Hints for the Household

By BETTY WEBSTER

Today I am giving some recipes for dishes to be served at a Chinese supper. They are substantial, yet dainty and may be served effectively for luncheon or birdge party as well.

RECIPES

- Chow Mein
2 tablespoons of butter
1 cup of chopped onions
1 1/2 cups of sliced celery
1 1/2 cups of mushrooms
2 cups of bean sprouts
1/4 cup of Chinese sauce
2 cups (1 pound) of lamb, beef, pork or chicken cut into pieces about 1 inch by 1/2 inch by 1-16 inch

Refreshment Suggestions

At a luncheon, the table decorations might be in orange color and the place cards in Chinese designs. Pineapple parfaits, pineapple ice, ice cream or sundaes might be substituted for the upside-down cake previously mentioned and orange patties served in place of the marshmallows.

Graham Muffins

- 1/2 cup of sugar
2 cups of graham flour
2 teaspoons of baking powder
1 cup of milk
1 tablespoon of butter.
Mix ingredients and bake in a muffin pan twenty to thirty minutes in a hot oven.

The Value Of Diathermy

By DR. WILLIAM J. SCHOLES

When diathermy is used in the treatment of disease it has the following general effects:
(a) It has a localized action.
(b) It increases the blood supply to the part.

Dithery Means to Heat Through
The beneficial effects of diathermy are produced by the heat that is generated within the part subjected to its action.

Effect of Diathermy
The ultimate physiological effect of diathermy is an increase in the calibre of the smallest arteries and an increased blood-flow through the part.

Increased blood-supply means:
(1) Increased nutrition.
(2) Increased oxygenation.
(3) Increased elimination of waste matter and toxic products.

Application of Diathermy
From the foregoing it follows that diathermy is of benefit in any of the following conditions:
Disorders in which a local increase of blood-supply is indicated.

Disorders in which relaxation is desired.
Translating this into terms of pathology (diseased structure) we have the following general indications for diathermy:

Chronic delitated states - ulcers, eczema, non-united fractures, chronic arthritis, muscular wasting, etc.
Chronic inflammations-tuberculosis, neuritis, osteomyelitis, pelvic diseases, etc.

Acute inflammations - pneumonia, pleurisy, arthritis, synovitis, bursitis, etc.
Toxic states - fevers, nephritis, acidosis.

Neuroses-high blood pressure, psychic disturbances, disturbed balance of the sympathetic nervous system.

Education By Radio
With many factors in this country clamoring for more educational features over the radio, plans announced at the recent Chicago meeting of the International Short Wave Club take on added interest.

It is their proposal to conduct over short wave an actual "College of the Air" with courses from the leading colleges of the world. Already, it is reported, negotiations have been started with the Sorbonne, Oxford and Heidelberg whereby leading professors from those institutions would regularly conduct courses on these short wave broadcasts.

Certain technical details are yet to be ironed out but the very idea opens up vast possibilities. To the earnest student in this country, it perhaps paves the way for foreign instruction which in the past a closer alliance between educational institutions abroad and those in this country to the advantage of both.

Thus the miracle of radio-fantastic dream of Edward Bellamy-takes on a new significance with the perfection of the present all wave receivers capable of circling the globe in their search for programs. Not only do they serve to bring back the thrill of distant reception which came with early day receiving sets, but they stand forth as a powerful factor in international education-probably in international understanding, good-will and peace.

Philosopher Durant discussed the enigma of "why we behave like human beings". He might get a few pointers in the Senate. Let's start self more pleased with the Demo with Senator Norris who finds himself more pleased with the Democratic President than all the Presidents of the Republican party-to which he claims to belong-that were in power for a quarter of a century.

Senator Burton Wheeler seems to think that because he ran for Vice-President with the elder LaFollette that he might be a candidate for President with young Bob at the tail of his ticket. But history and tradition of the LaFollette family shows that they must be first on the ticket, or not at all.

Hiram Johnson is rather circumspect, even in his continued opposition to the World Court. He takes moments off to profess his enduring loyalty to the head of the Democratic party, even though Hiram professes to be a Republican.

