why the desert experience occurred in the lives of Moses, Jesus and the Apostle Paul
And why Jesus first loved me

Jesus loved the desert lands because they somehow depicted the wasteland of sin in human lives, and the great need for His forgiving love and blessing.

The whole potential of man is revealed in the Scriptural phrase, "He will make the desert blossom. The desert, that burning oven of desolation, becomes a rose garden by His presence and His power. "He," as the Psalmist says, "is a stream in the desert."

He made me as capable of receiving Him as the desert sands are able to receive and absorb water. He Himself is "like a root out of dry ground" Isaiah 53:2.

Thus, I know He knows.

That's enough!

Mrs. Rush Demonstrates Wood Carving

Mrs. Tom Rush, a former resident of Burkburnett, is an accomplished wood carver. She now resides in Collinsville, Illinois. Mrs. Rush is the daughter of Mrs. Raymond Holland, the former Maxine Bunstine. The wood carving she does is actually called "primitive wood carving" and consists of designs cut into flat surfaces. She recently gave a demonstration of her work at a meeting of the Wives of the Illinois Association of Highway Engineers.

She uses construction grade lumber, which is cut to the desired size. From there a design or saying is traced or drawn on the wooden panel as a guide. Then, using a straight-edged utility knife, she carves the designs into the wood. Edges are scalloped with the same knife and the plaques are coated with screening paint, a black substance containing creosote. The liquid is thinned with turpentine, painted on the board, and rubbed dry.

Mrs. Rush admits that the most difficult part of the whole process is tracing the pattern on the wood. After that, there is no problem.

No Need To Squeeze The Oranges

Fresh-tasting orange juice used to be a luxury most Americans couldn't afford. But today it's an everyday breakfast treat in the average home, thanks largely to agricultural research. The process for developing frozen orange juice concentrate grew out of research at the U.S. Department of Agriculture lab in New Orleans. Now, less than 30 years later, you can buy frozen orange juice for about half what you would pay to buy enough oranges to make a comparable amount of juice. And besides that, you can leave the squeezing to the processor.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
 by Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. — The end may be in sight for the historic Texas Constitutional Convention which began last January.

Delegates have been zipping along since they came back to work after the May 4 primary election, and only one major article — the catchall, controversial General Provisions — was left to complete on tentative passage at mid-week.

After that, of course, lawmakers-delegates must go back through the whole package on final consideration. And only those articles receiving a two-thirds majority vote can be submitted to voters.

Actually, the convention has until the end of July to complete the entire revision effort.

However, President Price Daniel Jr. has expressed hope for a much quicker windup. Daniel, of course, pushed unsuccessfully for agreement on a proposed revision before the primary election, then had to settle for a month's recess during April.

Convention leaders debated whether to submit a $1 million budget — enough to last until mandatory July adjournment — or to budget piecemeal, hopeful of getting through within a few weeks.

Daniel expressed a preference for budgeting through July, then "giving a lump of it back" on earlier adjournment.

However, Administration Committee Chairman Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon said he was concerned that appropriating through July would tempt delegates to stay that long.

Meanwhile, Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards gave delegates some practical advice on how to get new constitutions adopted. His own state has just approved one.

PRIMARIES CANVASSED — Executive Committees of both Democratic and Republican parties canvassed returns of the May 4 primary.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe is officially the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, having evidence an obituary of his slain wife.

The Court of Criminal Appeals also reversed the assault to murder sentence assessed a Harris County man due to introduction by the state of a marriage annulment petition purporting to show he had a violent temper.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld a state savings and loan commissioner's order allowing Equitable Savings of Fort Worth to set up a branch office in Lubbock.

The State Supreme Court set a June 12 hearing in a suit over whether Day and Zimmermann Inc., which operates Lone Star Army Ammunition plant at Texarkana, must pay $12,668 in state sales taxes. The taxes were paid under protest on materials bought by the munitions maker. Day and Zimmermann claims the purchases were non-taxable, since they were made for the U.S. government.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

We had several members go to Frederick for the tournament last weekend and we wish Bob Carpenter luck as he attempts to tackle the T-O Tournament at Weeks Park in Wichita Falls this weekend.

Tip for the Week: Immediately after the chip, step with your right foot onto the spot where the ball was. This will force you to keep your weight properly on your left foot during the shot.

FUEL SHORTAGE CONTINUES — Once more, the statewide oil allowable (for June) has been set at a wide-open 100 percent — for the 27th straight month — amid warnings that fuel shortages may last through summer.

Railroad Commissioner Langdon commended Texans for their conservation efforts. He noted that crude oil stocks in the state are up two million barrels over a year ago — to 93.3 million — and that U.S. supplies are up 8.1 million barrels.

Langdon credited voluntary energy-conservation efforts with the improved inventory picture, but he warned that heavy summer vacation travel may cause more lines at the pumps.

Nominations to purchase crude oil for the next month totalled 3,879,449 barrels, an increase of 18,684 barrels over May.