White House Mixes Dates
If you slipped up and wrote it "1934" you had comfort in the fact that Roosevelt's outgoing ended and the new one started.

Roosevelt gave timely warning that he might make many mistakes, but that he would have them corrected. Cooperatives on the West Coast
As much as $26,000,000 worth of farm supplies have been purchased through cooperative associations on the Pacific Coast during the past year, says a statement from the Farm Credit Administration in Washington.

The Fruit Growers Supply Company of Los Angeles handled approximately $7,500,000 worth of fruit growers' supplies and timber products for its member packing houses in 1933. The California Fruit Exchange of Sacramento handled packing and orchard supplies for approximately 110 member fruit packing houses in 1933.

Besides these two large wholesale associations there are many smaller fruit marketing associations, such as the Apple Growers Association of Hood River, Oregon and the Fruit Growers Association of Eugene, Oregon.

The cooperative purchase of feed on the West Coast is carried on largely by poultry and egg marketing associations and cooperative creameries. There are leaders in San Diego, California; Portland, Oregon; Seattle and Walla Walla, Washington. Most of the associations have been organized and operated for many years.

More for the Producing Class
Frequent reference has been made to the advanced views of Colonel Wood F. Axton, one of the industrial leaders of Old Kentucky who has time and again reiterated his belief that the tobacco growers of his State and elsewhere should not be made to suffer from too much profit-taking by the industrialists; for the very good reason, he says, that "the country cannot have prosperity unless the producing class gets back enough to buy back the products of its neighbor".

General Hugh Johnson finds that the NRA has slumped and is gradually becoming extinct since he quit furnishing the noise to make it lively. Wiser men than the General think that the problems of the ages concerning production, consumption, price-fixing, labor, capital and distribution will never be settled by mere edicts of the President or laws of Congress.

Huey
Huey Long confides on the radio that he sent $100 to a church last year and expects to send another hundred, which makes him think he is a Baptist.
There is no indication that Huey is hard-up after having revised Louisiana during the intermission of Congress. He now talks by the half hour over nation-wide hook-ups, which must distribute considerable of his wealth.

Huey's fellow Senators feel that he is offering very little except a choice of two evils.

The old fashioned woman who tacked carpet rags now has a granddaughter who thinks rag tacking is tacky.

Chrysler-Plymouth Sales Increasing

The highly satisfactory reports from the initial automobile shows, and the resultant mounting optimism of the automotive industry, are confirmed by the weekly sales report of Chrysler dealers for the week ending January 12. Deliveries at retail of 363 Chryslers and 1766 Plymouths, or a total of 2129 units were reported by J. W. Frazier, vice-president of the Chrysler Sales Corporation.

This is an increase of 25.24 per cent over the 1698 units of Chrysler and Plymouth delivered at retail by Chrysler and Plymouth dealers during the preceding week and is almost triple the deliveries made during the corresponding week of last year.

The increase shown by the Chrysler dealers bears out the expectations of factory officials expressed before the new models first made their appearance at the shows. With the increasing interests shown as each succeeding automobile show opens there is a very decided indication of increasing sales.

And if the next war catches our country napping we hope it will nap clear through to the war's end.

Budget Starts Controversy

Washington, — Out of President Roosevelt's eight-billion-dollar budget is developing a very real controversy which runs to the heart of the New Deal. True, this controversy like nearly all of the others will not result in changing the President's plans, but it seems to me to be a matter which justifies consideration even though the Roosevelt will in the end must prevail.

Included in the budget was provision for an appropriation of four billion dollars and, as stated by the President, to be supplied "in one sum, subject to allocation by the Executive principally for giving work to those unemployed on the relief rolls." Beyond that, there was no exposition of its intended use nor has there been any detailed statement of the plan. As a result, there is a considerable body of opinion in the halls of congress which is saying in effect that Mr. Roosevelt ought to define his work relief program. He has not done so, and the best information I can obtain is that no explanation may be expected in the near future; he intends to proceed as he has in the past by developing a program piece-meal and using the funds as the occasion requires.

In the critical days of 1933 when Mr. Roosevelt took office, I believe it was generally conceded that the emergency was so serious as to warrant delegation by congress of almost any power even remotely desired by the President. He used that power during 1933 and 1934. Now, many members of the house and senate believe that the time has arrived for congress to become more inquisitive about the expenditures of taxpayers' money and to avoid following in blind trust however the President may direct. While it is probable that congress will not be told how the President intends to use the money and while it is also probable that the requested appropriation of four billion dollars will be rubber stamped, the fact remains that at no time during the New Deal has there been such a buzz of discontent in the President's own list of wheel-horses. Senator Byrnes, the South Carolina Democrat who has been looked upon consistently as Mr. Roosevelt's spokesman on financial affairs in the senate, has informed me that it is impossible "to be more explicit than to say that the work relief program, as it is now, will go no further. He has given no interviews respecting his own thoughts on the matter and apparently has elected to wait at but until the President tosses him the ball. Nevertheless, there are some senators who think they detect just a trace of concern in the attitude of this administration spokesman and they are wondering how long he will continue to repress his knowledge.

Presentation of the budget was expected in many quarters to disclose the means by which the President hoped to get employment going again in private industry. It showed nothing tangible in this direction. Consequently, critics of the administration who have had opportunity to speak in the house and senate have begun to chide the administration on its third experiment in three years. Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader in the house, has called attention to the situation something in this manner: The President tried out one plan in 1933; he tried out a second plan in 1934, and now he is trying a third experiment. The first two were found to be all wet, and the Republicans, it seems, are convinced that the current effort has two strikes on it before it gets started. They are predicting failure for it in every way except the success that is assured in getting rid of money which the treasury is borrowing. Their conversations all have the same theme song, namely that the country is seeing activity, but they are not predicting how long this action can continue until the nation goes broke.

Whether the business leaders who met at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., a month ago were right or wrong in proposing the use of a dole instead of the more expensive work relief plan, or whether they were correct in any of the other recommendations they made, the truth is the administration has rejected without comment every single one of the recommendations made by that group. Mr. Roosevelt made no mention in his budget message or in his annual message to congress of plans for balancing the budget, and this fact at last has sunk in. The result is additional fear on the part of many business leaders who can see in the future only inflation and economic chaos for the country.

Privately, I have heard many expressions indicating that men of wealth are putting their money into tangible property—something that will not dry up and blow away. That is always the refuge of individuals who fear that the currency which their government controls is losing its worth. These men will be criticized for that course, naturally enough, by blind followers of inflation plans.

From all of the signs now visible and from the undercurrent of muttering that I hear, it certainly is made to appear that Mr. Roosevelt is confronted with a necessity for some definite outline of his plans and an assurance that he will adhere to those plans. Without such, the situation assuredly is that he will not have the confidence of the business structure. It seems illogical even to suppose that he can gain the co-operation of business in expanding its activities, thereby re-employing workers, unless he takes a different tack than his pronouncements thus far indicate. At least, such is the conclusion of a vast number of thinking people.

I heard a visitor to Washington say the other day that he would like to ride airplanes, "but the confounded things fly most of their schedules at night."

The individual is a man of great wealth and his time is of great value. He insisted he was sincere in his statement that he would much rather save time by flying if the planes were on day-light schedule.

The statement aroused my curiosity to the extent that I conducted some inquiry into the situation. I found the night schedules of the air lines to be due to the fact that they are fixed by the Post Office department. If a line desires to carry mail it has to subject itself to the dictates of "Big Jim" Farley, the postmaster general. His office can and does say to an air line that it will fly a ship leaving New York at 9 p. m. or else it does not get the mail contract. The result is that the plane leaves New York at 9 p. m. or it leaves Chicago or Washington or any other city on a time stated by the Post Office department.

Many persons feel that such a policy is taking undue advantage of private industry. It is true that the Post Office department is paying for carrying the mails at a rate probably well above the rate it receives in postage on that mail. It is, therefore, a subsidy. But this government has for years maintained a policy of subsidizing new industries and that course is responsible for the success attained by the development of the transportation systems of this country.

The President's special commission named to study the airplane problems of this country and to make recommendations heard much testimony and received much data showing that the airplane industry in the United States had placed this country in the number one position in the air among all nations of the world. Individual members of that commission have stated they regard this as highly beneficial. Some of them at least maintain that development of an air industry was one of the greatest steps taken in national defense preparation. They appeared to consider this one end as justifying the course without even considering the maintenance of a great industry within the borders of our nation as a commercial unit.

But while this has been going on, and while many authorities on economic matters continue to urge development of the air industry, we find another agency within the government placing handicaps on that same segment of the economic structure. The least that can be said is that the courses cannot be reconciled.

The administration is determined to control oil production. If it cannot do so by Executive order—and the Supreme Court of the United States has decreed it cannot do so in that manner—there will be laws predicated upon the interstate commerce clauses of the Constitution which will permit the executive branch of the government to keep its hand on the valve of oil wells.

President Roosevelt apparently was not much concerned over the Supreme Court decision which invalidated that part of the recovery act, giving the Chief Executive authority to allow or prohibit interstate movement of oil as it decided best. The President appeared to feel, in responding to questions by news correspondents, that the rebuff was only temporary. He announced at that time a determination to control oil production in one way or another to avoid what he describes as a criminal waste of a great natural resource.

The oil case, the Supreme court decided, had its origin in regulations and executive orders issued under what the administration believed to be authority accorded by the recovery act. Those regulations and orders prescribed quotas allowed to be shipped from each of the several oil producing states. The motivating spirit was a desire to avoid accumulation of a vast surplus of crude oil with the consequent depressing of prices until crude oil was worth little or nothing. But, like many other prohibitory laws and rules of conduct, individuals resented being told they could not do a certain thing and immediately began to devise ways which it could be done—a characteristic which was developed to its fullest during the bootleg days of national prohibition. The oil that was moved surreptitiously came to be known as "hot oil," and the controversy over the validity of the regulations and executive orders consequently was called the "hot oil" case.

Eastern Star Entertains Deputy Grand Matron

Burkburnett Chapter No. 655, Order of the Eastern Star, entertained on Tuesday evening, when the Deputy Grand Matron, Miss Dossia Smith, paid her official visit. Grandfield Chapter also was entertained and was well represented by having the present Worthy Matron, Mrs. Leona and Present Worthy Patron, Mr. J. I. Martin, also a number of other members present.

The instruction which the Deputy brought from our Worthy Grand Matron was helpful and enjoyable. The degrees were conferred and all other work was exemplified. We would like to call attention to all members who are not attending regularly that you are missing much by not attending Eastern Star each second and fourth Tuesdays.

At the close of the meeting a splendid feature of entertainment was the reading given by Miss Pauline Browning, A Rose Garden Drama, being well received by all present. After this, delicious refreshments were served.

GRAY FUNERAL HELD IN BYERS

W. F. Gray, 77, a resident of Byers for the past 18 years, died of pneumonia at his home at 2 o'clock Saturday morning after a brief illness.

Funeral services were held at the First Baptist church at Byers at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Rev. C. M. Hundley, pastor of the Baptist church at Ryan, Okla. conducted the services which were under the direction of Owens and Brumley.

Pall bearers were Irvin Hundley, Tom Warren, Ancil Yarborough, L. M. Christian, M. E. Harrison and Volney Murray.

Mr. Gray was a native of Arkansas. After coming to Texas he first engaged in farming near Byers, but for a number of years had owned and operated the Fairmount hotel there. Mr. and Mrs. Gray recently celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary.

He leaves the widow; one son, J. G. Gray, Crane, Mo., and seven daughters, Mrs. Jessie Rose, Melvin, Ark.; Mrs. R. R. Fowler, Robe-ville, Texas; Mrs. W. M. Kukendall, Carlton, Texas; Mrs. W. A. Bobbitt, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. William Kessley and Miss Ollie Gray, Byers.

The man who passes the collection plate in church is also agreed that the dollar has quit dropping.

Half of us are unhappy because we can't have the things that make the other half miserable.

A Boost for Air Mail

Neeley R. Vaught, our Postmaster, is in receipt of a letter from his brother, Andy R. Vaught, who was here on a short stay during the early part of December, after being in Venezuela, S. A. for about two years. He was given a trip back to the states to visit relatives and then sailed from New York City on the night of December 15, 1934, arriving in Buenos Aires, Argentina, S. A. 18 days later. It requires 18 days by boat for mail and passengers to arrive in Buenos Aires. After reaching his destination which is a little village 750 miles from Buenos Aires called Huinca, Argentina, he sent his letter by air mail and same arrived here in exactly four days, coming the greater part of the distance via Pan-American Airways. Folks, that's traveling, which only proves that these two different countries aren't so far apart when you travel by air.

G. W. Gee

Funeral services for J. W. Gee, 15, who died in a Wichita Falls hospital Jan. 21, was held at the Fundamental Baptist church at 3 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. Bob Cunningham officiating.

Interment was in the Burk Burnett cemetery, under the arrangement of Thomas Funeral Home.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gee of Thrift and three brothers and five sisters.

The first member of the New England clergy who attempted to put a stop to that "pernicious practice," known to our forefathers as "bundling," was mobbed by irate mothers and met his death because an outraged father objected to the vitriolic attacks on the tradition! The clergyman was the Reverend Seth Pethwick of Rockingham County, New Hampshire, and he is the prototype of Squire Banks, the puritanical blue-nose in Paramounts new comedy of the Revolutionary War, "The Pursuit of Happiness," in which Francis Lederer is starred. The picture, adapted from last year's sensational Broadway "bundling" play by Lawrence Langner and Armina Marshall, comes Sunday and Monday to the Palace Theatre.

Mrs. Bertha Ogburn

Funeral services for Mrs. Bertha Ogburn, 55, of Burk Burnett, who died at 5 o'clock Thursday morning in a Wichita Falls hospital after a lengthy illness, were held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon from the Thomas Funeral home of Burk Burnett. Rev. L. G. Hagard, pastor of the First Methodist church of Burk Burnett, officiated. Burial was in the Burk Burnett cemetery. Surviving are the husband, C. E. Ogburn; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Tra-week; and a son, Jesse Ogburn of Burk Burnett.

Mid-Term Examination

Mid-term examinations take place Monday and Tuesday, 21 and 22. The first period classes will be held Monday afternoon, while the second and third period classes will be held Tuesday morning and afternoon. The fourth period classes will be held Tuesday afternoon. Last year the students saved one half a day for examination, but believing it would be held in less time the year to take two in one day this semester. This year, January 23, ends the semester of the school year. Thursday begins the semester. We sincerely hope the semester is as successful as last year.

Seniors

Senior activities cease until after the interscholastic events are so busy now, and until after that time, that they thought it best to quell their activities. The Seniors at all, in fact, they agree with the faculty. They are going to have one series a week to make up for the many of the Seniors in the county events. The four volleyball girls in the class and many basketball players are from the "famous" class. So there we are, the seniors of the school. Seriously, we do need to stop their activities until later.

We Heard

Virginia Bogy was riding a new "Chevy" Saturday. "Squaky" Sullivan really had a good time with the basketball Friday. Bill Wells broadcasted the game. The basketball boys held a meeting at the street corner Saturday. The girls wore the front porch and down on it Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Brand appreciated and Ada throwing things in their yard. The girls enjoyed the "Study" week. The girls enjoyed the basketball game. The popular F. H. S. girl O'Guinn resembled an explanation point. The girls liked the Wichita Falls "Monkey Cage", and the girls enjoyed the "Study" week.

The Sophomore class went to the show last Monday night and saw "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Everyone enjoyed the show. Lee is the last of the (thank heavens). Northcott runs a movie in the afternoon. People think our part of the country couldn't be sensible. The girls and Ada Marsh disapproved after the Electra volleyball game and returned later eating and using "good" English. The girls loves pianos with sounds (especially C). Elva went to town and really had fun.

Economics News

The Economics girls are happy. From what we hear from the faculty they are successful. Thursday the girls and board members were favored with a supper by these young ladies. Economics is a wonderful thing we think every girl should know during her high school years. How can we be Freshmen girls in for three more years when being such splendid. We hope the Home Economics class will be a "go places" during this semester.

ADLERIKA

If I Had a Hundred Dollars

I'd buy some seats for the Geometry room that didn't tear your socks. Shorty Beavers—I'd buy all the movie magazines in Burk. H. B. Northcott—I'd take taping lessons every day. Marvadin Vines—I'd go to the show every Saturday night. Maxine Vines—I'd travel and find a man that didn't find 'em. Fool 'em and forget 'em. Helen Parker—I'd give money to all the poor little boys and girls. Bennie Spencer—I'd buy lots of fountain pens for me and Shorty to use. Elbert Zink—I'd get me a Muzzeys all my own. Charles White—I'd take all the Juniors to the midnight show. Beatrice Hearrell—I'd hire someone to work my Geometry on the sly. Lucille Graham—I'd use it all for Cocoa Colas. Skeeter Pharris—I'd spend it on slot machines. Ruth Miller—I'd buy peanuts to eat in English class. James Sullivan—I'd match pennies until it was two hundred dollars. Ruby Jewell Williamson—I'd buy this school house and let the Juniors make a side show of it.

Lavern Beavers

What Fairview would do without the Junior class I do not know. Just to show you we will take each member of this splendid class and tell you just how important they are. Here are some things that make Miss Beaver an important person in Fairview:
1. Sings alto in the girl's chorus.
2. She is a member of the volleyball team.
3. President of the Junior class.
4. A member of the Home Economics club.
5. A very good baseball player. Never loses her books.
6. Always minds her teachers.
7. Does not chew gum in school, and oh, a number of other important things.
8. Attends church and Sunday School every Sunday.
9. Watch every week for other members of the Junior class.

Volley Ball

Friday night the Fairview girls volleyball team were defeated by the Electra girls team. There were two hard fought games; regardless of the lopsided scores, 15-4, 15-8. The girls didn't play nearly as good as usual, and in the return game they hope to reverse the scores. They play Iowa Park on the Fairview court Tuesday, January 15, and hope to drag in the majority of the points. Friday and Saturday, 18 and 19, the girls journey to Henrietta to enter a tournament there. Here's hoping the girls return with the victories they intend.

Sophomore News

The Sophomore class went to the show last Monday night and saw "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Everyone enjoyed the show.

Civics Class Visits Court

The high school civics class, including Ruth Vogel, Ada Marsh, Virginia Bogy, Elva Stimpson, Bill Wells, Marion McClarney, Harlen Boyd, Charles Morrison, Simon Hanks, and Mr. Y. C. Paschall, instructor, motored to Wichita Falls Tuesday noon for observation in the procedure of a trial of our court system. While waiting for the 78th District Court to begin its afternoon session, the class visited Mr. Arthur C. Howard, county tax assessor and collector and Judge Fillmore of the county court in their respective offices; Julian McFall, county clerk, explained to the class how deeds and transactions were filed in his office and showed some files as examples.

The afternoon session of the 78th district court began at 1:30. Before trial itself began, Judge Irvin J. Vogel explained to the class in his private office what procedure the court had already taken in selecting a jury, hiring attorneys for the defense, etc. The trial, a murder case, was most interesting. At four o'clock the class left the court room after listening to the testimony of three witnesses, to visit the county jail. The class left the court house square at 4:30 after a very educational and interesting evening.

Bears Hold Second Place in Conference

The Fairview Bears, considered to be one of the weakest teams in the county Round Robin this year, have surprised most fans and are now holding second place in the race.

The Bears lost all but one regular player last year and started this year's season off with several losses. Valley View is the only team to defeat them in the County Race.

The Bears won victories over Burk Burnett last Tuesday night at Burk 33-10 and to Electra Friday night at Electra 35-30. Coach R. D. Watkins will take part of his squad to Nocona Friday and Saturday to the annual Nocona invitation tournament.

The standing of the seven teams in the County Round Robin including last week's games are below. Team standings:

ELVA STIMPSON
Elva came waiting into this old world on November 16, 1918 at a farm a few miles from Walters, Oklahoma. When she was six years old she moved, along with Mama and Papa Stimpson, across the river into dear old Texas. She lived at several places around Stringtown and attended school at Clara until she was in the sixth grade. She then moved closer to Thrift and began school at Fairview. Fairview has been proud of her these past five years, and is prouder of her still, this her sixth and last year of her attendance.

Elva is a prominent member of the volleyball team, president of the home economics club, a member of the Choral Club, and is secretary of the Senior class. And by the by, Elva is the youngest member of the Senior class.

Elva likes biology class, volleyball, poodles, blue, helping basket ball boys train, Clark Gable, Joan Crawford, and "True Confessions". Her eyes are blue; hair, red; height, five feet four and one-half inches, weight 110½.

Church of Christ Revival Grows In Interest

Tuesday evening service was the climax services of the revival at the Church of Christ, Evangelist R. L. Colley of Vernon, delivered a message on the subject of "Church discipline". He took his text from Matt. 18: 15-20. Also read from the 6th chapter of first Corinthian letter, and aid, this reading is given in question form and if we will answer these question in the light of the scriptures, that will be all the comment that is necessary, to show that it is wrong for Christians to go to law with each other. We have shunned this subject to the hurt of the Cause, because it is more pleasant to preach on other things of less conflicting nature. The evangelist quoted John 15:6 and commented, that God must move the dead limbs that do not bear fruit, as the man in his vineyard prunes trees to keep the dead limbs from effecting the whole tree; God takes away the fruitless members. He is represented in the world by agents, the elders of the church are his appointed agents to watch over his church in the interest of human souls; for one to reject or rebel against the government of the Lord through his servants, is to reject God; to rebel against the ruling of God's representatives of the church, who rule after the directions of the Lord, would sustain the same position that the mob law does to civil government. Mr. Colley continued, quoting 2nd John 9-11, that whosoever abideth not in the doctrines of Christ hath not God. Likewise, when one has been withdrawn from by the church and others bid him God's speed, they become equally guilty with him in the sin. Churches who do not give recognition to the decisions reached by the church, disregarded God's order and therefore they become a harbor of sin. The time has come when men can do as they please, sin in much wrong doings and still carry on and have the endorsement of churches; yea, it seems that there is but a small mark of difference between churches that do not respect God's government and other societies of the world, if we regret to call people out of the world into the better place the church; we must keep the church pure from the world. When the world comes into the church, then the church comes to the common level with other worldly institutions. The meeting will continue over next Sunday night; four have confessed their wrongs and renewed their obligations to the Lord; two have been baptized. We expect many more before the meeting closes. The subjects that will be discussed at the evening services will be as follows: Thursday night, "Conditions of an answered prayer"; Friday night, "1000 years reign with Christ"; Saturday night, "Second coming of Christ". The public is invited to attend all these services. Services daily 10.00 a. m. and 7:15 p. m.

by having such an exhibition just what was carried on at this period in our history. This inside interest is being gained that one can't gather from books. Greater interest is being shown by the students and extensive research work has begun. This display of articles includes a cavalry sword used by the Grand Army of the Republic, Case used in carrying important papers by a Confederate; cap box, for the caps used on the cap and ball guns; a powder horn, the type used by the Confederate and another powder horn used by the G. A. R.; lead dipper, used in molding bullets; a short horn; bayonet, used in the Civil War; Remington pistol, used in the Civil War; also a Remington cap and ball rifle; slave whip; a slave ankle used in curbing run-away slaves; Captain's cap; military papers of Captain C. H. Redway and his diary of 1862, Confederate money, Confederate stamps, Parole of W. L. Thomas, soldiers enlistments, discharge of Felix Aday, numerous newspapers of Civil War material, coat of a Confederate, and an officer's leather case used in carrying his important material on the field, this one being marked U. S. There are numerous articles on display that are not mentioned here.

"The history classes have increased in interest, as well as knowledge, through the use of this exhibit that is being furnished us from this Museum," says Mr. Brand of the Fairview school.

Students who have shown slow progress and interest heretofore have taken hold of this material and have increased their knowledge considerably. We are glad to present to our students and exhibit that will not die but will impress them through life. Many students have carried this interesting news of the museum home to their parents, and many have told stories wherein their grandfathers used similar articles since they were soldiers at that time. We extend an invitation to the patrons to visit our department and see this material. This collection will be used in the Burkburnett school next week and from there to the schools in Wichita Falls before being returned to the museum in Denton.
